Project overview

The Government of Canada introduced legislation in the spring of 2017 to legalize and regulate non-medical cannabis use. Cannabis will remain illegal as the bill moves through the legislative process. If it is approved by Parliament, the bill could become law with a target date of 2018 July. On 2017 November 16, the Government of Alberta introduced Bill 26, an Act to Control and Regulate Cannabis, based on its cannabis framework. The Government of Alberta has indicated that municipalities across the province will have a role in developing policies and regulations for recreational cannabis that are within their control and responsibility. The City of Calgary, like other municipalities across Canada, is currently reviewing what this legislation might mean for our city and our organization.

Engagement overview

In 2017 November, The City of Calgary held stakeholder workshops with representatives from community and business organizations to discuss policy and regulation areas regarding business licencing, community standards bylaws, land use planning and other affected bylaws. From 2017 November 20 to 2017 December 10, The City of Calgary hosted an online survey on its engagement portal at www.engage.calgary.ca to solicit feedback from Calgarians. Input from both the workshops and online survey is being used to help inform changes and updates to affected bylaws, and inform whether new bylaws or policies are required to respond to the legalization of recreational cannabis.

This consolidated report includes a high level summary from the three workshops and online feedback. To review the verbatim feedback, refer to the individual workshop and online What We Heard summaries.

What we heard: in person summary

Retail sales locations

Preferred areas

- Many participants indicated that cannabis stores should not be located near where children are located or congregate (e.g. schools, daycares, malls, parks, etc.). At the very least, current liquor store regulations should be applied to cannabis retail stores.
- Participants indicated that cannabis retail stores should be located throughout the city to allow users to easily access recreational cannabis rather than accessing it illegally through the black market.

Separation distances

- Many participants felt that The City should apply the same separation distances that the AGLC uses for liquor stores, but there could be consideration for additional retail stores in areas with higher density.
- There were concerns about the concentration of too many cannabis retail stores in certain areas and the potential impact this could have on that community. However, participants generally felt that applying the same separation distances that currently exist for liquor stores and allowing the market to determine profitability would be sufficient.
- There were concerns about including separation distances between cannabis retail stores and liquor stores as it would limit locations for cannabis retail stores.
- Some participants were supportive of having no separation distances between a cannabis retail store and production facility as this would allow for customers to buy directly from the production facility.

Limit of stores in certain areas

Some participants thought that liquor stores and cannabis retail stores should be located in close proximity to one another to create a "one-stop shop" for better accessibility and convenience purposes.

Retail sales regulations

Applications

- Some participants were concerned about The City limiting the number of applications they accept for cannabis retail stores as it wouldn't allow all businesses a fair opportunity. Some felt that there should be a limit on the number of licenses they provide but not on the number of applications.
- Participants were mixed on what system The City should use for accepting applications:

- Some participants didn't like the lottery system because it could restrict overall numbers and some businesses may miss out on the opportunity because they would be selected at random.
- Most participants thought that a merit-based system should be used by The City for applications. Participants thought that The City should also evaluate existing business experience (not necessarily in the cannabis industry), business plan, financials, education/knowledge, etc.
- o Some participants thought that a first come-first serve system for applications with elements of the merit-based system should be used by The City to ensure that businesses meet the criteria and allows all business owners (small and large) a fair opportunity to apply.
- Some participants thought that The City should use the same rules and criteria used to approve liquor store applications and licenses for retail stores.

Types of licenses

- Participants indicated that The City should consider creating license types for cannabis lounges, cannabis lounges combined with retail stores, cannabis retail stores combined with production facilities, food truck/mobile retail store and cannabis tents at outdoor events and concerts.
- Some participants indicated that retail delivery should be allowed as it would provide people with mobility issues with access to recreational cannabis, encourage cannabis users to access the legal recreational cannabis market vs. the illegal black market, create a value added opportunity for businesses; and allow businesses to respond to demand with oversight from AGLC.
- Some participants didn't think that retail delivery of cannabis should be allowed, as it would create issues with age verification and safety, negatively impact physical stores and the education and service they provide; and would not be allowed by AGLC.

Signage

- Most participants didn't want The City restrict storefront signage further than what the Government of Alberta outlines or AGLC has in place for liquor stores because of the importance of advertising their store via storefront signage and including their name and branding.
- There was mixed feedback on whether the use of billboard and temporary signs should be allowed similar to liquor stores and/or tobacco regulations.

Ramifications

Most participants agreed that if a business fails to comply with bylaws, fines, notices and closure should be considered.

Hours of operation

There was a wide range of feedback from participants on hours of operation: implement what liquor stores currently do, open longer to provide additional access, or close earlier for consumer safety concerns.

Production facility locations and regulations

Regulations

- Participants indicated that recreational production facilities should be regulated similarly to how the medical production facilities are currently regulated.
- Some participants indicated that too much regulation may make it difficult for a fair market due to the cost to start up. Regulations should consider the scale/size of production.

 Most participants indicated that production facilities should be located in light industrial areas.

Separation distances

- There was general acceptance from participants about following AGLC liquor store regulations for separation distances between cannabis production facilities.
- Some participants indicated that there was no need for separation distances between production facilities and that clustering may help with community acceptance and security issues
- Some participants felt that there should be a separation distance between cannabis production facilities and schools, retail stores and liquor stores, but were unsure what that distance should be.

Limit in certain areas

 Participants felt that there should be a limit on the number of cannabis production facilities in a certain areas, but were unsure of what the number should be. The limit should also depend on the size and scale of production.

Consumption locations

Public spaces

 Participants generally agreed with the locations where cannabis could be consumed as outlined by the Government of Alberta, especially in order to protect exposure to children and non-cannabis users.

Enforcement

 Participants raised concerns about if/how The City could enforce consumption of cannabis via oils, edibles and vaping as these methods of consumption are hard to identify.

Special events

- Participants indicated that consumption of cannabis should be allowed at public events such as outdoor events and concerts. However, The City should consider providing separate areas to prevent consumption of both cannabis and liquor.
- Participants supported the consumption of cannabis in private backyards; however, some had varying opinions on whether consumption on restaurant patios should be permitted or align with what is permitted by the smoking bylaw.

Cannabis lounges

- Participants indicated that cannabis lounges (for cannabis vaping, edibles and oils) should be permitted. However, concerns about health issues for staff from secondhand smoke were raised.
- Participants shared mixed feedback on whether there should be separation distances between cannabis lounges, retail stores and production facilities.

Residential Growing

Accessory buildings

 Participants indicated that growing cannabis in accessory buildings would provide better security (from children and pets), would be a healthier option versus growing inside the main dwelling and if there is damage resulting from growing, as the scale of it will be smaller. Some participants were concerned about security issues and theft related to growing cannabis in an accessory building if they are not properly secured.

Rental units

 Some participants had concerns about growing cannabis in rental units and multi-family units due to potential damages and odours, and felt that condo boards and landlords can include additional restrictions on leases, rental agreements and in condo bylaws to manage residential growing.

Ramifications

Participants indicated that the ramifications regarding failure to comply with bylaws for residential growing should include a warning, fines, destroying plants or criminal charges. The severity of the ramifications should be based on degree of abuse of the bylaws (i.e. using a similar model that is used for excessive automotive speeding).

Enforcement

 Participants indicated that it would be challenging for The City to enforce residential growing.

Next Steps

Public engagement on the legalization of cannabis was completed on 2017 December 10 and this What We Heard Report was shared with Calgarians on the City's engage portal at www.engage.calgary.ca. Feedback will be considered and a 'What We Did' report will be shared in the winter of 2018 to show how public feedback informed the proposed amendments to bylaws and potential creation of new bylaws. The proposed bylaw amendments are scheduled to be presented to Council in 2018 April. If approved by Council, the changes will be implemented and the development permit process will be initiated to prepare for legalization in 2018 July.
