Background

The Capacity Building Fund is available to eligible non-profit organizations for one-time projects to strengthen their organizational effectiveness, increase their programs' impact, and address emerging social issues and trends that are impacting Calgarians.

Please note that each category has its own section on the Call for Funding Proposals webpage. This applicant guide is for Emerging Social Issues.

2024 Capacity Building – Organizational Effectiveness Call for Proposals

Application period

Applications will be accepted from all eligible applicants through the Funding Information Management System (FIMS) from Wednesday, November 1, 2023 to Wednesday, December 13, 2023 at 11:59 p.m. Late applications will not be accepted unless an extension is requested, and approved, 24-hours in advance of the application deadline. To request an extension, email fundingproposals@calgary.ca, and indicate the rationale for the request.

Amount & term

Up to $1.5 million will be available through this fund in 2024. Eligible projects must be one-time projects that can be completed, and funds spent, by December 31, 2024.

The maximum funding amount per project is $75,000.

Community-based organizations

This year community-based organizations will be encouraged to submit proposals within either funding stream, to implement projects that will lead to positive change for the Calgarians they serve.

Community-based organizations are those that are:

- A registered non-profit organization
- Led by members of the community they serve, and
- Have an annual operating budget of less than $250,000 a year OR
- Have 4 or less full-time equivalent staff positions

Up to $500,000 of the $1.5 million available through this fund will be allocated towards projects developed by community-based organizations.

Funding priorities for Emerging Social Issues

Funds are available to support one-time projects that address an emerging social issue or trend through collaboratives or sector coordination. Proposed projects should support knowledge development and exchange, strengthen collaborative efforts, coordinate efforts among organizations working to address a sector gap, or any activity wherein an innovative collaborative response is designed, developed and/or leads to implementation.

Projects should involve members of the community that are directly involved in, or impacted by, a particular issue and/or social service organizations that would respond to it. As social issues are complex, projects under this stream should be collaborative in nature and involve other organizations along with the primary applicant. Funds may be used for the express purpose of establishing a new collaborative around a specific social issue. Funds may also be used to strengthen existing collaborative efforts.

Examples of projects could include:

- The start-up of a new collaborative for the purposes of addressing an identified social issue.
- Collective impact projects that coordinate efforts among organizations focusing on a specific social issue.
- Collaborative projects with organizations that seek to explore how issues can be addressed at the systems or policy level.
- Creation of a sustainability plan to support the social inclusion of a community or population.
- Participatory action efforts to increase involvement of diverse partners in addressing issues of social inclusion.
- Projects that partner with other organizations or affected populations to address service gaps among Calgarians experiencing social isolation and other vulnerabilities.
- Collaboration among organizations that provide supports to vulnerable populations around a certain emerging social issue through creation of an information sharing framework.

Anticipated outcomes:

- New innovative strategies are developed to address emerging social issues.
- Individuals in a community are brought together to identify needs and solutions.
- Innovative community-based projects are designed, developed, and implemented.
- New partnerships among two or more non-profit organizations are established and sustained.
- Coordinated response is developed to emerging social issues or trends.
- Service gaps and collaborative strategies to address them are identified.

What is a collaborative?

Collaboration and interorganizational partnerships are critical to successfully addressing social issues. By working with others, organizations can leverage a wider range of expertise and resources to inform change. Collaboratives vary in how they are structured and how they operationalize shared work, however for the purposes of this funding opportunity the collaborative should have some of and be working toward achieving the following:

• Partners: Two or more organizations working together towards a common goal.

- Backbone organization: A backbone organization managing the collaboration (in this case the primary applicant and fiscal agent). The backbone organization will work with partners to carry out activities.
- Communication: Collaborative workflow, regular check-ins, and shared messaging for external communications.
- Activities: Expertise leveraged from each partner as part of the overall goals of the project.
- Shared outcomes: Common progress measures working towards a shared outcome.
- Common agenda: Project schedules, decision-making structures, timelines, and accountabilities.

Glossary

Capacity-Building – Building the capacity of an organization or community involves strengthening the resources, capabilities, knowledge of a group, with the end goal of strengthening that group's ability to achieve its mission and vision and increase its measurable impact. (Adapted from: Huffman, D., Thomas, K., & Lawrenz, F. (2008). American Journal of Evaluation, 29(3), 358-368.).

Community – A community is a group of people that interact and support each other, and are bonded by shared experiences or characteristics, a sense of belonging, and often by their physical proximity. Examples include, but are not limited to, communities of geography, race, culture, religion, ability, sexuality, and experience (Adapted from: Cobigo, V., Martin, L., & Mcheimech, R. (2016). Canadian Journal of Disability Studies, 5(4), 181-203.).
