Verbatim Comments

Verbatim comments presented here include all feedback, suggestions, comments and messages that were collected online and face-to-face through the engagement described in the Phase 2 What we Heard Report. This document is over 4600 pages. We do not recommend printing the whole document. Please be cautious if you choose to print a portion of the document as each section is extremely long as well. All input has been reviewed and provided to the Project Team to be considered in decision making for the project.

Please note:

- These comments are verbatim. That is they are exactly as received. As a result, some of the comments may be offensive, inaccurate, or distasteful.
- Comments have not been edited for spelling, formatting or correctness.

You will see [removed] or [personal information removed] in some rows. This is for:

- personally identifying information,
- easily removable profanity,
- or where the whole comment clearly does not meet the City's Respectful Workplace Policy or Online Tool Moderation Practice.

Public

Wildlife

Participants were asked if they would support a bylaw that prohibits feeding and/or teasing wildlife on private property. Responses below are in response to the question 'what, if any, exceptions would you suggest?'

- If the animal is in distress and needs to be coaxed with food
- Bird feeders etc
- Prohibit teasing not feeding. I feed the deer and moose in the winter especially calving time. They have safe haven, food and shelter on our property.
- Scaring them off
- Feeding rabbits in your yard during winter, for example, should be up to the homeowner, but teasing or harming any animal should not be allowed anywhere, even on personal property
- Put the animal down to sleep and move the animal to it's original environment.. no need to kill at all
- birds - bird feeders, flowers for bees
- None
- Don't need a bylaw for that
- Hummingbird feeders
- fines of some sorts....gotta hit the person where it hurts and it's the pocket book...
- I think that feeding and "teasing" are 2 very different things and should be separated. Providing food or water to animals for hmmm is far different than what teasing implies.
- Education for first offence, fines and being barred from parks for further offences.
- I believe feeding birds is positive... keeps in the city. Squirrels etc are a pain, and eat gardens, do damage.
- bird feeders
- Birds, bunnies
- Bird feeders
- Any harm to any animal should have a penalty, we need to stop punishing animals for the error of humans
- I would like to see the City start to do something about all the magpies, crows and rabbits that have multiplied substantially over the years.

- Bird feeders
- It would have to be very defined and not broad
- Certain farms where kids can milk goats, feed horses etc. Teasing/taunting should be prohibited 100%
- Birds
- That we spend this much time caring about our children and licensing all day homes so children can't get murdered, dog and cats have more rights than children
- None
- Bird feeders, birdbaths, and other types of specific feeders and food
- this should be to dangerous animals. ex bear cougar lynx wolf coyote etc
- Pest control
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- none
- Animal needing assistance
- No exceptions.
- Bird seed should still be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- If it's your property then you can do as you want. Stop controlling people like they are slave.
- NA
- I think bird feeders should be exempt
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Teasing should never be allowed. Bylaw should be considered for those killing and moving birds and mammals. Feeding birds and squirrels allowed unless specific issue (bear attractant).
- Only if person is causing harm to wildlife on said property.
- Feed birds as long as pests, such as vermin, that are attracted to the bird food, are adequately dealt with and kept in check.
- One bird seed feeder of a certain Size and height off the ground
- Professionals/experts allow for this in order to safely deter the animal off the property
- Exception for feeding wildlife which needs support to survive with appropriate food
- Signage made available to land owners if necessary
- Approaching and getting help for an injured animal
- Fine
- Bird feeders
- Feeding sparrow and small birds
- veggies for rabbits, harmless activities.
- No exceptions
- None

- Ban trapping wild life too.
- fines for those proven to have done so
- Bird feeders, flowers for bees
- Bird feeders. squirrel feeders
- Appropriate feeders such as bird feeders, etc. where people are not hand feeding the animals.
- I think it's okay to feed certain wild life like birds or squirrels
- An animal in distress
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- If a Humane trap is being set on private property to trap and relocate a feral animal.
- None
- Distressed animals in the process of getting help
- Educate public on negative impacts
- Food given to animals aligns with things that won't hurt their systems. (Birdseed, vegetables/fruits, etc)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Exemption for birds
- Feeding should be exempt for birds and other species that are not determined to be nuisance
- Trying to help a lost animal in order to contact their owners.
- People rescuing wildlife to bring to shelters/reserves or to protect while waiting for fish and wildlife to respond
- Feeding birds, especially song birds and hummingbirds
- Photography within reason
- Bird feeders
- A fine
- Allow people to feed songbirds in their yards especially during the winter months as their food source is scarce then.
- Define feeding and teasing. Does this include putting out bird feeders? Many birds would not survive the winter without the bird feeders.
- Deter wildlife considered pests
- Bird feeders and putting out food to try to encourage missing pets to return home.
- None
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Birds, rabbits, raccoons
- If it looked starving I should feed it
- Feeding Injured animals (ex. Attempting to trap animal for wildlife assistance)
- Bird feeders
- Moderate engagement with wildlife and feeding if feeling safe
- I don't have a problem with bird feeders but feeding squirrels is not okay.

- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders/houses, bee house/apiary, etc
- Bird feeders, native vegetation that supports local wildlife without making them dependent
- Birds feeding should be exempt
- Birds/poultry
- Bird feeders and bird houses
- Feeding wildlife to catch them to treat injury or illness through the proper means, such as vet care or relocation, should be acceptable.
- I am not against feeding wildlife, if being fed properly, but am totally against teasing any animal.
- It's private property people are still going to do it so just leave it alone.
- n/a
- Definitely I don't agree with hurting/teasing animals, but I don't see the harm in leaving food put for birds, squirrels, etc... perhaps limitations on how many feeding devices? And fines for any wildlife abuse
- Birds and squirrels or non-Apex animals
- Squirrels
- Feeding wild birds
- Fines
- Inform but don't try to enforce. What harm is having bird feeders/baths or bee friendly gardens?
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- NO FEEDING OF WILDLIFE SHOULD BE OCCURRING - including all birds and small rodents
- if animal is not dangerous to humans (i.e. bird, squirrel, etc).
- Bird feeders
- Feeding deer. Some people love to see them and if it's grain it isn't harming them
- No tolerance for teasing animals
- Teasing should be fined.
- Bird feeders
- Predators and deer. Question is formulated as all wildlife; feeding birds is fine.
- I think feeding bird food in the winter should be allowed
- None
- Rodent or Pigeons
- N/a
- Bird feeders in winter should be exempt from such a prohibition.
- Birds
- None

- Ticket
- If people are feeding the animals it should be ok
- Bird houses
- Will this include bird feeders? Bee, ladybug and butterfly feeders? Feeding and supporting those wild animals benefits everyone. Humane trapping (with food enticements) to relocate problem animals.
- Bird feeders, people attempting to provide backyard ecosystems/safe havens for wildlife, etc
- Helping injured or sick animals
- Teasing isn't ok at anytime but you say feeding wildlife well aren't birds wildlife
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits should not be included. People feed birds all the time. Be careful on what animals are include in fines.
- I'm only against as in a fenced backyard itshard to stop my dog from chasing squirrels/birds.
- Wildlife with young babies that need shelter and a safe place that provides their basic needs.
- none
- Bird feeders
- are bird feeders helpful for wild birds?
- Bird feeders for native birds in Alberta
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is sick or injured, you should be considered to assist it in any way possible until a wildlife officer or animal rehabilitation employee takes them in.
- None
- Exceptions for pests such as magpies, crows, insects, bugs, rodents etc.
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels (via backyard feeders)
- [removed]
- Set up Cameras in areas where Wild life could roam to monitor. Fine people for harrassment, wild life need to be respected.
- None, that behaviour isn't acceptable anywhere
- I would hate to see people not to be able to feed the birds, but I don't agree with feeding squires, deer etc
- Bird feeders, feeding or helping sick or injured animals
- Maybe have permits for people who know what to feed and not to feed birds on private property
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- Seagulls, squirrels, gophers, similar small harmless animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None.
- Bird feeders
- If an animal is suffering and needing food to lure for rehabilitation. To feed wild birds in feeders etc.

- Bird feed/squirrels should be exempt
- Bird/ Squirrel non-invasive feeders and baths
- No teasing, possible feeding on private property
- Sick/neglected animals
- No exceptions
- Hurt/sick wildlife until proper measures can be taken to remove and rehabilitate.
- Bird feeders
- Animals not able to be received by rehab centres at the moment.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Huge fines
- None
- Bird feeders
- Teasing no, feeding should be allowed.
- Bird feeders mimicing a natural diet
- N/A
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- This would need to be within reason and I don't believe that in certain circumstances... ie: squirrels getting into human food or food outside on your deck that could be left with no intention of feeding them
- Birds in winter
- Double the fines for feeding birds.
- Still allowed to feed squirrels and birds
- Bird and bee feeders in yards
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels etc
- Allow feeding on private property.
- Birds/bird feeder
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds/squirrels
- Perhaps feeding animals in distress
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders should be okay. Just no feeding of more nuisance animals like racoons, skunks etc
- Bird feeders

- No ill intent should be placed on wild animals but bird feeders and the like shouldn't be banned
- Stationary bird feeders with no human interaction.
- Feeding birds
- People with a birdfeeder or giving nuts to a squirrel
- 200
- Bees and birds
- Conservation efforts on private property, bird feeders on private property
- Feeding birds seeds from bird feeders seems a reasonable exception.
- Exempt bird feeders
- bird feeders
- none
- You should be able to leave bird seed and the like out
- Bird feeders
- Birds/squirrels
- Neglected animals should be fed.
- Just a note, pitbulls are being singled out because they have a stronger bite pressure? Yikes, I thought Calgary was WAY more evolved than this. Disappointing.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels and birds would need to be an exception
- Birds
- Education on how to report wildlife, trap them and release where more appropriate for them to survive
- n/a
- I would expect there are minimal times a wildlife is on private property being fed or teased. Fine people for feeding ducks and geese bread at the parks/lakes or
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders or salt licks
- Bird feeders
- Stop building in their environment that they had before !!!!
- None. This would hopefully stop people from engaging with wild animals and getting injured
- Not sure
- Feeding if the animal appears in distress.
- Birds
- Magpies
- If homeowners can produce papers proving the animal belongs to them.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Teasing should not be allowed but feeding birds species appropriate food is fine
- None

- Bird feeders
- Bird seed / bird feeders
- Not so much exceptions, but focus on prohibiting feeding/teasing wildlife that could become a danger or develop habituation to humans that could have adverse impacts. (i.e. bears, deer)
- Actions by people trying to get the wildlife off private property such as yelling, using a broom, etc
- Dementia in seniors
- Not on private property
- If you cant come and get the animal off the property - you cant except to tell me what to do with the animal on my property. A deer died in my backyard that wondered off the path and because it was 'my property' as said by both fish and wildlife and 311
- None
- Birdfeeders
- Rabbits and young people the occasional carrot left shouldn't be criminal
- even if cats and dogs are stray or wild of feral they should be fed however individuals should proceed with caution and limit touching.
- Cruelty/ harm to wildlife
- Backyard birdfeeders should be exempt. These provide a good source of energy, especially to migrating birds on the way through.
- Birds and feeders
- Support animals or limited number chickens for eggs(4)
- None.
- Bird feeders/baths and bat boxes (houses) should be allowed
- None
- In the best interest for the animals health
- Exception would be if a young animal is found and needs food/water until rescue services can pick it up.
- Bird feeders and other things intended for the well-being of animals
- None
- Bird seed to feed birds, etc
- Birds
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders would become complicated
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- If in obvious need of food
- Injured animal
- Animal is injured or in need of help. Home owners should be able to provide food. Such as an injured deer.
- Feeding birds/squirrels
- Exceptions on birds and non varmint wildlife.

- Education and then fines
- Education and or a fine
- Not sure
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Rural type property within city limits
- Feeding an animal that's recovering from an illness or injury.
- Bird feeders, urban bee nests
- Allow feeding on private property but have a bylaw for harassing wildlife on private property. But allow gardeners from protecting their crops
- Outside of crowded inner city neighbourhoods (ie/ someone's private acreage). In our area one neighbour feeding smaller critters is attracting larger critters from the nearby river and green space/park
- No exceptions. Strict and large fines for feeding wildlife anywherr
- None. Keep wildlife wild.
- Bird feeders
- Wild birds are commonly fed. Other wild animals shouldn't be fed as they can become too comfortable with humans.
- Birds
- Animal is injured or if your trying to trap and regime.
- This is ridiculous! Now you want a law against feeding squirrels and birds in your own yard?
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of animals that are not dangerous should be allowed. E.g birds, squirrels, rabbits etc.
- Feeding no as this can be done not on purpose. Teasing Animals shouldn't be allowed
- Bird feeders exception
- Bird feeders and the like. Help indirectly to not cause nuisance.
- Birdfeeders
- Teasing should not be permitted. Feeding birds, humming birds etc should be allowed.
- Bird feeders should still be allowed, but only if they aren't attracting deer or other large wildlife.
- Bird feeders exempt
- Bird feeders
- I assume bird feeders or other related items that are typically in a backyard would be an exception.
- Bird feeders, flowers for bees/bugs, squirrels will steal food so what can ya do.
- Feeding birds.
- song birds
- Fines
- Exempt the feeding of birds
- Let the kids and old people feed the birds. If it's a bear the human is feeding or if anyone is teasing or being viscious to any animal there should be consequences
- Birds

- Fruit bearing trees being an exception. As you are not purposely feeding them. However. Pups add a clause that fruit to be cleaned fromThe ground by end of growing season?
- Wild life centres
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders on residential lots
- Injured animal
- Ask wildlife experts.
- N/A
- Hummingbirds
- injured wildlife that you are trying to capture and bring to safety
- Bird feeders.
- Birds
- Animals that require human intervention to survive, shooing away animals from private property ,
- The feeding of native bird species does not have a negative impact
- Bird seed
- Malnourished, skinny, starving animals
- bird feeders should not be illegal
- Birds, squirrels. We did destroy their habitat to build houses, we probably owe it to them to feed them now.
- Education campaign
- None
- Deterring wildlife (not teasing, but language could complicate this)
- Unless the food is poisoned
- Bird feeders
- People will say bird feeders but those turn into squirrel feeders
- Etter public education...nature is nature leave it alone.
- Feeding baby animals in need of nourishment ie. Bunnies
- In the instance of predatory animals I.e coyotes there should be no tolerance
- Heavy fines
- Bird feeders.
- Fines potential jail sentence if involving dangerous animals.
- I guess we'll just start fining anyone with a bird feeder now
- The animal is injured and won't make it by its self.
- Chickens or ducks
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- None
- But not to feeding extra bird feeders. Teasing disrupting yes!

- Bird feeders should be an exception, especially through the winter.
- If the animal in question is damaging the livelihood of livestock or the root income of a resident than I would suggest contacting local conservation specialist to address the issue.
- Protecting property and scaring animals away from your home
- Silly idea you would have to define "teasing"
- Birds
- Bird and/or squirrel feeders
- Just don't feed them anything toxic
- None
- Wild birds if fed from a feeder with appropriate wild bird feed, kept a certain distance away from people/houses so it is not associated with humans
- No exception
- Unintentionally eg kids leave food out
- Bird feeders should be ok
- Bird feeders
- N/a
- If people want wildlife, then move to a farm outside the city.
- Feeding of birds using approved bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Shooting Magpies and Crows that are disturbing the peace with a pellet gun needs to be encouraged!
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Make it expensive!
- Bird squirrel feeders
- none. Don't willfully feed the wildlife.
- Bird houses
- Saving a wounded animal or abandoned infant while waiting for wildlife to step in (feeding). No exceptions for teasing.
- Bird feeders
- If it's a coyote about to attack someone's dog
- None
- None
- Bird feeders in yards
- Higher fine
- Feeding song birds should be made an exception.
- No exceptions. Feeding wildlife on private property endangers everyone
- Birds
- Leave wild life alone.

- Songbirds can be fed, not pigeons
 - Bird feeders, bubble bee homes and feeders, bat houses etc
 - None
 - Birdfeeders
 - Birds
 - Except peanuts for chipmunks and squirrels, and bird feeders.
 - Provided this does not prohibit bird feeders. I do not support restricting bird feeders.
 - Feeding birds and squirrels in feeders
- Huge fine
 - Humane trapping may require feeding
 - Elected city officials.
 - birds
 - Avian exception for feeding
 - Bird/ Squirrel feeders on private property, Acreages
 - None.
 - Bird feeders
 - Bird/squirrel feeders exempt from bylaw
 - If an animal is injured, and in need of help.
 - Too expensive to enforce
 - The animal is in danger, being neglected
 - Birds and squirrels
 - If the animal was in distressed and required water until authorities arrived.
 - You should be able to feed birds at bird feeders
 - Any animal that seems to be hurt or injured that possibly needs food and water to live
 - Bird feeders?
 - The exceptions would be birds and squirrels as they consume the same food.
 - Stop feeding squirrels
 - Trapping pests
 - Feeding squirrels and birds
 - No exceptions
 - Caring for a hurt animal while waiting for City help.
 - Bird feeders
 - None
 - Birdfeeders
 - Bird feeders are fine
 - Injured wildlife

- An animal in distress
- Bird feeders
- Birds, rabbits, any species that do not pose a danger to humans
- Bird feeders
- Fine the people who are reckless with feeding animals with food that can harm them.
- Bird feeders on trees on private property.
- None.
- Education
- Birds. Bird feeders help birds survive winter.
- Wildlife that seems abandoned by parents or injured
- Hanging bird feeders
- Depends on the specific wording of a bylaw. Birds are wildlife and are fed from a bird feeder and by proxy squirrels. What animals could you be fined for feeding and would this hinder the use of bird feeders?
- Bumble bee feeders
- Birds and squirrels.
- None
- that teasing wildlife on private property be prohibited as teasing would be cruel
- Bird feeders could be acceptable
- No teasing/harassing/handling any wildlife anywhere. Bird feeders ok.
- None!
- Bird feeders, bee and other pollinator supporting activities.
- Bird/ squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- No teasing but feeding perhaps is okay
- Small critters such as birds should be exempt from this.
- Bird feeders
- In distress
- None. Private property is private and only the owners of the property should dictate this.
- Bird feeders/houses, bee feeders, bat houses
- Fines
- Birds
- Bird feeders and water baths
- Feeding the birds should be ok. I am more concerned about large animals
- No exceptions
- Seeing how harassment of wildlife is illegal under fish and wild life on both public and private land why would the city be trying to take care of this? After more tax dollars?
- I'm guilty of feeding squirrels
- Trapping for injured

- Birds/squirrels I think should be exempt
 - It's peoples property
 - Less bylaws
 - Distressed animals in need of care/rehabilitation
 - No feeding wildlife on private property (ie. Squirrels, ducks, pigeons, etc)
 - None.
 - It's not a problem unless it's causing a problem to wildlife or surrounding neighbours
 - Feeding on instruction of wildlife officer
 - Anything with cruelty to animals
 - I feed birds, would that be considered feeding wildlife? I'm all for not harassing wildlife but I worry how that bylaw would be interpreted.
 - Bird feeders
 - Just help these animals out. We need to come together to help
 - None. I work for national parks and know the dangers of habituating wildlife.
 - Birds and animals in need
 - Bird feeders
 - Are you proposing to stop having bird feeders? Thats ridiculous.
 - bird feeders
 - Feeding as a means of emergency care for an animal.
 - None
 - None
 - None
 - If the wildlife is starving or hurt and fish and wildlife can't or won't intervene.
 - Feeding animals on your own land as long as you arent using it at bait
 - Bird feeders should be allowed
 - NONE
 - Proper bird feeders.
 - Trapping pests
 - If they appear injured or sick
 - Passive bird, squirrel etc feeders.
 - Nothing wrong with feeding the birds and squirrels, but definitely not wildlife or animals considered pests.
 - Bird feeders/Squirrel feeders
 - If the pet is visibly being starved
- Birds
 - If the animal is classified as a nuisance or is being a nuisance this would make an excellent exception.

- Birdfeeders, if no other wildlife is affected.
 - You're over reaching bylaws into a communist state of affairs
 - Teasing can be misconstrued when one is trying to evict feral animals from private property. How would you effectively distinguish between them if there is an incident based on "eye witness" testimony?
 - Certain species of birds
 - Protecting from bears and other animals threatening your family
 - Leaving bird food and squirrel food out. Not teasing or harassing of any kind is acceptable. I've seen parents let their kids chase geese at princes island park and I go up and tell them to knock it off
 - Small local. I say anything bigger than a bird (deer etc) should not be fed. Teasing is a no go completely!
 - Exempt Bird feeders and chasing wildlife off your property.
 - 0
 - Leave the wild life be they were here first
 - Bird/squirrel feeders put out by homeowners should be allowed.
 - Bird feeders
 - If the homeowner complains then fine someone.
 - Feeding birds is wild life . Be carefull what you do with this
 - Humming bird feeders, bee gardens.
 - Bird feeders
 - Birds
 - None. No reason to on private property
 - Birds
 - Birds
-
- Birds, squirrels
 - birds
 - I don't think something be wrong with taking in a freezing cat or dog and or feeding them. Not sure what 'Wildlife' entails
 - Fine
 - Birds/squirrel
 - Wildlife should be left alone. Having a bird feeder would be an exception.
 - Above ground feeders, bird baths
 - Bird feeders should be allowed, I wouldn't even mind squirrels
 - Exceptions surrounding feral domesticated animals communities
 - I think there should be some education explaining how to act with wild animals on private property
 - Abusive behaviour toward wildlife on private property should be prohibited
 - Using food for humane trapping/relocation

- Bird feeders in yards. But restaurants leaving garbage cans open for birds should be fined
- bird seed, veggie gardens
- The statement is too vague - as bird feeders would be prohibited - more likely specify the "game" "aggressive" animals eg deer, coyotes, foxes etc...
- None, let wildlife be "wild"
- Helping harmed animals
- Exceptions for bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be excluded. Wildlife eating from yards/gardens should not be a prohibited offense.
- I think encouraging dangerous wildlife (bobcats, lynx, coyotes) should be prohibited. Feeding nuts and seeds to birds and squirrels shouldn't be regulated. Teasing and/or harming any wildlife should not be allowed.
- Humane and live traps for rehabilitation and relocations
- Birds, other than pigeons. [removed]
- Obviously I do not think people should feed a bear or a cougar however sometimes I throw some carrots or veggies out for the rabbits in my yard
- Birds
- exceptions for urban birds (crows, magpies, sparrows etc)
- Exceptions for feeding birds, rehab people
- Fine
- Only to trap an animal and surrender to the proper authority
- None
- If the animal is deemed in distress.
- N/A
- bird and squirrel feeders
- Allow bird feeders
- A sick animal
- None
- Birds
- None, I don't support elected officials imposing on my private life
- Bird feeders shouldn't count as feeding an animal
- Rescuing injured animals and feeding while in your care.
- No
- Awareness campaign of the problems and dangers of feeding/teasing wildlife on private property
- if they are injured and/or they need help, food could be provided to help catch them/sustain them until they can get medical attention.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Wounded animal

- Bird feeders
- There should be an exception for things like bird feeders
- Birdfeeders. I also think there should be more penalties for people who are cruel to and harm animals.
- Bird feeders on private property. Heavy fines for people feeding "urban" predators causing habitation
- Bird feeders with appropriate wild bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Reasonable amount of bird feeders and/bird bath
- No exceptions for teasing. Feeding birds on one's property is not equatable to feeding bears, deer etc
- none
- Prohibit teasing yes
- No fines if the wild animal is in a back yard
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be exempt
- None
- Bird feeders
- Stop ticketing the residents of Calgary for nothing
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- If the animal is injured and someone takes it upon themselves to care for it while it recovers...
Example.. Bird with a broken wing. Feeding and teasing disrupts the nature of the little wildlife we are still lucky to see in this city
- Feeding birds should be ok
- Feeding birds
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Cruelty
- this includes preventing the city from harassing coyotes in Nose Hill park - leave them alone
- Exceptions for feeding birds
- Bird feeders. or planting things in a garden to encourage wildlife like rabbits etc to visit your property
- bird feeders should be allowed.
- To rabbits, as some may be pets and hard to identify as wildlife
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits
- Birds perhaps
- Unless they're getting into garbage or eating plants
- If the animals are threatening
- Heavy fines, arrest
- Birds should be allowed to be fed
- Exceptions for feeding birds and squirrels in a backyard feeder.

- Trying to trap injured
- I think bird feeders are okay.
- Birds, bird feeders are nice
- If the animal is starving, weak, or injured
- Bird feeders
- Feed wild birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Feed wildlife As long as its not coyotes or fox etc.
- birds, small animals (like squirrels), deer.
- Bird feeders. But that seems obvious.
- Birds
- Bird feeders, providing they are 'squirrel proof' even though I am terrified of birds
- none
- Bird feeders and even squirrel feeders should be exempt.
- Feeding okay (bird feeders), teasing NOT okay
- If an animal is injured and needs food/water
- Bird/bee feeders.
- If the animal is a baby/ juvenile who is lost or away from its mother
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Non birds of prey
- Birds
- Please DO NOT single out bully breed dogs, I can't believe the city of calgary is actually considering this, what a joke - increase fines for irresponsible pet owners, don't bully bully breeds, how awful.
- Birdfeeder
- Birdfeeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Bird seed
- Dear are exempt
- None
- Except rabbits, birds, squirrels? Basically to include a by-law prohibiting raccoons, skunks, coyotes etc. etc.
- Since it's a city, feeding is one thing, like birds squirrels. Any teasing or unethical removal/ behaviour towards any animal should be heavily fined.
- Feeding or teasing excludes the use of a proper feeder such as a bird feeder
- Wildlife that feeds on berries on trees/shrubs/hedges of their own free will.
- No exceptions. We shouldn't encourage wildlife to depend on humans.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeder (nuts, etc.)

- Let cats roam
 - Exception for birds
 - Animal is injured or baby/juvenile
 - Deers feed off bird feeders and this should be allowed
 - None
 - Injured or sick wildlife being taken to get help
 - Bird feeders
 - Bird Feeders should be allowed and squirrel feeders
 - bird/squirrel feeders permitted
 - Bird feeders should be ok, unless they attract animal such as bears.
 - None. Private property is private!!!!
 - Non aggressive animals
 - Any chained up animal that will not be surrendered should be feed
 - Take funds from the CPS and create a wildlife program in the city with experts who can safely and humanely recover the animal and relocate it or have it medically assessed.
 - None
 - Birds
 - Exceptions for birds, squirrels even bees
 - There are bird feeders and the birds love it. I would only suggest not feeding larger wildlife like deer.
 - It is my property, and I pay outrageous taxes so if I want to feed wild rabbits in my back yard, it is my right to do to.
 - Bird feeders
 - If the animals are friendly and recognizes the people on private properties, i dont see why they would need to be disturbed or harmed.
 - No exceptions
 - None! They are wild animals! People should be fined!
 - bird feeders, Squirrels also eat from bird feeders
 - Injured animals
 - Old ladies feeding squirrels. Seriously. I
 - Squirrels and birds
 - Bird feeders
 - Unless licensed wildlife
- Why is anyone feeding wildlife on private property. Not allowed period.
 - Exempt bird feeders.
 - Pests, animals that are destroying property, or harassing people or pets on property
 - Trapping wildlife for medical attention

- I'm not sure if you mean things like bird feeders? I think bird feeders should be allowed but not things like feeding deer.... and definitely not teasing any animal
- Educate people on toll of feeding wild animals
- Bird feeders etc
- Obviously people should be free to put out bird feeders for seed and nut eating birds.
- Exception for bird feeders
- None
- feeding stations should be allowed.
- Trapping wildlife for medical attention
- I would say yes, but the bylaw would have to be very clear on what constitutes feeding wildlife and define wild life clearly. For example, if the city bans feeding wildlife on private property would that include bird feeders and bird baths?
- No exceptions
- Coyote sensitization-warding off coyotes
- I do not agree with teasing wildlife. Will birds be put under this umbrella as well as they are in fact wildlife?
- Squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Injured or in need of medical care
- Birds
- I'm not educated enough in this circumstance. Yes I would support prohibition of feeding and/or teasing wildlife on private property, but if it's a sick animal and I had to house it until wildlife rescue comes for pick up, then I would want to feed it.
- If an animal is injured I suppose it would require some exception
- Bird feeders
- If the animal was in danger (incapacitated, emaciated, lost its parent)
- Birds, squirrels.
- Obviously I'm against teasing any animal. But feeding them should not be addressed in the same sentence.
- Bird feeder
- Birds and squirrels
- Torture or pain inflicted for the purpose of entertainment
- Fines
- Fines
- Capturing injured wildlife
- How would you classify a bird feeder as?
- Song bird feeders
- Birds are especially vulnerable. Some wildlife should be fed and increase the atmosphere of public areas.

- Bird feeders on private property allowed
- None
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders and bird baths
- starving cat/dog
- native birds only; not the invasive species
- Bird seed for wild birds
- When an animal is in distress and your trying to bait them in to help
- Fine for harassing or endangering wildlife. Including allowing your pets to harass or kill wildlife
- Except animals identified as problem or pest.
- bird feeders, especially in winter
- Injured animals after a rehab/spca has been contacted (feeding), teasing/chasing off allowed if they are damaging property
- bird feeders or bird baths
- Birdfeeders or beehives
- Injured or sick wildlife in need of help
- Define wildlife first. Definitely not coyotes, deer, or squirrels. Definitely not birds.
- Destroying private property
- Birds
- Gardner's can grow what they want and if animals happen to eat it so be it . Don't fine people for growing things animals might want to snack on
- None
- If they are injured and with the city's recommendations; they can feed under certain circumstances
- Birds and squirrels
- People like to put out bird feeders, those shouldn't be a problem
- Feeding birds
- Birds, squirrels.
- Providing food and shelter to an injured animal until the appropriate agencies (Fish & Wildlife for example) show up to take over.
- I am opposed to teasing, but if someone want to set out a bird feeder in the winter, good on them!
- Wild Birds,Squirrels. Rephrase:"don't leave food accessible to animals" skunks&bears feed on stupidity
- More specifics. Birds are wildlife. What about an injured animal. Teasing - yes, I support a bylaw. Feeding... there should be exceptions.
- Feeding birds etc
- Feeding birds from bird feeders should be allowed
- No exceptions
- Bird food
- Bird seed/nut mixes for feeders

- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Feeding and teasing should be separated....
- No exceptions!!
- Birds
- Birds
- Injured or hurt animals
- Feeding birds seed.
- I have no problems with feral cats.
- Service animals
- Seeds for birds in a feeder, nuts for squirrels in your yard.
- if animal is injured and will be taken to a vet
- Bird feeders, hummingbird feeders, bird baths
- Squirrels and birds. Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Exceptions would be for feeding of birds/squirrels
- Feeding squirrels, birds & rabbits ? Is this feeding wildlife? Of course no teasing of wildlife, but what does this actually entail ?
- Squirrels and birds.
- birds
- Feeding feral colonies should be fine
- Feeding of small animals like rabbits, ducks etc. No teasing of animals.
- None whatsoever
- Birds/bird feeders; animals that have gotten access to bird feeders. Bat's and bat houses.
- A clear definition of the word tease is required. Residents and or hired help should still be able to trap and remove wildlife found on private property for the purposes of relocating.
- N/A
- None, this is unacceptable at all times.
- if animal injured, on okay from Fish and Wildlife or Rescue Operation in regards with water or feeding until they can take control of issue.
- If the animal looks neglected, and or malnourished.
- Bird feeders should still be allowed. Perhaps duck feeding and feeding birds at parks if it's not harmful to do so.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding should be allowed if animal requires it as per wildlife rehab facility
- None
- BIRD FEEDERS ALLOWED
- Feeding birds
- Ensure feeding squirrels and birds (including ducks) is not prohibited.

- Birds and squirrels
- None
- Bird Feeders
- Hummingbird feeders
- Birds
- People should be allowed to feed wild birds.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders.
- Birds
- If an injured animal wandered onto private property
- Bird feeders must be 'rodent' proof
- Bird feeders
- People who have bird and squirrel feeders and birdbaths.
- Birds! All types of birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders!
- Feeding birds
- if an animal is injured and requires help
- Exceptions for the feeding of birds via bird-feeders; exceptions for private citizens involved in citizen science, wildlife rehab, or endangered species monitoring/reintroduction efforts.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding Injured or babies should be allowed
- Bird seed for birds and peanuts for squirrels?
- Teasing yes feeding no
- My answer is yes as long as you would you still be allowed to have bird feeders that attract birds and sometimes small wildlife?
- Backyards
- That license be free for low income
- Animal rescue situations where property owners need to care for wildlife temporarily before taking them to wildlife services
- Bird feeders
- coaxing to be able to rescue. aka keep animal in area until bylaw arrives
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits feeding large and potentially dangerous wildlife (ex. Bears, Bobcats, deer, coyotes, etc). But I would hate to see fines for feeding birds, squirrels and other small animals
- None
- Bird feeders as an exception
- Bird feeders, live traps
- Feeding emaciated or injured animals until can be taken to wildlife rehab.

- Make sure that you INCLUDE NO feeding of squirrels-- they are pests!!!
- None.
- If the feeding results in over attraction of animals that causes property damage in the neighbourhood or risks the health of persons.
- Birds, bats, rabbits. How do you draw a line between a garden patch with rabbits to animal feed?
- Feeding birds
- Only human based teasing. Chasing by dogs on private property should be an exception.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Fines for anyone teasing any animal domestic or wild
- Birds such as hummingbirds
- Dehydrated or dying animal
- Birds and squirrels
- Exceptions such as bird/squirrel feeders
- Small children
- Unless its obvious the animals are being neglected would be the only exception for anyone to try and feed them
- Birds bats.
- Bird feeders
- birds and herbivores (Squirrels, rabbits). More concerned about skunks, bobcats, etc becoming comfortable with humans.
- Bird feeders
- Prohibit Feed, Teasing is to vague, What is consider teasing ? Having a plastic owl to keep birds away. Would you be able to remove skunks etc.
- No exceptions. Wildlife encounters can bring disastorus encounters and encourage more wildlife to the city like coyotes and bobcats.
- Feeding birds should be allowed, but not with table scraps.
- Exempt birds as many people have bird feeders
- Birds
- Exception for outdoor gardens which grow fruit/veggies as the intention isn't to feed animals but it does happen.
- None. City residents do not have the knowledge or experience to approach any wildlife. It contradicts any concerns for the environment to not penalize those who interfere with wildlife.
- Feeding animal(s) in distress (could be caused my many reasons) should be exempt.
- Bird Feeder
- The question has too very different issues. Feeding and teasing. Teasing isn't good any time.
- None. Do not feed wildlife
- Bylaw for teasing should be enforced only
- Bird & squirrel feeders

- An animal that looks malnourished on private property
- Well maintained bird feeders
- Bird feeders, helping a stray cat or dog
- Survival needs / medical distress
- Teasing is not okay, however I think birdseed or bunny food (plant based) Should be exempt from this
- Bird feeders
- None. Zero-tolerance to feeding wild animals. It is always the animal that pays the ultimate price for human stupidity.
- My pet, squirrel in my yard I feed
- Bird feeders
- If the animal looks emancipated, it can be fed but the finder should also report to the city of it is in immediate distress.
- Actually giving out hefty fines instead of warnings.
- Bird feeder
- Shooting away shouldn't be teasing
- Fines
- Squirrels and birds
- Education and warnings.
- Birds should be an exception to the bylaw as people enjoy sitting and watching them and for the elderly this may be the only type of recreation they get.
- If hurt awaiting assistance
- Fines or criminal charges depending on the severity
- Accidental animal escapes.
- None
- No expectations. People need to be respectful to wildlife. We have taken so much of their territory and people need to respect that!
- Feeding ducks
- If it is an abandoned/orphaned baby animal
- If the person has been directed by a rescue agency to provide food until an animal can be picked up
- Ducks in water
- Exceptions for birds/birdfeeders. I do realize that more than birds eat from these, but those critters eat gardens and garbage too, and let's not legislate those anymore than we have too.
- Can feed not tease
- Bird feeders
- Rescuing an injured animal
- Continual and flagrant feeding
- none

- Feeding birds (teasing any wildlife is unacceptable!)
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Stop feeding wildlife.
- None
- Obviously if the person is harming wildlife this should be addressed. However, it would be a waste of resources to have POs out looking for citizens “teasing” a squirrel...
- if caught on camera or in person a fine should be giving to such person for teasing any animal wild or domestic.
- A fed animal is a dead animal. Stronger fines and follow through !!
- Birds, squirrels.
- Bird feeders if set up and used responsibly.
- Injured or malnourished animals
- Feeding birds- as long as it is an appropriate diet
- Private property is private. You have no say unless you pay a tax to private land owners for the privilege of putting regulations on them.
- Bird feeders are ok
- Birds
- Feeding birds is not the same as feeding deer or bears. Any legislation or disincentives should be focused around the scale of the wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders
- Perhaps an injured animal might need water
- none
- Self-protection that may be misconstrued by onlookers.
- None. Wild animals should be left as they are.
- Birds (non endangered).
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions on bird feeding
- Small birds
- Feeding birds is pretty harmless and plenty of people have bird feeders in their yards.
- Ideally wildlife officials should relocate the animals.
- Feeding an animal to keep it in place while help arrives to relocate it.
- Birds, squirrels..
- Feeding birds is ok.
- Bird feeder would be an exception
- Teasing yes, feeding no
- Birds
- squirrels, birds

- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird Feeders
- Birds
- Feeding would be okay for Instances where an injured or abandoned young animal is found/rescued etc.
- Only if animal was injured and someone was coming to rescue it
- Feeding animals that need help
- Permitted to feed , prohibited to tease.
- Bird feeders should be exempted from this
- Bird feeders
- Well since city employees were out at nosehill park shooting coyotes with pumps I dont know what to say about this. Also i don't know how you define tease. Clarity needed.
- Home gardens, bird feeders
- Bird feeders to be exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Outside city limits
- Water and feeding birds in the winter.
- Only feed wild birds with bird feeders
- Suggestions for exemptions: bird feeders, deer and rabbits feeding on gardens, fruit trees (apples) when accessible to them.
- squirrels, birds
- The use of food to try and get wildlife to leave the property.
- Teasing/hurting should be banded. If you want feed wildlife in your yard, that is your choice. For example bird feeders.
- Feeding on private property shouldn't be an issue. Teasing on the other hand, I could support a bylaw.
- Birds. Bees.
- No exceptions. As the question says wild life which means they are not domesticated.
- Bird feeders
- No feeding nuisance wildlife (ie. Squirrels)
- is feeding squirrels off limits then?
- I'd suggesting putting money into policing a bylaw you can actually enforce.
- Wild bird feeders and bird baths should be allowed.
- Birds. Bird feeders can provide enjoyment for the disabled, the elderly, and those who can't get out much.
- Not sure what you mean by teasing but private property is private property.

- If the animal is injured and requires food or water.
- Hares, squirrels, mice, and other animals enter people's yards all the time. I don't think it is fair to punish cats and dogs on their own property.
- Feeding birds (this seems obvious, but you never know)
- Bird feeders would be an exception
- birds
- Allow bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- Feeding is ok
- None
- Only if allowed by owner
- Allow feeding but not teasing
- I don't believe in teasing animals, but if one showed up on my property needing food or water, I want to give it them. Compassion.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds is ok
- I'm against teasing, but is feeding birds ok?
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders, private gardens
- I support it so long as there are reasonable exemptions for bird feeders. I would like to see a bylaw that doesn't penalize people for having deer in their yard, unless they are actively attracting deer to the area.
- We should be able to feed birds
- People have bird feeders.
- Bird feeding in the winter
- Bird and squirrel feeders are exception
- Stricter Penalties
- None
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Injured animals should be an exception. A size limit seems reasonable as well, feeding a wild bunny is different from feeding bears.
- Song birds
- No exceptions!
- Major fines
- Encouraging large nuisance animals such as coyotes or bears, It is OK for people to feed squirrels and hares

- feeding wildlife only encourages them to stay and puts them at risk
- Bird feeders, bat houses
- Not fining those who grow fruit or vegetables in their yard and have wild life go in to eat it
- birds
- All wildlife feeding should be prohibited with the exception of birds. If there is proof then they should be fined
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions, wild life needs to remain wild
- Birds
- Bird feeders should still be aloud
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders and leaving snacks for squirrels
- Educating people on the risks without fines seems more effective
- Garden and or tree waste, such as fallen apples.
- Rabbits
- Feeding birds and ducks at a park or by the river should be fine..harassing them is not
- Dont feed bears, coyotes, wolves, moose, deer, crows, magpies.
- NA
- Bird feeders
- If the animals are threatening pets and or people that live there.
- Trapping nuisance animals like.skunks et.
- Birds/bird feeders
- Feeding the wild birds should be allowed
- How would you ever police this? People don't feed animals bc they are being heartless they are doing it from a place of compassion.
- Birds
- Those need to be separated as options as one is positive and one is negative.
- More enforcement on current laws before you add more niche ones
- If you saw cruelty or blatant meanness to any animal
- Salt licks
- Injured animal.
- none
- None wildlife should fend for themselves to keep with what nature intended.
- Bird feeders, fish ponds, yards with native/natural growth also provides food
- Birds
- Birds ie. Bird feeders
- Birds (especially in those parks where they have come to expect it)
- In the event that wildlife is posing a threat, then it would be acceptable to lure it away with food, chase it off etc.

- N/A
- None
- Na
- No exceptions.
- A minimum fine of $500
- feeding/water for injured wildlife, until proper help arrives.
- Wildlife that is injured and needs human intervention until rescue arrives
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- None
- Not sure if they would be included, but please exclude birds,
- Some division of urban wildlife between beneficial and nuisance would be nice.
- Bird feeders
- Except teasing - that should be considered abuse.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders should be exempt
- Acerages within city limits
- It's so hard people feed birds and squirrels if yes for some what birds - seems like a headache.
- If "wildlife" was a pet owned by person with appropriate permits. If rehabilitating animal with guidance from rehab organization.
- Should be receiving a fine
- None
- bird houses
- Define wildlife. Because although I agree you shouldn't feed a deer in your backyard, I 100% will feed a stray cat that won't let me close enough to take it to a vet.
- Feeding birds should actually fall under this category as it attracts cats, skunks, bears etc However, limited feeding of birds should be allowed.
- Is this a problem?
- Birds
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird Feeders
- If the animal is wounded or starving (part of rehabilitation)
- Teasing or abuse should have a bylaw but feeding the birds or squirrels does not need to be policed.
- Feeding birds etc
- No exceptions!! All wildlife MUST be left alone.
- If the animal was in need of fluids etc. before help arrives.
- Bird feeders

- With consent of owners for feeding but no teasing
- Feeding birds appropriate bird feeds
- Injured / Distressed wildlife while waiting for authorities
- small bird feeders and water baths in back yards
- If the animal is causing damage
- Obviously okay to feed birds and squirrels on property. More so No towards bears.
- Same bylaw as in City Parks.
- Feeding squirrels and birds on your own property to me is not a problem. I do think there should be a bylaw against other people feeding and especially teasing wildlife on someone else's property.
- Assist of catching injured animals
- That feral rabbits be dealt with the same way as feral cats as they can be very destructive to public and private property
- Except wild birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- they were hurt.
- small bird feeders, as long as the city does not see the animals becoming dependant on the human food source.
- Feeding for the well being of the animal is ok but teasing/abuse should not be tolerated.
- birds
- Pest traps
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- If said wildlife is injured and in need of food I think an exception should be made
- You should be able to feed wildlife in your own property within reason. Birds, bunnies, etc. Wildlife that doesn't have the ability to harm humans or other animals. And what is "tease"?
- None
- Birds should be an exception. Urban sprawl has ruined bird habitats and private owners can help do more to try and bring more species back.
- None...I thought it was bad to feed wildlife anywhere
- Feeding birds
- No feeding wildlife!
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding is fine but teasing wild animals is not. The two do not go hand in hand and should not be included together in the same question.
- people should be allowed to feed birds from bird feeders
- Bird feeders ok
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- I like feeding birds and squirrels.
- Bird feeders allowed between Nov and Apr
- This question should be actually two: I do not support teasing wildlife. Also, what's the definition of wildlife? Does this include feeding birds? Squirrels?
- With exception, ex. No bread for birds, but seeds are okay.
- None
- None
- When an animal is injured or orphaned and the person needs time to find a resolution.
- Year round wildlife, places that encourage interacting with wildlife
- I would recommend education proper signage in and around the areas of concern with fines that will deter.
- I can see this getting out of hand with neighbours complaining of people feeding the birds & squirrels
- Feeding wild birds using proper food and feeders
- Trying to remove unwanted pests, birdfeeders etc
- Bread to the ducks and geese
- Birds
- Use of bird feeders and bird baths should be permitted.
- Things like bird feeders?
- None.
- Squirrels & Birds have a hard life-putting our food and water for them is the humane thing to do
- Clarify teasing.
- Only exceptions are bears and coyotes. Birds and other small animals are often fed through bird feeders and I think It is ridiculous to remove those or charge people for having them.
- None
- Feeding squirrels, birds, bunnies, etc. Should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- If a stray cat or dog roams into your yard wearing no id
- Feeding of birds on private property
- Except wild bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- NONE
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- What if wildlife feeds itself. What do you consider teasing? If my dogs chase something on my property that's not something I can control.
- Bird feeding is fine
- None
- Birds
- Sick or injured

- Feeding is one thing but violence or abuse and teasing is another
- Natural food sources such as crabapple trees, bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bird seed feeders
- Protection of family, and domesticated pets.
- Birds except scavengers like covid or hawk
- I have no problem with winter feeding of birds on private property but squirrels, skunks, etc. should not be fed.
- None.
- This is too vague, and in many cases wild birds benefit from winter bird feeders.
- Bird feeders and bird baths.
- If the pet can be proven as a legitimate pet. (e.g, squirrel raised from baby)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, etc. Should be exempt.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- If a wild animal is dying and could be saved by feeding
- Bird feeders
- Harming the animal
- Feeding birds
- Water for dehydration
- Bird feeders
- birds, small animals like squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Nuisance Animals
- Feeding for trapping skunks
- Feeding Birds should be exception. A bylaw only works if it is enforced.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds in the winter months
- None
- None I can think of, but definitely look hard into this
- Squirrel and bird exemption
- An injured animal
- Birds
- A huge fine. Nothing under $500.00 they it will be a huge deterrent.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds and squirrels on private property should be exempt.
- If you guys want to do this stop selling bird feeders and wild bird food first.
- Bird feeders would be exempt

- Squirrels and small animals I think are fine, leave deers and bears alone!
- Bird feeders
- Exception for Birds & squirrels
- More bureaucracy no value if it's already prohibited
- Hands free bird feeders
- Fines.
- Bird feeders,
- Bird feeders.
- Pest control
- Bears
- Exempt bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds, squirrel feeding attracts mice and other rodents.
- Squirrels, birds
- Unless for health and safety
- A 1 warning before punishment would be best
- None
- Wild birds and squirrels could be exempt
- Feeding is complex because it's nice to have a bird feeder, but I do worry about those odd individual humans who go too far and I think there absolutely should be a fine for the teasing.
- None.
- No exceptions, if you're trying to tease or personally feed the animal then it create a potential threat or danger to others or the animal. If you leave carrots or seed and leave it alone then it minimizes the contact
- Bird feeding should be fine. It gives pleasure to many people who are shut or seniors.
- bird feeders, squirrels
- Feeding bird and fishes
- None
- Birds on private property-allowed
- If the animals is clearly in pain or distress and needs help
- None
- Bird feeders
- Pests such as coyotes skunks etc
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- What about bird feeders?
- None
- Bird feeding
- Feeding birds should be exempt
- Bird feeders with the correct feed. No peanuts!

- Unless it's being trapped to be moved for it's own safety, wildlife should NOT be fed. Period.
- Bird feeders, encouraging wildlife to avoid residential properties
- Birds! I love having a bird feeder - although I would understand if it all had to be banned
- Birds
- feeding birds and squirrels
- Wounded animals that they are feeding to help survive before they can get to a rescue.
- On any property, city parks, anywhere.
- Feeding birds
- Fines for torture or abuse of domestic AND wildlife.
- none
- No feeding of wildlife especially the invasive (black, grey, cinnamon speices) squirrels.
- There are many tolerable methods of this including bird feeders and squirrel feeders. Also what about city edges with gardens that naturally attract deer etc? Nope. Not in favor.
- Except feeding large/aggressive animals ie bears, moose during mating season, etc.
- More focus on animal abuse
- Exceptions for bird feeders. Bird feeders should still be allowed. An exception for feeding/rescuing wildlife that has been abandoned or injured, but must be taken to a vet.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Birds
- Educate public on how to reach wildlife rescue if wildlife appear to be injured or distressed
- Not including bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Teasing wildlife is fine. However feeding wild birds is helpful to support the species
- None, private property is not your concern!!!
- In the exception that we can purchase the proper food for specifically for wildlife.
- I think it should be illegal for people to trap skunks or other wildlife. They live here too & should be left alone!
- Enforcement. I currently see no enforcement of this in City Parks.
- An exception for bird feeders
- Bird feeders?
- none.
- Education programs to inform people of proper practices with wildlife.
- Birds, Squirrels
- Birds if it is done with proper materials (not bread, rice or oats)
- If the animal is wounded
- Reduced squirrel, rabbit, and skunk populations. Fines for leaving garbage accessible to wildlife.
- Birds, squirrels
- I like to have bird feeders out for the local birds. We shouldn't tease but it is nice to help support the birds that live in my neighborhood

- Better support from the city on wildlife issues
- none
- None
- I would support a bylaw against any cruelty or cruel killing
- none
- Birdfeeders
- Not on residential lots
- Birdfeeding should be allowed
- Squirrels and birds
- Enforcement
- Birds, squirrels
- teasing should not be permitted ever. people should still be able to have bird and squirrel feeders on their own property, provided it doesn't result in nuisance
- Severe drought where animals need help obtaining food or water, or in severe cold.
- Except in the case of trapping for relocation. Does not apply to wildlife eating intentional gardens.
- Wildlife posing an imminent danger to the public - bears, bobcats, cougars, coyotes.
- Bird feeders or squirrel feeders should be exempt from fines
- Bird feeders
- Bringing dangerous animals close by feeding or coyotes
- Birds and squirrels
- Birds
- Bird feeders? Hello
- Bird feeders
- Where an animal is injured or starving and cannot immediately be turned over to a wildlife care facility
- wild bird feeders, orphaned or wild animals that are injured in the time between discovery and surrender to proper authorities
- You are never supposed to feed wildlife. But the city has to better support removal of wildlife breeding or living on private property.
- Excluding bird feeders/humming bird
- Except birds. Except situation when help is needed for the wildlife is keep it alive.
- NONE. You are not doing wildlife any favours by feeding it. JUSTLEAVE IT ALONE.
- None
- In the case of a struggling animal in crises...care can be given until professionals can arrive (water/comfort -shelter)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding injured wildlife in order to capture and bring to vet or rehab
- Properly cleaned and maintained bird feeders in the winter

- None
- Birds and small native species
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- none
- No feeding. Deer, elk, moose, bears, cougars, bobcats, lynx...allow for bird feeding
- Bird feeders could stay
- it depends what constitutes "feeding"
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- Would this make bird feeders illegal? Come on guys.
- Bird and squirrel feeders are important during cold months
- Neighbours feed rabbits and birds.
- Teasing should not be allowed but feeding is okay.
- bird feeders should be allowed
- Define wildlife - does that include birds?
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Fines if they are caught doing it
- Hunting
- Bird feeders
- Nuisance wildlife with instruction and support from wildlife officials to protect livestock and families.
- Just need to carefully define "feeding" and "teasing". Can I feed song birds still? I hope so. Must be allowed to feed songbirds on my property. But people should not feed peanuts to squirrels or feed ducks etc.
- Birds?
- With exception to bird feeders, people need to should not be feeding wildlife. Teasing any animal, wild or domestic, private property or not, should not be allowed. It causes unnecessary stress to the animal.
- Birds
- Teasing/harassment only
- Working to remove pests (skunks, pigeons, etc) from your property
- No exceptions, other than hefty fines for those who do it anyway.
- Should be able to feed birds and squirrels.
- If there is an injury, and you care for the animal until wildlife officers are able to arrive
- Bird feeders
- birds I guess
- Feeding of birds
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Birds

- If the animal is harmed then something should be done.
- None - a fed animal becomes a dead animal. Save the animals!
- How would you enforce this - logistically ridiculous - lets hire another 100 city staff to keep up with these ideas. Have you heard there's a pandemic and people are without employment?
- bird feeders
- If that animal is injured or harassing your own animals/children/etc.
- bird feeders ok
- None.
- Unsure
- Rehabilitation centres
- Acreages, or fruit/garden access - the term hand-feeding should be used instead of the situation where wildlife is eating food off our properties (trees/berry bushes etc)
- An exception for feeding native birds with an appropriate nutritional feed, particularly during winter months
- how do you manage squirrels eating birdseed for example? will people have to stop feeding birds?
- Injured wildlife/wildlife in distress that would otherwise perish on private property.
- birds. it can still be legal to have bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- birdfeeders or small animal feeders
- Birds and small creatures
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt...squirrels are going to eat from bird feeders anyway.
- So if wildlife comes onto my property without my consent, eats my bulbs, flowers and digs up my garden. What are you going to do, fine me or the wildlife?
- No feeding of mammals, everything else is fair game.
- Birds
- bird feeders
- Birdfeeders, dogs protecting their own yard
- I hope birds are exempt
- Prosecute individuals for "teasing wildlife" on private property under existing animal abuse laws/bylaws.
- baby birds in nest where mother dies
- Birdfeeders
- None
- Bird feeders. However home owners need to keep the area clean
- Bird feeders
- Wild birds
- Bird feeders.

- Need a better definition as to what "teasing" would encompass, the same for feeding.g
- If an animal is starving or hurt . Then help it and feed it .
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Same fines for public spaces
- Bird feeders.
- Private outfitting companies baiting for hunting
- Several things come to mind. Water left out should be fine, and obviously unintentional feeding.
- Bird feeders
- Would be nearly impossible to enforce, waste of time.
- Bird feeders would've an exception (NOT squirrel feeders)
- None. It's illegal
- Any feeding done from proper feeders (like bird feeders, bee boxes, etc.)
- No exceptions! I see parents allowing their children to chase, throw rocks, etc at wild animals especially the wild hares, it's inexcusable.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Squirrel proof bird feeders
- private zoos/animal sanctuaries, or where the owner of private lands grants permission - such as petting zoo?
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders be exempt. Law shall apply to mammals only.
- None
- None
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding is ok if animal is unable to fend fir itself and wildlife organizations have been contacted to rescue
- Unless working with wildlife conservation on rehab
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed. Teasing should not be allowed.
- When animal is being coaxed with the intent to hurt it
- Bird and squirrel feeders or setting out water bowls for wildlife.
- Bird feeders. Fruit trees, bushes etc. Not like Canmore
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions. They are wild and do not need more encouragement to come into the city.
- none
- Proper bird feeders are okay
- Backyard bird seed

- Increased fine for not picking up pet feces
- Bird feeders
- Hummingbirds. Also there might be some seed birds that need the help in Spring etc after migration.
- None
- 2 or 3 bird feeders of reasonable size per property.
- Wild bird feeders/waterers should be permitted. Slight hazing of wildlife on private property in order to get them safely off property should be permitted - ie. if wildlife makes a den/nest in a yard with dogs, haze them off for their safety.
- Would bird feeders be exempt?
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Perhaps one could give water to an animal found hurt, and they are waiting for someone to come a take care of the animal
- Birds and the use of bird feeders
- In parks only
- No,I hate watching dogs chase bunnies or deer! Fine them
- No exceptions, just please add do not feed wildlife on City boulevards and back lanes, and do not throw food in people's yards to feed wildlife.Please add resturants/fast food outlets garbage bins in back lanes/near buildings should have lids on .
- bird feeders
- pollinators, and small birds (e.g. finches, etc)
- How are you going to find the animal (culprit) and fine them? Or do you expect people to call 311 and say that wildlife entered their yard and ate the produce growing on their property and ask the city to please mail them a fine for it?
- Malnourished animals may be fed but not teased
- Its private property, HELLO mind your business!
- Bird feeders and such that are deemed appropriate by wildlife experts
- No exceptions
- If the animal is in danger or needs help
- bird/nut feeders and bird baths should still be okay.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing/feeding is far too subjective. Having a dog trained to chase say geese or deer off farm land could theoretically be 'teasing' when people are simply trying to protect their property. Needs to be better defined.
- None
- Bird feeders
- None
- Squirrels and birds.
- Bird Feeders?

- none. Also the bylaw prohibiting licenced cats on properties as cats reduce rodents, should be gone. The owner should decide what their licensed cats do.
- Citizens currently feed feral cats through TNR programs. Making sanctions against this would have a huge impact on feral cats across the city.
- just teasing wildlife on private property. Feeding birds should not be illegal.
- Is this really a problem and how would you make appropriate exceptions for some bird feeding?
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and similar.
- None
- Bird seed/ bird feeders, feeding injured animals to lure/ trap them to get them to a wildlife center/ vet for treatment.
- Bird feeders.
- A safe way to remove the wildlife from private property
- Bird feeders
- I have rabbits and deer that come through my yard, so I leave out apples and carrots for them. I don't see an issue with feeding them to keep them healthy, but teasing or harming, most definitely there should be a law to protect them.
- Feeding birds
- Should cover private animals as well. For example, people should not be allowed to tease a private owned animal on your property nor feed it.
- rodents and nuisance pests
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- It will be yet another unenforceable bylaw.
- Allow for bird feeders, but maybe set a limit to number
- Mandatory awareness training.
- Feeding birds on seeds is OK
- Bird food
- Bird feeders
- Teasing wildlife is not acceptable, feeding wildlife is.
- Birds & squirrels
- Children under a certain age; they may not know better, and the parents should be given a warning only
- Bird feeders should be allowed. Many birds rely on them in the winter months.
- What about birds?
- A review of the circumstances that have created some wildlife 'problems' ie. ring road expansion, we have seen a significant number of wildlife DISPLACED and looking for habitat. Very sad. If they visit my birdfeeders or birdbath i shouldn be penalized.
- feeding domesticated animals that are found on your private property for gaining their trust so you can ensure their safety and well being

- exception to permit live trapping of stray or nuisance animals.
- Just for large animals. Feeding squirrels birds ok
- Helping an injured animal if possible or calling the appropriate animal control officer.
- None
- I think it's OK to feed the birds or squirrels, etc. if it's on your private property. Never OK to tease wildlife anywhere.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Protection of all animals.
- Injured animals can be fed
- Exempt birds
- bird feeders exempt
- depends on the definition you are using if I'd consider any exceptions
- Hummingbirds
- Wildlife is too generic....does that include my bird bath/feeder in my yard?
- There should be a bylaw against feeding wildlife. Teasing depends on the definition - there should not be a bylaw in trying to scare away wildlife for the purposes of pest control.
- No teasing... bird feeders are proven to help endangered songbirds
- Injured or infant wild life
- Birdfeeders!!
- NONE
- You are trying to capture it to live with you.
- Yes to teasing and harassing wildlife on private property
- Feeding is okay, harassing or teasing is not.
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- n/a
- bird seed should be allowed during normal seasons
- The only thing I'm concerned about is birds. Are birds considered wildlife? I think bird feeders should be permitted.
- no exceptions - simpler that way
- Life preservation until wildlife services can arrive
- I would exempt feeding birds, squirrels and chipmunks
- Birds
- As a bird watcher with a bird feeder in my yard, I do not support a bylaw prohibiting this on my property.
- Bird feeders, bylaw against hand feeding
- Birds.
- none.

- bird feeding over the winter
- There should never be an issue with feeding birds/squirrels on private property. Many birds are more likely to survive harsh winters entirely thanks to people.
- None!
- I answered no because I don't know if that includes birds.
- Birdfeeders in yards
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Responsible bird feeding
- None
- Feeding
- No Exceptions.
- None
- exemption for trapping of nuisance wildlife
- Bylaw enforcement of the rules and large fines for rule breakers
- none
- Bird feeder
- None
- Define the word teasing. For example, if you chase a hare off your property, is that teasing It?
- None
- Bird feeders or Squirrel feeders
- Maybe don't try to say feeding birds and squirrels is an infraction. This question seems intentionally vague.
- None
- Bird feeders, water, and accidental example compost/garbage etc
- Bird feeders, baths and houses.
- I think the language would need to be very clear regarding things like bird feeders, mouse traps/baits (if properly housed to limit access by either other wildlife, counter-insect measures (like wasp spray or ant traps), and delimitation (out vs indoors)
- bird feeders
- Exception to typical bird feeders on private propety
- Allow the feeding - no to teasing. Prohibiting feeding wildlife on your property just becomes a big snitch problem and pits neighbours against each other - WE DO NOT NEED THIS!! The neighborhood goes downhill very quickly when everyone is snitching.
- Bird feeding should be banned. Artificial feeding of birds creates dependency on human provided food. Bird feeding supports an unnatural bird population that the natural ecosystem can't support. When a person who feeds birds moves or cant afford bird see

- Feeding on private property is fine but should be limited to small wildlife and provided it's not a nuisance to neighbours/community. Teasing should be prohibited on public and private property.
- Allow discouraging birds from nesting
- birdfeeders, as long as stocked all year long
- Birds - lots of people like to feed birds.
- There's a big difference between feeding & teasing! Why are these grouped together?
- Squirrels bird feeders and hares
- Bird feeders and the like
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bird feeding should be allowed. Feeding animals such as coyotes should not be allowed
- If it was causing harm/abuse
- Birds / bird houses to bring nature into private yards
- Bird feeders
- What do you mean by 'teasing'? I don't want to be limited if I choose to feed squirrels, birds etc. Also, I can't control if a skunk etc choses to dring the water in the bird bath.
- Squirrel proof bird feeders
- there should be a prohibiting from people teasing the animals but feeding a animal if it looks starving should be okay
- Still permit the use of birdfeeders
- birds
- Education initially.
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders, etc should be allowed.
- Don't spend any money on any program like this
- This would mean people couldn't have a bird feeder in their own yard, which is ridiculous. This is not needed.
- Bird feeders bee boxes chickens (if these become allowed)
- No exceptions
- Birdfeeders should be allowed still, same actions to get rid of pest animals
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels, insects,
- Bird feeders. I think it should be enforced for people feeding bob cats, skunks, rabbits, etc. but I would still like to see bird feeders allowed.
- Birds
- None.
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeding
- None.

- Harmless birds should be allowed to be fed
- No exceptions.
- Feeding bunnies or cats
- Exception for wildlife that requires medical care, has been abandoned or orphaned, and/or requires assistance to survive.
- Goldfish ponds.
- If wild.. let it be
- Bird feeders
- Feeding and teasing are two separate issues. No teasing, ever. Feeding can entice injured or displaced wildlife to humans so they can be caught and assisted back to health or proper environments.
- I think you should be able to feed
- bird, squirrel and rabbit feeders should be exempt
- If the animal is helped by a feeder by all means set it up as long as it's not to exploit it for a close encounter. It's kind of a grey area. People enjoy birdhouses.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- I don't think teasing an animal should be allowed but feeding stray cats etc should be ok.
- N/A
- If an animal looks to be starving or sick.
- Songbirds
- Nothing wrong with stray cats as long as they are spade/nurtured
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals or those in distress
- Feeding birds in a park
- Backyard bird/squirrel feeders should be exempt
- Hurt/distressed animals
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding or nurturing that is integral to a species survivability and approved by wildlife associations.
- Feeding wild songbirds via a securely hung feeder.
- Someone should be able to feed an animal they are caring for, injured, abandoned, until proper agency can assist, if at all.
- Removing nuisance wildlife from private property
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of birds
- Feeding birds with feeders, etc. should be allowed

- Unless its malicious and hurtful to the animals
- Bird feeders
- If you found an injured animal and you were caring for it until it could get to the proper agency to help. Bird seed, should be allowed.
- None
- Birds
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife on private property.
- Birds and squirrels
- Teasing yes, feeding no
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders , squirrel feeders , should exemptions.
- None, its not acceptable anywhere at anytime
- Let people feed the birds
- Stay out of my property
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds, bees, butterflies,and squirrels
- Squirrels
- Bird feeders, salt licks and things of that nature.
- Pests that are causing damage. I do not think abuse is appropriate, but some sort of deterrent may be necessary
- None
- Never tease. But you should be able to leave a carrot out.
- Bird feeders are fine
- Birds and small ground animals such as squirrels should be exempt.
- if trying to remove wildlife off property
- None
- M
- Bird feeders.
- Feeding is fine teasing is not
- Feeding certain animals (birds, squirrels, etc.) proper food
- Ducks.
- Birds
- If there is proof that an animal is being harmed or a resident creating a environment of harm for them or their family. Then an investigation with bylaw should be addressed.
- Ducks, birds and squirrels (seeds etc)
- The owners of said property should be excluded but held responsible if any injuries or destruction happens afterward.
- If the animal is injured allow feeding in order to catch it to get it assistance
- Birds, but with proper education about what and when.

- Allow feeding small birds, squirrels etc
- I Jared or orphaned wild life while waiting for authorities to assist
- Bird feeders
- Feeding and caring for an injured animal.
- Look after city property and property owners will look after what happens on theirs!
- First time offenders - provide education
- If they aren't being looked after and need food.
- Birds squirrels feeding not teasing
- Someone who has proper training and experience with wild animals
- Responsible feeding to support the population (ie. Hummingbirds)
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- NONE
- Bird feeders, secondary munchers. We back into fish creek. We put out peanuts when the blue jays migrate. The squirrels get them as well. That's a secondary muncher to me. Also the deer come eat the seed on the ground left over from the birds.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- Injured animal seeking shelter on property
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- birds
- It is never okay to tease wildlife - that is animal cruelty. Feeding shouldn't be allowed as they come to rely on the food and not fend for themselves
- I believe that fines should be given to those who tease or feed wildlife, however I think that wildlife should be defined, for example can we feed birds with bird feeders, or feed squirrels .
- Birds
- Bigger animals should be left alone. Smaller animals are fine.
- Farms, acreages and sanctuaries that care for injured animals should be exempt.
- If there is an animal in need, make it mandatory to call the appropriate services.
- Bird feeders
- Only with permission of land owners
- Give warnings for those not realizing they are causing harm (e.g. feeding ducks bread)
- It is not necessary to feed wildlife at all. They are wild animals, that should be respected as wild.
- None. Don't feed wildlife!
- Against teasing. Should be able to feed birds.
- Feeding of Birds, squirrels, rabbits
- I suppose bird feeders would be my exception. But the jerks feeding squirrels peanuts in our community need to be stopped.
- Wild life that is posing a risk or nuisance to the household.

- Exceptions if the animal is in obvious distress or in need of help, provided a wildlife rescue foundation or organization is called.
- Humming birds
- Don't feed or interfere with wild anywhere. They are not your pets.
- Birds
- N/A
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Leave the animals alone; there are bigger issues
- Sick or injured animals
- N/A
- Birdhouses, deer salt
- Squirrel feeders
- None
- I support a bylaw that prohibits physically harming wildlife on property. Keeping in mind, however that some wildlife are 'pests'.
- Teasing should be prohibited. Feeding should be up to the property owner.
- caring for established strays/ abandoned pets while waiting for them to be aided by animal services
- None, wildlife should not be fed
- Feeding yes, teasing no
- No exceptions
- Teasing and feeding are two very different Things, we have bird feeders but we don't tease the birds...
- Kids who don't understand, where education is a better approach
- Feeding bird seed to birds
- Putting feeding and teasing together is sneaky. Teasing is one thing but you really want to ban mybirdfeeder? Good luck with enforcement, by the way.
- Na
- Bird feeders
- It is part of the don't feed wildlife culture
- No exceptions
- None. But it is important to write the bylaw so that it does not take into account situations of unwanted wildlife on private property.
- bird feeders should be ok
- With the exception of hanging bird feeders on private property.
- Squirrels, song birds, chipmunks etc
- None
- I would agree with a bylaw that prohibits teasing, not feeding

- Depends on the animal, if it's one that will become a nuisance (bobcats, coyotes, etc) then it should apply. I'm not worried about rabbits though
- I would support restrictions for larger animals such as bears. Feeding squirrels, birds and bunnies is harmless. We are destroying their habitat
- Cruelty
- Anything that puts an animal in distress should be prohibited
- None
- Private property is that, private. Plublic land use zones i would agree with though.
- If the animal was injured and they were nursing it back to health.
- Birds
- Bird feeders and similar feeders should be exempt from a prohibition.
- None
- Bird feeders, bee hotels, bird baths and houses
- None
- Except animals that are dangerous to life of people (ex. Bears or cougars)
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird & Squirrel feeders
- I'm not sure what 'teasing' means. Can't suggest exceptions if I don't know what 'teasing' encapsulates.
- bird feeders
- Let the animals be
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Feeding
- Squirrels and bees
- Fine
- bird feeding should be treated differently than say, baiting deer or coyotes
- Fines, community service, mandatory volunteer with SPCA or zoo
- Feeding of birds, rabbits, etc.....we have a bird feeder out in winter and do get wildlife eating from it.....I don't believe we should be penalized if rabbits or deer eat from the bird feeder.
- Not if we cannot have bird feeders. These are important to humansandbirds/squirrels alike
- None
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- None
- More education about the effects of feeding wildlife rather than a law.
- Life saving measures exemption - a property owner should be exempt from fines associated with feeding/and or intervening with wildlife in the circumstance that the animal's survival is at risk.

- I believe you should not tease wild life on private property but I also believe people should be able to feed birds and squirrels.
- For testing for sure. But feeding of Birds.. not a problem un my eyes
- Feeding is acceptable as long as it is not for hunting purposes
- N/a
- Bird feeders

- Increase education in be able to determine if an animal needs your help, or if you are negatively impacting their livelihood.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds
- If the animal was hurt and needed care/food, or if it's you g and the mother was missing/dead. But no one should tease a wild animal
- Birds
- Hurt animals
- If an animal is injured.
- Feeding birds
- Bees birds and butterflies.
- when it is large animals that can cause harm to smaller pets and humans. moose, bears, cougars, coyotes, bobcats(lynx), and even deer.
- Feedig birds
- If the person is nursing an animal back to health and/or after the animal is healed and refuses to go back to wildlife
- Leave private property alone.
- Bird feeders
- Planting native flowers and seeds in backyard/front yards, this allows wild life to feed naturally without creating a direct human dependency in the process.
- None
- birdfeeders should be exempt
- Increased education and a simple to access URL. Respect ownership previews and rights. Dissuading wild life from nesting in private areas is a prime example of why there should be no enforcement.
- Supply a bird seed chute only filled enough to keep on the set budget for the public to feed birds safely and properly.
- Teasing should be prohibited but there are cases that may require feeding
- If they were being lead onto property to be harmed, trapped or attacked is the only viable reason you should ever trespass on someone's property
- Bird feeders ok

- Exception given for feeding birds. I think it would be wise to work in association with local wildlife experts to gauge which animals would not have negative effects on local environment if enticed with food, minding domestic and wild animal safety too
- Put up more signs
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Definately no teasing of wildlife on private property
- None
- Feeding or otherwise helping an injured wild animal
- Things like caring for abandoned ducklings until they can safely released or placed in a sanctuary
- Birds and squirrels can be fed on private property.
- Bird feeders & similar
- Not sure for this one, something with reason as they are a creature to. Whats the punishment for teasing or over eating as a person you get a punishment or you need self control. So something with a reasonable consequence in my opinion would be just.
- Heavy fines
- Bird feeders, unintentional feeding (gardens)
- Birds and squirrels
- No feeding wildlife on private or public property. Exceptions for wildlife rescue and rehabilitation.
- Bird feeders
- If it is an injured animal and they are trying to help the animal.
- Bird feeders (maybe limit the number per home)
- Feeding to trap and relocate
- Starving/unhealthy looking dogs are cats, they should be allowed to be fed.
- Putting out food such as fruits and vegetables.
- Ducks
- Bird feeders
- Its private property. The city should keep its nose out of it.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders. Traps for nuisance pests. Poison for rodents are all part of private property management. What the heck is “teasing wildlife”???
- None
- Bird food
- It's a dumb behavior to feed wildlife, but the City doesn't own private property and doesn't own wildlife so needs to stay in its lane.
- Birds/bunnies
- I suggest limiting bylaws dictating how people behave on their own properties. There are enough rules. Educate and make respect for animals the norm. Stop forcing things on people.
- No exceptions for wildlife

- None. Wildlife should remain wild.
- Birds, cats
- None
- Songbirds
- Not pests to keep off property, such as rabbits, magpies
- Feeding squirrels, feeding birds and feeding ducks is good!
- Bird feeders
- Not all wildlife should be included in this law. The fines should be for those feeding predators or dangerous wild animals.
- This needs consideration in various contexts.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Birds and Squirrels
- Possibly bird or small animals that are displaced by human presence
- Hurt animals in need of care, until help comes.
- Birds
- Wild birds. Especially in the winter months
- Only teasing should be prohibited.
- No feeding wildlife, the bylaws have to be very well publicized! City also needs a program to get rid of coyotes and rabbits.
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be acceptable
- If feeding was necessary to save the animals life
- Unless the animal is in duress and requires assistance
- None
- Bird feeding is essential especially in winter
- Bird feeders should be exceptions
- Controlled Bird Feeds
- Bird feeding
- Peanuts and seed for squirrels and birds
- Birds
- What would “teasing” be? Would we be able to shoo them out of our yard? Would we be fined if our dog barked at a magpie?
- Bird feeding should be fine on private property. No form of teasing wildlife should be permitted.
- Be more specific about what is meant by “teasing”. People shouldn’t be allowed to harm animals on their property but if they want them off the grass etc. They should be allowed to scare them away.
- A ground animal that will affect my dog's way of life on our property.

- Does that mean I can't feed birds, what a farce! No one should be teasing wildlife on public or private property, yes to that "captain obvious!"
- A fine
- Bird feeders
- bird and squirrel feeders would be fine
- The animal was in medical distress or in need of medical assistance.
- The answer isn't yes nor no.. to feed is general .. they may eat what's on the property, but tease is abuse ... no teasing / abuse attitude on private property
- If it was to protect the animal
- Bird feeders
- This law should apply to large animals like moose, bears, cougars, wolves and coyotes etc
- birds and squirrels should be allowed to be fed as well as stray cats and dogs.
- starving or injured wildlife
- This already exists in the wildlife acts. Who is writing this nonsense?
- None
- Bird feeders?
- Bird seed, bird feeders
- Birds
- None.
- Exceptions for bird feeders for single family homes/townhouses
- Bird feeders
- Instead of spending money on enforcement, spend money on education campaigns. Explain the consequences of feeding wildlife. Provide education in schools, when they are back to normal.
- Birdfeeders, squirrel feeders, leaving food out for strays, etc should be allowed.
- Injured animals, water should always be ok
- Bird feeders
- If it's winter and the environment is making it impossible for them to survive
- Feeding acceptable. Teasing not
- No exceptions. Wildlife should not be fed.
- Bird feeders using proper bird food
- Bird feeders
- Go [remove] yourself [remove]
- Bird feeders
- Any properties not doing so to hunt the animals but content to leave them roaming the premises
- I don't know enough about why on earth anyone would, but no. Generally not. Leave wild animals alone ! Don't teach them to look for food from humans!
- None
- Feeding is fine, but teasing is not.
- Teasing wildlife should be prohibited, but not feeding.

- I believe wildlife needs to be protected but people should be allowed to have bird feeders and such to keep a healthy ecosystem!
- Bird feeders
- Injured Animals, Animals flees "natural disastrous", Large fires, flooding
- Helping a wounded animal
- NA
- I believe that this could be harmful to people who - for example; see a wild animal on their property. They want to move it but are scared of being fined. They might end up using harmful methods to remove an animal to avoid getting a ticket.
- No exceptions , people shouldn't be teasing or feeding the wildlife
- Feeding birds and squirrels on your own property should definitely be allowed.
- An animal in dire need of help. Although, of course, one exception leads to an unprecedented amount of excuses and dismissed cases.
- None
- Feeding birds, planting wildlife attracting vegetation. As per question one, I feel that fines should be increased for those who let unfixed cats roam freely and the normal fine for fixed cats.
- when creating Bylaws it is important to consider whether or not they can be implemented or enforced. This does not seem like an enforceable rule. The amount of surveillance this would require is not proportionate to the issue.
- Many city bound birds (ie. pigeons) do not have access to proper nutrition. This causes the birds to have "wet" stool and when they poop that stool makes a mess of whatever it lands on. The option to feed these birds proper food should be allowed.
- Squirrels and birds.
- If the person is not intentionally feeding them (i.e garden veggies, flowers on property that animal likes)
- Birds
- Animal cruelty
- None
- No violence.
- They are found dying.
- Bird & squirrel feeders
- Feeding birds
- Rehabilitation efforts. All effort should be made to bring Wildlife to an appropriate facility but there are limited spaces for animals.
- No exceptions
- Fine
- It should depend on the size of property and/or land
- None that involve direct interaction. Wildlife by definition has to be wild. Bird feeders could be the only case with a leg to stand on as they are passive in nature with no direct interaction.

- Animal in need or harm.
- Bird feeders should still be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- If there is a known food shortage and/or drought
- Unless a condo Corp has existing bylaws eg, pigeons
- If this were to pass, an exception for birds and squirrels should be strongly encouraged.
- Injured animals
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits
- Possibly in the event that the wildlife in question is in distress and requires assistance.
- Bird feeders should be permitted and teasing of wildlife anywhere should never be permitted.
- Bird feeders
- Charge owners and not the breed. Bully breeds are not the issue, owners are. Do not discriminate against bully breeds
- Well, bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be allowed!
- Bird feeders
- Any interaction with wildlife that is cruel or harmful to the animal. Any interaction with wildlife that leads to dependence.
- None
- bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be allowed
- If the animal was injured and couldn't be removed in a safe and timely manner. BEST interest of the animal needs to be considered
- I don't think that bird feeders should be prohibited
- Feeding stations for birds
- I think it should be okay to put out birdseed, and leave out seed for squirrels in the garden if they take it on their own!
- Feeding birds should be exempt
- Rescues, or citizens aiding an injured animal if bylaw has been called and nothing has been done.
- Danger to animal
- I don't think feeding birds etc. is an issue. My issue is more with teasing wildlife, but I'm not sure that it is a big problem within the city.
- Exemptions around pests or trying to allow deter then from your property
- This is a stupid question nobody should be supporting teasing animals anywhere. But if you want to feed birds on your property seems fine.
- Prevent teasing.
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals
- Permission from owner

- The bylaws should be the same regardless if it is a city park or personal property. There needs to be an education component. Residents need to understand the impact feeding wild life in a residential setting has on the neighborhood.
- Fines should be imposed for intentionally inflicting harm upon wildlife, but feeding wildlife on private property should be at the discretion of the property owner
- If the animal is injured
- Except if this animal is relying on the person for food
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders.
- Your question is really unclear. Are you saying people can't have bird houses?
- Nurturing wounded animals. Bird Feeders.
- Feeding bees, birds, squirrels.... etc. More information about how to support wildlife in ways that are helpful vs harmful rather than just an overall ban
- Exception: Birds
- An injured animal
- Feeding monkeys bananas
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird or squirrel feeders on private properties should be exempt.
- Quit wasting tax payer money on this dumb [remove] and fix the [remove] roads
- Danger to public.
- No exceptions
- On your private property, you should be allowed to feed wild animals, depending on what the animal is.
- Should have notice on their front step
- Birds feeders ok
- Teasing should be prohibited everywhere ! Feeding via bird feeders, or helping feral animals in need should not be illegal
- I would expect that whom ever is teasing or feeding wild life and or house hold animals to get a fine.
- Bird feeder. Only human to wildlife directly should be prohibited
- Animals chasing wildlife in parks, owners should have to do a training course with any trainer or choice
- Injured animals
- Feeding only natural or approved items
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- This question is way too broad to be answered with yes or no
- Bird Feeders

- If it's sick or injured, in distress
- Feeding/supporting injured wildlife, provided they have already contacted professionals
- Rescuing abandoned babies and aiding them in rehabilitation or the transportation towards appropriate rehabilitation
- Squirrels and birds
- Bird or squirrel feeders. No exceptions for teasing
- Bird waterers
- Animals that seem under-fed or malnourished.
- None
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions. Signs in Fish Creek asking folks to not hand-feed chickadees. Just because it's fun, doesn't make it right.
- No exceptions. Signs in Fish Creek asking folks to not hand-feed chickadees. Just because it's fun, doesn't make it right.
- None.
- Birds, hares
- Fines and charges similar to any that are applicable in parks and other regions.
- none
- Abandoned baby animals that need food/water
- Bird feeders etc
- People should be fined and perhaps charged if they abuse wildlife on private property. I assume this would fall under teasing but it will probably be written in too much of a grey area. The bylaws need to be very specific about this.
- I don't see feeding as an issue. I feed the birds and squirrels in my yard
- Feeding a animal until it can be rehomed
- Birdseed is fine
- People trying to get animals off their property when the city refuses to help (ie. skunk)
- cut staff by 20% use the money for an education process.
- If private property owners feed or tease wildlife they are solely responsible what happens next and should pay costs for removal or for destroying.
- Allow feeding if it's apparent that the wildlife is in danger of starvation
- A fourth answer that doesn't allow provincial power to govern animals. You asked for opinions but don't give an option to disagree. Question 3 is despicable.
- Small herbivores ex. Rabbits
- Bird feeders, water sources, accidental feeding (e.g. rabbits eating your garden)
- Birds...bird feeders and bird houses
- Small wildlife such as birds and squirrels.
- When animals are injured and may benefit from care.
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders
- A way to charge someone for it based on a video. Community and enforcement working together to enforce it.
- bird feeders
- Feeding birds, bees, and deer in areas where deer roam such as along the river. Also providing water. This should be allowed.
- Food intended to lure pests into traps
- Bird feeders with proper food exempted
- Bird feeder; for trapping
- Birds can be fed feeders
- Deer, bunnies
- Bird feeders
- No teasing/abusing wildlife. Feeding on private property does not seem dangerous unless drawing large and potentially dangerous predators near the general public
- If an animal looks to be starving and they have spoken to the correct people first
- None
- Don't mess with people private property and let them do what they want on it maybe?
- If that private property borders a Calgary public park.
- None
- Do not prohibit feeding, but prohibit teasing
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions. Only wildlife authority to command rescue or emergent actions as an exception in an animal is in danger/distress/starvation etc.
- No exceptions
- No to prohibiting feeding, yes to prohibiting treating
- None
- If it's a lost baby
- Bird feeders??
- Putting approved seeds out for birds in backyard feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders that are squirrel safe
- Rodents such as squirrels
- Sick or injured animals
- Not too sure , but I agree with supporting a bylaw
- Stop worrying about others. Stop spending tax money on stupid ideas.
- Ethical harvest of feral rabbits and pigeon for food
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- If it's a lost baby

- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders are acceptable, however drawing other wildlife into the city by feeding should be restricted and teasing animals on private property should be restricted in all cases.
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders should be allowed in the winter months to support struggling populations
- They are obviously starving, lacking nutrition and need food! If you can tell they are weak, sick and hungry then feeding should be allowed anywhere
- Harassing rabbits should be an exception
- Don't feed the protestors
- Teasing — exceptionally high fines, plus community time.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrel proof bird feeders
- None
- bird feeders
- None
- Not too sure
- No exceptions, feeding wildlife prevents them from being able to gather food themselves and takes away their survival instincts. As soon as the owners of the private property stop, the wildlife could die off.
- Bird feeders, bee houses, pollinator gardens
- If it's to prevent harming animals then yes
- Bird, squirrel feeders
- Injured animals or natural disaster. No other exceptions.
- Smaller animals such as birds, squirrels, etc
- Bird seed feeders
- feeding wild birds
- Magpies excluded
- None
- Bird feeders
- none, leave animals alone
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders, bee hives
- Bird feeding
- Providing water sources, or feeding birds during winter
- Birds, deer salts etc.
- Obviously distressed animals
- Birds, non invasive and non predatory wildlife
- Bird and squirrel feeders

- Backyard bird feeders and the species that frequent bird feeders, gardens designed to help native wildlife. Prohibit feeding of deer.
- A hurt animal that someone will pickup to rehabilitate
- Wild bird feeders in front and back yards - these are very important for our local birds!
- There needs to be clear info on where to take wounded birds etc who end up on private property for this to work
- Shoo-ing rabbits and Rodents out of gardens
- accidental feeding
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders are ok
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Allow bird feeders and backyard feeders, especially in winter
- NO exemption for bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Make sure that the wildlife that is being fed is not destroyed by the City- example- squirrels. many people feed them - they can become a nuisance but they are lovely to watch, so they should not be destroyed or re-located
- Feeding wildlife babies that have been abandoned by their mothers.
- None
- Just expand the bylaw to "within City Limits". Why make it complicated???
- Personal bird feeders to still be accepted.
- Allow a not harmful way of removing the wildlife
- N/A
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be allowed on private property
- Birds & squirrels
- Kids, they should be allowed to feed birds bread crumbs. But teenegers and kids old enough to understand should be fined for teasing and fooling with wildlife.
- Exception for bird/squirrel feeders.
- Trapping and killing pests such as rodents such as mice and those other things that are wrecking everyone's lawns.
- Leaving bird feed out for birds and people who leave food/water out for stray cats/dogs
- bird feeders and plants that attract insects.
- Feeding animals proper food. Hummingbird feeders putting out seeds for squirrels ect.
- $5000 fine
- What about feeding birds and squirrels for example. Is there any harm in this?
- No fine for helping injured animals
- birds, squirrels, rabbits

- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- None
- Responsible feeding measures, ie honey bee house, wild bird feeder etc.
- I feel that people would be allowed to feed the wildlife (within reason)
- I suggest that no teasing be allowed. However, feeding should be their choice
- Feeding birds, squirrels & chipmunks should be allowed
- Non-native species and bird feeders.
- Bird feeders as an exception
- Abandoned young (fawns, etc) and injured animals
- Bird feeds and other things of that nature
- Birds, injured animals (at direction of authorities)
- None
- None
- Feeding birds, animals in distress waiting for city bylaw or animal rescue to pick them up, stray pets
- Feeding wounded animals
- No exceptions
- Birds (as long as proper feed is being used)
- Helping an injured animal before a bylaw/conservation officer can arrive. All life saving measures.
- Enforce fines, as well as establish a campaign to show the public the negative effects of feeding wildlife.
- Feeding animals that are starving or hungry looking shouldn't necessarily be a crime - compassion?
- Birds and small animals such as squirrels.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding should be allowed
- Fines, charges
- NO BREED DISCRIMINATION!!! If calgary did this we'd be taking a step back not a step forward in the right direction. RESPONSIBLE PET OWNERSHIP. NOT BREED DISCRIMINATION.
- Emergency distress until resources get there to remove animal
- It is unreasonable to expect animals to ignore wild life in their backyard.
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions encouraging contact will only end badly
- None
- None
- None
- None
- Help rescuing or feeding an animal in danger
- Bird feeders and caring for injured/trapped or orphaned wildlife while waiting for wildlife rescue groups/Fish and Wildlife/the city to help the wildlife in question

- no exceptions.
- Birdfeeders
- Birdhouses
- Warnings and fines
- Fines, more signs
- Bird feeders, rabbit feeders, etc.
- Pests control and would require a clear definition on teasing. What about injured? What about safely taking pictures?
- Birds / squirrels
- I assume this would not apply to bird feeders? It should still be lawful to have a birdhouse/feeder on your property.
- People should be able to have bird feeders and things of that nature on their own property.
- Only allow feeding
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird's and herbivorous
- You should be allowed to feed wildlife on your property. "Teasing" animals should not ever be allowed
- bird feeders and rabbit
- None
- Feeding animals appropriate food (birdseed for birds, veggies for hares etc.)
- None
- Bird feeders
- The animal looks like it is starving or needs food to be lured in to help bring it into the vet or rehabilitation Center. Even trained professionals use food to help lure an animal in.
- Squirrel/bird feeders on private property
- Does this include bird feeders??
- Squirrels
- If children are doing unknowingly
- Provide regulations and increase fines for releasing house bunnies into areas (industrial area off MacLeod SW)
- Feeding birds / squirrels
- hurt/wounded animal.
- Bird Feeders
- bird feeders
- no exceptions
- With the exception if the animal is sick or injured and need immediate care such as access to food and fresh water.
- Birds

- Leave wildlife alone. It's different for bird feeders obviously but don't touch and feed and harass the animals
- Bird feeders
- Unless the animal is in danger need of food and water
- N/A
- Education - stop using any excuse to fine people more money. If a repeat offender, deal with that issue individual to the owner. Calgarians are struggling financially and the city do nothing but increase fines!!!
- Bird feeders/squirrel feeders. Not sure if those count as wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders should be ok as long as they don't create a nuisance or attract rodents etc.
- Bird feeders
- If it is a stray pet that is clearly starving that should not be any laws against feeding them
- Teasing yes, feeding no.
- In terms of wildlife rescue situations, this has to be an exception. Also, bird feeders should be exempt from any prohibition
- To distract the animals in order for someone else, say a child, to get away safely.
- Bird feeders
- It's my choice to feed the birds and squirrels.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be permitted and there shouldn't be fines for inadvertent feeding of wild animals, ie if they get in your garden.
- You cant BAIT the animals in (deer and such)
- have more questions about this before I can answer. Does this include not allowing bird feeders/
- No feeding predators.
- None, leave them alone
- None, wildlife should be left alone.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- none
- Don't restrict pitbulls
- Education about the damage it does to wildlife.
- Feeding bees
- None
- birds
- Birds
- Abandoned baby animal, injured animal

- Controlled areas
- NONE
- If the animal is eating from a tree- owner not feeding the wildlife on purpose
- Birds, squirrels, deer, rabbits (small to medium herbivores)
- None
- Teasing should never be allowed until property is being damaged, or corp destroyed. Animal abuse is animal abuse
- Bird feeders I wouldn't have a problem with. (which then also leads to Squirrels as they often get into birdfeeders.)
- Birdfeeders.
- None. When animals loose their fear of people, they usually loose their life.
- Select non scavenger birds (as in magpies and ravens)
- It should only apply to people trespassing on private property
- Bird feeders
- University research projects, as well as wild animal feeders containing food that is healthy for such animals (no feeding animals human food/scraps/leftovers but allowing bird feed or squirrel feed mixes)
- Feeding birds and squirrels is OK on private property.
- If a person is harmed by wildlife because they are seeking a photo with the animal or not exercising common sense. The animal is not punished for any harm done to the person or children. If a child is harmed then parents should be fined.
- let skunks be.numerous near my house
- Bird feeders
- Animal is hurt and waiting to be picked up by a wildlife fondation
- Except bird feeders
- Feeding to trap animal
- Feeding wild animals by hand is a no-no, but if they wanna take a snack from my garden, there shouldn't be penalties
- No restrictions for feeding birds
- Teasing is totally different then feeding. I have squirrels. I leave out nuts for them in the fall. That is totally different then teasing. Anyone found teasing wildlife should face prohibitive fines of over $1000
- Baiting for trapping nuisance animals.
- An injured animal
- Injured animals needing assistance, birds
- ability to feed injured wildlife until the appropriate authority can drop by to trap / pick it up
- Saving hurt/injured wildlife or taking them somewhere to be euthanized
- Bird feeders

- Animals that roam into pet owners yards will definitely cause the animal to become distressed and possibly chase the wild animal, there should be no fine for this. If people are intentionally luring animals into their yard
- If an animal is in clear need of sustenance, I believe it is okay to give the animal some water and raw meat.
- If the population of wild animals becomes endangering to people and small animals
- Feral cats
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders need to be allowed
- A bird feeder
- Birds, attractant for hunting when seasonally appropriate
- No exceptions.
- Fines
- Fined
- I'm not sure, but my concern is it would not be enforced. Who would report it? An officer can't get there right away. But it seems cruel not to prohibit it.
- Teasing wildlife should result in fines, feeding wild animals should not. We should be able to call bylaw and have wild animals moved to safer locations on outskirts of city.
- Bird Feeders in Trees
- None
- Exceptions include animals that are endangered or the like.
- None
- Feral cats/dogs should be fed
- Bird feeders
- none
- N/a
- Birdfeeders (that often also feed squirrels) shouldn't be an issue.
- Animals in need. I.E. physical injury, abandoned babies, etc.
- No feeding squirrels
- Feeding Birds
- None. Wildlife should NOT be fed (then they become reliant on humans) and they will attract invasive wildlife (squirrels in yards digging up yards to bury their peanuts)
- Bird feeders
- Ridiculous, leave current bylaws in place. Why do we need changes? This allows bylaw officers the opportunity to ticket people for bird feeders. We would also require more bylaw officers to support these policies. This is the LAST place city should spend
- Feeding birds and animals in your private yard
- Unless it was harming the animal or a person was putting themselves in danger that could result in the animal being put down

- No exceptions.
- Bird feeders
- has contacted wildlife rehabilitation and has been advised to offer animal help if injured/sick/unable to get to shelter
- Feeding an injured animal
- Feeding wildlife with the intent to peacefully capture the animal and have it safely rehomed away from the city
- Should be none. All wildlife should be left alone. Do not feed or tease.
- Exceptions for people trapping and harming wildlife or any animal. Charge those who kill squirrels.
- Birds
- Feeding squirrels and birds
- Absolutely none! No wildlife should be harassed or fed. Read the Wildlife Act
- Bird feeders. Seems obvious but native and honey bees and other insects.
- small bird feeders and bird houses should be exempt
- Fine
- birdfeeders and mineral blocks
- Exception to bird feeders & animals in distress
- Except with intent to aid an injured animal/or an animal who is unable to feed themselves (i.e. bird hits window, you try to help it prior to taking it to a wildlife rehab centre)
- Bird feeders
- backyard bird feeders
- Bird and squirrel feeders.
- None. The fine should also be for anyone harrassing wildlife trying to get close to take pictures.
- Coaxing malnourished or ill-looking animals for attempt at capture and care
- Fines
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Feeding and encouraging wildlife to linger should not allowed. Add some provision to support people to deal with wildlife effectively by calling 311.
- Saving an animal
- If the animal seems malnourished or in serious need of help
- If an animal is extremely lethargic/dehydrated, water may be left out while waiting for Fish & Wildlife to respond.
- No exceptions
- None
- Bird feeders
- This is a vague question. Would my mother in law get fined for having a bird feeder.
- Feeding songbirds with seed should be allowed as long as deer are not consistently attracted to the site. (raptor feeding/baiting should not be allowed)

- Leave people alone
- None, look with your eyes
- Bird feeders for wild bird populations
- For care purposes helping a struggling animal that would not survive without support.
- Taking care of a hurt animal temporarily.
- None. Everyone just needs to mind their own business.
- Bird, chipmunk feeding
- Bears
- Bird feeders should still be acceptable
- bird feeders should be an exception to this
- Squirrels
- If a animal was injured
- Not sure.
- None
- Birds and squirrels
- If there is an injured animal on your property, to be able to care for it until further assistance arrives.
- There should be fines for teasing wildlife and for feeding potentially dangerous animals (EG. coyotes)
- N/A
- Animals that rely on human intervention such as pigeons, urban ducks, etc.
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Some people like bird feeders or fountains because they want to attract certain birds. If you want to look at prohibiting something consider open firepits in yards as it lowers air quality to all the surrounding neighbours.
- I think deer lick blocks are a great idea. Always have. There is also elderly people who like to put hay out for the wildlife. I see no harm in it. They don't feed the wildlife by hand. It's only feeding wildlife by hand that I see a major issue with.
- You can't tell people what they can and cant do on their own property don't fine people for teach people the right and wrong thing instead of punishing people for not knowing
- Bird feeding
- Wildlife is broad... We talking coyotes or birds here? Bears or squirrels?
- If the animal was found in distress on private property and the owners provided care while waiting for appropriate assistance to help in the situation.
- If the animal was injured or newly born and abandoned, individuals should be allowed to help in some way without breaking the bylaw.
- If the wildlife is in distress and needs immediate medical attention, it should be okay to provide food or physical touch to the animal in order to help its current situation.
- forgiveness for perpetrators under 8yrs, or against birds (birdfeeders)
- Feeding bees sugar water, bird feeders, etc.

- People make an activity of grabbing bird seed and feeding them in the parks. I would like for people to still do that responsibly. Maybe if they were feeding them irresponsibly then a fine can apply
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders/baths and ecological research.
- Birds and squirrels
- Education program to encourage bystanders to not support.
- What about petting zoos with tame wildlife used for educational purposes, often feeding the animals is an engagement tool. Wildlife sanctuaries located on private property may also need the ability to rehabilitat and feed wildlife.
- Only in the case of injured animals where you're trying to lure them in to help them or take to the SPCA.
- it should be made for both private and public property, they are wild animals for a reassign and should be left alone
- Sanctuaries
- Except bird feeders, or orphaned/injured animals.
- I think obviously bird and squirrel feeders with seed in them should not apply.
- Birds/ squirrels, would be the only exception that I could see being reasonable. So many birds are dependant on the feeders that citizens provide and discontinuing that could be detrimental. Wildlife, I think of deer, bears, racoons, rabbits.
- Na
- If an animal is hurt
- Fines if caught with proof especially repeat offenders
- None
- giving the animal nutritious food and not touching or scaring it should be OK.
- No
- need to consider bird-feeders, and the recent David Suzuki "butterfly lane"
- squirrels and birds,
- The question is too broad. What does it mean to tease wildlife? What about feeding birds?
- Bird feeders, houses and baths- helps the birds a lot, considering our climate! Also if there were an injured animal that ended up in your yard, and after calling for help, you still had to wait for a long time for the City- water, shelter?
- I would support this if it was for teasing. Not for feeding. That would eliminate birdfeeders which is a ridiculous idea.
- There is an injured animal or abandoned baby that is waiting on F/W to come
- SCREW GOVERNMENTS
- If a person is willing to work with the city to rehabilitate the animal from human dependency. Also ensuring such activities as feeding birds or squirrels are not prohibited.
- Bird feeders
- have a warning option for first offence or education option

- Academic research, Government studies and programs
- depends what type of wildlife. for example i think bird feeders are ok
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Provided private property owner actions are not deemed in humane
- None come to mind
- Magpies
- Allow bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders, humming bird feeders, bee feeders, water dishes for animals
- Teasing, harassing, injuring or killing wildlife needs to be treated more seriously! Animal cruelty is rampant and there aren't enough deterrents.
- Feeding birds
- Dangerous wild animals that are stalking families and or family pets/ livestock
- Deterring wildlife from coming onto private property
- Bird feeders that use appropriate food options and that are well maintained.
- Injured animals waiting to be taken by someone for reconvert and release.
- need to define wildlife, ie. deer eating plants from private yards, bird feeding should be allowed
- Excluding bird feeders. They are harmless
- None.
- Birds, small animals, and insects that would pose no threat to people or themselves if they become too used to humans
- Bird feeders
- Lowering taxes and firing Neshi!
- Bird/squirrel feeder should be exempt
- I would support no teasing/harming wildlife, but I think birdfeeders are fine.
- Pest resistant bird feeders.
- small birds like sparrows
- Teasing should be prohibited. Feeding urban wildlife should not be prohibited (magpies, squirrels, etc.)
- Fine
- Feeding ducks.
- Allow the feeding of feral cats, but not wildlife
- When waiting for bi-law to come get an injured animal from property. Or taking animal to safety
- Small animals such as birds
- Bird feeders etc
- If the animal is suffering/in need/showing signs of hunger
- I feel like helping squirrels or birds during the wintertime is ok
- Scientific purposes
- Birds

- bird feeders
- None
- Injured wildlife that need care or bird feeders
- If an animal is injured and cannot feed itself while it is trying to rest or recuperate, for example, birds who have hit a window or injured rabbits, etc.
- feeding of squirrels is common in the city fining people who do this would be a nightmare to enforce so why make the rule.
- Rescue
- none
- None.
- NA
- None
- Orphaned or injured wildlife
- Not an exception but a comment.. My neighbor feeds magpies and crows daily, I have called bylaw many times and they can't stop her. Please make a bylaw to stop this. It is horrible to be around and is also bad for the birds. Thanks
- Feeding wild birds is acceptable
- None. Feeding wildlife increased their interactions with people and may support unnatural balances in wildlife populations. Squirrels included!
- Bird Feeders
- Wildlife is provincial and there is already legislation in place - there are no exceptions.
- If the animal is injured/starving and is fed/given water to save its life.
- These are 2 separate issues. Teasing should never be allowed. Putting out bird feeders in the cold of winter should be allowed.
- Maybe access to water during very hot days..
- Bird feeders
- There is no way this can be enforced. There are already not enough staff to monitor and attend all issues. Justice system also sucks.
- Feeding of birds on private property must be excluded
- Those legally hunting
- People should not be allowed to kill squirrels or pigeons.
- None
- None. More suggestions on calling animal control when an animal has entered private property
- Bird feeders
- Only feeding of wild birds in the winter.
- none
- None
- Should be able to feed birds

- In the case of a sick or injured animal, people should be allowed to provide help and care, with the support of animal aid officers or vets; using the proper tools and resources of course.
- Bird feeders
- rodents and birds. I don't want a scenario where people are fined for mice eating bird food left in feeders, or for feeding squirrels. The only proper way to do this is to exempt certain genus or species.
- Small bird feeders
- Feral cats should be put down not spayed or neutered.
- Petting farms and zoos
- Providing life-saving care to a sick or injured animal prior to the arrival of animal / wildlife services.
- being able to use bird feeders to feed birds.
- No teasing
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders
- Planting trees, shrubs and plants that provide food for wildlife (birds, insects).
- Cruelty to animal/wildlife
- Feeding on some circumstances is ok but never teasing!
- Hanging bird feeders should still be allowed they give seniors a lot of joy.
- Exception with Bird/humming bird houses/feeders
- Bird feeders should be permitted.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- None
- A young wild animal will not survive on its own, it can be fed.
- none
- Age 16 and over only
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- In B.C. a bear was recently killed due to it being lured into a yard where food was left as bait for it. I truly believe in huge fines and jail time for this behaviour.
- Injured wildlife that require care, never teasing animals.
- Cats
- Things like bird feeders are ok
- Allowing stations to be put up with digestible and safe snacks such as seeds and nuts for the birds and ducks.
- People can do what they want on their own property unless you miraculously have your fingers in their pot stay out
- No exceptions. Wildlife is wildlife, doesn't matter if it's a mouse or a bear.
- Fine the individual who is feeding/teasing the wildlife and not the owner of the private property unless they are the ones doing so.

- If they are a nuisance (digging in garden / yard)
- Drastic increases in fines related to persons who break the law under this bylaw.
- You should never feed wild animals
- Just encourage people not to feed wildlife
- composting in garden areas/beds
- Confirmed abandoned babies
- Birds squirrels
- Animals breaking into garbage cans, bins, gardens, etc. Only intentional feeding, it's CRIMINAL to fine on a mistake like that.
- Only against feeding. Teasing is too arbitrary a term to enforce
- Feeding birds and squirrels using appropriate food and feeders
- None
- -35 below zero in the winter for a prolonged time
- Hanging bird feeders
- We need the animals around !! Charge the people who hurt animals. Levie huge fines to pay for the needs of animals!!
- Obviously feeding birds, squirrels etc should be ok
- Teasing yes, feeding no.
- none
- Helping Injured animals
- If an animal is in need or unable to survive in the wild.
- The Calgary Zoo
- You do realize the bird feeders feed Wildlife so you're trying to outlaw bird feeders grow up
- Sick/starving animals. Have wildlife rescues called to take in and care for them so they can be released
- Birds and squirrels proper food only.
- None
- Those who run sanctuary's on their personal property
- birds. many of us have bird feeders
- None
- None - leave people to do what they want on their own property
- Birds
- If a wild animal is injured or incapacitated in any way feeding should be allowed. The two qualifications (teasing and feeding) do not represent the same thing
- Feeding birds
- If the animal is sick/injured and needs help
- Feeding under proper education. Absolutely NO teasing.
- Birds, animals that aren't dangerous don't matter. Some feed people feed bobcats off of their porch and that's a problem

- Bird feeders as these are non interactive
- bird feeders in winter
- Birds
- Bird feeders ok
- Wild bird feeders
- No to teasing, harming, scaring anything cruel. Wildlife should always be protected regardless what property they have ventured on to.
- None
- non leave others to be free to do as they wish.
- Feeding geese and ducks should be exempt as well as bird feeders
- If someone is helping nurse them back to health
- If proven that actions cause injury to animals or surrounding environments
- none
- Bird Feeders
- Birdfeeders ok
- What consists of wildlife, birds? Squirrels? This question is too vague.
- birds
- Ducks
- None
- Bird feeders/baths
- Feeding them on private property.
- Feeding, especially automated feeding (bird feeders, squirrel feeders) should be permissible.
- birds and squirrels, given they are being fed safely. or a stray that is clearly hungry
- Bird feeders
- Not really an exception, but if the wildlife is injured - providing guidelines around what to do and a number to call.
- Teasing animals should be prohibited, while feeding should not. Feeding and Teasing should be viewed as mutually exclusive topics and never lumped together under the same bylaw, so as not to enter a legal debate about where the distinction lays.
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders in private yards.
- The animal is clearly hurt or in distress/starving
- If the wildlife on private property was being malnourished and you were coming to save the animals with water and food and report it
- None leave wild animals alone
- NA
- Give them a fine. It is not fair that they tease wildlife and feed them, then they come back for more and end up getting put down in the end.
- Definitely put in place a bylaw for a teasing wildlife. Deal with feeding wildlife through education. (Your question joined two different concepts so impossible to answer for each concept.)

- If the animal is wounded or in need of assistance (stuck in a fence etc)
- This question is not very clear. Does it apply to any animal? Birds? Does that mean no bird feeders allowed? People should be smart enough not to feed wildlife, nobody wants skunks or goats on their property. Not everything should be enforced by fines.
- Hopefully this doesn't include birds and the squirrels who get into the bird feeders
- Feeding domesticated animals or animals who may be injured and need help
- Bird baths, bird feeders
- Prohibit antagonistic behaviour, not feeding
- Bird feeders
- Sick/injured wildlife, if they cannot be brought to the proper wildlife care facility in a reasonable amount of time
- Bird Feeders.
- Bird feeders should be ok
- Squirrels and birds are fine to feed.
- if you do a pitbull ban, i'll move bro take my tax money elsewhere
- Abandoned wildlife that would not survive on their own
- Bird seed
- If it is on private property that's allows getting close and or feeding wildlife i.e paying for animal food then no fine should be administered
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders. Squirrel feeders in private yards
- In the case of wildlife injury
- Large fines!
- Teasing wildlife is not ok in any regards so a fine would be strongly advised, the same fine should be for feeding wildlife unless the circumstances suggests that the animal would not survive without help
- None
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Leave them alone and live your best life instead
- Feeding birds in the forest
- Bird feeders
- An animal on obvious distress (eg. Starving, thin, malnourished, etc.)
- If the animal is injured and needs assistance.
- Feeding wild birds with proper seed and feeders
- None
- Ducks
- Private property if for the person that owns it, mind ya business.

- Bird feeding
- Birdfeeders
- Fines
- Feeding birds, bats, bees
- Bird feeders.
- Birds need our help
- Orphaned or injured wildlife that needs to be temporarily cared for until it can be transported to the proper rehabilitation facility.
- Bird feeders with appropriate bird seed fit for bird consumption
- Birds or insects that bring life to the communities and their atmosphere. I would refrain from feeding deer, squirrels, rabbits, etc.; animals considered to be pests.
- If wildlife is provoking or attacking a person or family pet on family property
- Emotional support animals but these animals should not be those that classify as livestock.
- None
- First time offenders
- you can feed on private property, but not tease or harass
- Bird feeders should be exempt. Not sure what you mean by "teasing" but that should not be allowed.
- Homeless or sick
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feed with appropriate containers should be exempt
- Feeding injured wildlife while waiting for animal control.
- If an animal on your property is starving/injured one should be able to help it until proper help arrives.
- Bird feeders
- Perhaps feeding of birds
- Should only apply to mammals (rodents, skunks, deer, coyotes, etc.) birds should be exempt
- For the purpose of hunting or trapping
- Private property is private property. I do not support additional bylaws.
- Feeding waterfowl (but signs could be put up to tell people what is safe to feed them). Feeding the ducks/geese teaches kids a lot about compassion and fosters a love of nature.
- Feeding the birds
- Bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- This cannot include things such as bird feeders, feeding squirrels, rabbits, etc. I am only for the not teasing a wild animal, not against feeding
- None
- bird feeders!

- Bird feeders
- signage, a 'lifeguard on duty' educating and protecting high traffic park areas
- FerAI cats
- None. If someone is foolish enough to feed or tease wildlife on their property, then the consequences are their own to face.
- If there is harm to the animal from feeding or teasing a fine could be given, with officer discretion
- Feeding birds, squirrels. Teasing of all animals should be illegal
- Still be able to feed squirrels and birds
- Feeding birds in a park? Not sure if that's currently allowed.
- Feeding of birds that are not bird of prey should be exempt
- Bird feeders, salt licks, things that are not in direct contact with the animals
- Birdfeeders
- Are we talking about squirrels, birds etc, Then I don't support this.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Petiole should be able to feed birds at home. Proper food
- Birds! Feeding birds is amazing. And housing wild bees.
- Birds
- Fines
- Bird feeders, watering trays/pools for birds etc
- Bird feeders, or where the animal presents a real and immediate threat to the safety of occupants
- None
- Birds & Squirrels. The harmless wildlife
- I like the idea, but there's no way that would be enforceable, it's not even enforced currently just in parks.
- Bird feeders
- in case infant/baby wildlife are in danger, those who choose to help these animals should not be fine (assuming the wild animal is released back into the wild once ready)
- None
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds should still be allowed.
- A fine for those caught
- Allow feeding birds
- none whatsoever
- Hunting is an exception
- Farm or acreages should be allowed to feed wildlife. The wildlife is gonna show up anyways to eat so no reason for the occupants of that land to be ticketed when it's not their fault
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeding

- Bird feeders, bat houses, bee enclosures and feeding outdoor cats should be allowed.
- None
- Conservation efforts (zoos, provincial programs, etc)
- While I don't agree with feeding wildlife in most situations as it can be detrimental to wildlife and people, things like bird feeders can be very beneficial and should be allowed on private property.
- There should be charges.
- Birdhouses
- Certain exemptions like squirrels, birds, etc
- Prey animals, such as birds, small critters, deer, etc.
- If it's not your pet don't feed it or touch it
- Many people feed the birds
- Bird Feeders (Humming Bird Feeders?, Sunflower Seeds?)
- Birds and other small non harmful animals
- Bird feeders. Limit to birds not squirrels.
- Salt licks should be allowed.
- should be case by case basis
- Animal feeders I don't agree with hand feeding
- None, what happens on MY property happens. You can't infringe upon my rights on my PRIVATE property.
- communication/teach, understanding whats and whys are more effective than bylaws, bylaws just tell people you can't not you shouldn't and why. bylaws have an importance but don't just expect bylaws to be the answer.
- Bird feeders, bat houses and beehives
- No. Don't feed or tease wildlife, that's awful.
- Feeding wild birds appropriate seeds
- The animal is in distress but the home owner can not intervene till a wildlife officer is made aware and is given appropriate instruction on how to care for the injured wildlife or officer be willing to take animal to hospital for treatment etc
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- none
- Any animal in dire circumstances in need of urgent care
- Bird Feeders
- I think it is fine to have bird feeders but wild animals such as skunks, raccoons, bears there should be a fine
- Safety of residents and there pets
- If the animal is orphaned, injured etc.

- I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing, and would suggest education - let people know -the general rule for feeding of any wild animal is: do not feed when it might cause harm.
- If the wildlife is hurt + requires immediate assistance before fish & wildlife can respond.
- Feeding an animal that appears to be malnourished or in distress
- A hurt animal needing help
- Less harmful animals- ex. birds, but should only be bird seed. No bread.
- If the animal is injured and they can't fend for themselves.
- Luring violent animals
- Bird Feeders still be allowed.
- If the wildlife is in trouble, being able to feed and water until rescue arrives should be allowed (with minimal interaction)
- Education on wildlife & why that's wrong to tease/feed
- Bird feeders
- None
- If the animal is injured and needs help and they feeds it before bringing it to a vet or calling for help
- Animals who require assistance after animal control has been called but before they arrive.
- Squirrels, bird feeders
- none
- None. They should be left alone.
- A fine for feeding wildlife that may pose a threat to themselves/humans. Bears/cougars etc. But feeding birds or chipmunks etc shouldn't be an issue.
- I would disagree with trying to scare off wild animals on private property
- Birds.
- Private property is private property! Wildlife officers should be contacted if the animal is a nuisance.
- None
- birds
- No exceptions.
- Bird accessories (feeders, baths)
- You should not feed wildlife in general.
- Exempt bird feeders
- None at all
- Possible hurt wildlife
- Birds
- Birds and squirrels
- TNR program for the feral rabbits in the City to help control their population
- I would support teasing wildlife being punishable by-laws. However, feeding wildlife such as birds or squirrels adds to the outdoor life in the big city.
- animal/wildlife rescue facilities
- Bird feeders, except maybe in wildlife corridors

- Feeding wild birds appropriate feed
- Be more specific! Of course no one should harm wildlife, anywhere! What do you consider wildlife? Can we no longer feeds birds or squirrels? Are you asking about skunks or rabbits or deer? The City no longer comes out on animal nuisance calls, why?
- If it is dangerous
- Stay off private property, stop making bylaws you are ruining Calgary.
- None. Don't feed the bears. Or Jason Kenney. Stay off my lawn, UCP.
- It would be hard to enforce what happens on private property, but perhaps ACOs regularly visiting areas/private properties (even if owned) for observational surveys of wildlife and regular contact with residents re: behaviour toward wildlife
- I hope the bylaw would specify what wildlife can't be fed, because I think feeding small birds is ok. But purposely feeding a Bobcat is not. You should also be specific about what feeding is. Because a garden that the deer or rabbits get into, is that feed
- Allow bird feeders
- Only exception for a certified wildlife rehab centre or vet clinic
- Explanation needed to what constitutes feeding - deer enter my yard and raid my bird feeder is that feeding??
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions. Animals should not be abused. If there is an issue with an animal there should be programs in place with responsible and trained animal specialists that can contain the animal without harm done.
- An injured animal that needed water while waiting for animal services
- Bird feeders are okay
- Bird feeders are fine.
- An animal in need of help
- Vegetables that can be grown in Calgary and are safe for animal consumption
- Birds
- None
- Nut feeders for birds and squirrels.
- If nuisance on neighbors
- Feeding: many animals have come to depend on the food source and would likely perish if it was cut off suddenly. Make a feeding exception for stray cats and dogs, as well as feeding any injured wildlife to sustain them after calling for help.
- What is definition of wildlife? Squirrels, birds, snakes? Need more clarity.
- Private property is not city property
- Prevent animal cruelty towards wild animals on private property.
- What about migratory birds?
- Complaint enforcement
- Bird feeders

- Exception is if its not harming the animal.
- Bird feeders etc are ok
- For injured animals in the interim (before intervention from wildlife officials)
- Small song birds and bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Feed them appropriate food
- Bird feeders and the like should be exempted.
- Leave birds out the law
- If they are starving and have nothing around like winter time.
- Bird feeders should be acceptable.
- If the animal is endangered and appears to be malnourished, dehydrated, or otherwise injured.
- Stray cats that need a home should be fed
- None
- Fines that actually deter the behaviour
- pests should be exempt such as voles, mice, or other animals that could damage property.
- Lifesaving feeding while waiting for rescue orgs
- Less about feeding and more about teasing. Ie. Feeding birds.
- If an animal is wounded, lost, sick, young, unable to feed itself, not fit to take care of itself, etc
- Limit it to small animals only for the safety of the larger wild animals that may attempt to venture into the city.
- No teasing or harrassment. I don't want my neighbors getting in trouble for feeding the birds
- Feeding with rescue in mind.
- No exceptions, why creates complications and loop holes
- Removal of pesky animals from properties, ie skunks, porcupines, mice etc.
- Feeding non-wild animals such as strays
- Feeding birds should be ok
- Feeding bird via feeders, loose seed in the backyard should be ommitted.
- Proper Bird feeders
- birdfeeders should not be prohibited.
- bird feeders
- Birds in the winter
- Just get rid of the teasing wildlife. Simply because if you are feeding the birds which we all know at certains times of the year is important deer and other wildlife creates will show up. Dont take this away from our seinors who enjoy watching out the wi
- What do you count as wild life? I have a squirrel feeder and several bird feeders. That being said teasing of any kind is horrible and feeding a bear or a coyote would not be a good idea
- To sustain life while help arrives (for eg. providing water)

- Feeding birds on private property should be allowed.
- bird feeders
- This is a ridiculously loaded question. Do I get a fine for a deer eating in my garden, rabbits raiding my grass in my yard, bird feeders that a squirrel steals from. Seriously this is not a fair question and your questions are one sided
- One bird feeder per household, and must be purchased in retail store and placed minimum 6 feet above ground
- Would this apply to bird feeders too?
- Wild birdfeeders
- Exception of bird feeding.
- Individuals trying to care for injured wildlife, given authorities have been notified
- Bird feeders
- Private property is just that.....private!!!!
- Stop feeding humans.
- While I don't support teasing ANY animal - wild or otherwise, what about feeding birds via birdfeeders?
- If wildlife is naturally grazing on shrubbery/trees/grass on property, or if the animal is in distress and in need of food/water
- It's private property. Leave it alone
- ...does this mean, in our own back yards? Would this mean no feeding of birds, or squirrels, or skunks, or deer wandering through? If so, no I would not support this.
- Do bird feeders count? Because if so that is crazy and unenforceable
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders in the city should be ok.
- Unless they are helping the animal
- That question is terrible, feeding and teasing are two completely different things and can not be looped together.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- birds
- Feeding should not be prohibited, what about bird feeders and seeds / nuts for squirrels?
- If an animal is being hurt
- birdfeeders
- Residential (ie chasing animal off your own property should be fine, not torturing, luring, trapping, keeping etc
- Put in proper feeding stations. Provide corn and other healthy grains in a bubblegum type machine that people can pay a dollar to feed the birds and then monitor the feeding that way. Make a bylaw that you cannot feed outside of these machines
- If the wildlife animal is clearly hurt or injured

- Birds and squirrels
- Pests damaging farm land or gardens
- Deer in gardens uninvited or chasing out of gardens
- Allowed If approved by owner of property
- We do need a bylaw against pedestrians teasing/tormenting dogs in their yards on a weekly, daily basis. Many incidents occur because of this.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels and birds
- Providing life saving assistance to animals while waiting for waiting for Wildlife to come
- Exceptions for animal species that are non-invasive, non-dangerous, or considered to be domesticated species (cats)
- Bird feeders allowed
- Treat all animals with dignity! Regardless of private property. If you are teasing animals that is completely unacceptable.
- Bird feeders should be allowed still
- "nuisance" or "vicious dogs" should not include dog breed
- Rehabilitation for an injured animal
- Bird feeders with appropriate food for small birds like the sparrows.
- None
- Feeding or controlling populations of urban birds, squirrels, etc. whether they are pests or not.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders, bird baths
- Better education to those in the parks doing this
- Rescue, only if the animal is in danger
- A definitive answer on wild life. Would this be a ban on bird feeders, squirrel feeders, bat homes etc.
- Have a park where specific feeding is allowed, on the outskirts of the city to keep animals out of the main populated area, but where animal lovers can go to feed wildlife if they do choose, such as birds, rabbits and deer.
- bird feeders, bird baths, wounded wildlife
- none
- No exceptions
- bird feeders, provided that the proper seed is provided
- bird feeders
- Teasing is awful and should be addressed legally due to intent, feeding should be addressed educationally because of good intent.
- If an animal is clearly hurt or starving you could feed it but call the city for help
- No exception, no feeding or teasing wildlife anywhere
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeding, etc.
- feeding birds and squirrels would be OK especially Birds. Bee houses should be encouraged.

- Aside from bird/hummingbirds feeders etc.
- Bird feeder exemption
- None leave wild animals alone
- Dependent on animal. Bird feeding seems to be okay but deers and such I would suggest avoiding as in case they don't get the food one day they could be more harmful if they're used to the easy treatment of receiving food.
- Situations where there is a clear need of a rescue effort should be exempt from the bylaw
- starving/trapped wildlife (which should then be taken care of by appropriate authorities to rescue and rehabilitate)
- If the law is implemented, exceptions should be made for bird feeders.
- I think wildlife needs to be defined. I don't see harm in people feeding the squirrels or birds that come on their property. But obviously it should be a bylaw not to tease any animals.
- Bird seed, berry bushes, etc.
- Bird houses
- If an animal is hurt or abandoned
- Bird feeders could be an exception.
- None
- Water only
- Mistreatment or harassment of wildlife on private property should be fined.
- Birds and shoo-ing away animals that could be in danger of being my dogs snack
- Bird feeders
- To be clear about feeding can be difficult. Does it mean that you can't feed the birds anymore? Or plant fruit trees or flower/plant?
- Unless if they're pests. Squirrels are pests that can be shot with BB guns. Same with magpies or rodents.
- Bird feeders
- Except that it if feeding wildlife would lure it out of your property.
- people should be allowed to feed birds, squirrels, and rabbits if they like. No animals should be harangued or teased.
- None, exceptions are why these animals become too friendly and end up with death penalties.
- The animal may be sick or injured and require help before fish and wildlife would come.
- Fine residents for feeding rabbits or unsightly property that attracts critters.
- cannot think of a reasonable exception
- Feeding of birds in yard should be allowed
- Feeding wildlife, such as birds, on private property should be allowed.
- Licenced to feed wildlife on private property with checks to ensure no problems or abuse is taking place
- no harm in feeding birds, squirrels etc. But not ok to feed/bait predators or large game
- I explained it but your website sucks, I had to reload for captcha and it lost my answer

- Automatic feeders such as bird or squirrel feeders
- Skunks
- Bird feeders
- N/A
- That, with respect to the well being of wildlife, the same or similar laws apply regardless of property boundaries.
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- Birds, squirrels
- Hard to stop squirrels from getting into bird feeders. I would expect this type of scenario to be an exception
- Feeding is not the same as teasing. Would support a bylaw against teasing.
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.
- Exceptions in the defense of people or property. Birdfeeders, backyard bee keeping.
- Fines
- Emphasis on larger wildlife. Minimal on squirrels etc
- None
- If the animal is hurt, in need of help
- None
- A young child with it's family. The parents are there to teach and discipline in that situation. Not the city.
- None
- Feeding a feral cat, for example, to tame or adopt it
- Owners are outside and give permission
- Feeding birds
- Small bird feeders
- Injured/infant animals that can't get support quickly.
- Injured animals on property
- I support no teasing and feeding of larger wildlife but I am not against bird feeders or hummingbird feeders.
- i don't think feeding and teasing should be the same category at all.
- Birds
- except for city or provincial employees, let civil servants have some perks.
- Bird feeders and waterers
- An exception would be if someone is nursing a harmed or injured animal back to good health, with full intentions of release.
- Wildlife rescue missions for visibly distressed animals on private property
- Pest control (skunks etc)
- This MUST apply to teasing of ANY animal, wild or domestic

- Feeding birds is ok
- We must be able to protect our property and our own livelihood before an animal livelihood is considered
- If the animal is injured and you are trying to help or assist it
- No feeding or teasing bears, moose, coyotes or any animal that endangers human safety.
- Bird feeders and water fountains for animals should be allowed
- Feeding birds or squirrels
- Injured animal where wildlife officers have been informed
- there are some places that you can get some seeds, like at bowness park there was a dispenser for feeding ducks or fish.
- None
- Whats considered wildlife? Definition needs to be clear. Skunks, mice, coyotes, squirrels, gophers?
- if it was feeding big game animals (bear, moose) then yes.
- None
- Known aggressive wildlife: bears, cougars etc.
- Birdfeeders
- As long as this doesn't include birds I support it
- Permission of the owner
- bird feeders, squirrels getting into bird feeders, that sort of thing.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Anything not harmful to wildlife. I.e. things like bird feeders
- Nursing injured animal back to life, such as bird or bunny
- Bird feeders should be allowed and explicitly stated that they are allowed.
- Feeding birds and squirrels as an exception. However not permitted in areas where bears may frequent or at times when bears are roaming. Zero exceptions for harassing wildlife.
- I assume this doesn't apply to bird feeders
- Education is required and then enforcement
- If the animal is in danger and needs immediate rescuing
- Non violent wildlife, like birds squirrels etc.
- If the bylaw only prevented feeding coyotes and bears i would support it.
- Bird feeders are okay, but if someone is hurting the local wildlife they should be fined
- Wild bird feeders and food especially designed for them
- Birds/ducks For feeding (bird feeders)
- [removed]
- Feeding and teasing are two very different actions. These should not be lumped together.
- Bird feeders, humming bird feeders, nits to squirrels
- A process to determine whether the behaviour of the property owner comes from a place of care for/fostering of wildlife species that may be in distress/endangered

- A fine for feeding any wildlife
- Feeding injured animals
- No exceptions
- Teasing yes ban it. Feeding birds? No
- Fine everyone who feeds squirrels peanuts!
- Birds
- Hurt or baby animals
- Bird feeders, deer feeders
- birdhouses and birdfeeders
- I want to feed carrots to bunnies in the park.
- None-
- Birdseed
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- NO exceptions - don't feed the wildlife and definitely don't TEASE them! What a silly question. This is a no brainer.
- Birds can be fed
- Pests (ie gophers)
- Bird feeders
- Depending on situation
- Bird feeders
- More education on the effects it has
- The same as public property
- Feeding birds- so much natural habitat is gone so it helps them. Maybe not hand feeding
- Bird feeders; cases of injured animals needing immediate assistance while waiting for authorities to arrive
- None
- Bird feeders
- Animal injured or needs aid
- Only if the animal is as dangerous as a cougar or bear do I really find this a concern
- Birds are wildlife. Does this mean people would not be able to feed birds with bird feeders? Surely, people would be allowed to feed birds with bird feeders in the winter time.
- If wildlife is injured and a person is using food to capture the animal to assess injuries and gain the necessary care the animal requires.
- No exceptions.
- None
- Allow bird feeders

- Are we talking about feeding nuts to squirrels or what? What wildlife is being fed or teased on private property? And what is considered teasing? I think you people need to relax or be more clear with what you're talking about.
- Private property should remain private
- Native Song Birds.
- I think bird feeders are okay
- None
- Bird feeders
- None
- None. People should leave the animals alone. Wildlife aren't pets and this is their home too
- No harming or teasing of any wildlife on private property
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeder
- It should still be okay to have small bird feeders.
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Birdfeeders
- This is a very vague question. Are you going to prohibit people from having bird feeders in their yards? If the animal is being lured onto private property to hurt or trap it, that needs to be elaborated on.
- No attempt to domesticate the animal or hunt it
- Veterinary clinics or wildlife rehabilitation facilities that need to be able to feed them
- None
- Teasing should be defined as someone caught loitering or repeatedly returning.
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- I dont know what the solution is but I think for every person and animals safety this needs to happen.
- No exceptions. Well meaning individuals feed birds throughout the year but that invites rodent infestation
- How can this bylaw be enforced
- Animals found to be injured or in an abandoned state that could be saved and rehabilitated with care.
- i think feeding to an extent is ok - i dont agree you should be teasing the wildlife but however if someone is respecting it i dont feel they should be fined for that.
- Coyotes
- Harassment should not be tolerated but I see no issue with having a bird feeder.
- Bird feeder exception/bat house exception
- Stray domestic animals
- No exceptions! As soon as you do, leaves Grey area.
- Only within city limits, does not pertain to acreges or farms

- Stop the ban of specific dog breeds as dog behaviour is based on an owners actions of raising the dog
- Fines
- Baiting coyotes, out of the city limits, to get rid of.
- bird feeders
- Teasing bylaw not feeding
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders, salt blocks
- activities aimed at chasing wildlife off your property
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds
- None
- If a person is feeding an injured animal and waiting for conservation, or if temporarily feeding a pregnant or nursing animal.
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- N/A
- Standard bird feeders, suet , and hummingbird feeders etc
- none
- tigers
- None
- Bird feeders
- None
- Birds
- Birdfeeders
- birds no teasing food okay
- feeding squirrels
- No exceptions, no one should be feeding wild life.
- Teasing shouldn't be allowed but feeding birds should be fine!
- Teasing yes, feeding no.
- Does this mean bird feeders?
- Small animals (ex. bird feeders, squirrels, etc.)
- Assist landowners with removal of pest-like wildlife.
- None. I think wildlife should be left alone. If there's an animal in need and needs to be reaced, that's different. You should help them or call wildlife authorities to help them. But I think the wildlife should be left alone
- Birds, who need feeding for migration should be exempt.

- Wildlife eating plants growing on private property
- Does this include bird feeders? What is considered "wildlife"? I don't agree with feeding foxes/larger wildlife but small birds are ok.
- Injured animals/rehab
- I would expect prompt removal by qualified professional if wildfire is on private property and poses a risk
- Teasing or inflicting physical damage on wildlife should be banned, but banning feeding birds on private property is government overreach.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wildlife should always be allowed on private property!
- None
- Depends on how you define wildlife. Does that include having a bird feeder, for instance?
- Animals in need or injured.
- If the wildlife is causing immediate damage to the personal property or harming the individual or pets.
- If neighbours are feeding squirrels or other animals there should be fines
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird seed, hummingbird sugar etc.
- Why/how would you enforce that? Would having a bird feeder on your property constitute feeding wildlife? Don't be stupid...
- Bird feeders ok
- Allow Bird feeders, humming bird feeders
- Self defence, or defence of personal property.
- Bird feeders, Squirrels eating bird feed
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- If it is a wildlife sanctuary on private property
- Feeding birds/squirrels should be allowed.
- An exemption in the designation of wildlife to avoid domestic pet species
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals or animals in need of help.
- Bird feeders
- I would support this for teasing or for certain species (ie. not birds)
- Birds
- Only if someone was tempting animals to take advantage of them in some way.
- Birds and squirrels eating from bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I mean, bird feeding is common and I don't think that counts as illegal

- Trap them and then have them adopted or taken to rescue agency
- Feeding should not be permissible, but if teasing is to remove wildlife from private property that could pose a risk to domestic pets, children, home/landscape structure, that is fair.
- Injured wildlife found on property that wildlife rehab has been contacted and told to try to feed
- Bird feeders in winter
- You need to be actually looking into each case separately, this shouldn't be a easy ticket to hand out. And injured wildlife should not count of person is feeding to take into a sanctuary. There are exceptions to the feeding part
- None
- Prey type animals. Birds especially, hummingbird feeders, bird houses and bird feed. No exceptions if the food being fed to them could harm them
- Bird feeders
- when animals are starving, harsh winters (allowing appropriate food to be put out for deer, bird feeders, etc) okay,
- Bird feeder with appropriate bird food
- Accidental garbage
- Small wild birds i.e. not crows or magpies so at a small feeder that defeats larger birds
- Bylaw for teasing wildlife for sure. This is not right at anytime. Bylaw for feeding should be specific. Predator type animals should never be fed. It develops dependant behaviour than is dangerous for all involved.
- Attempts to shoo away animals
- Allowing fixed hanging bird feeders
- Using food to trap nuisance animals.
- Feeding birds, especially during winter
- None
- Birds
- Bird feeder
- bird seed
- Private property is just that. Private.
- Bird feeders
- Except for Bird Feeders
- N/A
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits, urban animals basically
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and the like
- Feeding birds
- A person should have a fine as well for feeding wild animals! This endangers both the person and the animal and encourages the animal to come back repeatedly.
- None

- If the animals are being abused or put in danger
- Bird feeders
- Feeling an injured animals while waiting for animal control.
- None
- Removal of pest like animals such as mice or skunks
- Bird feed
- Bird feeding is ok
- Birds and squirrels
- Feeding wildlife on private property should not be a crime, teasing should be a crime
- Better education
- Birds
- The animals were here first. Set up feeders for them so they are not so eager to get into the inner city as much
- Birds
- Birds, squirrels, chipmunks, and similar.
- Ducks, geese, pigeons, birds, squirrels
- None
- Define “teasing”? Also, some wildlife (like voles) that reside on private property can ruin lawns and I should be within my rights to eliminate that problem without waiting for the city to come and deal with it.
- Bird feeders. Planting flowers to feed bees.
- Fines
- No teasing but ok to feed wildlife
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Fines for people that do it
- cruelty
- Birds
- Birds feeder
- None
- A person with a lack of education about why you dont feed wildlife
- Large wildlife. If you prohibit feeding birds you will receive feedback about normal people feeding squirrels. More trouble than it’s worth.
- Birds
- This is a irrelevant question/bylaw request
- Bird feeders
- Teasing seems a little too interpretive. Stronger wording on do no harm.
- No teasing wildlife on private property.
- Feeding a distressed or injured animal to help it survive
- If the animal is in need

- Stray cats/dogs, birds
- If an animal was clearly malnourished
- If they seem used to humanity
- none
- Birds, squirrels, chipmunks etc.
- Rabbits and birds
- the Geese can be an exception, because they don't leave anyone alone. Ducks too, as people like to feed them. But, signage should be posted for what exactly you can feed them, as bread is bad for them.
- Sign from owner permitting
- Heavy fines for violators
- Birds, food allowed in feeders
- Ducks
- If the wildlife is injured and you are trying to catch it to help it/get it to a wildlife rescue.
- NA
- If the animal is clearly suffering/in need of food. Would also need "feeding" defined - is an animal eating from a plant on my property considered feeding?
- Bird feeders
- Birds and smaller animals like squirrels. But avoiding larger animals like deer, bears, moose etc...
- Bird food
- If it's a raccoon or possum or skunk
- Farmland
- Fines for feeding wildlife. Just don't do it!
- People who have to kill wildlife to protect live stock
- Ducks
- Education as a first step
- Bird houses that have seed
- Birdfeeders should be allowed
- Injured animals that are being tended to
- Bird seed
- The animal is being coaxed away from danger
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Officer discretion - i.e someone feeds a neglected animal
- reasonable and responsible number of bird feeders, and bird, bat and bee houses per property
- Bird feeders
- Stay off private property
- Private properties should be allowed to feed acceptable food to deer and moose and birds like hay and bird feed

- Birds, Birds are wildlife does this mean no more feeding the birds?
- None. Wildlife should not be fed ever.
- Bird feeders
- Make exceptions for the feeding of birds. Having birds active around your home in the warmer months is a positive and can have a positive mental impact on residents.
- Feeding birds; harsh penalties for feeding coyotes
- Bumblebees would be an exception
- Luring of Injured animals
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Birds are wildlife so bird feeders are illegal? This bylaw is senseless.
- None
- Wild bird feeders - bird seed etc
- Bird Feeders
- Trapping vermin. Eg possum, skunks
- Ducks
- Farms, petting zoos (feeding exception). No teasing exceptions
- Animals whose presence does not endanger man or animal, for example; birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feral cats
- ferral domestic animals, chipmunks, birds, squirrels, bunnies
- Zoo
- Birds and squirrels
- Fine
- Bird feeders allowed on public property
- feeding animals should be permitted but teasing animals should have laws against these are 2 totally different things
- No undue stress should be placed onto the wild animal.
- Separating feeding from teasing, prohibiting teasing everywhere and providing a definition.
- Feeding and teasing are very different things. Make a better question.
- Feeding for the purpose of trapping/capturing an injured or otherwise at-risk animal for the sole purpose of transporting it to Calgary Wildlife
- If it is for the wellbeing of the animal to receive food, if it appears hungry or thirsty.
- Bird feeders?
- Birds
- Bird feeders that limit contact between humans and animals.

- Feeding- sometimes citizens nurse injured or emaciated animals back to health. Understanding helpful interventions vs non.
- If the person can justify that it was for the animals safety or wellbeing
- None
- No exceptions.
- Unless the animal is malnourished and required immediate sustenance.
- Feeding a desperate and starving animal shouldn't be bad. But teasing or tormenting it is awful.
- Birds feeders
- Bird feeders/squirrel feeders, etc should still be allowed
- Bird Feeders
- Define feeding, like would leaving out a bird bell or feeder cause a fine?
- Carnivorous or predatory animals like wolves and bears should not be encouraged to approach people.
- Exempt feeding birds and squirrels
- Birds
- Teasing should be banned feeding birds and such should be allowed.
- Fines for feeding bears, coyotes, cougars, deer, elk
- Make the fine high enough to be meaningful
- none
- none
- People should be allowed to feed the birds, bees, and butterflies.
- If the wildlife is a bear or coyote in which would be dangerous. But birds and ducks are no worry
- If the animal really needs food or help. God bless you all . God bless you all.
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions would be feeding to care for a hurt animal that can be set free after.
- none. animals habituate and can not discern between private and public land.
- If it was to keep wildlife in one area so that they would not get harmed until somebody can come pick them up
- None. Wildlife should not be fed
- A lot of people enjoy having bird feeders and baths on their property to attract the birds and I think we should continue to have the freedom to do that.
- Hummingbird feeders
- None. This very question is insane. Enforcement would be impossible. Neighbors would turn on each other.
- Bird feeders
- Fines if someone is abusing wildlife on their property or otherwise.
- Where harm comes to the animal, be it physical harm, or food intentionally designed to harm the animal.
- If wildlife is threatening a person or pet.

- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wild birds obviously
- Exceptions should include bird-feeders designed specifically for birds. While squirrels/chipmunks etc. do feed off these too, they do not pose a large threat to wildlife or humans and increase human engagement in nature.
- Bird feeders
- unless advice by owner.
- Bird feeders
- If it is their wildlife
- I have no problem with people choosing to feed wild animals on their property. I do take issue with those teasing animals.
- Please be more specific when referencing "wildlife". Would strays be included? If so I think people should be allowed to feed stray animals on their own property.
- Feeding birds from bird feeders, baiting for hunting, stuff like that.
- Education offered so people are aware of the dangers of teasing/feeding wildlife
- None
- Education on human behaviour towards wildlife
- I think it should depend on what your feeding. I could see someone feeding some birds and getting in trouble - not as big of a problem in my opinion. I think it would also be dependent on how much of an impact it is having on others near the property
- Bird feeders three per household lot.
- Wild cats should be left alone. They keep mouse population down and can live a happy life on their own.
- Birds ducks and geese
- Birds ducks and geese
- Bird feeders
- Starving animals
- If the animal on private property looks to be suffering from malnutrition and starving.
- Birds
- Bird feeders, bee feeders
- Bird feeders
- Drop at least 20 bylaws . There are too many as it is
- N/A
- animals in need exs. injured etc
- Caring for injured wildlife on your property before appropriate personnel come get the animal.
- Crisis such as fire or flood
- Neighbor has a lot of bird feeders which attract squirrels and then also traps the squirrels ... Should be illegal

- If the animal seems to be hurt
- birds - providing bird feeders. Also it shouldn't be considered feeding if the animal enters the private property and eats gardens, trees and lawns
- Bird feeders
- Allow back yardbird feeders
- For small wildlife (such as rabbits)
- None
- Birds
- Animals needing medical attention
- Bird feeders
- None, we need to respect wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Certain non-pest (pigeons, magpies, etc.) birds
- If there's Starving wildlife
- Allow feeders for birds and butterflies etc
- Feeding birds, squirrels and rabbits should be allowed.
- A bird feeder is completely fine in my opinion.
- Bird feeders would be alright if they're maintained and high enough/out of the way so that deer, etc. couldn't get them.
- Feeding Birds
- None
- Having a bird feeder
- Developmentally challenged people. Squirrel/bird feeders
- Injured or abandoned wildlife
- Unfair treatment of animals should be obeyed on or off private property but feeding would animals within private property should be allowed provided the food is safe and appropriate, including encouraging natural foraging behaviors
- Bears and coyotes
- None
- feeding and teasing are completely different things
- Bird feeders, come on...
- Fines for people who tease these animals
- Bird feeders and watering holes.
- Bird seed is okay. Peanuts for squirrels.
- None
- Stop making stupid rules and dont discriminate against breeds of dogs.
- Deer
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of injured or orphaned wildlife prior to taking it to a proper wildlife rescue facility

- Feeding is ok but no teasing
- Feeding and teasing shouldn't be categorized together. 2 different kinds of people.
- Herbivores
- A pond on private property with ducks
- Bird feeders
- Animals that are hurt and can't survive without care.
- Differentiate feeding Vs teasing
- Birds, squirrels
- If one is hurt for example baby deer needs help
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels rabbits and birds
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- None
- Feeding or taking care of rehabilitated wildlife
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Omit Crows & Song Birds
- What types of wild life are we talking about? There's nothing wrong with feeding squirrels, birds, stray cats etc on ones private property
- Birds and squirrels
- If the animal is injured and requires human intervention for survival
- Fines, jail time for repeat /severe offenses
- Animals which are injured or were previously injured, creating a degree of dependance on people for aid.
- If it is to get back to safety from a hungry animal
- Bird feeders
- I am against teasing of any kind of animal. We have encroached on their homes, we need to learn how to live in harmony.
- Feeding birds in winter
- Seeds to birds and squirrels
- If the animal was hurt/in critical condition and needed the help.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds with bird feeders especially in the winter should be allowed. Sometimes other animals such as rabbits will eat off the ground what is spilled. This should not be in a bylaw prohibiting feeding.
- None we Shiism t mess with wildlife unless they are threatening our safety
- None
- Fine

- Small urban animal feeders, like for birds or squirrels should be allowed.
- Injured wildlife that the person is going to call for help for
- Bird feeders
- Backyard Bird and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Feeding birds
- Feeding in dire circumstances is OK.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of birds, squirrels, etc
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders perhaps
- If the animal was in danger and the feeding/teasing would help protect the animal and prevent it from being harmed.
- Bird feeders
- None. Wild animals belong in the wild hunting their own food.
- bird feeders
- Nuts for squirrels should be ok
- Cannot think of any
- Birds, ducks etc.
- In the case of an injured wild animal, using food as a lure should be allowed. The first option should be to call a professional to handle the situation, but if the situation is serious and the individual feels capable, they should be allowed to use food.
- Birds
- If you are trying to get it off private property
- The animal is in danger and should be rehabilitated (for feeding reasons)
- Bird feeders
- Nuisance animals should be removed
- Obviously the provision of bird feeders and bird "baths." Also the provision of water or food in the case of emergency while awaiting animal services.
- An injured animal can be fed and taken care of
- Bird Feeders
- The animal is injured and needs help.
- Bird houses with bird feed
- Birds
- Bird feeders. Duh.

- An animal that is wounded or unable to survive on its own
- Bird feeders
- If the animal was in distress and someone was caring for it until appropriate authorities arrived
- Bird feeders
- Winter bird feeders.
- Geese ducks etc
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Birdfeeders should still be allowed.
- Injured/orphaned animals
- Nothing. Leave wildlife alone. They shouldn't be fed to encourage them to stay around.
- Wild birds
- Accidental feeding of animals from gardens or pet food
- Birds
- N/a
- Where the city has provided direct approval of that wildlife to be on and kept on private property
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed/exempt
- helping an injured animal
- Bird feeders allowed
- I think people with acreages should be exempt. For example ranchers and farmers leaving oats for mama deers and babies during the winter.
- Bird feeders
- Allowable wildlife is ok, eg chickens
- Bird feeders
- birdhouses/feeders
- Bird feeders for birds (and obviously squirrels, since good luck stopping them using the bird feeders).
- Teasing should definitely be prohibited but I think bird feeding should be okay. It is so important for the well-being of seniors and shut-ins 'cause it gives them some nature to watch..
- Bird feeders. Teasing skunks (just kidding!)
- Feeding birds
- For the first question, people shouldn't be fined for roaming cats if they are already spayed or neutered what harm are they doing by being semi free animals.
- Fines if you do. We should not be encouraging wildlife to come back if they do find themselves on our property
- Fines
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders
- Abandoned young/new borns
- Stray dogs and cats
- Birds should be exempt
- fines, feeding wildlife causes a dependence on humans and usually leads to the animal being hurt or killed
- Bird feeders
- Regular feeding of habituated animals on private land.
- None
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders..
- No exceptions
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Wild bird feeders/non physical engagement feeders. Larger animals (dangerous/provoke them to be killed because they are coming into properties) should be fined.
- No harassment or "teasing" of wildlife anywhere
- For the purpose of trapping or hunting
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Proper feeders like bird feeders, but feeders, etc
- Lost pet who's owner has been contacted and been made aware
- Skunks the city needs to support citizens with this issue
- Exception to bird feeders unless it has negative impact on wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- An injured or ill animal in need of food/care
- injured animals that need to be lured closer in order to get them the assistance/car that they need
- It's not fair for the wildlife who eventually are the ones that have to be put down
- None
- Private wildlife rehab centres.
- Human interaction free feeding devices i.e. Bird Feeders

- None
- Bird feeders.

- Bird feeders
- Bird seed
- Providing birdseed
- bird feeders
- None
- Bird, and squirrel feeders
- Injured animals
- Birds (except pigeons - no feeding pigeons), rabbits
- Salt blocks / salt licks should be allowed, birdseed, rain water
- Bird, squirrel feeders/water
- Injured wildlife requiring food and/or water before a wildlife rescue can take them.
- bird feeders
- Wildlife Rehab Programs
- reasonable discouragement of wildlife to prevent wildlife from settling on private property.
- Somebody defending themselves from an unprovoked attack from an animal.
- Feeding birds
- If someone has already tried to get a hold of animal services on a dying or wounded animal who needs attention and the property owner has had no reception to getting help.
- Feeding for the purpose of trapping and relocating wildlife that have become problematic
- None
- Allowing the safe removal of wildlife or exploring private options for deterring wildlife from homes.
- Bird feeders, honey bee keeping
- Wild animals need to remain wild and feeding them on private property will humanize them.
- Bird feeders, and hummingbird feeders
- Appropriate dietary requirements of reliant animals like geese (not bread)
- Bird feeders/bird baths
- Birds and maybe squirrels.
- People should not be allowed to attract wildlife by putting food for them.
- Feeding isn't a problem. Animals anywhere should not be teased, touched or abused and fines should be in place for this behavior for both wildlife and other animals.
- Bird feeders
- Separate teasing and feeding.
- Birds
- I think bird feeders are ok, and sometimes animals get into food (skunks and raccoons are notorious). But people need to know how to deal with animals live in harmony or learn better ways to dissuade the animals.
- None
- No breed specific bans.
- Birdfeeders

- Exception for birds
- Feeding birds and starving rabbits in winter
- If it is in the animal's best interest.
- Birds
- I would not include small mammals and birds under the prohibition.
- I would exempt birds, squirrels and rabbits from this bylaw. Though if feeding were to be seperated from teasing, i think all teasing should be prohibited, just feeding of those 3 would be ok
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should not be included in the bylaw as they do not typically involve direct contact with the animals
- None. Keep wildlife wild!
- To get the wildlife coached out of a house, shed, garage or car.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, and similar things
- Birdfeeder
- Ill or wounded animals
- Birds. People should be able to have bird feeders or feed ducks particularly on their own property
- Bird feeders in backyards
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- None
- Birds, I think it is important to exempt out bird seed on the ground or in bird feeders.
- Injured wild animal needing medical attention
- Bird feeders, chipmunks, squirrels.
- Birds/Squirrels
- No exceptions. Wildlife are wild. Keep feeding them, they'll keep coming back, endangering themselves and others. If an animal is in distress than you watch them and call it in
- No teasing or hurting but i think bird feeders, water, carrots for rabbits, oats for deer that visit in the winter is Absolutely acceptable. Our wildlife is everything and sometimes food is scarce.
- Don't tease the animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird-feeders
- none
- None
- none
- Bird feeders, and to bait traps to relocate stray/feral animals
- Offer bird seed for kids to feed the ducks, while having information about the different birds there. Feeding squirrels, not such a bad thing. NO HUNTING on private property, unless the landowner allows but does not feed them, thus trapping them.
- Wildlife sanctuaries and bird feeders

- An animal being starved
- Bird feeders, and needing to feed animals in order to catch them for a wildlife facility
- Bird feeders
- No bird feeders cause problems too
- Consider different rules in areas with more wildlife such as communities near Fish Creek & Nose Hill park. Also, I don't think it should be considered "feeding" wildlife if the wildlife is dining on my wife's flowers in the front garden.
- None!
- Bird feeders etc.
- feeding wild birds and keeping bird houses be exempt
- Abandoned baby animals that need to be fed/cared for before passing them to the required authorities
- birds squirrels
- Except when trying to contain an injured animal in need of medical assistance.
- Feeding birds
- If it is a private property where they are in charge of rehabbing wildlife.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- If the person is trying to catch an injured animal to help the animal
- Bird feeders exemption
- None. Wildlife should be left alone.
- Bird feeders
- Birds, rabbits, squirrels, racoons
- Squirrels, birds etc.
- If they are hungry some one has to feed them
- If an animal is injured or abandoned, people should be allowed to save them and rehabilitate them.
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt.
- Bird feeders exempt
- None
- Evidence of neglect of an animal by the owner. Feeding only
- Attempting to help an animal in distress should be exempt from the feeding restriction, provided that the person doing the feeding is in contact with the appropriate wildlife rescue service for guidance and support
- Animals needing food to support further assistance for the animals welfare
- Just because you can afford a power house breed doesn't mean you should own one
- Bird feeders
- Teasing and feeding are really quite far apart? Who comes up with these questions? If you want to feed it, great, no harm should be done. Now, would this include such things as birdfeeders? The question is ridiculous.
- Feeding animals is fine, teasing or harassing wildlife is not

- None, if it is illegal in the park it be the same in your yard
- Equivalent fines.
- Bird feeders or squirrle feeders
- None
- Birds
- An exception for feeding if it appears to be a stray pet and you are trying to get it to safety
- Bird feeders

- None
- Birds, Bees
- none
- Bird feeders are ok, but not from your hand
- Bird feeders or approved methods to deter nuisance wildlife
- Feeding feral cats.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and houses are ok
- None
- None
- Bird feeders
- The feeding of homeless dogs and cats.
- Feeding birds, squirrels
- Song birds
- None
- Bird feeders and fountains
- If the animals looked unhealthy, malnourished, etc. Feeding out of good intentions, would be allowed.
- that the family can adopt that pet, otherwise, it is wild and should be treated as so.
- Maybe a more advertised number of someone to call to remove immediately if there's an issue in a humane way

- Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds.
- Community organizations supporting wildlife. Ex: feeding feral bunnies
- People should still be aloud to feed birds
- None at all
- Bird feeders should be acceptable. Not feeding deer etc.
- If you want to feed wildlife it mush be in a feeder
- Squirrels
- Birds and bird feeders
- Wild birds maybe? Hummingbirds, chickadees, etc.
- Makes no sense why youd allow people to feed wildlife. When people have fed bears the bears get shot ? Pretty unfair and inhumane in my opinion.
- An exception would be small birds and such
- None
- None
- Animal rehabilitation
- Na
- Injured or recovering animals can be fed
- Squirrels
- If an animal is on your property and being a threat or causing damage you should have the right to chase it off.
- Birds
- Various bird feeders
- None
- Feeding birds
- Rabbits, as they are sometimes hard to distinguish between lost pets and feral
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and the like should be allowed
- None
- Feeding wild birds and squirrels
- Wildlife rescue on private property
- Birds/birdhouses/bird feeders, bat houses, anything to do with bees
- Unless feeding is being done in a life/death situation (e.g. giving water), feeding wildlife should be prohibited to discourage human dependency on food sources.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders and baths
- Capture.
- Hunting for survival not for game.

- Birds should be able to be fed. Squirrels are unavoidable if you're feeding birds.
- Feeding if it is food that is safe for the animals. I think bread has been shown to be bad but other countries recommend rice.
- A petting zoo
- None
- Bird feeders in winter
- Squirrels, birds
- None
- To the discretion of the property owner
- Bird feeders should be ok, although they do provide a lovely buffet for mice and voles.
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds, Domestic Chickens
- If the animal is harmed
- If the "teasing" of wildlife is due to aggression on the part of the animal or trying to move the animal off your property.
- People should be allowed to feed animals if they appear to be starving and in need of help.
- I think baiting and killing pests should still be ok. Such as mice, magpies, gophers etc.
- Bird feeders would probably be okay still
- DO NOT PUNISH PITT BULL OWNERS!! DISCRIMINATION!!
- If wildlife seems to be near death due to starvation
- Bird feeders
- If an animal is in distress, be able to offer help until bylaw officers arrive
- Strong fines
- Same as the bylaw for city parks. Keep ot standard for feeding wildlife everywhere.
- Bird feeder
- You can have bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None. Call bylaw if in your yard
- If an animal is handicapped due to an injury an has been human fed
- Sick or injured animals that need help or rescue
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on people's lawns
- Feeding birds.
- $100 fines to start and increase with repeat offenders
- Bird feeders should still be allowed

- Bird feeders
- None, bad behaviour requires consequences, regardless of where it happens.
- None
- There are no exceptions. There's no reason to be feeding or taunting wildlife. If you see wildlife, either let it be or let the proper rescues/sanctuaries/animal care facilities handle it.
- Animals in clear distress. I.e; provide only water or sugar water until animal control arrive.
- Bird feeders
- If the animal was injured and needed food for survival
- None
- Fines for violations
- Teasing should never be allowed, but feeding birds is okay.
- Feeding birds appropriate foods, ex bird seed, not bread
- Allowing bird feeders?
- None
- birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Education
- Bird feeders ofcourse should be okay.
- Birds should be exempt
- Birdfeeders
- Bird houses

- Bird feeders. I think they should be cool with everyone.
- None
- Hefty fines
- Birds & squirrels
- Birds, Squirrels
- feeding wild birds in winter months
- None
- None
- Birdseed
- If injured wildlife is found, to allow feeding / water while calling appropriate authorities to get animals to emergency care / shelter / rehab, if they can be responsibly released to the wild after
- Bird feeders/baths, anything that supports bee survival, activities determined to be helpful or unharmed to wildlife and the ecosystem
- Bird feeders, bat houses
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders maybe
- Zoos, etc

- Visibly starving animal
- None
- Bird feeders
- If wild life is injured and waiting for bylaw, you can provide food and water.
- The bylaw should be focused on the fines for teasing wildlife. Feeding birds and small animals such as squirrels shouldn't be penalized.
- NOT IN THIS PART BUT... NO TO BSL!!!
- properties on the outskirts of the city
- Feeding birds and squirrels are ok
- None
- Wild birds, squirrels, and rabbits for one. Also during cold winters feeding deer isn't a bad idea eitherne!
- Squirrels
- If the animal is injured and needs human intervention
- Mail delivery people who give pets treats.
- No exceptions....
- Feeding wild birds
- Songbirds, obviously.
- birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Rehabilitation of animals found on property
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders!
- Feeding the birds
- the only behaviours that should be targetted are those that have a negative impact on the animal, eg. teasing, abuse, etc. Feeding an animal on private property that doesn't endanger the animal should not be considered an offense.
- Feeding non dangerous animals (such as crows) the proper type of food ie. Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders etc
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Home bird feeders.
- Possibly birdfeeders (though these can attract and effectively feed other wildlife as well....so I'm not sure about this)
- feeding if done by professionals
- Feeding birds.
- None

- feeding allowed if the animal was in distress or immediate danger
- Bird feeders permitted.
- Natural bird foods for domestic birds in bird feeders in the winter.
- An animal in distress
- Bird feeders
- In need animals ie) cubs with lost parents, injured animals etc
- Bird
- When capturing injured wildlife for transport to an accredited wildlife rehabilitation facility.
- Fines for feeding or not having wild life
- Bird feeder exception
- None. If there is a wild animal on your property that is an issue then they should call animal services or something similar to deal with the situation.
- None. Wild animals deserve the same respect on public and private property.
- It should mainly be focused on reducing the teasing and abuse of animals.
- Bird feeders
- Split the bylaw in two. Feeding is ok. Teasing is prohibited.
- None... let's keep it simple
- Feeding of wild birds should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Perhaps a injured animal that requires nutrition but can't get that for themselves (obviously official need to be contacted as well in order to actively rehabilitate the animal)
- None
- Salt licks for deer and bird feeders with seed
- Obviously, we can feed the birds ...
- None
- Would not include birds and other animals that would not be harmed or cause a nuisance to others
- Birds.
- No exceptions- even bird feeders negatively affect areas.
- Exceptions for animals such as birds, squirrels.
- Let animals be and charge neglecting owners or antagonist neighbours!
- Be realistic. Many people feed birds
- Signage and education
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Those supporting wildlife recovery efforts
- I would say wild birds should be exception as they rarely become a nuisance when being fed. Or if feeding stops for some reason.
- None
- Birds or any animal that human feeding does not cause harm to the normal life of the animal

- Bird feeders
- If we ban feeding birds there needs to be serious education about why it actually harms them, otherwise people will definitely break that one and feel it is cruel because they don't understand.
- Allow chickens
- Injured animals - I think feeding a recovering animal before releasing it should be ok. But teasing and luring should never be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Injured wildlife who cannot move freely and/or are waiting to be helped by Animal Services/wildlife specialists
- Just, no.
- none
- Birds and Squirrels should be exempt
- Helping Feral Domestic Rabbits (as well as more support for rescue)
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders, and water left out for the animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- When there is immediate danger to a family member or pet.
- None
- Birds
- If the wild animal is found in a situation (like malnutrition or dehydrated) and requires assistance
- A child doing it
- Squirrels and birds should be exempt. Old people and kids like bird feeders etc.
- None
- Feeding squirrels and birds (bird feeders)
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders/baths/houses
- changing the bylaw to state no feeding or teasing of wildlife. period. regardless of location.
- Ensure the wording won't prevent people from chasing said wildlife off the property
- None
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, assistance of injured animals.
- Bird Feeders/Birds
- Small birds being fed in a feeder that can't be used by geese or large mammals.
- Feeding birds in clean well maintained feeders
- What about Bird feeders? Need to account for this. Also need to make exception for nuisance wildlife on property.
- Petting zoo

- If the animal was endanger or needed something for survival until the proper resources were contacted
- Allow feeding, prohibit teasing.
- Bird feeder, bird baths, bee houses. Prohibit feeding/teasing large mammals - coyotes, bobcats, fox, etc.
- Small scale or minimally impacting things like bird feeders, or if people want to feed small wildlife like squirrels or chipmunks, so long as it doesn't attract things like deer, skunks, or larger predators
- Birds and squirrels
- Deterrence of pests, such as magpies
- None, leave wildlife alone always.
- Injured animals
- Not sure
- Birds and the placement of bird feeders
- Taking measures to help get rid of skunks, birds that attack, etc
- Birds
- Teasing is absolutely unacceptable. However I feel it is okay to leave out birdseed, etc. in your own backyard without harm
- Bird feeders
- A friend or someone helping or being harmless to the animal, themselves, and the property. No loitering.
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Take away private land ownership from people who are not keeping to best practices in regard to wildlife/strays
- Bird feeders provided there aren't cats living on the property
- Except cats/birds . However people should stop feeding squirrels.
- Birds
- Clearly injured wild animals
- If the animal will die without food and property owner chooses to care for it
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders should still be ok
- None
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing any wildlife is horrible and should be fined. But I think birdfeeders are okay.
- Bird feeders should be an exception. Leaving poisoned or otherwise tampered good for wildlife should have extra penalties.
- Possibly bird feeders
- None

- None
- Bird feeders
- Duck ponds or approved locations
- Warning first
- Sustainable and healthy food provision like a bird feeder with nuts/seeds.
- Birds
- Birds/squirrels
- Frequent visitors
- if they are attempting to trap/catch the animal (feeding is a way of building trust and making it easier to trap)
- Birds and squirrels
- Feeding feral cat colonies
- Bird feeders
- None
- Wasp nests
- Exception would be birds.
- Wounded animals, baby animals.
- Nuisance birds causing destruction of property, mice
- I think bird feeding should be an exception
- No exceptions!! Call animal services if you think the animal is in need of food.
- Bird feeders
- gophers damaging property
- Wild birds
- Bird feeders
- None. Just don't do it.
- None
- N/a
- If the animal is injured
- None
- Bird feeders or if an animal is obviously starving before calling to get the animal the care it requires
- Bird feeders should be permitted as well as watering spots for neighbouring dogs on walks, etc
- Injured animal, in that case contact proper animal care services.
- But I think then there also needs to be more support for people when wildlife is on their property (like skunks etc).
- Bird feeding could be allowed
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders in the urban centre should be allowed, but for developments beside wildlife corridors there should be no feeding at all to ensure other wildlife is not habituated.

- Injured animals
- If an animal was in need of help
- Exceptions to birds /squirrels -seeds allowed
- Sick and injured and waiting for fish and wild life
- Saving animals in need is permitted
- Rodents
- If the person feeding the animal is under the age of 12 or has mental health issues that makes it difficult for them to understand the consequences of feeding/teasing wildlife
- Accidental feeding ie wildlife raiding bird feeders should be an exception but willfull feeding of wildlife should be discouraged. Harassment/ teasing should have no exceptions.
- None
- Let the old folks keep their bird feeders
- Exceptions to put out bird/squirrel feeders. Allowance of shoo-ing for animals behaving as pests (ex: rabbits eating plants)
- None
- You can do things to deter wildlife from wanting to be on your property.
- Just deer tbh like no feeding deer I mean
- No teasing. No feeding larger mammals
- Bird feeders
- A fine
- No exceptions, if anything make the fines larger on private property.
- I think feeding animals on private property is okay. There are lots of bird feeders and people that help stray animals before they can be captured. I believe that teasing is an issue.
- Birds
- I think bird feeding is ok but no reading whatsoever
- Feeding birds, squirrels, strays, (small animals) PROPER food when they are on private property. For example, bird feeders (with proper seed), nuts left on your lawn for squirrels, feeding an injured animal or animal in need of nourishment, etc.
- Bird feeders and similar items for small animals

- Only Owner of property can give permission

- Bird feeders
- Caring for an injured or orphaned animal while waiting for wildlife officials to take the animal into safety
- Exceptions for bird feeders and similar things.
- Bait for Trapping Problem animals
- Backyard birdfeeders
- Birds can be fed via birdfeeders.
- Only on commercial private land should this be enforced. Not reasonable or ethical to do at peoples homes.
- Feeding an injured animal until the proper authorities/rescues can get involved.
- None
- Birds and stuff like that are probably fine, cause they won't cause potentially dangerous situations
- Ducks
- Only if/as instructed by bylaw, f&w, etc.
- Pests on properly (skunks)
- Bird feeders
- If the person in question was trying to remove the animal from the property in such a way
- winter bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Rabbits
- feeding birds
- There should be a bylaw against testing, but not necessarily feeding
- Bird feeders in winter
- None
- Feeding wildlife on your property may be appropriate if it is the proper food/diet for the animal and if is not causing pests/dangerous animals to frequently visit these areas
- Fines.
- Follow Federal wildlife regulations prohibiting the harassment of wildlife.
- none
- None
- Feeding areas allowed
- No exceptions, wildlife are starting to draw closer into communities and there needs to be a penalty for ignorance and potential harm to wildlife
- Birds and squirrels
- there needs to be harm if we are to call foul though - the rules need to specific and not generic
- Bird feeders
- Those intentionally clearly drawing in wildlife should be charged on private property
- Traditional bird feeders as long as the food is of nutritional value.

- Bird feeding
- Leave wild life alone. If a wild animal is in distress or Injured people should contact fish and wild life instead of potentially causing more harm to the animal by trying to feed them or take care of them
- None
- Bird feeders
- On a person's property.
- None
- Birds
- Fine
- None do not feed the wildlife
- Feeding birds
- Birds - seeds only
- None.
- Farms and acreages
- Depends what wildlife.
- Banned from parks for 7 days
- Unsure at this time. Perhaps ducks, geese and rabbits; however, that can be problematic too.
- Fines or an animal education service.
- Feeding to save their life
- Abandoned baby animals
- Make sure things like bird feeder and etc are not included
- If an animal is straving and you can tell feed it.
- In more outskirts neighborhoods, have more rules around bird feeders, as they do attract other wildlife as well, including deer, bears etc. Where it has been proven that those wildlife do go into those particular areas.
- Feeding wildlife should be issued a warning followed by a fine of continued
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is hurt or requires medical attention
- Small birds and squirrels
- Bird feeding
- Leaving appropriate food out, such as apples for the deer
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders of reasonable size
- Bird Feeders
- I would say bird feeders and squirrel feeders should still be allowed.
- Feeding small animals squirrels on your own property such as squirrels/birds/ect
- Bird feeders
- None
- Large fine maybe jail

- Bird Feeders
- Injured animals, while waiting for a wildlife officer to come to
- STILL ALLOW BIRD FEEDERS
- None
- Teasing and feeding, in part, could be up to the owner's discretion. If they allow a certain 'type' then so be it
- Exempt typical domestic animals like cats and dogs
- Birds
- birds
- Prevent feeding of wildlife in general.
- When the animal looks sickly. Feed and contact wildlife support or animal control
- Bird feeding
- Hurt animals
- Bird feeders
- I would make an exception to any homes that are in the country and outside the city limits.
- Feeding the ducks was something I always did as I was younger and despite my ignorance on ducks dietary needs I feel it would be nice to continue.
- none in writing-exceptions can be made in the moment using logic if warranted.
- With the exception of birds
- Animals in distress should be able to be fed
- Actually enforcing it, Fines etc
- None
- Deterring wild animals for your yard
- Birdfeeders etc
- Bird feeders should still be allowed.
- Extreme weather conditions, drought, other unpredicted environmental conditions like oil spills, etc what would prevent from natural feeding
- Bird feeders need to be allowed
- Signs stating specific wildlife
- Birds, strays, bees
- bird seed
- nuisance pests
- Bird/squirrel feeders. Birdbaths. Flowers for bumblebees.
- No exceptions. Wildlife should not be allowed to depend on humans for food.
- Sick and injured that the vets won't help.
- Bird feeders
- None

- Feeding is fine as long as it's animal grade and teasing should never be allowed anywhere. On private property many home owners have deer that return yearly that they feed and no harm is done to anyone.
- birds
- Birds & bees. Putting out bird feeders & pollinator water stations shouldn't be against bylaws.
- Wild Birds
- Bird feeders or feeding of wild animals on your property.
- Birds
- Feeding birds
- Maybe in times of extreme weather (blizzards, droughts) where the animals could not survive without help.
- Bird feeders
- Pests. Allow trapping/killing (skunks)
- Birdseed and suet for songbirds only. No peanuts for squirrels, too many allergies and nuisance of digging squirrels in garden beds.
- Feeding birds proper food and educating those feeding them the wrong food
- birds should be exempt
- Feeding to lure wildlife only if it is a danger to the occupants of the property (occupants being people and animals)
- Injuries or abandonment
- Education to business and home owners that wild life don't follow our rules and need to be better respected. Limits shooting and ends rce relocation for dangerous animals (bears, cougars, lynx) and fine people for feeding or unnecessary interaction.
- Feeding should still be allowed. Don't ban bird feeders.
- Feeding without human contact for threatened species that are in danger
- Bird baths, bird seed
- Animals near death
- Mentally challenged individuals
- A sick or injured animal
- None
- Excluding those ACTUALLY helping injured wildlife, unlike out wildlife and ramp officers who just shoot them.
- Bird feeder or if an animal eats straight from a fruit tree
- Na
- bird feeders - neighbours ground feed which attracts mice and we are over run with rodents in our yard and house because of the ground feeding
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- Seagulls and Canadian geese being chased out of parking lots
- wild bird feeders

- In the case where the animal is in a health emergency situation and then require proper experienced people be called in to assist
- Bird feeders fitted with squirrel protection
- If the animals was desperate and in need of emergency food/fluids.
- None
- Bird feeder
- Feeding birds
- Properly cleaned bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders and garden plants that attract wildlife
- Scaring away wild life from property
- Bird seed
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders etc
- I think bird feeders should still be allowed because a lot of birds are dependent on help from humans, seeing as we keep destroying more of their habitat for development
- The animal is injured/ orphaned and needs assistance.
- bird seed feeders
- None
- Exception would be feeding birds - both on private property and in City Parks.
- In extreme heat providing water to wild life
- Feeding birds sunflower seeds during winter season when food is scarce.
- Birds
- Trying to lure the animal with food to take it to a vet if medical aid is needed
- Bird feeders?
- Birdfeeders
- Luring out pests example, skunk away from property
- Peanuts for squirrels, bird seed for bird feeders. Any feeding of larger wildlife should be considered based on the potential for harmful interaction. Example: coyote, wolf, bobcat and lynx populations can be more harmful to children and pets.
- Important that there is a distinction for semi-domesticated scavengers who benefit greatly from being fed by humans.
- If the wild animal is aggressive when NOT provoked?
- Petting zoos
- Should only apply to large mammals. Birds and squirrels and whatever are fine.
- If the animal was in mortal distress (starving, injured), and not a predator like coyotes, bobcats, bears etc, I don't believe someone should have punishment for feeding an animal they believed would die otherwise

- Abandoned young
- Fines for those caught
- Sick animals that require assistance/waiting for assistance from city to transfer?
- Orphans, and rehabilitating wildlife. Rescues are almost always full and sometimes need the guided help
- Bird feeders properly set up to prevent squirrels
- The erlton bunnies can be fed
- Birds, squirrels, etc.
- Small children
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Injured or ill wildlife
- Birds
- Jail time or fines for teasing or feeding wildlife
- Authorized individuals/companies available to humanely trap and euthanize pest animals at the request of the private land owner subject to existing wildlife legislation.
- If animal is injured and experts suggest doing so to save an animal but must work to not acclimate the animal to humans.
- As beautiful as song birds are, feeding them attracts pests like magpies and squirrels. No exceptions.
- I would support a bylaw prohibiting teasing but not one prohibiting feeding. Individuals should be able to put out bird feeders as they please, especially in the winter when food types for specific species are limited in urban areas.
- None.
- Cats and dogs
- Birds - Squirrels
- I wonder if this includes bird feeders... that would be an exception I'd suggest.
- Small animals like birds, squirrels etc.
- None
- Bait for the purposes of humanely trapping/killing rodents.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- I believe bird feeders as well as basic wildlife rehabilitation, like putting a bit of food out for an injured squirrel, shouldn't be forbidden. However, actions that can be seen as damaging to the animal, like teasing, should be prohibited.
- Chasing wildlife off your property
- Teasing needs to be more defined and specific
- To support rehabilitation of an injured animal

- Animals should be able to feed naturally, of course birds and small animals should still be allowed feeders as well.
- If it is a sanctuary for animals, they should be fed
- Squirrels are allowed to be fed peanuts
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals with vet instructions
- None
- No exceptions. It's poor for the ecosystem
- Trying to get wildlife off your property to protect yards or pets.
- Injured, but only if they have been interested by bylaw to get involved
- Bird feeders
- An obviously injured animal while waiting to fish and wildlife
- Strays, feral and semi-feral cats and dogs are not wildlife!
- Bird feeders
- No other exceptions, I all ready thought it was a bylaw
- Don't ban bully breeds. They deserve as much freedom as any other breed.
- One would hope bird feeding/feeders would be exempt
- Birds
- in case of injury of the animal requiring intervention
- bird feeders
- What about birdfeeders?
- I think there should be a bylaw RE: teasing, but not feeding
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- This should be applicable mostly to large wildlife such as bears.
- Farms
- Birdfeeders, hummingbird feeders, etc.
- Injured Animal
- Not allowed to feed any wild animals including non native species of birds/pests
- Birds + squirrels
- Lure away from property
- None
- When geese attack.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders?
- bird feeders
- People should still be able to feed the birds.
- Bird feeders,

- If it is injured
- Petting zoo
- Bird feeders
- Feeding
- None
- Birds
- Allow feeding of wild birds
- Except in the case the animal is destroying property. Digging holes, tearing up plants, etc. Although... don't feed the animals to avoid this.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Not only on private property!
- Na
- No contact bylaw for large animals such as deer.
- None, wildlife needs to be left alone so as to avoid problematic interactions.
- Birds
- Squirrels
- None
- I don't have a problem with feeding wildlife on private property, but I certainly think teasing falls under animal cruelty.
- Birdseed
- Magpies
- Bird Feeders. (Less of a nuisance than other wildlife)
- Feeding birds and squirrels on your own property..
- Bird feeders/baths and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Trying to trap a nuisance animal for relocation.
- Specific locations that permit this
- None
- Allowing a property owner to 'shoo' away wildlife off their property. Exempt would be creatures that natural dwell there, such as squirrels, rabbits, birds, etc.
- Bird seed.
- Injured animal
- Allowed to feed birds
- Birds are considered wildlife. What about bird feeders being exempt ?
- However on acreages and farms just out of city I think it would be okay.
- If it happens to be in self defence
- None, it should not be done to wild animals.

- If a person is a licensed wildlife rehab we, that's ok. If not, they should leave it alone & call a rehabber.
- Feeding birds
- Accidental feeding. Deer eating out of bird feeders and the like
- Feeding birds in winter should not be prohibited. Teasing any wildlife should be illegal.
- Allow feeding.
- bird feeders and flowers that attract bees and butterflies
- Feeding birds/squirrels exempt. Focus on prohibiting feeding wildlife to any wildlife where encouraging their presence would pose increased risk to public such as deer being a danger to drivers
- Deers
- Deer eating your grass or bird feeder seeds or squirrel nuts should be excluded.. If food is not given directly to wildlife it should not be considered feeding.
- Allow bird feeders
- Injured or potentially abandoned baby animals
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions for feeding animals e.g., bird feeders
- Feeding birds with bird feeders should be allowed
- Feeding should be allowed if an animal is hurt and someone was given directions by a wildlife centre
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- An injured/abandoned baby animal
- Feeding avian species
- If wounded hurt or simply lost , common sense situations
- feeding wild birds and small animals that frequent bird feeders
- None the harrassment if wildlife is a violation of the provincial Wildlife Act. Regardless who's land it's on
- None
- Bird feeders only. We had a neighbor who would feed squirrels and in turn the neighbours squirrels ruined my flowers every year.
- Birdfeeders, etc
- Bird seeds. The teasing part but maybe not the feeding part
- No teasing but allow feeding (eg. Birds)
- Wild bird feeders should be permitted between November and March each year (when our cold winters can make food scarce). Feeders should be removed in off season.
- Should apply to not teasing pets as well
- None
- Bird or squirrel feeders

- Bird feeders. Also what does teasing mean? there should be a bylaw stopping kids from being a nuisance and terrorizing our pets. If there is wildlife on our property causing damage or posing a threat to our pets\home\family, we should be able to protect
- Humane consideration would need to be made regarding how to deal with animals that have become accustomed to being fed.
- I would make an inclusion for people in neighborhoods feeding squirrels and other rodents
- n/a
- My exceptions to prohibiting feeding and teasing would be feeding cats and dogs. And of course birds/squirrels with bird feeders.
- If the dog/cat has a collar and looks like they are lost they should be allowed to feed the animal to get them to come to them. ONLY if they are lost
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- If people are trying to help a wild animal due to certain circumstances such as the animal needing rescue
- Bird seed for birds
- Wildlife on roofs, making nests and destroying property
- Injured or baby animals
- bird feeders
- Birds/rabbits/squirrels
- Birds, squirrels etc. cause they like to eat from bird feeders.
- Prohibit feeding of wildlife with the exception of birds and peacefully/harmlessly deterring wildlife from private property (ex deterring deer from eating your garden)
- No exceptions
- Feeders are okay, the teasing is not
- Domesticated wild ducks
- exceptions for people taking care of feral cat colonies, and for standalone feeders the meet certain criteria and are holding appropriate food. Maybe a blanket exception for bird seed?
- If wild animal life depends in feeding by persons, e.g. Weak or injured animals
- Specialists or animals that live exclusively on property and cannot leave
- Abandoned baby
- Don't worry about birds/squirrels unless neighbors object
- Feeding birds in the winter months
- Birds Bees
- Any birdfeeders/contraption should be legal
- Bird feeders
- Injured wildlife while waiting for conservation officers
- Bird feeders
- If trying to lead animal off property for safety purposes.
- Bird feeders

- None
- if the animal is hurt and needs food while waiting for wildlife officials to remove it, people should be allowed to feed it an appropriate food.
- Squirrels and birds - many have feeders out to attract them and I feel these should be allowed
- If there is an injured animal that can not get immediate help by wildlife conservationists
- None
- With the exception of bird feeders
- Depends on the animal its it's a deer or bear then I would say avoid them if possible...feeding bears is dangerous for the person and often results in a bear being put down.
- Bird feeders, salt or mineral licks
- If they are fostering wildlife through some sort of rescue?
- Sick and or mean animal
- Starving or injured animals that need some assistance.
- Bird Feeders
- If squirrels are getting to bird feeders then it would be unfair to punish the homeowner
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be an exception.
- If the person can prove that feeding the animal is not causing adverse effects - like attracting large predatory animals vs stray cats
- Except feeding birds and squirrels
- Rural property exception, To respect hunters rights.
- Proper feed should be exempt as it is expensive to care for animals. And if keeping the wildlife Healthy is a goal they want to pay for then good on them.
- Bird feeders
- When wildlife eat garden produce/floria the owner should not be fined.
- Is the city suggesting no feeding of birds or squirrels on private property. If yes, I oppose this. I do not see an issue with feeding the birds or squirrels.
- Bird feeders, taking in/feeding stray cats and dogs and other animals that need help.
- Bird feeders ok if the food inside feeder is within normal diet of animal
- Bird feeders
- None
- That should be left to the experts.
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wildlife is fine as long as you are no causing harm to the animals
- Birds
- Squirrels, bird feeders okay
- None, people need to leave the wildlife alone.
- Bird feeders allowed.

- Birds
- none
- Feeding wild animals appropriate food on acreages located in city limits for observation reasons.
- None
- None
- N/A
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding
- If the feeding somehow increases the safety of any humans. i.e. Lure away the wildlife
- Unless it was used to LEGALLY trap a wild animal to relocate it to the proper area.
- pollinators, eg humming birds
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- So many of our condo members feed wildlife like squirrels birds and gophers
- I think there should be better rules implemented and clearer guide lines, I do not think a goose should be chased after but I do think it is appropriate to feed them.
- Bird and humming bird exceptions
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Feeding squirrels and birds on property where you are the home owner. The rabbits being fed at the cemetery in my opinion is outrageous and totally contributing to the coyote problem!
- using food as a lure to assist an animal in distress
- Except in cases where the animal is being rehabilitated.
- Feeding birds
- Injured animals, abandoned babies
- I would recommend up to the pet owner/property owner if charges are to be laid
- Birdfeeders
- I think teasing should be prohibited on private property, though feeding may be more lenient/ not fully prohibited (eg. Bird feeders/ houses)
- Feeding if the animal looks to be in danger of some kind (ie. abandoned fawn, no mother in sight)
- Birds
- N/a
- None
- Cameras
- None
- Fines
- Scraps for birds
- Pest control (mice)
- Birds
- Having bird feeders on private property.

- Birds
- Feeding birds, squirrels.
- None
- Birds
- I'm not against feeding but teasing or abuse.
- None, once you start feeding wildlife you take the wild out of their lives, and no one should tease any animal wild or otherwise.
- Hummingbird feeders in safe locations without cats
- Birds/bird feeders
- Nothing breed specific for dogs
- Wild birds would be the only exception as we have a variety of birds the do not migrate and our winters at time do get cold and sometime thereis not enough food for them
- Feeding injured/sick animals
- Injured animals
- Feeding birds
- None
- Feed the animal if it's only to save it from harm while animal control gets to the scene
- Feeding squirrels is fine
- Birds and bird feeders.
- bird and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Obviously bird feeders and large water troughs should be exempt.
- Birdfeeders. Essentially, I support a prohibition on teasing, not one on feeding.
- Bird feeders.
- If the animal looks neglected (for feeding on private property)
- Bird feeders
- This refers to larger wildlife, like Coyotes and deer. Birdfeeders are nice.
- Rescuuing ir rehabbing animals found on property. Taking care of absndoned newborn wild animals.
- i would draw the line at small animals such as squirrels and smaller...but discourage feeding wild rabbits and larger
- Bird feeders are ok.
- Bird feeders. Bird baths.
- Squierells and birds in personal property.
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Feeding an animal who is hungry/has no food water
- If the animal was in need of care or assistance or needed to be lured for its safety
- Stray dog or cat

- Bird feeders
- None
- If the wildlife is injured or starved When person find it then till proper support (humane society/ below agents) comes person could feed wildlife to keep them alive
- Stray Cats/Dogs
- Birds
- None. Bird feeders should be banned. They create a dependance scenario for wildlife, and in addition cause a proliferation of invasive, non-native plant species from germinated seeds.
- fines for anyone caught feeding wildlife.
- Starving
- Bird feeding
- Feeding birds (sunflower seed mix or native seed mix only)
- N.A
- Except birds
- Bird baths, bee nest-boxes, bat/bird boxes,
- If it was necessary to help the animal for whatever reason
- Bird seed
- Visibly hurt or sick animals
- Birds and bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels.
- I would advise to be lenient with children and teenagers and educate rather than punish
- Probably song birds.
- Bird feeders set up to only be accessible for birds
- if the animal leaves in better or the same condition it was in before
- None
- Bird feeders are great!
- Bird feeders
- The city need to take responsibility I how much wildlife is in the city. Perhaps culling or relocation for safety
- Any animal in clear distress that needs water or food before help comes.
- Fines
- I would make certified wildlife rehabilitators exempt from this bylaw.
- The only possible suggestion is if you are nursing a sick or injured animal and your working under the guidance of Fish and wildlife or a vet
- No suggestions if humans are bugging wildlife when we are the ones invading their space then humans should be fined.
- bird & bat feeders
- If an animal appears injured and needs rescuing.
- Teasing only ..

- Feeding squirrels ect in yard
- Why should their be an exception to teasing anything?
- Na
- Bird seed feeders
- Birds
- It's never alright to tease/harass animals. That should be heavily fined.
- None
- I do not think individuals should be fined for leaving out carrot peelings etc on their own property for rabbits. It keeps them from eating city funded flower beds and community gardens.
- n/a
- Bird feeders
- Birds, small animals such as gophers or rabbits (to feed, not tease) as these will not become dangerous to humans if they get used to human contact I
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- If your feeding appropriate foods that are not bad for the health of the animals. Ex. Ducks and bread. Its bad for them.
- Better response in removing wildlife from property when reported to prevent any contact.
- Bird feeders
- If the animal looks malnourished
- Warning for first time offence
- Fine
- Teasing and feeding are 2 different things. Personally I don't want wildlife in my yard but for some with bird feeders etc maybe that could be the exception
- Bird feeders
- Still allow bird feeders and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Feeding birds, squirrels and the like I think it pretty harmless
- We should be able to feed birds appropriate feed.
- None
- I would suggest the city not plan anything to deter wildlife in the urban areas at all unless absolutely necessary. I would support bylaws for any and all people, whether on public or private property, be fined for feeding/trapping/killing/etc. wildlife
- If they are injured, or without parents/caregivers. Then itâ€™s morally appropriate to feed wild life.
- Sick animals, babies without mothers, abandoned animals.
- Birds should be allowed to be fed
- Feeding various bird species appropriate kinds of food

- Na
- No exceptions.
- Bird feeders
- We should still be allowed to feed birds (bird feeders) on private property.
- Putting out water
- Harsh winters
- None
- Bird feeders should definitely still be allowed
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds that can fly to bird feeders.
- I dont think feeding wildlife is a big problem. Teasing the wildlife with food can definatly be a potential problem an animal could get angry and attack.
- Where proper wildfowl feed is dispensed for a fee to feed ducks/ geese, say at Prince's Island
- no exceptions
- N/A
- Injured animals or baby animals alone
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels, chipmunks
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- Unless advised otherwise by Parks and Wildlife or the City of Calgary... whoever oversees this.
- Birdseed should be allowed
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Rehabilitation in the event the wildlife centres are full
- Animals on private property that have been injured and require food and water before wildlife services is able to arrive. Also bird feeders aren't an issue in my opinion.
- Bird feeders should be allowed. But feeding wild mammals should be not be allowed
- None
- If a private property is being used as a registered rehabilitation site then feeding Should be ok, teasing however should never be allowed.
- Squirrels and birds
- If an animal is found injured, immediately trying to help may be reasonable. Otherwise people should keep their hands off entirely.
- Bylaws prohibiting feeding animals opens the door for charges on people caring for abandoned animals/stray animals if the animal is located on private property. This should be an exception.
- Squirrels, birds - small animals that are all over the place anyway and harmless.

- Feeding birds
- None...guillotine for anyone caught messing with wildlife
- Feeding birds/ducks, squirrels/chipmunks
- Bird feeders/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Exception would be bird feeders
- Bird feeders, local flora which may entice fauna to come for a snack, I.e. Indigenous berry plants etc., home based gardens
- bird feeders, hummingbird feeders
- Bird Houses
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Large animals such as deer and moose that stray into yard should not be harassed. But pigeons, magpies, mice, squirrels shouldn't results in fines.
- Bird feeders
- None. Even wild animals and pests should be treated humanely.
- Similar fines as seen in City Parks
- Exceptions would be to help an animal in danger
- Bird feeders should be exempt if filled with bird seed.
- None because feeding wildlife will keep them coming back into the city for food.
- Birds
- Feeding dogs or cats safe foods
- Song bird feeders, pollinator bees
- Squirrel and bird feeders
- bird feeders
- possibly feeding wildlife that are injured and needing help
- Rabbits why can't we feed rabbits they harm no one and baby birds
- Feeding birds and squirrels is ok, but teasing any animal should be prohibited.
- Bird Feeders should still be allowed
- Injured/sick animals, feeding birds bird seeds,
- proper feeding guidelines for birds
- bird feeders
- If an animal is in distress and is in need of food and/or water for survival purposes. Otherwise no exceptions.
- Bird feeders
- BSL is unacceptable and not a solution. A disgusting proposal by the city.
- Saving an animal
- I hope bird feeders would not be included
- I would prohibit teasing. Many seniors and housebound people enjoy watching their bird feeders, and most use proper bird feed, so I see no harm in allowing proper feeding by the property owner

- Bird feeders wouldn't be a problem
- None
- I would suggest an expensive fine
- Bird feeders exempt and providing water during the hotter summer days
- feeding or caring for an injured animal on property
- None
- Birdfeeders should be ok
- Aiding an injured animal until appropriate authority can come.
- I don't think bird feeders or any feeder that gives the animal the option to feed or not and is responsibly maintained and stocked with appropriate feed.
- Bait for Humane trapping for landowners or wildlife rescue.
- Fines starting at $125 and will go up $100 every other time the commit offense
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders okay, accidental feeding (i.e. crabapple trees attract coyotes) okay too
- Bird feeders are ok
- Bird feeders
- Bird Feeders
- No exceptions.
- Wild birds
- Continue feeding wild birds
- Birds, squirrels. This should only apply to large and uncommon animals. Ex. Deer, skunks, etc.
- Bird feeders
- An animal that is obviously malnourished, perhaps.
- None
- None
- Bird feeding acceptable with no physical handling by humans.
- If a baby was stranded or the animal was injured.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, as long as they are being kept clean so that spilled seed doesn't attract other animals
- Bird feeders
- Wounded animals (ie. water or small amounts of food given to an animal in clear distress)
- Leaving food out for your own pet
- Bird seed feeders
- Except songbirds
- bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Feeding an animal in distress or helping an animal should be exempt
- Bird feeders
- Feeding chocolate cake to grizzly bears

- none
- If the animal is injured or emaciated, and they're waiting for a rescue to recover it
- Devices that support biodiversity such as specialized bird feeders, bat boxes etc
- Bird, squirrel, chipmunk, and other small animal feeders should be acceptable
- I do not take issue with feeding provided the food is not harmful to the animal. However, animals should never be tested.
- If the animal is injured and requires care (Feeding) until an officer can arrive.
- Squirrel/bird feeders should be allowed but any direct contact with wildlife should be prohibited. Also, there should be no bowls of food left out to attract wildlife.
- Pigeons/ song bird
- None
- Bird feeders/any appropriate means of supporting wildlife.
- none
- When and if wildlife are on private property that can not be transferred to a rehabilitation center or relocated, and rely on food.
- Birds and bird feeders. Only hand to mouth feeding should be banned or fined.
- Wild birds/ vulnerable species
- Birds, animals that appear to be in distress
- Unless animal is injured and needs care and wild birds
- Birds, squirrels.
- Injured wildlife
- Injured animals
- proper bird feeders on your own property
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is being kept as a pet
- Birds
- Bird seed
- None
- Bird feeders etc
- Animals in distress
- If they are trying to remove wildlife from the property because its a danger to children / parents etc.
- None.
- No exceptions
- Allow residents to euthanize feral rabbits on property or have trapping system similar to cats.
- Allowance for the ability to non-violently run off wildlife that is damaging property (EG. Shoo rabbits and deer that are eating plants).
- None
- Only in the case of wildlife rehabilitation.

- Breed specific legislation is wrong and uneducated
- If it looks to be a starving house kept animal that escaped. One should be allowed to catch by means of coaxing with food so one can take them to a vet hospital or the proper place for a lost pet.
- Acreage land clear definition between outdoor feeding of domestic animals vs wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Injuries the animals may have, or abandoned babies
- None
- When doing so ensures persons safety
- Bird feeders
- Must be specific about what animals are being considered as wildlife. A squirrel and a deer can't be treated the same
- Bird feeders should be allowed in private yards.
- If an animal requires assistance while waiting for medical/removal help (like skunks trapped in a window well)
- Birds, squirrels or When an animal needs to be rescued
- None.
- Exceptions for birds (birdfeeders, etc)
- Obviously harmless and helpful feeding of wildlife, such as having bird feeders. I don't see an issue with feeding any non-predatory, non-destructive wild animals.
- Dogs and cats
- To draw out and capture
- if it is a domestic breed (ie. dog or cat). if its truly a wild animal (ie. hare, coyote, skunk, etc.) there should be charges
- Bird feeders
- Certain Birds
- within the city of calgary i don't see many reason for exception with wild animals, i fear that people with more exocit pets like raccoons or certain dog species though may be mistaken for certain wild animals.
- Racoons, mice, rats
- None
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Song birds, squirrels
- More clarification on teasing, if someone is feeding wildlife on their property and it is not harming the animal I do t see an issue.
- none - the rabbits in this area are outnumbering the a-holes who feed them.
- Stray cat dogs
- Exceptions should be made for birdfeeding, particularly in the winter months (including squirrels and other wildlife who may access feeders). There should also be safe harbour conditions for improved wildlife habitat.

- No exceptions-wildlife are not pets and to remain wild should not be fed and watered to encourage them to return every day and should be fined.
- The only except should be if there is injured wildlife on your property and you have been instructed to feed it by professionals.
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders or squirrel feeders would be totally fine
- Birds feeders where squirrels may be active.
- Feeding birds at a pond
- None
- There should be an exception of someone is providing care to an injured or sick wild animal.
- Dependant on size of property/distance from city center
- Teasing and killing and any kind of abuse should be punishable by law. Feeding is fine for smaller animals in my opinion as long as food is safe for the animal.
- Feeding birds on private property
- A phone number to call with concerns
- Birds
- Herbivores (ie birds and small mammals like squirrels) be exempt.
- I think bird feeders should still be allowed
- Feeding a bird or a squirrel, silly crap like that deserves no fine, use logic and common sense.
- Bird (bird feeders, etc)
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders and things like that.
- I would support a bylaw against teasing, but not feeding.
- Bird feeders
- Anyone who's participating in a TNR program.
- When wildlife was injured or in dangerous medical situation and you need to feed them to bring to vets.
- people should be able to feed the birds.
- Feeding shouldn't be a issue as long as it is okay for the animal to eat. But no animals should have to put up with teasing.
- Unless their being trapped and moved for their own safety, people should not feed wildlife
- Bird feeders, bird baths, allowing animals to eat from garden
- Wildlife would have to be very specifically defined, as squirrels and birds can also fall into that category
- If feeding feral cat to try and rescue
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- None, people shouldn't even be feeding birds--it causes all kinds of problems and mess

- Only baiting to capture and releasing out of city limits. Fish and wildlife authorities must be involved
- Trying to scare it out of yard
- Birds
- No exceptions- any wildlife should be left alone. We built on their homes, can't expect them to stay away from ours.
- Where a report has been made about an injured animal and awaiting for a rescue sanctuary to pick up allow it to be feed until then
- Bird feeders obviously
- Raised bird feeders
- Large fines for households feeding wild life on private land.
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Helping an animal that is in danger, even if it may cause distress to the animal during the rescue.
- Garbage diving wildlife
- Birds
- Bird and squirrel food that is properly meant for them
- Bird feeders and other non human interaction feeding should be okay
- Feeding birds and squirrels with appropriate feeders should be allowed.
- I think helping an injured animal get appropriate care, (as in a wildlife vet or someone experienced with it). Leaving birdseed seems fine.
- Birdhouses (birdseed), possibly squirrels
- Bird/squirrel feeders are okay
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Areas specifically designed for wildlife feeding. Eg. duck feeding ponds
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- fines for offenses
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- Unless it's a rehab program no one should be feeding wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- birdfeeders
- Elevated/ tree hung bird feeders
- Warning first time. 2 offence fine 10000 because if endangers animals lives. They get habituated. to
- None
- None
- None
- Wintertime feeding if necessary
- Bird feeders

- If an animal is injured, in need of care, the person is able and officials are unable to come out to help. I believe there was an example of an injured deer in Okotoks a while back.
- Posted signs remind people to not feed wild animals because they get dependant on humans.
- if animal has been injured
- Except bird feeders
- Injured wildlife
- None! We have jerk neighbours who feed the squirrels, then they destroy our yard and leave peanut shells
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Feeding songbirds and bees (i.e. bee water fountain, not bee keeping)
- Feeding birds, squirrels, bunnies does not seem a big problem but feeding bobcats, coyotes, cougars etc could be a huge danger to domestic animals and humans. Teasing of any animals should be prohibited.
- Still allow bird feeders.
- The only exception I would support is the feeding of wild birds although if this causes problems with bears coming to bird feeders then it would have stop.
- Dogs
- Feeding birds
- The animal is injured or abandoned
- Wild bird feeders
- Permission from land owners, animal is in danger
- Bird feeders should be an exception.
- Birds
- Bird feeders , squirrel feeders
- Birds and rodents
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders etc with appropriate feed should be allowed.
- If it's on private property, the owners of the property should be able to set their own guidelines and choose to follow the bylaw or not.
- A monetary fine
- When it comes to minors, parents / guardians need to be held accountable.
- Bird feeders if using appropriate food
- Bird feeders, humane trapping for purposes of relocation or rehabilitation, planting if native species that create habitat (i.e., safe harbour clause which doesn't inadvertently disincentivize people from making habitat improvements.
- Large fines and Bans or jail time for repeat offences
- NO exceptions. People should NOT be feeding and/or teasing wildlife.
- If the animal is being malnourished.
- Give warnings before ticketing.
- Bird feeders

- Exceptions to feeding birds on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and water dishes during heat waves
- Except if you are trying to find appropriate refuge for an animal to then take them to the right place
- Birds
- exception birds/birdfeeders
- Birdseed or nectar in hanging feeders
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- No exception
- exceptions should be made for bird feeders on private property
- bird feeders unless it attracts wildlife into the yard e.g. bears
- I would allow feeding on private property
- Bird feeders. No squirrel or rabbit feeding!
- Animal gets accidentally off leash and chases wildlife (one off offense). The owner is accountable, acknowledges the errors and is proactively taking steps to mitigate it happening again.
- Wild birds
- Birdfeeding on private property
- Bird feeders
- Some people in our community have placed birdfeeders outside of their own back yards in community green spaces and we now have a wide array of small birds that visit these feeders. It is nice to see but should stop if harmful to the birds and animals.
- Temporarily feeding injured animal rehabilitation prior to transfer of care
- Bird feeders, proper bins to feed animals like hay maybe
- None
- Birds
- Animals that are clearly in distress (no teasing of course), as well as small birds feeding from birdhouses.
- Bird feeders.
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Birds
- I think things like bird feeders, or helping an injured animal on your property are okay. But it shouldn't be okay to try and attract larger animals (bears etc.) by means of food to the local or surrounding area.
- Hefty fines similar to animal endangerment
- The only exception I could see to this is if the wildlife was injured in some way. Even then, no food, only water in that case.
- No suggestions. Be adults and be respectful of the city's natural wildlife

- birds
- Birds, squirrels
- If they were to feed in an emergency not as an ongoing thing. Teasing never.
- A fine
- Bird feeders
- Injured/abandoned animals in order to bring them into a rehabilitation centre
- Bird feeders
- Feeding in live traps meant to relocate pest wildlife
- Private rehabilitation of injured animals such as birds or young animals that are abandoned or motherless
- Bird feeders

- Stray cats
- None
- Birds and bird feeders
- Emergencies ex: Fires, flooding where leaving out food and water may be beneficial to affected wildlife
- n/a
- Injured wildlife awaiting transport to a wildlife rehab
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- birds
- Only if they are doing it to rescue a wounded animal.
- Wildlife rehabilitation or population management
- Bird feeders and bee flowers should be fine
- Bird feeders
- Feeding ducks bread for example is fine. But letting kids chase animals around parks or throwing things at wild animals is not okay and there should be fines for that!
- Bird feeders or feed for small animals such as squirrels. The only concern is with people getting predators used to human contact and needing to be put down for safety.
- Exception for injured/starved animals that require immediate feeding.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- None
- If an animal is truly in need and you can tell (somehow) you may feed or give it water. Slippery slope though.
- Bird feeders
- Regulated sanctuaries/rescues
- Ducks if they are being fed proper bird seeds. Birds etc.
- None

- When animal is in danger and needs protection until bylaw arrives,
- Birds and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Assisting the animal
- Feeding song birds
- Bird feeders
- Rescue attempts
- Bird feeders and bird houses should be allowed. Use of attractants for pest control (i.e. cheese on mouse traps) should also be allowed provided non-targeted animals can't access it.
- Bird feeders
- Feed safer foods to waterfowl (peas instead of bread, etc)
- Bird feeders
- Bylaw against feeding only. I don't think teasing is a real issue.
- If babies are found abandoned
- If you find an animal suffering and needing food/water, as long as it is under the advisement and awareness of animal control or similar organization.
- Having bird feeders on private property should be allowed
- Fine
- None
- Birds
- If they are injured or need any assistance
- None
- I would say teasing is not allowed but feeding is assuming its birds, squirrels etc.
- The Bylaw should be specific that it means intentional placing of food to entice or encourage wildlife onto the property. Otherwise, people will complain as soon as they see wildlife in on anyone's property.
- Pests such as: coyotes, magpies, gophers should be allowed to be trapped or scared away.
- Any interference with wildlife should be done ONLY by fish and wildlife experts
- Fines
- None for teasing. If a wild animal is injured on private property caring for it until Fish and Wildlife become involved.
- More public awareness such as signage, media sources
- Bird feeding ok
- Bird feeders
- Ypu would really have to define what entails teasing and what cou td as wildlife. Are bird feeders included in this? What about gardens thatd wildlife get in to is that considered eeding?
- If the animal looks in distress and the person is trying to help it.
- No exceptions. Wild life belongs to all citizens and thus should be protected with no personal exceptions. We are and should be responsible to care for it.

- Birds feeders and the like
- Injured or distressed wildlife can be fed until wildlife authorities show up.
- Birds
- Animals that need to be sheltered or given water/food due to injuries or inclement weather (extreme heat or cold).

- Wild birds should be allowed to be fed as long as it is appropriate bird feed that will not have negative impacts on their health
- None
- None
- Bird feeders
- Injured or very young animals
- except feeding birds
- Bird feeders

- If the action has no harm to the animal or to humans it shouldn't matter, like hiding peanuts in the ground for squirrels
- Bird feeders should still be allowed on private property
- Animal owners and victims need to be held 50/50 not 100/0 responsibility. If you provoke and animal you had it coming. You are no longer a victim.
- None.
- None. Need more public awareness on the dangers of feeding wildlife.
- None
- Birds. As in, bird feeders should be an exception.
- Abandoned or animals in distress needing care
- It might be possible to educate people that feeding wild birds e.g. ducks and geese should be done with some thought as to what is fed. Maybe Inglewood Bird Sanctuary could partner.
- Issuing issue warnings at first offenders
- Birds. Feeding mammals, especially large ones should not be allowed.
- Bird feeding
- None... Makes it too grey
- Unless injured and Fish and Wildlife had already been notified and had given instructions to feed/water until they arrived.

- birds
- Birds
- Scavenger animals (crows, magpies)
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Is the animal is obviously starving
- None
- Bird feeders
- Petting Zoos
- I think we should look at educating people. It also depends what is deemed as wildlife. No animal should be teased in private or public but feeding birds or rabbits should not be a problem.
- bird feeders
- Maybe sick or injured wildlife
- Exemptions for responsible small bird feeders
- Squirrels
- If chasing them (without unnecessary stress and any harm) away if they are causing damage to property.
- Hunting related. That has its own regulations.
- Bird feeders and etc should still be allowed.

- N/a
- Squirrels and birds are ok
- Rabbits and birds are the exception for feeding
- In the case of animal rescue (i.e. bird hits window, needs aid until recovered)
- Birdfeeders
- No exceptions but education campaigns are also important to consider as many offenders are or are with vulnerable populations such as kids. Education and fines in popular parks and downtown Riverwalk area where many families come to feed geese/wildlife.
- Bird feeders, bird houses, bat houses, bee hives,
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Make it the same! They're wild life! They don't know the difference between provide our city property!
- N/A
- abandoned or endangered animals while waiting for proper care to be dispatched
- feeding birds is fine, as long as the seed/suet is in a squirrel and rodent-resistant feeder
- No exceptions to teasing wildlife thats cruel
- Inadvertent feeding. Say a deer eats out of your bird feeder.
- Bird feeders
- Allow people to feed birds. Ensure that teasing wildlife does not exclude removing pests.
- None
- feeding songbirds should be permitted. Known community member feeds all wildlife with nuts, bread and seeds. What started as one pigeon has grown to a flock of 12, squirrels, skunks, magpies and animals wreak havoc on our gardens.
- The teasing of animals is usually done by unsupervised children. Actually fining the parents and charging both children and parents, forcing community service in shelters. Teach them compassion now before they develop more antisocial behaviors!
- Pigeons are not wildlife and should not be treated as such. They are feral animals descended from abandoned domestic stock. The city should invest in sustainable solutions to pigeons that does not include banning the feeding of them.
- None
- Feeding birds

- Bird feeders
- Please define teasing in this context. As far as exceptions, please consider which wildlife is most impacted by humans providing them food. Wildlife that can be most negatively affected should be protected under the bylaw.
- allow for bird feeders and flower gardens for insects
- Hunting, ex luring deer on private property
- Plant life on property cannot be stopped from being eaten every time.
- Feeding birds, squirrels etc
- Feeding wild birds should be an exception

- Bird Feeders. No exceptions to "teasing"
- Bird feeders in your yard should be allowed.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, bird baths, wild animal salt licks (where permitted)
- Hummingbird/bird feeders are fine, I support the use of them. Just not hand feeding other wild life which could enable dependency or create a pest problem.
- Bird feeders
- Higher fines
- I dont believe in teasing any animal
- Bird and Squirrel feeders / birdbaths
- Bird Feeders
- Make sure that the Builder/Realtor will inform new buyers about the wildlife existence in the area specially coyotes.
- Remote feeding stations for highly mobile animals that are in our yards anyway -- bird, squirrel feeders, etc.
- Fine individuals that are doing so.
- I once had to feed feral kitten while waiting for city/humane society to come with a trap. So the only exception, I feel, should be to care for wildlife in need under direction of a care/rescue society
- None, wildlife is wildlife.
- Fines for people caught violating the law.
- Animals such as Rabbit.
- Birds, squirrels
- Feeding bird things that are good for them
- magpies

- Bird feeders and water for animals to drink
- Owner permits it
- None, harassment of wildlife should not be bound by bylaws
- None, bringing swaths of rodents to your yards for a birdfeeder is exacerbating a rodent issue. Squirrels, rabbits, gophers, skunks, moles, mice, are all MUCH more prevalent with the reduced grass cutting, need to adjust Bylaw accordingly.
- Bird/squirrel feeders, planting specific plants with the intention to draw in wildlife
- If the animal is hurt and needs help a little food and water before fish and wildlife show up
- Non you should not ever for any reason be feeding or teasing wild life we are invading their space feeding and teasing them can result in the animal being destroyed that is unacceptable the penalty should be on the person or persons not the animal
- As long as it excludes bird feeders and their like.
- Be able to continue feeding wild birds and squirrels on personal property

- Rabbits
- I think tis okay to feed wild life such as birds and squirrels.
- Bird feeders as an exception
- If a wild animal appears injured/hurt/starving, individuals should be able to approach and feed until help arrives.
- None.
- Exception to bird feeders
- If there is wildlife already being fed by owners of private property, they might have trouble finding adequate food. Also bird feeders and stuff like that should be legal still
- Bird feeders
- Shouldn't feed or tease wildlife
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed
- Bird feeders, caring for injured/abandoned wildlife that is unable to be taken to a facility
- Exempt if its an attempt to help a hurt animal to get further treatment for it.
- Feeding privately owned animals
- Leaving fruit veggies out on the lawn for wild animals should be considered acceptable. Trying to let it hand feed wildlife should not be okay
- If the animal is injured and or babies were abandoned.
- bird feeders should be exempt as long as they are not attracting bears
- None
- Bird feeders
- None? They're WILDLIFE we have done enough [removed] damage already haven't we?
- If the bear wants to snack on you he should be allowed without being killed
- Yard bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels, birds
- Bird feeders
- People who are rehabilitating injured wildlife.
- If animal appears to be in significant distress; providing water should be allowed at all times
- Limit to teasing. Feeding birds etc should be allowed.
- No teasing allowed, but bird feeders should be allowed
- If the animal needs care due to injury/orphaned
- Birds are ok. No large mammals
- Bird feeders
- I would expect that there be enough staff in the communities that typically get more wild life on private properties to enforce this bylaw.
- If a wild animal is injured and needs to be fed/taken care of while waiting for wild animal rescue/rehab services to arrive.
- Exceptions for squirrel proof bird feeders.

- Bird feeders
- Injured wildlife such as birds, squirrels, etc. On properties next to rural areas this could be extended to deer.
- A starving animal or one in need of medical assistance
- Unless animal is injured and people are helping
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Fines
- Wild birds should be exempt. Clear guidelines need to be in place, because squirrels also frequent bird feeders. Feeding birds means feeding squirrels.
- None
- Na
- Feeding birds should be permitted
- Bird feeders
- Feeding tired/injured bees sugar water, temporarily caring for an injured animal while waiting for professional help
- None
- Bird feeders and baths should be permitted.
- Injured animals or animals that need help
- More signage stating not to feed wildlife.
- Birdfeeders should also be limited in backyards. They attract mice, stoats, and skunks. My dog was sprayed by a skunk attracted by a neighbor's overflowing bird feeder. One bird feeder is fine, not 5.
- exceptions for things like bird feeders
- Bird feeders & bird baths, stray cats
- Injured animals
- Birds are fine.
- Removing pests from garden (ie. voles)
- Wildlife doesn't know why property is public or private. It should be the responsibility of owner to inform proper authority and take the correct steps. Instead of engaging themselves!
- Bird feeders
- Dependent on what is categorised as wildlife. Birds / squirrels etc survive harsh winter on being fed with birdfeeders. Same with many other wild animals.
- Feeding due to injury until a wildlife officer can assist with the situation.
- Birds and squirrels.
- None
- same fines should apply. the behavior is not responsible for the well being of the animal.
- N/A
- Birds.
- Within city limits. If someone on an acreage wants to feed the deer, sounds like their problem

- Bird feeders on private property
- bird feeders
- You shouldn't feed any wild life except birds
- Bird feeders would be the one exception I can think of.
- Not sure
- Bird / squirrel feeders that minimize human interaction
- When the animal is in need of vet care but they are not open until the next day.
- Bird feeders, etc
- Still allow bird feeders on private property
- Feeding actual animal food like seeds for birds
- I think that the bylaw should prevent teasing of wildlife. One should be allowed to feed wildlife (within reason) on private property
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Injured wildlife needing immediate nourishment
- Bird feeders
- Do not put bans and restrictions on breeds like pitbulls, there are many responsible loving owners that dont deserve their animals being singled out when they've done nothing to show aggression. Honestly never had pitbulls be aggressive towards me.
- fines
- Birds/bird feeders
- Bird feeders or similar things
- Feeding and teasing are separate issues and should not be the same law. Would this law prohibit feeding birds seeds?
- Song birds, humming birds, bees
- Bird feeders, or other like objects that have limited capacity for small animals.
- Injured wild animals should be able to be fed and cared for
- Rescue attempts
- Injured animals
- Rescue of abandoned baby animal as long as a proper organization has been contacted to get proper care long term
- Bird feeders
- I think imposing larger fines would be appropriate. The city should also pass a bylaw that makes it a fineable offence to share these interactions on social media and create a task force that monitor social media with geolocation in the city to charge
- If the animal is in obvious distress and needs help even then should call bylaw or other animal program to help the animal
- The only exception is that it's A animal park for that reason and it states you can feed the animals.

- Feeding birds in hanging feeders should still be allowed.
- Rescue situations
- Squirrels, birds (from feeders)
- Birds, acreages
- Bird feeders
- Children feeding birds
- birds and squirrels ok
- None
- removal of wild animals - eg skunks
- Bird feeders and feeding squirrels or chipmunks. Feeding deer, bobcats, or large animals should be a fine
- Bird feeders
- The question is ridiculous. Feeding and teasing should be two separate questions. There is no reason not to leave bird seed, etc out to help especially in the winter and that is a whole different thing than teasing
- Moving them to a safe area
- Injured animals that need to be transported
- Bird feeders in yards.
- None
- None
- Bird feeders , non human contact feeders etc.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- If a wild animal come onto my property, and eats fruit from my tree; or leaves from my bush, that should be allowed.
- Only if the wildlife is injured and the individual is attempting to trap the animal to take to a clinic.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds appropriate food, ie. ducks and bread crumbs
- If they're injured, or need support from humans
- Bird feeders being an exception. Mole traps for squirrels should not be allowed
- Wild bird feeders are ok
- Fines or community service
- Fines for leaving food out for wildlife (not bird seed of course). But I've known one lady to leave out steaks and whole pizzas for the bobcat in the neighborhood...
- Bird feeders, bird baths, helping an injured animal or animal in labour on private property.
- Bird feeders.
- Rabbits
- bird feeders and other feeders (peanut feeders for squirrels), making water available
- An exception for the intent of trapping or catching for the safety of the animal or animals on the property

- Hummingbird feeders. Otherwise, stop feeding wildlife on your property.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and things like that.
- No exceptions!! If you feed or tease you have now signed a kill warrant on these wild animals and that is not fair to the animal. People who do this should be fined and a large fine. Over $500 for first offence
- But be careful that this excludes bird feeders.
- None, proper authorities should be contacted if an animal is being neglected.
- Bird feeders
- Exclude avian wildlife
- Injured and about to die without it. Otherwise even if injured bylaw should be called to deal with it.
- To catch injured wildlife to take it to the wildlife centre
- FEEDING IT TO SAVE IT'S LIFE
- Squirrels and birds
- bird feeders, water bowls in heat waves
- If the animal is injured and you are waiting for professional help to arrive.
- If the animal is injured and in need of help
- Feeding, small animals squirrels ducks ect..
- Bird feeders
- Teasing must be clearly defined
- Feeding birds, squirrels and rabbits shouldn't be prohibited
- If the animal is in distress and requires formal interventions
- Apply it to large animals only, exclude birds, rabbits etc. Exceptions for gardens.
- none, get the [removed] people to stop parking in the middle of the highway to take pics of cows
- None
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Providing water during fire relief
- Bird Feeders Etc.
- Wild birds should be exempt, people feeding birds seed or nectar.
- If someone works in the industry with wild animals they should be except from feeding wildlife as they may be taking care of them as it's something that pertains to their work
- Removing pest animals like skunks
- Bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders in yard, feeding ducks on a pond
- If the animal was really unhealthy and needs human intervention to get help.
- Birds, rabbits, squirrels.
- property owners should not be allowed to ACTIVELY put food out to attract wildlife other than birds. If a large wild animal does enter property and feed on garden plants or fruit trees or bee hives then the owner would be exempt.

- Injured animals can be cared for while awaiting for their retrieval
- No exceptions.
- Stray or animals in need of food
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be exempt as feeding.
- Birds or injured small animals (ie. squirrels/chipmunks).
- Aviary (birds)
- Song birds and back yard bird feeders.
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Birds
- Starving or injured animals needing support until proper authorities can arrive.
- Bird feeders are allowed as always
- Nature cans
- Feeding and teasing should not be listed together. Teasing or any other type of abuse on private or public property should include fines and/or jail time dependent on severity.
- No exceptions. This should be heavily enforced.
- Fine
- None
- None
- Bird feeders/baths should be allowed
- Squirrels.
- None.
- No exceptions, it's a disservice to the animals as they will most likely get killed
- Birdseed
- Bird Feeders
- Birds, squirrels, feral cats
- squirrel bird feeders especially in the winter.
- Bird feeders
- I think this would be difficult to enforce
- Birds, Squirrels
- Bird feeders (seed and nectar)
- Trying to deter wildlife if pet is in danger.
- Feeding birds seed
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders in backyards with approved diet mixes
- Rabbits
- Good will or self protection
- None.

- If a wildlife was found wounded or in need of help before it can be picked up by a wildlife Rehabilitation facility
- Feeding would be ok if animals are fed away from people and a more natural source of food, such as plants specifically grown for the animals
- na
- None. Let nature handle wildlife unless humans cause danger to wildlife.
- bird feeders
- Fruit trees on lawns
- Places that have healthy food dispensers for ducks!
- Bird feeders should be excluded
- Bird feeders remain acceptable
- Unless the animal is in danger or hurt
- Injured animal may need assistance
- Bird feeders
- Properly maintained bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeder etc
- Restricting putting food out that is appropriate for other yard guests (seed for birds even if it draws other pests)
- Bird feeders
- Acerages or farm life should be ok as they are away from neighborhoods
- If the animal is in distress
- it depends on the type of animals that are coming onto the private property or whether they are nuisance animals
- Fines against any animal cruelty
- Squirrels and birds
- None, we need bigger fines for this!
- Off leash dog parks managed by licensed operators who could charge a fee
- Bird and squirrel feeders, no fines for wildlife eating garden/shrubbery
- Bird feeders should be ok.
- If the animal is injured or at risk of death
- Teasing or provoking should be prohibited. Feeding may be a life saving measure until relocation could be facilitated.
- Birds
- If they are threatening or harming your family
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- An injured or obviously starved animal

- I think feed and/or teasing are completely separate. I think you should be able to feed wildlife if they are in distress or injured until a wildlife rehab picks them up.
- Birds
- Bird feeding
- Bird feeders seem to be relatively harmless for individual use on private property.
- Bird feeders in the colder months when they have less natural sources of food.
- If it is for rehabilitation reasons and our registered at a vet
- Bird feeders/bird seed
- Feeding birds as long as there is not an excessive amount of seed being used.
- Clear definitions of 'wildlife'
- None
- I think small wildlife such as birds and squirrels are fine to feed, many enjoy attracting these animals to their property, however, it should be illegal to feed larger animals that could pose a threat ie) coyotes, bobcats, etc.
- Park bans for people caught
- None. Leave wildlife alone.
- Clarification on what is feeding wildlife is needed.
- Squirrels eating peanuts/bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird Feeders
- Feeding songbirds
- In the even of sick animals in order to catch them
- aggressive animals, damaging property, recurring events.
- If the animal or bird is injured and temporary support is required until it can be rescued.
- NA
- Feeding birds/having bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Suggested exceptions would be certain private property such Wilflife Sactuaries where the owner of the property is caring for the diets of the wildlife. Feeding the wildlife on private property should be left to the discretion of the owner.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and houses should be permitted
- Bird feeders and setting out water for wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders. I love watching hummingbirds at my feeders.
- Birds and Squirrels
- Any
- Bird Feeders

- Bird feeders. Maybe putting out nuts for squirrels.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders, and in instances where safety was concerned (of person or animal)
- Out side of bird / squirrel feeders- None, it should only ever be by explicit exceptions never by genericity
- Helping the animal in or on your property
- First a warning, then a 50$ fine if someone is caught only teasing wildlife!
- If it is on your own property... is what it is, can't police it all.
- Caring for injured animals while the proper rescue is called an en route
- Feeding of wild birds
- Define wildlife
- Bird feeders are fine but teasing or feeding of other species should be controlled
- Injured wildlife
- Starving animals
- No exceptions
- Injured wildlife, prior to being taken to a wildlife centre
- Bird feeders or other automated devices.
- if you do not own the animal just dont feed it.
- In the case of an injured animal being taken care of until some form of wildlife services arrive.
- If feeding is used as a method of trapping
- Bird feeders
- None
- Injured animals
- Birds/bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits
- A sick or injured animal being rehabilitated
- Bird seeders
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders
- feeding birds should still be allowed
- None
- If they were in need or those who involved themselves thought it was in their best interest to do so.
- Birds, squirrels
- People should be fined if they are teasing animals.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- None
- Squirrels and birds
- Injured or malnourished wildlife
- Bird/squirrel feeders should still be allowed

- bird feeders and bird houses
- Feeding ducks/geese at public parks (ie birdseed), and having bird/squirrel feeders on your private property
- Bird feeders
- This needs to be two separate issues.
- Exempt bird feeders.
- If the wildlife is endangering human life.
- Bird feeders
- Birds and birdseed should still be allowed
- None
- Bird feeders, bird baths, gardens
- No exceptions for wildlife.
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Fines That would increase with multiple offences and well as possible jail time
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- City letters in mail for suspected offenders. Tickets issues based on surveillance camera evidence.
- Small animals such as squirrels
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders, apple trees and plants or bushes that are permanently planted on a person's property
- Birds
- Fines
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds and Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds
- Trying to get the animal to safety
- Squirrel proof bird feeders. People feeding bunnies and other small mammals is a safety issue with birds of prey and coyotes
- At least bird feeders of all kinds.
- Fines
- Feeding birds and such at a park is often times harmless
- Huge fines
- I'm not opposed to feeding birds with the use of actual bird feeders. But feeding or teasing feral cats and dogs should be punishable.
- Zoos

- Bird feeders that are determined appropriate for wild birds. Perhaps people need to go through an application or permit process that ensures they are feeding wild birds appropriately/responsibly.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- None. Zero tolerance.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- N/A
- Sick or orphaned animals that need care.
- Bird feeders
- still allow feeding birds
- Bird feeders should be ok
- Injured wildlife that requires human support For the sake of their health
- I think feeding them are ok but no teasing or abuse. It is 2 different topics in 1 question
- Squirrels and birds
- More education
- Injured or baby animals needing care until wildlife officials come help
- None
- Feeding if the animal is in distress until wildlife officials can arrive
- Bird feeders would be ok. Squirrel feeders would be ok. If deer eat from a bird feeder that would be ok
- No exceptions. I feel this rule should include pets on private property.
- If the wildlife are starving and need the food.
- Unless used as a method to safely relocate or encourage an animal to leave an area.
- Birds
- Fines in place
- Bird feeders, though stipulations requiring feeders to be situated in a manner limiting access to other wildlife (i.e., coyotes) should be implemented to avoid dependency on anthropogenic food sources.
- Guidelines around what is considered wildlife - ie bird feeders would be acceptable
- None.
- Feeding while waiting for rescue/animal services; feeding to trap for veterinary reasons
- A very large fine. Start with $2000.
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals - if you had an injured, wild animal on your property that you were trying to care for before authorities arrived, you should not be penalized for watering or feeding it. Define what you consider "wild". i.e. Is a bird feeder OK?
- Rehabilitation would be an exception I would consider when proper circumstances are provided
- Birds
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Personally owned animals
- That pit bulls are left alone.
- Bird/squirrel feeders should remain legal
- Deer
- Unintentional - ex. Apple tree in front yard providing food to wildlife
- zero tolerance
- Animals in need: wounded birds, stressed wildlife needing water, etc.
- People should be able to chase away unwanted wildlife off their property
- Yes to teasing. I think this question needs more explanation because I have bird feeders out, does that mean I would get fined since I'm feeding wildlife. Maybe more description on what animals can be fed & what?
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Injured or abandoned animals.
- The feeding of birds
- If it was to assist with catching a wild animal to release them safely then it would be okay
- Allow Water if animal distressed
- None. It is 110% NOT ok to lure tease or feed QNY animal that is not your own or wild
- No exceptions
- If the animal clearly needing water- I think it's okay to provide water. How about bird house and bird bath?
- Homes that are fostering wild animals for rehabilitation.
- This would be tough to implement without increased monitoring at City parks (increase in costs)
- Exclude bird feeders
- No space given to comment on breed specific yet overly inclusive language, which is inappropriate and discredited. Focus on owners. All dogs can be dangerous and there are worse than pits waiting for popularity should pits be banned.
- Backyard bird feeders
- An animal stuck or injured from a trap who needs assistance
- Literally none. People should be calling wildlife rescue for any wildlife on property that appears in duress, not trying to "help"
- If the animal is sick and needs caring for
- None. Wildlife is WILD. Leave it be. The only exception would be a hefty fine for violators.
- Bird/squirrel feeders, water baths, etc
- Outside of city limits
- birds, squirrels excluded

- If the owner of the private property is a veterinarian, wildlife control expert or similar person, then they should be allowed to make a decision based on health and need of the animal in question.
- I would not be too stringent on the no feeding.
- Does this exclude feeding wild song birds?
- bird feeders, nuts for squirrels and small animals should be allowed
- Still allow bird feeders, but squirrel feeders should be discouraged.
- Feeding of birds/ducks or geese at ponds should be ok.
- Discourage sale of squirrel feed
- Birds
- na
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders for non-water birds
- Bird feeders
- Rescuing orphaned or injured babies
- First time offender let off with warning, 2nd time + offender ticket.
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Sub-contract or hire enough personnel to enforce.
- Teasing or hurting should get serve fines. Feeding if appears to need it is fine
- Bird
- bird feeders
- Educating first - the impact this will have on wildlife. If after educating there is repeat offenders, a fine should be incurred.
- Birds
- Bird feeders hung at least 6 feet high
- Feeding birds, squirrels
- If animal is hurt, call 311 to inform and give the animal water or food upon direction.
- the wild life is hurt or in danger
- Rodents
- Bird feeders should still be okay within reason
- Bird feeders, and habits made to sustain diversity
- Birds, squirrels.
- Hunting with license
- Birds. Get real.
- The animal is hurt
- We can still feed birds

- birds - not sure if this would affect bird feeders, I think it would be nice for those to stay but I don't agree with feeding/teasing other types of wildlife inside the city (deer, moose, etc) as it creates too much habitation and puts the animals at risk
- Birds as in bird feeders.
- If it's a lost dog or cat or a injured animal
- You or your pets should not be allowed to tease or harass wildlife. I feed the squirrels
- Food for Birds
- bird feeders and baths to support local bird populations depleted by human activity/cats
- Attempts to get troublesome animals out of private property (i.e. skunks, magpies, etc)
- Squirrels and birds.
- Leave the wild life alone and let them do their jobs being animals.
- Birds as those can be considered wildlife
- Birds
- People should not feed or terrorize wildlife- only exception is mange or rabies wildlife on farm property should be taken care of.
- Feeding/helping injured wildlife
- A lost dog running in neighborhood, feed in order to catch him
- Bird feeding. And food used to trap nuisance wildlife.
- N/A
- Water access. Being able to sting from a yard.
- Bird feeders
- Fines for feeding wildlife. Fines and penalties for teasing or harming wildlife. Squirrels should be included here; I am tired of the squirrels being fed and depositing their fed items into my yard, especially peanuts for allergy reasons.
- N/A
- Small rodents such as squirrels, chipmunks, etc.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeder allowed
- None. Don't feed wildlife . They're supposed to be wild.
- None
- None. It's a wild animal. Feeding any wildlife harms them.
- Permits for exceptions
- Don't even think about BSL
- Bird feeders in backyards
- Birds, squirrels
- Exempt birds
- Bird feeders
- Deer
- Mail out with utilities/taxes to educate. Bylaw demand for landlords to notify each tenant of such.

- Bird feeders
- An obviously domesticated animal
- Fines
- Nuisance pests that are damaging property
- Hope this doesn't include things like bird feeders.
- Birds
- Fines
- If the food is being used to trap said wildlife in effort to stop nuisances caused by the wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding - to trap and relocate
- Bird feeders
- None leave the wildlife alone
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- I'm assuming you can still feed wild birds in the winter?
- Bird feeders, nuts for squirrels, etc.
- No exceptions, people need to leave wildlife alone
- Heavy fines
- Bird feeders squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- Clear outlining of exceptions for birdfeeding and squirrel feeding, and an exception for providing potable water year round.
- Ways to scare the wildlife away should not be considered "teasing"
- None.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- No exception!
- If the private property is acting as a safe place for the wildlife.
- Birds
- no exceptions
- Bird feeders/baths should be fine.
- Birds
- None wildlife should not be fed or harassed
- None
- Bird feeders

- Cats. Just because their original families abandoned them doesn't mean everyone else has to too
- Birds should be exempt
- Bird seed, squirrel seed
- It's a wild animal, They should not be fed by humans.
- Bird or squirrel feeders. Traps for other nuisances
- Wildlife should ALWAYS be left alone.
- Exclude bird feeders
- Injured animals
- Predators shouldn't be fed: bears, etc
- You should still be able to feed birds.
- If this includes bird feeders, I think that is a bit overboard
- No exceptions!
- Bird feeders
- I would be ok with store small store bought bird feeders but some of my neighbours are leaving our trays of birdseed and butts and the number of squirrels, pigeons, magpies, skunks etc is getting ridiculous
- Bird feeders
- You can't control Birds/Squirrels/rabbits from getting into bird feeders.
- I only support the teasing on private property. I feel that the feeding on private property should only apply if it's something dangerous.
- Bird feeders
- teasing should be prohibited but not feeding (i.e. bird-feeders or bat-feeders)
- Fine
- Acreages
- Bigger fines and jail
- None
- Fines if caught
- Perhaps Geese.
- None
- None
- Animals that are found injured or abandoned infant animals which require care.
- If the wildlife is injured
- Feral cats/homeless dogs
- Bird feeders
- Hurt or abandoned animals that need care
- Could be difficult to manage if food is left out on a property accidentally ie. Kids leave a snack and something finds it
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.

- None. No birds, no squirrels, no rabbits, no wild animals. I you want wild animals move out of the city.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders being accessed by wildlife
- Bird feeders, and anything to help bees
- If a wild animal was in distress
- None
- Wildlife birds/ bird feeders, as they are helpful for birds that stay in the winter
- Theres no reason to tease any wildlife
- Bird Feeders.
- If the animal is hurt you can help it until the Conservation officer arrives.
- none
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- NONE. Wildlife should be left to be wild, whether it is on public or private property.
- Injured animals / providing water to hot animals
- I think if the people are educated about the subject and know what to feed wildlife on their property they can do it sparingly
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, bird baths etc.
- It should be allowed for Calgarians to feed birds.
- None.
- Feeding wildlife on private property is at times ok, such as feeding birds and squirrels etc, but teasing is never ok
- BIRD FEEDERS ARE FINE. FEEDING/WATERING AN ANIMAL IN DISTRESS SHOULD BE DONE.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding only when necessary for the animals survival and when safe to do so.
- Fines should be the same as feeding or teasing animals in city parks.
- Ducks
- Rabbits and Birds.
- Children learning about the animals
- I agree with prohibiting teasing of wildlife, but better define the term wildlife. Would that exclude birds/squirrels eating from bird feeders on private property.
- Cause it will bring wildlife into the city
- no exceptions
- allow feeding of birds
- Babies that have been left by the mother
- I feed the wild birds with bird feeders

- None
- Not birds obviously lol bird feeders have to remain
- Allow bird feeders
- Farms acreages
- An exception for bird feeders on private property
- Injured or sick wildlife
- None
- caring for an injured animal until support can be arranged.
- I don't think that thNone. Even in the case of feeding sick/injured wildlife, it is their responsibility to seek help from places like CWRS instead of trying to care for the animal itself and potentially do more harm.
- Sometimes it is unintentional (food left out or gardens)
- If the person believes a wildlife animal is in distress and needs water or some sort of food until wildlife officers arrive.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders etc.
- Fine
- Bird feeders should be ok
- I will always feed the birds!
- Private bird feeders
- Feeding injured wildlife
- birds feeders
- Animals in need of care, should be cared for properly. Teasing is unacceptable
- If you're feeding them food that is appropriate to their species/diet that should not be prohibited
- In instances where food source is limited and or when appropriate food can be placed out such as bird feeders
- I think private residents should be able to have bird feeders on their property.
- Bird feeders and similar type things
- Birds
- Bird Feeders
- Feeding with bird/squirrel feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Rehabilitation/ injured animals
- Bird feeders.
- I for the bylaw against teasing. If the property owner is feeding them good proper food I would be ok with that.
- Abandoned wildlife babies, people can feed abandoned wildlife while they wait for bylaw services or other services.
- Bird feeders

- Injured wildlife
- Bird feeders would be acceptable still
- None. Don't feed wild animals! Period. Including birds..
- Harassing animals is a big no, feeding animals should be allowed on private property (bird feeders etc)
- Bird feeders should remain allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Birds
- If the animal is injured and requires attention, then you can feed it.
- Bird feed
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- None
- Winter Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Small animals that don't do damage like birds, no rabbits or deer.
- Should be illegal public or private
- Bird feeders
- Allowable to have bird feeders set up for wildlife
- If the animal is ill and I'm need of help. The property owner is trying to help them and keep them alive.
- Injured wildlife in need of care at the direction of wildlife rehabilitation groups
- Injured animal
- Non
- Fines/jail time for those caught teasing or torturing wildlife. If the torturer is a minor the parent or guardian is to be held responsible
- Bird feeders, assisting sick/injured animals
- Pest removal
- Bird feeders.
- Abandoned babies or injured wildlife - can be cared for until wildlife authorities arrive. Train and empower wildlife officers to send animals to sanctuaries it Rehab centres for release back into the wild or relocation. STOP KILLING/EUTHANIZING animals
- Bird feeders should be an exception as should water sources.
- None
- Small wild life like squirrels, birds and rabbits
- Birds
- Obviously bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels

- Exceptions for the feeding of birds.
- Bird seed
- none
- Birds
- Only if animal found injured and unable to feed itself
- none
- Caring for an injured animal or bird while waiting for wildlife rehabilitator to come pick it up.
- Bird feeders
- None. Wildlife should be left alone both on public and private property
- Feeding birds, squirrels, and rabbits should be ok.
- No animals should be teased
- Feeding wild birds (eg seed feeder in tree), or leaving nuts out for squirrels
- bird feeders are acceptable
- Feeding Birds
- Should still allow bird feed, and possibly allow people to still leave carrots and veggies out for rabbits in the winter.
- You should still be able to feed or help an animal who is injured/orphaned etc.
- None
- Bird feeders, bee feeders should be exempt
- None.
- bird feeders and squirrels
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- birdfeeders
- Investigations need to be made when wildlife frequent private property and appropriate measures be made to either limit contact with wildlife or a way to prevent wildlife from coming in the first place.
- Only feed birds or squirrels on private property
- Injured or sick wild animals
- Don't allow people to harm or harass wildlife regardless where they are n
- bird feders?
- Significant fines for all offenses - not just this, but all bylaw violations. $100-$300 fines are not disincentiving behavior.
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders on private property
- Simple feeders like bird feeders
- What wildlife does this include? There are numerous bird feeders that attract squirrels, Magpies and crows, which are pests.
- Chasing wildlife off property
- Birds, squirrels

- Bird feeders etc
- If the animal seems to be in distress and trying to help capture it to bring to help
- Can we still feed birds from a bird feeder?
- Birds - having bird feeders
- all guidelines should be followed equally.
- Before implementing a bylaw perhaps make sure there is clear signage regarding it being prohibited using language that suggests as much instead of "Don't feed the ducks"
- Birdfeeders
- There should be no exceptions on feeding or teasing wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Scaring wildlife away from property should be okay
- Feeding ducks birdseed
- bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- None! People should leave wildlife alone!
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Leaving food out for birds and animals. There
- Feeding birds bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Smaller prey animals like birds and rabbits I think should be okay to feed
- If the animal is starving
- Bird seed for birds
- Fines
- If wildlife is a danger to children or pets people can defend fawns them.
- I'm not opposed to people feeding wild rabbits or even the little prairie chicken as long as they don't hurt them.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Okay to feed birds birdseed
- Gardens, if wildlife got into a personal garden of course, no fine should be handed out
- Birds
- Teasing wildlife is an issue
- Bird feeders
- No unnecessary fines.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Animals that are getting into a garden on private property; residents should be not required to fence in and cover gardens to stop rabbits, deers, etc. from eating the food

- Bird feeders/ feeding bunnies
- I would exempt bird feeders. Also, my cats chase mice and rabbits that enter our yard, would this be considered teasing wildlife?
- backyard birdseed feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds, sandal animals such as squirrels, or gophers etc gophers
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Birds
- Birdfeeders
- Dependant on the wildlife. Feed birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Allow winter feeding
- These are two different issues: I think people should be able to put out bird feeders on their own property but "teasing" should never be tolerated
- None
- An animal that was injured or in need of food to survive
- Consideration should be taken that scaring or deterring animals is not teasing, and exception should be taken regarding feeding birds
- Bird feeders are okay
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Feeding squirrels as they often eat out of bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds should be ok.
- Bird Houses
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Allowing appropriate foods to be fed to commonly fed animals, such as the geese at the river walk, and having a info section on the Calgary by law page to enforce education.
- Nothing for teasing or feeding You should be able to trap wild animals on your property and dispose of them
- Bird feeders and small animal feeders. Restrict feeding to non-predatory and large animals like deer etc
- Fines if found feeding wildlife, including squirrels!
- If a person is trying to capture a wild animal to take to rehabilitation.
- Bird feeders
- Farms and rural property

- Teasing wildlife for sure.
- Bird feeders are often important food sources for local bird species and should be exempt from the no feeding wildlife bylaw. Recommendations on high quality bird feeds should be provided to the public.
- Injured animals/animals cared for until help arrives if transport is not an immediate option
- Feeding is fine, teasing or causing harm no!
- There should be an exception if It's an animal in distress
- Feeding corvids
- Feeding Birds on private property, bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Feeding of the animal is injured and being captured to bring to a vet/rescue
- Bird feeders, garbage or food left out
- Bird feed
- bird feeding
- Birds!!!
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels feral cats
- Birds
- Bird seed
- N/A
- Homeless cats and dogs should be the exception, until the humane society can come and pick them up.
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- hummingbird feeders/ bird feeders
- Except bird feeders for birds
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird or squirrel feeders okay. No hand feeding.
- bird feeders unless you're in an area with is more prone to bears
- None
- exclude bird feeders.
- Birdfeeders
- If wildlife is in distress and severally needs food or water
- none
- Dogs running at birds, rabbits, small mammals/rodents that cannot be reasonably avoided by the owners
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders

- If the animal appears to be in distress, and requires attention by bylaw or authorities.
- Birdfeeders should be allowed.
- Birds
- Teasing yes. Bird feeders and the like absolutely not
- Ducks.
- An animal that was injured by humans should be fed (without contact) until it recovers.
- Leaving feeders for birds
- If animal is in distress
- Feeding birds.
- None
- None
- Wildlife actively being kept as pets should be exempt. Eg. Pet squirrels, sparrows, mice, rabbits, etc.
- Birds
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders / water fountains could be exempt
- The higher fines for feeding squirrels Peanuts would really be appreciated
- No exceptions
- Feeding birds is fine. Teasing needs to be addressed in city parks.
- Fines. this money can go back into education about not doing this
- None
- The City should have a mechanism or support process to help private property owners remove or move nuisance wildlife.
- Feeding animals on property in winter time.
- I think people should continue to be allowed bird feeders
- Bird seed
- Rescued wildlife ophans
- No exceptions. Do NOT feed or tease wildlife in any situation or circumstance.
- Luring animal off property
- fines
- No exceptions. Bird feeders create a problem with pests. A single bird feeder in a back yard causes lest birds that can impact a large area.
- Bird feeders
- None.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Is trapping/releasing teasing? I don't feel that it is. If relocation makes sense, I'm for it.
- No exceptions
- Feeding during winter months acceptable due to lack of habitats and therefore food sources.
- The same as if it were public land
- Individuals trying to rehab injured or abandoned wildlife

- Rescue mission for an injured wildlife
- Hummingbirds and other migratory birds
- If the animal is sick or injured in order to lure to be trapped and taken to a wildlife facility.
- Prohibit teasing on private land, not feeding.
- Bird feeders
- Fines for harming or teasing wildlife, but warning for feeding wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Feeding to be okay if it is an animal that is not dangerous (ex. raccoon, squirrel, etc.)
- Bird feeders especially for nuthatches and chickadees

- Birds obviously
- Bird feeders
- The exceptions ring birds and squirrels
- feeding birds from a bird feeder.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions to birdfeeders
- Respect and protection of wildlife
- Bird feeder
- bird feeders are OK, home owners should be allowed to trap pests (voles, mice etc.)
- Feeding yes, but people should be able to scare/convince the animals to get off of their personal property as rabbits and deer are terrible for destroying gardens.
- Well what about bird feeders? It doesnt make sense. However large wildlife such as deer can cause injury and can be aggressive. So maybe just for large wildlife.
- Feeding Birds and accidental feeding (ie squirrel eats bird seed intended for birds)
- A Fine
- Birds& ducks

- Sanctuaries or education centers should allow feeding
- N/a
- Leaving out water for animals in the heat, feeding birds (bird houses), rehabilitating animal that was injured

- None
- Sanctuaries etc should be excluded.
- Birds, bunnies, squirrels

- Smaller animals ie squirrels
- Killing mice.
- If someone was trying to "rescue" injured/abandoned wildlife
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- only if trying to make it leave
- None, people feed wildlife things that are bad for the animals
- License cats so if found they can be brought into animal services and fines can be handed out.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders still allowed
- Backyard bird feeders should still be allowed
- No animals should be hurt that's all I can say
- Birds eating from bird feeders
- Except birds. Bird feeders should be acceptable
- Bird feeders on private property
- none
- None. Please enforce this to stop animals such as skunks from building homes at houses b/c they are fed.
- Hopefully bird feeders don't count.
- No exceptions
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding and squirrel feeding
- Teasing and feeding wildlife contributes to habituation and abnormal wildlife behaviour, I don't see exceptions that would be necessary to this bylaw at this timet
- Indoor/outdoor neighbourhood pets
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Mothers and babies. Injured animals.
- If the animal is a pest and the owner of the property is attempting to trap the animal.
- Abandoned or injured wildlife that are being cared for in the interim of waiting for a rescue or further action.

- Bird feeders.
- Helping a hurt animal
- Birdseed and peanuts for birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders okay
- bird feeders
- None
- Feeding wildlife if in some form of rehabilitation
- I think people should be given the opportunity to shoo animals off property or not penalized for helping an animal in need while a conservation officer arrives.
- Bird feeding
- Bird feeders / bird seed
- I mean feeding birds should be allowed
- None
- Birds. Injured animals
- Fines
- birdfeeders
- Ducks
- none

- Birds
- Bird feeders only
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Feeding only if the animal seems to be in distress, or needs help
- Birds, squirrels
- Squirrels
- Hummingbirds and other small birds ok to feed.
- bird feeders, humane bird seed, other humane and low impact ways of interacting with wildlife
- No exceptions

- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, wildlife eating gardens
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders should not be included
- There's no excuse for teasing, but Animal is injured they may be helping it so there must be some exceptions for feeding
- Feeding and teasing wildlife are two different things. I think teasing should have a buy law. But feeding them doesn't seem terrible. And i doubt its a negative act when someone does.
- An exception would be an animal who is in medical distress or malnourished could be fed.
- Bird feeder
- Fines
- Im sorry I'm distracted by the next question and wondering why on earth you're being so judge mental to a breed, because it's strong is the reason I'm seeing please educate yourself or visit and spend time with a pit bull absolutely blown away.
- None. Wildlife doesn't get bothered
- Bird feeders
- Chipmunks
- Rehabilitation and legitimate rescue facilities
- Private property that is used for rehabilitation of wildlife, and only where the feeding is necessary for their enrichment or survival.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Programsto support at risk species with species appropriate feeders (no hand feeding no teasing)
- Bird feeders
- An animal that is unwell or suffering from malnutrition.
- Allows bird feeders on private property
- A animal in need of rescuing such as an orphaned animal who's parent hasnt returned for days.
- unintentional feeding of wildlife through things like gardens planted with alberta wildflowers and other native plant life. (Mr rabbit likes petunias)
- Bird feeding
- Bird feeders/baths aren't the problem so should probably be an exclusion
- Bird feeders
- birds
- None
- Still allow birdfeeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- None

- bird feeders should be allowed, but you dont police it in parks how will you do so in private residences.
- If the animal was causing damage to the property or the owner of the lands animals I think they should be allowed to deter them in any way reasonable
- Bird feeders.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Animals in distress that may need to be fed with direction from Fish and Wildlife or a vet if found on property.
- Feeding birds and squirrels is ok
- Rehabilitation of wild life.
- No exceptions...
- If the animal is visibly hurt and the intent is to care for the animal until it can either be released or animal control/conservation officers can be contacted.
- Gardens that attract animals, making it clear that it is intentional feeding
- Birds
- None
- Birds (bird feeders)
- Smaller song bird being feed by bird feeders help those during the winter months however should be reminded it's a year round commitment
- Bird feeders or nuts for squirrels
- Bird Feeders
- If the animal is injured and needs help
- wild birds should be excluded and squirrels
- If the animal is in danger, or needing medical attention
- Birds
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- None
- Injured wildlife being fed to save their lives
- Birds/squirrels
- Allowing bird feeders, nuisance animals that the city will not remove ie; skunks, raccoons, etc.
- Feeding birds
- Birds, squirrels.
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders/ baths
- Squirrels & bird feeders

- if an animal were injured & were trying to get it to a vet.
- Fine people feeding wildlife
- Standard bird feeders
- Wild bird feeders.
- A fine
- Chickens
- None.
- Animal gets into garbage can, or you are rescuing it and awaiting animal wildlife rescue
- Birds or other small woodland animals
- Birdfeeders and squirrel feeders should be exceptions.
- Licensed rehabilitation centres
- I would exempt bird feeders on private property
- Feeding birds.
- Bird feeders
- Helping feed and injured animal
- Birds
- Thats your job not mine
- Bird feeders
- If you have a bowl of food outside for your dog you shouldn't be held accountable if wildlife eats it.
- I would want to make sure teasing still allowed citizens to deal with pesky wildlife (ie. skunks or rabbits) in their property.
- Trap and release
- Bird feeders and gardens that allow natural grazing
- None
- Fine
- None
- Allow feeding for birds up to a defined size of animal (eg allow feeding of animals up to say 5 pounds to allow for squirrels but bars feeding cats, or cayotes)
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Except if an animal, is injured and you're trying to help it
- Bird feeders, injured animals while waiting for a rescue to respond.
- You should be allowed to shoo wild animals off your property.
- None
- Birds and squirrels (through feeders)
- Birds
- Bird feeders unless is determined that these are detrimental to wild bird populations?
- Bird feeders

- Exceptions for feeding of birds, squirrels and feral cats.
- Bird feeders
- Fine
- Birds,
- Birds and rodents
- Bird feeders
- Leaving food out for squirrels/birds/other animals to take freely
- None
- Bird feeders for small wildlife
- Bird feeders in the winter
- Feeding wild birds (ie birdseed)
- Birds
- Wildlife that is found injured
- Wildlife that do not pose a risk to humans such as birds, skunks, rabbits, etc
- Bird feeders.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- No feeding. Coyotes should be allowed to be teased or hazed
- Bird feeders
- If signs allow it because it's safe I feel that's okay but generally it should be a no unless it's known to be safe to feed
- Birds
- Birds, and by proxy squirrels
- Huge fines for those who disobey.
- I do like feeding the birds and squirrels I would hope this is ok to do all the time.
- None
- Birds/ ranch/ acreages
- None
- None
- None
- None
- Water bowls/sources should be allowed
- Helping baby animals feed until wildlife services can come and take over
- Impose fines
- Bird feeders
- If the teasing was in fact- hazing in order to dissuade the animal from settling on private property.
- None
- None
- Squirrels
- If the animal appears to be starving

- none
- Birds would be an exception
- Bird/squirrel feeders should be allowed. I also think that helping out wildlife with food like hay during harsh winters is acceptable as well.
- Bird feeders
- None
- When trying to rescue, feeding may be necessary in order to retrieve the animal
- Birdfeeders
- Birds for bird watchers is okay. But fines for people feeding bobcats. We have a number of people in my area feeding them meat.
- Sick or injured animals
- Backyard bird feeding
- Coyotes should be scared away from yards.
- Animals in need of help/ medical intervention
- Allow bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders
- None
- Chasing / scaring coyotes away because they are dangerous to small animals.
- No building shelters or feeding rabbit specifically. We have a huge problem with wild domestic rabbits in this city. Bird and squirrel feeders are ok.
- Birds feeders should still be permitted
- The Only Exception would be feeding the animal to gain the ability to trap it and relocated.
- If the animal was in any harm or danger
- Fine
- An injured or starving animal, fed with well intention and whatever research they could come up with short notice
- No exceptions unless it was okayed by the property owner in advance
- If the weather is hot as it is today leaving water for wild life should be acceptable
- Feeders that don't require direct human contact such as bird and squirrel feeders.
- Hmmm perhaps if the food is healthy for the animal. Like bread is bad for ducks so no but lettuce? Is good right so if they're being good to the animals sure
- Bird feeders, injured wildlife to be taken to rescue
- Wounded animals
- Birds
- Bird feeders/ removal of pests
- Birds
- Exceptions should be made for wild bird feeding. Many people, especially seniors, love watching all the different varieties of birds visiting their feeders.
- Bird/ squirrels feeders, sonic sound pest control

- No feeding pigeons. Very common in the northeast and they create a hazard
- Fine huge and jail anyone feeding wildlife.
- None
- Birds
- Warning and web training to complete and sign. Second time fine
- If a person rescued an injured wild animal and it was starving, they should be allowed to feed it before transporting or releasing it to fish and wildlife officers.
- I put out bread/seed/peanuts for the local birds on my deck.
- None
- Children who didn't know better...
- If the animal is in distress, needs medical attention or food. If the animal is actively causing damage to the property people should be able to at least scare it off.
- Feeding animals on private property that are believed to be endangered/not getting nourishment.
- Allow people to still keep bird, and squirrel feeders as long as they are kept up and are tidy.
- When there is a fire and you need to put out water and food for fleeing animals.
- The purpose of this law should be to prevent abuse and not restrict enjoyment of wildlife. Feeding birds and squirrels so they'll come enjoy your yard should not be a crime. But if you do it for I'll intent then yes.
- Birds, squirrels
- Agricultural & Farm Animals
- Water dishes and bird feeders
- I think feeding should be ok but teasing should not.
- Allowing bird feeders as long as reasonable steps taken to prevent pest wildlife from eating from bird feeders.
- Suggest it is fine to "shoo" or discourage wildlife from remaining on private property
- Unless it is posted that you can 1. Feed wildlife or any animal on that property and 2. WHAT type of food that is allowed to be fed and what happens to the animal if it is the wrong food
- Birds and other small animals as long as there is no ill intent.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing wildlife should be unacceptable
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds in the winter should be OK
- None
- None. As an employee of a 24 hour animal hospital, we are seeing too many wildlife come in contact human error
- Fines
- None
- Bird feeders should be allowed year round
- Feeding Birds and squirrels. (properly)

- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders.
- Birds should be exempt from being fed
- bird feeders and whatnot.
- No exceptions including squirrels and birds
- Caring for injured or sick wildlife
- Bird feeders
- I don't know enough about this to think of any exceptions, I would also like to know why this bylaw doesn't already include private property.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of local wildlife like birds and squirrels is fine but teasing Of any animal should not be legal
- Bird feeders
- Sick or injured animal and animal control cannot come immediately
- Protection of animal rights.
- Birdhouses and feeders for local birds given they are placed in a manner that wouldn't attract other wildlife
- If you found an injured animal on your property and needed to give it water, etc, while waiting for bylaw.
- Bird seed
- Gophers & other pests not to be considered wildlife.
- None
- none
- Honestly I would rather see an education campaign than seeing the bylaw enforced.
- It's peoples own risk if they want to feed them and put themselves in danger but just have them know they can die, wildlife will kill them with absolutely no hesitation
- None
- If you could see something that would indicate pet ownership and were trying to catch the pet with the intent to find the owner.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, etc.
- No teasing whatsoever. But if the animal is injured or in need of help, there should be an exception.
- Bird feeders, etc
- Except in cases of actual need (abandonment, injury) which would lead to the animal being rehabilitated
- Birds
- Birds
- Birds and bird feeders
- Feeding birds on private property
- Birdfeeders

- Injured animals or abandoned young ones
- No exceptions
- feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding animals (especially bees, humming birds, and fragile or endangered animals) should be allowed, teasing should not.
- Neglected pets/strays
- Let them eat
- Feeding the ducks is ok.
- If a wild animal is on private property the property owner should be allowed to safely attempt to shoo the animal off his/her property, particularly if wild life isnt going to be able to get there in a timely manner.
- Teasing and harming the animals should be stricter, education explaining not to feed should be implemented education
- bylaw against feeding wildlife except birds. prevent attracting wildlife. educate people
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Feed birds and rabbits as we currently do and lots of animals come to us that wouldn't be able to find food
- Would say yes to both of it excluded bird feeders
- Don't bully our breeds
- Teasing or feeding might not be right - but private property is private.
- Bird feeders; squirrel feeders
- Make the outcome of dealing with wildlife clear. You wanna play with a bear ? Then you're gonna get eaten. You want to pick up a small critter ? Congrats you got rabies. Etc
- Nests/babies
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Private property is a vast category and would be incredibly difficult to enforce.
- How would you enforce this program? Don't dump money into something that can't be enforced.
- The issue with is that the city is getting so big that we're pushing wildlife to its limit. So it comes in the city for food. I don't accept any sort of teasing towards wildlife. We need to learn to co-exist with all wildlife.
- Define wildlife better. No bird feeders that accidentally feed squirrels or the rabbits below when it falls?
- None
- Bird feeders and deterrents to nuisance species should be allowed
- I support feeding wildlife in the city.

- None
- Feeding
- Its private property, if the animals are friendly and the people are cautious, it's not our problem.
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- Birds and other common small wild animals that are part of the urban environment should not be included for sure. Teasing should be prohibited.
- Leave the animals alone They are animals, they don't deserve to be tortured or put down for their breed leave them be
- Bird / squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders, bee feeders/fountains, pest removal.
- none
- If someone was being cruel to any animals then they should be fined.
- Allow bird feeders and seeds
- Bird feeders, salt lick
- Lots feed birds. I feel this is acceptable.
- Leave private property alone. It's exactly that. Private property
- We should be allowed to feed deer in rural areas.
- with bad intent
- No suggestions. Don't try to put bylaws in place for people's own properties.
- More garbage pickups to reduce overflowing bins
- Feeding of large animals or game animals. Bird seed should be fine same if someone grow so lettuce for the rabbits to eat instead of the rest of their garden
- Harmful interactions
- If the actions are putting the wild animal at serious risk
- Birds
- Teasing shouldn't be allowed.
- Would bird feeders apply to this? It seems too extreme to try to tell people they aren't allowed to put bird feeders out.
- Provide educational programs rather than focus on punitive rapping of your residents.
- It really depends on the wildlife. I wouldn't feed a coyote, but I wouldn't ban bird feeders.
- Stop encroaching on people's private lives and property. This proposal to do so is reprehensible
- If the animal is sick or hurt
- Squirrels, birds strays
- Continue to discourage but doesn't need to be enforced
- Luring animals for means of trapping or harmful activities
- Bird feeders and nests are very helpful to the community. Birds help with the insects.
- Not sure what the bylaws are around animal cruelty but this should be illegal anywhere
- Birdfeeders high enough that they're not for deer
- It's ok to feed

- Feeding animals on private property should be allowed.
- Feeding no, teasing yes.
- If you're in an area around the river or any bodies of water, and there's wildlife like geese or ducks and want to feed them bread or seeds, you should be able to without endangering said species.
- Torture or harmful ways are punishable
- The city should be dealing gophers and skunks
- Bigotry!!!
- Putting out a bird feeder is no going to be against a bylaw? Hell no!
- Private property is PRIVATE
- Is this relating also to bird feeders?
- Exceptions should be for bird feeders
- there is not enough information to say yes. is feeding songbirds permitted? or is feeding deer? need more specifics.
- Bears
- Teasing yes but feeding no
- Because the money collected won't be used properly
- All sorts of bird feeders
- We don't need more bylaws.
- Bird feeders and trapping pest animals like mice and gophers
- If it endangers others or a community
- Don't. You will invite controversy, and birdwatchers will be just as angry as those who want to deter squirrels and the like from their property
- Bird, squirrel feeders should be exempt
- Birds
- Feeding wildlife on private property
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits injuring or harmful behaviour towards wildlife on private property.
- Squirrels and birds (no teasing though!)
- Prohibit teasing not feeding
- If a person is knowingly torturing wildlife there should be fines, unsocial behaviour that can escalate
- Squirrels and birds (no teasing though!)
- Hurt animals that need help may need food or water until the right people are contacted to help them
- I would support a bylaw against teasing only. However if property owners wish so, for example, feed birds, I do not think this should be prohibited. People want to care for nature. Educate them on how best to do so instead of making more rules
- Feeding is fine, teasing or harassment is not.
- Feeding Bears should not be allowed.
- Birds, jackrabbits in winter
- Wildlife is a VERY broad category that includes birds and squirrels

- Animal and Abuse is completely different than feeding wild animals. What is wrong with giving a squirrel some nuts and enjoying their company in your backyard? The city should take ownership of controlling pests and nuisance animals.
- educate people , handing out tickets is stupid ,another stupid City bylaw bylaw , JUST EDUCATE
- Teasing should absolutely not be okay on any property but it is also private property. Keep it that way.
- Feeding birds and squirrels seems to be fairly common and enjoyable for some people. Teasing animals should not be allowed though.
- Private property is private.
- Predatory wildlife only such as bobcats, bears, etc.
- Feeding birds
- Teasing is unfair and we should protect animals against it, but we love to feed the birds and ducks that come by our house
- Feeding, to a degree... for example bird feeder
- While I think there should be a law against teasing wildlife or hurting them on your property. I don't believe offering a safe space for them to find food should be against the law
- unless the animal is clearly in distress, people should not feed the animals
- In the case that no bylaw is put into place prohibiting the feeding of wildlife on private property I would suggest legislation be looked into that would instead prevent the poisoning of wildlife on private property as this can put roaming pets at risk.
- Bird feeders & bird baths should be exempt if this bylaw goes into effect. The city should also have a skunk removal program in place.
- My concern is birds and bird feeders, prohibiting feeding the wild on private property would prevent that from happening.
- Would this mean families could not have bird feeders? I would have to see more clarity on what this bylaw means.
- Leave it the way it is as I don't believe feeding birds are an issues. As long as no one is feeding bears or coyotes etc. I don't see the point in regulating and creating a Bi laws against this
- If feeding wildlife on private property is at all endangering the wild animal, or causing it to become habituated to human contact, then that should not be legal
- Bird feeders
- More education around not feeding animals and making them dependant on you/not engaging with animals that can harm you would be most effective
- Birds, squirrels, raccoons, skunks, deer, bobcat etc and any other animal.
- Unless baiting animals
- If people are feed an animal with appropriate food if they're hungry
- I think every situation is different. Ppl feed squirrels and birds! I understand bears and cougars but wildlife differs, u cant put a general price tag for all. I

- If the animal has potential to harm community members and someone is luring it into the community by feeding it that should be illegal
- If it was injured or a baby
- Bird feeders
- You'll never be able to enforce it, can't even enforce masks on trains.
- Don't do this, too many people jump to conclusions. You're going to get all kinds of false allegations and misunderstandings, far more than legitimate, it will just cost the city money, and detract for more important issues.
- Feeding is fine. Until it becomes a nuisance then the animals should be left unhearmed. Teasing should never occur and should be fined regardless of place of contact due to the inhumane nature of the act made by the aggressor (human/person(s) teasing)
- Bird feeders; accidental (pests in garbage)
- Teasing should not be allowed, but feeding would include bird feeders etc which are totally fine.
- Would this bylaw prohibit bird feeders? If yes, then I would not support it.
- A bylaw, if enacted, should separate feeding and teasing by defining the danger to the person and the community. I'm not hurting anyone with my bird feeder, but someone who feeds large animals such as coyote, foxes, bobcat or bears is dangerous
- Harder to in force while on private property
- Teasing sure, but what is a bird feeder? And how would that be different or enforced?
- feeding potentially dangerous wildlife such as coyotes
- Song birds, hummingbirds.. where do you draw the line on this?
- Birdfeeders
- Squirrels and birds
- What about bird feeders? Bird Baths?
- depends on the animal. a stray cat, yes feed it. a bear, no
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Depends on type of wildlife and situation. Obviously feeding predators is not allowed.
- Feeding of deer/birds should be OK, feeding of squirrels/mice/skunks/coyotes should be discouraged.
- Birdfeeders
- For the use of hunting
- Maybe more education?
- Teasing... but feeding is something most people do, bird feeders, squirrel and bat feeders are not harmful.
- Leave it be
- If animals are being drawn into the private property for the purpose of harrassing them then proportionate punishment should be carried out.

- If u don't want people feeding larger animals, you'll end up stopping people from feeding small ones like birds & squirrels.
- My answer would be yes, if not for bird feeders. Feeding raccoons, deer, foxes, etc should not be allowed, even on private property, but birds should be ok
- Birds
- I have a bird feeder, which I turn attracts other animals scavenging for food. Education and awareness is needed, NOT banning.
- Bird feeders. Squirrel feeders
- A bylaw for not feeding certain wildlife may be appropriate but birds and squirrels should be an exception, I enjoy putting out food for the birds. A bylaw for teasing would be good, no animal deserves to be treated poorly by humans.
- Birds - what is the problem with bird feeders
- None
- Birds and squirrels
- Large Animals(Coyotes, Bears, Deer)
- People should be aloud to feed animals such as birds and squirrels.
- Don't bother with more unenforceable over-reaching bylaws.
- If the animals need food then we need to feed em
- Birds at the bird feeders, deer on country property being given salt blocks
- What does this encompasses? Bird house? Bird feeder? Bee house? Bat house?
- Wildlife including birds or squirrels also is difficult
- Predatory animals
- Teasing anytime, anywhere, should not be tolerated. However there are times wildlife need a hand.
- Bird / squirrel feeders should be ok
- Private property is none of your business
- Feeding is not the same as teasing.
- This bylaw would complicate the existence of sanctuaries and could be used against individuals who rescue injured wildlife found on their property. Likewise, it impacts individuals who leave food for birds or squirrels, or who have lost pets.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Wording is too ambiguous. Clarification is needed.
- Bird feeders
- feeding animals in need on private property is fine, teasing them is not
- None
- Putting out feeders for wild birds and small animals in winter, especially, is an important support for these animals
- How would you determine deliberate feeding of wildlife vs animal preference? Would you police bird feeders and natural pond sanctuaries.
- Stop policing !

- If they are directly hurting animal. Any physical violence should be fined.
- If wildlife enters private property, land owners should have the right to scare them away - animal should be enforced by bylaw.
- Feeding birds and squirrels on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Only behaviors that qualify as animal abuse should be punishable.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- N/A
- Feeding birds such as songbirds and ducks
- Unless the animal becomes aggressive then it is not completely necessary
- None, the government can stay out of our private property.
- None
- Birds
- bird feeders - I don't agree with feeding other wildlife.
- I can agree to a bylaw for teasing ANY animal.
- I like to put nuts at the bottom of my tree outside my bow for the squirrels to come grab when they need.
- People feed birds in their yards and they are wildlife. I think wildlife is too big of a broad category. It needs to be more specific, like deer, coyotes etc. if this is something to be considered.
- Stop invading their habitat !
- Baiting traps should still be prosecuted on private land
- Bird feeders, common garden plants that wildlife take on their own.
- bird feeders
- Not many wild animals on private property. If there are, they are munching on your garden anyway.
- feeding wild life is fine however teasing wild life should not be acceptable no matter what premise they are on
- Its a persons property.. as long as they are not harming or putting anyone in harms way should not be a big deal.
- Teasing/harrassing-yes, feeding (birds)- no
- Many people feed them as a way to see them. Kinda like bird feeders and bird watching.
- Feeding birds in winter & providing water should be allowed
- I'm not going to feed them directly, but where is the fine line from where I fed them to they helped themselves to my garden and I was just there watching them.
- Birdfeeders
- People feed birds all the time from bird feeders. Why would you want to make that illegal? Also, why are you putting tease and feed in the same sentence.
- None private property is nobody's business but the owner!

- bird baths, bird feeding, habitat enhancements (e.g. apple trees, pollinator habitat, etc.) should be excluded. This should have been two separate questions (teasing vs. feeding). Luring predators should not be allowed.
- Feeding the birds is totally fine... They would still be considered wildlife
- Teasing should be against the law but not feeding
- Bird feeders
- This is a contradictory statement. There is a great difference between feeding and teasing wildlife. I would like to be about to but our bird feeders and feed the occasional deer on my property, but I do not want anyone to harm wildlife.
- 3 warnings before issuing ticket
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Not sure if this would include people putting out bird feeders, but that's why I voted no because I think people should be allowed bird feeders
- Endangered wildlife, non-pests
- maybe ,, conditions ,, two questions in one ,, feed maybe ,, if wild life are free then they should be protected at a provincial level .
- Backyard bird feeders should never be outlawed. I would suggest teasing be clarified.
- I enjoy having a bird feeder in my yard, it keeps them out of people's overflowing garbages.
- Nothing leave private property alone
- Feeding/teasing should not be in the same questions, birds are wild so a bird feeder could potentially be prohibited?
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Feeding birds, squirrels etc.
- None
- None
- Feeding of injured wildlife on private property
- Bird and bees are okay to feed, maybe not deer and other larger beasts
- This is a ridiculous suggestion, this would technically make having a bird feeder against a bylaw...
- I believe feeding is fine but teasing or harming animals should obviously be illegal
- Don't combine feeding and teasing. Feeding okay for birds, etc. Teasing not okay
- Feeding and teasing are not the same thing. Teasing should never be allowed but not feeding wildlife on private property means no bird feeders? That wouldn't make sense to me.
- Putting out avian bird seed is different than feeding ducks sandwiches and take out at a calgary park. A bylaw like this requires specificity. This is far too generic.
- There should be strict fines even imprisonments for anyone teasing domestic or wildlife.
- Birds, rabbits. Squirrels

- Investing in education to teach the public why it's bad to feed wildlife would be much more effective than just adding fines with no explanation.
- No teasing of any animal on private properties. I would allow feeding of birds only.
- The exception is baiting. Purposely putting food out to attract the wild animals
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits should be allowed to be fed on private property
- You should be able to feed birds etc.
- Wildlife are part of our urban ecosystem, let us feed the ones we like.
- Focus on more important issues in this city
- Bird feeders
- Causing physical harm to wildlife should not be permitted. Humane traps could be defined and allowed. No feeding should be allowed.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Wildlife causing a nuisance, property damage and/or endangering residents (including pets)
- People should be allowed to feed animals. We are the ones destroying the home they have. So we should be responsible for making sure they are properly fed.
- private property is just that. private property. as long as someone is not abusing an animal, you should butt out!
- Bears, cougars, coyotes....but squirrels and birds - no.
- I'm okay with feeding wildlife..I would like more information on what is considered teasing
- No bylaw. Then I can't feed the wild birds! You shouldn't be teasing any animal whether on public or private property. No one should be feeding any wild animal no matter on public or private land.
- As long as people aren't intentionally harming the animals, leaving some food or water out is fine
- No to teasing animals yes to feeding them
- Truly wild animals
- As it's written for private property that is too open ended. For example: what about birdfeeders?
- Bird feeders
- These are not the same thing and you should give more details.
- PRIVATE MEANS PRIVATE! Leave people alone!
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Should be able to feed birds/squirrels on your own property
- Just let the strays be strays?
- Feeding and teasing are 2 totally separate issues. Separate this into 2 questions. It's like your asking "do you like apple bananas?"
- Depending on the wildlife, I think birds should be friend, unlike deers it's better to no feed em so they won't get used to humans and encourage them to stay away for human population
- Luring of the animals
- Prohibit on golf courses, otherwise private property is private.
- Feeding birds (native, non-invasive species)
- It's private property which means [removed] off

- well obviously teasing wildlife, and especially big cats/ bears
- Too vague - birds are wild.
- The bylaw is too generic. Needs a revisit to
- Lost animals need our help if starving.
- N/A
- You can't control a wild animal. They will eat what they see
- BSL does not work
- Feeding should be allowed but not teasing
- Impossible to stop squirrels from driving dogs nuts. I welcome my dog protecting my garden from these intruders. Stop people feeding/encouraging squirrels, bunnies, and other pests. Worst my dog does is chase them off property. No injuries ever. It's natu
- None. Private property is private
- None.
- Does this kill a couple rabbits per year? Why is the City spending so much money engaging on this garbage?
- I don't see feeding being a problem but teasing isn't necessary .
- Not allowing bird houses - get real.
- Not your property, not your issue, mind your own business
- The feeding of wildlife with items such as suet or seed feeders should be exempt, but teasing wilflife should be outlawed
- Wild bird seed, trapping and release of nusience animals on property (eg: rabbits, squirrels)
- if it is private property, its their choice.
- If a human is tormenting an animal, Bylaw should be able to step in to protect the animal, though there are no legal grounds to be on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Dangerous animals like bears, cougars or coyotes
- Question 1. An option for no to both.
- Birds
- Unless the wildlife is being physically harmed or endangered.
- I think if it's a bird feeder then that's fine. Nothing to big or gaudy.
- Exception for birds
- People have a right to feed animals in their back yard and some can't help it if they have a garden or fruit tree
- proper education of the dangers and risks of engaging with wildlife
- Just be mindful of wildlife's situation - roaming vs abandoned are two very different scenarios.
- Large predatory animals (e.g. bears, mountain lions)
- when some one can tell you what to do on private property, it is no longer private. Private means stay off my land or there are consequences.
- Teasing yes there should be a bylaw. But things like bird feeders and such should be ok

- I think it is just fine to feed wildlife such as wild birds, squirrels, etc. on private property.
- Birds, squirrels, monkeys
- Feeding small creatures like birds and squirrels should be okay, while feeding large animals like deer and predators should not
- Non
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Private property
- Private property is private property.
- If what the human is doing is harmful to the animal, then that should not be allowed.
- Mind your own business
- Bird feeders, bird baths, squirrels
- This would restrict the feeding of birds which seems ridiculous
- What the heck are you even talking about??
- Just a comment that it would seem that would be a bylaw that would be impossible to enforce.
- Why introduce bylaws that are difficult to validate breaches and even more difficult to enforce?
- Private property is just that, private
- Needs to be far more specific before I can agree
- If anyone is harming the animal in their actions
- Bird boxes?
- None. All is fine as it is.
- Illegal to kill squirrels. Or harm wildlife .
- Private property - what does the City not understand? Tax payers should not be footing the bill for this. Bylaw doesn't handle it now- just go to Bowness park or any park people are feeding geese daily.
- Feeding is different than teasing or being mean to wildlife!
- Bird feeders
- Teasing & excessive feeding ie. bait traps
- I would suggest educational campaigns for this issue
- none
- I think about bird/squirrel feeders. Would they count as wildlife? A bylaw about deer/bobcats/etc I would support.
- If feeding of wildlife becomes problematic, wildlife officers should be dispatched to provide education on the risks associated to the offending party(s).
- Animal cruelty should not be allowed.
- Teasing should be the exception. Caring for wildlife with the intent for release should be ok
- No teasing but feeding is fine.
- On your private property a citizen has the right to do as they wish at their own risk. We are adults and don't need such babysitting

- Animals should not be teased but some animals if they are in danger or hurt should be allowed to be fed at the persons own risk
- Figure out the wording of the bylaw; technically bird and squirrels are wild animal and I would not support banning those.
- Birds are fine and squirrels. Everything else prohibited.
- Small dogs and off leash dogs are the problem. Pit bulls are the most behaved and this is [removed]
- Slippery slope regarding feeding wild animals on private property. Depending on who and how it's interpreted, critters stealing from a garden could be seen as feeding them as well as anyone with a bird feeder. Slippery slope.
- I agree with a bylaw about teasing wildlife on private property.
- None-Fine people who feed or tease them period!
- Anyone who abuses any animal, wild or pet should be dealt with like any other abusive situation. Feeding an animal with the intent to help it should be acceptable always.
- Depends on the wildlife. Backyard bird seed should be ok, feeding bobcats? Not so much.
- Charges being pressed for anyone teasing or harming animals, wild or domesticated.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Let people feed the birds
- If the animal was being poisoned
- The exception of fear- seeing an animal in my yard while holding a steak would prompt me to drop it and run- but I wouldn't intentionally be feeding the wildlife
- None
- Fines for teasing is great. However, people enjoy feeding birds and squirrels, this implementation would be abused by authorities
- One should not be allowed to be cruel to any animal You should be able to feed whatever you want on YOUR OWN PRIVATE PROPERTY!!!!!!!
- If this isn't covered- depending on the definition of teasing. Abuse or elimination of wildlife like squirrels or raccoons .
- Animal abuse shouldn't be allowed anywhere. I think there should be all the concern if there is a report of animal cruelty. But if a deer wanders onto your yard then you technically have a right to shoo it off if you don't want it there.
- Fine people teasing animals. But feeding squirrels and birds should be allowed if feeders are installed to prevent bears from accessing them.
- N/A
- stop with the bylaws, fix the old ones that no longer suit calgarians. comment box for section three . the singling out of one type of dog is appalling. The owness is always on the owner not the breed. There are plenty of other breeds with higher bite pr
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- [removed] off you busy body [removed]. Cut the [removed] budget and deal with the drug crime
- Birds

- Use your own discretion
- Harmful food/food that will make animal sick
- Teasing animals yes, that's stupid
- Should be public. Should be able to feed but not tease or harm
- Surely you would not stop feeding birds in my yard?? This question is far to vague and too far reaching. Needs clarification and limitations on its reach.
- Teasing wildlife is never acceptable, whether on or off of private property. I want to feed wildlife both on and off of private property if possible, especially in the extreme cold. I do not mean leaving meat out, for example. I mean feeding birds bird
- Bird feeders allowed
- Teasing. Feeding and teasing are two very different issues and need to be separated . I feed birds. Are they wildlife? I don't tease them.
- Birdfeeders, people should be allowed to feed non-mammals in general. Except for mosquitoes. You should probably make it illegal to feed mosquitos so that, as a prank, I can citizens arrest friends who get bitten by them.
- bird feeders
- bird feeders
- This should be two questions. Feeding is a no for me and teasing if you mean being mean then yes but I would report anyone who miss treats an animal
- I feed birds, really like their songs - I have a family of finches that have made this their home for the past 10 years. Am very careful no seed falls on the ground. The sound of birds singing makes my block very different from others in the area.
- Bird feeding
- None
- Private property is exactly that: PRIVATE
- Feeding birds should be an exception. People should be allowed to feed birds.
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Steep Fines
- Very hard bylaw to enforce. How are you going to stop people from feeding squirrels or having a bird feeder out in winter?
- Laws for animal cruelty only.
- My neighbourhood's small bird and squirrel population is heavily reliant on us for food in the winter. Please don't make these animals starve--they are wildlife as well.
- No need for laws against bird feeders. This is out of control.
- Teasing and abuse no feed and educational programs on how to respect wildlife yes
- Educating people is gonna be better for our society than fining them for stuff they're doing on their property
- Mind your business
- Penalties for teasing/feeding potentially dangerous wildlife (i.e. Coyotes, bobcats, bears, cougars)

- Leave wildlife alone
- Bird seed or taking care of feral cat colonies.
- Feeders for wildlife within city limits can make sense, as the animals have adapted to their city environment. Enticing and teasing are a different thing. A more specific bylaw to that would be better.
- Bird feeders
- Trap the wildlife and relocate, people need to learn to live with wildlife
- Feeding wildlife on private property.
- Folks should be able to trap and kill skunks, coyotes, and other wildlife on private property if they need to. Also, owners should be able to feed wildlife such as birds, rabbits, or squirrels if they want to.
- Feral Pigeons should not be included
- Leave them alone, its private property for a reason
- Signage on farms that are accepting of this
- Na
- Feeding (birds) is fine. Teasing should not be allowed. As well peanuts should not be allowed for feeding squirrels!
- They need help finding food in the winter in Alberta, people should be allowed to help them if it's on their own property
- The feeding wildlife...I don't see how you can put feeding and teasing and animal in the same sentence they are not the same thing at all. I personally have feeders out for animals, make that two questions
- How could you stop people feeding birds
- If it's a predator.
- I think it's okay to feed them, like bird feeders and food for squirrels and such. To tease an animal, in the sense of being cruel or harmful should definitely be against the law, no matter where an animal is.
- Depends on what teasing refers to, obviously abuse of an animal should never be tolerated. But feeding should be allowed.
- Feeding is possibly ok if safe to do so, not teasing
- Bird feeders. Pumpkins from halloween. Both of these are a big source of food for city wildlife.
- Wild birds who eat at bird feeders.
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- I think feeding is ok. Teasing isn't
- Focus on real issues in the city. This is an absolute waste of tax payer dollars and I am ashamed to call you my city councilors.
- None.
- All abuse of animals, either domestic or wildlife, should face penalty

- N/a
- Putting out birdseed or other feed for birds.
- teasing wildlife should be
- None this is a ridiculous bylaw that would be unenforceable. This City needs to reduce bylaws not add more
- If the teasing leads to or could lead to abuse.
- Don't tease the wildlife, it'll come full circle. But food is often scarce during the cold months, as long as they are fed outside housing areas, they shouldn't come any further in.
- Dangerous animals such as a bear
- Bird feeders
- Only If the animal posed a danger to the residents
- Poisoning animals with food on private/public property
- Education and awareness campaigns, see if this works first.
- Does that mean you could not feed birds or squirrels? Teasing is definitely a no-no anywhere.
- Birds, pollinators
- Large/ dangerous wildlife
- Birds, squirrels
- Would support in the case of feeding large wildlife
- In cases of clear animal abuse by doing so
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Causing Harm to the animal prohibited
- Birds, squirrels
- Feeding and "teasing" seem like two separate things to me. I feed my child. I don't tease my child.
- Allow people to feed ducks things like frozen peas or things that are good for them instead of bread
- Teasing is bad yes but feed can definitely be good thing due the building in this city pushing wildlife out of their homes
- People should still be allowed to feed the birds
- feeding wildlife... what about bird feeders and giving squirrels food ex? This is wildlife but should not be banned
- That makes no sense you be making it illegal to feed birds. Kinda insane.
- if someone was torturing wildlife on private property I would want it stopped but not sure that requires new bylaws
- There isn't enough people breaking this law to create a law. Put our tax money to better use!
- I believe bird feeders should be allowed.
- For the intent to hurt the wildlife
- Unenforceable unless cops can just waltz on to your property.
- Teasing and feeding are very different, its like comparing apples to asparagus! Folks should be free to feed whomever they choose - its none of your business that folks have compassion for living creatures.

- they're fine they aren't hurting anyone
- People should NOT be able to feed wildlife on their property aside from birds and squirrels.
- Too many young children and people will be punished for things like feeding the birds , we've got enough random laws.
- None, wildlife should be left alone unless severely injured and needs assistance
- n/a
- forbid bird feeder? Really?
- Why feed and tease are in the same sentence - like throwing bread crumbs for a duck is the same thing as "teasing" an animal. Regardless - if someone is trying to harm an animal I assume there are bylaws for that; else use education.
- I don't understand the use of the word "teasing". I think feeding nuisance should be prohibited. If teasing could mean discouraging wildlife on private property, then I think that should be allowed.
- No teasing/ harming
- How is this going to be enforced?
- If a person is under the age of 18
- Cruelty penalties
- Signs
- rodents or birds with bird baths and feeders
- Feeding no, teasing yes, on private property
- predators (coyotes, bobcats, etc.)
- None
- stop using pets to generate revenue
- I would be okay with feeding wild animals on private property. However, teasing any animal is cruel and abusive so I would NOT support teasing.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding and teasing are different
- Like bird seed in your yard? Why is that a problem? Or like peanuts for the squirrel? Get bent.
- Feeding proper food that is healthy for the animals should be allowed
- Bird Feeders, Bee Friendly Plants etc.
- Let people do what they want on their own property.
- My land, my Choice
- Lawful Hunting needs to be considered on private property as well as species specific control. Animals that can harm or damage nearby properties or threaten the safety of humans needs to be considered
- There are immediately obvious exceptions - birdfeeders. Would baiting a live trap be considered feeding? I would support a bylaw against teasing/harassing wildlife, but a blanket ban on feeding seems ill-advised.
- The Questions so far do not allow neutral or leave the bylaws alone answers. The current enforcement personal already seemed stretched to perform their duties.

- Birds are wildlife, we feed birds in the winter. Putting feeding and teasing wild is two completely different things and putting them in the same question is misleading. Teasing animals is not acceptable in any context, private property or not.
- We feed the birds and squirrels in our area to keep them away from spits where the cats in our area roam and to keep them away from our plants!
- Remove the mask bylaw. Politicians shouldn't be the ones making that call.
- This type of bylaw would cause an increase in neighbour to neighbour conflict and stretch bylaw officials thin with floods of calls. Not practical not really enforceable.
- I personally don't care about feeding animals, but I have a HUGE issue with any form of teasing or animal abuse - which should be punishable for sure.
- You can't put feeding/teasing into the same category. Also this needs to be more specific. What types of animals are you talking about? Are you talking about birds, because you should be able to feed birds appropriate bird food.
- No teasing only.
- I'm not sure what is wrong with feeding wildlife. Teasing I get.
- None let people live
- Private property is private
- Bird feeders for birds and squirrels should be fine.
- Private property, no body else's business.
- Birds and bird feeders
- None
- Allowing people to respectfully engage with wildlife to learn about them and how to coexist and still respect their space.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, feeding squirrels
- If there is harm done to the animal on private property, the owner is to be charged
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Feeding birds and rabbits is fine
- Can feed animals the appropriate food.
- teasing i agree should not be allowed but bird feeders etc should be allowed
- Not on public property.
- Teasing, capturing and containing any wild animal should be prohibited as well as feeding larger potentially dangerous animals ie coyotes
- Bird feeding
- I think it is reasonable for people to feed and house feral animals with the intent of contacting a spay/neuter team or getting the animal to a shelter.
- Feeding poison or bating to harm or kill an animal
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Birds - to make a law against something like a bird feeder is intrusive

- Is there not a provincial law about feeding wildlife?
- Birdfeeders need exemption.
- I think we should allow homeowners to do as they please on their own private property without infringing on their rights. We should come up with a bylaw though that if the neighbors or property owners are creating a nuisance by luring, teasing, or feeding
- That's a very vague question and not easy to answer.
- Teasing is bad.
- Although I think that Animals shouldn't be abused or fed/teased. I feel this infringes on my rights on my private property.
- Don't be dumb. Parks need wildlife.
- Feeding birds
- Birds are wildlife... would bird feeders be illegal? Gardens attract rabbits... are gardens illegal?
- Bird feeders or nuisance traps for animals who are taunting pets.
- Children's actions
- Bird seed, nuts for squirrels?
- I think enforcement on private property is going to be a huge challenge - is this a major concern? If so I would recommend educating the public on the specific concerns
- Poison
- Let people do what they want on land they own
- Large Bears / Dangerous wildlife should be fined for feeding on purpose.
- If it's your own land, there should be no restrictions in feeding wildlife
- We have a feral cat we look after through The Meow Foundation. Skunks, ravens, etc will eat the cat food we put out for the cats. Too challenging to control.
- Wildlife yes it's dangerous to feed but birds squirrels and rabbits should be exempted from this. It is doing them more good than harm
- None
- Birds are wild life as well so we should stop putting bird food out? I would redefine it to large wildlife.
- Education over enforcement.
- Birds, squirrels, gophers, etc small creatures
- Bird feeders
- None this is provincial jurisdiction let them address it
- A bylaws against teasing wildlife. Not feeding
- Bird feeders
- I suggest there be signs or some sort of education explaining what foods can be fed to wildlife and what foods may be harmful. Therefore not harming the wildlife yet they are able to get a easy source of food. However teasing should have a bylaw prohibit
- Bird feeders
- Not sure if yes or no is better answer. Education should be priority.
- Contact the owner of the land and ask their opinion

- Just let people be.
- In areas where wildlife are present (mostly ducks and geese) install machines that allow ppl to feed them food that's good for them.
- None
- I think teasing an animal should be illegal anywhere, but feeding animals on your own property is ludicrous, what about bird feeders?
- It's difficult to enforce. Many people have bird feeders- other wild life will eat the seed. This is such a difficult area. Here in Tuscany people were feeding and chasing moose. I called bylaw and others. No one followed up.
- stop trying to regulate everything
- Let people do what they want its their property
- It's a private property there should be no jurisdiction
- Bird feeders, hummingbird feeders, vegetable gardens, and fountains could all be accused as "feeding" by vexatious neighbours and would tax the overseeing body. Common lawn decor and hobby gardening items should be obviously excluded.
- Teasing or harming
- Private property is private property. If someone wants to feed deer In their yard, as long as there is no poaching, then it would only promote wildlife safe areas
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- You should be allowed to feed the birds. If squirrels get into my feeder, despite me trying not to, I refuse to pay a fine or stop feeding the birds.
- RESIGN [removed]
- Anything that physically harm the animal should be a crime. Other than that, I fear over- regulating engagement with wildlife. Educate but don't create more laws.
- could you try focusing on actual important issues. I hope you're all voted out
- bird feeders
- You cannot control everything
- Birds, bees, ect. Let the animals live here toi
- If the intent of the interaction was malicious to the animal (poison, injury)
- I don't like how this question is worded - if a hare comes in my yard and eats my flowers am I "feeding" it? What about bird feeders?
- Bird feeders and water should be acceptable.
- Bylaw against teasing..not feeding
- Bird feeders
- injuries to animal (wildlife)
- Bird feeders, butterfly feeders, insect houses, bee hives,
- Abuse
- Bird feeding

- If one is implemented, I know numerous people who enjoy setting up squirrel feeders, squirrels should be an exception
- Does this include bird feeders? I put no because of that.
- None. Let people feed the squirrels and birds
- Teasing yes, but feeding on private property I wouldn't support being fined
- Yes to teasing, though we would need objectivity there. If an animal is hurt or needs help by way of water/food the city should not be able to tell you you cannot do this on your own private property.
- Less govt new laws. Mind your own [removed] business.
- Bird feeders
- It should be the property owners decision as to what they do on their property.
- Birds, deer and small mammals.
- n/a
- Feeding and teasing should be treated as separate issues
- To question 1, disagree. Don't do either. Stop worrying about cats...there are bigger issues you idiots could look at.....
- Do not put all wildlife in one category with the same restrictions. Different animals (i.e., birds/squirrels) should be handled differently from others.
- You should be allowed to fed birds they are not dangerous !!
- Vetted list of animals who are to not be fed from private property. Large animals like Cougars or Coyotes should not be enticed to come to a property, where as squirrels and birds are welcome.
- what to do about the deer that come into a yard to eat the bird seed in bird feeders
- You can't control what happens on private property
- I have bird feeders and what I do on my property is my business. Teasing wildlife should never be allowed anywhere.
- bird feeders as well as options to discourage and/or remove wildlife from yards.
- mind your own business, stop bullying and harrasing tax payers
- Leave people alone
- Ducks geese
- Force OWNERS to EAT any animals over the number of 2!!!
- Better educate people about the dangers of feeding wildlife
- Teasing wildlife should be prohibited, but there is nothing wrong with bird feeders
- Animal is clearly deprived
- Feeding birds on your property should be allowed
- Feeding wildlife by placing fresh water on your property should be okay
- Bird Feeders.
- Nobody should tease wildlife, but adding a bylaw is pointless as there would be no enforcement on private property. Current bylaws around off leash areas for example are not enforced (I've NEVER seen a bylaw officer on Nose Hill where I walk almost daily
- It's private property

- Stop interfering with private property
- People love squirrel and bird feeders.
- Deer licks , bird feeders , owl statues all good.
- Any sort of abuse
- Bird feeders/houses.
- I would support not teasing but feeding birds There is a big difference between feeding and teasing, they shouldn't be put in the same question. Someone who feeds birds could be boosting biodiversity, someone who teases could be harming it.
- Wildlife is provincial jurisdiction
- You have NO right to tell people what they can and cannot do on their property. Remember your place.
- I wouldn't ever support just feeding the wildlife since these are the same animals that something is bound to happen to them because they are tamed to humans. A bylaw against feeding could hurt the odd case where feeding might be necessary for survival.
- Fix the [removed] off lease problems first
- Hard to police and hard line to draw. Bird feeders attract lots of animals besides birds to private property, too ambiguous to draw a line.
- More distinction needed on the term wildlife. Feeding birds & squirrels is okay but nothing larger & teasing of wildlife is never okay.
- Birds and squirrels
- I think this needs to actually be enforced to begin with in public. Spend an hour in Prince's island park and actually start ticketing people to leave the geese alone. Why add more to this bylaw but why if it's not even enforced to begin with??
- Teasing and acts of cruelty regardless of on private property or not
- Bird feeders
- Rabbits and birds - they need help in winter
- I think the focus on this needs to be education
- what about bird feeders? to vague - you need to be more specific
- Obvious littering and garbage in yards.
- I feel bird feeders, fountains and nectar feeders are acceptable.
- Prohibit cruelty to any animal. Regardless of location
- By law against teasing, not feeding
- Squirrels! Our family loves seeing them and they are almost part of the family.
- Squirrels and bird feeders
- I live near Fish Creek and wildlife comes into my year (deer, skunk etc) to eat bird seed. I can't control that and I don't want to stop feeding the birds.
- Education
- Leave people on their personal property alone.
- Wild birds and squirrels

- A sick animal needing assistance
- Meat or bone feeding. Birdfeed only. Large animals.
- The problem with this is that what is your definition of feeding wildlife. Would Bird seed or hummingbird feeders be deemed feeding wildlife
- Teasing is unacceptable, but if the food isn't harmful, why not set out some feeders?
- Bird feeder, squirrel feeders
- Don't harass wildlife or feed dangerous animals
- None. This is [removed] stupid. And [removed], you're a [removed] [removed]
- animal control as part of their duties to relocate wildlife is rabbits & skunks etc key word private property! i do not need or want any more city control on what i do or cannot do on MY property
- Birdfeeders.
- Birds, small animals
- Farms
- Wildlife would need to be carefully defined. For instance, a bird feeder should not be prohibited.
- Feeding birds, squirrels etc should be ok. I can u see stand not feeding wild rabbits, they bring coyotes and bobcats etc.
- Stop. You are over reaching.
- Bird seed, peanuts for birds
- I think feeding wildlife should be allowed .. its not like anyone follows that bylaw anyway i see hundred of people feeding the geese in my area
- teasing/harassing wildlife should be prohibited. Feeding is fine.
- The exception would be if the feeding of wildlife posed a threat to public safety.
- Wild bird feeders. Teasing wildlife isn't acceptable but enforcement I see as an issue.
- I want to be able to continue feeding wild birds/squirrels
- I would support a initiative that promotes education about Calgary's various backyard wildlife and community efforts to safely cohabit our urban spaces with local wildlife. Bylaws are not the answer.
- Does this include bird feeders??
- Bird seeds
- harassment or endangering a wild animal
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- You do not want disturb nesting/baby animals, so it should be known to just Leave wild animals alone
- Bird feeders should be allowed in parts of the city without bears
- My no answer is related to bird feeders. Otherwise it would have been a yes.
- Birds
- Prohibit teasing not not feeding
- Birds
- Birds, squirrels, feral cats
- Birds

- Causing harm to wildlife on private property should be fineable, if not already so
- None
- We encroach on their land
- Only if they are feeding dangerous animals. Such as predators.
- Feeding birds
- Pets
- None
- Feeding should be fine. Birds and chipmunks etc. But teasing is out of the question.
- None
- Deer eating hay bales or other unintentional ways wildlife may be fed
- Teasing should be prohibited on private property but not feeding (bird feeders are ok)
- Bird feeders, man made creature enclosures (bees,bugs etc.)
- If the animal is injured or hungry, let it be
- People should be allowed bird feeders, but shouldn't be allowed to feed rodents, coyotes, bears, etc. You need a two part bylaw if you do, so there can be a distinguished difference.
- Feeding ok (thinking birds) but teasing no
- What someone does on their private property is their own business. Not the city's
- Unless it's a business where people can go to. If its a home, I don't agree with controlling what people do in their own home. It's against freedom and most people are responsible.
- There should only be a bylaw against teasing wild animals on private property. Feeding should only be punished if it is done with the intent to poison and harm an animal.
- Over population of a certain bread of bird
- Feeding, are bird feeders going to be banned?
- Majority of animals are fine, if people want to feed feral cats/ dogs then let them. There's no harm in that. My only exception would be regarding bears, and we're doing that with our black and green bins.
- Giving food/water to an injured animal
- People need to be allowed to feed birds, squirrels, feral cats that DO keep rodent population down.
- A mother and babies. An injured animal.
- I would not permit teasing well the animals on property. You cannot help feed the deer from your garden if they come into the backyard
- None
- Only if the wildlife animal is dangerous
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- People feed birds and squirrels is fine. The reason wildlife is an issue is because we took over thier territory and have a harder time finding food
- None
- Feeding birds and animals like squirrels should be fine.
- Bird feeders

- People feeding skunks or animals that pose a danger like coyotes or bears
- Bird feeders
- Just let people be stop policing every aspect of their lives.
- This is a bad idea. Drop it and leave private property alone!
- None, fish and wildlife should enforce wildlife issues not the city
- I think teasing is never ok but when it comes to feeding wildlife I believe it depends on what because a lot of people have bird feeders or sometimes for squirrels
- Bird feeders.
- Stop this tyrannical garbage
- Mistreating wildlife.
- Bird feeders in the winter
- Private property should remain private and the city should mind their own.
- Birds, small wildlife
- Why is it that you think you can control and monitor every human response and interaction? Bylaws are a joke and help absolutely no one, never mind the law
- I feel that teasing wildlife should not be allowed on private property but the feeding of wildlife is too vague. Would this include bird feeders? Does wildlife cover feral animals (bunnies)? Etc.
- No, because this would prohibit bird feeders
- Not a sufficient problem that needs a solution. Existing animal cruelty laws are adequate
- This law is not a bad idea, but ensure that bird feeders are permitted.
- None
- Do not put teasing and feeding together. Squirrels and birds should be classed differently than rabbits and larger animals.
- Birds, small harmless wildlife
- Too vague. What about bird feeders?
- People should be allowed to hang bird feeders. Teasing wildlife should be dealt with differently than feeding.
- Feeding squirrels should be an exception
- Animals like raccoons come back to easy to find food places. Open a feeding program for them and a relocation program to the areas you feed them in.
- I am against teasing, but no feeding is too vague (you can safely feed wild birds, but do not feed bears or larger wild animals)
- There are millions of people engaged in healthy feeding of birds in this city. Allow that to continue. Teasing is not so good... but you will never stop it.
- Birds
- None, we have bigger problems.
- None
- Don't pass
- Let people feed wildlife.

- If they were enticing to do harm to the animal
- Fines for cruelty but you shouldn't get in trouble for putting out some bird seed kind of thing.
- No exceptions. The city currently has too many bylaws.
- Birds/squirrel
- Would support no teasing, but I am ok with feeding birds, squirrels etc
- Private property is private. The city should mind its own business and concentrate on public and city property.
- They cannot harm the animal in anyway
- Animal cruelty should be more effectively enforced against wildlife on private property before using resources in this way.
- N/a
- Not to ban breed specific dogs you [removed]!
- Stop making more laws. Educate. Invest in signs and education programs.
- Feeding birds should be allowed.
- People own birdfeeders and like using this to watch birds.
- Birds
- I feed the birds and I believe its a good thing
- None [removed] off leave people alone you greedy [removed]
- Reasonable bird feeders ect are fine.... teasing/harming them is not ok
- I would yes to the poor behavior. However feeding birdseed to birds I see no issue
- No feeding squirrels
- Birds are the only exception
- Shooing off property
- Allow backyard bird feeders
- If the animal is stuck or in a dangerous place and someone is trying to coax it out of that spot
- When excessive wildlife has a negative impact on surrounding properties within a neighborhood.
- Birds
- None
- Proper seed in bird feeders for local birds.
- If the animal is skeeny/ in need of food
- none atm
- Feeding of birds
- Bird seed
- You are planning on banning bird feeders? Lord help this over regulated world.
- Never teasing, but feeding allowed in emergencies, to be best interest of the animals.
- Feeding Birds
- Bird feeding
- feeding no teasing yes 100%
- Bird feeders

- Bird Feed
- Teasing or possibly harming one is one thing, putting out bird seed and water fountains is another.
- There is a difference between feeding and teasing. I have no issue with feeding but they should not be teased.
- None
- bird feeders
- Trees and vegetation in yards be exempt
- If the person feeding/teasing is associated with the person who owns the private property
- Feeding for purpose of rescue
- I think bird food and food for squirrels is fine but other animals should be left alone
- Except for veterinarians and wildlife rehabbers.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, salt licks
- None
- Those who are trapping and spat/neuter neighborhood feral cats. Allowances should be made to have access to water for any animals.
- A fine if caught doing so.
- organic food (carrots. clean lettuce, etc.) proven to be healthy for the animals (deer, rabbit, etc.)
- Change your signs!!! Of u feed the wildlife we will have to kill the animal. People need to know why or they automatically do the opposite!!
- Education campaigns as to how this is detrimental to wildlife and how it endangers both people and wildlife.
- No
- Abandoned animal that needs help.
- Private property is private!!!
- City allows feeding in desperate situational
- Hummingbird feeders/birdseed feeders
- None
- none
- If the animal is injured.
- If it is a domesticated animal (ie. Cat or dog) or clearly starving/malnourished
- Bird feeders & small wildlife feeders okay
- None - if it's Wildlife it needs to be protected, feeding and teasing hurts wild animals
- Bird feeders
- What do you mean by teasing??? No one should feed wild animals. Quit with the fines. Educate. Duh.
- If animal is hurt or malnutrition it is ok to feed
- Injured animals
- None

- Wild birds
- Harming wild life should be prohibited.
- If the wildlife is being rehabilitated
- Bird feeders
- birds, bats, bees.
- Safety
- Bird feeders should always be allowed
- Don't feed wildlife, ever, regardless of property
- Fines for people feeding and teasing wildlife. Feeding birds should be exempt, with the exception of birds of prey. More education around the effects of feeding and teasing wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Dining property owners if they are leaving wildlife attractants out and also engaging in a plant removal program like Banff and Canmore so property owners can have berry and fruit trees that attract animals at no cost to them by the city.
- Feeding birds should still be allowed. Also if a wild animal is trapped in a persons yard for an extended amount of time they should be allowed to feed and give the animal water if they feel safe to do so.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders, etc
- Bird feeders, feeding community cats that have been TNR or are in the process of being TNR
- An animal in distress should be helped, contact wildlife the animal rehab centre to defer to their recommendation.
- Young/injured wildlife
- Providing water for dehydration. Feeding squirrels or chipmunks
- No teasing, feeding is OK
- Abandon infant wildlife
- Squirrels and birds
- None
- Poisoned/bait food for invasive species or pests
- throw the human in jail. fine the human. put his /her photo on the front page of the papers/ social media.
- Birds, and rodents
- BREEDS. DONT. MEAN. AGGRESSIVE. If you mean "nuisance dog" as in any of the breeds you listed you're dumb. If nuisance dog means a dog with an aggressive history then I vote that the owners recieve a higher fine.
- Bird feeders
- except bird feeders that squirrels can't access

- Add something about feeding animals for health reasons. Example: someone finds and injured animal and is trying to help it until they can get it to a professional. Or are genuinely worried for their safety.
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- None
- Taking care of injured/orphaned animals.
- Bird feeders
- Responsible feeding for aiding in removal of a nuisance animal
- Bird feeders
- Feeding unintentionally
- We are eliminating habitats. They have to adapt. There are cases where they need to be fed.
- Except animals that potentially can become at risk to be euthanized (bears, bobcats...)
- Training with wild animals
- Birds
- Feeding stray cats in order to get close to them so you can rehabilitate/trap them and bring them in for rehabilitation
- Birds
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- None. No one should tease or feed wild animals. It's not good for the ecosystem.
- Bird feeders, feeding an emaciated or injured animal
- Bird
- Bird feeder
- None
- it should be legal to feed wild live only with food they should eat, no junk food. But teasing wildlife should be illegal everywhere.
- Fines
- Not for feeding wildlife no
- A family of animals is starving to death
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Feeding feral (not wild) rabbits
- Birdfeeders will need an explicit exemption to avoid any ambiguity
- Rehabilitation and rescue
- Feeding wild birds and bunnies should be allowed. No one should tease wildlife
- Suggestion for question 1. Release programs are ridiculous. Those cats shouldn't be outdoors, as it puts pressure on wild bird populations and is also unsafe for the cats. I'd prefer to see a spay/neuter and re-home program.
- Feeding any animal in a respectful manner. Only teasing should be banned.

- None.
- Bird feeders
- None
- The animal is clearly in dire need of food and mad sure the food was appropriate for that species of animal
- Nine
- Communal spaces like fields should have signs mentioning wildlife safety.
- Birds, squirrels
- Is this really a problem?
- Humming bird feeders
- No teasing
- If a wildlife animal was harming my pet, I would want to have the ability to stop it without penalization.
- Many people have bird feeders with healthy feed and bird baths for wild birds (and sometimes squirrels), and these should remain legal. I support a bylaw that prohibits teasing.
- Feeding if injured
- Bird feeders
- backyard bird-feeders
- When it attracts vermin
- N/A
- If the animal is injured or requires medical attention.
- I don't think bird feeders are a nuisance, and should continue to be. I am concerned about people attracting and feeding animals that could be problematic, such as deer, coyote and lynx/bobcats
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Not sure
- squirrels, chipmunks, deer, calm animals
- Bird feeding
- N/a
- I would say people could engage with and feed animals, but not tease or harm them
- Leaving feeders out for birds
- injured wildlife
- None.
- No exceptions.
- A small fine / and some information on the repercussions of feeding wildlife
- None
- Prohibit teasing in all circumstances
- Voting no because I don't see the harm in feeding birds
- Bird feeders, squirrels feeders etc.

- Bird feeders
- Bird/ squirrel
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions for birds
- Wild hares, domesticated rabbits, ducks, geese. I support prohibiting teasing but not feeding.
- Definitely no teasing. I do however support bird feeders.
- Feeding birds,squirrels etc should be allowed, deer & carnivore feeding no.
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Fines
- When wild animals venture onto property and find food, without any aid/luring from people.
- Appropriate bird feeders
- Dangerous wild animals ie bears
- Bird feeders
- Would like to see this handled appropriate to the circumstance. A family with young children feeding ducks can be educated and warned about the dangers while a person deliberately hurting, teasing, chasing or trapping a bird or animal to get steep fines
- none
- Exemption for non pest/predator species
- Feeding of injured animals
- be allowed to annoy nuisance animals so they leave property. Skunks etc
- Teasing, feeding for entrapment absolutely no. But people putting water or bird seed out, no.
- If an animal is in distress we should be able to help. If that means feeding then I want to be able to without persecution
- Mayor Nenshi could not be fed regardless of his location.
- Rescue animals/animals in visible distress
- None
- Birds
- Feeding and teasing feel like 2 different things. One is potentially life saving and the other is torment. Very case specific.
- Feeding an appropriate food in order to supplement animals through the winter eg. Bird food for birds, hay for the deer
- Feeding of birds,bees and squirrels
- Exception bird feeders
- Any non carnivore animals; bunnies, frogs, rabbits, deer. But make sure you collect the food each night/after feeding the omnivores.

- Feeding on private property is ok. Teasing on private property is NOT ok. Should be considered abuse when teasing and a fine should occur.
- Birds feeders should be exempt, no teasing of any creatures should be tolerated.
- No exceptions. Feeding wild life anywhere in the city boundaries is an invitation for animals to stay.
- There is not enough information and warning that people should not be feeding wildlife in City Parks. People clear don't care about the rules and the well being of wildlife. an increase in fines and more monitoring needs to be done for City Parks.
- Bird feeding
- Squirrels, birds, rabbits, other small prey animals
- Animals in danger who need to be moved off property
- Feeding still allowed. ie) birdfeeders
- Birds, squirrels, deer and rabbits and other animals eating garden vegetables or garden foods of their own accord on private property
- Yes the feeding of wildlife should be allowed on private property
- When an animal is causing issues on the property
- Exceptions: bird feeders
- trying to coax animal off of property
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding
- It is covered by provincial legislation. Why do we need the city involved?
- Having animals eat from your garden is not teasing.
- Bird feeders
- Absolutely none
- Birds
- what is teasing? stupid!
- I think I should be able to have bird feeders and put peanuts out for squirrels...
- Squirrels, birds, bees
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be exempt
- Birds
- Ducks
- Gophers, magpies, rodents etc
- Bird feeders
- song birds (bird feeders)
- This would effectively ban bird feeders. It's ridiculous.
- If the owner is able to be at the scene and speak on behalf that they know the individuals and the animal is safe then they shouldn't be fined, otherwise for the safety of pets in yards this should be a bylaw
- no exceptions

- What about bird feeders? I dont agree with children, pets etc chasing birds.
- Bird feeders
- Lower taxes quot wasting money on this bull
- None wild is wild
- Please clearly state what feeding wild animals means. IE putting out bird seed for the birds.
- Allow feeding birds
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Teasing would need a very clear definition
- None, wild life should never be teased or fed. It creates dependency and eventually will be detrimental to the animal.
- None
- N/a
- No exceptions
- Exemptions of birds?
- Consent of the property owner. A flexible criteria that allows for case-by-case basis examination of the incident upon appeal.
- None
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Get a life
- Only allow bird feeders.
- Injured animals, I don't believe teasing of any animals is okay. If someone is feeding an injured animal until proper medical help can be obtained that's fine.
- Not sure
- An animal that was clearly injured and needed care and attention until animal services or fish and wildlife could arrive to assist.
- For feeding, if it was injured that would be ok. But to teach wildlife that it is ok to approach humans could be dangerous for the public in public spaces.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- A bylaw shouldn't be required. That's common sense.
- if feeding would save an animal in trouble
- No exceptions.
- Bird feeders should continue to be allowed
- Quit trying to determine what people do on their property.
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders allowed
- Sick/injured rescue animals
- None
- None.

- Approved list of foods that you can feed on private property
- Only allow feeding of wildlife in designated areas where wildlife isn't close to any important structures or public sites. Teasing should not be tolerated.
- NONE
- Bird feeding seems harmless but I'm no expert
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and all squirrels or other invasive destructive species
- All
- wild animals living the city have already forgotten how to live in the wild..... This environment is unnatural to them. Feeding them will not make the problem worse.
- Too vague, and it would never be enforced. Don't introduce bylaws where there are no resources available for enforcement.
- If wildlife is injured, providing water or needs until help arrives or required and to calm animal if needed
- None
- A in city bow hunt
- No exceptions!
- If an animal is starving and fed I think the fine should be lessened but the person should be educated and possibly fined depending on duration of feeding, especially if they failed to reach out to wildlife.
- Only if animal is injured and short term to sustain until help can come.
- Feeding birds inform birdfeeders in your yard should not be prohibited
- Bird feeders, etc.
- Bird feeders
- Require fences were available
- None
- bird and squirrel feeders
- I'd support a bylaw that prohibits teasing, but not one that prohibits feeding
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels
- Attempts to scare wildlife away from property, without physical harm.
- Does leaving a few nuts for a squirrel fall under this? We have many more important issues in the city, such as delveopers cutting down mature trees, that deserve more resources.
- Wildlife rehabilitation
- An injured animal which one is caring for until Animal control can arrive.
- Unless a permitted rescue or rehabilitation entity
- Bird feeders
- help moving the wild animal off property in a humane way
- Bird and squirrel feeding (and by extension deer feeding) from front lawns/bird feeders...

- Ducks, but city provide seed purchase at common feeding areas
- bird feeders
- I like bird feeders but don't want to see "annoyance" wildlife harmed (magpies, squirrels, etc)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- Feeding an animal in distress to save it before turning it over to the appropriate rehabilitation authorities.
- Bird feeders should be ok
- None. PRIVATE property. Not for you to decide
- Exceptions being feeding birds
- If the animal is hurt.
- Bird feeders in winter
- Bird feeders
- none. Sending enforcement officers to look into private property for people feeding squirrels (or other wildlife) is too intrusive.
- Fine.
- Small song birds
- Small birds, birdfeeders, and bat houses
- Animals in distress
- If the wildlife was emaciated and needed assistance re: food. No exceptions for teasing.
- Bird feeders/baths/houses don't need to be regulated.
- Acreage size, Forest/wildland proximity
- Feeding hungry animals appropriate food
- None
- Squirrel and birds
- If a deer wanders into your garden at night, should you call bylaw to chase it away or just let it wander off on it's own?
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed
- Birds
- Squirrels/bird feeders
- I expect people to respect animals, they where here first after all we moved into their space and they are the ones losing their homes to new builds, I'm an animal lover and i will always be one so I think everyone should respect animals and have boundrie
- Except those who feed ducks on their property
- None
- Bird feeders
- Feeding ducks
- People who are rehabbing wildlife for release
- Care for injured animals prior to taking to a vet or wildlife rescue.

- City owned private property only
- None,
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding squirrels and birds.
- Petting zoos
- Squirrels
- Feeding wildlife at private sanctuaries
- Birds
- a fine of some sort
- Must NOT be done as baiting for hunting
- nursing injured wildlife to health
- None
- Injured animal that a rehab or rescue won't take
- Teasing Or taunting wildlife should be banned and fines given to enforce it, but often wildlife aren't intentionally fed, being drawn in by garden contents, bird seed etc. These should boot constitute a violation.
- Don't want food gardens and fruit trees disallowed like I've heard has been done in places like Canmore to prevent wildlife from encroaching into the city and feeding.
- Birdseed should be allowed, same with humming bird feeders as the harm they cause is minimal compared to the joy. Only authorized food. No bread etc
- Just no teasing, thats cruel.
- None
- feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Would allow feeding birds on private property
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders on private property. Providing these sources for nourishment increases survivorship of birds during harsh winters.
- Bird feeders.
- For large dangerous animals only I feel
- Bird feeders and feeding wild birds
- None
- What is your definition of wildlife. Some can say chickens, pot bellied pigs are and so on. You need to include more precise wording otherwise someone could fight the bylaw
- A bag of garbage being forgotten about and left out on the deck and birdfeeders must be excluded.
- None

- no restrictions. Parents should be fined if their children harrass wildlife. I see this all the time and could lead to kids getting hurt and wild life suffering the consequences of negligent parents
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- So squirrels, aviary animals, and other animals would result in fines??
- None
- Except if the animal is injured and the person has contacted an appropriate organization for assistance
- I would suggest that bird feeders are ok but Our neighbours lay out hay for rabbits in the winter and we often get as many as six coyotes in our front yard because of it.
- Feeding any large, wild animal that is equal in size to or larger than a deer
- Exception would be bird feeders
- Prohibit teasing wildlife, do no prohibit feeding wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Outside of city limits!
- Feeding birds
- An exception if an injured animal was on private property and required assistance.
- No specific exceptions however a clear definition of teasing need to be outlined.
- None
- Specific safe foods for ducks and water fowl
- None
- raising orphaned babies
- Unsure
- Bird feeders
- Split that up. No issue with feeding squirrels but trading is another issue
- Birds
- Bird feeding devices, that are only made for feeding birds.
- If the animal appears to be starving
- Wild Bird feeders should be allowed
- Responsible feeding only
- If the 'teasing' was done to lure wildlife off of personal property for the safety of the wildlife
- Jail time. Or we should tease them in the same manner!
- its private property
- Feeding is okay if appropriate food is left out and not being hand fed. Has provided a safe spot for mother to birth her deer in the back yard and leave them while she goes out for food or whatever during the day.
- You're going to have to be very specific regarding this, what exactly do you mean by wildlife? Does that mean you will no longer be allowed to put up bird or squirrel feeders on your own property? This needs to be clarified.

- Would this include water, bird, butterfly, and the like feeders? I support bylaws that prohibit the teasing or feeding of wildlife for the purpose of harming.
- Birdfeeders
- Wildlife getting into poorly contained garbage/waste should be addressed
- birds, squirrels
- You don't own there property. Stop being money hungry americans
- Migratory birds
- Bird feeders should still be allowed.
- Animals have free roam. They were here before us. No exceptions.
- To help a stray or lost animal
- In order to capture them safely it should be ok but done by professionals.
- You should be allowed to feed the birds
- The animal is obviously being starved/abused
- Birds
- Feeding birds from a bird feeder is ok
- Feeding wildlife their appropriate food types is fine.
- Bird feeders
- For an owner to press charges it could be an expensive/complicated process but the crime itself is just as bad as feeding animals in parks. Owners need city support if this situation arises.
- Bird feeders
- Would a deer eating I your garden be a fine? Stupid
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property
- The only exception, would be planting trees on your property that will provide food for the wildlife to acquire naturally, ONLY if your property is outside city limits.
- The only possible exception I can think of is if a wild animal on private property is injured and cannot feed itself... But even that case, I'd rather see it reported to Animal Control so they can deal with the situation, just to be safe (for the animal)
- Wild life is just that. They can look after themselves.
- There is no exceptions for teasing a wild animal. That can result in the animal retaliating. And do not feed wildlife unless it is seeds or healthy foods for them if you want to leave some food for them. Bread is not a good food for ducks or geese
- Injured wildlife
- Wildlife rehabilitation
- Bird feeders maintained in a responsible manner
- Does this mean birdfeeders would be illegal?
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders are fine, I just don't want people feeding/attracting coyotes and other dangerous animals
- Bird feeders/houses. Priority would be teasing.

- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Where is the line? Is it okay to still have bird feeders, etc?
- None
- birds, squirrels,
- Birdseed
- None
- Injured animals- where they need help to survive
- Using feeders for typically fed animals such as squirrels and birds. Many of these would die; there are not enough natural sources of food - they are pseudo domesticated.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Dangerous wildlife like bears, deer, moose etc.
- The government should find another way to incentivize people to behave differently. More fines is proven to not be effective and I do not support more laws.
- Bird feeders
- Separate out feeding and teasing. Teasing is often abusive and should be outlawed. Feeding birds/squirrels/deer is not abusive and should be permitted. Within reason.
- No teasing anywhere, but responsible feeding (e.g., bird feeders) should be allowed on private property. I don't think feeding animals like coyotes or bears should be allowed though, to avoid habituation.
- Except bird feeders
- Injured
- Feeding birds on your property
- If the property owner allows it.
- Birds
- Exception bird feeding. ban squirrel feeders.
- I do think that however under right circumstances people should be able to help an animal until a fish and wildlife service can show up.
- feeding and teasing are very different things, this needs to be two separate questions. Teasing should absolutely be against the bylaw as it is harassment of a living creature. Feeding on private property is entirely up to the individual.
- People should be able to try and remove deer of their property they are a nuisance
- Injured wildlife needing care
- Attempting to lure in an injured animal using food so you can take it to get help
- Teasing is the problem. Coexisting should be OK.
- Prohibit teasing, but discourage feeding. Bird feeders and such are fine except during winter months.
- Feeding birds should still be allowed

- Baby animals that have lost their mother
- Considerations for type of property, is its an acreage, farm, or residential area. Residential area and people are feeding deere to get pictures, fine them.
- Bird feeders should be exempt. Maybe squirrel feeders too, if those are a thing. Otherwise I would not support this bylaw.
- If the animal was hurt or malnutrition
- Teasing any animal wild or domestic should be unlawful
- feeding with intent to do no harm.
- Feeding injured wildlife to keep them around until services can come to collect the animal
- Luring an injured animal to get it medical help
- However you have to be careful when citizens are caring for wildlife that would It survive. Eg a simple putting out of a bowl of water should It suddenly be considered criminal. You also need to separate feeding/ caring for wildlife versus teasing, abusin
- Wild bird feedersp
- Injured wildlife given food, water and protection until fish &wildlife can aide.
- No
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- Feeding wildlife if healthy and safe.
- People put out bird feeders? Does this make feeding birds illegal. What about other animals that eat from this same feeders.
- Injured or sick wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Patrols in the are or video surveillance
- An animal cruelty bylaw regardless of where it happens
- None
- Teasing animals wild or not is abuse and should be treated as such. Feeding can make animals reliant but any law passed must be considerate to the circumstances eg. Bird feeders should be ok, feeding ferals to rescue ok etc.
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Please differentiate between types of wildlife Eg: Don't feed bears, yes you can feed squirrels. No teasing of any wildlife should ever be allowed
- Fakk off with all the fines
- depends on the situation
- beekeeping
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders & water bowls. I have a water bowl on my deck and the number of birds, squirrels, and other animals that come in day/night to drink is incredible. As development increases within our city, wildlife water sources are decreasing.

- None.
- Feeding wild birds.
- birds
- Teasing, yes. Also, if its a [removed] bear, don't feed it
- Bird feeders
- N/a
- No exception wild life should not be encouraged tt return to the city for It's for food it endangers people
- looking after nestlings
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is injured and they are helping it
- None, wildlife should not be fed, that is how it becomes domesticated and sometimes put down.
- Bird feeders in the winter time.
- Neighbours being bothered
- No exceptions.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Rescue of wounded or abandoned(young) wildlife
- Bird feeders
- If there was wildlife that was injured or needed water before someone could get there to help.
- If the animal is injured or looks malnourished. It should be ok to feed them.
- There should be no exceptions. Why should it be ok to feed/tease wildlife only on private property? The same rules should apply to private and public property.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeds
- Animal in distress
- Trap and release wild animals out of city limits
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- Birdfeeders
- Emergencies like fires, floods etc
- No teasing but feeding should be ok
- Bird feeders
- winter feeding of resident birds
- Wild Birds obviously
- Bird feeders, composting (can't control what will feed on it), etc.
- None
- bird feeders
- Birds should be exempt
- If it's a stray pet, feeding them would be necessary to rescue
- Bird feeders

- No exceptions, wildlife should be left alone regardless of what property they are on
- Squirrels are amazing leave them out of the by law
- An injured animal that needs help, food/water, etc. until a wildlife officer can attend.
- People would no longer be allowed to feed birds? And fined if a squirrel raids the bird feeder? What if a skunk is eating mice/bugs on private property? I think some more thought should go into this. And more space to type feedback...
- This is too vague of a question. If it's to the length of you can't have a bird feeder because you're feeding the wildlife, then we need to reevaluate
- Bird feeders on property as exception
- First offenders.
- Birds
- Teasing wild animals should not be allowed.
- feeding potentially dangerous animals such as bears, coyotes, etc
- Birds from bird feeders
- Feeding is ok, teasing is NOT!
- If the action is deemed detrimental to the wildlife
- Lots of people feed deer over the winter in their yards backing onto green spaces, the deer will eat bird feeders in that place. I think feeding deer is fine
- Endangered species
- Birds and squirrels are wildlife that people feed, and it is not uncommon for deer to eat the seed etc left for birds. Slippery slope. Feeding coyotes is a different story, and a big no.
- permit bird feeders
- dehydration, starvation or neglect (example, bare bones) or mother with her young, or use food/water just to calm animal until proper authorities arrive
- None
- None
- Birdfeeders and similar devices should be exceptions
- Feeding birds ok (bird feeders)
- Baiting for hunting purposes
- Having bird feeders for wild birds
- Feeding wild birds with wild bird seed, squirrels with peanuts.
- Birds
- Feeding birds and squirrels in private yards
- You need to elaborate on what you define as feed. Birds are "wildlife" and they feed on the berries of our trees on our property. While it might seem obvious, the wording you choose needs to be very specific on your wording.
- Bird feeders need to be approved on the bylaw.
- Feeding birds, chipmunks, squirrels, etc. is an educational experience
- None.

- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Fines to those harassing/teasing/feeding wild life
- I'm against teasing, but if it's a terrible winter, and the squirrels and birds are starving, why not have a feeder.
- bird feeders and baths should be acceptable
- Sick or injured animals may need a little extra help to get them back on their feet
- Feeding Birds and squirrels
- Birds
- Documented proof required. Warning/Education on first offence.
- None
- Maybe birds?
- Birds
- Fruit trees or other plant food sources should not be considered to be "feeding".
- Animal injury/safety concern
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Birds
- None
- People should still be allowed bird and squirrel feeders on their properties.
- Birds feeders, squirrel feeders.
- For hunting purposes
- Not really an exception, but it should be emphasized that anyone who sees an animal that is injured or sick contact Fish and Wildlife or another organization that can provide help and/or rehabilitation to the animal.
- Bird feeders.
- None
- Only for mammals not birds
- Private property should remain "private"
- Seriously? Who wrote this? Teasing animals AND feeding animals are two completely different things. One is cruel (teasing) one can be life-saving (feeding-depending on the circumstance and animal). This is ridiculous to put in same category. Rewrite.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding injured animals that would die otherwise
- Feeding a hurt or starving animal until it can be trapped and taken to a rehab center.
- Injured animals looking for compassion and help
- It's private property, owners rights.
- bird feeders, water
- I disagree because this could extend to birds and squirrels who, oftentimes, rely on the food they receive from homes in the winter.
- Wildlife that is hurt and the city refuses to help the. (I.e. magpies or hares)

- Allow some feeding.
- If the wildlife is owned and abused or neglected
- Giving food or water to Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- birdfeeders, hummingbird feeders, feeding to trap and relocate
- Education
- I'm against teasing wildlife (if I understand what is meant by teasing correctly), I also feel strongly that if feeding is done, it is done properly with food that animals are ok to eat.
- NONE.
- Mice and other pests can be fed for traps
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be ok
- Bird feeders
- I think feeding ducks is not that bad
- Birds (bird feeders), squirrels
- Education on dangers of habituation, fines
- Bird feeders, though I'm not sure about the ecological impact of birdfeeders and would suggest following the council of environmental scientists.
- Specific bird breeds (not nuisance birds like magpies, crows, etc.)
- Proper bird and squirrel feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Wildlife should not be bothered, even on private property.
- Guidance to what is appropriate behaviour in feeding birds etc. many people are unaware that their feeding of wildlife attracts unwanted wildlife or encourages an influx of animals that may be detrimental. Such as squirrels.
- Bird feeders should be allowed, even potentially squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Tell people to leave the wildlife alone
- Birds/squirrels
- Teasing is one thing, but feeding the squirrels and birds is perfectly fine. What a STUPID bylaw.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Nursing animals back that have found their way to your property. For example ducks. From experience I can say that ducklings taken to wildlife rehab centers around the city basically tell you they'll be food for the birds of prey.
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Domestic rabbits that have bred with wild rabbits to produce hybrids should be exempt. These hybrid rabbits have little to no survival skills and animal lovers that look after them and provide food for them are really their only chance at survival
- If animal is starved

- Sick or problem animals
- Cruelty is obviously never to be tolerated.
- Heavy fines and bans for second offences
- private property is private, if people wanna feed bird/squirrel or whatever animal gets there, thats their choice, anything else is a constitutional assault to our rights
- Birds
- Work with the homeowner. Feeding/teasing is a general term. Does this apply to having bird feeders on your property where some food may be spilled. Having mice/voles/rabbits eat your garden? The City needs to clarify what this bylaw acutally entails
- If the animal is starving or in distress
- Bird feeders
- Abandoned babies, injured wildlife
- Bird feeders
- It's acreage (5 acres or more)
- Birds
- Birds
- Unless it's an injured animal and you're acting on the advice of trained and educated individuals.
- If an animal is injured, requires water, looking malnourished, needing help, etc.
- Wild birds
- Feeding is fine as long as animal is safe and not causing issues with with the public
- Fish should still be fed.
- Bylaw against teasing but not feeding.
- no exception for wildlife, they become dependent on this and then are often left for dead.
- Depends on whether you're trying to bait an animal into your property for the purposes of doing either. If wildlife is on my property I should have some leeway to shoo them away.
- birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- NO exceptions!
- injured animals in need of care
- Kids feeding ducks etc
- Make an exception for closed bird feeders.
- Animal is Injured in Which case qualified people can interact with the animal
- Bears
- Exceptions to wildlife sanctuary, birdfeeders etc
- Birds in the winter
- Bird feeders or similarly "proper" methods of feeding wildlife
- Birdfeeders
- stop trying to act like god
- It's private property- but out.

- I feel like bird feeders are harmless but I don't have any expertise in this area
- Wildlife/cattle should be respected.
- Feeding birds and deer
- if i want to feed squirrels and rabbits on my property i should be allowed to put out food for them. just no teasing wildlife
- None
- too draconian
- Feeding birds be exempt
- Seriously, how much wildlife actually comes into our private properties? This seems silly
- none
- None what so ever
- I think a bird feeder on private property is fine.
- Bird feeders?
- Birds.
- Teasing should be prohibited/ regulated based on definition of "teasing"; feeding is acceptable within reason, again maybe more specific definitions and regulations.
- Proper signage and awareness
- Bird feeders are ok
- [removed]
- If animal was injured/ emaciated & in need of immediate assistance.
- bird feeders
- Shouldnt be fined for protected wildlife that might need assistance on property (ie: cannot take measures to remove)
- bird feeders, bee hives
- Unless the animal is in danger
- Feeding birds seed
- Malnourished and ailing animals awaiting fish and wildlife
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- None all wild animals should be left alone.
- Birds and squirrels
- Leave them alone and make sure there is no trash.
- trapping, baiting, drugging wildlife for pleasure or profit
- Bird feeders
- None
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed. Of course there should be punishments for teasing
- none.
- None.

- bird feeders
- hummingbird feeders
- Birds should be the exception
- Birds
- How will it be enforced, half the bylaws aren't or they can't be bothered!
- There was no space to talk about point 3 so I'm going to do it here. Banning dogs based on their look is the most backward and insane thing to do. Pit bulls are one of the most friendly, sweet, loving, and caring breeds I've ever come across.
- None
- People should have the option to drive nuisance wildlife off their property. Squirrels and magpies, in particular, harass leashed pets and other wildlife -- trying to frighten them away should not count as teasing.
- Providing appropriate care for an injured animal
- Where ownership of an animal which could be regarded as w
- That's just dumb. Private Property is private
- Abuse of the animals
- birds squirrels
- Feeding allowed, but govern the types of food used
- More education to help us understand why it is not ok to feed animals. Community engagement such as at Prince's Island where we can learn about what is and is not ok when we interact or share space with the ducks and geese.
- feeding birds
- If you saved a bird or baby animal that was injured and you were giving it water
- Bird feeders because of loss of habitat for song birds.
- None
- Should be bylaw for harming wildlife.
- Allow feeding of birds, squirrels, and other small animals
- I want to be able to feed wild birds the wild bird feed and my squirrel sunflower seeds
- Fines
- Cruelty to wildlife anywhere should be prohibited
- Pests
- Bird feeders
- Bird/ squirrel feeders in yards
- educate the public on healthy feeding practices (which encourage wildlife to return)
- Small birds
- Catch and release shucks, coyotes, aggressive squirrels.
- Bird/squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- bird/squirrel feeders

- If an animal is starving
- If the animal is causing a nuisance or is acting in a dangerous manor on your property
- no exceptions
- Feeding is fine, teasing is not.
- None
- Fines
- Not breed specific
- Trying to tame a wild cat
- None
- Exceptions should be made if the person is trying to catch the animal in order to get it help, for example if it is injured. Also, if there is a dedicated feeding area for feral cats involved in TNR programs. Birdfeeders in the winter to help birds.
- Bird feeders
- within the city - yes. except for bird feeders and by extension, squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Exception for bird feeders / proper bird feeding (appropriate throwable foods such as vegetables, fruit and seeds).
- This survey is bias and doesn't provide all options
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- None. There is zero excuse
- Feeding if there is an Injury, safety if near but road. Teasing is WRONG.
- Bird and squirrel feeding is allowed
- As long as the animals are not being lured to be harmed, then it should be fine
- Ducks/geese where food is provided
- Injured or in need animal
- The care and medical attention of injured wild animals.
- Exceptions should be made for feeding birds.
- Designated birds (ex geese) at certain parks
- If an animal seems like a lost pet, an exception for somebody who is trying to bring that pet in to find its family.
- Technically, feeding birds (e.g. Bluejays) would not be permitted in the bylaw even though it is encouraged to help protect the species. This provision can be confusing. Ensure you understand the problem you are trying to resolve with the bylaw.
- Feeding if animal is held on property due to being injured.
- Bird Feeders/Baths
- You can feed birds,squirrels, etc. you cannot torment wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, bee water
- Feeding only so they dont keep coming back

- injured animals inbetween calling for wildlife services
- Feeding a visibly injured animal for the purpose of gaining trust and trying to get it help through a wildlife rescue organization.
- Feeding birds
- Exemption for your own private property, such as bird and squirrel feeders. Let people do what they want on their own property
- None!
- Birds
- I can't have bird feeders now
- Bird feeders
- This questions depends on the definition of teasing. Homeowners should be allowed to use approved methods to deal with nuisance wildlife.
- Attempts to discourage wildlife from damaging property could be falsely interpreted as "teasing"
- None
- Bird feeders.
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed but teasing and harming them should not be allowed.
- Birdfeeders
- Small birds and only in winder, when food is scarce
- Would this include bird feeders? What about giving a squirrel peanuts? I think you need to call out the intention and be more specific.
- Anything that might be considered a scavenger and could roam into your yard. If a deer wanders into my garden and eats a head of lettuce will I get a ticket? If a raccoon wanders into my back yard and eats a fish out of my pond?
- No exceptions!
- Having signage out about the wildlife found in city parks
- Leaving seed for wild birds should still be allowed. I don't agree with intentionally feeding squirrels/rodents, etc.
- Bird feeders/houses
- Responsible feeding- monitored by a sanctuary such as Inglewood bird sanctuary.
- The animal is injured
- No feeding of potentially dangerous wildlife or wildlife that may cause harm to people and pets
- Birdfeeders should be exempt (and obviously "pollinator gardens" if anyone is silly enough to think it would fall under this bylaw)
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- No shooting any wildlife should be added !!! Heavy fines for this.
- Squirrels and birds
- None
- letting them be

- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders would be allowed
- If appropriate feeders are available.
- Bird feeders
- None.
- Birds, deer
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders are fine.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Still allow Bird feeds
- birdfeeders or small animal feeders
- Needs a better definition of wildlife. Birds and squirrels are fine in private residences. But not larger animals.
- Birds/squirrel feeders would be ridiculous to fine!
- Luring them to do harm. Including coyotes.
- Bird feeders
- maybe don't feed squirrels and ducks, but bird feeders/bird baths should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- If someone owns their land it is of no business of the City to invoke rules of livestock on privately owned land. Stay in your jurisdiction.
- Only outlaw feeding
- none
- Private Property, is private property!
- What about nuisance animals? Skunks? Feeding birds? So no bird feeders?
- Animals are injured, provide food until can be taken to proper authorities
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions - unless there are extenuating circumstances.
- Bird feeders
- None, human should be fined for feeding or teasing the wildlife, it only puts the wildlife in danger and no humans ever pay the price.
- Birds such as pigeons
- Bird feeders
- I think people should still be able to feed birds and squirrels
- Other than large mammals not native to urban areas - ie. bears, bobcats, wolves, coyotes, etc.
- Bird feeders
- Cant get mad about feeding birds in feeders
- Ducks
- Ensure fish and wildlife is available to remove and help any sick or injured wildlife

- Exempt bird feeders
- If the animal looks sick or malnourished
- Farms? There are probably a couple of good ones.
- Birds
- Bird feeders and squirrels
- No exceptions - no bylaw needed
- Feeding bird seeds
- Bird feeders should be permitted
- Bird feeders
- The only exception I would say is if you grow plants that tend to attract wildlife to eat them. Eg milkweed attracts monarch butterflies, or foliage that deer might eat. Its somewhat of a passive way of feeding animals but anything more is too much.
- Abusing animals only should be fined
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, water baths
- Things like bird feeders as some species likely rely on these sources of food. However, no wildlife should be teased, even on private property.
- Feeding birds to be ok
- Bird boxes and squirrel feeding is okay, any any animal that would get tracked down and euthanized due to feeding it should be protected by this bylaw.
- Bird feeding in winter
- None
- no exceptions, people should get a hefty fine
- Bird feeders where acceptable
- A warning and information kit to explain why this is a problem.
- Bird feeders.
- Feeding small birds (bird seed from feeders)
- It would depend on the animal, an injured bird for example would someone get fined for nursing at back to health? Feeding a city coyote is completely different
- Unless the animal is found harmed and needs water or attention
- If the animal is harmed there should be a consequence
- Well maintained bird and squirrel feeders or the equivalent.
- It's more for younger people treat it as a crime
- Depending on the private property and the property owner. If there is a way to protect wildlife while working with property owners that would be the most beneficial.
- No teasing but feeding should be ok
- Bird feeding
- leave pitbuls, a breed you are punishing based off looks. out of this.
- None, it's my property I can do whatever I want

- rescue groups who are there to help wild/feral animals that need to be spayed/neutered and could potentially find a home.
- Concerned that this limits bird feeders which I don't agree with.
- Wild birds
- Exceptions given to bird and squirrel feeders
- No teasing, but feeding allowed
- Bird feeders
- None, however this shouldn't impact intervening in situations where an animal is injured/requires assistance.
- Exception of bird feeders
- create info booklet for private property owners regarding feeding/teasing wildlife
- bird feeders
- Putting up coin feeders with safe and acceptable food for the animals.
- Bird feeders and bird baths should be allowed. A Bylaw applicable to private property should be very specific as to what actions are defined as "teasing" and what types of wildlife are more detrimentally impacted by feeding by humans
- I think feeding squirrels and birds is fine but anything larger should probably be left alone
- Many people have bird feeders or squirrel feeders on there properties and there is no problem with that
- None
- Bird feeders and things like that seem fine to me. More to keep animals from coming into the city.
- No fine for feeding, but fine for teasing. Type of animal should also be considered. Example, bears, cougars should not be allowed to feed. But sure feed deer.
- The way this is worded it would include things like bird feeders.
- gardens that are being raided by wildlife (don't see this as feeding them)
- Teasing or feeding food that is harmful to the species.
- birds
- None
- Feeding/Luring for trapping wildlife for rehabilitation purposes
- Bird feeders
- Helping the wildlife? I feel like an expert can better answer this
- If people wanna feed a bird that visits their property let them.
- Feral domesticated animals (cats, dogs) are fully exempt as they are not wildlife and may be rehabilitated.
- Slippery slope here...are you going to fine people with bird feeders?
- Birdfeeders, squirrel feeders
- Birdfeeders for wild birds who may rely on them to feed through the winter

- Dependent on the well-being of the animal. A nut for a squirrel or bread for a pigeon may be harmless, but leaving food for predators like foxes, or in rare cases a bear, can be extremely dangerous for both the animal and the offending person.
- Helping animals in need is they are injured or they aren't able to care for themselves because of age etc
- bird feeders
- If an animal is completely starving and emancipated find help or feed it
- Teasing there should be a bylaw however not feeding appropriate food.
- Hay for deer in winter
- Birds
- none
- n/a
- Nuisance animals
- If animals are injured and people fed them to keep help them
- Allow bird feeders.
- Unless the animals are in distress. Other than that leave them be and be charged. We are Imposing on the animals natural habitat.
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be allowed
- Leave birds out of it and deer feeders. Obviously can't feed bears ect.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders/squirrel feeders
- Are we going to get nit-picky, as in a bird-feeder is prohibited? Or is it just protect the wildlife from traps and death?
- 9
- No back yard breeding, no back yard dog rescues
- no exceptions
- Small birds (excluding pigeons).
- receptacles or means to feed wildlife that don't require direct engagement with wildlife (e.g. bird feeders)

- Bird feeders
- I would allow bird feeders
- no exceptions
- Feeding birds
- Injured animals
- Children could be an exception. Maybe a class instead of fine about the dangers of feeding and teasing wildlife
- Rehabilitation of orphaned animals
- None

- I think bird feeders and the like are well meaning and not intended as nuisance. But if someone is leaving a bunch of food on their lawn for wildlife like deer, raccoons or skunks to get into then that should be fineable.
- That a property owner could request fines levied against an animal found to have been chasing/pestering wildlife on their property.
- The city needs to cull hares that are destroying our gardens.
- None. Don't feed wildlife.
- If the animal is injured and needs some food before help or recovery occurs
- Bird feeders
- I think people can feed whatever wildlife they want on their own property. Bird feeders, salt licks, etc.
- Nil
- it is PRIVATE property...
- Birdfeeders?
- None
- If filmed event of abuse to animals then a fine certainly. Hearsay is challengeable, video isn't.
- None. No feeding wildlife unless they're sacrificing themselves.
- Prohibiting teasing yes but not feeding
- Harsher penalties for interfering with wildlife
- Allowing feeding an injured animal until Wildlife officer can collect the animal to take for rehabilitation or disposal
- Not sure what the use case of this law would be but the city should not have more control over private property owners. I might support such a law if I knew the specific use case / incident that it was trying to prevent. If people have bird feeders thts k
- Birds exempt
- Birds
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt.
- Bird feeders on public property should still be allowed
- I think feeding on private property should not result in a fine. Mistreatment and abuse should result in a fine and possible arrest.
- make sure there are common sense exceptions
- Pests
- Basic common sense
- Birds etc.
- No feeding rabbits/Bunnies

- If it directly causes harm yo animal.

- Fines
- Feeding animals on private property, depending the animal.
- Prohibit teasing, but I for one enjoy watching squirrels dig into the nuts and seeds I put out for them.
- Unless the animal is starving to death or injured
- Birds
- Allow bird feeders
- Wild life should be respected from a distance. The more we interact with wildlife the more they become "friendly" with human population and because of human error they end up being destroyed because they are not afraid to come into populated areas.
- The animal is unable to care for itself or if they truly feel the animal has been abandoned by its mother.
- The city should start minding their own business when it comes to private property unless complaints are being made or lives are in danger
- Feeding wild song birds be permitted
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals
- BEARS OF COURSE SHOULD NOT BE FED IN THE CITY AT ALL - PEOPLE MOSTLY ONLY FEED THE SMALL WILDLIFE SO THEY CAN ENJOY THEM - RABBITS, SQUIRRELS, BIRDS ETC WHICH I HAVE NO OBJECTIONS TO - TO SOME PEOPLE THIS IS THEIR ONLY ENJOYMENT
- I would recommend to include that it is not wrong to leave small offerings of safe food (like bird seed) for small non-threatening creatures but to restrict any encouragement of predators being in residential areas
- Birds and squirrels should be the only exemption to feeding wildlife on private property.
- What do you mean by "teasing". This is an ambiguous statement. Bottom line, we should do nothing to encourage wildlife to seek out human interaction.
- Birds and small animals like squirrels
- Birds, rabbits, squirrels
- Property owners not responsible for the natural feeding of wildlife on their property i.e., deer eating from trees and bushes on property. Owners/tenants would be in violation if they put out food for wildlife.
- Let kids feed the ducks. Let me keep my bird feeders,
- None. Attracting wildlife can create dangers for other residents.
- Considering pit bulls a problem dog because of their potential for injury is pure ignorance.
- Private property should remain privately managed and overseen.
- babies that need help

- Bird feeders, feeding appropriate seeds
- Bird feeders and humming bird feeders allowed :)
- People who feed birds using feeders, food left out for homeless animals. Nuts for squirrels.
- song birds
- Feeding should be allowed but not teasing or hurting of animals in any way. Kids parents should be fined if they treat animals poorly.
- Leave animals alone on private property and those that do not wish to be provoked.
- Bird feeders
- If something is starving and not leaving...feed it

- Too broad in general - birds are wild life, what constitutes 'teasing', what if I leave food out for one purpose and wildlife eats it?
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of Birds
- Bird feeders should be okay.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- If people are feeding them, big deal. No one should be teasing animals. Don't micro manage this to death

- Don't feed other citizens pets as the pet may not return home.
- Bird Feeders
- Prohibit teasing on private property but feeding needs to be allowed. Unless this doesn't involve feeding of birds. We should be able to feed birds especially in our harsh winters.
- Bird seed
- Young babies abandoned that are in need of assistance in order to survive.
- If wildlife is found injured on personal property, efforts to help may include food and water
- I don't believe there should be any exceptions.
- 'Wildlife' is a pretty broad term. Does it include strays, birds, squirrels, deer, etc? I am wholly against feeding but definitely against teasing.
- Birds to be excluded
- Bylaw against teasing but not feeding.
- Starving wildlife
- bird/bee feeders,
- Bird feeders
- Private Property or not teasing of any kind should be punishable. I am on the fence with bird feeders... Provided they are appropriate goods and not attractants to other wildlife i.e. bears
- Would this include bird and squirrel feeders.

- None
- Bird feeders at private residences and feeding feral or stray cats and dogs in need of food.
- Allow humane trapping on private property and increase funding for fish and game to assist in these manners
- An animal suffering & in need, while the home owners wait for city officials/animal control.
- When wildlife gets into a yard and into garbage/gardens on their own
- emergency situations for feeding.. drought or fires
- Feral cats to me don't count as wildlife.
- The animal is starving and in need of help
- A fine for endangering wildlife
- Small birds
- Animal in distress
- Min-fomedicated wildlife.
- None! Call game and wildlife
- Fines
- High fines
- Teasing/harming is unacceptable, but feeding birds contributes to nature appreciation
- I buy bird seed. Quit controlling everything!!
- No
- Birds and squirrels
- Injured animals / birds
- A fine
- maybe only on specific types of wildlife that would be pests or could harm others if they get used to people feeding them.
- wild birds being fed appropriate seeds and roughage in a way that does not interfere with their natural activities or behaviors.
- Trapping wildlife for monetary gain should be prohibited.
- N/a
- If the wildlife was wounded or struggling to survive someone may want to give it some food before rescuers can get there to help.
- Feeding coyotes
- Not sure. Don't know enough to suggest
- I'm worried this would include bird feeders or feeding squirrels. Not sure what the definition of teasing is so I cannot just blindly say yes.
- This is unnecessary, and the previous question is a push poll and my answer is neither (bad survey writing by the way, shame on you)).
- Birds and squirrels
- Birds and squirrels ok
- Definition of teasing

- If wildlife naturally takes up residence on a property and cannot be safely relocated, there should be no fines to property owners
- can feed ducks- good luck enforcing a bylaw on private property
- To have tougher laws against cruelty to animals.
- Feeding birds
- Hardline rule, don't feed wildlife!
- None and please include the feral rabbit population which are overrunning some neighbourhoods.
- It would depend on what kind of wildlife is being fed- birds? Racoons? To put a blanket no feeding wildlife is to large a restriction
- It is ridiculous to not allow homeowners to feed seeds and suet and hummingbird nectar to birds in order to help them survive... would be better to prohibit homeowners from leaving garbage cans and compost heaps in unlocked or unsecured area, since the
- Harassing wildlife in any matter should be illegal
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- No one would be allowed birdfeeders, if this was true, and I saved a bee last week that was exhausted by feeding it sugar water. These should not be punishable. Yes feeding bears and coyotes, not good having seeds in my yard should be ok.
- bird feeders
- Injured wildlife that is being taken care of temporarily until wildlife rescue takes over
- Instead of saying all wildlife, break it down to being specific. Birds are wildlife and many enjoy feeding them.
- Feeding small birds with feeders, providing bird houses, caring for an injured wild animal.
- All for laws against teasing but I still want my bird feeder, maybe even squirrel feeder.
- Bird feeders (seed feeders / suet feeders / hummingbird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders.
- feeding birds in winter, and hummingbirds in summer
- Bird feeders of all kinds.
- Private property
- If the wild animal is a pest or a danger to those on the property it may be an exception to allow feeding the animal if the intent is to trap and relocate the animal
- Amendment that ensures "inadvertent" feeding, is squirrels getting into bird feeder.
- Bird feeders / squirrel feeders
- We don't need the government sticking their nose in our business on our property only exception to this should be if someone is harming a animal
- Both, no feeding as it gives a new dependency to wildlife and attracts more. And teasing is needed because it can stress an animal unnecessarily and trigger them
- Birds

- Support feeding animals from a distance where no human contact is encouraged (ie. the property owner putting bird feeders in trees, or the property owner leaving vegetables on their lawn for rabbits). Under no circumstances should there be teasing/baiting
- Fines if caught feeding wild animals
- Bird feeders
- An option for a trained professional to come to relocate a wild animal rather than having an animal left on a private property and becoming a nuisance.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding interim only if life dependant until Wildlife Control can retrieve the animal.
- If it was in fact to help the animal.
- I believe in not teasing but you would want to feed wildlife if you had a bird feeder.
- If someone were to find an injured animal that needed help, or an abandoned baby, for example, they should be allowed to help it (including feeding, providing water, etc.) until they are able to get it to an appropriate organization.
- You can feed wildlife on private property as long as you get the okay from the owners of the animal.
- Do not let people feed wildlife. If they do, it should be fined.
- except feeding on your own private property.
- Hummingbird/bee feeders
- If the animal is in danger or tied of abandoned / left to starve etc
- Birds
- No poisoning or feeding them to draw them in to hunt
- Stray cats and dogs, injured wildlife (rehabilitation purposes)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders are Ok - songbirds, etc.
- When wildlife isn't expected on a property a warning should be advised for new information is now available
- Torture of animals
- An animal is struggling / injured and needs the help
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed
- birds
- Wild animals are wild for a reason, leave them alone!
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, if there's a drought or something- I don't know.
- Unless the wildlife is injured and the person involved has been granted approval to feed the animal by the Alberta Institute for Wildlife Conservation.
- Batting problem animals for trapping

- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals
- bird seed feeders and hummingbird feeders should still be allowed.
- Sick or Injured care until proper services can pick up the animal
- Feeding non prey animals being ok
- Allowing the feeding of smaller animals such as birds, squirrels, ducks
- Bird feeders
- None
- None
- None
- I can't believe this is even a consideration. What about seed type bird feeders?
- If an animal was starving and the residents took the animal to emergency.
- Wildlife in distress might need to be fed and/or captured to help.
- Helping an injured animal
- Same as in City Parks
- Only fine when the actions of a individual are harmful towards the wildlife
- Feeding birds with a proper feeder
- Feeding song birds.
- If permission was asked to the owner
- Fine the people doing so because if the wild animal harms the human, they pay the price, not the human. We already inhabit the animal so territory and then blame them when humans put them in danger.
- In extreme winters maybe a designated area outside city limits for feeding stations that will keep wildlife out, but help keep them happy and healthy during extreme weather
- Fines
- Nuisance wildlife, such as magpies.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrel land hummingbird feeders, temporary care and transport of injured wildlife to rescue org.
- I would suggest an exception for bird and squirrel feeders. Those are beneficial for wildlife.
- Exceptions of trying to get them off property.
- N/a
- Bird feeding
- Birds exempt
- If someone is feeding stray animals who come to their property that is okay.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, bee feeders
- please expand?

- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Birds can be considered wildlife... that would be an exception
- Bird feeders
- does this include bird feeders, and or hummingbird feeders??? Too broad ... what about farmers that leave out hay in their fields on a bad winter for wildlife - not thought out well at all
- No feeding skunks
- Bird feeders should still be aloud as well as pest removal
- There should be exceptions for feeding injured wildlife who may have found a safe haven on private property temporarily.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Animals accessing bird feeders etc - no penalty
- More traps for squirrels and magpies. Allow residents to trap, release or dispose of them.
- If the wildlife is harassing the private property owners example ravens and crows attacking people and domestic animals in their own back yard.
- Birds
- Injured wildlife being cared for until transfer to facility is possible
- Unless it's playing around with animal
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Na
- Non-violently stopping it from eating plants or nesting.
- Just let the animals be
- Bird feeders should absolutely be allowed. They are a critical point of engagement with the natural world for many people and a significant source of mental well-being for house bound people
- Starving animals while waiting for wildlife protection services
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- If animal presents a direct danger to wellbeing of the people of Calgary
- Nursing an injured animal back to health.
- Appropriate feeding should be allowed (such as salt licks, wild bird feed)
- Unsure
- There is nothing wrong with feeding birds. But I would support no teasing.
- Bird feeders be exempt. If wildlife other than birds are feeding from the feeders, clearly this is out of the property owners control and should be exempted. Providing food and water to injured wildlife found on private property should also be exempt.
- EDUCATION. Educate people on what is acceptable to feed them and what isn't.
- Injured and trying to rehabilitate or waiting for help to rehabilitate

- animals in distress that require intervention and must wait for rescue or wildlife officers to arrive on scene
- Bird feeders, etc
- bird feed
- N/A
- Na
- How about create programs within the school and teach kids respect and what the consequences are when you tease an animal. Whether it's wild or domestic. An animal is still an animal.
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Feeding birds
- Injured or abandoned young animals, I don't think there's any harm in trying to help them without removing them from their home.
- Educate people on what to do should they have wildlife on their private property
- More of a problem with teasing wildlife, don't see a problem with things like bird feeders and nuts for squirrels and the like.
- Education of those enforcing, not all contact (with a coyote for example) is wanted- they can and do stalk and run off repeatedly which could look to the untrained eye like "teasing".
- Bird feeders
- Exception being if they're a wildlife rehabilitation home
- None
- Educating the public against feeding squirrels and pigeons with pamphlets, etc to help teach and understand the problems this causes.
- Ducks pigeons
- Injured wildlife with support of organizations such as Calgary Wildlife Rehab
- The problem is dog owners, not the animals. Forcing certain breeds to be limited or wear a muzzle doesn't make sense to me, because they were taught that behaviour so must of them are good dogs and docile.
- Well if your feeding the ducks it's ok but not feeding them bad food
- None
- birds
- I would agree with a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife. I think bird feeders are totally okay. I also think that with feeding you get into dangerous territory about people having gardens and fruit bushes/trees and eating/crumbs in their own backyard.
- If the animal looks in distress and animal control has been notified - give the distress animal food/water until support arrives.
- Private land, is PRIVATE land
- If they are being fed the correct food.
- Birds

- Would this mean that people can't have bird feeders in their yards? Because that seems ridiculous and difficult to police.
- Items like bird feeders should be exempt
- If it's on private property due to encouragement of food, property owner gets fine
- Self defence
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Fines and potential charges for repeat offenders
- None! It's ridiculous how bad it is with people feeding wild birds etc.
- Bird feeders
- Allow bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- None
- Stray domesticated animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders would be a reasonable exception
- If the animal was injured and needed food or water before help arrived.
- Keep the city out of people's business on their property
- Mice
- Feeding injured animals
- no suggestions
- I cannot think of any exceptions that should be allowed.
- Birds
- NO exceptions , we should not make wildlife dependant on food from us .
- bird/squirrel feeders
- None
- None leave wildlife alone
- Rescue groups that are trying to assist the wildlife should be exempt
- That's people don't get fined for filming or taking photos of the injustice some of these animals face especially farm animals
- Ducks, birds
- No exceptions.
- bird feeders
- Making them leave.
- None, unless there is an animal in need
- Animal abuse
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and baths
- Rescuing an animal (injured, young, lost)

- Don't be stupid.
- Birds
- none
- Caring for injured wildlife
- Bird feeders & bird baths are exempt
- If a home is nursing wildlife back to health after injury
- It should depend on the wildlife. I say birds are fine, but feeding coyotes would be something else.
- So if someone is feeding a bobcat than yes a fine would be good but if someone if feeding a bird or a squire nope... The problem with a bylaw like this is it will end up with some neighbor bitching about a bird feeder and getting a stupid fine
- Injured or orphaned young until rehabilitation is available
- Nursing an Injured animal or abandoned baby until fish and game or someone showed up to take it
- This is unnecessary and would result in unwarranted tickets for people feeding animals (be that birds, squirrels, or any other animal that splits crowds)
- None
- Bird feeders should remain.
- no exceptions
- None. Sometimes you'll find an injured animal that needs help. As for teasing, you could have a fine or charges if people are attempting to abuse the animal in question. Also, what do you define as "teasing" ?
- Don't over regulate things. I think most people use common sense. Animals should never be harmed or teased. As for feeding animals what about bird feeders.
- If the animal is a carnivore (bear or wolf etc.) then you can take action.
- Birdfeeders
- Birds
- Birds
- Feeding birds
- If reported to bylaw, a flat fee would be charged. Make it high - say $100 to dissuade further fractions.
- If wildlife is injured on private property
- bird feeders
- Should be allowed to feed strays on your property
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Hanging bird feeders
- No exceptions
- feeding vegetables to deer, other safe foods to other animals, bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Do not permit the abuse of any animal private or public property. If you have an average and you feed bears you are risking life and limb if the human AND the bear!

- Bird feeders
- Absolutely none Wildlife is Wildlife
- Hummingbird feeders, bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders, and similar devices
- None.. also increase fines for bear attractants such as garbage out to early
- Birds
- Bird feeders etc
- Bird seed in bird feeders should be accepted.
- If they are feeding out of your garden naturally
- Bird seed, for birds
- If animals look like they are starving
- Wild animals showing too much comfort with people should be trapped and moved out of the city
- Birds chipmunks and squirrels should be aloud as well as geese or any ducks.
- Fines. It increases wildlife in the communities and small animals or children become more at risk
- There are thousands of bylaws for home owners, leave home owners alone. If you buy a property it's your property!
- Feeding birds bird seed
- Feeding birds which will include squirrels. Never feed predators ie, Cougars, lynx, skunks
- Would this include bird feeders? Although not a fan of them, many birds have been accustomed to feeders to help them thru our winters.
- Birdfeeders and birdbaths
- Unless in distress or endangered
- No exceptions for feeding unless you are a registered rehab and no exceptions at all for teasing.
- if a deer or such comes in and eats out of your bird feeder
- Birds
- Bird feeders and helping sick/injured animals.
- Allow to feed just no teasing
- Bird feeders
- Nuisance wildlife.
- None
- Bird feeders squirrel feeders
- If there is a food shortage for a specific animal
- Birdfeeders
- Would this count for birds and squirrels?
- depends on what you count as feeding.
- Small birds
- Feeding of birds in the back yard would be acceptable

- But how will you monitor and enforce that? relying on neighbours snitching doesn't seem like the best way
- Bird feeders or approved methods to deter nuisance wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Let people be free to make their own decisions.
- Do not feed animals that can be dangerous to public health.
- Specifically teasing should be restricted.
- None
- Small birds and squirrels
- Abandoned young; injured wildlife
- Birds and squirrels should be allowed to be fed
- Feeding bird?
- N/a
- None
- Exemption for responsible feeding of orphaned or injured wildlife.
- Bird feeders

- Injured animals
- Teasing
- No consequence for first infraction
- If an animal is clearly malnourished and in need of help
- Feeding birds should be an exception
- Bird feeders and fruit trees
- Feeding birds/squirrels is not a problem - teasing wildlife sounds awful! No teasing anywhere, private or public!
- Feeding birds and any wildlife that are starving such as during a bad winter.
- Birds
- Feeding birds (squirrels)
- Bird feeders are ok.
- Animals that come to feed on gardens is hard to control and bird feeders
- Rehoming or rescue...if the animal is injured or seperated too young, old...humane circumstances
- No teasing or mistreating. Farmers back home would feed wildlife when the snow got so deep they couldn't eat. If farmers didn't do this the deer, elk and moose would starve.
- If the animal is injured; water may be provided until animal welfare arrives to arrange transport

- Prohibiting what people are allowed to do on their own private property is just one step closer to a communist society... Don't do it
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- None
- If an animal was hurt and/or orphaned, and somebody cared for it until the proper authorities arrived to assess the animal.
- I understand not feeling/teasing actually wild animals (I.E. deers, bears, ect)on private property but not if that animal is a domesticated breed.. a feral cat still deserves to eat
- Birds
- None - this prohibits natural animal feeding and they become dependent on humans.
- Bird feeders, animal in need
- birds, squirrels, chipmunks
- bird feeders
- Ducks
- Abandoned young
- Bird, squirrel and rabbit feeders
- Bird feeders for seed/suet
- No exceptions. Some may have allergies that people don't know about.
- A dog will naturally chase an animal from its property, it is doing its job as a protector, a dog chasing wildlife on their own property should not be subject to penalty.
- Bird feeders

- Injured animals not able to care for themselves
- None
- Rescues should be allowed
- None
- None
- Bird freeders
- No animals, domestic or wild, should be teased on any property. And no one other than the owners or owner approved individuals, should feed domestic animals

- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Injured wildlife. Wildlife you are trying to capture for either transport to veterinary facility or rehabilitation centre.
- Bird feeders
- Bird/ squirrel feeders
- For feeding if it is in the case to lure animal for rehabilitation/relocation
- Physical harm
- No exceptions. It would be no different than how Hawaii protects their wildlife. It's just apart of the culture there to not feed or go near wildlife
- None
- There should be no exceptions to feeding/teasing wildlife. We have to learn to share their environment, and requiring them to be as 'wild' as they can be in an urban environment is part of that co-existence.
- Injured animal.
- Animals that are ill, injured or showing signs of starvation or dehydration
- No to prohibiting feeding on private property
- None
- when engaged in the initial act of rescuing Wildlife
- Registered rescues and rehab centers
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, feral cat feeders, any feeder made to help wildlife that doesn't involve feeding by hand. Also rules for helping injured animals based on educating the public
- Orphaned wildlife awaiting pickup from rehab facility.
- The government already has their hands deep enough in our personal lives
- None, nobody takes this seriously.
- Bird feeders
- That means people won't be able to feed the birds with bird feeders or hummingbirds with sugar water. So be very clear about what you are actually putting forth and the wording
- N/A
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels, birds,
- Caring for injured animals
- Education of the public
- Education, feeding birds from a bird feeder ok, feeding from hand not ok
- No exceptions. Wildlife should be protected and respected so they and we are safe.
- Exceptions would be bird feeders
- Birds/ducks/rabbits

- Bird feeders ok
- Birds
- Bird feeders, live trapping of nuisance animals
- Bird feeders
- Hurting wildlife
- Bird feeders should be the only exception and should be hung high enough not to allow other animals to feed
- Bird feeders
- bad winters when food is limited
- Bird feeders, they rely on them in winter.
- Feeding wildlife places the wildlife in danger of becoming habituated to humans. Bears, coyotes, deer, moose, etc relying on humans for food is a dangerous consequence for both animals and people. Bird/squirrels feeders may be considered an exception.
- Bird feeders
- If wildlife is in need of help and there are no sources to help it currently available. There are many who feed squirrels, chipmunks etc and I do not believe it should be an offense to do so.
- Ensure feed is acceptable for wildlife (e.g. no bread) being fed and wildlife cannot be fed by hand
- Exemptions for feeding injured wildlife in need of care
- Caring for an injured wildlife by feeding if necessary for life
- Putting out bird seed or nuts for squirrels is harmless. Teasing or luring animals onto private property is not ok
- Exceptions should be made for humane removal of wildlife from private property by pest control staff or by wildlife rehabilitation staff.
- I do not agree with feeding wildlife but the city can step off, people can do what they want on their property
- Animals needing to be fed that clearly need support
- Feeding needs to be narrowed down to specific creatures, such as bears, coyotes, etc. Small animals such as squirrels or birds should be exempt.
- Bird feeders and other appropriate healthy food for local wildlife
- Designated bird feeders, nectar feeders, bee hotels, and other similar structures meant to provide habitat or proper feeding to wildlife.
- Bats, birds, dragon flies, frogs all for healthy mosquito habitat control
- Injured wildlife
- If they are trying to get wildlife to come to them to get help, I.e injured or pregnant
- Bird feeders, water troughs
- If they are feeding them to then hunt them there should be a fine
- injured wildlife on private property that may require assistance
- Orphaned babies
- None

- Trapping pests on property (ie: ground squirrels, gophers)
- Fine people who feed bears , or shoot them just like you guys shoot bears for eating food
- Children exempt, provide education
- Attempts to remove wildlife from the property if they are in danger or causingg damage
- Birds, hummingbird feeders
- Na

- Birdfeeders, salt licks, anything that is not intended to abuse the animals
- Bird feeders
- People need to stop being dumb.
- None, don't feed animals unless you plan on doing it for life.
- I think there's a huge difference between feeding the wild birds luring wild horses onto your property in order to capture and sell.
- Wild life needs to eat also ...and if your gonna make dogs wear a muzzle due to breed you need to recheck dogs in general as pits are one of the most loving dogs ever ..
- The property owner allows it
- A fine for feeding geese and ducks. Destroying or cutting down bird nests. Making hunting certain species such as bears and moose prohibited.
- Not sure
- I would support not teasing wildlife but not a bylaw against feeding especially if they are in need of care
- Bird feeders
- The animal is in danger/a inhumain situation
- Birds
- This doesn't make sense. Are people not going to be allowed to have bird feeders anymore?? Just stop.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding if it is too keep an orphaned animal until appropriate agency is contacted.
- Any injured wildlife
- Birds squirrels
- Exception for some sort of business that is already into care of exotic or domestic animals
- Bird feeders

- [removed]
- pigeons in parks
- Don't discriminate against bully breeds. Sanction the owners of dogs. Not the dogs.
- Except bird feeders
- If an animal looks destitute and needs food asap.
- Good Samaritan's feeding stray dogs and feral cats
- Bird Feeders
- People couldn't feed birds? Squirrels? Feeding seems to support wildlife. Cruelty should follow under cruelty laws.
- Bird feeders
- Except for small animals that are not harmful to humans.
- Bird feeders that are high up so other animals can't get at them
- The animal is ill and needs help and no professionals are able to help
- Bird feeders are perfectly acceptable
- Better wildlife protection
- Squirrels & birds.
- Bird & Honey bee feeders
- this bylaw seems to want to stop a bird feeder? Many senior citizens get a lot of enjoyment from their bird feeders and bird baths.
- That birds feeders should be allowed, but other than that, no exceptions.
- Ducks, rabbits.
- Including bird feeder, educate kids, elderly and immigrants about the importance to keep wildlife wild.
- Exception for things like Bird feeders
- None
- Rare/endangered species or injured animals
- Trying to help/protect them
- Just no teasing
- No to teasing. Feeding is fine.
- None - it's disgusting to treat any living thing this way. Anyone doing so should be punished.
- Bird feeders
- Folks trying to get animals to leave their property in a reasonable manner.
- Bird feeders and squirrel food are completely harmless, or feeding ducks (properly not just bread) is also harmless as stopping these suddenly could hurt populations if they do regularly come back for feeding and it's no longer legal
- None, people should not feed or tease wildlife regardless of public or private property.
- None
- Bird feeders, bird houses, temporary care for animals while wildlife rehabilitators are on they way to pick up

- Private property is private. Wildlife education could be promoted more.
- Birds, squirrels, small animals that may rely on feeders
- Same as in public property
- Unless its wild birds, no feeding should happen and teasing is a bid no. Its stressful for the animal and can lead to dangerous side effects.
- Birds, squirrels and regular backyard visitors as well as allowed when trying to catch and help an injured animal.
- Feeding birds should be allowed.
- Feeding birds
- People trying to help injured or abandoned animals.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Attending to a wounded animal
- i do not agree with teasing wildlife, but I don't see an issue with feeding them, I throw carrots for the rabbits on my property, and i will continue to do so in the winter
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bylaw or fines against killing or torching animals
- Teasing, yes. Feeding, no. If the feeding is not excessive and promotes natural behaviors for the animals in question.
- No exceptions to feeding wildlife
- Bird, bee and squirrel feeding
- Large private properties
- Apex predators. Feeding birds or squirrels is one thing; leaving steak for a bobcat/cougar/bear is another.
- Fine
- Birds and squirrels
- None
- Fine if this rule is not followed
- Rural like property
- Bird feeders, bat houses or bee houses
- Unless the city is willing to deal with nuisance animals this would be impossible yo.x
- Bird feeders
- Don't know what teasing is in this case, but feeding where it creates a nuisance to neighbours .
- Injured/rehabilitation
- Responsible care - we have fed wild animals for years.....as a large city, we have caused the nuisance of wild animals by moving in on their territory. I feel we should at least try to relocate them instead. We have a Wildlife rescue centre.

- Seasonal bird feeders
- Responsible bird feeders
- 'Teasing' needs to be defined. Do you mean abuse, hurt or harm in any way? What about mouse traps/ poison, wasp or ant nest killer sprays etc? What about bird feeders?
- I don't like any regulation on feeding.
- if the animal is in distress
- Hurt or injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and bat boxes should be allowed
- Bird feeders and attracting polinators, traps with food, gardens that accidentally feed...
- Birds

- Any animal abuse: all animals must be protected
- There is no excuse to tease any animal
- Bird feeders
- Rescue/refuge
- Teasing should never happen, feeding should be discouraged with education regarding why
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Feeding birds and trading wildlife are two completely different things but the question is far too vague for a simple yes or no answer.
- Providing aid to injured animal
- Birds
- None. Applies to ALL animals including birds & squirrels (rats with tails).
- Except residential bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds and by extension squirrels. "Feeding" nuisance bugs for the sake of trapping/killing them for gardening purposes.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing & feeding shouldn't be lumped together, they should be addressed separately. In general, bird feeders should be an overall exception.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wid birds.
- Bird feeders with bird seed, these are important to hummingbird survival in the winter. Or bird baths with sugar water
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Typical loaded question feeding and teasing have nothing to do with each other. Feeding birds prohibition -you must be jokingo

- A very LARGE fine/jail time
- Feeding of birds exempt
- Birds
- none
- Single, small bird feeder
- Shooting or killing wildlife on private property
- None we should not be feeding wildlife - unless they are eating planted fruits/gardens on their own
- Injured animals
- Feeding squirrels should be allowed. Other animals should not. Feeding fox, coyote, deer poses risks to them and us.
- None
- Birds
- If the animal looked undernourished
- If it is private property - it is private
- If it is a matter of safety. I.e. luring an animal with food to keep the animal away from vulnerable people.

- I'm all for feeding birds but I don't like the sound of 'teasing' one bit.
- Teasing wildlife, gross, euthanize the offender. Bird feeders, I don't have a problem with that, feeding stray animals sure but call tnr program and alert them to the situation
- No exceptions.
- Pests such as skunks should be exempt
- If an animal is found in distress and requires water/food until help arrives
- Above ground bird feeders, no lower than 4ft above the ground.
- None
- Injured or sick animals that require care
- Bird feeders, humming bird feeders are allowed to remain.
- Feeding birds would be difficult to enforce, should be exempt. Not sure if this is part of the current phrasing or not.
- Birds, squirrels, bunnies
- None. Habituation is terrible for the animal and humans. No exceptions
- I'd say bird feeders should be allowed
- People still need to be able to feed birds
- Its not specifically
- Depends on what type of wildlife because lots of people create food supplies and homes for birds and bees. But feeding wild rabbits, deer, moose, coyotes, skunks for example should not be done at least within city limits because it creates more problems.
- birds
- Uncontrolled animals
- Bird feeders
- Explain what is meant by "teasing wildlife"
- None
- bird feeding
- I don't think any wildlife animals should be fed other than bird feeders with bird seed
- None
- Maybe some bird feeders
- Unsure of what is meant by "teasing. I would hope that no recourse would be made if residents were protecting their family, pets, property, etc, and at times it may be necessary to lure wildlife away instead of taking more drastic measures of harm or kill
- Fine for teasing, feeding potential allowed depending on circumstance (animal is injured, etc). 311 should first be called for guidance.
- None. Wild animals are perfectly capable of surviving without our help and frankly, will survive much better without it.
- Bird seed, squirrel feeders
- No feeding animals considered pests such as rabbits and squirrels
- No leaving food or anything appealing out in yards for wildlife to eat

- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders on private property
- An injured bird
- Birdfeeders on private property
- No exceptions, it harms wildlife
- Bird feeding
- Believe teasing wildlife should always be against the bylaws. Feeding wildlife outside of the likes of coyotes should be ok
- No exceptions.
- Luring an animal with food for rescue
- Birds and squirrels
- Willfully feeding animals that are causing damage to adjacent properties.
- Luring them to remove to safety.
- Allow feeding of wild birds. Allow owners to humanely scare nuisance wildlife away
- Black squirrels, which are an invasive species, could be lured, trapped and euthanized.
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be excluded
- Legislate against wild birds... if you can.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Private property is private. None of your business Calgary. PFO!!!
- no
- I see nothing wrong with a bird or Squirrel feeder.
- I'm not against feeding certain wildlife during difficult times (deer and especially during the winter). If the city would provide feeding/salt block places away from residential areas it might help keep the deer and other populations away as well.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrel feeding bird feeders etc
- Responsible people feed animals appropriately on their property. It's the jerks that put razor blades in hotdogs Rast you need to worry aboy.
- Im on the fence with this I believe that large wildlife species (wolf, coyote, deer etc) can become reliant on human provided food and can pose danger to human and animal alike therefore better education is needed. Small wildlife doesnt pose a threat
- I'd like to see education about how feeding ducks and geese bread leads to their starvation posted in Prince's Island and Bowness Park.
- I feel teasing is not ok, but feeding birds, squirrels and other misc critters isn't harmful overall, considering they naturally eat plenty of typical garden foods anyways.

- Bird feeders are okay
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders would be an exception
- Only exception would be if wildlife were in trouble then interacting to help save their life would be acceptable.
- Allowed to feed ducks as this is a special moment for everyone
- If I want to put bird feed out in my yard I should be able to. The city should have no right to take mine away
- Wildlife eating gardens or any other not purposeful feeding, bird feeders.
- Nothing, stay out people back yards
- none
- Feeding large or predatory wildlife should be banned. Squirrels and birds not.
- None
- Birds
- Private property is none of the city's business
- Bird feeders.
- None
- Na
- None
- squirrel and bird feeders
- Bird feeding
- None
- The person feeding the wildlife was instructed to do so by a wildlife officer/veterinarian
- Bird feeders
- Teasing should be delt with but feeding birds should not be restricted
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- Please do not use this kind of on-random design. It is not representative and will be heavily biased toward those with a vested personal interest.
- Birds should be exempt.
- Bird feeders and animals that are not deliberately fed but gain access to a property and eat plants etc.
- No exceptions.
- Bird feeder should be allowed.
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- People are idiots, if they feed wildlife privately and it causes problems, make the idiots pay to have now ruined wild animal transported and cared for on a wildlife preserve!!!
- Birds with bird seed

- Backyard bird feeders, using food bait to humanely trap animals.
- Allowing wild bird feeding in winter
- teasing - ABSOLUTELY! What is private property? I know of Calgary Parks where deer live, and people bring oats and such during the winter. THAT - I am in agreement with. Same for the bunnies that live in some areas.
- Bird feeders/animal feeders where the human does not interact with the animal.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- None
- Birdfeeders.
- Water
- Birdfeeders should be excepted from the rule.
- None
- Animal abuse
- bird feeders
- Any dog can bite. It is the owner of these dogs that are responsible for bad behaviour. Quit being breed specific. It's like gun laws, guns & responsible gun owners are not th problem.
- None they are wildlife!
- Would this include bird feeders?
- bird feeders
- Don't feed them because they may have allergies but if there's no owner and there homeless then of course try to help them and feed them. Do not hurt them doing so.
- Depends on how 'teasing' is defined. Would be opposed to prohibiting bird feeders but support blatant use of food attractants other than for birds.
- Cold winter and hot summer make food and water available
- Feeding birds
- Feeding wild birds on private property
- Capturing injured wildlife to transport them to a rehabilitation or veterinary facility
- Birds
- None. Wildlife is wildlife.
- Exclude feeding birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Birds with proper feeder
- Birds.
- Feeding is fine but teasing is much different
- Deterring animals acting as pests
- Wounded animals that need protection
- If they need help

- Feeding birds (hummingbirds, finches, etc.) should be allowed unless the location is not bird friendly and attracting more birds would be bad. Maybe better education of impact of feeding different wildlife would be a better start (before bylaws)..
- None - it's private property
- None
- An injured animal -that may need emergent care-what animals are considered...squirrels.rabbits,birds-or larger animals deer, bobcats, moose,? bears
- Steep fines for people who feed wildlife in their property. It creates dependence.
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- how would home gardens, fruit trees, bird seed, etc be considered? would all these be illegal if they attract animals?
- I don't think any animal should be teased.
- birds
- 100%. Punishable by mandatory fines and jail time for repeat offenses. Feeding wild birds is good, but other wildlife is not.
- Any wildlife within city limits private property or not, should be respected and left alone. Should the animal/animals become a nuisance, Fish and Wildlife should be called to asses the situation.
- None. Nobody should be allowed to put out peanuts for squirrels, that endangers peoples with peanut allergies because the squirrels carry the nuts everywhere. Birdseed attracts deer and mice so should also NOT be exempt.
- Would like to feed birds.
- skunks!
- Bird feeders
- birds
- I don't think it should be done PERIOD. That would mean I couldn't have a bird feeder in my yard. Birds are wild animals and my property is considered privately owned. Why would I agree to this?
- I should be able to feed birds (or squirrels) in my backyard feeder (hummingbird also)
- Possibly if they were trying o get the animal off the property
- Small birds
- None. People should also be encouraged to report this. It would also be great if the public was educated in places like princes island park for example, just how dangerous bread is to feathered animals.
- Birds during the winter months
- This needs better wording. I'm against wildlife harassment. But feeding wildlife needs an exemption for bird feeders.
- None
- Bird feeders an exception
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders
- This needs better wording. I'm against wildlife harassment. But feeding wildlife needs an exemption for bird feeders.
- Unless nursing back to health; in which Wildlife officers should be informed and monitor
- In some situations, feeding poison, or contraceptives.
- None.
- None. No wildlife should be fed.
- BirDs
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding okay, except deer. Teasing is not okay.
- Feeding birds is okay; teasing wild animals is not okay.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Anything that is harassment I could support, but feeding must be animal specific. Bird feeders or bat houses that are humane should be acceptable.
- Birdfeeders
- None
- Squirrels
- Bird feeders and seed are eaten by deer, rabbits, birds, and many other animals would you charge someone this that the answer should be no. Teasing should be fined.
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeding
- Feeding of birds, or bird feeders.
- I am not against bird feeders, but there should be no contact with the wildlife
- Birdfeeders would be OK
- no exceptions
- Birds (bird feeder)
- Fines for feeding wildlife
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders, small animal feeders
- Bird feeders
- If you plan to take the animal to a sanctuary because it is injured
- If animal is sick or injured, care should not be withheld especially if not severe enough to go to a wildlife rehab.
- Allow birds to be fed on private property with bird seed etc...
- If someone is nursing an animal back to health
- Feeding squirrels and birds from feeders.
- Bird feeders

- none
- I actually want to answer question 1. A feral cat problem has a much simpler solution than fines or spray/neutering. Kill them. They are a nuisance and a threat to wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and bird houses
- Feeding animals increases a range of risks which include dependence for food. Animals attacking humans
- No exceptions
- Too broadly a question. By saying wildlife does that mean no feeding of birds on your property? How about squirrel feeders? Clarify this better.
- officer discretion should suffice. If a 92 year old Lady is feeding squirrels, oh well.
- Allow an animal to be fed or given water prior to taking it to a rescue organization. Allow bird feeders.
- education
- So no bird feeders?
- Bird feeders
- Feeders for bees and birds.
- feeding on private property is usually unintentional in my experience. However "teasing" harassing or in any way causing harm should be prohibited.
- Feeding rabbits
- Orphaned, or injured animals
- It depends on the property type. Zoos, sanctuaries should be able to feed animals. Civilians should not. There's a big difference between feeding some fish with provided food at a park vs feed the neighborhood stray cats, dogs and skunks like I've seen.
- None
- Bird feeders
- None
- Certain foods not to feed.
- None
- Bird feeders and baths, nuts for squirrels
- bird feeders
- Bears
- Bird feeders! And vegetable/flower gardens "feed" and attract wild animals like birds, squirrels etc. also my students do bird feeding experiments in their yards, and it's the only place left they can do things like that.
- Hurt animals.
- Ducks
- None

- If the animal is bothering your garden or families ability to use the yard. And even then I would just prefer having a number to call to have the animal removed and not need to “tease” it
- Bird Feeders
- Birds
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird and squirrels are exempt
- if its a bird feeder
- I would just add that of you own a bird feeder you must have a source of or supply the birds with fresh water
- Bird feeders
- If animal is in distress
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- if the animal is in danger
- None
- Birds
- Habituated animals should be discouraged
- If an individual, their family pets or livestock are in danger. Do what you need to protect them.
- An exception would be if a residential owner's feeding of wildlife was damaging surrounding homes and gardens ie. squirrels getting into attics, deer damaging yards.
- Same rules that apply on public property
- if you see something report it to wildlife people
- Bird feeders, nuts for squirrels
- Trying to nurse back a wounded animal to health
- None
- None!
- bird feeders, bird baths, squirrel feeding
- Feeding birds should be allowed. Definition of teasing should include malicious intent.
- bird feeders
- Wild birds
- Bird feeders should not be included.
- No exceptions
- Winter bird feeders
- bird feeding
- Exception for feral cats, if you’re trying to capture
- Feeding songbirds should be allowed.
- Feeding an injured animal
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds

- Bird feeders
- Reporting, investigation, fines and court.
- Deers coming to your yard to eat fruit from trees
- No exceptions for wildlife
- Not sure
- Bird feeders.
- Leave as per current bylaws and apply it to city parks. I agree with no teasing on private property but some times the deer are so skinny in winter they need the extra food
- None, feeding/teasing wildlife in any situation leads to disatrous consequences.
- Protecting nests
- If it was shown that there was a deliberate attempt to domesticate or harm wildlife on private property.
- Injured or animal in distress.
- Exception is for scaring nuisance wildlife off property. (ie. Squacking Magpies or similar animals harassing other animals or birds.
- An approved list of foods people are allowed to feed certain wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Birds (feeding)
- If they are hurting farmlands
- nuisance wildlife may need to be chased off
- I would agree with prohibiting feeding wild life in City but not outside of or on rural properties.
- With the exception of bird feeders
- NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION!!
- Not exceptions. Wildlife should be leaving a long
- Rescue of any kind
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird-feeder might be acceptable.
- Allow the feeding of an injured animal in order to coax it into being caught for care purposes
- A starving animal that could be saved and rehabilitated and set free again.
- Na
- Remove bicycles running thru parks snd ruining undergrowth and wildlife homes.
- if you were trying to help get wildlife to safety and needed to encourage them by feeding them
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Allow bird feeders?
- Assigned restricted area
- What about bird feeders

- Teasing wildlife is never okay, but feeding urban wildlife is not necessarily problematic. Bird feeders, for example, should be allowed.
- Bird feeders on private property should still be permitted.
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is in distress and fish and wildlife are unable to tend to the animal, putting out food for it until f&w can pick it up should be allowed at the recommendation of fish and wildlife.
- Feeding wildlife like birds in winter ok, teasing should be prohibited in all circumstances, nuisance wildlife in private property humanely addressed
- Hummingbirds and songbirds.
- Permit holders or shelter type situations
- Birds and squirrels
- None. People should leave wildlife alone, period.
- Allow for rescue of injured:orphaned wildlife temporarily with purpose of getting them to a licensed rehabilitation facility
- Ok to feed. Not okay to tease
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Feeding is fine, teasing not.
- Bird feeders need to be exempt.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders in yards or healthy and safe snacks for wild animals. We need to share our space and help wild animals even with food sometimes as we have encroached on their living areas.
- Rescue attempt, or for medical purposes
- An injured animal
- None
- Bird feeders
- Start with enforcing the wildlife no feeding in parks where wildlife live... I constantly see people feeding wild life... educating people on deers are not Bambi and that wildlife would not be relying on humans if they were not being fed
- feeding birds
- Feeding birds
- Feeding wildlife such as birds and squirrels is fine. Feeding larger wildlife and teasing any wildlife is not okay.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on private property is ok.
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeder

- Bird feeders
- Birds
- If an animal is fighting for its life due to starvation or thirst, I support any and all efforts to care and save them.
- I definitely don't think people should be teasing or harassing wildlife regardless of where they are, but I don't think bird feeders or giving peanuts to the squirrels is a bad thing. Bird feeders are a good way to engage children in respecting wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding visibly injured wildlife until they can get help
- Private property is just that, stop over reaching
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- hummingbird feeders, suspended bird feeders
- N/a
- Nothing
- I would like to be able shoot deer that come on to my property
- Birds
- Fixed location Wild bird feeders should be allowed.
- Animals who need help get the helpThey need!!!
- If the wildlife is found to be injured and you need to take care of it for a few hours before proper help arrives.
- Bird feeders
- Permission signs
- Bird feeders
- I support hazing of wildlife on private property for: skunks, raccoons, coyotes, cougars, bears
- Allowed to safely chase wildlife off private property.
- None
- Bird feeders. Squirrel feeders
- If the animal(s) are obviously in distress due to malnutrition.
- Bird feeders, but property owner must feed birds year round.
- None
- Indifferent
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders
- birds
- Feeding of birds (other than birds of prey) and squirrels should be allowed
- Wildlife that are deemed to be problem animals. We should not have punishment for property owners who are humanely dealing with problem animals such as squirrel or raccoon traps that involve food. That is not "feeding" and the bylaw should recognize that

- Stop feeding squirrels!
- None
- Bird feeders. Bee friendly gardens.
- Feeding wildlife includes birds I assume. Teasing should be enforceable everywhere.
- None
- If a non dangerous wild animal is hanging around your property and is hungry I would think it's ok to help them it
- Hummingbird feeders
- Exception should be made for the use of bird feeders.
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders need to be exempt
- An exception being wildlife that is injured or needs assistance to be fed. Consult with a professional before doing so.
- maybe if it is visibly injured and needs to be trapped
- Feeding/teasing large wildlife should be banned on private property. However, feeding like chipmunks/squirrels and birds should be allowed as long as it doesn't cause nuisances for neighbors. For example, if feeding attracts flocks of birds etc.
- None
- Rescue facilities
- truly orphaned or injured animal
- Orphaned baby animals who would otherwise not survive
- Feeding geese at small ponds perhaps
- No exception
- allow bird feeders
- Bird Feeders
- no penalties for birds or squirrels being feed
- Feeding birds
- none - feeding wildlife causes nothing but issues.
- Bird feeders
- Fines given for people harassing wildlife
- More education as to the harmful effects that feeding and teasing have. Don't have bylaw officers out handing out tickets, hand out information.
- Birds? With an awareness of once you start feeding birds, you can't stop, as they come to depend on the food source
- Birds
- Birds
- Gardens not left out for animal consumption

- I like to have bird feeders in my yard and I feel that feeding birds is a perfectly reasonable thing to do. I think this question is very poorly worded what is wildlife if it means birds then I think I should continue to be allowed a bird feeder.
- except birds
- bird feeders
- Assisting an injured or suffering animal.
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- This is a stupid rule
- Clearly injured wolf life that you are trying to keep around for animal control or veterinary care professionals to come help
- Seed And appropriate food for songbirds, hummingbirds, etc
- Feeding birds or squirrels
- if the animals are strays and are in my yard and look hungry I will feed them
- Feeding birds
- Squirrels, rabbits, birds
- Bird feeders that are squirrel proof
- Physical abuse
- Squirrels, birds
- No
- Feeding migrating birds.
- this is what the city spends money on
- Feeders for birds should be excluded in this.
- If animals are causing property damage
- feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, even if they feed squirrels.
- Inside Private dwellings. ("Teasing" should be removed. Too unclear to enforce.)
- No exceptions
- Except birds and bird feeders, except feeding as a way to lure and capture wildlife in order to attain healthcare for it,
- Squirrels, birds
- If an animal is injured / needing rehabilitation. If an animal would likely die without help
- Birds
- Bird feeders or anything that is used to promote a healthy environment for wild life.
- Birdfeeders
- None... this should be a very stiff fine
- Birds are wildlife and if people want to put birdfeeders that should be allowed.
- No prohibition. But keep abuse completely intolerable

- Bird feeders; plants and/or feeders that promote a healthy local eco-system; etc.
- Birdfeeders
- teasing or injuring wildlife should be prohibited, exceptions to prohibition on feeding would be birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders/bowls
- Birds
- None
- Lots of petting zoos, you get to feed the animals.
- No exceptions
- If an animal is clearly injured and in need of care and found in ones backyard, for example.
- 100
- Not include bird feeders
- Investigation/education of property owners. Relocation of the animal. Potential fines
- If owner is okay with feeding.
- A fine for people teasing wildlife.
- if it was passed, things such as bird feeders should be exempt.
- Helping an injured animal
- Allow birdfeeders
- N/a
- Allow for various forms of bird feeders including hummingbirds
- Obviously bird feeding should be allowed.
- Birds, squirrels (since both eat out of bird feeders)
- None
- Shouldn't include bird feeders
- Birds
- Any animal cruelty should of course be penalized whether on public or private property
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Small wild animals
- Squirrels
- Hand feeding birds
- bird feeders
- I think some feeding is ok but it's not ok to tease ever.
- It Hass to be within reason. Feeding birds with birdfeeders should be included in that by law. So you need to review this very carefully. I would make it more targeted towards feeding animals that can become a nuisance, like raccoons. Coyotes. Etc.
- Already covered under provincial law

- None, our toddler is anaphylactic to peanuts and we are constantly finding peanuts in our enclosed backyard left by squirrels that neighbours are feeding. Our child isn't safe playing in our own yard as a result of this practice.
- You should never tease an animal.
- Ensure "wildlife" does not include stray or feral cats/dogs that people may be trying to get/keep safe
- Bird feeders with proper bird seed
- Bird feeders, bird houses, bee & butterfly feeders
- A fine and a course in wildlife patterns. Education is key for change
- farm land has alot of wild life and they can get into food no problem. Maybe explore the option of someone is caught feeding wildlife to issue a warning, of continue then a fine
- Bird feeders/suet and saltlicks (passive feeding)
- None
- Fines. Any sort of prevention measure that has been found to be effective elsewhere.
- If you have a pond on your property that has other pets that need to be fed. Wildlife will help themselves to food intended for pets
- squirrel feeders - peanuts
- Exception would be wild animal cruelty
- Provide education when the bylaw is introduced so people actually understand it
- Bird feeders on personal property.
- Perhaps you could have a report hotline/educational videos through social media platforms outlining the negative side effects of feeding wildlife.
- None
- I think bird feeders should be allowed.
- This is already covered by provincial laws. The city does not need to create a bylaw for it. Ask the SG instead to allow city Peace Officers to enforce the appropriate sections of existing legislation.
- Birds
- Putting out birdseed
- Feeding birds
- A person's property is their domain.
- Animal in clear distress: dehydrated(give water), or emancipated(food)
- Bird feeders
- none
- Distraction for safety
- Bird feed
- If to assist animal or to increase quality of its life
- Birds and squirrels
- Wild life that is ruining homes and properties.
- bird can be feed with seed or a natural food to them.
- No exceptions.

- Feeding injured, non threatening animals
- Actual enforcement
- Allow bird feeders and suet feeders
- Bird feeders
- Private land is private. You can make suggestions.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding squirrels, birds should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- What if there was an injured animal or malnourished? Is there going to be exceptions for this in this case?
- A baby animal that has been abandoned or mother is dead
- Bird Feeders
- Bird seed feeders
- Unless it was baby and was taken by humans don't feed it
- Stop over burdening citizens with your bogus cash grabs through bylaws that you invent overnight
- Landowner - pest issues
- none
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- I think bird feeders should be an exception.
- let kids give bread to birds
- Seeds and the like left in bird feeders or something similar
- children feeding fish or ducks, geese
- We have a neighbour who feeds a family of skunks in our cul de sac. Several dogs in the area have been sprayed in their backyards and in the front yards. Needless to say the neighbourhood is not overjoyed with feeding wild skunks!!!
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- feeding and teasing are different concepts. Leaving harmless food for an animal in rural private property is fine but feeding an animal in an urban center can be problematic. more specifics are required.
- It would have to be proven that there was intentional feeding or teasing done on the part of the home owners before a fine or penalty could be levied against homeowner.
- Feeding birds
- HUGE MASSIVE FINES, NAMES MADE PUBLIC
- -
- If anyone was in danger ie deer in backyard with children would be able to chase it off but preference to going inside and calling the city.
- Bird feeders. Spring, Orphans on occasion.
- Magpies are rats with wings

- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders as long as they are out of reach of deer.
- None
- Urban bird feeders
- I am against "teasing" or baiting wildlife anywhere. Are you suggesting there be no bird feeders as this encourages birds in need of food and water, which brings hares, skunks, feral cats, etc. Simply giving a helping hand to wildlife should be encouraged
- Ducks
- No teasing of animals anywhere should be allowed but feeding on private property should be OK, assuming it's done nicely and within reason
- no penalties for perennial vegetation i.e. apple trees. High fines for wildlife abuse or teasing
- Birds
- Maybe for dangerous animals like bears.
- Water on extremely hot days from a safe distance
- Enforce how?
- Children don't always understand what teasing is, especially with Geese. Maybe some way to make it educational?
- Feeding of proper food should be okay.
- Same as in city parks
- Birds, and squirrel feeders hung in trees
- None
- Feeding and helping of strays
- Feeding wildlife on private property
- Birdseed feeders and hummingbird feeders
- If the animal is injured or in need of help
- Birds
- Only allowing conservationists to bait with food for relocation or tagging purposes.
- Bird feeders and bird baths, squirrel feeders
- Aggressive wildlife moose ect
- Bylaw should only apply to humans. A dog or cat may "tease" a squirrel in the owners backyard.
- Feed birds, squirrels etc in backyards. Disallow front yards. My neighbour leaves horrendous amounts of food on their front yards and the street is always a mess.
- With an exception for bird feeders on private property
- In the instance of an injured animal giving it food and care until proper professionals can be contacted you take it to a vet or a an animal shelter whatever is most appropriate.
- Feeding birds, including corvids
- Fines for those who feed wildlife
- Bird feeders, urban bee farms or other ways to increase the presence of "good"/non-dangerous or nuisance wildlife in the city should still be allowed

- trying to get a skunk out from under the deck shouldn't be considered teasing.
- these are two different questions. also answers may reasonably differ as between, say, birds [feed them if you like] and mammals [prohibit feeding them]. Also relevant might be whether species is endangered or secure.
- Birds
- Squirrels are a pest
- wild birds
- No exceptions
- Second offence fines only
- Water dishes, specially heated water dishes during winter
- a bird feeder,
- No exceptions
- I would allow feeding an injured animal until animal control could arrive.
- Bird feederd
- Injured or sick animals
- with exception of bird feeders
- This is unenforceable.
- No one should be teasing wildlife period.
- If an animal is injured or sick, and in need of assistance
- If a wild animal is hurt naturally and someone finds the animal and cares for it so it can be released into the "wild" again.
- Define "teasing", do you mean harassment which I would support. For feeding, does this include bird feeders? I would not support a by-law if that prohibits feeding in this manner, however would support a by-law that prohibits harassment..
- Birds
- Birds
- Feeding birds should be okay and bunnies and some small animals while making sure its enclosed where Skunks, Bears and any big and dangerous animal is not in reach of food.
- Birds, squirrels, rabbits,
- Feeding wildlife in obvious medical distress
- Using food to distract rabbits from your garden
- Wildlife is harming property
- Attempting to protect people from large animals
- What property owners do on their own property is their business. Also, if wildlife enters my yard, my dog WILL "tease it" because it is his domain and he is curious, why should I get a fine for this? What about bird feeders or squirrel feeders?
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- In favor or bylaw that prohibits harassment, but feeding via bird feeders is important to the bird population especially in the winter months

- Bird/squirrel/insect feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders, squirrel food, etc
- No exceptions - Fining should be high and rigid as it means death to wildlife once fed or provoked by humans.
- None
- Let people do what they want on their property.
- Squirrels, birds, rabbits exempt
- Bird feeders are ok
- none
- In the event you, your family or pets are in danger of harm from wildlife.
- Folks often feed birds and sometimes squirrels but anything beyond that could be potentially dangerous by inviting predator animals into the community which could make our domesticated animals (dogs, cats, rabbits, etc.) food for predators.
- Unintentional - 1st offense warnings
- Ducks and birds
- Rural properties should have more wiggle room to shoo away wildlife
- Feeding yes, teasing no
- None, it's private property, mind your own public prop.
- Injured animals
- If an animal is in distress and the city refuses to help them, we should be allowed to rehabilitate them in a safe way or offer aid
- Bird feeders or baths that do not attract squirrels such as hummingbird feeders
- Feeding birds shouldn't be included. I'm more focused on the teasing aspect here.
- Bird feeders
- If owner was alright with it, but other than that the animals shouldn't be messed with and if it is the stranger trespassing or messing with animal the owner shouldn't be responsible for any problems because it's common sense to not mess with animals
- People who attract animals to their private property will need to deal with consequences on their own.
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions (unless specifically teasing) to small animals I. E. Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, and in more rural areas deer feeders
- None
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Many people, especially seniors enjoy feeding the birds/ducks in many city parks. Perhaps certain areas can be designated as safe feeding zones. (Near ponds etc.) With rules posted and or safe avian seed provided.

- If the wildlife is eating garden the homeowner can shoo them away.
- Feeding Wild Birds; Bird Feeders
- Leave it the same. No bylaw needed.
- If urgent situation requires
- NA
- N/A
- If someone isn't caring for their pet then someone should be allowed to feed and water it
- Having a bird feeder
- Birds
- Does this include people who do not cleanup things like apple trees
- Bird feeders
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be acceptable. Feeding/teasing large wildlife (deer, moose, foxes, coyotes, bears, etc.) should be prohibited.
- Bird feeders, shooing off nuisance animals (e.g., magpies picking on people or pets).
- Song birds
- If you have been considered a foster parent for an abandoned baby animal
- Feeding no, Teasing Yes
- Bird feeders would hopefully be an exception.
- If an animal is trapped or endangered and needs food that shouldn't be punished.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Providing water for injured or abandoned wildlife while emergency services r responding
- Explain and educate the negative results of feeding wild animals
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Crops planted for deer or other animals specifically as a part of agriculture groups
- Wounded baby with no sign of mother
- Aggression
- not on your own private property
- Fine people who do and don't kill the wildlife
- If it is part of a program such as bird sanctuary, recovery and release, etc.
- Would be feeders count as feeding wildlife on private property? This should be exempt.
- Bird feeders obviously
- Bird feeding. It has far to many benefits to both birds and humans to stop it.
- Bird and squirrel feeders in yard
- Bird feed
- Feeding and teasing are seperate issues. Teasing and harassing is worse.
- Only to stop the feeding of black and grey squirrels, and raccoons, bird feeders should be allowed.
- None

- Bird feeders
- Feeding wildlife for the purpose of removal of problem animals (ie baiting traps, putting out poisoned food for rodents)
- None. Its a wild animal
- Squirrels and birds
- Re: q1) I'd support greater education on the consequences of roaming cats
- bird feeders, unless there is research that indicates this is not safe for the wildlife
- Farming or a hurt or injured animal
- Teasing
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Deer, birds, squirrels,
- Caring for injured pets, providing food/care (if possible to do it safely) until Animal Control can arrive
- Abandoned/injured animals should be allowed to be fed
- None
- Winter Bird feeders, spring/summer hummingbird feeders
- Bird Feeders and other "normal" private property feeders and attractors to yards
- Acreages
- I don't think bird feeders or bee houses/waterers are a problem??
- If the person believed that the animal was actually a lost domestic pet rabbit, dog, cat or any other kind of pet.
- I don't agree with teasing wildlife but see nothing wrong with feeding birds, squirrels ect
- Bird feeders, squirrels etc are fine. You don't want to feed or attract carnivorous wildlife. Larger wildlife like deer etc also should not be encouraged to be around people.
- Bylaw for just teasing or harming wildlife on private properties
- Birds
- Birdfeeders/birdbaths.
- This should be on all property not only private.
- Harming wildlife
- Feeding devices such as bird feeders are allowed
- None
- Squirrels
- Squirrel and/or bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels etc
- feed if you like just don't tease
- Feeding ducks - have programs with food available for sale at parks
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Increase signage to educate people on engaging / feeding Canada Geese populations
- feeding birds

- Bird Feeders
- As long as it exempts bird feeders
- none
- The vague language used in the question renders it unanswerable - would the bylaws prohibit bird feeders? What is the definition of “teasing”?
- Birds & squirrels
- Rehabbers trying to help an injured animal
- No exceptions if a person is teasing a dog and it gets aggressive, the person should be 100% in the wrong.
- This is far too broad and seems like a money grab.
- Birds
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- To mean this says I’m not allowed to have a bird feeder which sounds oppressive and excessive. If people are hurting animals ok their property obviously that’s illegal.
- An animal in distress
- Bird feeding
- I have no problem feeding hungry animals. It should be against the law to tease/harm/eat any animals. I see neighbours running after rabbits especially so they can either eat them or hurt them to get them off their grass.
- Enough with the unenforceable bylaws.
- None
- Need to define what feeding is. Deer come into neighbourhoods to eat trees like cedars and owners are not willingly feeding them. Nothing wrong with this
- Birds
- Certain birds and small animals like squirrels could be an exception (eg. it is common to have a bird feeder)
- People that tease animals should be fined
- None
- I have always had bird and squirrel feeders so I feel like that would make me eligible for fines.
- Gopher/ Richardson ground squirrel, rodents (would include wild rabbits), insects
- N/A
- Allow for the feeding of birds, and pollinators as well as the ability to have birdhouses and batboxes
- Squirrels, birds.
- Bird feeders
- Petting zoos and such farms and sanctuaries
- Bird feeders, as long as they are raised off the ground and do not act as an attractant for animals
- If it is the owner of the property feeding the wildlife. No exceptions for teasing.
- Less bilaws, more education.
- Food in bird or squirrel feeders would be exempt but no hand feeding

- If someone was intentionally harming or killing wildlife on their property then yes something needs to be done.
- The bylaw should be for anywhere in the city of Calgary boundaries, not specific to parks
- It is an animal, they become reliant on the food a human gives them. Maybe Snacks hidden to let them find the food on their own
- Feeding deer, squirrels and birds should be taken into consideration.
- None we should leave wild life alone
- Don't let people shoot bunnies.
- None
- Injured animals until appropriate persons can deal with circumstances.
- If an animal is in need of care/food. Obviously try to get it to rescue/vet immediately, but sometimes it takes time for rescue etc.
- Birds and squirrels
- Injured or sick animals
- Do not ban pitbulls
- If an animal is found injured and a person wishes to feed it as they wait for bylaw
- None
- None
- None. If there is proper signage there should be no excuse.
- I think bird feeders/squirrel feeders should be exempt
- It's their property if they want to they have a right
- Many people feed birds, bees, and butterflies, and this behaviour is often encouraged. I don't understand discriminating against feeding some animals and not others unless it is a safety issue (e.g. bears).
- Bird feeders
- Animals that pose no danger or annoyance
- Fined
- Feeding birds and rabbits on private property. Feed ducks, geese in public places if fed appropriate food.
- Bird feeders
- Only bird feeders.
- Smaller animals. Squirrels, birds, etc.
- Wild life belongs. We are pushing into the areas and expect them to move back
- Birds
- Teasing abusing yes
- Luring of wildlife to do harm
- none
- Bird feeders
- Birds (ie. bird feeder)

- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Prohibit feeding, not teasing. Need a way to get it off your property in certain cases
- None. Feeding wildlife is unsafe and unhealthy for the animal.
- Bird feeders and keeping squirrels out of them .
- Injured or abandoned animals who need to be cared for before going to a sanctuary.
- What you mean by teasing is not clear. I have no problem with bird feeders and similar.
- If the pet owner is aware and agrees to the feeding.
- If the animal is starving or in danger
- None. Feeding wildlife on your property brings them into a more urban area which is dangerous for the animal and the people living around the property.
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeder
- None
- Including birds and squirrels? Is this targeted to deer Bobcats?
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Teasing
- Bird feeders to feed wild birds
- Feeding birds/squirrels via a feeder
- None
- If the animal is in distress and needs food for some reason
- Feed is okay, teasing is not and that should be a separate topic.
- Injured animals needing fish and wildlife/ vet to come to the property. Supply of water permitted.
- Bird feeders high enough to not allow other animals to feed from them
- Birds
- Birds are fine to feed
- It's okay to feed birds & squirrels.
- None
- None
- Hefty fine, education courses on why NOT to feed wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Unless an individual owners feeding attracts aggressive or excessively destructive wildlife, that pose a risk of harm to other individuals or pets.
- Feeding squirrels, birds, small animals that live in the surrounding area.
- Bird feeders
- Make teasing prohibited, but feeding of "wildlife" is vague (ie would a bird feeder be prohibited in a person's own yard?)
- Squirrels, Bird feeders
- Hurt or injured animals if directed

- This survey is very poorly written you are not providing enough opportunity for individuals to answer appropriately Q1 I believe cats should roam free and the current bylaw is a joke, putting feeding and teasing together is messy
- I would support a community service measure that makes violators volunteer as shelters rather than a fine. Educate don't putatively punish.
- N/A
- N/a
- Only if the animal seems domesticated and lost.
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders
- Injured wild animals should be helped by knowledgeable humans
- Song birds
- Call to have the animal taken
- Birds
- No feeding wildlife at all. Fines for doing so, similar to what we see in national and provincial parks
- Bird feeders and water and food out for wild animals in the case of fires or floods etc that disrupt their natural feeding areas
- Chasing rabbits or squirrels off property
- do not allow teasing of animals
- Feeding small animals such as birds or squirrels should not be prohibited. Only feeding large animals (deer, coyotes) should be prohibited.
- Birds, y'all shouldn't make it illegal to feed birds from a park bench
- If the animal is injured or needing help
- Injured animals that need help
- I think feeding can be find provided it's meant for them such as birds squirrels bees ... etc
- Injured animals
- None
- Injured or sick animal
- Bird feeders, bird baths, feeding deer
- feeding is okay, teasing is cruel
- If animal is in a health crisis require contact appropriate assistance
- Bird feeders for small birds which are primarily seed feeders, or hummingbirds.
- Feeding birds and squirrels on private property should be allowed.
- Birds
- If the person was approached by wildlife and does not do any unnecessary harm.
- Birds and squirrels or whatever people normally feed in their backyards
- Birds
- What wild life are you talking about? I like to feed birds and sometimes the squirrels help themselves. Which I don't mind.

- A fine
- Bird feeders and squirrels nuts
- None
- Bird feeders, butterfly feeders
- Residents chucking food that's about to go bad, but not engaging with wildlife
- Birds
- Can have bowls of food and observe but no hand feeding
- None
- Baiting for hunting
- Wildlife reserves, vet clinics, or if an individual is caring for wildlife (eg: nursing a bird back to health)
- anti "Teasing" or anti abuse laws I would support, but I take no issue with feeding wildlife on private property
- If the animal is in danger of starving and a wildlife expert was called
- Bird feeders
- Injured or abandoned wildlife (like mother dead or leaving it)
- Wildlife sanctuaries should be able to feed and handle wildlife.
- hurt or starved animals
- Bird feeders
- Birds. No idea what 'teasing wildlife' is though
- None, its Private property, a clue in the title.
- I would support prohibiting teasing etc of any animal, including wildlife. Feeding them isn't an issue unless they are attracting dangerous animals like coyotes etc. Then there should be an avenue to stop the behavior.
- Feeding. No one should be allowed to tease or instigate any (wild)life. Though I see no issue with feeding deer or rabbits; We all share this habitat.
- It's cats cop on they don't stay in one property [removed] muppets
- Feeding squirrels and birds
- None
- Birds
- Abusing wildlife. I don't see the problem with feeding. People can do what they like on their own private land.
- Bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Teasing and feeding need to be separated. Teasing is not good on any property. Feeding on the other hand, is ok at times; bird feeders for example.
- Be reasonable
- There are no exceptions to feeding wildlife, by doing so you're putting the animal(s) and civilians in danger.
- Feeding birds, bees, and squirrels should be allowed!

- None
- Wild birds through bird feeders
- Obviously wildlife should be left alone for the most part, but things like bird feeders and rabbit gardens, etc. I do not see a problem with.
- Feeding is fine for some (e.g., birds, squirrels), teasing and being mean to wildlife is unacceptable
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird seed/feed for bird feeders.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Injured animals
- If animal is injured lost or a baby
- Pest control/deterrence.
- Leaving food out for the animals is fine and trying to get them to feed from your hand is okay for smaller animals but for larger ones they should just have food left out and not someone trying to feed it to them example. Bears, deers ect.
- If they were in city limits then yes
- Birds
- Birds
- Birds
- Feeding birds and squirrels.
- Bird feeders
- Designate some wild life as acceptable to feed (eg birds/squirrels))
- Is it really a problem that my grandma goes to the park to feed chick-a-dees? Leave grandma alone.
- Allow feeding of birds on private property
- Accidental- animals get into food that is left out.
- birds
- feeding injured animals
- Perhaps a size limit on wild life that can be fed (e.g. birds/squirrel feeders are acceptable but larger animals like deer should not be intentionally fed)
- Any native, endangered, or non threatening species should be fine. Only ban feeding species that hurt the community, be it through being invasive or potentially dangerous for the safety
- A hunting license
- Birds
- If the animal is injured or abandoned
- Unless someone is causing physical harm to an animal
- Bird feeders
- If someone was caring for a lame animal while waiting to get professional help.
- -
- Bird feeders

- Feeding some birds that need it in winter
- Maybe injured animals could be an exception just until wild life rescue could come to the property
- None
- Bird feeders.
- Educate
- None
- Bird feeders (seeds)
- Feeding is one thing; teasing? or otherwise "looking for trouble" with wildlife (and domesticated life) should be dealt with quickly and expensively to the perpetrators!
- When an animal is facing starvation and they have no owner
- Bird feeders are fine.
- Feeding is ok but teasing is a no no.
- none
- I believe feeding wild birds and other harmless animals should be exempt from the bylaws because it doesn't result in harm to the wildlife or humans.
- Malicious intent.
- More support from the city to deal with the wildlife on private property
- Bird feeders
- If animals are stealing food and humans are trying to shoo them away.
- Only allow feeding in some cases, never allow teasing
- Only feed injured animal until animal control arrived on scene to take over
- Protected/endangered species
- Where do you draw the line? Technically a bird feeder, or a bat house could be considered feeding/tempting wildlife.
- bird feeding should be allowed
- With the exception of feeding birds in private property
- Bird feeders possibly
- kids feeding ducks and squirrels etc
- Exception to feed injured/sick animals with intention of release or contacting a wildlife rehab/rescue.
- Bird feeders
- None... there are significant rodent issues when bird feeders or poorly tended to gardens exist
- Feeding birds from a bird feeder should be allowed
- If the wildlife is injured/young (without a parent)
- Feeding birds is allowed
- Bird feeders are fine if using appropriate food.
- None
- Hefty fine when evidence is produced. Thousands of dollars.
- None
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders for birds which have adapted to metropolitan food sources (seeds, sugar water and such).
- Mouse traps with food
- Deer, ducks, rabbits and other foraging animals
- Bird feeders and such, when the animal is in distress/starving
- Bird feeders, rabbit fruit scraps especially in -30°
- Dangerous animals
- Let people feed the birds
- N/A
- Depending on the situation and The health that the animal is in. if the animal seems to be in distress, then yes until help arrives. Otherwise, only when the owner gives you permission to feed their animals should you feed them.
- Bird feeding
- Feeding common and in habitat wildlife. Ie. Elderly feeding birds in a park or a child throwing bread off the dock to introduced trout in auburn Bay
- I would have an exception for bird feeders or squirrel feeders in peoples yards.
- Birds
- none
- Kids by accident
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- If the animal was suffering and required food to heal
- Trap them
- Certain flora and fauna benefit from feeders. This questions isn't laid out well
- Teasing or abuse of any animal in any situation should be prohibited but let people do what they will do if they are not hurting anyone or any animal. In regards to question one, offer free neuter/spray to new owners or else we will run into a shortage.
- Pit Bulls are no different than other breeds it's down to the owners, banning them from offkeashes & muzzeling them is totally unfair
- Birds. Do NOT feed the squirrels!!!
- Unless animal is in need of intervention to have best chance at life, such youngsters without parents or injured.
- None
- If a person wanted to catch a feral bunny, on private property, and make it a pet.
- No contact feeders
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be allowed
- if owner allows it
- Teasing should always be prohibited

- Bird feeders, trapping squirrels and pigeons for food
- Birdfeeders
- Birds (for feeding).
- No exceptions - do not feed any wild animal.
- Three Strike Policy
- Bird feeders
- None!
- Wildlife consuming food on property while the owner is not engaging (ex. Eating out of the garbage or food accidentally left out)
- Birds
- None.
- Private property used by groups. If country clubs, private schools
- Nothing
- Birds in winter
- Birds
- If it is posing danger to public
- If the species is clearly not indigent to the city, or it has strayed from rural in to urban areas by mistake and is danger or distress, and needs food or water
- Know that allowing people to feed animals gets them killed eventually
- Bird feeders
- Feeding okay, teasing not okay
- Birds
- Large fines
- None
- Feeding wildlife in times of natural disasters. eg. wildlife displaced by forest fires.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- humane measures to deter crows and magpies
- Humane trapping and releasing. Some individuals view this as cruel but if done properly it is effective
- None
- Video proof of infraction used as evidence to issue fine.
- none
- Birds
- Never exceptions to teasing wildlife! I will toss out a carrot for the hares on the occasion.
- A young animal that lost its mother
- Should a member of the public rescue an injured/orphaned wildlife and has made the effort to contact the appropriate agency and there is a delay in availability of resources including transportation to the appropriate rehabilitation facility.

- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- If there is an animal in distress on private property, that needs to be captured to contact owner etc
- Birds
- Poisonings
- Birds
- It's fine the way it is
- Time is better spent on other animal issues such as aggressive dogs.
- Bird feeders
- Trying to aid injured animals or humanely trap to rerelease elsewhere (such as skunks)
- If animals eat your vegetation on property, this shouldn't be considered feeding them.
- None
- NO BREED SPECIFIC LANGUAGE!!!
- Bird feeders
- None
- None. Private property is private property. Let kids have their bird feeders.
- Birdfeeders
- Animals should be protected from interference no matter where they are.
- None!
- Zero tolerance
- None.
- Fire the mayor.
- Bird Feeders
- Feral cats
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Animal cruelty in teasing
- Water provided during hot weather
- Natural lawns allowed to feed wildlife - non active feeding , more an environment for wildlife to hen feeding...
- So no more bird feeders? Seems ridiculous. What about fruits that wild animals eat out of residential gardens? Who defines what is "teasing"? I can see this being ripe for abuse.
- Bird feeders as long as they are not used as lures
- There should be a way to deal with someone who is causing material harm to a wild animal vs ppl who put up backyard bird feeders
- None
- too hard to enforce, don't even consider this
- Depends on the wildlife. I dont think people should be feeding skunks or large predator wildlife, or deer. Birds, squirrels, rabbits, small wildlife that poses no health risks are okay.

- Teasing wildlife should not be prohibited
- None
- Enforcement
- Bird feeders allowed on private properties.
- Depending on situation. I don't see harm in feeding a bird
- Bird feeder
- Feeding geese with proper food.
- Birds
- Education on how feeding impacts wildlife
- Bird feeding
- At the point of animal abuse
- Private property the city should not be able to apply bylaws.
- some bird feeders
- None
- Assuming that home bird feeders would be exempt
- It's private. None of your business
- None
- Hunting, bird watching
- Birds should be ok to feed
- To what extent? Is bylaw going to be charging people with bird/squirrel feeders?
- Bird feeders
- None - we have people that feed rabbits and squirrels and it's wrong!!!! They were wild animals.
- Feeding and teasing are 2 completely different things. This question should be split up.
- None
- birds
- You should be able to put out a bird feeder to feed birds
- n/a
- Bird feeders
- I am not clear on the implication, but answered no as providing hummingbird feeders in my backyard is technically feeding wildlife and would be caught by this broad question.
- No exceptions. I've seen adults encouraging children to chase geese in Princes' Island Park. This isn't acceptable. I expect the same thing happens on private property.
- No exceptions.
- None, but ensure bird feeders are adequately covered and how far it would be considered feeding wildlife at that point.
- Should involve supporting Humane Society or other groups
- squirrels, birds
- temp. feeding exceptions, if the animal is injured
- Feeding squirrels

- feeding obviously malnourished animals until animal control personnel can take over
- Malnutrition
- None
- Having a bird feeder with seed specifically purchased for birds seems like a strange thing to prohibit.
- Bird feeders should be an exception as they are very beneficial for native urban bird populations (if properly maintained!)
- None
- Fine for feeding wildlife, they become a nuisance
- Mind your own damn business
- Birds should be fed. Not squirrels or any other wild life.
- N/A
- Bird feeders within city limits to help our urban bird population
- Wasp and mosquito management
- Excepting actions taken if wildlife were posing a real threat to safety, and also excepting actions taken by those under the age of 16 - in such cases both the children and the parents or guardians should be informed and warned.
- Do not know
- If the animals are being hurt on private property then action should be taken
- Bird feeders
- Feed of all wildlife should be exempt
- None
- None. If anyone is caught engaging with wildlife, they need to be fined 2,000$.
- There should not be any exceptions as you change the natural way wildlife feeds for themselves ... feeding them makes them a possible danger to humans. The bylaw should be applicable anywhere where the City controls.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Depends on the animal if it isn't invasive species or not.
- If dangerous animals are being fed, I would not support that
- Birds - various species, squirrels, smaller animals (gophers, rabbits).
- Squirrels, rodents and birds
- Wild birds
- Dangerous animals (ex. bears, large cats).
- None
- Birds/birdseed
- If someone has a bird feeder or something that is helping wildlife survive there wouldn't be issues, essentially I don't want teasing of wildlife or hurting of wildlife feeding them appropriately shouldn't be fined if that makes sense
- If the animal is starving and needs food.

- It's their private property. Leave them alone. Provide more media for wildlife education.
- None. Incursions on private property rights should not be the purview of municipalities.
- Bird feeders
- Rabbits are a nuisance and should be allowed to be harassed to make them leave
- Teasing wildlife is/should not be in the same bylaw as feeding wildlife. They are on opposite ends of a spectrum.
- None
- If the animal is obviously in need of food or water / in medical distress
- a better definition of what is considered wildlife, or what size of wildlife
- Harassing or abuse yes. Feeding should be dealt with on a case by case basis with varying levels of penalty from none (feeding squirrels birds etc) to harsh (feeding bears and losing their fear of humans in the process making them a public danger)
- In favour of a bylaw that prevents harrassment of wildlife on private property. Otherwise does feeding include bird feeders? Too vague, clarify.
- If you're caring or coaxing an animal to get help (i.e trying to get a cat to come so you can bring it to the vet to get it checked for a microchip)
- Are birds wildlife?
- Define wildlife are song birds included in this etc.
- Feeding deer in severe winter conditions should be excluded.
- Allow bird feeders
- Regular visitors such as birds and squirrels can be exempt, however, living near Fish Creek Park with bobcat sightings, I would like to see bylaws for anyone trying to lure that kind of animal with feeding it (same for coyotes and bears).
- Feeding small wildlife like birds and squirrels does not bother me, however feeding other wildlife that could cause harm to humans (wolves/coyotes) or themselves by becoming desensitized to humans.
- I would exclude bird feeders and suet feeders as I do not think they have any negative effect on wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions include bird feeders and the animals they attract, gardens being an attractant to wildlife, small animal feeding such as free roaming cats or community cats
- Education
- With exceptions retaining to birds, squirrels and Jack rabbits.
- Hurting wildlife
- Injured animals
- This question is too vague.
- This should be a separate bylaw between teasing and feeding. Feeding should be limited to birds and small rodents such as squirrels. Teasing should be for all.
- Too broad, flowers/plants/veggies in garden feed wildlife, humming bird feeders illegal?
- None. It's private property

- there shouldn't be any exceptions
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- none
- I have a bird feeder so does that mean I'd have to get rid of it? How does one tease wildlife?
- None!
- Give a ticket to people who feed animals human food, allow people to have access to animal food
- Give a ticket to people who feed animals human food, allow people to have access to animal food
- Private animal rescue places should be able to feed their wild animals
- Bird watchers attract birds with feeders. Teasing wildlife is a whole different ball game and I don't support this
- Fines
- Water
- Songbirds
- Birdfeeders
- Non- aggressive animals on private property (i.e. birds) should be allowed, but animals that could pose a significant danger (i.e. deer, bear, wild cats) should be prohibited
- Leaving bird seed out should be fine in your yard
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Large animals, bears, moose, deer
- Birds can be fed
- Signs, and possibly tickets or fines
- No Excections
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be ok
- I support harrassing or feeding say coyotes but I don't support banning bird feeders for example
- Birds & squirrels
- Those related to animals well-being. Eg food to help trap an injured animal for assistance
- They should be able to harass the wild life. There are people who take pleasure of seeing these animals and being able to feed them can bring joy to those who are not able to have pets, such as seniors.
- Clear definition of what feeding, which animails are targetted for feeding and what "teasing" is defined as.
- That if wildlife enter your property you can do what is necessary to scare them off
- None
- None, human interaction with wildlife never ends well for the wildlife.
- Squirrels digging up gardens
- Ducks and birds
- An injured animal; until help arrived or animal is transported to Vet or SPCA.
- Bird feeders for winter

- Throwing 'teasing' in with feeding is a very interesting way to get your bylaw passed. Many have bird feeders and like feeding birds - this would be banned; however you are likely tricking these people into supporting your bylaw.
- I don't think that people should be feeding wild animals that live within City of Calgary limits. This makes the wild animals a nuisance for all the residents of Calgary. Wild animals are able to find their own source of food without human intervention.
- Farm properties
- Sanctuary and programs, prohibit in residential
- Feeding Birds
- Where an animal is abandoned or in distress and the response of Fish and Wildlife or rescue center is delayed
- Bird feeding
- No
- #NAME?
- You can not control human interactions with wildlife on private property - this is a breach of individual freedoms. HOWEVER, increasing awareness of the irreparable harm of these negative interactions to wildlife is a must - individuals MUST be aware!
- Feeding Wild Birds
- None
- penalties need to be large to discourage people
- Bird and insect related
- Birds and squirrels in peoples yards
- Similar fines to coincide with city fine structure
- Difficult to answer with feed and tease lumped together.
- Bird feeders
- Burden feeders
- If the animal is in distress
- None
- Fines
- Poison for pests
- Wildlife should be left alone, whether on public or private lands. Fines should be issued to residents, tourists, or permanent residents in Calgary if they are found feeding wildlife.
- People should be allowed to feed birds and squirrels on their property, but not teasing!
- Bird Feeders
- Encouraging dangerous wildlife to enter public places
- Song birds and other small birds
- Feeding birds, squirrels appropriate food that won't harm them.
- Putting out food for things like birds and squirrels should be fine.
- Bird feeders

- Birds
- Fine
- Ban all pit bulls in the city of Calgary
- If the wildlife is contained/caged on private property (the animal is not choosing to be there), then the property owner should be charged for feeding/teasing wild animal
- Bird feeders
- Animal cruelty laws ready exist. I would support nothing further
- No teasing. Deer ok to feed. Not bear or predators
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Only applies to large animals, and pest species (gulls/pidgeons)
- Birds.
- Birdfeeding
- I feel bird feeders are not an issue!
- If an animal requires to be trapped to relocate it then it may be necessary to provide treats to encourage the animal to catch it safely
- Bird feeders
- discouraging wild animals displaying aggressive behaviour on private property.
- Bird feeders.
- More laws are not always more helpful
- Teasing sure, feeding squirrels,birds and such should be allowed. Giving a person a fine for having a bird feeder is asinine.
- this is a leading question implying we should answer "yes" to this question... do you want feedback or simply confirmation of a decision you've already made?
- Farms
- None
- Members of the public feeding an injured animal in order to bring them to a relevant rescue operation.
- Having food spots for wildlife since humans are driving them out of their habitat
- Exception for bird feeders and water for animals
- Feeding birds/squirrels should still be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing and feeding should be separate. Some people have bird feeders, hummingbird feeders, etc and these should be excluded. They provide food sources for wild birds during the winter months.
- No squirrels or Canadian Geese feeding
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Animals that you intend to take in and keep (ie stray cat). This is how we adopted our cat.
- Birds

- Birds
- Feeding birds, squirrels, etc.
- Bird feeders
- Only forbid feeding bears on private property
- Using food to entice a hurt animal in order to take it to an appropriate veterinary clinic
- If the wildlife was called in but unable to be picked up immediately feeding and giving it water would be justified.
- I think teasing is a different matter than feeding wildlife. Teasing seems much more malicious in nature, and should thus be more stringently penalized.
- If someone is having a negative impact on an animal (teasing?) that should be pursued as heavily as possible as anyone hurting animals is a public safety threat
- 50$ fine for feeding.
- None
- None
- Ive always fed the rabbits, quails, birds and whatever else happens in my yard...one way of reducing waste.....no dogs wild or domestic, deer unless they help themselves

- Animals (rabbits,voles) that are destroying property should be able to be chased away
- Birds
- There are too many people who are feeling nuisance wildlife such as dumping down meat for coyotes / and feeding pigeons to excess. Obviously exceptions such as putting out a small amount of feed for birds / bunnies in the winter.
- Feeding birds
- birds especially in winter in winter

- Some small birds not birds of prey or waterfowl
- None!
- Exclude birds
- Birds
- If another danger is imminent to the animal & human life.
- Bird/squirrel feeders, etc
- Peoples private property is theirs, this is an overreach.
- Jack rabbits
- Feeding birds squirrels, etc
- Bird feeders
- Feeding small non threatening animals / leaving food
- Birds
- None
- Prohibit teasing, but not feeding birds on private property.
- Feeding birds, squirrels and other small critters with feeders
- None
- bird feeders
- None
- "Cruel" conduct should be prosecuted
- Rehabilitation
- bird feeders
- Feeding on private property encourages wildlife to roam into neighborhoods and away for their natural environment,
- Birds
- If the wildlife is causing issues to gardens flowerbeds personal property on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Discourage wildlife visitors - scarring them away
- bird feeders
- None
- Let people do what they want
- Birds - feeding, no teasing!
- feeding birds
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Bird feeders.
- if the animal is domesticated and the individual has permission from the property owner.
- It's never necessary. Leave it to a wild life rehab place.
- None
- None

- None
- I see no problem with feeding wild animals on your own property. We all have bird feeders, etc.
- Non contact feeders and water
- Feeding in winter only. Assuming wildlife has trouble feeding itself due to damaged habitat in cities.
- Feeding birds
- None
- Providing water on private property for wildlife, especially in the warmer months where fresh water for all creatures is a necessity. Feeding of feral cats in order to trap them.
- Bird feeders
- Birds and the odd squirrel should be exempted
- N.A
- Injured animals
- The exception I would suggest is if there was an animal that showed up that was starving and hurt that needed to be tended to until the animal control officers were called to help.
- Bird and squirrel feeders, ponds
- None
- We should not be feeding wild animals human food and should work to keep human interaction to a minimum. However I support actions towards dangerous wildlife animals if they are causing issues with pet and land owners
- Birds, squirrel
- The exceptions are when the wildlife eats on its own available fruit or grass from your yard, or food from your green bins. Also, bird feeders, insect feeders should be an exception.
- Unless it's feeding any type of rabbits.
- Injured wildlife.
- Okay to feed definately not okay to tease.
- herbivores, and anything under 15 pounds. No teasing
- Birds
- Song-bird feeder ONLY
- Bird feeders
- Injured wildlife
- bird feeders
- Birds
- I would expect it is enforced.
- None
- bird feeders, helping sick or injured animals
- Domesticated rabbits that have been released into parks should be caught and adopted to responsible owners. Currently their feed by random people in our neighborhood (walden)
- Allow bird feeders

- It is okay to feed and help the animal if it is injured and going to be turned over to animal rescue authorities.
- birds, squirrels, insects
- Fines
- Bird feeders ok
- I would continue to allow bird feeders but ensure correct education around this. Teasing in unacceptable
- If the wildlife is injured and the person feeding in attempting to help rehabilitate (not keep)
- None
- Feeding/helping injured or sick animals and bird feeders
- Absolutely no exception
- bird and squirrel feeders
- If the animal is suffering or ill.
- Fines should be enforced for repeat offenders
- You should have separated into 2 questions. No teasing, for sure. Feeding depends. Clearly define wildlife. Bird feeders depend on if properly used.
- No feeding or teasing of wildlife in the City Parks or surrounds. Severe fines ($500 plus) if caught doing so.
- If the animal is injured or if it's an animal that's in need of rescue
- Fishing or bating for fish
- Birds, squirrels and harmless animals could be fed
- Feeding of animals on private property should be at the owners discretion however teasing of animals should be unacceptable and punishable
- None. Feeding wildlife is dangerous for both residents and wildlife. Intentions are misguided and ignorant.
- None
- Absolutely no exceptions.
- Bird feeders
- Birds.
- Injured/sick animals
- N/A
- Squirrels/Birds
- Accidental / foraging
- Let land owners do there own thing
- Birds
- Birds, squirrels and allowing wildlife to eat from apple trees and other fruit bearing bushes or trees
- Only if teasing them is harmful to the animals well being
- no exceptions
- bird feeders

- Feeding of birds should be allowed but type of bird seed allowed should be limited to types found naturally in the city.
- Feeding birds in your own yard should be allowed.
- Rescue
- Private property
- None
- birds and squirrels
- No teasing or hurting animals
- Teasing and poisoning wildlife should be fined .. some ppl have bird feeders and that should be allowed
- Bird feeders (stationary)
- Let people have their bird feeders. Why would you even suggest this? It is their private property. Stop interfering in land owners' lives.
- Private property owners could call the City to have pest wildlife removed
- Birds, squirrels
- birds and hare
- Feeding is ok but teasing is not!
- none
- Exempt a feeding bylaw for birds, chipmunks, squirrels, rabbits
- Starving, stranded/abandoned animals and bylaw has been called.
- squirrels that feed from bird feeders uninvited and bird feeders for birds
- Make homeowners able to scare/deter wild animals from their property.
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels/birds feeding
- Emaciated
- Allowing bird feeders etc that support wildlife and sustaining our environment
- I'm assuming bird feeders would be exempt?
- Are specific kinds of bird feeders allowed? I am not sure. I assume bird feeders are OK if they are only up in the spring?
- None
- The allowance of bird feeders and other items of that nature where food is provided year round and not hand fed to animals/wildlife
- If wildlife were injured and could be safely captured and taken for treatment, this should be exempt
- prohibit behaviour when damage to neighbor property results or is likely.
- none
- Ok to feed birds and squirrels
- Feeding birds
- None

- Bird feeders, or small animals, feeding only. People should not be feeding large animals such as deer, coyotes or otherwise, because it encourages them to be in the city
- Feeding birds proper bird seed
- Maybe for bigger pieces of land. All that is in my back yard are birds and squirrels who I feed with a bird feeder.
- Attempting to safely encourage wildlife to leave your property should be allowed, and things like bird feeders should be exempt as well. Teasing wildlife should be the main concern here.
- N/A
- N/a
- birds
- Bird feeders
- Small wildlife such as birds and squirrels.
- ban pitbull as pets
- Bird feeders
- If intentionally done they should receive fines
- birds, squirrels,
- Injured and awaiting professional assistance.
- Trying to encourage dangerous animals being lured into residential areas should be prohibited but a blanket law stopping people from having squirrel picnic tables on their fence is a waste of city money.
- Birds
- none
- Feeding birds and squirrels should still be allowed
- Clearly starved or injured animals
- I personally think it's okay to feed birds and squirrels in your own backyard.
- birds
- Birds, bee keeping
- What kind of a question is this putting feeding and teasing wildlife in the same question like this? It's not ok to "tease" wildlife but yes it's ok to have a bird feeder in your front lawn.
- Birds (bird feeders, for example) and other such wildlife. If all feeding or teasing is banned, that would potentially impact feeders , bird baths, etc.
- No teasing or attempting to harm animal
- Birds, wouldn't still be ok to put food out for birds?
- Bird feeders
- If there is an injured animal and the individuals knows how to care for it
- There shouldn't be any bylaw regarding wild life on their private property.
- Pigeons, birds, squirrels and so forth. No need to ban bird feeders or giving nuts to squirrels. Teasing, 100% should be fined!
- Birds and small rodents (eg: squirrel)

- None
- Feeding birds
- bird feeders
- First warning potentially offering education first
- Birdfeeders
- Teasing should be allowed, but feeding animals like birds, squirrels, and rabbits should be allowed
- If the wildlife is in immediate danger
- Bird feeders
- Rabbits,squirrels,birds
- Can not harm or try to tame even on private property.
- discretion by bylaw officers, theirs a diffrence between feeding and teasing. Feeding should be allowed however, teasing should be enforced with penalties !!
- The only exception, should allow property owners to feed Wild Birds such as Crows, Magpies, Bluejays, Finches. etc. Predatory Wildlife, hawks, Eagles, Etc. should not be encouraged..
- Horses
- City funding for removal of invasive animals such as magpies and squirrels so humans don't need to inhumanely trap them
- exceptions should be if there is an attempt to provide supportive care - i.e.) injured animal or lost baby (needs to be fed to survive)
- This "engagement" sucks. You don't care what we have to say anyway, so why bother? You've already made up your minds that you want more rules and more power.
- None of it is private property
- Feeding in an attempt to "adopt"
- exceptions for bird feeders, leaving food out for stray pets like cats and dogs, and feeding injured wildlife to coax them into the care of someone offering rehabilitation or rescue status to an animal that would not flourish in the wild without
- Bird feeders
- Food lure for humane capture and release when needed
- Bird feeders are ok
- Bird feeders
- Birds , squirrels,
- Feeding Squirrels, rabbits, birds
- None
- No exceptions wildlife should never be fed by humans
- Stupid question to include two opposite considerations with only allowing an either "Yes" or "No"! Even a child would NOT group these two together. To clarify my answer, NO bylaw to feeding... YES to Teasing!! What idiot wrote this question??
- Feeding should be allowed. I love to watch the birds and squirrels at my feeders. Any sort of teasing should be prohibited

- Based on two options provided, no. Define teasing, do you mean harassment? I would support if you mean harassment. For feeding, does this include bird feeders? In favour of bird feeders and a bylaw prohibiting harassment.
- Birds
- None
- I don't understand how this is even enforceable.
- none
- This is a ridiculous question! Do we put bird feeders out? Yes. Do we out put peanuts out? Yes. So what does feeding and teasing mean. Laying out a big piece of meat for a bear? Of course people shouldn't be and also teasing should not be in the Same ques
- Birds should be allowed to be fed during winter months
- No exceptions
- None
- Bird seed feeders/sugar water for bees etc
- Private farms that bring people in to feed animals. Similarly to a zoo.
- none
- birdfeeders, perhaps with design types that restrict ability of other wildlife to get at them
- Bird feeders
- None
- None
- Squirrels and Rabbits
- bird feeders
- In the case that the animal needs rehabilitation or it is in the best interest of the animal's continued survival as a wild animal.
- Bird feeders
- This is not an issue
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions would be for bird feeders and things like that, as well as large properties where wildlife wouldn't be an issue to neighbours.
- Exception of bird feeders
- Animals in danger
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is injured
- None, Wildlife is a gift and we should give them the space they need admiring them from a distance and respecting there boundries they are not here for our entertainment
- Bridfeeders
- none

- no concerns with feeding because many of us enjoy leaving peanuts for the squirrels, some carrots for the rabbits in the community etc. But for anyone who thinks they can tease or torment any wildlife even crows, magpies anything they should be fined
- Nuance would have to be made for wildlife professionals and/or rescue situations (I.e. finding an injured animal on your property)
- Wild birds. Let them have bird feeders
- Songbirds, bees, threatened species
- Allowing bird feeders which would allow citizens to feed wild songbirds and corvids, also providing care under the guidance of a wildlife rehabilitation facility (ex. Soft release locations)
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Please define teasing. Reasonable measures to deal with nuisance animals that destroy property or are a risk to public safety because they harbor diseases for instance (e.g. trapping and relocation, safe use of rodenticides, use of chemical deterrents).
- Birds feeders (that squirrels can't get to) and water dishes or bird baths should be allowed.
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits the feeding of potentially aggressive and harmful wildlife. People should be allowed to keep their bird feeders up, but if a coyote walks into your property, that's a different story.
- If the animal is in distress and require immediate help.
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- Rescue situations - eg. trying to lure an injured animal so that it can be picked up by wildlife rehabbers
- None
- Prohibit teasing animals only
- Only when Owner of property has sign of approval
- the question is 2 pronged, I object to teasing but not to feeding
- The property owner should have input as it is their property
- Bird feeders
- It's not a problem, could be a comfort to people. If you have garden, leave your dog food out and wildlife eat some, are you feeding them. Putting out wild bird feed should not be a problem. If people are capturing animals, this is hunting w/o licence.
- If wildlife was killing live stock/pets on private property certain exceptions could be made
- Bird feeders are allowed
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife on private property, but fining people for bird feeders? Seriously? The definition is far too broad.
- Shouldn't this be more a question of prohibition of cruelty / teasing of wild animals? If feeding is prohibited, then folks who like to have a bird feeder for example would be prohibited from that. Prohibition of cruelty would be more pointed.

- Stop feeding squirrels
- I can't think of any reason why someone should be feeding a wild animal on private property (other than zoos or rescue societies or similar groups) within the city limits
- Birds
- bird feeders
- Coyotes and/or Skunks
- Private property! Unless your paying my property tax, you don't get to dictate how i live on MY property!
- Children under 16 feeding animals. Teasing remains
- Not sure if birds are included in 'wildlife', but they should be exempt from not being able to feed them. This is particularly well enjoyed By seniors, so that should be allowed.
- A full day session educating them why
- Bird feeders of all sorts.
- Being able to scare off Canadian Geese to prevent nesting in high traffic areas
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- No exceptions. Keep wildlife wild.
- It should be prohibited including Fines
- Agreed for non-domesticated wildlife, i.e., coyotes, deer, etc. Do not agree for rabbits, cats, birds (and squirrels by default).
- teasing or abusing should be prohibited
- No exceptions
- Birds
- Blrds
- Bird feeders
- feeding birds
- No, only because how would you enforce this
- Humming birds and such
- Bird feeding, as long as they aren't feeding them bread.
- Provide bird food at select spots
- Fines for opening leaving feed for wildlife
- If a young animal is abandoned or in distress, taking care of it/keeping it safe until a professional can help.
- bird feeders
- I love to feed my birds. I would support no teasing, but my birds mean alot to me, and I love to feed them. I also have a birdhouse that attaches to my window, and had the pleasure of watching four baby birds be raised for a couple weeks!
- Bird feeders , someone putting out cat food to feed a stray, with the intention to rescue the animal (which may attract wildlife)

- Leave all the issues alone. It's clear that all you're doing is trying to create new revenue streams through new and silly bylaws.
- Bird feeders
- Food in a live trap should be permitted so the animal can be trapped and relocated
- Personal outdoor animals, bird feeders/baths
- The city is purposing I can't leave nuts or bird seed out for squirrels or birds. City Council has lost its mind
- Bird feeders
- Backyard bird feeders
- birds exempt and an application process with review for large animal feeding to ensure animal safety from roads and people. More allowances in winter months
- Bumble bees
- Feeding birds and other welcome animals to ensure a healthy ecosystem.
- Teasing wildlife on private and public property should get fined.
- Bird feeders on personal property so long as the feed is an approved seed
- Injured animals
- Feeding orphaned or injured wildlife.
- None
- Unless an owner intentionally brings/entices wildlife onto their property.
- Birds
- If you were to feed/hydrate wounded wildlife while waiting for city assistance
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Unless it's a rescue animal and is being cared for and nurtured before being released back into the wild.
- Bird/squirrel feeders.
- An exception where the animal's life is in danger without intervention.
- Bird feeders, water bowls in a drought
- Except birds.
- Bird feeders. Bat refuges on houses.
- Stop looking for ridiculous ways to fine people to make money!!!
- Squires, rabbits, birds
- N/a
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- First offense as a warning with information as to the harm to wildlife. Second offense, fine and mandatory volunteering at animal rescue.
- Harassing is against provincial law, isn't it? Also what do you mean by feeding - prohibition on bird feeders?

- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds is fine
- Posting healthy options to feed some animals and anything else illegal
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- No exceptions
- It's hard to enforce this on private property
- Bird feeders
- Fine
- Things like bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird feeder would be an exception
- None - wildlife shouldn't be fed or teased. Accidental (ex: coyote eating bone left out for dog) would have to be forgiven, if not regularly repeated).
- Supported licensed rescue organizations and their volunteers
- People should not be allowed to harm wildlife on their property, with the exception of pest control.
- None
- Ducks
- Bird feeders should be left alone.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding reasonable amounts of appropriate food is okay (setting out bird seed or peanuts for squirrels). Teasing/harming wildlife not okay on private property.
- Looks in need of help
- Birds from elevated feeders
- Wild bird food.
- Bird feeder only
- Allow feeding, prohibit teasing wildlife on private property.
- Farmers are entitled to appropriate, ethical pest removal
- Feeding fish at the Devonian Gardens
- None
- No exceptions; people can own property but NOT wild animals that roam across it.
- Feeding birds/squirrels keeps a great number of seniors/elderly engaged and happy.
- Squirrel and bird feeders are fine
- Bird feeders, and manmade homes for birds, bees, bats, etc.
- Bird feeders & pollinator attractants
- No exceptions otherwise it will be difficult to enforce
- An animal needing immediate care ie. in distress, dehydrated, etc
- birds on your property
- Feeding okay, teasing not
- Birds

- None
- Well it would have to be specific. While teasing wildlife is definitely not okay anywhere would that mean we can not leave bird seed out? Clearly we don't want people feeding bears but birds should be okay I'm not sure about other animals such as squirrel
- Birds in winter.
- Injured animals.
- Feeding of squirrels, chipmunks or birds
- song birds but not pidgens,crows or magpies
- None
- Kids feeding should only be a warning. Teasing should be a heavy fine regardless
- If the animal is suspected of neglect or irresponsible ownership, the individual(s) should have the right to provide sustenance to animal in need. Teasing and taunting should result in a fine and report to bylaw for documenting purposes.
- No
- This will be very hard to inforce
- bird feeders and Injured animals, but only if no agencies will take them.
- birds
- You would make bird feeders against the law? No thanks!
- Why should there be exceptions? The wildlife don't benefit from any exceptions. If we are talking about children feeding wildlife - fine the parents!
- Birds
- no exception
- Bird feeding in spring , fall and wintersould be allowed with no penalties.
- Bird feeders? Unless there is research that these would be harmful to wildlife.
- helping an animal that is in trouble
- A sick or injured or abandoned animal
- None
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- None. If a danger, in danger or injured, then the wildlife should be removed from the site by the proper authorities equipped to do so and to ensure the wellbeing of the wildlife.
- NO fines for feeding! People just don't know. Teasing or harming should be fined
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds
- Giving bird the appropriate feed in parks etc.
- I disagree that feeding certain wildlife would be problematic, as is often done with geese and ducks around the city. However teasing wildlife or harming them in any way should have a bylaw in place.
- None.

- Ensure people are feeding appropriate foods to the wildlife. ie: not just putting out bread. Birdseed & nuts for birds and squirrels is ok.
- Nursing a hurt animal back to health
- City support of home owners following bylaw by providing resources to deal with them otherwise (e.g. the cost of exterminators or other falls on the homeowner)
- Feeding prey animals
- Bird feeders
- I think bird feeders are fine... not okay with hand feeding animals.
- Offering injured wildlife food they normally consume before bringing them to a rehab centre.
- Allow for bird feeders
- N/A
- If wildlife babies are found neglected then can feed until a proper home is found
- No exceptions. People need to be educated when they also go to the mountains.
- If the animal looks to be very skinny, starved and unhealthy
- Supporting the community by having some come assist with capturing the wildlife and removing it from private property. Also if the Bylaw is violated then fines should be implemented
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is in need of care and must be fed
- Cruelty
- Weddings or large gatherings
- Technically this would mean no bird feeding. Leave private property alone with the exception of harming animals
- Yes to teasing...absolutely. Allow bird feeding
- Private land owners need the freedom to deal with their own wildlife issues within the existing laws.
- Bird feeders
- Animal sanctuaries/educational programs that offer "feed the fish" seminars etc
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders are probably okay but need to have anti-squirrel device so they don't become squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- none
- squirrels. birds
- Give fines
- If it's injured and a call has already been placed to rescue or fish and wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding should be allowed
- Does this include bird feeders?
- Birds
- Wild birds

- Birds okay, mammals, not okay
- Birds
- Except birds
- Larger wildlife e.g. deer, bears etc.
- Birds
- Feeding a wounded animal. Teasing is never okay.
- Birds, squirrels
- None. We should not be engaging in feeding wildlife.
- Winter feeding allowed
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeding still okay
- If the animal looks like it's being starved and clearly had an owner or lives with people. Until proper authorities can help with the situation.
- birds
- Birds on private property
- bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt
- Feeding Birds from bird feeders
- Feeding the birds
- I would accept that the City of Calgary is going to overstep on this issue and unjustifiably infringe on the rights of private owners for no valid reason.
- I would support a fine for trading any wildlife, whether on private property or not. But I wouldn't support fines for feeding wildlife on private property
- none
- Birds
- Feeding is very vague. Bird feeders should not be prohibited. Teasing/harassment are what the bylaw should prevent.
- Bird feeders
- Caring for injured while awaiting animal services
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders, bird baths, or offering water or salt licks without human contact.
- None
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders with species-appropriate feed
- Fines
- Birds
- You guys need to get a clue
- Slippery slope. Definition punish teasing/malicious feeding but what if someone is just say feeding birds?

- If an animal looks like they are starving FEED IT!!
- Public property only
- Having a bird feeder on private property
- I don't think it's okay for bi law to just go onto someone's property with out asking.
- Injured
- Hummingbird feeders as they don't attract rodents
- I would want to be able to trap a wild animal if it is a danger to my pets.
- Feeding wild animals during extreme cold, ie. temps beliw -20 C
- Small amounts of bird seed or a limited number of Bird feeders.
- Squirrels and birds
- Certain scenerios such as starvation due to harsh winter or drought where the animals will die without being fed. In no case is it acceptable to harass or tease wildlife
- Some animals, especially those that may have suffered injury, can benefit from feeding. I am 100% against teasing but information on when it is appropriate and what to offer as food to wild animals that need a bot of help could be very helpful to some.
- Bird feeders during winter
- None, no bird feeders either, they make birds reliant on humans
- limited number of bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels
- Birds.
- can birds still be fed from feeders, should people not be able to feed wild animals on their property?
- No interacting with wildlife and feeding, also signs that educate people that feeding wildlife becomes a danger for wildlife
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding is fine, no teasing
- If you find abandoned wildlife feed only until Wildlife support can get to them.
- I think it should target the teasing of wildlife. Feeding birds and the opportunistic squirrels should be an exception
- If the animals are malnourished they should be fed and the owner of the property should be fined
- Feeding birds
- Birds
- Birdfeeders
- Yes is the proper response to above but my concern relates to enforcement. It is challenging for current bylaws and police officers to deal with existing bylaws, and most responses result from 311 complaints. Education/awareness is more effective.
- Bird feeders
- None.

- Exceptions would be feeding birds
- Injury cases.
- Bird feeders
- Do not be passing any bylaws that is discriminatory to any breed any bylaws past must go for all breeds
- Hummingbird feeders, other bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Ducks and birds.
- Squirrels and birds
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Wild birds
- Permit allowing such if deemed necessary by wildlife experts
- Wild animals are being kept in so-called private properties like houses, hotels, places of business, worship, and whatever other “fronts” people have. Wild animals are only kept only for entertainment, companionship and whatever “good” excuse people have.
- No pigeon birds
- birds
- Exceptions for bird seed
- Bird feeders
- Baiting for hunting shouldn't be allowed.
- none
- none
- Unless The animal needs assistance
- None
- Bird feeders, or humming bird feeders. No fines if say a deer were to come and eat from a bird feeder as it wasn't put up with the intent of the deer using it. Only the bird life.
- Animals the seem or are on the brink of death by starvation
- Injured or sickly animals that would benefit from human intervention (feed if starving/water if hot/tired/dehydrated; using food to lure/catch and release if trapped in home/yard; using food to trap in an effort to bring to a vet/rescue)
- None for teasing, but birdfeeders should be allowed.
- Feeding in order to encourage the vacating of private property
- Feeding squirrels, birds, rabbits
- None.
- Does this include wild birds, squirrels? If so, I do not support this.
- Bird feeders and bird baths with appropriate bird safe food and water.
- Bird feeders
- birds

- The bylaw needs to exclude birdfeeders if you must do so. We keep the partridges fed in the winter and they roost safely in our back yard.
- any dogs that bark excessively must either be muzzled or returned inside their homes. regardless of wether it's on their property.
- Exceptions for bird feeders and perhaps squirrel/chipmunk feeders
- None
- Prohibit teasing, lots of people have bird and squirrel feeders no reason not to feed them, going to need to be way more specific that just prohibit all feeding.
- Bird feeders
- Birds at feeders
- If the animal was being nursed to health due to injury or otherwise.
- Petting zoos? Duh
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds and squirrels from feeder
- Would feeding of birds be exempted? Bird food must not be sold as mixed seeds. Mixed seed feed encourages mice infestations. Then you need more feral cats and skunks to manage the mice.M
- Bird feeders, etc of safe food
- Bird feeders
- An animal that has lost its mother and at high risk of dying otherwise.
- Are you going to ban bird feeders? That seems cruel.
- None
- If the animal is hurt and being tended to/cared for by people on private property until fish and wildlife or proper care can be given
- No exceptions, no animal should be subject to feeding/poisoning or teasing/torturing in any environment.
- In times of distress/need on the animal's part.
- If wildlife is hurt or starving, we should be allowed to help them.
- That question is too general and would make bird feeders illegal. Hell, it would make a butterfly garden illegal.
- Feeding birds
- Teasing sounds horrible, but I would like clarification on how far this goes, would there be fines for bird feeders, or just for feeding rabbits? This needs more exploration.
- Be more clear. Sounds like you want to take away bird feeders (wild animals eating on private property after all). Also don't lump teasing and feeding together. Teasing is malicious thus needs to be in some sort of legislation about cruelty
- If it's a matter of rehabilitation, i.e feeding for a short period of time with full intentions to relocate to a wildlife rehabilitation center
- Bird feeders,

- This is ridiculous. Do you mean "No Bird Houses or Bird Feeders"? Does this apply to having gardens that attract bees?
- Proximity to city centre
- If the animal is hurt or injured and needs nutrients
- Wild animals found on private property, that are not welcome, should be reported not dealt with personally.
- Helping injured or sick wildlife before they can be helped by Fish and Wildlife etc.
- Squirrel and bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird and other wildlife feeders
- Feeding birds would be acceptable
- Make fines stiffer for incidents on private property
- This is too far reaching. I have a bird feeder on my property. Also, what constitutes "feeding"? I grow carrots and other veggies and that can attract rabbits and such. Could a nosy neighbour call bylaw on me? Would i be asked to create a fence?
- Bird feeders
- There is a natural order most people understand. They won't feed wild animals excessively. Unless they are radical animal rights activists.
- Not feeding but a bylaw against teasing for sure.
- If the animal was in serious/obvious need of help (ex: malnourished, abused)
- Small birds feeders NOT for crows/magpies
- Fine
- Feeding birds
- Bread to ducks
- If the person is experienced who owns the land and is helping to rescue or the animal can no longer be in the wild due to injury or another unforeseen circumstance.
- Exceptions for bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Only prevent the prevent the feeding of invasive species
- bird feeders
- Birdfeeders, squirrelfeeders, etc.
- The squirrel population is increasing in areas close to Fish Creek. There must be citizens dropping in area and as a result people are feeding them as if they're pets. Wild animals should not be fed but left to hunt on their own. At least this would help
- Birds
- Voluntary compliance
- Bird feeders

- It must be witnessed, and the witness who reports it cannot hide his / her identity behind the cover of Protection Of Privacy. In other words, an anonymous tip must be substantiated before any action, even so much as recording a case file note, is taken.
- Bird feeders should remain allowed. I'm more concerned with intentionally attracting dangerous wildlife or putting wildlife in danger by hand feeding or feeding an improper diet.
- Feeding an animal that was clearly in need or injured and the person had done research to ensure it was safe and healthy for the animal
- Wildlife eating from gardens in peoples backyard
- Feeding and teasing are not comparable and should not have been included on the same question.
- Bird feeders, and injured or abandoned wildlife
- feeding ducks should be an exception
- Hummingbird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- keep them wild and leave them alone.
- Birds
- Feeding injured or helpless wildlife is fine
- Exception for injured animal
- Where wildlife is dangerous to people or causes distraction to property
- If feeding of wild life is permitted the people feeding them are responsible to maintain feeding through out winter months
- Abandoned babies or injured animals waiting for wildlife rescuers
- None
- If you are approached by an animal in the wild and use food as a source to redirect the animals attention if your safety is threatened
- Birds, involuntarily feeding (ie. Garbage, compost, garden, etc.)
- Birds/squirrels. The teasing piece is what bothers me not so much the feeding if it's not causing problems for neighbors.
- Birdfeeders ok
- Clearly abandoned or endangered young animals?
- Depends on the animal... I'm not against people feeding birds for example.
- squirrels, birds unless these are not wildlife
- I think that noone should tease wildlife wherever they are located, but bird feeding definitely should be allowed.
- Bird feeders.
- I wouldn't.
- Unclear on "feeding wildlife". What sort of wildlife? Do bird feeders count?
- Retreats and rescues, animals that have become so desensitized to the humans
- Birdfeeders

- The challenge will be differentiating intent, as there will be businesses that may have material considered potential food exposed but not for the intent of feeding. Exceptions for songbirds.
- I think it depends on the weather. In winters with harsh temperatures and lots of snow it is difficult for animals such as deer to find food.
- It might acceptable if the wildlife is posing a threat or is being a nuisance.
- Wild bird feed and squirrel feed
- Nobody should ever tease animal; bird feeders on private property are fine
- If the animal is posing a danger or is itself being a pest, for example damaging property, leaving waste. These must occur at least 3 times for the “being a pest” label to occur.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders.
- Animals coming to bird feeders
- Warning first before a fine.
- I have cats roaming in my area and there is no control by the city.
- Feeding orphaned babies until they are able to be rescued
- Crows
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- You need to be specific on wildlife. Does this include not being able to feed the birds, bird seed?
- Having the city come trap and release outside city limits
- Indigenous rights to the land, for hunting and gathering purposes.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- I would support for safety concerns such as when it comes to predatory animals. If people want to feed birds or maybe deer they should. If people want to discourage them away they should.
- Would support a bylaw saying no teasing as humane. But feeding should be up to the person on private property.
- Bird feeders be allowed that protect from animals getting in to them.
- This bylaw is ridiculous. You're a bunch of hypocritical priveledged pricks. Dogs aren't aggressive it's the humans that are. This has been proven in actual research. Sorry where's your research? Right you did none because you're blind and incompetent.
- none, calgarians can't be trusted. duhhh i'm a CoNsErVaTiVe freedom!!!
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on private property/residences.
- Private property people can do as they please
- Rabbits
- Feeding birds, small animals.
- None
- None

- Small birds and small Herbivores.
- Feral cats, dogs that need capture to spay neuter, foster.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- Farmlands where feeding is unintentional and the animals eating off are considered pests
- Unless explicitly communicated that feeding/teasing is allowed by the owner of the private property. Also, if the wildlife appears to be in a hazardous situation which merits feeding/teasing.
- [removed]i make freinds with bears!!!!!!
- bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders I feel are fine
- A stray dog or cat
- Structures like bird and squirrel feeders should still be allowed!
- Bird feeding
- Farms, petting zoos
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- bird seed or water, any food that is nutritional to the wild animals or is because of a critical situation that has been reported
- Feeding bird, as feeding birds should be okay
- Bird Feeders
- if the wildlife was being tormented/harmed
- Stricter fines and enforcement, its awful seeing what people do to wild animals and how the animals then learn these behaviors and can find themselves being laid to rest because of it.
- N/a
- If you feed them or bug them they become more into humans when they should be left alone
- Birds, squirrels
- None
- None
- Trapping to remove from property
- NONE
- Bird feeding
- feeding and teasing wildlife are two seperate things and require two seperate sets of inquiry
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders, hummingbird feeders
- Exceptions to birds and small mammals in the winter
- That's private property city nor govt should have any say.
- I would still like to be able to offer bird feeders to attract wild birds to my area
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Small mammals like squirrels

- None
- Make a mandatory call to the city to report the sightings.
- Fines
- Teasing and hurting wild animals - but feeding them especially in the winter: birds, rabbits, squirrels is fine.
- Just that description of teasing/feeding be clear versus for example trapping problem animals - squirrels in homes, raccoons...
- In cases of natural disaster or extreme distress, assisting animals is reasonable. Bird feeders are also reasonable. Unintentionally feeding, such as animals entering your garden, should also be excluded.
- If someone wants to feed the animal, they can do what they want. If they are going to tease/abuse the animal that is not ok.
- Accidental feeding, perhaps garbage or something else left out accidentally (first time only).
- Small rodents, ie birds, squirrels
- Allow bird feeders
- No exceptions keep wildlife wild!
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Bird and squirrel feeders are okay
- Bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels etc
- None
- Would bird feeders be prohibited? I don't agree with that. // For Question 1, I would support fines for intact cats found off property, but not for those that are spayed/neutered.
- Birds
- i would support no teasing or abuse of wildlife. responsible feeding i am ok with
- teasing wildlife or any negative behaviour... responsible feeding of wildlife i am ok here
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders should still be allowed on private property
- Personal Bird feeders
- None
- let people feed them.
- Teasing, violence/killing or harrassing wildlife.
- Wildlife should not feel comfortable being fed by people for safety reasons as well as the animals safety
- If an animal turns up in an immaciated state, feeding it sould not be a "crime"
- Is feeding/teasing on private property really a problem in this city?
- Any adaptations that are part of the natural ecosystem should be allowed. Ex: flowers that attract birds.

- The feeding of wildlife should be prohibited anywhere including private property if that property is in a residential area. Property owners should have to report wildlife to Alberta Fish & Wildlife.
- Warning/fine system
- An animal that ia being rescued or being supported until rescue, with an accredited organization.
- I believe that there should be obvious intent to tease or feed the wildlife. If a person's dog chases a bunny but the owner makes every attempt to stop the dog and prevent it in the future or a kid leaving food outside.
- Bird feeders s/b permitted
- birdfeeding should not be included in any bylaw prohibiting wildlife feeding.
- This should be 2 questions- Feeding and Teasing are 2 different subjects. Feeding wildlife is fine- bird seed/ squirrel nuts etc However teasing- or anything that causes emotional and/or physical abuse to animal should be banned
- What of bird feeders that squirrels raid? Does that mean no more bird feeders?
- If some one is poaching or luring for extermination
- I would suggest an exception if the resident(s) were feeding or offering water to an animal that they had notified the City about, such as in the case of an injured or orphaned wild animal (i.e. temporary measures while waiting for City to arrive)
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Birds and squirrels.
- Injured wildlife that may need some feeding to be rescued and taken to a wildlife conservation center.
- N/A
- Birds and small wildlife should be excepted.
- No animal abuse obviously
- If the animal is injured and or starving
- Bird feeders/squirrel feeders
- Passive birdfeeders.
- Birds, squirrels
- Feeding an animal that appears malnourished in good faith (suitable food for that animal), while also contacting bylaw/humane society to address concern
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- No contact Bird, and squirrel feeders
- exclusions for bird feeders
- providing water for wild animals as well as appropriate bird food etc is OK
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Put up more sings
- Exempt from bylaw if permission from property owner

- Depends on the context. Feeding in some cases like bird feeders aren't a bad thing. Animals should not be harassed though.
- Exception for putting out bird or small mammal feeders/baths
- Birdfeeders
- Bird seed and bird baths
- No exceptions
- Injured wildlife that needs help
- Bird feeders
- Rural properties should remain exempt, such as a deer on a farm. In the city, it's not a good idea for people to feed wild animals, or tease them .
- Bird feeders s/b allowed
- Injured wildlife
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- If it's a small squirrel or something that is not dangerous
- Bird feeder
- Rescuing or helping injured wildlife on private property
- Where wildlife are already being fed on private property they may depend on these resources and suddenly stopping feeding to comply with new regulations could be detrimental to animal welfare
- Bird feeders
- You need to specify which types of wildlife or it will get silly. is my birdfeeder off limits? What about the squirrels who are secondary guests to my feeders? A blanket ban is nonsensical
- Feeding rabbits. If you want poop in your yard, go nuts.
- Feeding wildlife on private property welcomes more animals that could be an issue to pets, more noise from wildlife, and more wildlife looking to collect on private property.
- birds
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders are okay and people should have to pick up apples quickly before they attract wild life
Using fish as fertilizer is not okay
- No exceptions so it doesn't get confusing
- Bird feeders in peoples yards
- exception to people assisting wildlife rescues
- Bird feeders
- None! My neighbors feed squirrels and birds and my yard and roof is infested!
- Bird feeders
- Animals can only be feed if they are injured, and can not do so for themselves

- if an animal is being mistreat by property owners (example starved) than someone trying to give food the animal could be ok
- Feeding an injured animal
- Injured, at risk, or abandoned
- Bird feeders should be ok
- birds
- Would this include not being allowed to feed birds? I fully support feeding birds even if other animals partake in the food.
- Birds, rabbits, squirrels
- None
- Wildlife on there own, eating the shrubs / plants / gardens on property. As well, any type of bird feeder.
- bird feeders! it would be terrible to ban bird feeders for song birds
- Abandoned infant wildlife. Should be reported to appropriate authorities first.
- Feeding birds
- Injured wildlife in your property that is being transferred to a wildlife center or veterinary clinic can be fed if needed.
- N/A
- More education! Stop fining people for being stupid and teach them why it's wrong.
- Teasing is a very subjective word.
- Trash digging animals and starving animals
- Feral Cats & Dogs
- None
- If the animal is injured or in danger.
- For the city to stop trying to discriminating against certain breeds and infringing on rights.
- Birds, squirrels and such small animals
- Feeders
- Teasing any animal is wrong. I see nothing wrong with feeding animals on the property. Such as bird seed for birds/ peanuts for squirrels.
- If it is private property than I see no issue. The exception would be if the wildlife was being harmed by said "teasing" or if neighbours/public property was being damaged as a deer for example kept coming back for food and started to graze on lawns.
- Birds
- Over regulation at its finest. No harm no foul. If you don't feed them they will eat your garbage anyways.
- Birdfeeders should be exempt. Songbirds are becoming scarce and we need to help them survive
- Feeding birds
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders in back yards should be allowed

- N/A
- None, private property is private property. You don't get to infringe or enforce on that.
- Wild life question is kinda a catch 22, squirrels and birds would seemingly be ok to set feeders for, but deer, fox etc, should be left alone. However on private property, I'm indifferent- private property a person should have rights on what they can do.
- Dangerous animals ie Bears
- Let people live their lives. It has worked fine so far. My
- Private property land magnitude. If private property is house + couple parcels size and naturalized land, wildlife is typically so educate vs prohibit; but I'd prohibit typical city home resident property due to safety
- Fines
- An injured animal on your property
- Birdfeeders
- No exceptions
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders etc.
- You have no way to enforce it.
- Ummm you can't really stop people from feeding birds, so I hope you are making an exception to that...
- If there's a recurrent problem - skunk nest, coyote puppies etc- and animals need to be relocated for safety of all.
- There should be no muzzle requirements for any breed that hasn't been involved in an incident. A sweeping ban like this is like like trying to jail someone for a crime they might commit. Sheer stupidity.
- Bird feeders
- double the fines at minimum
- Depends on the situation - wildlife can become a nuisance, what would constitute teasing?
- Bird feeders (as long as they are hung in a way that other wildlife cannot access them)
- Squirrels
- none
- Wildlife is too broad a term. Rules should focus on discouraging dangerous conditions -- e.g. coyote dens on private property.
- N/a
- Bird feeders ok
- Bird feeders should be an exceptions because our wild birds in Calgary are so used to human provided food, that I worry about what would happen if it were to disappear.
- Birdfeeders, mouse traps
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders should be allowed

- squirrels
- Animal in distress could be fed if possible?
- protect animals
- If the animal was hurt , a baby with no mother malnourished. If they animal needed immediate help
- Dealing with the skunk
- Cats and dogs that are hungry.
- Bird Feeders should be exceptions
- Young naive kids
- None
- If a wild animal is injured and needs to be captured for treatment.
- Birds
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Nil
- Park rangers more often around highly trafficked known wildlife spots
- None
- None
- Allow people to give squirrels peanuts in shells on private property.
- bird seed
- Bird feeders should be exempt or if a deer or something eats something from someone's garden
- People can provide water, the chain reaction of feeding wildlife is too long for exceptions
- Bird feeders
- if the owner gave us their full permission
- No teasing but feed is fine. Many acreages have deer that often look for hay in the winter and join horses or other outdoor animals. Not fair to fine for feeding these animals.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Injured wildlife
- Where do you draw the line? Is a bird feeder wrong? Is a hummingbird feeder wrong? If I plant milkweed to feed butterflies will I be arrested? where is the line?ed to feed the mo
- Bird feeders / relocation of wildlife
- Squirrels, birds
- birds and squirrels
- There should public service announcements on how to interact with wildlife appropriate and safely when they are on private property.
- Allow feeding feral cats
- Feeding birds and squirrels on your property
- Private property owner ought to be able to non lethally ward away dangerous animals such as coyotes with spray etc.

- If neighbours of the residents report the actions of those feeding/teasing as a nuisance
- Don't do it. pit bulls are only "agressive" because people make them. ban bad people not good dogs
- No feeding animal or harming them which feeding them can do and there should be a fine
- No exceptions animals should never be teased
- In-yard deterrents that are humane.
- Bird feeders on private property to feed wild birds
- There is a huge difference between feeding and teasing. I can't believe these have been grouped together.
- Feeding birds from hanging feeders.
- Bird feeders
- None. Trying to scare them off should be as much interaction we have with them.
- None that's a great choice
- None
- Bird feeders
- That we can feed birds and squirrel's
- Birds and injured animals
- None
- N/A
- Nuisance animals, chasing off rabbits eating garden
- Treatment of injured animals.
- No teasing
- Bird feeders allowed
- None - wildlife are an important aspect of maintaining a health ecosystem, and should be respected and allowed space.
- The animal is in need of help and you have been legally instructed by a professional to do so
- Yard birdfeeders
- Injured animals or orphaned young.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds or squirrels.
- teasing most definitely but feeding needs to be more defined --
- Small bird feeders could be exempt
- Injured wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I'm not sure that this is City domain. Any rules not covered by Provincial regulations should be implemented by them if required. Lobby them to restrict interfering with wildlife.
- bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- It's private property people should be aloud to feed animals if they want

- Photographing and/ or helping/ feeding injured or disadvantaged wildlife
- Rabbits, squirrels etc
- Fire Nenshi
- Bird feeders
- birds
- Feeders for birds and the like shouldn't be outlawed
- Feeding must be intentional. (eg. a garden being raided by rabbits doesn't count). Bird Feeders, Beehives.
- None
- Feeding appropriate wildlife and perhaps educating on proper ways to feed le birds, squirrels
- Heavy Fines
- Teasing wildlife should not be permitted but feeding birds for instance? Not feeding wildlife is too broad, you need to be more clear as to your intentions on that.
- Food that is actually acceptable for wildlife to eat. Natural foods.
- Education
- Bird feeders and other means that support small natural wildlife
- Assisting a wild animal when injured
- No teasing, feeding is allowed after contact with an animal rescue or sanctuary if animal appears abandoned my parent and seems of an age where they wouldn't survive on their own
- Birds
- I encourage bird feeders or even peanuts left out for the squirrels. I oppose hand-feeding wildlife and desensitization to humans.
- All wildlife is different. Some are ok to feed.
- Dying or injured wildlife that is not a natural predator of domesticated animals
- birdfeeders, feeding starving rabbits/hares
- Birds
- If that private property belongs to a group or organization that specifically supports wildlife and therefore is feeding them for the purposes of supporting them vs causing inadvertent harm.
- Bird feeders?
- Prohibit teasing but not feeding on private property.
- Birds. I feed the birds in my yard. It is especially valuable to have food available to birds during the winter, but food at all times should be allowed. Private property should be kept at just that-private. The city is trying to control far too much now.
- Bird feeders must be permitted.
- Birds
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders on private property
- Yet, how do you enforce it? And to what extend...like someone feeding squirrels versus someone trapping and drowning squirrels?

- If it is not for hunting purposes and farmers leave straw or grain out for deer
- When an animal is injured or needs help
- Birds
- Bird feeders and bees.
- If the animal was clearly injured and they were trying to feed it to capture it and bring it to a rehabilitation facilities.
- Should be able to remove annoyances like skunks, excessive squirrels, etc
- I think that bylaw would get complicated because lots of people have squirrel or bird feeders, and it's been like that for so long I think it would actually be detrimental to remove that food source.
- Backyard bird feeders
- Feeding the birds should still be allowed
- Bird feeders
- none
- Feeding animal on your property should be legal.
- Bird feeders for sure
- none
- Birds
- Feeding proper food to the animal, not junk food or bread for birds. No aggressive or harmful actions
- Does this mean no bird feeders? This seems ridiculous.
- none
- Birdfeeder
- Squirrels and birds
- Protected wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Proper clean feeding should be allowed like bird feeders. Dirty garbage style should not. I do not know what you mean by teasing.
- Okay to feed not tease
- None. People shouldnt be allowed to torment or hurt animals.
- Why lump them together? Obviously teasing is wrong, but are you trying to make bird feeders illegal too?
- Bird feeders
- A bylaw would then have to include birds and bees. Squirrelly.
- N/A
- Not feeding wild life on property.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Wild Birds, native species that are being harmed because of the cities last planning process and over concreting of our city

- Feeding the birds
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- No exceptions
- Injured animals
- Plaid bird feeders around the park areas that people can buy to feed the ducks.
- Would this include birds? Squirrels? Rabbits?
- none
- No foul play towards an animal.
- For survival purposes
- The city can not enforce the bylaws them do have so why make more?
- Feeding Wildlife with the purpose of baiting
- bird feeders should not be prohibited
- Animal seemed to be injured and needed assist/food to regain strength
- Be allowed to feed birds
- A proper review system to prevent unintended fines and punishment.
- Clear instances of wildlife rehabilitation (feeding/caring for wildlife)
- Birds
- I would support bylaws concerning teasing or abusing wildlife. However, I don't see the harm in putting carrot tops out for the neighbourhood bunnies.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- If an animal is hurt and cannot feed itself
- Bird feeders silly!
- birds
- feeding birds would be permitted
- Feeding the (what looks like pet) Bunnies in the erlton area
- Bird/squirrel feeders and water fountains
- No teasing or abuse ever. If injured contact proper authorities. People abusing should be fined & convicted for jail time.
- If the animal is visibly hurt or a struggling newborn
- None. Animals should eat their natural food and be left alone.
- Bird feeders should not be included in the prohibition.
- No exception wildlife should be left alone
- If it's a young person the penalty could be volunteering at soca or humane.
- Pest on farm land
- Feed intended for livestock that wildlife has access too. Example: Laying out hay for cattle to feed on in winter, but deer, elk, moose, etc. also access it as there's no way to keep them away. Farmer's should not be fined if the feed is for livestock.

- None.
- Ex: feeding a rabbit is fine but trying to feed a cougar is not
- Birds!
- No exceptions, wildlife fed by people get comfortable and then they get put down because we started the issue.
- Keep an open mind
- Parameters should be set in place to define each act more clearly
- No exceptions
- Ok to feed an Injured wildlife until help arrives. Like a Fish and wildlife official.
- Bird feeders/baths
- you should be allowed to feed birds on private property, tormenting or teasing birds should have huge fines like $3000 due to how hard it is to catch people in the act. all mammals, reptiles, and amphibians you should not be allowed to feed, or torment
- None
- Birdfeeders, bird baths and other water availability for wildlife, squirrel feeders and extra produce put out
- No exceptions. If it is prohibited in parks, then it should be prohibited on private property.
- Teasing is wrong and dangerous and mean. But I don't want to intrude on anyone's private property. Neighbors tend to use laws to go after their neighbors. Also would this impact wild bird feeders?
- Include penalties for teasing harassing pets on private property.
- If animal not licensed and found roaming should be considered "wildlife", like house cats roaming around.
- No teasing, but feeding birds is acceptable
- small Bird feeders
- Bird seed feeders
- N/A
- Bird feeders.
- bird feeders in your yard okay
- Wild birds & bees
- if the wildlife is starving or in need of care!!!
- Bird feeder
- Bird feeders in backyards
- Yes
- Wild life such as birds and squirrels.
- Injured animals
- bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird Feeders
- A hurt animal in need of care
- Feeding injured animals

- Please don't feed animals that could become pests and infringe on a neighbors property.
- Still allow bird feeders on private property.
- Birds, squirrels eat any food possible so pretty hard to include them
- Helping hurt or injured animals - feeding them until they can be transported to the correct facility for rehabilitation etc.
- Feed has to be with no harm to the animal. With space between feeding place and wild animal.
- Bird feeders still allowed
- Humans should not engage with Wildlife.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- Exorbitant fines
- NONE.
- None
- Bird feeders , suet for birds
- Birds need the feeders more often than not.
- birds
- bird feeders
- None
- Nothing wrong with feeding but teasing is not okay
- Winter bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- On private property, bird feeders should be allowed including hummingbirds.
- Bird feeders. Bee feeders.
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions.
- Birds and squirrels. Animals common to the city.
- If the animal was injured.
- Feeding of birds should still be allowed
- Bird feeders and squirrels
- Winter bird feeding. Bee keeping for pollination and honey.
- I like bird feeders, but teasing wildlife is wrong.
- Animals do not have a voice and it's our responsibility to care for them and a bylaw would assist with disrespectful behavior towards wildlife and feeding them what is not part of their natural habitat.
- This is a ridiculous question since the answer should always be yes.
- I would defer to wildlife experts for any exceptions. My understanding is exceptions lead to difficulties for the animals in other situations.
- birds
- Moose or Bears! Call for help!!!

- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- None
- lots of signage letting people know this is against the law and why and the negative impacts it has on animals in the wild.a fine amount if caught
- Bird feeders
- Its PRIVATE PROPERTY. Mind your own business is what I suggest.
- Perhaps allowing feeding stations (e.g., duck food for a quarter)
- Chasing away magpies and crows.
- Wild birds/birdfeeders
- Backyard bird feeders.
- Too difficult to police this
- Using food to lure animal off property
- Don't feel as strongly about feeding as I do teasing/cruelty
- Songbirds
- Birds and squirrels
- Include bees
- Bird feeders
- Baiting pest animals, ie skunks.
- Birds, I wouldn't want to give up my bird feeder
- If the animal was injured and local Wildlife centers were closed until Monday. Then the people should be allowed to feed and house the animal until Wildlife could come and get the creature.
- Birds...bird feeders
- Bylaw that prohibits teasing
- Bird feeders, bee hives, etc., should be exempt.
- Birds
- If deemed necessary for personal protection
- Bird feeders and water sources.

- Birds
- Photos within a certain distance
- None

- In the event of injured animal, food used to lure animal to capture and help should be allowed.
- None
- Bird feeders and similar devices.
- If the animal is a baby and seems neglected
- Bird feeders should be ok
- So this means I can no longer put out bird feeders? That is crazy
- The City may need to consider programs to manage populations of some animals like squirrels.
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- if a person was disabled
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, Squirrel/Chipmunk feeder
- There should be a fine up to jail time for hurting or bothering wildlife.
- Why would you include feed and teasing together? Someone feeding squirrels or birds should not be subjected to laws prohibiting it.
- Birds
- Teasing or harassing of an animal on private property is prohibited.
- If animal needs/is starving, person trying to do good deed for animal in need
- None
- Animals eating from bird feeders etc- not preventable
- Birds
- Injured animals.
- 250$ fine & A trespassing charge
- Small feeders for songbirds, hummingbirds, etc.
- Birdfeeders
- Bears, cougars, and other harmful animals
- Birds
- Birds and other non predator urban species
- Bird/squirrel feeders and baths.
- bird feeders should be exempt
- a fine
- Any injured wildlife or wildlife that appears to have been abandoned
- Bird feeders
- Feeding and teasing are two different things. It's unfair to categorize them together.
- Squirrel-proof bird feeders only
- None
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- Bird feeders allowed

- I am concerned that a bylaw against feeding wildlife could be interpreted to include having birdseed for birds or sweetened water for hummingbirds. Would it not be possible to handle animal cruelty concerns on private property without additional bylaws?
- Bird feeders
- N/A
- its wildlife we shouldn't feed them. They belong to the nature and if we start feeding them they will not continue with a wild life.
- Bird feeders
- Exception for animal that used to be pets but have been released such as the bunnies in some parts of downtown Calgary.
- What would teasing be?? My 3 year old chasing a duck? Teasing should be defined and explained
- Age of person feeding and/or teasing
- Bird feeders should be considered as an exception to wildlife feeding bylaws on private property.
- Fines for harming "unwanted" wildlife (ie. BB guns, inhumane traps, poisoning)
- Maybe have duck feeders or bird feeders around parks so that the people can toss out seeds for the ducks without causing them to be sick or have litter around
- Bird feeders
- Major wildlife like deer, elk, moose, bears, coyotes, foxes, lynx, wolves should have bylaw associated with it. Common pest-like animals such as squirrels, crows, magpies, mice, song birds should not.
- Would suggest same rules as in City Parks.
- Birds are already dependent on us feeding them- they have already changed to suit our needs and our feeding them- if we stop feeding them what will they do?
- None whatsoever.
- Bird feeders
- Rehabilitation of a hurt or abandoned wild animal.
- If animal injured and you are taking it home to rehabilitate (or rehabilitation centre)
- Ppl either accidentally or deliberately attract wildlife into our communities by leaving out pet dishes, or putting out feeders. This attracts wildlife that gets into neighbours' roofs, damages property. I don't see exceptions for eliminating feeding wild
- Depends on what kind of animal and the age of the offender.
- Bird feeders
- I'd give a fine for teasing not feeding
- Bird feeders should not be subject to the bylaw
- You are not going to stop people from feeding wildlife on their property. Money should be put into billboards and tv ads explaining the problems the wildlife encounter when people feed them.
- Birds are okay and squirrels but not rabbits. Holy do they multiply. Also people should have to pick up their fruit that drops on ground from their trees. It attracts skunks.
- None

- Feeding the birds in a bird feeder etc seems fine.
- Birds and squirrels
- injured or sick animals
- if it's on private property and the residents are feeding the wildlife and aren't bothered by them coming and going let them feed them
- Feeding birds
- Scaring off predators
- A child feeding or someone thinking they are helping. Would need education before a fine.
- From my view, it might actually be a good thing to stop feeding wildlife but I just don't know how the City could feasibility and realistically stop and ask Calgarians to get rid of all their bird feeders and bird houses, squirrel feeders, etc.
- Bird feeders
- Does this include birds?
- Birds and squirrels should be allowed to be fed with feeders
- Are we allowed to feed birds and squirrels?
- Birds
- Bait in humane traps
- Fines
- Birds, I feel like many would not survive without feeding birds through the winter months.
- I don't think feeding welcomed wildlife on private property is a crime in anyway -- so I certainly don't support that. But teasing or harassing wildlife routinely should have some consequences.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- If the animal is in distress and the food is being used to calm or extract the animal from its current location
- There are no exceptions. Wildlife is just that... wild. We need to leave it alone.
- None
- Don't discriminate against a breed of dog, as a deaf person with a pit bull as a service dog I refuse to enter your city limits due to your stupid pit bull laws
- Feeding may be done with good intentions for injured wildlife, those people should not be penalized, just educated
- Chasing nuisance wildlife off individual's property should be allowed, i.e skunks, rabbits, magpies, etc. as this is not teasing. Bid feeders, bird paths and birdhouses should continue to be be allowed.
- Birds, squirrels
- Birds. education needed as why feeding is not beneficial to the animal and how it will attract other animals
- Black squirrels, non-native birds.
- If the owner of the property is willing to take any and all responsibilities if that wild animal makes their property their new home.
- bird feeders on private property

- Can you explain what's the harm of feeding the wild birds?
- If an animal is stuck or injured and needs luring out in order to get help
- None! Wildlife need to be wild!
- Allow property owners
- Bird feeders
- Birds and small animals
- Birds
- Bird feeders to be allowed
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders
- Animal seems injured, hurt, abandoned (baby), etc. (needs help in specific situation)
- only exception should be feeding some birds in the winter
- People have bird feeders and feed squirrels etc. No law needed here.
- None
- the separation of feeding and teasing. I feel as though teasing has a lot of negative connotations and I would want to hear your strict definition of its context before proceeding
- Injured animals before help can get there
- Exceptions regarding research that has the proper backing and permission
- none
- Further education is needed for public.
- It should not have to be spelled out to not feed or tease wildlife, common sense?????
- None
- Bird seed
- No exceptions, we live by fish creek, should be prohibited already.
- None
- Bird feed would be allowed
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding small birds.
- more bylaw officers handing out tickets in 'high offense' areas in an effort to spread the word and get people to stop
- If an animal was awaiting collection by wildlife rehabilitation organization
- Warning for first feeding offence. Teasing offences no exceptions
- Feeding only appropriate if someone is trying to coax an injured animal to get it help
- leave it alone
- Bird feeders with proper feed should be acceptable
- Stop trying to take over all personal freedoms! Question 2 is ridiculous! We are not in a fascist regime
- Fines
- All animals should be treated with respect.

- Wildlife should not be touched, played with, or teased anywhere. Unless they appear to be trapped or tangled in garbage or other unknown object
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeders should be allowed.
- No exceptions, but very clear definitions around what constitutes "teasing" (pref. say "harassment"). Discretion for 1st time child offenders.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Deer, Elk, etc who join in on feeding of hay to livestock. Offering lifesaving food to injured or young wildlife.
- Unsure. I would follow the recommendations of wildlife experts.
- None
- None
- None
- I wouldn't limit feeding
- When caring for injured wildlife
- Feeding approved healthy food
- Bird feeders
- Birds/squirrels/bees
- I'd the rabbits &/or the deer are eating my garden they will hearses off and quickly. They are both eating and I could be perceived as teasing them.
- STOP fining for cats! They SHOULD be allowed outside!! It's RIDICULOUS!! They've been roaming outside in neighborhoods for 100's of years! Now we have to keep them locked inside, meowing incessantly to get outside to chase a MOUSE!
- bird feeders
- Where do birdfeeders stand in this? They do attract other animals (usually squirrels) but is this bylaw more about coyotes, deer, etc?
- Feeding is fine. Harassment and teasing is not.
- Injured animals that require help
- No teasing, feeding on your own property is our choice, not yours
- A hurt or distressed animal
- Public education
- Unless an injured wildlife end up on private property and the owners are caring or holding for wildlife rescue
- None. Animals are put down because of irresponsible people
- Zoo or private animal rescue
- None
- Orphaned or injured wildlife that cannot be brought into a vet hospital or wildlife rescue on short notice
- if its private property, that should be up to them. not the city

- Bird feeders should not be included in this bylaw. Harassment and teasing of wildlife is what should be addressed with the bylaw.
- Bird feeders
- Fines, more education as to why its bad for wildlife. Some people are unaware of the dangers foe the animals.
- Small bird feeders
- Geese.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding chickadees are fine. Nobody should ever be teasing wildlife. What the hell? We need to teach respect to animals
- none
- No ban on feeding wildlife on private property within city limits
- Bird feeders in private yards
- You should be able to feed wildlife on private property ie your home but teasing and baiting should not be allowed.
- Feeding sick or wounded animals
- I support prohibiting teasing animals, but think feeding ducks would be okay
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Providing bird seed should be acceptable.
- Bird and squirrel feeders, should still be aloud, it's more this big wildlife (cougars, deer, moose,) that need to have more security from public feeding
- Would this include bird feeders?
- Bird feeders
- Fines
- Birds
- If a person found a wild animal that was injured or orphaned, then at least temporarily they could care for the animal
- Bird feeders
- Birds are the only exception. All other wildlife should remain undisturbed.
- Trained or educated individuals helping an animal in distress
- Let people feed and trap to help the homeless pet population
- Bird feeders
- Exception of feeding on private property.
- Non-wild animals, such as strays
- If it's a pet animal and friendly
- I don't support "spying" but it should be made known not to feed the wildlife
- bird feeders, water baths
- PROTECT ANIMALS
- 1

- Birds
- Bird feeders
- If you have hay outside & an animal eats it. You shouldn't be fined for that. Innocent feeding is common. Obviously throwing a steak to a bear would be bad.
- Call pros for help
- None
- I would limit the law to just teasing wildlife on private property, as people may have bird feeders or may feed vegetable scraps to rodents which I consider to be harmless.
- None
- Birds
- Rabbits, skunks, squirrels, small animals
- No exceptions. Including birds.. birds bring mice that bring disease, infestation and other things. Don't need to feed wildlife.. there's a reason they're wild.
- Birds
- None
- Feeding birds and squirrels ok. Teasing NOT OK
- Putting out bird seed and other critters like rabbits and squirrels help themselves, that cannot be stopped. But enticing a deer, for example, with food should be a bylaw.
- If they need water & NEED food (malnourished animals in worse case)
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- No teasing or bugging the animals, but you should be allowed to feed them and give them water. They are just trying to survive.
- No more by laws we have too many already
- Feeding is fine, such as bird feeders, teasing is not.
- bird feeders
- Smaller Birds, chipmunks and squirrels
- With permission of the homeowner in regards to feeding. No exceptions to teasing, owners included.
- Bird feeders
- If an animal is put down as a result, prison time for the offender.
- If this poses a danger to those in the area (ie. if the wildlife is a dangerous or invasive species - bears, cougars, mice, etc).
- None
- Bird feeder
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Rescue
- Bird feeders should be allowed

- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- If one has squirrels/birds in their yard it's their business to feed them. Teasing wildlife is wrong. This question should have had 3rd question.
- Educate people on the issues with feeding wildlife and enforce fines
- Don't hurt animals
- Birds, squirrels
- If an animal was a lost pet and was being fed to try and gain trust so owners could be located
- A injured animal or baby animal that needs food
- Bird feeders
- Rehabilitation of injured animals
- Feeding wild Birds with appropriate food
- no exceptions
- Birds and squirrels
- bird feeders sounds like it would be included in this thought process, so hense my vote of NO.
- Dehydration
- None
- None. Surprised this does not already exist.
- Fines for feeding bears regardless of where
- Perhaps leaving out seeds for birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Birds (bird feeder)
- Bird seed
- Really !!! WTF
- If the wildlife was hurt and the animal needed food/water on private property it should be okay to be provided as long as the animals best intents are looked after and wildlife specialists are called to move the animal appropriately.
- N/A
- Privet property by definition , leave it to property owners to make that determination." their house their rules"
- None
- None
- Feeding is fine (aka birds and such). Teasing is never okay.
- No exceptions.
- Watching an injured animal until services can help.
- Exemption should be if the animal found food on your property ie. Getting into a garbage bin, or finding berries growing in your garden
- For instance feeding deer the apples from your tree would be acceptable; unless it was a trap to kill the animal.

- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- None
- No exceptions to teasing animals
- People should still be able to feed birds, squirrels if they so wish
- Squirrels, Chipmunks, Birds etc.
- Birds
- Feeding and care of an orphaned or injured animal
- Feeding squirrels & birds
- Fines
- Animals that are found in danger of death. In cases of emergencies when wildlife rehabilitation centres aren't open
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Pests are free game
- No exceptions. Feeding/teasing wild life is not acceptable
- Birds...they're wild yes, but they've been fed for literally generations, this I don't see the harm in
- Attracting nuisance animals like coyotes or bears would be an issue, but feeding birds, squirrels, etc doesn't matter to me.
- Bird feeders
- Don't know enough about impact to wildlife and communities
- If the food someone provides is actually good for the animal.
- if there was an ecological disaster that required providing food and water to be under the supervision of fish & wildlife, and conservation officers
- Let's allow feeders for birds/squirrels.
- feeding during lean times
- bird feeders
- Bird feeding
- none, decisions made on private property should be that of the owner without penalization in regards to wildlife
- Food for squirrels,
- Birds
- Bird feeders that don't allow squirrels to feed from them
- disallow any teasing of wildlife anywhere. Allow bird feeders.
- birdfeeders..
- None

- Bird feeders are okay.
- Cruelty
- Birds
- for the purpose of luring animals with malice intent or harm
- Animal sanctuary
- If the act is done by the owner of the property to wildlife that is on said owner's private property.
- Feed small animals okay, teasing never for any
- What is Definition of “teasing”? (E.g. How to shoo them away?) Help relocating “problem” wildlife.
- Bird feeders for small birds. But somehow keep pigeons away.
- If it's private property it will be very difficult to monitor and manage. Perhaps the appropriate warnings and education for those within city limits that attract wildlife. Funnily enough, we live in a city where the wildlife feel comfortable - strange.
- Privately owned facilities like petting zoos
- Pest extermination - mag pies
- None
- Bird/Squirrel feeders. Don't feed squirrels at the park, but have a feeder in the yard.
- Re-releasing the animals to a different location therefore they are out of the way and adding a tracker chip to those animals in case they come back
- Rabbit and Bird Feeders
- bird feeders should be allowed
- N/A
- If it is observed the animal is in distress and assistance to get the wildlife to the proper care is needed.
- None
- Orphaned or injured animal situations
- Better education. Fine if caught.
- None
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders / feeding endangered animals to help the population
- Cheese are a major problem. We need a system to cull them in residential areas. W
- Bird feeder
- You should be allowed to feed harmless animals such as birds, by maybe bylaw should be allowed to intervene if youre feeding something dangerous or a possible nuisance, like skunks or coyotes.
- None
- Birdfeeders
- If a wildlife officer has been contacted and has instructed a person to care for or feed a sick or injured animal until a wildlife officer arrives to collect that animal.
- Bird feeders
- If the private property allows it with provided feed for the animals
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- People should be allowed to feed birds, squirrels and other small animals on their own property.
- If animals have lived on the property for a number of years (for example, a bird feeder who has a nest in a tree near the house)
- If a dog is not being properly fed someone should not be fined for feeding it.
- None.
- Luring or baiting wildlife onto private property (except bird feeders)
- If wildlife needs to be trapped, it may have to be necessary to bait them with feed.
- There needs to be reasonable allowance for rescue and rehabilitation efforts of injured, orphaned or other wildlife in need of intervention.
- Is this for all wildlife or certain ones. That are considered pests or dangerous? Exceptions for song birds, hummingbirds. Putting out a bird feeder shouldn't apply to this. Teasing wildlife should not be allowed regardless of public or private.
- Fines
- If you are found leaving food out, to entice aggressive wildlife, such as coyotes you should be fined minimum $2500. Rabbits, birds ect... should be exempt
- Still allow bird and squirrel feeders
- [removed]
- Helping an animal in need.
- Mice and other potential property damaging animals
- Education.. I don't think bylaws will be listened too.. also how to enforce this
- Birds need all the help they can get with all the cats killing them
- squirrls, rabbits, birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Bird Feeders, Chasing pests (magpies/squirrels/rabbits) from land
- No feeding bears or wolves, but if you have ducks or rabbits on your property, I dont see an issue.

- Bird feeders
- Feeding rabbits should be included
- None.
- if the animal was in immediate danger or distress
- Based on two options provided, we would have to say no. Define teasing, do you mean harassment, which we would support. For feeding, does this include bird feeders? We would not be in favour of a bylaw that prohibits feeding in this manner.
- None
- birds feeders
- No exceptions.
- Designed animal feeders
- Feeding injured wildlife
- none
- Zoos or petting zoos
- Squirrels, bird feeders, etc
- Exempt Bird/Squirrel feeders

- No feeding or disturbing wildlife on public property.
- Feeding the ducks in the park
- Birds
- Unless the animal is injured and looking for help.
- Leaving food for animals outside, on an acreage for example
- Duck feeding
- Obviously bird feeders.
- Birds
- If a wild animal has become a nuisance and refuses to leave.
- Injury
- None. Don't be an asshole to animals
- None
- If an animal is injured one should be able to feed it if it cannot be brought to the correct help centre immediately.
- Bird feeders
- Animal rescue groups, feeding animals for their safety as they're starving
- If the animal was injured and needed help in any way.
- Exceptions would be birds and squirrels, small animals who people like to watch.
- None - leave wildlife alone
- Would small bird feeders be against this bylaw?
- If the wildlife is injured and cannot fend for itself
- Feeding safe foods for the appropriate animal

- Definitely a fine for teasing but case by case for feeding wildlife.
- Crows, magpies
- Birds
- Bird feeders with appropriate food
- If an animal was hurt and needed help
- If animals that are typically in residential areas are exempt: birds, squirrels, hares, and even ducks- same breeding pair pops by my yard for a few weeks every year
- Malnutrition of a baby animal?
- None
- It is unfair to abide such regulation on private property...
- Bird feeders
- Being approached by an animal like a duck
- In the case of animal rescue or rehabilitation, feeding of wildlife on private property should be permitted.
- Birds
- If someone leaves out oats or something on their lawn for wildlife they should be allowed to feed wildlife but no teasing
- Bird feeders, bird baths, and nuts for squirrels.
- None.
- feeding a wild animal that is injured and waiting for intervention from official resources.
- Bird or squirrel feeders
- Feeding birds/squirrels/bees etc would be acceptable
- If owner and or property is threatened.
- Keep bylaws off private property, I really don't think it is the city's place!
- No teasing wildlife
- No exceptions, don't feed wildlife even if they are in your property.
- Bird feeders filled with appropriate bird seed to support wild birds
- No exceptions, there needs to be a higher penalty for interacting with wildlife, especially larger game such as moose
- Feeding could be considered having flowers that deer enjoy eating. This idea is just dumb.
- Animals in need of medical care may need feeding on private property to build trust to catch it safely.
- birds and squirrels
- None, this should not be happening.
- Bird feeders
- Education, earning, fine
- I think feeding in the winter for people who border a large open area, like Fish Creek Park is ok, especially in harsh winters.
- Birds not pigeons
- Birds

- Bird feeders on private property should be exempt.
- A child feeding a bunny/deer carrots. Especially at Christmas time when it's a fun holiday experience to wake up to eaten carrots.
- None
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders
- Fruit trees obviously
- keeping "neighbourhood pets" in mind. just teasing should not be allowed.
- Birds
- None
- Feeding of wild birds should be allowed as the care/feeding of injured animals which might come onto private properties.
- Squirrels and bird feeders
- birds
- Feed stations (vending machine/coin machine) where profits go back to supporting wildlife
- UCP supporters
- I think its ok to have bird feeders.
- Designated areas with a food dispenser (for money and controlled by the City). This will ensure proper food is fed to wildlife.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, bee hotels, animal-friendly plants
- feeding birds is ok...teasing /tormenting wildlife not ok
- None
- Leave bully breeds alone
- I think feeding birds is ok.
- None
- Local birds, other rodents such as squirrels or chipmunks
- Only large wildlife , not including squirrels, birds, etc
- None
- Your private property, your rights...
- Wild Bird feeding . Especially in winter Feeding is not the same as teasing and should not be categorized together I would never support teasing any where
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- N/A
- Wildlife owned privately, such as ducks that live on someone's property.
- songbird feeding
- no exceptions
- Don't bother wildlife or other peoples animals

- Design regulations should be separate from teasing.
- Case by case basis. If the food isn't harmful and the "wildlife" comes to you for it why does it matter
- Bylaw on public property only, not private property
- birdfeeders
- None
- No exceptions.
- Should be allowed to feed birds (bird feeders in yards acceptable)
- Na
- Pertains to 1). Cats are animals that naturally stray if let outside your home. Therefore, Cats should be spay & NOT let outside unless Spay & leashed. This would rectify many issues.
- Bird feeders
- How is teasing and feeding even remotely similar. And the purpose of owning private property is so it is just that!!....PRIVATE!!!
- Feeding birds (bird feeders)
- Feeding birds
- Song birds
- Birds
- Specific wildlife. E.g feeding birds shouldnt be an issue, feeding a deer or larger animal could be an issue (leading to more animal vehicle related incidents)
- if it was a visibly ill or starving animal
- None
- In case of emergency (wildfire for example) food and water for wildlife would be allowed.
- Feeding birds is fine, but not skunks, coyotes, ie: mammals.
- Bird feeders should be the exemption
- That people would still be allowed to feed birds etc.
- However I've seen people leave stuff out for ravits that doesn't really concern me as long as your not teasing them
- Except birds/cats/dogs
- Feeding a dog/cat that appears abandoned/neglected
- All property
- a privately owned petting zoo
- Sanctuaries and wildlife rescue
- Maybe providing water only
- Starving and winter with no contact
- Large fines
- No animal feeders of any kind on property.
- Well maintained bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels...
- Your going to outlaw bird feeders?

- Fines
- Bird feeders should be okay.
- Feeding ducks and other wild birds
- Any wild animal caught near houses needs to be captured, not killed, and released far away from people. You can use bear dogs to chase the animal away in Hope's it will be too scared to come back.
- None, leave nature be
- Narrow down specifics. Feeding squirrels vs squirrels stealing bird feed
- Injured animal would require food/medical
- If the animal is hurt
- NA
- Government should stay off private property, we do not need you to police our properties.
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Ensure wild bird feeders are exempt
- Jail time
- Luring mammals
- None, unless feeding birdseed, and not bread
- If they were helping the animal
- Birds, they can have difficult time in winter add to that predation of roaming domestic cats. Birds are in decline globally helping them is to our benefit as they assist in polination/seed spreading/rodent control/ and refuse clean up(Magpies/crows)
- Bird feeders for wild birds
- No exceptions.
- Birds squirrels rabbits ect should be exempt
- Rabbits., squirrels, birds with responsible feed
- None.
- bird feeders
- dogs
- None
- None
- Generally this is good, but I think bird feeding is a hobby enjoyed by many on private property, as well as planting bee/butterfly friendly plants should be allowed, so I said No.
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property
- Bird feeders and squirrel feeding etc.
- Exclude birdfeeders
- None
- Bird feeders
- Respect people's freedom.

- Birds
- Do not remove any sort of trees etc that wild life seem to love. It is natural and we are on THEIR territory
- Birds and water fowl.
- birds, bunnies, squirrels, bees
- birds in yard
- None
- Sick or wounded animals should be able to be cared for
- If you own the yard and property, and do not share a dwelling
- None
- Would this bylaw include birds? Im not sure feeding bjrds should be apart of the bylaw unless it is attracting other problematic wildlife
- Not that worried about bird feeding. Attracting other wildlife or rodents is obviously bad
- if a wild animal has lost it's mother at a young age and is unable to provide for it's self.
- Opossums and Raccoons
- Bird feeders, safe-squirrel food feeders, etc.
- Birds and squirrels
- Birds need the extra food supplements, especially in winter
- None
- Inadvertant feeding such as bird feeders.
- None
- Fine people who feed or tease wildlife .
- if the animal is injured, an individual may be able to give the animal water or other essentials as they wait for 311.
- Unsure. People can only do damage by too much interaction with the wildlife.
- Cruelty
- Special permissions can be granted
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- This question is unfair, why lump feeding and teasing in with the same question? They are two separate subjects. I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing. Define feeding of wildlife, if by that you also include bird feeders, then my answer is no.
- Bird feeders
- no exceptions
- Maybe if the animal is injured
- bird feeders
- None
- Wildlife sanctuaries and vets should be exempt

- Seriously Injured or endangered wildlife. Luring away for safety of the general public.
- bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- It should be fine for people to put bird feeders on private property.
- none
- Please define both terms; leave feeding out of this bylaw. What about bird feeders?
- None, they are not your animals you don't know their needs so don't [removed] touch, tease or feed! I don't go into strangers yards to torment or feed their animals, same rules should apply for private property.
- Bird feeders
- The City should not be hazing coyotes on City property either.
- No exceptions, wild animals should not be fed or harassed regardless of being on private or city property
- Only intervene if a human and/or pet is being attacked
- There needs to be clarification regarding what constitutes feeding. Does this include bird feeders?
- fine and not owing any animals for a period of time
- Bird feeders
- Birds should be exempt
- If teasing could be on the boundary of abuse. Then there should be a bylaw
- Allow bird feeders
- Bird feeders etc
- Two warnings then a fine.
- If it is private property it is non of the city's concern period!! Mind your own business!
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- Does growing fruit or veggies count as teasing wildlife...?
- None - they are wild and should not be treated as someone's pet
- Exceptions for bird feeders (though they should be emptied/cleaned in spring to reduce risk of bears)
- Does this include birds? I think feeding birds is okay but in bird feeders up high only
- Teasing as in abuse of any animal
- Feeding birds is important, especially in winter.
- places of business - Zoo's, etc
- Normal bird feeders, hummingbird feeders, etc.
- Bird feeders
- I guess I don't support a bylaw unless it's really specific. People should be able to easily feed birds, squirrels, etc.
- Birds
- n/a
- n/a

- Every other house has a bird feeder or hummingbird feeder
- None
- A situation where a rescue is necessary and an expert is not available to assist.

- If wildlife was aggressive, owner could use measures to deter wildlife.
- Increasing fines per occurrence
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds through a bird feeder
- Nothing - we have enough bylaws
- Birds and squirrel feeders
- Feeding if obvious starvation. No exceptions for teasing
- Feeding birds should be allowed. Squirrels tend to get fed as a byproduct of this. That's ok too.
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- Re Feeding: If the animal is in distress and a wildlife official is not on scene in a timely manner
- None, really.
- The feeding of small birds
- Uninclude acreages which happen to fall within city bounds
- Off city limits properties like acreages
- Genuine, caring people. The ones that do their research and feed geese or ducks things they're able to eat. Educate people.
- Wild birds
- Birds
- none
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- None
- None
- No exceptions. Feeding any wildlife is unsafe and irresponsible.
- Bears
- Hurt or abandoned baby animals
- Feeding if an animal is on private property
- Animal cruelty should be prohibited even on private property
- Having feeders with the correct food would be fine. So animals rely on those feeders
- It's private property when it comes to wild animals that's Alberta's jurisdiction not the city of Calgary

- the ability to continue to feed birds (seed) especially in the winter months. Feeding critters such as squirrels and leaving dog food outside encourages coyotes, bobcats etc.
- none.... respect a person's right to personal property. Illegal behaviours shall be addressed by law enforcement. Creating new laws and legislatio causes more financial strain on the economy. Perhaps focus on a positive approach at teach people responsiby
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on personal property
- feeding birds and squirrels should be excempt
- Feeding birds and squirrels should be okay.
- None
- Magpies be exempt from the teasing
- None
- Stiffer Penalties are Absolutely Necessary for Feeding/Teasing Wildlife on any Property!!!!
- Ask wildlife management experts
- None
- If there is a problem animal (ie skunk, raccoon or porcupine) who has taken up residence on your property, you may need to lure them with food in order to relocate them.
- Feeding Lions is ok
- Kids feeding birds, squirrels, etc
- Birds
- BRID FEEDERS
- fines,large
- Bird appropriate feeders and feed
- Birds are "wildlife" and so are squirrels,birds who would not make it through the winter without the birdfeeders. larger animals, like deer, fox, coyote and bobcats - no feeding on private property
- If someone wants to feed squirrels, they should be allowed to. It should be bigger animals that we address concerns with (deer, coyotes, skunks, etc.)
- Birds
- Bird feeders and like activities
- What would be the definition of teasing? Many times people feed wild life in need. It does not make them tame but it can save their life. No one intentionally feeds or pets bears but they will still come onto people's property looking for food.
- Exclude birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird / Squirrel feeders
- Would need to exempt bird feeders
- We need a careful definition of feeding - clear intent to tease or feed should be required. E.g. We don't want to prohibit people from having a vegetable garden.
- birdfeeders,

- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- Birds
- None
- It would be okay to feed Injured wildlife
- Bird feeders to be excluded
- Animals right to open water. Includes allowed drinking from bird bath, ponds or pools. There shouldn't be a fine for water feature and animals have a right to hydrate wherever they are.
- No exceptions.
- Bird feeders to be exempt
- harming any wildlife should be dealt with. Feeding wildlife should be acceptable as long as there's no harm to the animals. Education about local animals should be available in community centers..
- orphaned wildlife requiring intervention
- Feeding birds, etc in the winter shouldn't be fined. Teasing or any kind of abusive behavior should be punished.
- wildlife is injured and needs help
- Animals that have been injured and are in need of help.
- Bird feeders should be allowed in peoples yards
- confirmed cases of parental abandonment (food, care)
- People should be fined if caught feeding wildlife or teasing them.
- I would exempt squirrel proof bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Rural properties or if there is proof it was to rehabilitate / rescue an animal
- Birds
- Try to capture strays to bring to shelters
- NIL
- Giving water during heat warnings should be allowed
- Birds
- Squirrel safe Bird feeders
- Feeding be ok if animal is medically in need of food ie starving or not in good health due to lack if nutrition, etc.
- Feeding and "teasing" animals are two entirely separate issues. Would The City seriously considering banning bird feeders? How ridiculous. As for harassing animals, current laws should be better enforced by Bylaw Enforcement.
- Animals that my have strayed from den or nest, that by feeding them mite increase there survival...
- Backyard bird feeders
- Except birds And squirrels, doesn't the current provincial wildlife legislation prohibit feeding wild animals?
- Bird feeders, nuts for squirrels, etc. Don't feed bears and cougars but the little critters are fine.

- Birds
- How is feeding a squirrel a peanut or two considered teasing??
- If they are in disparate need of attention and assistance regarding their health and well being
- No exceptions required. Let people interact with wild animals in whatever way they please.
- Birds
- none

- MUZZLE ALL DOGS IN PUBLIC DON'T DISCRIMINATE
- If the wildlife was in danger, if the wildlife is suffering from a wound
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Unless domestic strays
- More signage when not in off leash area at Nose Hill Park. Daily (14 st - Calgary Winter Club entrance) and I encounter at minimum 3 dogs which are off leash in the on leash area. I have witnessed many dogs chasing deer and not recalling for the owner.
- Bird feeders, leaving nuts out for squirrels etc
- Maybe for large animals, but is this necessary for birds?
- Bird feeders
- If the animal was hurt and needed medical attention, so feeding it may help ?
- None
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- None
- Education on why you shouldn't feed wildlife and why is required.
- Bird feeders should be permissible.
- bird/squirrel feeders should be permitted
- Squirrels & birds
- Shouldn't be allowed for commercial purposes
- If the animal is starving
- Bird feeders
- None

- Well first off that question is pretty deceiving are we talking about feed squirrels or birds in a bird feeder, or are we talking about feeding the bears. Feeding dangerous animals is stupid but im not gonna back this if its all wildlife.
- None
- Bird feeders should be ok. Many birds would not survive winter without feeders now that humans have taken so much of their natural food sources
- If safety is an issue
- i personally think that if you have candy coin dispensers with the proper wildlife food (for the ducks lets say) and everyone had to pay $1 to get food it would benefit both parties!
- So, no bird feeders then.
- Squirrels and birds
- Birds
- Bird Feeders
- Birds.
- In case of an injured animal while waiting for assistance from an appropriate rescue or rehabilitation organization.
- Should be able to leave bird seed out
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders in trees
- None, wildlife should be free to roam without humans interfering.
- Never appropriate to feed or tease wildlife. If a wild animal is injured, leave it alone or call Wildlife authorities.
- Feeding birds
- birds
- None.
- Feeding Birds
- some people feed birds, squirrels etc.
- Bird feeders.
- birdfeeding
- Bird feeders should be allowed but teasing wildlife should be fined
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Private property is private property. No exceptions.
- Clear signage posted to discourage feeding / teasing.
- Allow feeding of birds/squirrels provided you have feeders that are inaccessible to others animals such as deer, and bears.
- Coyotes, bears -
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders any large wild animals should not be fed by humans unless they are being rehabilitated. The City of Calgary should use their brains. This shouldn't even be a question on your survey

- No exceptions
- Bird feeders/baths on private property.
- Animals in medical distress
- birds
- Fine for $1000 straight!
- If it is in your property
- Scaring away potential predators.
- None
- Bird feeders
- it depends on the animal
- Species appropriate/healthy bird feeders. I also don't know how the above bylaw would be enforced - people shouldn't be penalized for growing tomatoes and the squirrels eating them. This bylaw should focus on the health of the animal and human safety
- Cats should not be included in "wildlife"
- No exceptions for Animal Cruelty in any form!
- Existing drought or famine
- Birds (feeding)
- Exceptions for bird feeders
- Squirrels, birds
- Teasing - no exceptions. Feeding - exceptions with squirrels/birds/ducks in public parks.
- none
- N/A
- Relocating wildlife where it is possible
- birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Approval of the owners of said property
- Bird feeders and other feeding where humans are not in direct contact with the animal should be allowed.
- Canada Geese... Long time overdue for action and culling of these nuisance fowl.
- Depending on the cuteness of the rabbit.
- Bird seed
- N/a
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, if properly maintained
- Na
- ducks& geese in the rivers could be fed; squirrels& birds, from feeders and rabbits could be left carrots in the winter.
- Wildlife should be left alone unless they need medical help
- Wildbird food feeding ok

- Birdfeeder
- If you own said animal on your private property and they are not wild
- Bird feeders with carefully selected bird feeds to support native bird populations
- Feeding isn't the issue.. its teasing. That's cruel.
- Accept bird feeders
- bird feeders
- This is too broad of a question. What about bird feeders, or gardens, etc. Also, private property is just that, private property.
- None.
- No exceptions and make the fine sting. If the fine isn't high enough, people won't care.
- Bird feeders
- Birds and squirrels that use bird feeders
- If the animal is feeding on a garden or berries intended for decorative or human use.
- No exceptions. There should be a wildlife phone line they can call for assistance.
- You should be able to feed birds on private property
- None
- none
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be exempt.
- Wildlife causing damage to personal property should be allowed to be humanely escorted off the property.
- Provide support to an animal in obvious distress until an animal control officer arrives
- No one should feed or approach wildlife no matter what property. Unless its song birds and bird seed.
- Feeding and teasing wildlife should be separate bylaws since the reasoning behind each and the results for the animals are different.
- Feeding rabbits and squirrels along with birds should be allowed.
- Efforts to encourage the wildlife to leave the private property.
- None
- The case of an injured or young animal just needing a little minor help
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.
- If the animal was severely starving/emancipated or animal control and associated parties were notified but no action was taken.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I worry that feeding birds would be included in this bylaw.
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.
- Canadian geese, overpopulated and everywhere

- Winter bird feeders is they are doing harm to the animals.
- Be reasonable with limitations. Example; bird and squirrel feeders should still be allowed
- None
- No teasing
- If an animal is injured and requires human assistance
- Exception for providing food for live-trapping/releasing of pest animals. i.e. skunks, etc.
- Feeding should be okay
- Birds/squirrels an exception.
- None
- Feeding birds
- If the animals was injured and needed care
- If the animal is in distress or injured and requires support to survive until official arrive.
- Squirrels
- none- it should be clear black and white.
- Feeding an injured/malnourished/abandoned baby animal.
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.
- This feeding wildlife covers a huge spectrum. This could reflect anything between a bird feeder to leaving food out for the deer. I think there needs to be more clarity on what is considered "wildlife" and "feeding"
- Exceptions would be bird & squirrel feeders and bird baths.
- You guys have lost your mind with the bylaws [removed]. How about a law against animal cruelty
- Saving life
- none
- Any situation where a pet or human is dangerous and the occurrence is in response to helping someone
- Feeding should be ok, but not teasing or tormenting wildlife
- Bird Feeders
- Feeding birds in your backyard and similar activities
- Owner has full right to press charges in terms of harassment and or assault
- Ponds that provide approved food for feeding fish, etc
- If they're feeding on food that's found in trees or bushes at the property there is no harm, but if they are actively feeding it this is an issue
- Not applicable
- Make this first offence carry a hefty fine $1000, and so on with jail time after 3rd offence
- Non, people need to leave those animals alone, if anything, they should be contacting the owner of said property
- None
- Bird Feeders

- Impose a fine
- Bird feeders (not by hand) should be fine,
- Bird Feeders to be encouraged with correct feed only, feeding of other animals with correct feed in winter only.
- Small birds, squirrels
- Feeding birds with bird feeders.
- Birds and squirrels
- For animals like bunnies, where they are so prominent, an approved list of foods to feed them would be nice so that if people do feel the need to feed them, if the rabbit lives on their property for ex-pat please, they know how to not cause harm to bunny
- Hurt animals awaiting pickup by city or wildlife employees
- none
- Bird feeders. Prohibiting bird feeders would be ridiculous, but I'd like to see people better educated about feeding squirrels and rabbits, and attracting skunks.
- not if this would include things like bird feeders
- Birds are wildlife and many people feed them at feeders. Having said that, feeding animals such as deer, coyotes, skunks etc, should be disallowed.
- mistreatment of wildlife fine for anywhere
- Bird feeding and squirrels
- No exceptions feeding
- bird feeders
- None
- Putting bird seed in feeders should be ok, but any other feeding should be banned
- Bird feeders
- pitbulls should be prohibited OR perspective owner's should have an IQ test
- Would this include bird feeders?
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wild birds with the proper seeds, etc.
- People can feed birds and squirrels on their own property
- I would support a bylaw against teasing wildlife but not feeding
- Private property is precisely that PRIVATE! If someone wants to feed birds and squirrels, that is their prerogative! If you want to go after wildlife, cull the infestation of skunks in this city! No one wants them around and they invade private property!
- Increase education and ads informing public about the dangers about doing so.
- no exceptions
- fines
- birds
- Birdfeeders
- Birdfeeders

- teasing seems different then feeding. Someone may be feeding bunnies in the park...this is not good for bunnies but the person is not intending to do harm
- Bird feeders should be acceptable some regulations
- birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders
- None
- Birds
- Feeding and teasing are 2 different activities and should not be grouped together.
- We need education on why we need to leave wild animals alone and what to do if you find one on your property
- Bird feeders
- Domestic animals
- Birds should be exempted (Bird feeders)
- None
- Animal is in distress/starving.
- Injured wildlife for purposes of saving and re-releasing it
- Sick or injured animals
- No exceptions, Unless the animal is hurt.
- Bird feeders or under the advisement of a wildlife rehab centre or conservation officer
- Physical attacks on wildlife should be prohibited. Cats should not be outside without a leash due to killing wildlife on a large scale.
- an animal in distress
- no exceptions
- Gophers, there's not much you can do about them.
- Bunny's and birds
- Ok 2 feed not ok 2 tease. Answer to #1) offer free spay/neuter 2 1st x owners.
- None
- Bird feeders.
- how could "teasing" be defined such that it was enforceable in court - this seems unenforceable
- Exceptions for what, the question is not clear.
- Disturbing household pet
- For farmers, alot of the time they despise of dead livestock out in the corner of the Feild. I think as long as no other livestock are around, this should be aloud.
- No injuring of wild animals
- Bird feeders
- huge difference between feeding and teasing. The bylaw should only be for teasing or feeding an animal when it has been publicly discouraged and will be detrimental to the animals welfare
- Bird feeders
- Fines. Larger fines for teasing than feeding.

- Ok to feed but a bylaw against teasing excellent.
- Birds
- None.
- If it is on my property I should be able to feed the animals City already has too many controls on us!
- water fowl, birds
- None. Too many pet owners let their cats roam without control. Our backyards is their bathroom.
- Birds, squirrels, stray cats. How would you draw the line, if a deer walks through your yard and eats your tulips is that considered feeding a wild animal. Of your cat got out and you're worried and you leave out food and a raccoon eats some?
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds in winter
- birds / birdfeeders and by extension, squirrels
- None
- bird feeding with approved substances (ie, not peanuts or other large items but suet, and less irritating items for gardeners that squirrels like to bury in people's gardens).
- If property owner calls 311 and gets specific instructions to feed from bylaw/city officers.
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- I don't notice an issue in the city and see no need for change.
- Birds
- You don't do anything when people call bout roaming cats, why would you have man power for this!
- Private property.
- Animal that has been injured and being rehabilitated
- Define "Feed", for example bird feeders, I would support a bylaw that prohibits harassment of wildlife on private property
- Any wild animals should not be feed
- Its my yard therefore my property, if I don't want a rabbit in my yard I should be allowed to scare it away.
- Educate
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- No teasing or allowing dogs to chase wildlife.
- bird feeder
- Rescues and fosters
- Common sense, first offence a warning for people who aren't aware
- Fines

- Feeding vs teasing are two completely different behaviours and they should be dealt with as two separate questions..
- vermin
- Aggressive wild life
- Rescue efforts, special circumstances (ie conditions where normal food not available)
- Each situation should be handled on an individual basis; so if a warning should be given for ignorance to the bylaw it can be, and tougher bylaws and fines for repeat or uncaring individuals if necessary.
- If the animal is injured
- Feeding and giving assistance to an injured animal until authorities arrive
- Appropriate bird feeders
- Bird feeders/bird baths are fine but in general wildlife should not be feed.
- Feeding birds
- Allow bird feeders
- None. Private Property is just that... private. The owner should be taking precautions to prevent wildlife from entering their property in the first place.
- that the city quit trying to govern everything and leave it alone until a complaint comes in
- Bird feeders
- Bird Feeders be exempt, if found to be "Yes"
- Bird feeder should be exceptions, provided they are well maintained and appropriate
- The city doesn't own wildlife. Private property is private. Leave private citizens alone.
- Any Wildlife
- non
- Bird baths are acceptable.
- feeding wild birds only
- None.
- None
- Get rid of the rabbits! Supply more traps and make it illegal to feed them, raise them and release them.
- Allow to feed birds
- Bird, Squirrel and Rabbit feeders. Only Larger game should be considered for prohibition of feeding/teasing.
- Bird feeders
- How to enforce this would be a huge issue.
- feeding squirrels through the use of bird feeders is going to be hard to avoid
- Injury
- Bird feeding and rabbit feeding on private property.
- Wildlife should be kept to parks. first time you feed them they are back in your yard

- If wildlife are damaging private property .Eating bark off trees, damaging property to build a nest etc. The home owner should be allowed to chase off the wildlife.
- Zoos and other regulated exhibits.(i.e. petting zoo) (for Feeding not teasing)
- Bird food for bird
- Bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders as an exception, but not feeding deer, coyotes etc...
- Bird feeders,
- You can't stop wild animals from eating people's gardens, so it's stupid to fine them for feeding them.
- No feeding wildlife on outlying communities
- none
- Larger fines
- None!
- Most people wouldn't tease. Just feed until they become a nuisance
- None
- bird feeders
- Its private property let them decide on their own. Would hate to see how a cop would handle a call like this.
- Wild birds
- No exceptions
- none
- Allow a mechanism for neighbours to complain and warnings then action to be taken, but not a blanket ban.
- If you prohibited feeding wildlife it opens the room to fine someone for a bird feeder or the like.
- Salt kicks for deer that stuff
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders
- cats should not be let out at night, and if cats are caught a fine is enforced to the owner.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Defense of inhabitants
- Feeding birds
- No Exceptions
- The city actually uphold these penalties. I find Calgary sets these bylaws and doesn't enforce them.
- Birds and squirrels exempt.
- Song birds
- bird feeders should be allowed

- Feeding should be allowed, depending on what is being fed.
- Bird Feeders
- Birds
- [removed]
- If the wildlife is a pest, or the feeding increases their population beyond a reasonable amount.
- Bird feeders are fine and using food to help catch an injured animal so it can get the care it deserves.
- Bird feeders
- Responsible feeding is not an issue, target irresponsible wildlife interactions.
- Injured animals that need care until Alberta Institute for Wildlife Conservation can retrieve them.
- Feeding and teasing are separate things
- Bird feeders
- Bird/pollinator feeders, frog/fish ponds, etc
- Feeding should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders, bat boxes and bee hotels should be permitted.
- private property is private
- Birds
- Private property is just that. There would need to be strong clarity if this is approved. are we talking feeding the birds, squirrels, or drawing in coyotes? Don't waste time fining people who have birdfeeders on their private property
- It looks starved and needs food/water
- Bird feeders
- I lived in Inglewood and numerous skunks were kept in the area due to being very well fed by members of the community. It was a detriment to others; but, may have protected breeding skunks. So, considering both sides.
- I guess to a degree this is important but what about injured and homeless animals?
- no exceptions
- Poaching on private property.
- None. Feeding squirrels and pigeons must be illegal. Any feeding that attracts pests and vermin should be prohibited.
- Bird feeders
- Does the city remove wildlife like skunks and raccoons? Because if they don't they shouldn't make a bylaw that would prevent homeowners from removing them or discouraging their presence.
- Birds
- Birdfeeders should be allowed
- Injured or sick animals
- Bird feeders should be allowed

- Rescue organizations
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds
- None
- Teasing yes.. feeding depends on the animal.
- None
- Obviously no teasing or hurting wildlife but use of such things as bird feeders increases bird survival rates by as much as 50 percent. Prohibiting feeders will increase overwintering death rate on birds such as chickadees.
- Feeding birds should be ok
- Starving or injured animal wandered on someone's property and is given food or water
- Bird feeders for wild birds
- None
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be an exception. Injured wildlife should be allowed to be fed.
- all should be applied
- It is important to educate and discourage people from doing so
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Excludes domestic animals
- Only if they hurt or looking for help. People need to be able to help other animals if we feel they want your help.
- Require signage and some sort of enforcement by private property owners
- Less government is better
- Birds
- Stray domestic animals
- None come to mind
- Colibri birds
- It would be good to depend because it'd also be really difficult not to feed say, a stray feral cat if you saw it was starving.
- None
- Education first
- bird feeders.
- Teasing and/or abuse of any kind should not be accentuated anywhere. Feeding would be hard to show intent for on private property and then I think should be considered separately.
- None
- Bird feeders & birdbaths

- Birds ok
- Bird/Squirrel Feeders
- Only feed if it is a baby animal alone and in distress
- Bird feeders
- You should be able to feed the birds
- If an animal is deprived of food and in need
- If unknowingly (would require a documented warning and cease and desist). Birdfeeders (seed and suet only allowed).
- Birds are considered wildlife, and I will always feed them, and we need to encourage them to stay around to keep bugs in check
- Small birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Can feed if injured or orphaned.
- hungry animals
- Birds
- Feeding birds (bird feeders)
- Birds feeds
- In a attempt to rescue a animal in harms way.
- None
- Birdfeeders and birdbaths
- Wounded animals waiting for transport or help
- They were on private property where the owners decided to feed them
- Sick animal/bird. Or baby that has been abandoned.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Please allow bird feeders. I would not be against feeding other herbivores/omnivores (e.g a stray cat). (Could specify a distance from property lines, for bird feeders, etc?)I am against teasing of all animals (whether on public or private property).
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- There should be no exceptions, wild life should be left alone and respected. We're literally having to ask about making a bylaw to protect wildlife. It shouldn't even be a question. They get teased, they attack and then it's the animals fault? Wrong
- Feeding of birds, an animal injured and in need of care while waiting for assistance
- Injured bird
- I have a bird feeder and would like to continue using it. Jim Gainer
- Feeding birds should be exempt
- Bird feeders, salt licks in winter
- Small, non- aggressive animals are okay. For example, having bird feeders.
- Wild bird feeding

- Feeding birds should be exempt.
- Rescue/rehab situations, where individuals are attempting to rehabilitate wild birds or small wild animals at home
- Hungry/starving, or hurt animals that need assistance
- birds, and squirrels
- Bird feeders/baths allowed, hazing of wildlife to get them off property for their, your animals or your safety.
- Define teasing and define feeding. If one has a crabapple tree that attracts wildlife is that considered verboten?
- If providing rehab temporarily
- Leaving food out that could attract larger predators
- None
- Bird feeders
- I would strongly suggest that we still be allowed to feed wild birds with feeders on our own property
- Coverage for pet insurance
- Too broad! I agree with no teasing but what about feeding birds? During the lockdown many people have found relief and happiness in observing birds at the feeders. Calgary winters are harsh. We need bird feeders!
- None
- Bird feeders should be permitted.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Animals in need of water or shelter.
- Imminent threat to life or livelihood
- If the animal looks like it's starving then it should be fed bottom line, it's not their fault that they are where they are they go off instinct. Making it illegal to feed cats or strays of any sort is outrageous.
- Petting allowed, just not tormenting the animals.
- No exceptions.
- Feeding birds
- None
- Bird feeding
- none
- None
- Special trained ninja squirrels
- Birds
- If the animal was aggressive.
- Change your signs. Say if you feed wildlife we will have to kill the animal. Make it clear for people that don't understand why you can't feed wildlife
- Birdfeeders and define wildlife better

- bird feeders
- Birds and bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- We need to protect all wildlife and that means investing on education. You can't just say "no" and then people can't even feed birds. We have taken their homes away from them, we're responsible for their livelihood now.
- More education for people. Social media, newspaper, etc. It starts with educating people on what not to do.
- Birds
- Only when the wild animal is rescued and needs to be restored back to health while waiting for authorities to take over
- At the owner's permission you could feed them
- Animals that have sustained an injury impacting their ability to feed themselves without assistance or the animal has lost its parent that would normally have been responsible for ensuring it is nourished until it's able to take care of themselves.
- Winter, when it's very cold, we should be allowed to feed the birds to help them make it thru the winter.
- There should be no bylaw involvement of any kind on private property
- Feeding birds, squirrels, rabbits, and other small animals on private property
- Helping an animal to survive (abandoned baby, injured, etc)
- fine
- Hummingbird feeders
- Feeding and teasing are not the same thing. This should be 2 different bylaws with much harsher penalties for teasing.
- I agree with not tolerating teasing as that is completely unacceptable. However, I think bird feeders and baths are ok.
- birds
- It should be permitted to feed wild birds. Squirrels can manage on their own.
- We only feed the birds, the dam squirrels help themselves.
- Feeding a feral animal
- Birds
- Bird feeders? Hungry deer and rabbits?
- Only teasing sometimes people are helping an animal in distress
- This is every person's right to feed birds and wildlife. Besides it helps the wildlife, why would kindness be seen as a crime? Besides there are much more important things to concentrate on, like graffiti, need more patrols, vandalism and dangerous dogs
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions, people should never feed wildlife, it only leads to problems

- If anything happens, the feeder should pay for the costs. (e.g. wildlife attacks as result of feeding or wildlife needs to be killed due to being too domesticated)
- none
- Injured animals that someone is trying to trap for transport to a rescue group
- Feeding: If animal is being caught for relocation purposes. Teasing: No excuses for this behaviour.
- birds
- Feeding birds from a bird feeder or squirrels from a squirrel feeder.
- Feeding being okay
- There to be a 411 type 24hr number to call for fish & wild life to come detain animal and release back to the wild as the animal is probably crazy and disorientated.
- Birds and small mammals.
- Feeding birds would be okay.
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property.
- Yes if it was specific to what is wildlife. For example, people feed wild birds all the time. There needs to be specific to the species that feeding is harmful to.
- Starving animals
- Birds - feeding birds is absolutely necessary for the survival of resident, wintering and migratory birds as we have destroyed much of the habitats that they would normally access.
- feeding birds is perfectly fine. Also I didn't answer Q1 as it doesn't have the option I would choose. I don't believe additional investment is needed - coyotes take care of feral cats...
- Nothing. Why can't you feed the birds??
- Birds and squirrels
- Birds
- Bird Feeding-it is very important aspect of an individual for mental and spiritual well being.
- I definitely would NOT support such a ridiculous bylaw, if it involves feeding the birds in one's own yard! Predatory coyotes or wolves should not be encouraged in any way, but birding is a hobby for many Calgarians. Unenforceable bylaw & silly.
- We need clarification of the word "teasing". And does feeding include having bird and squirrel feeders? If so, you are going to upset a lot of homeowners who derive great joy from watching the birds and squirrels who visit our feeders!
- feeding birds & squirrels especially in winter as long as it does not present a hazard by attracting coyotes & other predators
- Feeding birds
- trapping! feeding to set up a trap to trap animals
- The city should include plants in their program that would contribute to the well-being of migrating birds, ie plant sunflowers, grass and flower seed plots that entice passers-by.
- birds rabbits squirrels
- If you find the animal hurt and helpless feeding should be acceptable until authorities are able to deal with the matter.

- Bird feeders
- backyard bird feeders
- Don't mind people feeding, do you really expect people to get rid of bird feeders? But I'm OK with a law about harassing animals
- If the animal is clearly in distress, I wouldn't be opposed to feeding it while waiting for animal control to provide assistance.
- I don't understand "teasing", but I will feed the birds or squirrels.
- Bird feeders should be exempt from this bylaw.
- Na
- Waterguns to chase away Magpies are OK - but only if there is no intent to injure them!
- Bird feeders?
- Unless the animal was starving in someones backyard
- You should be able to feed birds
- none
- Separate the bylaws for feeding and teasing. Make allowance for bird and squirrel (etc.) feeders.
- birds, squirrels, chipmunks
- Bird Feeders
- feeding birds if done responsibly (e.g. feeders, quality food)
- Exclude bird feeders on private property from bylaw prohibition
- No exceptions
- Feeding birds and squirrels yes. No feeding of other wildlife. No teasing any animals
- Bird feeding is not a problem
- Safely securing an injured friend of nature until bylaw is on site
- Responsible feeding of wild birds on private property should be allowed
- Squirrel/ bird feeders
- songbirds
- None
- Birds
- I want to continue feeding birds and insects via bird feeders. In times of great stress (fire, drought, etc), we should help. m against teasing or tormenting wildlife in any form. Combining these two questions makes it difficult to answer accurately.
- Allow feeding of birds as always but no teasing of any animal.
- This question is not clear if that includes bird feeders.I agree deer and other large wildlife should not be fed but like my bird feeder.
- Bird feeders
- Only if it is done by animal services for trapping and relocating. The public should leave wildlife alone.
- wild birds/backyard bird feeders

- No exceptions. Keep the bylaw simple and easy to understand - no feeding of any wildlife, including birds.
- Fines up to up to $200 for changing animal behaviour and affecting their present and adjacent communities.
- It would be IMPOSSIBLE to enforce this. Besides, you probably have bigger fish to fry such as removing garbage that is spilling over from full cans which DO attract wildlife.
- none
- None
- Bird feeders allowed
- Birds and squirrels
- birdfeeders
- Exceptions would include bird feeders and individuals trying to help injured or young/orphaned wildlife
- Let us feed the birds in our own backyards!
- Bird feeding, providing flowers for pollinators
- Bird feeders
- Do nothing
- None
- Absolutely no feeding wildlife on your property.
- Bird feeders
- I don't believe this is a problem
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Teasing wildlife should be banned. The bird population is already declining with the lights left on the downtown buildings disorienting their flights. We should continue to support the birds that are not able to migrate or miss migration by feeding.
- None
- None
- At risk species + predators that could become conditioned to the human interaction
- exceptions for feeding of wild birds in backyards which is very important to support the population of wild birds in Canada which is in decline and permit the enjoyment of watching these birds in an urban setting.
- Feeding of birds
- Bird feeders should still be allowed.
- Bird feeders that use bird feed that is safe for wildlife
- I think you should be able to feed wild birds/ and therefore if you accidentally feed other animals it should not be against the law. Teasing should be against the law but not shooing problem animals or birds out of your yard or away from you or your pet.

- I'm not sure about teasing wildlife, but many people feed birds on private property, and in winter months can be vital to our year round species of birds (Chickadees, House Finch, Juncos, Hummingbirds, etc.).
- Birds
- to save a life until one could resolve the situation
- There shouldn't be any restrictions on people feeding birds on their own property.
- If wildlife is endangering a human and one had to distract the animal by feeding
- Help if they're injured
- Bird feeders
- Birds ...need help with food and water all year long
- Need leeway to eradicate pests off private property such as rodents
- no animal cruelty
- Bigger fines for owners
- Birds
- None.
- Ok to feed, if feeding their natural diet only.
- I would definitely be in favour of laws prohibiting teasing of wildlife anywhere. However, I am not in favour of banning the feeding of birds . Besides which, why have more bylaws if you don't have staff to enforce them?
- Prohibit teasing but not feeding when it's being done as part of animal rescue efforts
- Birds, squirrels
- Would this cause the elimination of bird feeders and bird baths?
- Prohibiting bird feeding seems an over response
- Bird feeders, planting native species food sources should actually be encouraged
- Wild birds
- Bird and Squirrel feeders that give so many home owners pleasure
- Allow bird feeders in backyards
- None
- no exception for teasing
- Fines
- none
- Feeding birds, squirrels and chipmunks should be OK
- The question is too vague. I wouldn't support prohibiting backyard bird feeders & I'm not sure the question provides exceptions for short term emerg wildlife rehab situations . Also if there was a ban of bird feeders, it would need to gradual/1yr.
- Don't poison wildlife but it's absolutely ridiculous to ask people to stop feeding birds. Define wildlife.
- Feeding on private property should be allowed. For birds, deer, rabbits, etc.
- Feeding is okay, but teasing / harassing wildlife is not okay.
- None

- Bird feeders
- Most small passerine birds should be exempt from this bylaw if it comes to pass - such birds are an enjoyment to watch and bring cheerful song to the property.
- The question is unclear. Birds should be allowed to be fed on private property. However, feeding of raccoons and other pests should not be allowed.
- I want to feed wild birds seed and suet on my property
- Bird feeders
- Songbirds
- Feeding and teasing are two different things. I support feeding birds & squirrels. Not other wildlife. Do not support teasing any animal anywhere
- Birdseed
- Birdfeeders
- no exceptions
- Education
- Enforce the existing bylaw before widening its scope.
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders/songbird
- Bird feeders providing proper/healthy food should be allowed
- you be allowed to feed on own property
- Injured or abandoned animal
- Bird & Squirrel feeder should still be allowed.
- What else are you taking away from us!!!! So now we can't have bird feeders....how stupid is this now. Birds, squirrels etc... bring beauty and nature to homes.. why is this EVEN up for discussion. Maybe look at watering your CALGARY trees and parks....
- None what people do on their property is their business.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- Does this include bird feeders. If so I would exempt them
- none
- Fine those who are teasing and harming wildlife. Those who are feeding may be permitted as long as it doesn't create dependency by the wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Do not ban backyard bird feeders. I contribute data to the oldest (<100 yrs) citizen science database in North America on migratory birds. Particularly endangered song birds that nest in the Calgary region and visit backyard feeders.
- obviously injured

- Feeding birds
- Injured animals
- Does this mean the City of Calgary doesn't want homeowners to put bird feeders up in their own backyards? This specific question is far too vague and needs clarification as to exactly what our city councillors are trying to prohibit us from doing!
- If it were nutritional feed meant for said species on private property.
- It would make having a bird feeder illegal. Need I say more?
- bird feeders
- I love bird watching! I discovered this hobby last spring at a time in my life where I was suffering from depression and health issues. I cannot express the peace I found with just putting up bird feeders and attracting the birds to my yard.
- Birds
- Bird feeding MUST BE totally excluded from any bylaw prohibiting feeding wildlife.
- How do you propose to deal with bird feeders? The question is far too vague and needs to be clarified as to what the definition of wildlife is specifically in this question. I cannot simply answer yes or no based on the questions vagueness.
- Bird and squirrel feeding. I would support bylaws against teasing on private property.
- This question is much too vague. What is included in this bylaw? Bird feeder in private property? Question needs to be much clearer.
- Bird feeders should no be banned. They bring enjoyment to many backyard bird enthusiasts, and are beneficial to the birds
- Bird feeders on private property
- Should be ok to feed things like rabbits and birds.
- feeding birds - (please! they bring so much joy to our family during the winter months.)
- Leave bird feeders alone
- None
- Except for feeding birds using bird feeders
- I love feeling the birds in winter and summer. Your question is too vague.
- If the animal is injured, or needs help(maybe starving,noticeably), then an exempt should be made. Teasing and feeding the wildlife is unfair from humans to animals and the ecosystem.
- No Exceptions.....Fed Wildlife is Dead Wildlife.....ask a Bear.....
- Make a distinction between feeding bears/wild birds in parks vs. being able to have a bird feeder in my backyard. I do not support the feeding of animals outside of someone's property but I do not see an issue with my having a bird feeder in my backyard.
- fines for people who feed wildlife
- Those citizens that get enjoyment from feeding the birds that fly into their own private property.
- bird feeders/bat feeders/bee and butterfly feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders in private property for wild birds.

- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Please allow us to continue feeding the songbirds!
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding is okay, teasing should never be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- This is very vague. Feeding birds is not teasing them. It provides enjoyment. This is two separate questions because anyone with some conscience is not going to tease wildlife found on their property. Please rephrase this
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, hummingbird feeders
- A change of this nature could make placing bird feeders on your property prohibited. There are many studies (ex. Wilcoxon et al., 2015; Murray et al. 2016) showing limited to no causal connection between feeding and adverse conditions in bird populations.
- This should not cover wild birds using feeders
- Bird feeders
- Please allow citizens to feed birds.
- I think bird feeders and fountains need to be permitted in Calgary yards
- Allow bird feeders.
- bird feeders
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife on private property
- We have a small bird feeder. It sustains neighborhood and migrating species. We provide fresh clean water. Watching these birds is a highlight for us, and decreases insect pests in the trees and yard. I do not want any regulation of my property.
- Squirrel feeding
- How far would such a law extend? No bird feeders? No animal friendly plants? If I plant clover and a deer wanders into my yard, illegal or no? What about insects, flowers that specifically attract bees or support butterflies? Far too vague.
- bird feeders if kept out of reach of other animals
- What does "wildlife" mean? I want to continue feeding wild birds at our back yard feeder during the winter months. Please clarify.
- children feeding geese, ducks
- Exceptions for small wildlife i.e. bird/squirrel feeders, but absolutely no 'teasing' or trapping of wildlife on private property.
- Bird feeders should be allowed. I don't think the birds would survive a Calgary winter without help.
- If the animal is injured or can't take care of itself

- I have been providing sunflower seeds from bird feeders in our backyard. I have also been providing the birds with a water source year round (using a electric de-icer).
- Birdfeeders
- Teasing, yes. Feeding predators, yes. Rabbits, birds, and squirrels - we should be allowed to feed Them, especially on our own property.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Governmental control of civilian behavior on private property is egregious and we should not entertain so much as the thought of it. There is no suggestion here. If a crappy human owns land they'll probably do crappy things on it, but that's their choice.
- Feeding wild birds.
- Teasing wildlife is not acceptable. However I fully support bird feeders and potential feeding of wildlife that may result from that
- Birds
- None - fines should be significant and enforcement should be active and not merely responsive to complaints
- Not including bird feeders
- Bird feeders, water dishes
- I would support all recommendations made by Alberta Institute of Wildlife Rehab & Calgary Wildlife Rehab Society; they are the experts in this field.
- No teasing but bird feeders allowed
- Having bird feeders is okay.
- An exception could be given to caring for an animal if it is suffering or appears to be starving, but only for a short period of time until a private rescue or City run facility can capture and pick up the animal.
- Bird feeders, perhaps with capacity limits per property.
- I don't feel feeding wildlife, such as birds, on private property should be banned or considered teasing wildlife. Building a bird feeder and watching the wildlife from our bay window was one of the positives my Son and I enjoyed during Covid.
- I still want to be able to feed the birds
- Bird feeders should be exempt in my opinion
- None because you don't define wildlife. For example birds are wildlife and birds use my property to feed
- Birds. Feeding birds should be allowed
- Bird feeders on private properties should be excepted
- Birds, Chipmunks, Squirrels
- Feeding bird with bird feed and bird providing bird houses
- When attempting rescue of injured animal
- feeding be allowed, not teasing or harrassing
- Birds

- feeding birds
- I don't agree with teasing any wildlife but I do want to continue feeding birds
- None
- We enjoy watching the birds nest in our birdhouses and feeding at our feeders. The bobcat occasionally walking through our yard.the odd squirrel runs along our back fence . Nature is apart of our community. Don't take everything away from us !
- how do you define "teasing". The popularity of birding, as evidenced by the website "Alberta Birds" has exploded and brings a great deal of pleasure, esp to seniors and shut-ins. I would object to feeding back yard birds being included in any such bylaw.
- Bird feeders and the feeding of wild birds on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders and waters allowed
- Winter feeding the birds!!!!
- Deer, moose, birds, porcupines. Mostly do not feed animals such as bears & coyotes.
- birds! The birds in my neighbourhood rely on my feeder in the winter and they greatly contribute to the enjoyment of my community (seniors, children etc) birding opportunities
- question 2 is for 2 items so one answer is not appropriate.... I agree with no teasing anywhere. Feeding only for bird feeders/water but please educate Calgarians on healthy feeding for birds and squirrels...eg. not all peanuts or crackers or bread etc.
- Birds and bird feeders
- I believe that bird feeders and bird baths should be permitted on private property.
- Bird feeders
- What do you mean by tease?
- None.
- Bird feeders during migration season and winter months
- If current laws were actually enforced, no warnings just fines, then no changes would be necessary. Word would be passed along quickly with fines so more people would be aware.
- bird feeders
- None
- Feeding and teasing are 2 very different behaviors. I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife but I would not support a bylaw that prohibits feeding of wildlife if that prevents me from giving seed + water to birds during our bitter winters
- If the animal is clearly in distress, as well water being left out should be encouraged.
- Wild birds: chickadees, sparrows, robins, nuthatches, etc.
- No suggestions
- I absolutely do not support any teasing of wildlife on private property or anywhere. However, I want to still be able to feed the wild birds that visit my back yard as well as the occasional squirrel.

- Prohibit teasing, but not feeding, particularly when it comes to wild birds. While the squirrel pop. Needs to be reduced (not our small naturalized ones), it is impossible to prohibit feeding them wherever bird feeders are present.
- song birds and hummingbirds
- There is a big difference between teasing and feeding. Teasing should not be allowed- ever. Feeding however as long as the property is not attracting more wildlife and interfering with neighbours should not be an issue- like bird feeders etc.
- Feeding birds or squirrels
- No byelaws affecting bird feeders.
- None. feeding birds leads to mice coming into your yard, and then your neighbours yard and then potentially their house.
- I would not support this bylaw if it means I cannot have wild bird feeders in my own backyard.
- bird feeders on private property
- We should be able to continue to have birdfeeders on our private property
- This question is so braod that I ahd to answer no. It obvvilusly makes no sense to feed a bear on privatge property, but it equally makes no sense to prohibit bird feeders (I currently have a bird feeder and wish to continue to feed th birds)
- What does this mean? Are you considering the end to backyard birding?? This is far too vague.
- I would allow bird feeders in backyards
- If the animal looks to be starving or in need of some food assistant then you may feed the animal an appropriate food choice.
- We enjoy watching the birds at our bird feeders, by ourselves and with our grandchildren. We also have enjoyed watching deer in our garden even though they eat annuals from our pots, especially petunias and pansies, and perennials such as hostas etc.
- None
- Bird feeders should be permitted
- bird seeds
- I would allow feeding on my own private property. This is very vague & needs clarification.
- Feeding birds responsibly with appropriate feed and clean feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property. Helps many birds through the winter. The squirrels at times benefit as well. Also, I have heard of people sheltering deer near parks who have chosen a yard as the place to give birth.
- First of all, define what is meant by teasing
- feedign of birdsa nd waterign of small animals
- If there's an animal who is in need of food should get some but not if it's private property.
- Allow homeowners to put bird feeders up in their own backyards.
- bird feeding
- I want to ensure that there are no restrictions against bird feeders or bird baths.
- Please leave us our bird feeders! I would support a ban on feeding predatory animals with four legs.

- Bird feeders should continue to be allowed. This is important to support a number of species in winter.
- I obtain great joy feeding the birds in my backyard. I also have a squirrel feeder I. Order to keep the squirrels out of the bird feeders. Teasing should be eliminated. Feeding of birds and squirrels approved.
- Exceptions to feeding birds by way of bird feeders on personal property to be exempt.
- Attracting wild birds with feeders. Bird feeders are crucial to migratory birds. And where there are bird feeders there will be squirrels.
- Continue to allow bird feeders (if birds are included in "wildlife")
- Birds not to be included in "wildlife ". We love our feathered friends
- Feeding of wild birds should not be prohibited
- Bird feeders
- None feeding wildlife makes them stay in the area becoming a nuisance after then endanger them as well. People need to let nature take its course butt out of animals lives and stop interfering with their natural practices.
- We like to keep a bird feeder in the winter for the birds as there is limited food available. We do not supply food in the summer as there is plenty available. I would like a further definition of what teasing of wildlife means.
- Feeding birds.
- We are concerned this could impact the bird feeders in our yard. Local birds need to find enough food to survive winter. Migratory birds need energy to travel north and south. Please do not limit the feeding of birds.
- None. Wildlife should not interact with or be fed by humans.
- Feeding of wild birds, bees etc. No teasing
- Birdfeeders are essential for the overwintering species of birds.
- Bird feeding (strongly).
- unless it doesn't apply to birds, rabbits and squirrels, which are common garden visitors
- birds
- Bird feeders must be allowed on private property
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders of all sorts should remain permissible
- Bird feeders and baths are fine
- bird feeders
- I'm not sure what is meant by "teasing" but a landowner should be able to remove wildlife from their property and/or encourage them to leave.
- Feeding wildlife and teasing wildlife are two very different behaviours. We should be able to feed birds on our own property. We should never be allowed to tease wildlife. Separate the two things and I will support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlif
- Do not include feeding birds

- Bird feeders and water should be available all year for birds
- It should not apply to birds. Having bird feeders does not have the same implication than feeding larger animals. Birds are already vulnerable with some populations declining and I feel that feeding them helps to protect them.
- I am definitely not in favour of preventing people from feeding birds in their own property. This does no harm to the wild birds and is a wonderful educational opportunity for the entire family. I believe people who feed coyotes should be charged.
- The question is too vague and open to interpretation - We have bird feeders out during the winter and it's necessary to the survival of the local bird population. These should be excluded from the by-law.
- Teasing should be included but we feed the birds in the winter, which we enjoy
- Bird feeders
- As currently stated this could be interpreted to include the provision of food for wild birds. This important activity needs to be clearly excluded from the proposed bylaw.
- wild bird feeding, fallen apples, coyotes eating stray cats and dogs, etc.
- Backyard bird feeders should NOT be prohibited.
- One should be allowed to feed birds appropriate bird feed from feeders
- Allowing Backyard Bird Feeders
- Exempt bird baths and feeders
- Feeding ok for birds, squirrels, even deer. Not okay for predators/big animals that would then be at risk because of contact with human contact. No teasing.
- The exception to this law should be bird feeders on private property. Without bird feeders, the numbers of birds in the city may decline drastically and this would likely cause other problems to arise!
- None
- Birdfeeders using seeds and hummingbird feeders
- Really? Does this include feeding birds? Please realize how much pleasure older folks get from sitting and watching the birds feed in the summer and for that matter all year. Please differentiate birds from things like squirrels and bobcats.
- What does feeding or teasing mean? Feeding the birds in a backyard is not a problem. Running a dog fighting ring is.
- Birds. And this may need to be qualified to exclude geese, ducks, birds of prey.
- Feed is ok. tease should Get a fine
- No to question #1. Why is every option this tern worse, with no option for, stay the same
- I answered no to the question because it is vague and ambiguous. For example: will I be fined for feeding the birds? The city has not been proactive in controlling the invasive squirrel population, what if they get into my bird feeder?
- People should be allowed to set up bird feeders on their property to feed wild birds.
- Bird feeders are ok. Separate feeding from teasing in your documentation & define these terms.

- Birds - ppl. Must feed the birds responsibly. Use proper food/seed.
- Feeding Bird's in the winter in my back yard should not be prohibited
- helping injured wildlife
- Bird feeding!
- I am not in favour of feeding non native squirrels yet I am in favour of bird feeders
- None
- This proposed bylaw must be dropped or reworded or it would prevent individuals putting up bird and squirrel feeders. Such feeders are a benefit to many migratory and non-migratory birds and provide a source of enjoyment and education to homeowners.
- I would suggest that the exceptions are if the animals are stray pets that look like they need food/water. There should be no feeding of wildlife of any sort.
- Bird Feeders & Fountains
- Bird feeders
- Needs better wording and detail. Harassment, not teasing. And what about bird feeders? They should be supported.
- Birds
- We always have bird feeders in our garden. Prohibiting feeding birds would be unacceptable to us.
- Supplemental Wild Bird Feeding be exempt
- Bird feeders are ok.
- Do not prohibit FEEDING birds! Of course I would prohibit TEASING birds or any wildlife. It is 2 different issues!!!!
- Wild birds
- I would expect feeding birds with feeders to be acceptable.
- I enjoy setting bird feeder and watching birds coming to my property. Great educational opportunity not my young ones too.
- Feeding birds in appropriate bird feeders
- I have bird feeders and I also feed the rabbits on cold winter days. Nothing wrong with feeding some wildlife so this needs to be addressed carefully.
- Animals in need.
- To the extent that it doesn't negatively impact neighbors' ability to enjoy their own property, a resident should be able to maintain bird feeders / bird baths (understanding this may also incidentally feed squirrels, etc.)
- there is nothing wrong with feeding birds at a feeder
- birdfeeders
- I do not support limiting bird feeders, bird baths, fountains that birds use to get water. We have 2 feeders in our yard. They are designed and placed so they do not allow squirrels to use them. I do support not feeding bobcats, coyotes, rabbits, etc.
- Feeding songbirds is a lot different than teasing deer. This question should be made more specific.

- What is wrong with feeding birds on private property? If that is what your suggested bylaw is I think it should be thrown out before it even gets started.
- I think passive bird feeders should be exempted
- Question is vague so I hop you aren't preventing people from having bird feeders in their yard
- Prohibiting bird feeders would be absurd
- This question is far to vague to determine what the city is trying to prohibit. I support people putting out bird feeders but am unsure what you mean by 'teasing Wildlife'.
- Birds
- bird feeders on private property to provide for local and migrating species of all sorts
- Does "wildlife" include birds. I don't think backyard birdfeeders should be prohibited on private property
- Birdfeeders on private property should be allowed.
- Bird feeders.
- no teasing
- wild birds should not be included or, preferably, should be specifically excluded.
- If an animal that is in need (malnourished, abused or injured) is spotted on private property, an outside party should be able to step in and help.
- Continue to allow bird feeders on property.
- If an animal is injured or starving and a wildlife rehabilitation agency has suggested feeding it as an interim solution
- Needs to be clarified. Could people have bird feeders in their back yards?
- I think some feeding is ok—like birds and squirrels—teasing no.
- Exceptions for bird feeders
- If birds are considered wildlife then bird feeders should be an exception.
- Bird feeders
- I would suggest harsher penalties for people who walk their dogs off leash in non off leash areas or not secured on the owners property with a leash or behind a fence.
- Bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders should still be permitted
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Teasing is out but non-lethal attempts to remove invading wildlife is OK.
- feeding the birds
- Bird feeder, bath, and house. And bee house.
- No animal cruelty anywhere.
- No exceptions
- Deliberate harming of animals that are not causing harm or nuisance to residents or property
- Exceptions are bird seed feeders.
- Exterminators or homeowners trying to catch pests should be exempt.
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeding should still be allowed
- Prohibit feeding large wildlife. Leave bird feeding alone
- bird feeders
- Allow feeding at petting zoos
- Clearer explanation on that bylaw... I do not agree with teasing wildlife however you would have to take away all the bird feeders in Calgary.
- Chipmunks, hummingbirds
- Except for tourist areas such as Eau Claire.
- The rules and regulations must have the health and care of the animal first
- Accidental feeding, animals entering property to eat food that is growing, definitely no teasing
- An acceptable exception would be on a case-by-case basis having authorised persons care for wildlife if injured or sick. This exception could apply retroactively if persons involved could not gain authorisation before needing to help the animal.
- The teasing and abuse of wildlife on private property having severe fines
- Injured animal
- Only feeding certain animals, but no teasing/abuse of wildlife
- Bird feeders, trapping vermin
- If wildlife were being abused or neglected, anyone should be able to help them.
- bird feeders
- In colder months, some animals need a little help. Feeding them helps with this
- Animal health/welfare status ex) if it's clearly hurt and is awaiting RCMP or park ranger pick up and assessment. If it's trapped, in say a hole or cage or den. If it is caught in a fence, or wire and is in distress, it should be called in
- None, no exceptions
- threatened and endangered species
- Taking an injured or sick animal to the animal hospital.
- Bird feeders!
- Birds and animals that feed at bird feeders unintentionally
- Its better to know the animals friends to people
- Unless the animal was starving in someones backyard
- Residential bird feeders should be permitted.
- Less government
- Feeding of wildlife in non-harmful way (scattering of natural food away from living spaces/high traffic areas for birds or small animals as an example)
- No exceptions
- Ensure that the law does not create hardships for wildlife
- Wild birds
- Unless it's a starving Orphaned animals who are being forced out of their homes by humans overly populating the planet

- Would apply to introduced rodents such as grey squirrels but not birds.
- Bird feeders for song birds to be allowed.
- This bylaw should be separate from the Responsible Pet Ownership Bylaw so as not to confuse matters.
- Bird feeders
- Cohabitation not Habituation! So do not feed or bait or attract deer, coyotes, foxes. Wild birds are the exception!
- Bird feed.
- Birdseed in winter so long as wildlife experts agree it is appropriate
- injured animals needing immediate care such as water.
- Hurt animals
- If there was a bad winter and the farmer or land owner has some dead animals from his herd, leaving the dead carcass for the animals to eat at end of hibernation
- Wild birds
- There should be a bylaw against teasing but not feeding on private property
- I would want an exception for bird feeders, but I find animal baiting loathsome , in general.
- Birds
- Dangerous animals
- you need to define "wildlife" if it includes birds and squirrels then i think you have a problem with your potential bylaw. I also think enforcement of this bylaw would be very onerous and I would hope the city has better things to do
- Bird feeding in winter
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Chickens
- if the feeding of wildlife brings potential danger to the private property e.g. feeding bobcats
- Bird feeders with bird seed
- If they are being fed by the property owner it is fine
- Absolutely NOT to include Bird feeders, as this assists migrating populations that pass through our city.
- No teasing but your allowed to set it feed for wildlife
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Temporary care until transported to wildlife rehab center
- If animal is hurt and human intervention is needed
- Feeding coyotes
- Allow the feeding of birds, unless the property is located close to a "wild" area and has experienced visits by bears, raccoons or other non-target animals.
- Abandoned youth
- Bird, bee and squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders, and bee keepers should be exempt.

- None
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be exempt. This question is very vague and not clearly defined.
- Bird feeders on private property are ok
- Do not include prohibiting feeding birds in bird feeders. They need this in winter. I wouldn't prohibit feeding wildlife on private property as how would you define this?
- Regular animal respect/abuse laws should apply
- Are bird feeders included in thisif so bird feeders and baths should be exempt
- Bulb flowers such as tulips should not be included. Peanuts for blue jays, meal worms for robins, bird baths and feeders to attract wild birds should not be included.
- Bird feeding should be OK
- An injured animal that needs help. Then it should be a person right to choose to do so
- Depends on type of feeding/ teasing....technically putting out a bird feeder can be classified in this topic
- If the animal is in need of help but the zoo should focus more on conservation of animals rather than displaying them for money.
- Feeders with grain for birds and other critters.
- If animal is injured
- Allowed in specified areas
- Birds, squirrels
- How would the city be able to afford the enforcement of such a bylaw?
- Bird feeders
- Birds / bird feeders
- None
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders
- Rehabilitation of wild animals
- Birds
- Birdfeeders
- Feed the birds!
- Bird feeders still be allowed. Feeding animals with severe malnutrition should be dealt with on a case by case basis. Better education as to what a "pest" animal is under the bylaw and what home owners can do about them.
- an exception, in my opinion, would be bird feeders.
- bird feeders
- home licensed bird ownership - such as ducks.
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding during extreme weather conditions.
- No exceptions. Feeding wildlife is dangerous and careless, and ultimately can lead to the euthanizing of the wildlife.

- Injured animals
- Birds/squirrels
- Bird feeding
- To be clear, private property owners should be allowed to feed migratory songbirds, migratory birds, resident songbirds and woodpeckers. Crows and magpies should not be fed.
- Do not link feeding and teasing. It should be ok to feed wildlife (birds etc. on your own private property if you choose). And realistically, how could this be enforced? More important by laws regarding security/ safety should be a priority
- When trying to lure an injured or orphaned animal with the intention of transporting it to a rescue facility.
- This bylaw must pertain to wild bears, deer and cougars etc. Citizens should be allowed to feed birds and squirrels on their property.
- Feeding - ie. bird feeders
- Unless they're luring bears [removed]
- If the wildlife is injured and can't fend for itself.
- Birds, squirrels exemption. No teasing exemptions. Hasing exemptions.
- It would be hard to limit bird feeding, but larger animals should be prohibited. And teasing/harassment should def be enforced.
- If an animal is starving in the immediate. Something appropriate like water and meat.
- None
- Skunks, coyotes, wolves, cougars and bears .
- I think it's ok to have birdfeeders and to feed the birds bird seed on your property. But I do not think it's ok to feed birds in a public park..
- Forest fire then leaving water would be best
- Feed birds, squirrels ok. More education needed.
- does that include birds and squirrels?
- No exceptions.
- The wording of this proposed bylaw is unclear. I do NOT want this to apply to backyard bird feeding. I need the birds to come to yard for my garden and for my personal enjoyment of birds. If this bylaw is intended to change that then I am against it.
- Birds
- This question is far too vague! Backyard bird feeding is very important in people's lives
- Seasonal bird feed/feed for deer
- Dangerous wild animals like bears, cougars, bobcats, coyotes... and wildlife that are not a nuisance or detrimental to the wildlife.
- Bird feeders. Complete prohibition on leaving pet food or meat products out that would attract predators (coyotes, bob cats, skunks, etc.)
- None
- Bird feeders

- Bird feeders, putting nuts out for squirrels
- Bird feeding be allowed
- We should be able to feed all animals.
- Birds
- back yard birds and bird feeders
- Feeding injured animals should be allowed
- Harming of the wildlife
- Bird feeders should not be included in this bylaw.
- Bird feeders
- Petting zoo birdfeeders do you increase tourism when quarantine ends.
- If hens/other livestock is allowed on private property, wildlife should be able to access private property.
- No exceptions
- Birds and Squirrels are acceptable, but larger carnivores such as coyotes should be prohibited to feed/tease. Many people get great positive mental health benefits from feeding the birds and squirrels.
- Starvations
- None
- That you should not feed any feral animals
- Birdfeeders
- This is stupid
- Wild bird feeders
- Under direction of a wildlife officer
- Prohibit teasing, feed birds squirrels & rabbits
- feeding birds during winter.
- Hurt animals and birds
- Malnourished animals should be allowed to be fed
- any teasing should be unlawful
- This is a non-issue. Spend money on fixing the god-awful infrastructure in this city so people can live in affordable places and get to work in under 2.r
- Birds
- Feeding birds and squirrels and such should still be allowed. I don't think it would be good to support feeding large or dangerous animals as that could cause problems for people with small children or pets. Teasing is probably not a good idea.
- None people [removed] should leave animals alone
- Bird feeders!!!
- none
- Having a bird feeder or squirrel feeder shouldn't be an issue.
- feeding birds

- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- BIRDS
- Birds
- Exceptions allowing for things like feeding songbirds with appropriate food need to be included.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- I love watching birds at my bird feeders. I also have bird houses and a bat box and these are important to me.
- Fines , hefty
- allow the feeding of stray cats and dogs
- Animals eating from trees on the property, without being enticed
- Allow bird feeding
- Ensure that there is no punishment leveled to anybody who does so out of genuine good will (such as attempting to lure an animal they presume injured or in distress, before calling the appropriate wildlife authorities)
- Fines for animal abuse
- Feeding Stray pets
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I do not know what your use of the word “teasing” with regard to feeding wildlife.
- Bird feeders exempt. Squirrels raid bird feeders so also exempt.
- Feeding birds
- Let people feed them
- Feeding birds and providing housing for nesting birds.
- Bird feeders, and salt licks in rural areas
- Responsible bird feeders. We bird watch as family.
- Allow feeding of wild birds
- Bird feeders on private property
- No need to feed wildlife. Nature will take care of her own.
- I agree with this but I think it would be incredibly hard to enforce and therefore not financially worth the effort
- Feed Birds ducks squirrels
- Helping suck or injured
- wild bird feeders
- none
- education with radio, tv or inserts with electrical bill
- Birdfeeders would be the only exception that comes to mind
- against teasing only
- Rescuing injured wildlife
- Birdfeeders

- None
- Too many rules! Stop bubble wrapping society!
- If said wildlife is in danger i.e. sick, injured, dying
- Feeding.
- Injured wildlife, however, they need to be taken to the wildlife rescue
- None, the animals were here first.
- Sick or injured wildlife until animal control can take over the care
- Feeding birds
- Please do not criminalize bird feeders.
- Protecting property
- Bird feeders.
- birdfeeders, birdbaths
- small, wild birds using bird feeders
- Planting native plants that attract birds, mammals and insects should still be allowed.
- Avoid having any regulation
- squirrels, birds,
- Rabbits, Birds; these animals aren't considered a danger.
- Bird feeders, seed bars, suet, etc., bird baths, peanuts for squirrels and if a deer wants to lean over the fence to eat an apple off a tree or the ground, fine by me.
- I think of wildlife as the big creatures with teeth. I can see no problem feeding birds unless one lives in areas likely to entice the wildlife to one's property.
- Teasing shouldn't not be allowed. Feeding as long as proper are listed on signs.
- Using "Feeding and/or teasing wildlife" together doesn't make any sense. People who feed birds, for instance, would likely never hurt a bird. Use harassing instead of teasing and separate the two. Allow bird feeding, but discourage feeding wild animals.
- would this eliminate bird feeders? by planting certain flowers people unintentionally feed rabbits, deer, etc . Teasing and feeding are two seperate items and should have been addressed as such.
- None
- smaller birds
- Feeding birds in colder months.
- Majority of bird feeders are on private property feeders andd prohibiting bird feeders, the birs lose and the dedicated people that enjoy loc
- I don't understand 'teasing'. I do think any unfair treatment of wildlife should be punished. However, i think banning feeding wildlife is a touch far. What about bird feeders or children trying to feed squirrels.
- Birdfeeders should be allowed.
- Feeding would be acceptable but there should definitely be a bylaw on teasing widelife, that is unacceptable. Or will there be acceptions to being able to feed birds and squirrels? This question is not written very cleary to be able to answer.

- Bird feeders
- bird feeders should be exempt on private property
- If they were hurt or hurting something else.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders for song birds. ("Feeding" & "teasing" don't belong in same question.)
- Injured animals who need help/food while awaiting wildlife services
- bird feeders are still acceptable. Just want to decrease opportunities for people to bring potentially harmful wildlife into the urban areas
- birds
- bird feeders
- I would suggest exception if providing food for abandoned babies or providing food during scarcity like harsh winters. Obviously the food would have to be animal specific and appropriate to breed.
- None
- larger mammals -- ie larger than rabbits and squirrels
- I feed wild birds suet in winter & find it very annoying to have "feeding wildlife" lumped in with teasing.
- Exceptions: birds and squirrels and if it was obvious the food came from a garbage can.
- None.... the rabbits already ravage the flowers and shrubs. we need to cull the rabbit population in this city.
- Birds
- We want to continue to Feed the Birds and that often includes other small rodents ie; squirrels
- bird feeders
- I feel that to feed small animals ie rabbits or birds would be acceptable if they are on private property. If they wonder on to private property then they are in need of our care.
- your intentions sound reasonable BUT what about feeding squirrels, pigeons, song birds? is there any room for common sense in what Nanny is planning? (albeit with the best of intentions, no doubt..)
- I think education is a far better way to help Calgary, which will hopefully always have wildlife in it, know what is best to allow wildlife and people to both be safe.
- Bird feeders
- Large dangerous animals
- EXCEPTION: Wild bird feeders & bird baths in backyards. The benefits to neighbourhood far exceed potential negatives. Specific limits to this perhaps could be made where PROVEN RELATED harm results, e.g. attraction of racoons, skunks etc.
- None
- if you need to feed a hurt animal at life risk while waiting for the proper authorities to arrive
- Allow feeding of birds using bird feeders. Discourage feeding of pigeons.
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be allowed
- Bird and squirrel feeders

- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Feeding animals that are injured or appear severely malnourished
- Bird seed or water feeders. responsibly feeding that doesn't attract other wildlife
- Maybe feeding if you can tell the animal is in distress
- Education on the problems caused by feeding wildlife
- Allow bird feeders; Allow trapping of nuisance wild life by owner or contractor e.g. racoons, skunks, squirrels, cats etc. Otherwise I would
- fines for any teasing or feeding wildlife to be implemented
- No exceptions for the teasing/ feeding.. Animals pay for Humans stupidity, START MAKING THE HUMANS PAY WITH SUBSTANTIAL FINES, NO EXCEPTIONS
- Yes AND No. These are 2 separate questions! Yes to prohibiting TEASING wildlife. "NOT NECESSARILY" to not feeding, as sometimes wildlife needs our help to survive. Birds are wildlife too! Feeding larger animals though increases risks for domestic animals.
- Animals such as birds, squirrels, deer etc.... that have found ways to live with/along side us should be exempt from any such bylaws.
- Putting out bird side for small birds should be exempt, as well as small squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders
- If an animal is injured and needs water or food!
- Birds and Squirrels
- Define feeding and teasing. Can I feed birds? Can I trap and destroy pests like squirrels?
- Feeding a sick or injured animal
- The feeding of birds on private property should be allowed.
- Feeding birds, as long as your food containers are kept clean,
- dangerous animals, eg. bears, cougars, should never be fed
- Bird feeders are a good thing
- Bird feeders still be allowed
- I feed the birds and thereby squirrels. Who is going to enforce such bylaws? We don't see current bylaws enforced eg: speeding in playground zones
- Trying to assist injured animals
- No Exceptions.
- Engaging with the animal if it is wounded and to get it medical attention aka to a profession. That's what I see as an exception
- Birds, squirrels, etc
- That is an extremely vague question. Properly maintained backyard bird feeders are technically feeding wildlife. I fully support those as a means of connecting people with nature and trying to give resources back to the wildlife whose habitat is now paved
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders

- The question itself is completely absurd. There is a HUGE difference between feeding wildlife such as birds and teasing wildlife to cause it distress. FIX THE QUESTION. THIS IS GROSS INCOMPETENCE!
- I don't see the harm in feeding the birds especially when it's really cold
- Non
- Bird feeders and the like
- none
- Feeding birds, or taking in injured wildlife to bring to a shelter
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds
- Animals with malnutrition or wound(s).
- If they are harassing the animal or hurting it then it should be a problem.
- There should be some exception to property owners who enjoy feeding Birds and Squirrels on their property.
- Bird feeders.
- I would have an exception for injured or orphaned wildlife if wildlife management is unable to assist within 12 hours.
- No wild animal should be teased or fed, with the exception of birds, many who rely on the bird feeders people have in their yards. And offering assistance to any animal in distress is always the right thing to do.
- Feeding bears, foxes, raccoons
- Bird feeders
- If the animal is causing harm to pets, people, etc
- None
- none
- Birdfeeders and bee hotels
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- If bird feeding counts then leave that alone.
- Huge fines should be levied against anyone caught doing this. Unfortunately the city doesn't have enough bylaw officers to enforce.
- Birds and squirrels
- None it's simply unacceptable!!
- None
- Teasing or torturing animals should be illegal and have more consequences. Feeding I think is ok. Like bird feeders and hands free feeding. Shouldn't try to tame wild animals
- Does this mean residents can't have bird feeders?
- none
- Injured or abandon animals
- Bird feeders are fine

- Animals such as bears of course there should be a bylaw but for squirrel and the like no.
- Feeding &teasing are on opposite ends of the spectrum. Teasing of wildlife should NOT be permitted ever. But I feed small birds & don't see the harm. However there should be something in place to prevent enticing of large animals on private property
- Any intent to ban bird feeders & bird baths will be almost ubniversally ignored.
- Feeding birds in a private, fenced back yard should be allowed, especially during the migratory seasons. Teasing of any wildlife should result in heavy penalties.
- Do not let people feed wild animals in pubic areas but do let people feed wild animals on private property if allowed by owner
- If the animal is malnourished and without a collar
- There is currently a bylaw in place against roaming cats. We have about 15 on our street alone and nothing is done about it by Bylaw. How would an additional bylaw like the feeding of wildlife be "policed" if not even a roaming cat bylaw is enforced?
- If the wildlife are being kept in the proprty
- Birds
- birds often require assistance in winter.
- none
- Unless the wildlife is injured and you have no where to take it (too far/life threatening and needs immediate assistance) it would be okay to feed wildlife for their rehabilitation or getting better.
- Feeding of birds on private property should be acceptable.
- Everyone knows not to go on private property
- bird feeders! However, the problem is people feeding squirrels, and they like bird feeders too. I know that in some communities bird feeders attract the deer as well.
- The animal is malnourished and needs human help
- feeding birds and squirrels allowed , other wildlife such as deer, hares, coyotes, racoons not
- If it is an animal that could be considered a pet
- Huge fines as most humanize animals are euthanized - birds are the exception, feed the little sky rats all you want!
- injured animals that can't get food
- Birdfeeders and birdbaths should be allowed
- allowing bird feeders
- Feeding of wild birds with seed feeders.
- Stricter fines
- feeding birds ok. teasing/harassing any animal not ok
- Bird feeders, rescue cases, make it a warning first
- Feeding animals who are injured/starving
- All, private property is private property and what people do on their private property is their business and theirs alone.
- Birds

- If the animal is injured and or you raised it
- Stray cats
- Include a list with risk to human species only
- Video or photographic proof of malnourished animal before feeding it
- If an animal is hurt, or starving.
- not sure
- I would accept the people who help wildlife back to health. I would allow people to feed wildlife, but teasing should be off limits. Teasing a wild life animal hurts, and angers the animal. Where as when feeding wild life humans are able to connect with t
- If it was a stray domestic animal (ie. Dog or cat) to help rescue/help the animal
- They are told not to feed by the owner
- Only feeding squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Birds are except
- Ability to feed wild birds.
- If the animal was obviously starving
- Exceptions for feral cats
- Injured or dying animals that can't fend for themselves
- Bird feeders!!
- Deer grazing, bird feeders, etc. Noninvasive
- If the animal is in need of medical care for feeding. No exception for teasing.
- Animals in clear need of assistance such as as starvation wounds or being trapped/caught on something.
- Bird feeders, hanging or unattended with no other enticements.
- Birds
- If they are not being taken care of probably
- Trying to catch the animal for its own safety or the safety of others
- Many residents gain great enjoyment from feeding birds and squirrels in their own yards. I would certainly not use the words "feeding" and "teasing" in the same statement. Those of us who are wild life lovers would never dream of teasing these creatures
- Fines for those caught
- Bird feeders as they really support the local bird populations, especially migrating birds
- Private property is just that. City should have absolutely no power on private property.
- N/a
- It would lessen wild life attacks against people
- Feeding ad teasing should be separate. Feeding is not teasing. I don't support teasing wildlife. Bird feeds on private land, it's private land that is supportable
- Feeding birds
- If the animal is injured.

- Would support for anti-teasing/abuse on private property, but feeding and extermination should be allowed for pest wildlife
- Baiting humane/have-a-heart traps for nuisance animals
- Fines
- Bird feeders
- No exceptions
- Feeding native birds
- None. Too many people feeding squirrels and rabbits.
- I would support not teasing any type of animals on private property. For feeding animals i think there should be an exception for bird feeders.
- Fine if caught provoking wildlife on private property
- Bird feeders
- Teasing is cruel and a form of abuse that should be a bylaw. I don't think it's right to control what people do on private property unless it is endangering or abusing animals/people
- Pretty vague question. Bird feeders??? What about Apple or fruit bearing trees?..
- bird feeders
- I agree we should not feed wildlife but what is in place to help them or relocate them?
- Bird feeders on private properties that home owners put out themselves shouldn't be included unless they are in areas that can attract bears
- bears
- None
- Feeding on private property ok- teasing/harming NEVER ok
- Bird feeders
- Yes to above with the exception of wild birds.
- Removing wildlife safely from the city back to the wild
- Allow feeding of wild birds on private property.
- Possible exempt bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be excepted. I am concerned about people who feed coyotes, racoons and other predatory animals
- no exceptions
- Feeding birds and squirrels. However if that attracts other wildlife such as deer, moose (etc), bears or coyotes, then that specific situation should be reviewed on its own merits..
- If the "wild" creature is a domestic breed
- Such a bylaw is unenforceable and it is important to feed and provide water for wild birds.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders for songbirds should be allowed
- What defines "wildlife"? Are birds included?
- Feeding birds
- Ducks feeding.

- bird feeders
- no for feeding, yes for teasing.
- Pets
- I want nothing that will contribute to higher taxes. Period.
- Bird feeders
- Touching or abusing wildlife
- Birds, insects
- Sick or injured wildlife in need of assistance
- Bird feeders for small birds
- Feeding wildlife should be okay, but teasing no.
- birds, they need food in the winter to survive in Calgary
- Bird feeders
- If its private property they should not be told they cannot feed the wildlife there.
- If the animal appears to be injured or if you still aren't touching the animal
- None
- Bird baths and bird feeders
- exceptions should be feeding birds and squirrels that depend on a good food source for their survival
- Teasing fines. But many feed squirrels
- What is meant by teasing exactly? Harassment should be prohibited
- Too vague a question please explain what this all includes.
- I don't think that feeding is an issue so long as it's not harming the animal or causing problems with neighbors.
- Let people live
- If the animal appeared to be starving
- People must be allowed to have fruit trees/bushes & bird feeders in their FENCED backyard.
- Bird feeders
- This question is not specific enough as to what bylaws would be introduced
- No bylaw supporting this.
- The person is working with a legitimate study of local wildlife.
- A farm should be able to feed wildlife on their property but no one else
- none
- None
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, bird baths
- Injured or orphaned animals.
- Same rules should apply on private property
- Nothing
- if the animal can't get its own food because of an injury and it's eng fed what it needs to be

- Bird feeders
- You should be love to see the animals so no Teasing
- If the animal's life would otherwise be in danger (starving or injured)
- If an animal is injured/dependent on someone to feed it
- Yes if it is food for that animal
- Feeding birds has to be exempt!!!
- None
- Bird feeders with proper food.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Where the “teasing” might constitute abuse, or the animal is being confined/ability to voluntarily escape is impeded in any way.
- Allow common small bird/ song bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- If the wildlife is affecting a neighbour because of the persons feeding or teasing.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Enforcement and hefty fines
- Ducks and other birds
- Bird feeders
- There are cruelty laws already in place. A bylaw against feeding wildlife would seem to need to be ridiculously complex to allow for bird feeders, for example, while, what making it illegal that mice or squirrels will eat from it, or deer, or bears.
- small animals like birds, squirrels etc should be able to access private feeders
- Specifically, it should be OK to feed wild birds, but NOT animals such as coyotes, bears, rabbits, etc.
- If animal is injured and requires help- private property owners sh like be able to feed/help that animal.
- No teasing or anything but feeding birds and such should be ok
- feeding and teasing are independent issues. bird feeders should be exopt.
- Bird feeders
- Exception for bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding common urban wild animals like birds and squirrels, local rabbits and hares is fine. Feeding large, non-urban animals is not.
- None
- I don't fully understand the context. I would remain in favor of bird feeders/bird baths on one's own property.
- If they are damaging property or life threat

- Temporary feeding permitted while a wildlife rescue/rehabilitation group is attempting to locate/capture wildlife
- Fines
- An Animal in distress.
- Neutral
- If the animals was hurt / injured or near death and food and water could save its life.
- birds, squirrels
- Animals in distress
- Bird feeders
- none
- Birds and squirrels
- Obviously if permission is granted by the owner of the private property to feed the animals. No exceptions to teasing.
- BIRDS
- backyard bird feeding though I understand this could be a problem in certain areas of the city where bears might roam and yard unfenced.
- Bird Feeders
- Birdfeeders stocked with appropriate birdseed (no human interaction)
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on private property should be allowed and be exempt from this bylaw.
- birds, hares
- Suggest to have support from the city with regards to safely removing wildlife that happen to enter private property.
- Bird baths and feeders on private property
- Would not support anything that prohibits putting bird feeders in my own yard
- I especially support a bylaw against teasing wildlife, but I'm not sure about the specifics on feeding wildlife. Does that include bird and squirrel feeders?
- Bird feeders
- Unknown
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Feeding birds through bird feeders should be allowed.
- Allow feeding of hurt animals.
- Bylaw only for large animals (deer) but not for small (squirrels, bunnies, etc.)
- Depends on the animal, they need to survive on their own
- Birds
- A fine
- Bird feeders
- I'd prohibit teasing but allow feeding of birds and squirrels
- bird feeder b) if an animal is in distress & needs help

- If the animal is hurt or starving
- This is very vague. I support not teasing any animal wild or not anywhere. I agree to not feeding larger wildlife such as deer. Feeding birds should be allowed, yet then that's also feeding squirrels, which we are ok, not everyone is though.
- It's not the same feeding/teasing wildlife in a park and help birds during winter in your yard.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- What do you mean by Teasing Wildlife??? Do you mean bait food for them to come out of their hiding??
- Obviously keep things humane. But if people want to feed birds or deal with a pest on their own property, they should be able to.
- None
- Birds
- Bird/squirrel feeders, shooing animals off your property, wildlife helping itself to garden plants
- Birds
- bird feeders should not be regulated
- Allow property owners the option to choose whether or not they allow such things on their property.
- birdfeeders
- Allow the feeding of wild birds at feeders in private yards.
- No violence to animals. Feeding appropriate foods (native) are alright, but no entrapment for hunting, torture, harassment, or killing of wildlife. Calgary already has encroached on a lot of animal habitats, something that allows animals to thrive
- feeding the bunnies is fine
- Birds and squirrels need to eat
- I would NOT support a bylaw that outlaws feeding of wild birds on my property. I do support not feeding other wild animals, such as deer and coyotes. Teasing of any animal should be prohibited every where. The bylaw proposed is too general.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I would make it specific to wildlife that has potential to harm people and that would result in the animal being put down if it was caught, so more focused on wild cats, coyotes, foxes, that sort of animal, maybe deer and moose, but not birds
- Birds
- Birds
- There should be no fines for a first offence. Just educate the individual the first time. Fines start with second offence.
- Additional fines for teasing- not slaps on the wrist. Impose higher fines so this actually stops the behaviour
- Feeding birds is essential to maintaining the local biomass

- Feeding and teasing are two totally different things.
- Feeding birds, placing Salk licks OK- but no teasing
- Wild bird feeders if designed in such a way to not attract other wildlife like coyotes and squirrels
- Exclude feeding small birds.
- Allow bird feeders
- Teasing I would say only if you're in danger or at risk to get animal off of property. Feeding is fine as long as done in a safe manner!
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- None
- bird feeders
- Hanging bird feeders
- [removed]
- I agree Wild life like coyotes, bobcats, deer etc should not be lured to private property. As a bird lover I would not like to see my bird feeder banned from my property. The birds do not cause any problems in our neighbourhood.
- Birds and bird feeders
- Bird feeders are appropriate to have on private property.
- Stop blaming the animal and look at the idiots you allow to keep them. They are the problem not the animal.
- I sais no, this is not a good idea prohibiting, however I only think feeding wild birds is appropriate. Other animals should not be fed intentionally.
- No exceptions
- teasing only
- Feeding bids, rabbits,.....we all know what animals to feed and the ones not to....no need to micro manage....use good judgement for the relentless morons..
- Bird feeders should be exempt. Birds do not have an issue with being a threat to citizens.
- Feeding of wild birds
- Squirrels, birds
- feeding of coyotes and bobcats
- The City should be culling the magpies - they are constantly teasing and threatening our pets
- No animal should be teased. Re feeding - exempt wild birds, squirrels, bees and other pollinators
- feeding squirrels / birds
- not including bird feeders/squirrel feeders.
- Bird feeders should be permitted.
- Backyard bird feeders should be allowed.
- exceptions: bird feeders

- Teasing should not prevent owners from removing pests or potentially harmful animals from their private property. I.e) mice, voles, squirrels - woodpecker deterrents like shiny paper, motion sensor lights or sprinklers...
- No exceptions
- Birds
- Bird feeders I would think should or could be exempt
- Feeding and teasing are completely different. Separate the question.
- Teasing or feeding animals that are dangerous (e.g., coyotes)
- Bylaw for abusing wildlife, killing wildlife, entrapment on property for illegal hunting. Actually, more than anything, do something about people that deliberately place out poison for wildlife and pets.
- Birds, with proper food placement does not encourage rodents
- No exceptions
- NONE
- Wildlife should not be teased anywhere. Feeding squirrels, birds etc. is up to the owner of the Private Property. The City should not interfere.
- Wild Bird feeders should be an exception, particularly using 'no mess seed' , people can be educated on feeding responsibilities if needed, MOST IMPORTANTLY these wild birds are a natural calming and very healthy avocating addition to people of all ages.
- Provide details on what is acceptable, e.g. if one is planting vegetation that is a native species to this region/biome, that would not alter the feeding habits of local wildlife. Should specifically ban feeding of food that's not native to this area!
- besides bird, squirrels and smaller creatures
- Teasing
- We should be able to feed birds
- Bird feeders and hummingbird feeders would have to be the exception - then I would support it
- If the animals in question are owned by the owner
- birdfeeders
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders allowed
- birds, maybe injured/rescued animals or animals nesting on your property.
- If I chose to feed birds, rabbits, and the odd pheasant or owl on my private property, that is no business of the City. You're grossly overstepping your boundaries. This isn't Russia.
- Bird feeders are essential to civic life. Humans connect with nature by providing essential food to birds. We learn from birds how to live in our habitat.
- Bird feeders
- Excludes Bird feeders
- Back yard bird feeders. I am responsible and keep them out of reach of deer and other animals such as skunks.

- I would say "Yes" to the above only if the bylaw EXCLUDED birds. I love my back yard feeders. For me, watching the birds is like watching fish in a fish tank - helps to de-stress and promotes a sense of tranquility.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing or stressing wildlife on private property which includes abuse and cruelty.
- racoons, bears, ect
- Birds
- Allowing bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- I want to continue to feed the birds, in my yard, and enjoy them. They eat the seeds, drink the water and eat the flying insects.
- Prohibit teasing
- Bird feeders.
- It is the property owner's responsibility to 'live with' or 'remove' most wildlife from their property, BIRDS, racoons, skunks, porcupines, bobcats, deer, rabbits therefore the city should not be legislating how property owners do this.
- animals that cause destruction unfortunately have to get kicked off the property (hopefully this does not constitute "teasing"?)
- Proper hunting
- does such a question cover bird feeders , i assume not
- Whatever is best for the animals... Birds come to mind... But I don't know if birdfeeders are helpful or a hinderance to wildlife
- Feeders are ok
- Birds
- Feeding animals such as birds and squirrels should be allowed provided the situation does not create a public health risk, such as attracting vermin or causing problem with neighbours.
- Birdfeeders, unless neighbours report a nuisance
- This should not prevent people from using bird feeders or nest boxes.
- My concern is that bird and squirrel feeders would be prohibited in private yards. If those are prohibited in this bylaw I would not support it.
- I want to continue feeding birds and squirrels.
- For clarity, does the definition of 'wildlife' include wild birds of any sort? I'm assuming it would not. And would assume having bird feeders on private property would not be regulated. There is great enjoyment is being able to feed wildbirds.
- trapping of nuisance animals (raccoons, skunks, squirrels)
- Bird feeders
- Deterrents aimed to shoing wild animals off private property.

- Bird and squirrel feeding is an exception and is often part of citizen science projects such as <https://feederwatch.org/>
- feeding birds and squirrels should be allowed, teasing/harassing never allowed
- permit feeding of birds on private property
- Bird feeding must be allowed.
- Redomestication of feral pigeons, accidental feeding, self defense.
- Birds
- Yes to banning teasing of all wildlife...but the feeding part is vague...you don't get to decide whether or not I feed birds or squirrels that's half the reason I enjoy my backyard. You wanna van feeding rabbits, deer, coyotes, lynx etc fine.
- You are ridiculous to even suggest that feeding animals and teasing them are even remotely the same. Banning backyard bird feeders is complete rubbish and a complete joke that you are instead considering backyard livestock!
- Certain animals such as animals, injured animals one must assist until help can come
- Bird feeders
- n/a
- If a wild animal is young and has seemingly been abandoned and is clearly unable to feed itself but is still very wild, I think feeding would be appropriate in the case that the person can guarantee long-term food support, feeding should be allowed.
- A trap and release program should also be implemented especially where wild animals are found, this way both the residents and the animal benefit
- Animals in need of help (hurt, abandoned young, ect)
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Not sure what "teasing" wildlife means, but if a homeowner chooses to feed wild rabbits (hares), or put bird feeders on their property, I don't see the harm and wouldn't support a bylaw against those or fining those homeowners.
- Bird feeders
- Teasing should be penalized, but feeding under dire weather conditions should be allowed.
- Use existing provincial fish and wildlife act and regulations
- bird feeders
- Teasing wild life on one's personal property is unacceptable but feeding them should be allowed. HOwever, I do understand that if bird feeders are placed inappropriately they may be easier prey for roaming cats.
- Safe birdfeeders
- Raccoons and predators, leave the other wildlife out of it
- The ability to scare them off if threatening self or others
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds

- None.
- It is not clear what is meant by feeding and/or teasing wildlife. I would hope that feeding birds is not included in that restriction.
- I'm unsure what teasing means in this context. I do think that feeding birds is okay. I think this could be re-visited if we start to have incursions of bears looking for food. Having a deer eat my crab apples doesn't seem like a big nuisance.
- This question is too vague. Feeding birds and bats and frogs is fine, but feeding bears or deer is not. Teasing is never acceptable.
- What would be considered "Wildlife"? People feed birds and squirrels on their properties, deer and moose are seen in backyards and communities. I would say fines for people teasing wildlife or people trying to take pictures when it is dangerous.
- bird feeders - these should be allowed on private property
- none
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- None
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- I feel very strongly private property wild bird feeding should be permitted. It is a wonderful past time for many including seniors with limited mobility. Feeding and teasing should be separated.
- Against teasing, but for feeding. Two completely different things!
- Wild bird feeders.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- The bylaw as written would ban bird feeders in peoples yard. Not good.
- the use of bird feeders on private property is a must.
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property
- Expect not to hurt the animals
- I don't feel there should be any exceptions, even squirrels. Overloaded garbage carts are an issue as well as crows and magpies, I saw a coyote one morning, pick thru looking for food and leave a mess.
- I am definitely against feeding wildlife on public or private property which might be harmful to residents (e.g. rodents, carnivores). However exceptions should be made for bird feeders (including berry bushes) and bird baths which attract songbirds. Th
- No exceptions
- Planting shrubs, trees and gardens is enough to attract wildlife, makes no sense to have fines for that unless they are purposefully baiting them for some nefarious ulterior reason.
- none
- None
- Help them find a new home

- Important to communicate this very effectively so that everyone is aware. People like to feed birds, deer etc.
- None. Keep wild animals wild.
- Hurting, starving, neglecting and or teasing wildlife on private property must be prohibited. Feeding wildlife on private property is part of an owners prerogative. After all Administration – The City should avoid overregulating - right?
- If it's injured, at least giving it water till Fish & Wildlife arrives to take care of it
- None but also say no poisoning or killing or relocating squirrels
- Ducks, swans, geese... birds in general, PROVIDING it's something harmless like bread
- I assume "feeding and/or teasing wildlife" means wild animals roaming into domestic locations (deer, coyotes etc.). I do not support the prevention of feeding birds via seed/suet etc. feeders, or Hummingbird liquid feeders etc.
- If bird feeders were allowed.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Birds
- Feeding birds on private property to be allowed
- Backyard bird feeders
- Bird feeders and bird baths, bird houses
- Bird feeders MUST be allowed on private property. I cannot imagine wasting tax payers hard earned money to hire people to enforce the rule of no feeding birds on people's private property. What a waste of city time and resources.
- Your last question is extremely misleading and idiotic. I fully support feeding birds/squirrels on private or public property. Teasing wildlife of any kind is wrong and is a moral issue. Having a new law regarding teasing would be completely useless.
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Perhaps exceptions for birds and squirrels
- Gofers , squirrels, chipmunk.
- Anything that attracts skunks to residential areas is not needed!
- If the wildlife is in danger from death due to lack of food/nutrients
- Bird feeders and clean, well kept bird baths and humming bird feeders.
- The feeding of small birds in an enclosed garden area.
- Bird feeders
- None. No teasing no feeding. Sure baby deer are cute, but feeding them only encourages them in and on private residences. It's not just the deer it's all the vermin and more aggressive creatures they bring. I'mTalking nice to wolves.
- the feeding or leaving of foods out for wildlife other than birds
- Teasing is inappropriate, I don't understand why the question reflects teasing and feeding as 1'question where they are 2 separate issues. I amAllForFeeding birds, and notForTeasing animals

- Scaring away birds
- does this bylaw include feeding birds? I want to be able to attract birds to my yard. they have to be omitted from the bylaw.
- I don't think anyone should be teasing wildlife but if you consider birds wildlife are you going to ban backyard feeders? This bylaw also seems difficult to enforce without gross infringement of people's privacy and more time than the city should have
- feeding songbirds
- Birds as exception only
- Someone caring for wildlife in a capacity of releasing in the future or if the wildlife is unable to return to the wilds.
- It is your private property. I suggest the City minds it's own business.
- Feeding or helping wounded or distressed animals or their offspring.
- Yes to teasing animals but no to feeding with exceptions obviously. No one should be feeding anything other than birds and squirrels in my opinion.
- Feeding no / Teasing yes it's harassment and unacceptable!
- No exceptions
- None
- Many people have bird feeders. This is a possible exception
- government should not regulate what I do on my property
- A threat to livestock
- Cant think of any.
- Feeding birds
- Feeding birds.
- Bird feeders, bird baths, etc should be exempt from a ban on feeding wildlife
- Nothing. Private property is private property.
- I would not support the teasing of any animal, however bird/squirrel feeders etc I do not have any problems with.
- Bylaw should be enforced only if the feeding and teasing is malicious and meant to endanger the wildlife
- We are encroaching on more and more wildlife and i feel there shouldn't be an issue feeding birds, squirrels, even deer.
- Feeding birds and growing plants/vegetables/fruits commonly eaten by wildlife must be exceptions.
- None
- This question is vague. We feed and water wild birds in our yard , year round. This in turn attracts squirrels and rabbits. You need to be more specific in your survey. I would agree that intentionally feeding coyotes, bobcats, skunks, or deer is not good
- birdfeeders; blossoming plants that attract bees
- Less money to the city art program, more money for wildlife conservation
- Bird feeding should be ok

- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- bird feeders on private property should still be permitted
- Should fall under animal cruelty/endangerment
- I do support a bylaw against teasing wildlife of even privately owned animals, but I think people should be able to put up birdfeeders in their own yards.
- Wild Birds
- Bird Feeders.
- Keep bird feeders
- We need more information, at this point having a bird feeder would be prohibited.
- bears and coyotes
- I suggest we don't isolate or expense any pets once so ever in my preference.
- There should be exceptions for people that garden, put out bird feeders, etc.
- bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders should be exempt from prohibited feeding
- None.
- The intent of this change is not clear. Does this apply to use of bird feeders? What does "teasing" mean?
- Feeding wildlife to restore health and with advice of experts (SPCA, wildlife officer) only
- None
- Harassment and abuse if any wildlife should be fined and prohibited
- Bird feeders or other feeders for animals who depend on our goodwill to survive the harsh winters as we build and encroach on their territory depleting their normal resources
- If there is an injured animal, an infant animal, or something whose life is in danger, they should be able to have access to food and water on private property until they are healthy enough, or until they can be taken to a clinic.
- Putting out food for wildlife but not directly interacting with it should be allowed, such as putting out old bread for birds.
- Birds.rabbits.
- Wild birds
- Are birds also related in this suggested bylaw? Watching birds at bird feeders is one of the most enjoyable activity for senior and people unable to leave their residence.
- Pitbulls shouldn't be banned in Calgary they are like all other dogs naturally good I know some people might say they are inheritaly bad I first thought that too until I saw Pitbulls in their true light and like all other dogs they are loving and loyal
- Feeding birds
- Feeding birds, squirrels, etc
- An exception should be made for wild bird feeders. I have been feeding and providing water to wild birds in my yard for several decades. It is supportive of wild birds and not harmful.

- let people still have bird feeders
- squirrels, birds
- bird feeders and water baths
- Bird feeders
- Backyard bird feeding is a great pleasure of mine. I would not be happy if the city passed a bylaw. That would restrict my ability to do so.
- Feeding birds on private property should be allowed. In winter birds need extra food and water for survival. This is supported by Bird's Calgary. We do not have an issue with bears coming into our yards for the food.
- The wording you've give is too broad in scope. So I can't have a bird feeder in my back yard or feed the squirrels? I think you'd have to define better just what is wild life and what if any are the exceptions.
- you have got to be kidding, can't feed birds. I am sure there is better use of tax dollars
- Many city dwellers get great enjoyment from bird-feeders, and also from occasional squirrel feeders. These things also teach children that we have to share the world with wild creatures.
- Kids must be educated, so if it is a first time offence and no danger was caused, then education would be better than a fine
- Birds
- What constitutes "teasing"? Shoeing them away? Are you thinking of banning bird feeders? Needs more information.
- First of all, you have not defined 'wildlife' as some people may consider a feral or stray cat a wild animal or the birds mat a feeder. Therefore, please define 'wildlife'.
- This is a poorly worded question. Bird feeders must not be banned. Birds are running out of natural habitat and food sources.
- bird feeders
- Exceptions to feeding wildlife could include backyard/songbirds. These birds frequent feeders, bird baths and bird houses in backyards around the City. They provide hours of enjoyment to many Residents. It is wonderful to be able to enjoy nature.
- Birds and squirrels should be fine.
- Bird feeders in private property should not be prohibited
- Anyone should be allowed to put up and fill bird feeders without restriction or penalty.
- I think common sense should be applied. If you are feeding birds, squirrels or the like, it shouldn't be a problem. however if you are feeding bobcats, foxes, etc, there should be some guidelines.
- Animal abuse only, feeding brids and squirrels should not be a bylaw FFS
- Do not include disallowing feeding birds but provide Information in the appropriate feed for them as I see a mess of bread and things that are not healthy & attract unwanted birds. I love seeing birds at my feeders.. so don't paint everyone with the same
- Birds rely on feeders all year long.
- Backyard birdfeeders should be exempt

- Bird feeders
- bird feeders should be allowed, NEVER teasing of wildlife - totally different questions should not be combined into one!
- bird feeders are important. I don't think people will be intentionally feeding dangerous animals such as coyotes on their properties.
- Does feeding include birds? If so than bird feeders must be exempted.
- During extreme weather conditions feeding should be permitted.
- Bird feeders, insect feeders or traps, bat feeders
- This is a very vague amendment and would include such things as bird feeders. I love having birds in my yard and love encouraging them by providing bird feeders. Otherwise I have no idea what other wildlife you would anticipate. Coyotes, deer,
- I would allow bird feeders but also allow inspectors to be able to respond to the complaints of neighbours and make reasonable operational judgments.
- This proposed bylaw is too vague. While I support a ban on feeding mammals this bylaw would need to make an exception for bird feeders.
- I am a birder, and derive great pleasure from feeding wild birds throughout the year. I also provide a year round bird bath where birds can drink water through the winter, and bird houses where they might nest in the spring. Exempt wild birds.
- Citizens should be allowed to feed birds on their own property. This is particularly important for those who gain pleasure and better mental health by feeding, watering and watching birds in their yard. This also helps the province by reporting bird seen
- How would you enforce such a bylaw? It would be better to educate with signage.
- feeding birds on private property
- Wildlife is such a broad term. I would like to continue feeding birds in my yard in the winter. They require the extra food especially when its really cold. As a senior I enjoy watching & photographing them when its not easy to go out in winter.
- Bird feeders
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Feeders that are set up (ie. Bird or squirrel feeders) where people aren't in direct contact with wildlife
- all bird feeders and bird baths on private property
- Bird feeders
- That bylaw is too hard to enforce, and what about people feeding birds and squirrels. If there is data to suggest there is a horrifically large problem with this then lets do it but I suspect not.
- Allow bird feeders in yards.
- Bird feeders, roaming wildlife like deer eating shrubs/etc
- I have a bird feeder and a bird bath. If these items are included then I DO NOT SUPPORT THIS.
- Bird feeders
- its private property. stay off.
- none

- bird feeders
- Animal cruelty
- This bylaw may prevent bird feeding. Come on you guys
- Feeding birds and squirrels
- The statement need to include context so the property owner has protection in some scenarios or certain circumstances
- It is not our decision to spay or neuter someone. We need more By-law officers And shelters that are funded by the city So we can properly adress these issues and not just put some bandaid solution on it. No one and I mean no one should be allowed to feed
- Feeding of raccoon's should be banned as they can take a foothold in a city quickly
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders and birdbaths should be an exception from any by-law
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, shoing wildlife off property (ex: deer, coyotes, squirrels)
- I don't think feeding birds/bird feeders should be included as part of a bylaw.
- Home owners should be excused from feeding deer, birds and squirrels.
- I don't think people should have to stop using their bird/squirrel feeders
- No exceptions
- Birds
- One should be able to feed birds, squirrels, feral cats etc. Teasing wildlife should be prohibited.
- A person with experience in proplery handles animals when injured
- there is a sign saying ok ex: horses
- Feeding yes teasing no
- Backyard bird feeding of wild birds
- Feeding/Helping an animal who is suffering
- Bird feeders
- keep bird feeders
- Make a provision to allow for falconry or fashion pigeon keeping, an allow backyard chickens.
- Bird feeders
- Having birdfeeders in urban areas to feed blue jays or chickadees is pretty innocuous. Attracting any type of mammal either intentionally or accidentally needs to be controlled. While mice and voles enjoy birdseed I don't feel they are our concern here.
- we do not need more regulations and bylaws. CUT THE RED TAPE.
- An injured animal
- Birdfeeders!!!
- I support the feeding of birds Only hon private property.
- Definition of "Teasing" and "wildlife" is to vague for interpretation. Exceptions is "bird". Would backyard feeders be included. Would "accidental" spillage of bird food be considered feeding "other" wildlife?

- Birds
- This is a very broad question. Many people feed birds during the winter - and inadvertently squirrels. Does City Council really believe they should legislate against people feeding birds in their backyards ? I definitely do not support such a bylaw.
- Except birdfeeders
- Bird feeders on private property should definitely be excepted. They are a great source of enjoyment and education for all ages.
- Bird feeders should be exempt from the bylaw.
- Bird / squirrel feeders
- I believe that bird feeders with appropriate wildlife-friendly content should continue to be allowed.
- Feeding birds in your yard in bird feeders should be exempt from this bylaw.
- I would support the bylaw if it excluded feeding non raptor birds
- Birds
- Bird Feeders
- Consider how many types of bird feeders there are. Consider how many bird feeders already exist on private property.
- Prohibit teasing on private property. Allow feeding of birds from feeders.
- Bird feeders
- There should NOT be any restrictions on feeding birds.
- not feeding wild animals I agree with but I want to be able to feed the birds, having feeders on my property
- Bird feeders and bird baths should be allowed
- Bird feeders on private property should be allowed. It helps many of our feathered friends during the winter months.
- Allow bird feeders on private property.
- Birds, squirrels
- I would support this bylaw only if exceptions were made for feeding wild birds on private property!
- If this get approved I would hope that you would exclude those of us who have bird feeders and bird baths on their property
- Allow bird feeders on private property
- Omit bird feeders on private property or feeding of squirrels etc. We need to help our wildlife critters, not abandon them as we encroach into their habitats every year.
- Bird feeders allowed
- Let us feed the birds, they are mostly migratory and as we encroach upon their space/land let us give them what they need before they move on. Sparrows are of the few that stay year long.
- None
- You need to give your head a shake - do you have any idea how many people feed the birds especially during the winter?

- Too vague and general. e.g. it would prohibit bird feeders. Be more specific. Squirrel mazes are OK. Feeding deer or other feral animals is not. Teasing or harming all wildlife should be prohibited.
- Make government smaller, stay out of my life.
- bird feeders
- A home owner should be able to continue to feed wild birds on their own property.
- Wild bird seed and feeders should be exempt
- feeding birds health seeds and fat in the winter but only if considered beneficial by bird experts
- Feeding birds is good for migratory birds as well as the Joy and well being of many citizens, including those suffering from depression, illness, isolation and the elderly. Feeders in gardens are a great way to introduce the really young to nature.
- Feeding Birds
- Bird Feeders
- Bears, wolves, coyotes ,cougars, lynx, bobcats, skunks, porcupines, crows, magpies, snakes
- I don't want to see the City prohibiting the use of bird feeders in Calgary. Our feathered friends are a joy to watch, and they need assistance and support just as much as other forms of wildlife that roam throughout our neighborhoods.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding of wild birds with appropriate bird feeders must be exempt!
- It is difficult to put feeding and teasing into one bylaw, they are not the same. There are some reasonable reasons to feed some wildlife and also some damaging ways.
- bird feeding
- Backyard Bird Feeders should be exempted.
- Small bird feeding with approved feeders
- Birds! Our winters are hard on some bird populations. They need support because of the increase in house sparrows. We also take great pleasure in watching the birds at the feeders. Really the city should not be micromanaging this.
- Squirrels
- Pest removal
- Bird feeders. Feeding birds saves the lives of birds, especially over winters and when they are feeding their young. It also provides pleasure to people watching the birds from their windows.
- Trapping or killing a wild animal on private property should be banned
- the person who has a feeder for birds on their property for the sole purpose of biodiversity.
- Bird feeders.
- Birds
- Bird feeders / bird baths, non-harmful motion activated deterrents such as lights or sprinklers to deter deer, bait/traps for mice, moles, gophers, etc. It is a VERY POORLY worded question and the bylaw MUST be carefully worded against unintended conseq

- I think bird feeders are a benefit to the birds, and also provide enjoyment and purpose to people who watch them. However, I don't think people should tease wildlife on their private property or anywhere else!
- Bird feeders should not be included
- I like to feed the birds. It's not harassment to own a bird feeder. And why would you lumped together feeding/teasing the wildlife? That's just sheer stupidity.
- Wild Birds
- Bird feeders should be an exception
- There should be no restriction on feeding birds on one's own property. And the question is flawed because it addresses two separate subjects - teasing (abhorrent to most people) and feeding (an entirely different thing). It's not a simple yes or no
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders year round
- None, it inhibits wild animals being resilient when feeding themselves
- Teasing wildlife is not acceptable. We have lots of "domestic bunnies" in the neighbourhood now and people are feeding them - I don't support this. I do support feeding the birds using bird feeders in the backyard however.
- birds
- Feeding wildlife (eg bird feeders) on private property should not be restricted.
- Unless it is your own property
- Exception for birdfeeders, bird baths, and wording that continues to allow backyard gardening. Something to delineate between unintentional and intentional feeding of larger birds/hares/deer/etc
- Birds and bird feeders should be exempt.
- Backyard bird feeders should be allowed and exempt from the bylaw.
- Bird feeders on private property should be allowed to feed these birds especially during winter months when they need the food.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders are a great way to keep mosquitoes out of your yard and provide enjoyment
- If you are including birds and squirrels I definitely do not agree with it. The winters are so tough here, we should be able to feed the likes of them.
- We planted trees, etc to attract wild birds as well as supplying heated bird baths year round. I think that bird feeders, etc. should be exempted
- I would never support a bylaw which prohibits feeding birds and squirrels in one's yard.
- Feeding birds on private property shall be allowed.
- Not sure what is meant by wildlife? If you mean birds I would not support any bylaw that prohibits me from feeding the birds. If you mean feeding chickens I am totally against having chickens in the backyard of city dwellings. Question s/b clearer

- I am completely opposed to a bylaw prohibiting feeding of wildlife on private property as this would prohibit responsible wildlife support, such as birdfeeders. To avoid mistreatment perhaps use the word "mistreatment" instead of "teasing".
- I think that people should be able to feed birds in their own yard!
- feeding and teasing are two different things. how would this apply to backyard bird feeders?
- We still want our bird feeders & bird watering pedestals.
- bird feeders in winter
- I would support no teasing but a blanket no feeding would be something I would be vehemently opposed to if it were intended to include bird feeders.
- ALLOW TO FEED BIRDS. ALLOW TO HAVE A GARDEN THAT MAY FEED WILD RABBITS AND OTHERS. ALLOW TO PLANT FLOWERS THAT FEED BEES!
- Having bird feeders and watering stations on private property should be an exception. It is not teasing animals and provides some animals with a stable food source.
- birds and yes to above question for teasing
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders on your own property should be allowed
- Backyard bird feeders should be exempt from such a bylaw
- Feeding wild birds in winter!!!!!!!!!!!!
- Bird feeders
- Exceptions need to allow for feeding of birds on your own property
- We should be able to feed wild birds
- I would not support this as its a very opened ended question you have asked, are birds considered wildlife in your questions?
- Exclude in-yard bird feeders, nest boxes and nesting material, and bird baths. Also excluding Mason Bee nesting boxes.
- Teasing should never be allowed, feeding of wild birds should be allowed as they are not terrestrial and are not at risk of being harmed by people or vehicles.
- Wild Bird Feeders | Bird Baths need to exempt!!!!
- Exempt Birds - feeders for hummingbirds. People need to stop feeding squirrels!
- Question is unclear. What wildlife are you including? Are birds considered wildlife? Squirrels? Please be specific
- Bird feeders/baths should be permitted
- Feeding birds should still be permitted.
- Exclude feeding of birds
- Birds, obviously for feeding them
- Bird feeders are an obvious exemption.
- Bird baths and feeders should be exempt

- I think it is responsible to feed birds with a bird feeder and provide fresh water for them especially in the cold winter months. I do not think you should be allowed to provide food for mammals such as raccoons, cougars and coyotes or deer.
- I put out feeders for wild birds, this causes no harm to any animal. We should be allowed to do this.
- Backyard bird feeders should be an exception. I will never be in favour of a by-law that prohibits me from having a bird feeder in my own yard!
- predator animal restrictions only. EXAMPLE: don't lure bobcats to your yard to control the squirrel population.
- If the animal is hurt and needs care then feeding may be appropriate, or if the resident decides the animal is okay by them.
- I am unsure what feeding on private property means? I currently have bird feeders and bird baths that are utilized by many birds, on a daily basis. I enjoy bird watching and sharing with other bird watchers the variety of birds that come to my yard.
- Surely you are not referring to bird houses and bird feeders? Please be specific. NO.....do not ban bird houses or bird feeders.
- There will be a big problem if people are not allowed to feed birds on their own property. There is no harm in it, and it will not be accepted by the citizens of Calgary. I do agree that squirrels should not be fed - they are rodents.
- wild bird feeders in private back yards. These add to property enjoyment.
- I would like to know what this defines. Is a bird feeder included in this definition? I would want to see the details and not a broad statement that can be interpreted in many different ways.
- This question is extremely vague and takes into account two separate types of acts. Would this mean not being allowed to feed wild birds on private property? This would be ridiculous and detrimental to many of our bird species.
- None
- No bird feeders? It's private property, get off!
- Injured, maimed or abandoned animals in distress
- What do you do if a skunk takes up residence under your front step? Does that include feeding of wild birds at backyard bird feeders? What about shooting away deer that are chewing up your flower or vegetable gardens?
- PLEASE - MAKE AN EXCEPTION FOR MY BIRDFEEDER IN MY OWN YARD!!!!
- Because bird feeders and bird baths or water features are a part of many backyard habitats and pleasant pastime for many to watch and enjoy. A separate bylaw on harassing or teasing wildlife would be acceptable.
- Feeding domestic stray animals
- Any teasing wildlife should be prohibited regardless of where it might take place. Please do not prohibit bird feeders in private yards. We get tremendous pleasure from watching the birds/squirrels that come to our yard to grab a snack.
- This will be an increased expenditure for the city to now have to deal with incidents on private property within the city limits

- None and I think the people feeding the birds in Princess Island park and elsewhere need to stop. They may not realize the negative impact this has on the birds physically and also in disrupting migration patterns.
- In general I support this. BUT, it should have an explicit exception for bird feeding.
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders
- Pls address bird feeders/baths. On private property and in condos.
- Teasing should NEVER be allowed
- Allow feeding of birds. Having this activity in my back yard brings me delight and joy, especially in this time of shelter in place and Covid-19 restrictions.
- Exception to 'no' answer, 'teasing' wildlife is unacceptable
- Feeding birds
- Birds
- An instance where a wounded animal ends up on private property may be an exception to feeding. Provided you are knowledgeable about what to feed the animal and wildlife services should be notified immediately.
- Define wildlife and tease. For example, deer entering a yard to eat out of a home vegetable garden, or birds and squirrels eating out of feeders.
- The above should be a two part question. Feeding wildlife, eg: birds, should NOT be prohibited, but OF COURSE, TEASING should be prohibited (and with fines) at ALL times, anywhere!
- back yard bird feeders
- What wildlife is encompassed by this bylaw. For example bird feeders on private property need to be addressed in this bylaw. Do bird feeders have a damaging effect, either positively or negatively, on the population of birds? The changes are too vague
- I don't want bird feeders on private property to be prohibited.
- wild bird feeders
- Feeding or teasing a Bobcat - no exceptions. Feeding birds is acceptable. Obviously, the more vague this is, the more trouble you will have. Will Bylaw enforcement arrive if a neighbour complains that I have a bird feeder in my backyard?
- I would prohibit teasing of all wildlife, and prohibit feeding of all wildlife with the exception of birds.
- Squirrels
- Birds, especially in winter.
- Not sure what "teasing wildlife" means. However, I fully support feeding birds on private property, as we have destroyed so much of their natural habitat and food opportunities.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders on own property
- Bird feeders in winter and water bowls/baths all year long.
- However - bird feeders and baths should be excluded from this.

- I say I am not in support because you don't seem to even recognize the vast difference between feeding (e.g. a bird feeder) and teasing of wildlife. As a similar question: "Would you support a law against eating and/or murder?"
- Bird feeders Must be excluded.
- This is not something to spend taxpayer money on.
- I think it should apply to teasing. Feeding may happen for valid reasons (caring for an abandon or injured animal).
- Prohibit the intentional feeding of carnivores within city limits.
- This should NOT include feeding wild birds using bird feeders in back yards
- Question is not clear. Owners of property in question should be allowed to feed wildlife, or if one has permission from landlord.
- Sounds too general this particular bylaw. What about bird feeders, hummingbird feeders, etc. These animals do rely on feeders to survive. I would not support a law that banned bird feeders.
- bird feeders as feeding wild birds with proper seeds does not endanger the health of other wildlife and the general population
- Wild bird feeding and squirrel feeding on a private property should be exempted.
- Mistreatment of wildlife in city parks should be prohibited as well as private property.
- Let me feed a bird on my property.
- Birds should be allowed to feed birds on own property
- Bird feeders
- If there is a hurt animal that needs food and assistance
- No exceptions...wait until raccoons arrive in greater numbers...yuck!
- Private property birdfeeders should remain.
- its my property, I can feed the birds if I choose as it is a hobby, and provides birds with nesting places, water and essential food in cold months. You people are ridiculous.
- You should be able to have a birdfeeder in your backyard or private property.
- Bird feeders help to bring nature into our yards and create a healthy and entertaining environment.
- Feeding of birds via hanging bird feeders
- How would you suggest monitoring this? The tax payer is over burdened as it is.
- Yes as long as one can still put out bird feeders to feed the birds, bird. house, baths.
- No enticing of larger creatures which could harm humans or pets. Birds should be allowed to visit our yards. Supplementing their diet with approved food and studying then supports citizen science and conservation projects , helping at risk species survive
- Allow commercially made bird feeders. Don't allow feeding squirrels.
- Definitely allow bird feeders, but don't allow feeding squirrels. They are becoming a serious problem
- Birds, small rodents, and 'harmless' animals should be exempt. That's it. A deer in the rut can seriously harm someone if that's what it wants to do.

- If this means banning bird feeders on private property, it will be yet another ludicrous solution to an unstated problem. NO to banning bird feeders on private property. Guess the next step would mean chopping down my mountain ash to avoid attracting bird
- Wildlife is important to the eco system, let the predators balance nature.
- Backyard bird feeders and bird baths.
- putting up bird feeders and feeding the birds should absolutely not be included in this by-law. Birds are not pests and need to be fed to survive the harsh climate in Calgary. Birds are also a source of enjoyment for housebound persons, especially senior
- If the bird feeder or bird house is determined to be detrimental to the safety of the species then the facility should be taken down. It needs to be taken down
- Feeding Wild Birds
- The feeding of wild birds on private property.
- Birds and bird feeding apparatus MUST be considered an exception. The language as read is too vague, the wildlife prohibited must be specified.
- Bird feeders are a benefit to our yards and neighborhoods. They attract birds that eat insects. Birds eat berries and tree fruits that likely will not be harvested. The birds are a source of entertainment and enjoyment that helps keep us in touch with nature
- This is not an exception I just want to be able to feed the birds in the winter and when weather is inclement.
- Feeding wild birds from bird feeders. Also what about berries and seeds from hedges and plants growing in yard do these count. The same thing applies for squirrels. I can think of all types of things that might be construed as feeding.
- Exception would be baiting wildlife for trap and release.
- People should still be allowed to put up bird feeders.
- Bird feeders do not constitute "teasing" of wild birds.
- Bird feeders
- Bird Feeders on Private Property should NOT be included in any bylaw that prohibits feeding of wildlife.
- Bird and squirrel feeders should be allowed. Providing water for birds should be allowed.
- Wild bird feeders and bird baths
- Birds
- Does this include does this including putting up bird feeders in my own backyard? It is unclear.
- Bird feeders should be excluded from any bylaw that restricts feeding wildlife. Feeding squirrels should be prohibited as they cause destruction to gardens, trees and people's property.
- Leave the wildlife alone, call and see what can be done to relocate the animal safely
- Wild bird feeders
- Bird feeders on personal property should be allowed. Obviously teasing animals (not sure what this means) should not be allowed
- Providing feeders for the wild birds on your private property should be exempt.

- If I can not feed birds in my backyard, I will be force to move somewhere else where I do not have an idiot council and unthinking city administration. What a poorly vague question, was it thought up by a two year old.
- Because the way this is worded it would include bird feeders! And because of habitat loss, destruction (e.g. the Weaselhead by the new roadway through it!) and invasion of wild spaces by people - many birds survive our winters because of backyard feeders!
- Bird feeders are a great source of enjoyment and help the birds get through the winter.
- Teasing wildlife is a no no. Bird feeds and bird baths in private yards are completely acceptable.
- Teasing would have to be clearing define in this situation for me to make an informed comment. For an example; people hanging squirrel proof bird feeders is not intended as teasing but might be seen as that by others or chasing a swarm of grackles away.
- Teasing animals, yes but not feeding birds, especially in winter.
- Do not feed bobcats, lynx or raccoons on your private property. Absolutely fine to feed birds excluding magpies, crows and chicken hawks (Cooper's Hawks)! No teasing allowed for any wildlife.
- bird feeders
- bird, squirrels
- Let's use common sense. Education and engagement. Teaching people whose culture does not include pets to respond responsibly to pets and their owner. Also, let's PLEASE start to enforce already in places laws regarding wildlife. BIRD FEEDERS are not.
- backyard birdfeeders should be allowed. We have deer and rabbits that regularly raid our vegetable patch. would this be considered feeding and/or teasing? How would bylaw handle this?
- Bird feeders.
- Please don't prohibit bird feeders in private homes. These birds give me so much enjoyment & peace.
- bird feeders and bird baths
- Wild bird feeders on private property should be exempt. The question above is leading and poorly written!
- I would like to ensure that those who love birds in our city are allowed to continue to feed and assist with their survival in our own yards. Squirrels in our yards can be a nuisance, but special feeders to deter them can be used.
- The wording of this proposal is rather vague. It is also not clear that this would apply to someone with a bird feeder in their yard, which I fully support. If a deer jumps into your yard, don't feed it, but to prohibit the feeding of birds is absurd.
- First - what is the definition of teasing. Does wildlife include wild birds, or squirrels that happen to take peanuts from a bird feeder? Are bird feeders exempt.? This needs to be more well thought out.
- Feeding birds on private property.
- Allow bird feeders on private property.
- Bird feeders and watching the activity are a joy of life. I don't know what teasing entails.
- Birdfeeders. My bird feeder attracts birds. And stray cats. I would like to keep my birdfeeder.

- what is your definition of teasing. feeders in your yard are not teasing. The birds rely on the feeders during the 8 months of winter and during migration and nesting seasons. if a person is encouraging wildlife to inflict harm that's another matter.
- bird feeders
- Absolutely none. Make it easier ? Supply more bird enticing trees and flowers. Stop letting building developers rip up ponds and fields that have thousands of yellow headed and red winged black birds, hundreds of sparrows and Cowbirds and other species.
- Continue to allow responsible birders to feed birds, bird specific food to help them get through the winter
- Continue to allow backyard bird feeders.
- Bird/butterfly feeders
- NO PIT BULLS!
- Birds, squirrels, hares
- I would support a penalty for anyone caught teasing/tormenting wildlife .. on either public OR private property.
- feeding wild birds must be excepted.
- I want to be able to feed birds on my property in the winter but I would never support a bylaw teasing birds or wildlife on private property. The wording is very ambiguous.
- backyard bird feeders approved
- I don't consider providing a bird feeder and bird bath "teasing". I don't want people teasing animals but I do think it's valuable for birds with declining populations to have access to food and water given the current climate situation we are facing.
- PLEASE CLARIFY THIS QUESTION?! This is far too vague. I agree that coyotes, bobcats, skunks and large mammals like that should not be fed or encouraged to habituate in built up areas. However, if this includes squirrels and birds?? NO Please clarify
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders should NOT be prohibited.
- Unless it is causing a problem, people should be allowed to enjoy bird watching and feeding birds on their own property. As a retired senior, this gives me a great deal of pleasure.
- So does this apply to people that have bird feeders and nesting boxes (bird houses) on their property? Teasing wildlife, can you be more specific. I'm assuming it's an issue.
- I get great pleasure in feeding the birds and squirrels. They know and trust me. Living near North Glenmore Park and the Weaslehead we see lots of other animals but I don't intentionally feed them.
- There is no harm in feeding birds. They do not become dependent on human provided food sources as most are either migratory or opportunistic feeders. I love seeing birds in my yards!!!
- Deer comes onto private to eat crab apples, berries etc and bird feeders. These situations should be exempted.
- The city council should spend its time [and our tax money] on more important issues such as de-racilizing city departments, police and fire services and the council itself.

- Please do not include wild birds in this broad 'wildlife' category. Otherwise this reads like bird feeders would not be allowed.
- Feeding birds should be acceptable. Teasing or torturing animals of all kinds should be banned not just wildlife.
- This is poorly worded and way too broad in scope. As an example, if passed, it would become illegal to have a bird feeder in one own yard.
- leave bird feeders alone. love our birds
- Clearly define what you mean by "teasing".
- This is a very vague wording. I think it will negatively affect businesses as well as lifestyle if a ban on feeding birds in private property is introduced.
- Bird feeding cannot be prohibited.
- I do not know what teasing refers to but I do feed birds and enjoy watching them come to the feeder.
- Feeding wild birds and squirrels at backyard feeders
- I would support this bylaw if the wording was ...prohibits feeding and or teasing of wildlife but allows bird feeders on private property.
- Bird feeders in personal yards
- NONE. I am TOTALLY AGAINST PROHIBITING TO FEED WILDLIFE! Especially with COVID-19 keeping us at homes, the birds we attract with food are a source of delight and we treasure their visits. Yes to the TEASING Wildlife, but you would need to be specific.
- None
- I really hope that people will be allowed to feed birds and squirrels and put out bird baths, especially in winter
- Define "wildlife". Feeding/teasing of mammals should not be allowed (deer, skunks, coyotes etc.). But feeding of birds on private property MUST be allowed.
- all bird feeders exempt
- Bird feeders.
- Bird feeders and bird baths.
- I am unclear as to how this bylaw would effect bird feeders. I completely support bird feeders and would no support a bylaw that prohibits this.
- Feeding and teasing should not be in the same question. They are totally different concepts. Obviously bird feeders are OK and should not be based. If you are going to write bylaws, do it properly and with some thought.
- This question's wording is bad. This could prohibit bird feeders. You're thinking of harmful things - are you suggesting feeding birds is harmful !??. Go visit the Wild Bird Store or other similar facilities and talk with their staff.
- birds/ small mammals
- Wildlife: if you mean birds, squirrels, etc. then it should NOT BE PROHIBITED to feed or tease on private property. However, if you mean bears, cougars, coyotes, etc., I would support a by-law that PROHIBITS the feeding or teasing on private property.

- Bird feeders and feeding of birds
- Not clear based on the question, would this involve bird feeders, bird baths, houses, etc. This needs to be made clear in the proposal going forward. If it indeed intends to rank bird feeding as teasing, you are misinformed.
- bird feeders should be allowed as in most areas of the city they do not attract big wildlife as they do in Banff. Also in winter bird feeders are needed by local bird populations.
- No feeding of squirrels.
- Does this include bird feeding?
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Providing food for birds by installing and stocking bird feeders on private property should be excluded from the prohibition.
- Allow bird feeders (all types such as suet, seed, nuts, nectar, etc.)
- Too vague. Bird feeders esp in the winter, are an important source of food for wintering song birds.
- Wild bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property. This provides a supplement source of energy for birds and it is extremely helpful for them during migration and winter. This is also a great way to encourage people to experience and care about nature
- Wild birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders in backyards should be exempt.
- Owning a bird feeder in your own yard should NOT be prohibited
- Bird feeders on private property
- Backyard wild bird feeding
- the exception would be putting out Bird feed in one's trees or yard. During winter months its tough on our feathered friends to find food & water. This is not considered "baiting/teasing"
- Bird feeders etc.
- I would support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife on private property. However, prohibiting feeding wildlife would mean all property owners would be disallowed from feeding birds, which is going too far.
- Bird feeders can still be used in backyards
- do not include birds. you need to define wildlife, and what you mean by tease.
- Bird feeders, etc
- Birds
- Bird feeders should not be included
- Birds, bunnies
- exempt back yard wild bird feeders
- How do you enforce such a bylaw? But if you had such a bylaw then exempt birds and rabbits.
- Private backyard feeders should be allowed

- This needs more thought. Feeding birds should be allowed. Teasing or putting into distress any wildlife on private property should be defined and prohibited with appropriately high fines. This should include chasing wildlife with skidoos.
- I believe there has to be a distinction between feeding and teasing. Two very different behaviours. In addition, as stated, it may prohibit feeding birds in the backyard. Needs a lot more definition before it can be properly assessed.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Bird feeding certainly should be allowed. It seems that there is sufficient legislation already in place to address situations where animals are being maltreated
- As a bird lover, I really enjoy bird feeders and bird baths on my property. I believe that the word teasing should be changed to intentionally harming. What one person considers teasing, another may see as harming.
- You SHOULD definitely be able to attract & feed birds in your garden. It is so wonderful having Blue Jays, Nuthatches, Chickadees, American Goldfinch etc come into our garden, because we feed them.
- We pay a ton of money in taxes if we choose to have a bird feeder or bird bath in our yards that is our private property!
- Bird feeding should be exempt and the bylaw should be more specific in this regard. Technically bees are feeding on private property and could be considered wildlife. Too broad of a bylaw.
- Bird feeders
- Large animals (Bear, Cougar, Deer) or endangered species
- We have bird and squirrel feeder on our property. I believe this adds to attracting urban wildlife to our community which enhances our environment. Bird populations are on the decline, why would we not want to help them grow.
- I don't want animals being teased, but I worry about the implications of vague wording. Private bird feeders should be exempt.
- Ok as long as wild birds are excluded from the term wildlife. We love watching the small birds feeding on our squirrel proof feeders.
- Exclude wild bird feeders. My bird feeder brings enormous joy to my life and is a common accepted practice. It does not harm the birds and in fact provides them with nutrition on the worst days of winter. I would not want this to end.
- Birds and bird feeders.
- Feeding birds and squirrels help them survive hard times. It should NOT be prohibited!
- teasing wildlife should not be allowed but difficult to have on same bylaw
- feeding of birds
- I think people should be allowed to feed birds on their private property by putting up bird feeders for them. Birds could never survive in Calgary's winters without the aid of people putting out food for them.
- It's PRIVATE property in my opinion this is non of the city's business. Feeding birds actually helps to sustain local bird life in urban areas.

- Many Calgarians enjoy feeding wild birds and squirrels. This provides additional nutrients when natural conditions limit their access to food, and is not harmful. People who provide supplements to birds and squirrels are typically wildlife advocates.
- I feel that there should be an exception for feeding wild birds. I don't know exactly what is meant by "teasing" but I don't think teasing in the common use of the word is acceptable.
- Birdfeeders
- Birds and birdfeeders should be left out of the bylaw
- Bird feeders
- Teasing & harming wildlife should be strongly enforced! Assisting wildlife should not be prohibited. In these times of urban sprawl all wildlife is being stressed to the maximum. Small gestures to assist in their survival are both necessary & responsible.
- Wild Birds, and maybe squirrels
- Birds of Calgary need a little support just as some humans do.
- a bird seed feeder and bird bath should be allowed. Bird watching is NOT harmful to the animal and is indeed beneficial in the dry weather of the summer where no water is available and in the cold winter months where food is scarce.
- Allow Bird feeders
- People have been feeding birds for years - leave that privilege on my property alone
- Birds
- Birds....I'd still want to feed the birds.
- What is wrong with feeding the birds in my back yard - nothing as far as I am concerned. Why on earth would you even suggest such a bylaw.
- Allow bird feeders
- None
- Feeding squirrels and birds is fine. Putting out meat for coyotes is a problem
- I worry very much about the local businesses that sell bird feeders etc. I also know how much joy bird feeding bring older Calgarians. Many businesses are already struggling. If you prohibit bird feeding, prepare to buy those businesses out.
- the above question is very vague to me; as a homeowner I have had a bird feeder on my property for as long as I have lived at my current residence (since 1996). I love feeding the birds and watching them. It also attracts squirrels but I can live with that
- Feeding wild birds on my private property has no impact on anyone else around me - especially during the winter months when food and water are harder to come by.
- Allow feeding of birds.
- This question is very vague, so impossible to answer with a Yes or No. You'd have to frame the bylaw very carefully - surely you would not intend this to impact people having bird feeders in their back yards?
- Bird feeding on private property should be allowed.

- These two items don't belong in the same question. Feeding songbirds in your backyard should not be conflated with teasing or feeding cougars, coyotes, deer, etc. Not a very clear / helpful question.
- Bird and Squirrel Feeders
- It is very important that we continue to allow bird feeders on private property. I and many of my friends get tremendous joy from seeing the birds in our yards. I have mobility challenges and can no longer go out birdwatching. Seeing the many birds attrac
- There needs to be clarity around feeding , does this include bird feeders? Teasing any animal anywhere should be strictly prohibited!
- Allow bird feeders on private property
- Feeding birds responsibly with consideration for your neighbours wishes on your own property with bird feeders should not be prohibited. Bird feeders in common spaces should be allowed too if no one has an objection and cleaning and maintenance are done.
- Bird feeders on your own property
- Bird feeders MUST be allowed and not included in any prohibitions suggested in 2 above
- You need to be specific on this. Are you saying bird feeders aren't allowed? Or just 'don't feed the bears'?
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders and bird baths should be allowed.
- This bylaw could potentially exempt bird feeders which are an important source of food for resident and migrating birds. I would be vehemently against the restriction of bird feeders in private yards as this would aversely affect bird populations.
- Bird feeders will still be allowed.
- Bird feeders should not be included in this. I think a bylaw like this should be more for dangerous wildlife and deer/elk/moose, etc. Having bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bird Feeders
- I am hoping this does not include not feeding birds and squirrels. This is a big part of my mental health to be able to watch the birds and squirrels in my yard. It helps me get through the day.
- Birds should be exempt
- use of birdfeeders on private property,
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Backyard bird feeding exemption
- More education in public parks on not feeding wildlife
- bird feeders and bird baths should be exempt.
- Bird feeders should still be allowed, and this must be made clear.
- Feeding wild birds would be an exception to a feeding bylaw. I feel that feeding and attracting birds to backyards has many benefits to the birds as week as to the mental health of our citizens.
- feeding and teasing are two VERY different verbs and deeds. I do support bird feeders. I think it may be wise to place signs at ponds informing the young public what to feed ducks etc.
- bird feeders/houses should be okay on private property

- Birds. Need to allow bird feeders
- -
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- I dont know why anyone would feed wildlife
- Birds
- No exceptions
- If it endangers the animal
- Feeding of wildlife such and birds and squirrels should be allowed.
- Birds (feeding)
- Feeding birds or squirrels
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- bird feeders
- no exceptions
- Feeding of birds and other beneficial pets should be permitted
- Designated feeders such as bird feeders. Zero tolerance for hand feeding and using food for direct animal human interactions.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Enhance development of movement corridors for wildlife within the city and make it a criminal to poison or harm them.al within
- Bird feeders should be an exception as well as feeders for pollinators.
- Feeding geese or other birds.
- Birds
- How can you possibly enforce this at all?
- None. No more feeding squirrels - this has got to stop!
- feeding birds should be permitted
- Migratory birds might be okay, but please please make it prohibited to feed pigeons!!!
- Coyotes should be shot in the city if they cause problems
- Yes, still have to allow for the Bird feeders.
- There should not be extra laws against specific breads, as it owner related. If anything regulate those that are allowed certain animals. Require a licensed for you're allowed to own a animal. Much like you must have a license before driving a car.
- The question trading. Totally against it. People that do. Should be charged. As for feeding. We keep depleting where they lived and what they know. So I would feed them. Take back into the woods that remain. But I would help assist any animal are struggl.
- anti teasing

- Intent is important. Feeding a bunny lettuce or birds bread would be fine, but luring wild animals or feeding pets that are not your own unacceptable.
- Feeding birds in a birdhouse, not accessible to cats
- feeding birds should be exempt for sure
- Injured/disabled animals
- parks could offer treats to purchase to give to ducks at a pond.
- Wild animals were here before we encroached on their feeding lands so feel feeding them should not be considered a crime
- Birds on private property
- I believe these are two very different things. I don't support teasing or being cruel to animals on public or private property. Harassing animals is wrong. However I don't think that people should be discouraged from having a backyard feeder that look for
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Birds... With cold weather, birds need the extra food from feeders.
- There should be more education/information available on why wild animals should not be teased or fed. If animals like coyotes are fed they will move closer to city limits and be a hazard to small animals or children.
- None
- Bird feeders
- Physical and intentional harm to wildlife
- None
- None
- Natural environment has been damaged, and/or the animal is injured.
- bird feeders
- We legally sell bird feeders in the city and those feeders are often used by squirrels etc and you can't stop them from eating in the feeders. Or eating fruit off of trees.
- Having a bird feeder in the winter months
- Birds, squirrel
- If wildlife animal is in distress, one should be able to feed it.
- Bird feeders
- The amount of neighbour cats is getting out of hand, have approached cat owners think the laws do not apply to them. Have been waiting for a cat trap since spring of 2019 which in the past has been a waste time as once the cats are returned they back out
- Feeding only to entice a wild animal in to a live trap.
- Bird feeders and non-nuisance animals
- none
- Bird feeders
- This should be two questions as they are completely different from each other...

- Does this include birds? The bylaw should be narrowed to say what wildlife is included.
- Bird feeders (Seeds and nectar)
- No cruelty /taunting/teasing is ever appropriate in any circumstance on any property. As long as bird feeders are not shown to be detrimental to birds or squirrels and are used responsibly, its OK. Also in rescue or other emergent situations it may be ok
- Wild song birds perhaps. No deer or coyote or raccoon. Etc.
- Birds
- Bird feeders for birds.
- Birds
- Squirrels, etc.
- non - wildlife need to be left alone. If they are dangerous or are becoming a nuisances, then they should be reported to City of Calgary Bylaws
- Birds
- If it is to rescue the animal or encourage it to leave the property
- If you have a garden you may be feeding wildlife inadvertently. Also feeding birds I think would be an exception.
- Birds should be exempt
- None
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- If you're going to lump them in together, it's a hard no; but I do think you should be able to feed animals on your own property
- Maybe a bylaw against feed Skunks , Coyotes and nuisance animals.
- Feeding should not be fined, teasing should.
- The animal is in bad condition in need of food and further care.
- Bird feeders containing seed, peanuts, tree nuts.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- none
- Feeding an injured animal in order to keep it well enough for rescue/rehabilitation to a natural environment
- Orphand or injured animals (with the contact of an animal rehab to help)
- bird feeders.
- possibly an exception for birdfeeders, if birdfeeders are not problematic.
- Bird feeders
- Migratory Bird feeding
- Bird feeders
- Birdhouses
- It is difficult to prevent wildlife from eating fruits/vegetables found in the garden/yard.

- Feeding of rabbits and squirrels should be allowed (keeps from wrecking gardens and none invasive)
- maybe birdfeeders are okay
- Feeding wildlife appropriate food should be accepted.
- Most individuals do not understand the basic needs of wildlife, allowing us to feed them could do more harm... however, if providing water is safe than I think this would be acceptable as some wildlife may be dehydrated.
- None
- Birdfeeders
- Allow for feeding of birds with bird feeders. There should be no tolerance for teasing or tormenting wild animals
- The city is unable to enforce city bylaws in the city and relies on citizens to snitch on each other.
- Wild birds
- birds and small animals ok, feeding of large predatory animals no
- Feeding ducks
- Injured animal where someone tries to feed it for sustenance and unable to do so itself.
- Enticement to trap for the purpose of assisting the welfare of the wildlife in question.
- No exceptions....I am frustrated by the amount of crows and magpies around due to bird feeders in the area.
- Feeding birds and squirrels is a beautiful experience, I would not like to see a law stopping that. If a neighbour sees a teasing or trapping sort of behaviour, then that could be an offense. Harming wildlife should never be allowed.
- First need better understanding of which feeding is harmful and why. Birdfeeders? Peanuts for squirrels? What are the issues? Teasing should be banned!
- If its injured or gave birth and has babies in your yard. You don't touch but you help out
- None
- FEEDING BIRDS ON PRIVATE PROPERTY SHOULD NOT BE INCLUDED IN BYLAW. Teasing and feeding are completely different activities and should not be lumped together. Cannot stop wildlife entering property of own free will to eat plants / berries / fruit
- If a cat is clearly injured or starving for food
- Bird feeders
- Birds or animals that forage naturally in yards (fruit trees, pinecones, etc)
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Bird feeders.
- Feeding birds (ie: bird feeders are fine). No one should be feeding deer, bears, geese, etc. No one should be teasing ANY animal.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Bird feeders

- Teasing OK, but can we still have a bird feeder? Why combine these 2 items that are clearly different.
- Birds
- Bird feeders ... squirrel feeders aloud
- Feeding birds & squirrels appropriate (healthy) food should be allowed.
- Feeding the birds birdseed or
- Bird feeders
- when trying to safely trap and relocate nuisance wildlife
- Only feed & water if the animal is injured on your property until bylaw can attend.
- Feeding birds and squirrels (or those type of animals in yards with their food)
- None
- bird feeders/baths
- Birds on private property
- Bird feeders
- Why on earth would you combine TEASING and FEEDING in the same question given separate sentiment? With a 70% decrease in birds since '70s , how could anyone be against a backyard feeder especially when only 5% dependence and helps with birth weights, etc.
- No animal cruelty
- None, if people want to feed them on their own property so long as it doesn't pose a health concern for the animal it's up to the property owner.
- If you have formal bird or animal feeders or water sources you clearly want them on your property.
- If a persons life was in danger and that was the only way to deter the animal.
- Birds, rabbits, deer
- Bird feeders, bird baths, etc. Nothing that prohibits wildlife from doing what they do best, but enforcing respect towards them.
- The law already provides for this.
- No exceptions . If animal is starving notify Wildlife Officer .
- Let them be
- None
- Hurt or injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Nonr
- none
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- None.
- Songbirds
- You can't put fwed and teasw in the same question. Feed birds for sure, they are wildlife. Feed coyotes, no. No wildlife should be teased, ever!

- feeding birds
- Birdfeeders and birdbaths
- Except birds
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Birds feeders
- None
- yet another bylaw by the city which further stretches by law officers and is not enforced to th degree it's effective!!
- Birdfeeders ok. Design bylaw to focus on large game (deer, bears, moose etc)
- Feeding of birds. Trapping of nuisance animals.
- Birds
- Nuisance by non-native species.
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Are birds, squirrels considered wildlife?
- Stop with the rules
- Hunting Purposes
- Birds on private property
- People are just not Aware of what is best for our wildlife. I believe they mean well but they need to be educated. Some people really enjoy feeding Wildlife so give them guidelines As to how they can feed wildlife what they are supposed to feed them.
- to entice a wild animal to stay so wildlife officers can take the animal away
- I feel feeding is fine, what is your definition of "teasing" that part is unclear.
- Feeing birds on private property is OK
- Don't know if putting out birdseed applies, but
- Species that are not a nuisance. Should be based on legitimate complaints, for specific species, I.e. skunks, coyotes, magpies.
- None
- Squirrels, birds
- Exception would be bird feeders.
- If it's in the animals best interest.
- Feeding wild birds
- None
- approved bird feeders
- Bees would be an obvious exception
- Do no harm- leave wildlife alone unless they are being a nysance on private property .
- none
- Squirrels

- bird feeders
- Squirrels, rabbits, birds
- none
- Fallen fruit from trees in the property
- Large mammals should be left alone (deer etc), but let people scare away the small stuff. Some people like feeding squirrels, that's fine
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt
- birds, squirrels
- Feeding wild birds should be allowed
- Feeding those in distress and not including providing water
- Bird house is allowed. But no seeds
- No exceptions
- Bird Feeders
- None
- Bird feeders can be vital for survival, especially in harsh weather - need to ensure bird feeding at feeders can continue.
- None
- in a city hosted event with educators guidance
- Birds with a feeder. Or same for squirrel and a nut dispenser. No interaction (or minimal) the with humans. Mimicking hunter/gather instinct
- birdfeeders can bring in deer and mice, but can help wild birds, so at least some published guidelines so people are aware of best practices
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders, hummingbird feeders
- Feeding squirrels and birds
- none
- Birds
- Pigeons and small birds
- Piss off and leave people alone
- Bird feed
- Birds
- Birds on private property
- wild birds can be fed raw seeds and water that are appropriate
- Calgary keeps getting bigger, where can the animals find food and a place to rest if they are constantly being shooed away.
- It would become too difficult for rehab volunteers to care for animals if this was a bylaw.
- Fines
- Squirrels steal bird food, what can you do? Nothing. I'm feeding the squirrels but not on purpose. It's on my own property so it should be fine

- Bird feeders (small size)
- Mentally disabled people
- None
- Bird feeders should be exempted.
- No bylaw because no way to really enforce so then really makes bylaws seem useless. Who does this, younger people... who couldn't be charged anyway.
- Birdfeeders should still be allowed on private property.
- Bird feeders in warm months
- Bird feeders/houses, bat roosts, exempt. This would take more thought.
- Allow bird feeders in private homes
- Birds survival depend on being feed. Contact Cornell University to get the facts on why it is important to feed birds.
- Feeding or teasing would encourage animals to return for more food. Best to keep them off the property.
- NONE
- Birds feeders, but must control the feeder, be inside the yard and not enticing deer or coyotes.
- None
- Teasing yes but there's nothing wrong with feeding wildlife on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds for enjoyment
- Birds and squirrels
- You shouldn't own "WILDLIFE" kinda defers ther purpose of being wild if their on private property
- none
- Children
- On property fruit trees
- The fact that anyone would choose to tease an animal or feed it without understanding or knowing its nutritional needs or conditions should go without saying. Animals should never be teased, hurt, abused or neglected.
- Feeding yes, no teasing
- There needs to be an option to have wildlife removed from private property to a safe location.
- Fines
- None
- The government should not be able to stop people from feeding birds/squirrels. Citizens should never be able to taser or harm animals anytime.
- I support not teasing wildlife on private property, but I would not include feeding in the same bylaw. Feeding birds, for example, is not harmful and contributes to enjoyment of outdoor spaces for individuals on their private property.
- bird feeders should be allowed, it is unclear if this is what is meant by this question.

- First of all no one is “teasing” birds by supplying seed and water on our own property. We are NOT harming birds. We are enjoying the back yard feeders and request that the city focus on important issues and not wasting our taxpayers funding on nonsense.
- Bird feeders
- no exceptions
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- bird feeders in yards (seed)
- Except squirrels and skunks
- no exceptions
- Bird feeders on private property.
- Allow bird feeders
- Likely would support bylaw against teasing/harming wildlife on privatw property
- Canada geese leave a mess and dogs help control them. Hummingbirds and others in the spring and summer.
- NA
- None
- ok to poison wildlife (mice etc)
- No exceptions
- Feeding birds in a private backyard
- None...private property is private
- Wildlife that are considered pests could be exempt
- None
- Regular bird, squirrel feeders
- none
- Feeding wild birds should be exempted
- Bird feeders.
- Birds
- Fines for people encouraging it! My neighbor threw carrots all over my garden and my neighbors so the loose rabbits wouldn't eat his. We have footage of him doing it and can't do a thing about it!!
- It sounds like you want to ban bird feeders. That's a bit much.
- Bird feeders
- this is very vague. Would it include people who like to feed birds and/or squirrels? Lots of people like to feed the birds or squirrels and I think they should be able to.
- birds and squirrels
- Feeding birds
- if someone finds an animal in distress and they feed it in order for its survival
- Bird feeders

- If ain't broke don't fix it. Things are fine the way they are.
- Unless the stranded wild animals are in distress and need water for example or need feeding before emergency crew arrives.
- None.
- No exceptions. It's best to leave all wildlife alone.
- Exception for birds and squirrels
- Basing some of your plans on "vicious dogs" then putting "pit bulls" is absolutely outrageous. There have been more attacks by chihuahuas than pit bulls. Quit being mentally retarded and basing things off of how the OWNER trains and cares for the dog.

- Shoot those who feed them.
- bird feeders
- Exceptions include bird feeders
- Hurt, injured
- Exceptions for any and all rescue/conservation efforts.
- Enforcement
- Bird seed
- birds and squirrels
- Feeding Squirrels, chipmunks and birds
- birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders
- None
- Allow bird feeders
- Teasing is far different than feeding wild birds. This should be two different questions. Also, feeding deer, coyotes etc. is different than feeding with birdseed. Teasing and animal is cruel.
- If it is causing danger to the general population
- Bird Feeders
- If the animal is in need of medical or starving
- Private ownership of said animals
- N/A
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Bird feeders kept above 7-8 ft, to keep deer from reaching for them
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wildlife should be the choice of the property owner. However, teasing wildlife on or off private property is not acceptable as person(s) or wildlife, of both, could be injured. We, as people don't like being teased; neither does wildlife.
- Offer a contact method to address wildlife on private property, especially if someone feels the need to feed a frail animal. Or the same for consistently irritating wildlife.
- Veggie scraps for neighbors chickens
- I would support no teasing. I think putting food out for birds and other small mammals that share our neighbourhoods is acceptable and should not be prohibited.
- Approved bird feeder ingredients?
- If the wildlife is injured, or too young to survive alone in the wild & is receiving care.
- Feeding an injured animal if a wildlife officer is not available
- Outdoor feeders for the winter urban wildlife need help to get through the winters
- Birds Squirrels Porcupines

- Feeding certain wildlife is fine such as birds, squirrels, rabbits but doing so brings bobcats and coyotes that try to eat family pets. No to teasing any animal domestic or wild.
- Bird feeders in properties where there is no direct interaction with the animals should be allowed.
- Injured animal
- Feeding an animal in order to keep it near before fish and wildlife could get out
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Would such a bylaw prohibit people from feeding birds?
- fine the owners of the feral pet rabbits that are releasing them into the wild, our neighbourhood has over a hundred of these type of rabbits. We actually know which house they came from and now we have a massive problem.
- I would support fines and legal charges for teasing or harassing wildlife
- None
- bird feeders
- Where stated exceptions by a sign apply, I think there is little hard in feeding small wildlife like birds.
- Bird feeders on private property
- Bird feeders are okay. Teasing animals is not.
- Bird feeders.
- I can't see how a bylaw like this could be enforced. Sounds like more big government to me.
- Bears
- Increasing fines for each event that occurs.
- Bird feeders
- none
- None
- Feeding small birds.
- None
- None
- Bird feeders, hummingbird feeders
- This is a broad topic. Feeding of birds using a feeder is fine. Baiting bears or other wildlife for hunting is not. Feeding is different from teasing. It's not clear what is meant by teasing wildlife and what you hope to prevent.
- None, wildlife should not be feed/harassed.
- If someone found and raised a wild bird that has been abandoned by mother, that is now returning to that person to get fed.
- If the wildlife was hurt or hasn't moved in days, and then call the city to remove the wildlife safely.
- Birds
- Bird feeders.
- Squirrels, birds, rabbits, deer just say no to bears.
- Birds and deer
- To distract wildlife from causing harm to pets, property, humans.

- Need more info
- No teasing what so ever but feeding starving animals seems to be the humane thing
- Injured animals being rehabilitated.
- Teasing wildlife is prohibited but feeding ok -
- None
- Bird feeders seem to be a reasonable exception.
- None
- Stay off my private property.
- A agree with the sentiment on most animals, but what about bird feeders. The city needs stop trying to expand its jurisdiction and NANNY STATE attitude. This belongs to PROVINCIAL Animal Control.
- Birdfeeders in winter
- People should not be allowed to be cruel to wildlife
- A hurting animals until someone safe can come pick him up to give better care
- Feeding wounded animals that cannot help themselves.
- This type of bylaw is unlikely to be enforced, so why bother?
- Injured animals or abandoned babies
- None
- None
- Exceptions I would make are purposefully baiting dangerous wildlife into communities. For example, if they know a coyote is around, purposefully feeding them because you want them to harass neighbours. Squirrels, birds, even raccoons don't really count.
- Feeding might be necessary if animal is in distress. (ie middle of -30 winter). Teasing is always wrong.
- Drastically reduce wages of city council instead of increase taxes and fines.
- No exceptions
- Bird feeders, peanuts for squirrels.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- How do bird feeders fit into this? Are they harmful to wild birds? Should they be restricted?
- Feeding of wild birds - this differs from attracting wildlife from natural food sources. Feeding of squirrels- same point
- starving cat or dog that seems feral
- Feeding and teasing are two different issues. I feed birds and enjoy seeing and hearing them. Sometimes squirrels eat the food. I don't personally mind. A small price to pay, and their antics are fun to watch. On the other hand, I don't want coyotes
- Birds
- If attempting to rescue an orphaned or injured animal.
- Bird feeders

- If this includes feeding wild birds in our back yards I strongly object
- Birds should still be allowed to have bird feed in feeders designed for them
- None
- birds
- Shooing animals off property
- Birds, squirrels
- Songbirds
- Education on how to handle wildlife in your yard
- Bird feeding
- bird feeders?
- Don't know what is meant by teasing. Feeding wildlife should be prohibited because animals that loose their natural fear of humans become a nuisance to everyone. I'm afraid that if I chased away a nuisance squirrel or bird I could be charged with teasing.
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- Possibly small bird feeders
- Wildlife animals must be respected and assisted when necessary
- none
- A bird feeder, bird watching and identification is a common pastime for many seniors and is served as education for youngsters
- Injured animals may need feeding to trap them for safe transport.
- Feeding wildlife to prevent starvation or malnutrition
- Most people do not have coyotes on thier property. Bird feeders are essential for helpin g birs especially in winter. This is not teasing wildlife.
- no exceptions, people shouldn't feed wild life what humans consume and that is the problem. If theyvwere feeding them grains and organics, but they don't seem to know the difference
- Supplying bird feeders on private property - feel this is important for supporting bird life, especially in winter
- Bird feeders, bee keeping would be exempt
- Cruel treatment.
- Education Programs/ More offices in the City Parks
- Bird Feeders
- Birds are OK. Other wildlife should not be fed.
- Education, warnings, fines
- bird feeders
- feeding such as a bird feeder
- bIRD feeders
- Birdfeeders during appropriate seasons.
- Bird feeders
- no teasing; no harming; food and water are fine

- Feeding birds should not be regulated. Feeding carnivores and scavengers should be forbidden.
- If the animal is hurt or in distress and Fish & Wildlife can't get to them quickly
- Feeding would have to be clarified - is this passive or active feeding? Bird feeders seem an obvious exception, and it would also have to exclude "feeding" in the sense growing plants, vegetables, and fruit which wildlife feed on.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Wild birds are also considered to be wildlife and I for one feel limiting the feeding of backyard birds, which means so much to so many in Calgary, especially during the isolation of Covid19, should not be prohibited.
- humming birds
- There has to be some reason ability here. I know many people who have bird feeders. I don't see a problem feeding birds or other small wildlife. Given that it is appropriate food.
- None!
- Define the wildlife species that the bylaw should prohibit feeding and/or teasing on private property. For example, provide bird feeder within private property to feed birds (wildlife) should not be prohibited.
- none
- Bird Feeding. Animal Feeding under extreme circumstances. e.g. severe winter weather causing starvation or wildlife
- I would like to be able to feed birds on my property. It is a joy for me and many people and benefits of keeping Calgarians connected to wildlife far outweigh any issues
- You can not bylaw my behaviour on my land
- Farms
- Maybe feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- No teasing no being disrespectful to any wildlife
- refuge/rehab
- Make a large enough fine for people not to partake in this.
- Provide education and food for animals.
- Birds
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Birds
- Get rid of the stupid cat by law I'm sick of having mice ruin my neighborhood
- None
- Birds during the months of January to March
- Bird feeders in yards are fine
- Responsible bird feeders; butterfly and bees gardens
- If the homeowner is trying to relocate the animal and others come to help with their permission.
- If it's distressed, thirsty. Needs help

- Bird feeders
- Feeding an injured animal, with rehabilitation as the end goal
- bird feeders should be exempt
- none
- Birdfeeders
- Injured animals or pests like mice
- Except when an animal is injured, until you are able to get help for it.
- If it was a desperate situation
- Jeep bird feeders
- Bird/squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders/houses
- Feeding birds is fine. Teasing any animal is not
- Wildlife who's life is in immediate danger and food or teasing is required to assist the animal
- No we should not be allowed to hurt animals
- Feeding bears or other predators. No teasing animals.
- Birds, but not pigeons
- Should allow bird and squirrel feeding.
- Feeding rescued injured wildlife
- Feeding wildlife is only going to lead to more imprinted wildlife which will only create larger long term difficulties with safety for both wildlife and people. With the exception of squirrels and birds.
- Feeding birds
- Birds and squirrels getting bird bells and nuts.
- No exceptions.
- Behaviour that is demonstrably harmful to the wild animal should be prohibited on private property.
- No teasing but should be allowed to have bird feeders.
- My answer is no because I don't understand if this applies to bird feeders My neighbour has feeders and it brings her joy. But I'm not keen on feeding, say, deer
- I'm curious how this would affect bird feeders - a lot of people in my neighborhood put out bird feeders to attract birds as a source of entertainment. This seems harmless and I don't think should be prohibited on private property.
- Bird feeders
- no animal should be teased or harassed but anyone on or off private property
- I absolutely support a bylaw that prohibits teasing wildlife. However I do enjoy feeding birds and squirrels on my property during the winter. In addition to my enjoyment it assists in their survival during our harsh winters.
- Nothing, the birds work for the bourgeoisie. They need to be fed.
- I feel that having a bird feeder and such on your property should be allowed. I do believe if any animal cruelty is happening on private or public land it not be allowed. No teasing or harassing animals fall under animal cruelty

- If there is a private animal rescue centre on the property
- No exceptions wild animals should be left alone
- Sanctuaries
- That the Bylaw defines "wildlife"
- Exception of birds and bird feeders
- Birdfeeders beekeeping
- Many people feed the wild birds with feeders in their yards especially in winter which I find okay. What you mean by teasing wildlife? if you mean harassing I would support a bylaw that states that you can not harass wildlife on private property.
- A hurt animal
- Bird feeders
- I think people should be able to feed small animals, such as bunnies and birds.
- Exceptions for feeding of wild birds and small mammals such as squirrels.
- birds, squirrels, roaming cats... I would support certain dangerous animals being in a bylaw, not all though.
- Visibly starving or emaciated
- If you are trying to coax the wildlife away from your property
- Bird seed, bird feeders
- Birds, squirrels, etc. - There's a difference in potential danger between feeding a crow and feeding a bear.
- Food for the squirrels and birds that visit or live on your property.
- Assisting wild animals in distress by feeding, and or caring for until professional support is provided. City must be notified as soon as it is obvious the animal is in distress.
- Not sure of definition of "teasing" I support bird feeding and do not consider bird feeders as teasing
- Allow for feeding at petting zoos, outdoor learning centers, etc
- Only if feeding is done by a City of Calgary professional for the benefit of the animal and is monitored.
- Bird feeders, and where deer, squirrels, rabbits, etc browse on your lawn and other plantings (this happens in our yard pretty much everyday, including several mule deer that wander the neighbourhood eating from our vegetables, flowers, trees & shrubs)
- Please do something about these damn Pit Bulls!
- Bird feeders/baths, discouraging magpies and crows
- Bird feeders or approved methods to deter nuisance wildlife
- Feeding wildlife that may otherwise die for a temporary period until the animal can be managed by wildlife services.
- This is a poorly worded question. More definition would be helpful. This should not include bird feeders especially in the winter months.
- fines when caught teasing animals
- Birds

- Nuisance wildlife is a problem. In many cases, what someone deems "teasing" is very well creating an aversion, which reduces human/wildlife interaction (which is a good thing).
- Surely you do not mean that this would apply to feeding the birds from bird feeders on private property? This needs to be clarified - that bird feeders would be permitted.
- Birds feeding should be allowed
- There shouldn't be any exceptions, however, there will need to be education on what is defined as wildlife. People may push back on squirrels etc.
- Private property is under the owners responsibility
- Informal pets such as loyal wild avians or any situations that stopping would cause harm to the private premise.
- Bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- I wouldn't be supportive if it means people couldn't feed squirrels, birds, feral cats, etc.
- None
- Bird feeders acceptable.
- Accommodate wildlife with providing water to drink
- allowing bird feeders; removal of problem wildlife in a humane way (e.g., live traps); support for removal of non-native species (e.g., grey squirrels)
- Birds
- Feeding birds should be permitted.
- Bird Feeders
- Bird feeders and similar items
- Birds
- Not sure what kind of exceptions would be reasonable.
- Steep financial penalties
- Large Predators
- Helping wildlife in distress until they can be taken to a rescue, or possibly feeding birds and squirrels if that doesn't harm them in any way
- You have to consider that wildlife includes animals such as birds and squirrels. It does not nor sense to have a bylaw stating you can't feed those animals, or any herbivore that is not a disturbance to adjacent neighbours. Bears are exempt from the no.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- feeding wild birds
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds using various kinds of bird feeders and birdbaths on private property.
- If the wildlife seems to be in danger, hurt or injured, then individual can feed wildlife until further help arrives

- This could be taken to far, exceptions would be too numerous, best not to have the law to begin with
- None
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Bird-feeders; abandoned, injured or animals-in-need
- Birds (can feed them)
- Feeding birds and squirrels should remain allowed. Any animal that does not pose a threat can be fed. No teasing ever.
- If someone finds an animal in distress, they should call a wildlife officer, but if none are available fast enough, they should be able to at least feed an animal if it is safe. Teasing ..absolutely no acceptable
- I think better education as to why not feed wildlife is the problem. We need to educate people more that these wildlife animals can fend on their own unless they are in distress in which case people also need to know the right organizations to call.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Bird feeders.
- Feeding should be fine on private property, but not teasing (I assume this means teasing with food but not giving it to the animals, which sounds rather cruel).
- Except for birds
- Birds- Bird feeders over the winter of seeds and such.
- This question is poorly written and should separate out the two issues. Teasing wildlife is unacceptable, the feeding of wildlife on private property is a more nuanced issue and my stance would depend on the purpose and intended effect.
- No exceptions
- No exceptions. All wildlife needs protection and don't know property lines or borders. Wildlife should be especially protected on so-called private property as individuals might believe they can do whatever they want including torture and killing.
- A big fine!
- Bird/bee feeding.
- None
- Both Squirrel and bird populations have increased tenfold since our neighbor has set up massive feeders for both. This is a huge nuisance for us, as they destroy our garden and planters. Bird feeders would be fine, but in very limited numbers.
- Bird feeders
- If the wild animal is injured or otherwise in need of nourishment until the appropriate wildlife rehabilitators arrive.
- Feeding birds

- If you make this a bylaw, the only method of enforcing this is to have neighbours telling on each other. This is a terrible idea
- I think it should be targeted towards larger animals like deer and bears and exclude squirrels and birds.
- Bird feeders and providing water in summer
- bird feeders, bee friendly gardens,
- Birds
- Feeding of birds.
- The question is too vague. Please provide specifics re what constitutes feeding or teasing. Does hanging a bird feeder in your yard fit into this category? Then absolutely NOT!
- No exceptions, all wildlife should be respected and endangered that includes no teasing and no feeding.
- Let farms or self sustaining places be the exception as encouraging the wildlife to their area could be beneficial for the growth of sustainable products.
- Hurt/Injured wildlife as an exception for feeding wildlife
- None. Animals should be left alone if they are wild.
- Feeding birds should be allowed
- Bird feeders should be allowed, but people should maintain them properly and keep the area clean
- Abusing an animal on private property.
- Birds, squirrels
- Bird feeders. No peanuts. Do not feed the squirrels.
- Feeding birds
- Squirrels
- Bird feeders? But - communicate clearly that if you start feeding birds in the winter, that you have to continue that food source until spring.
- if the animal is obviously hungry
- Injured animals could be fed
- If wildlife is being fed to distract them in an emergency situation where the wildlife may harm someone... for example, throwing a steak behind a bear to try to distract it instead of attacking a person.
- None
- Injured animals
- I have bird feeders
- Proper bird feeders and bird baths.
- Teasing and or animal abuse bylaws should be enforced strongly.
- Bird feeders accessible by wildlife
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding
- if the animal requires immediate attention (food, water)

- Depends on the class of animal. A squirrel or bird, that doesn't matter. If you're going out of your way to feed a bear, moose, deer or any uncommon animal, then you can create a problem of the animal expecting food or seeing you as a food source
- Limit the number of bird feeders a home owner can have (the feeders draw deer, squirrels, mice, etc that cause damage to neighbor yards and homes)
- Unless a human life or pet's life is in danger.
- Wild bird feeding should be allowed in backyards.
- Birds
- How would you possibly enforce this?
- Bird feeders/baths.
- feeding birds
- I am concerned about the feasibility of enforcing this.
- bird feeders
- leave well enough alone
- Bird Feeders
- Where an animal is hurt or in need of assistance, sometimes food is needed
- no exceptions for feeding wildlife
- Birds, squirrels, bunnies
- None
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Warning off measures for creatures in the garden? Sometimes I shout at squirrels to encourage them to get out of my carrots
- Certain perceived pests will need special consideration -- magpies and geese come to mind.
- bird feeders
- Bird Feeders
- none
- Bird Feeders, Bees and wildlife choosing to eat garden fruit and veg.
- Is this actually a big problem?
- Animal abuse vs animal support are two different topics. Feeding isn't great, but teasing and harassing is terrible. Also, how are you going to enforce that? How are you going to enforce children teasing and feeding animals?
- Except birds
- Are you suggesting that everyone take down all their bird feeders? Yes I support a bylaw to prevent teasing wild animals.
- Bird feeders.
- If the owner is present and gives consent to feed the animal if it is their own.
- Animal cruelty
- Someone is trying to help that wildlife have a better life

- I would suggest the city focuses on more important issues that surround Covid and maybe a little less focus on finding ways to apply more taxes and fees to the people of the city that already have enough on their plate.
- In the case of smaller community animals such as bird feeders for birds and the odd veggie on the lawn for the many rabbit families in our community. .
- Unless it is hurt/in distress.
- Bird feeders if squirrel proof
- No exceptions.
- Birds, squirrels,rabbits.
- Unless trying to feed to lour to being to rescues i think no one should feed strays.
- None. Wildlife will still thrive without our interference!
- Small bird feeders
- No exceptions. If there is a concern about health or well being of the animal(s) the City should be contacted. Exceptions will simply allow too much leeway for individuals to make their own decisions regardless of the spirit of the laws.
- Bird feeding encourages nature & wildlife appreciation, so allow as always. But feeding of mammals is an issue.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding is needed
- If the wildlife wandered onto the property and the owners were trying to get them away.
- Bird feeders
- Exception for feeding birds on private property (bird feeders, etc.), and for unintentional feeding (e.g. squirrels eating bird seed put out for birds).
- birds
- You should have a separate category for feeding and teasing. Feeding is ok. Teasing is not. Your question is loaded.
- birdfeeders
- Bird feeding should be allowed.
- teasing "pest animals" such as magpies should be allowed with this rule
- Wild bird populations
- Birds
- Bird feeders?
- If wildlife is injured or being responsibly rehabilitated (eg under vet care)
- none
- Feeding birds.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeding exception on private property
- None. If there is an animal on private property that is indanger/distress a professional should be called to handle it.

- Squirrels
- Fines
- Hurt/Injured wildlife as an exception for feeding wildlife
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders for wild birds
- Birdfeeders
- This might be a good idea but many others it will be unenforceable. Does it include birds?
- None
- What defines 'teasing'? What defines 'feeding'?
- feeding of birds should be allowed on private property
- Defining feeding or teasing is crucial. If my dog is chewing on a bone and wildlife gets in and grabs it while he is getting a drink of water, is that feeding wildlife in a way you'd want to justify to a jury?
- If an animal has been hurt and needs feeding as a life saving measurement. Also, the SPCA or the AB Fish and Game should be notified of the animals' needs.s.
- Bird & squirrel feeding should be OK - helps overwintering.
- Providing water receptacle for overheated animals
- Well maintained and well placed bird feeders
- Pest control
- Bird/squirrel feeders that are raised off the ground.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders.
- education for property owners
- Exception would be to charge someone if they are torturing any animal.
- Bird feeders
- Birds - perhaps.
- Birds who eat bird seed from bird feeder, and other animals who may eat the seed
- Bird feeding!
- None
- Bird feeders
- Penalties for teasing as this is sbuse of an animal. I don't care about them being fed. This should be two separate points.
- No bylaw against feeding
- backyard bird feeder should be exempted
- No exception for teasing
- Education and then fine
- Rehabilitation of injured wildlife
- With owners permission

- Get Wildlife to come in and trap and remove any dangerous animals back into their natural habitat.a
- Bird feeding
 - we should prohibit teasing wildlife. 2. I am not against putting food out for birds and encouraging pollinators. Providing bird baths etc.
- If the animal is actively attacking when unprovoked.
- Wildlife appropriate bird feeders
- Animal cruelty or trapping any of the animals.
- Winter time feeding of birds
- owner's permission is given to feed on their own private property
- Bird feeders should be an exemption
- I feed the squirrels peanuts and I have a bird feeder which I would want to see exempted
- Bird feeders should be acceptable. No teasing of wildlife is appropriate.
- Allow bird feeders
- Feeding the chickadees actual bird seed.
- First a warning as to why behaviour is not appropriate. Then fine.
- Your presumed definitions of wildlife and teasing are unclear. Having bird feeders in private yards should continue to be permitted. Feeding of wild mammals on private property should not be permitted.
- Fines for activities which distress songbird existence also to make sure timing of green space maintenance does not disrupt ground nesting song birds . As long as feeding birds is not interpreted as feeding wildlife.
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- Abusing wildlife
- Bird feeders, natural plant vegetation (ie berries/fruit from plants), or things of similar nature
- Bird feeders are ok
- Feed only during extreme situations
- Hurt or wounded animals
- Feeding wild birds in residential yards is a popular activity that does not contribute to negative attributes this bylaw intends to curtail. Additionally, provincial and federal wildlife act use the term 'harass' or 'disturb' instead of tease.
- Its difficult to tell people what to do on their own property. If this occurs, it should be a teaching moment by Animal Services, rather than imposition of a fine.
- Bird feeders should be permitted on private property.
- Stay focused on economic matters.
- Feeding birds must be an exception from this bylaw - not only is it beneficial for the birds but it brings enjoyment to many Calgarians who are housebound during the winter.
- There is an animal/wildlife in distress.

- Feeding exceptions for injured animals where water, etc., may give them strength and comfort until the experts arrive, feeding abandoned babies or those that appear abandoned, pregnant wildlife that may have come to what they perceive is a safe place.
- The law is too hard to enforce and would likely impact bird feeders - best to leave it alone.
- bird feeders/baths and water stations should be exempt
- Bird feeders
- It could be cool to see something in fish creek, if it was monitored by wild life personnel.
- Feed birds and squirrels but not other wildlife
- I support the feeding and providing of water to wild birds in gardens and private property
- Having bird feeders
- Birdfeeders.
- I'm saying no because how do you determine this.? I have a bird feeder am I feeding wildlife? Rabbit eats the carrots from my garden. Coyote eats the food I left for my dog, etc.
- Birds and squirrels should be exempt
- Bird feeder
- Certain species of wildlife shouldn't be teased, nor fed for reasons of safety. So there should be specifics to the bylaw, regarding species.
- Nursing or taking care of injured/abandoned wildlife.
- Bird Feeders
- There should be no exception because this encourages wildlife remaining in residential areas. This can potentially endanger said wildlife.
- People will feed injured or sick animals, regardless of a bylaw. Specify more, in detail
- Bird feeders should be allowed
- $200
- If feeding is done to help an injured animal or one that can't live on it's own. They should never be teased however.
- this question should not combine both feeding and teasing. Feeding birds is TOTALLY acceptable and beneficial in our private property. Teasing should have a definition. If it means baiting animals such as coyotes to come into your yard, not acceptable.
- none
- None. Are you trying to ban bird feeders and bee keeping? Is this really a problem? Seriously!
- None
- Sick or injured animal
- None
- exceptions for allowing bird feeders, and exceptions for feeding if it involves responsibly attempting to assist wounded animals/animals in distress until official assistance can arrive (i.e. taking circumstances into account case by case)
- Case by case basis.
- Bird feeders and baths

- education is always a better answer!
- No Exceptions
- birds
- Birds
- Bird feeders, squirrel feeders...
- Bird feeders
- If wildlife comes on property and eats your plants without you intentionally trying to feed them.
- Want to feed birds
- Rescue wildlife
- none, they are wild therefore self sufficient
- Why not be allowed to feed birds?
- Bird feeders
- Higher by law enforcement presence. steeper fines so word of mouth gets around.
- Birds, rabbits, coyote's
- Bird feeders should be acceptable. Feeding birds encourages the survival of local bird populations, especially birds migrating. People should not be barred from feeding birds in their own backyards.
- Squirrel and birds
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird houses are okay but bird feeders are not.
- Personal pets
- 0 Exceptions
- If you have vegetation growing on your property, then a person shouldn't be held responsible. But if you're clearly leaving food out for wildlife than you should receive a fine.
- pest management
- Birdfeeders
- None
- None. This is a growing problem and needs to be addressed with full force.
- You need to clarify bird feeding. Lots of people have bird feeders. There will probably be a huge outcry if this is banned. How would any bylaw be enforced?
- Would this proposed bylaw include bird feeders? Definitely would need to be explicitly clear
- Substitute something better for teasing. What do you mean?
- Excessive /large scale feeding etc.
- Providing temp care to an injured animal.food,water
- enforceable?
- We should be able to shoo them out of our yards.
- None
- Heavier fines for abuse of animals/poisoning
- Bird feeders

- Small animals like birds and squirrels. List examples of animals that this would indeed apply to like: skunks, badgers, porcupines, coyotes, deer, moose, bear etc
- None, we should not be feeding any wildlife. Who knows what their proper wildlife diet is and how we can be harming them by feeding and discouraging them to learn to hunt for their food.
- Don't fine bird feeders and hummingbird feeders! Also incentivize native plant pollinator gardens
- None
- This seems like it would be too hard to enforce.
- I would expect bird feeders to be exempt. Wondering how to incorporate an 'injured animal' exemption as well.
- Bird feeders
- I can support feeding but teasing is cruel.
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Would need to be intentional feeding and exclude fruit tree/garden produce being grown.
- Bird feeders and/or bird baths.
- Put funding towards educating people, not punishing them. Teach people about healthy relationships and interactions with nature and wildlife, and what & how much food is appropriate to share with what animals (birds, squirrels, etc)
- None. Feeding domesticates wildlife and then they become a problem. Teasing only agitates them and makes the situation dangerous. Do nothing . . . or call fish and wild life.
- Bird feeders
- None
- If someone is going to be a caretaker of wildlife
- none
- Feeding the birds should not be included. If a deer or moose happens to end up in my yard and starts munching on flowers, etc. this shouldn't be under the bylaw. Enticing animals into your yard is a different story. Teasing is a big no!!
- Enticing perhaps in terms of a rescue attempt to an injured animal on the property. Any action required to ensure the welfare of the wildlife on the property.
- Luring a sick animal in order to get it help
- No exceptions. Keep the bylaw as clear as possible to avoid misinterpretation. We do not want wildlife to become dependant on us for food.
- I think in the case of very young children, then the parents should be held accountable under the bylaw.
- N/A
- Feeding of birds and squirrels. Please define 'teasing'.
- ducks
- Bird feeders should be exempt.

- I think the exception should be if there is an injured animal on private property, it should not be prohibited to offer water to comfort while waiting to get it to the proper authorities.
- Education surrounding feeding ducks/geese - it is often well intentioned but many people do not realize the harm
- None
- The question, above, should have been two separate questions. Feeding wildlife on private property - yes. Teasing wildlife on private property - no.
- Citizens should be allowed to feed birds & squirrels
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- An animal looks like it's in distress or malnourishes
- None
- bird feeders
- Injured animals/birds
- Have people clean up apples and other attractants for skunks and problem wildlife
- None
- Birds and squirrel feeders on private property.
- Bird feeders
- Should be able to chase a skunk off the property
- If animal is injured and they are awaiting assistance from control
- temporary feeding of an injured or orphaned animal until such time as fish and wildlife or parks personnel could come retrieve the animal
- Things like bird houses and squirrel feeders with the vagueness of this wording would be covered by this bylaw, and a lot of folks quite enjoy seeing them in their backyard.
- birds
- Creating parks or wildlife areas so it minimizes the amount they would need to come into private property.
- City should have no jurisdiction on Private property
- Birds
- it's not good to regulate private properties because then you have to potentially enforce such laws.
- If the animal is hurt or if the person is hurt, then it is on the property owner to assume all liabilities.
- in the case of a lame or orphaned animal where the proper authorities have been contacted.
- bird feeders.
- Birds
- Unless the continual visit of said wild life causes distraction to other property. Or if the natural noises become a nuisance.
- Birds, squirrels and the like- feeding, not teasing
- if the land was designated as agriculture use
- No feeding squirrels

- Bird feeders
- We should be able to feed birds- teasing them is not okay
- Except birds
- Wild bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Above-ground birdfeeders
- none. This would mean you'd have to get rid of all the bird feeders in the city and there is more than enough by laws in the city for the Prevention cruelty two animals weather domestic or Wild. Wow this is ill-conceived.
- No animal wild or not deserves to be teased or taunted by anyone. I think fines should be giving out to people who Tante Or tease Any type of animal whether it is wildlife or somebody's pet or a stray
- Please define feeding of wildlife, this is very broad.
- Only acceptable for animal sanctuaries and areas of wildlife preservation
- Birds and squirrels
- No exceptions, but I'd like to see this bylaw actually enforced. People are constantly feeding birds on Prince's Island Park
- If the animal looks like dying.
- A fine
- hot line for trapping and removal from residential property
- None
- Feeding ducks (maybe the city could install coin feeders of appropriate duck food) and have signs up to only feed them food from the feeders
- Feeding a wildlife in trouble
- Exception should be made to passive feeders such as bird feeder stands. But hand/bowl feeding designed to entice larger nuisance animals should be prohibited.
- My property my rules.
- An animal who looks like it's starving or is sick.
- Why would you make it illegal it is not currently an issue.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Restrict bylaws to city properties not private dwellings or businesses
- None
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds, etc are one thing but teasing, being cruel, should be prohibited and high fines.
- noneo
- Squirrel proof bird feeders
- Bird feeders would be okay
- Bird feeders, bird baths, and bird and bat houses should be exempt.
- Please allow Kids to chase geese because it's fun as a kid and geese are jerks.

- Potentially bird feeding at the ponds. Outside of that chasing and pestering the animals should be fined
- None, unless the wildlife is presenting an immediate danger.
- Bird feeders
- Backyard chickens
- None
- Bird feeders with proper seed
- Bird feeders okay, and feeding stray animals
- Private property should be exempt from bylaws with the following exemptions: No feeding of wild animals. All people, on either public or private property should not be allowed to be cruel or negligent to any type (domesticated or wild) of animal.
- No exceptions! People who abuse animals also abuse human beings.
- Also don't have bird feeders that attract damaging nuisance crows , magpies, woodpeckers , etc. that damage property and affect one's sleep!!!
- Bird feeder limit
- Bird feeders
- Feeding appropriate food to wild birds
- More awareness and education.
- Only in cases of blatant inappropriate behaviour.
- Feeding birds should be okay
- Backyard bird feeders
- Birdfeeders
- Feeding birds
- to permit the extermination of squirrels , pigeons and magpies.
- Bird feeders and bird baths
- I enjoy my bird feeders in my yard. Would be heart breaking to have a bylaw to remove them.
- If the animal is not able to feed itself and without intervention would sustain injury or illness.
- Wild birds can be fed
- Depends on the type of wildlife
- e] Is there a person who has exceptional experience with physiognomy of dogs. IE: a CKC dog judge?The CKC has a Canadian Good Neighbour Test for dogs. You should encourage all dog owners to have their dog take 7 pass this test.
- Bird feeders ok, but no food on the ground
- Rural homes
- You should be able to feed birds and squirrels food that is safe. I'm opposed to harming animals only.
- Feeding birds and hares should be allowed
- Bird feeders
- no exceptions.

- Animal abuse
- We should still be able to feed birds.
- I think the better move its to create awareness around why feeding wildlife anywhere is not good.
- Feeding wild birds should be allowed, and encouraged considering their populations have been decreasing. Decreasing populations are another reason to more closely monitor wandering cats.
- None.
- Birds, if there were a bylaw against feeding wildlife.
- It should be up to the individual and their responsibility unless it impacts on neighbours.
- If the animal is hurt and in need of care
- Exception of birds
- Feeding birds in private property should be allowed. However, putting food out for deer, coyotes and raccoons should NOT be allowed.
- Allow bird feeders
- Squirrel resistant bird feeders and fruit trees that attract deer and other wildlife.
- Birds
- Bird feeders (seed feeders, hummingbird feeders, etc.)
- none
- Define feeding. If animal is just eating a plant, is that feeding? Teasing wild animals should never be allowed.
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders allowed
- Of course, no teasing. I agree with prohibiting feeding wild animals eg deer, coyotes, similar. BUT definitely no prohibitions against feeding wild birds.
- No exceptions
- No
- feeding birds and squirrels keep me sane.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds.
- Bird feeders
- Also ban trapping of rabbits and squirrels
- Bird feeders should be allowed. The birds help control insects.
- An animal is a threat or a Nuisance
- Birds, squirrels and rabbits
- Bird feeders
- Feeding wild birds is good.
- Bird feeders should be exempt.
- Squirrels & birds should be an exception
- Question 1 needs "Neither" as an option.
- Bird feeders provide entertainment fir home owners.

- How would you enforce such a bylaw? It would be useless. Education about whatever you are trying to accomplish is the only answer
- Bird feeders
- Birds
- Allow feeding ducks
- Bird feeders
- Finch and other native bird feeders. (to buffer songbird population suffering from roaming cats)..
- If feeding birds from bird feeders in my yard is an issue, and I'd be at risk of a fine. That's ridiculous
- Introduce specifics to animal categories: Some wildlife pose greater threat when acclimated to humans than others.
- fines and education
- Birds and squirrels
- Lindsay park bunnies
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Injury or rescue situations, bird feeders
- Private property should remain private and not the jurisdiction of bylaw enforcement
- Birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed on private property
- Wild birds/squirrels should be able to be fed
- Putting out peanuts for the squirrels I'm okay with. What does teasing refer to???
- None
- This question should be made into two questions.
- Leaving out water should be exempt as pet owners walking dogs often take advantage of their neighbors generosity during hot weather.
- People can have bird feeders
- Feeding wild birds is a wonderful past time especially with coved, working from home etc. It is nice to watch the birds. Not sure what "teasing" refers to but that should be a separate question. "Teasing" sounds cruel.
- if you're going to ban that, it wouldn't make sense to allow chickens on people's properties. They are bait for predators and create smells as well.
- Bird feeders
- Songbirds in the wintertime. I know birdfeeders often provide many people with a sense of purpose and act as a source of therapy
- Allow bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds bird feed
- Feeding no (e.g birds), teasing yes
- Bird feeders

- Proper bird feeders with the right seed for squirrels and birds
- What about people that like to feed the birds and the squirrels? (And keep their yard clean.)
- during very harsh winters when animals are struggling to find food. Increase fines and penalties for cruelty to animals
- Intention should be considered. Did you intend to feed them or just accidentally leave food in your yard?
- If the animals take food from you, like if they grab it from someone.
- Birds
- Injured wildlife that requires aid until help arrives
- Injured animals
- Bird feeders
- Deer eating the apples that fall from my tree
- No exceptions
- If feeding only to lure an injured animal to somewhere safe and then transferred to vet
- Natural diet supplementation in times of meagre resources
- feeding wild birds should NOT be prohibited by this bylaw
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- Allow people to scare wildlife from being on their properties
- wild birds
- none
- If the animal is hurt or in need of assistance. A Conservation officer should be called immediately
- Not sure what defines wildlife, I support this if feral cats are not deemed to fall under definition.
- Birds
- None
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Assisting an injured animal with food or water while awaiting the arrival of a by law officer
- No exceptions, bird feeders bring in mice
- None
- Should be able to feed birds/squirrels [inadvertently]
- Helping injured animals or sheltering them while they recover.
- Feeding birds in the winter time is acceptable.
- Bylaw that protects wildlife from life threatening injury and also behaviors that cause anxiety to wildlife
- Abandoned baby wildlife
- Wild life should not be tormented no matter where they are, but safe and healthy feeding of wild birds and squirrels via feeders should not be restricted on private property
- Bird feeders
- Unless permission is given

- Bird feeders should be exempt. Bat houses as well.
- Feeding birds.
- Standard bird feeders are acceptable
- shooing away animals on your property
- None
- Lots of people have bird feeders or humming bird feeders in their back yards, these shouldn't be illegal.
- None
- Wild bird feeders.
- Bird feeders
- None
- Birds/feeder
- Birds
- An animal that needs help
- None
- Bird food in species appropriate feeders
- What is going to be defined as "teasing"? As long as private landowners are not maiming or torturing, I don't approve of money towards this.
- None
- Birds
- If nurturing a baby until rescue arrives
- Birds
- Bird feeders should still be acceptable
- None
- Birdfeeders
- Let them be fed but anyone who teases or intices an animal should be charged
- There are already provincial bylaws regarding this why does Calgary need one....What about putting out bird feeders???????
- Live wild life alone or they die no exceptions.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- Birds
- None
- bird feeders
- If there are warning signs placed about specific species
- Bird feeders with appropriate food.
- Question is too broad. Teasing animals, absolutely should not be allowed. Feeding is complicated. Birds and insects are fine to feed. Feeding meat to attract bob cats etc. feeding rabbits is also ok, even though they attract bob cats etc.

- Exceptions should be bird and squirrel feeders.... it is more of a problem if people are baiting predators, which I don't think people do
- Bird feeders should still be allowed, especially through the winter
- None, your property your decision
- Bird or other similar feeders
- Feeding birds or squirrels would be allowed; teasing / harassment still prohibited
- Feeding birds/squirrels. Teasing and harassment is always prohibited.
- bird seed for small birds but not crows
- Allow feeding not teasing
- Feeders/bathing stations are good. Teasing is unacceptable.
- Wild bird feeders
- Bird feeders, Bat houses, flying birds?
- wild bird feeders
- types of wildlife ex birds and squirrels as they get feed in many yards
- Bird feeders, bird houses, bee boxes; such a 'can of worms'; will this apply to mice on your property, ants, slugs, do we really need a bylaw about this? Where do you draw the line?
- Bird feeders
- If the feeding is the result of an injury that the animal has sustained
- Feeding: Bird/hummingbird feeders. Teasing: Placing detergents or making noise (non violent, eg clapping talking using cruder rudder) to deter nuisance wildlife from property eg skunks/porcupine
- Helping an animal in immediate danger/critical condition.
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- feeding birds (seeds/humming bird feeders) should be allowed. However, feeding squirrels should be banned. They are a nuisances and the invasive ones should be eradicated. Feeding any type of wildlife other than birds should be fined heavily.
- Teasing is wrong but Bird feeders should be allowed.
- Feeding wild birds
- get SPCA Calgary to have some weekend, lower adoption fees. Cochrane SPCA successfully run this trick
- Bird feed and fruit be accepted in your own yard
- Fines in place
- Maybe a recommendation by a vet, with a statement along the lines of, "while we can't mandate what you do with wild animals on private property, we hope you will take their well-being into consideration."
- Birds and squirrels
- Bird feeders
- None
- Magpies eating my garbage
- none

- Bird feeders, bee feeders, etc...
- Rabbits in the winter
- Wild bird feeders should be allowed.
- Ducks, small birds
- bird feeders..? unsure what "teasing" refers to.
- An injured animal when immediate removal is not available
- Animal is emancipated/ in distress
- Bird feeders
- I feel like birdfeeders and squirrel feeders should be allowed but nothing hand fed.
- I don't think it should be enforceable, possibly unless the animal is being clearly harmed.
- people should no better than to feed wild animals on their property, however would this include bird feeders??? Seems a little draconian.
- None
- Does this pertain to birds and squirrels? Would this mean no bird feeders? If this is about baiting wildlife with food, then yes, I approve of a bylaw that prohibits this. We each must be responsible for discouraging wildlife to hang around.
- Mostly I am concerned with what the relevant research says.
- N/A
- Take out the ban on pitbulls! Education comes from the family it's raised, not the breed. People should be banned then just because how they look. Oh yeah still happening in this century
- Bird feeders should still be allowed
- Bird feeders
- Clarification of "teasing"
- Bird Feeders
- Birds
- Bird seed
- Feeding birds and squirrels is fine, you shouldn't pester or tease them though.
- Fines
- Feeding the Ducks/birds
- Feeders for birds, ect.
- Wildlife that is not causing harm to property or people be left alone. Any potentially harmful wildlife be relocated
- No exceptions, no excuses.
- If the wild animal is injured and waiting to be picked up by animal control
- pesty rodents
- Bird feeders, bees (flowers).
- Seed/suet bird feeders should continue to be allowed. Deliberately feeding meat to any wildlife, including raptors, should not be allowed. Teasing wildlife should never be allowed anywhere. Backyard composting should be allowed, despite raids by wildlife.

- Squirrels and birds
- Bird feeder
- birds--feeding wild bird seed
- none
- Feeding wildlife on private property should be allowed (assuming it is not poisoning the wildlife) however teasing wildlife on private property should be prohibited.
- Feeding on private property o.k.
- None, There are times when animals need help from humans. We have built on their lands
- Bird feeders
- We should not have any exceptions.
- Bird feeders, although needs to be education and/or restrictions potentially. Such as not in open yards, yards backing onto green spaces etc OR birdfeeders not accessible to other animals.
- fines
- Self-defence
- In case of injured animals in an attempt to rescue for health concerns
- Bird and squirrel feeders
- Bird feeders
- If an animal was found injured and in need of aid on private property.
- Exception to feeding would be wild birds and food used as a lure by businesses that trap and relocate wildlife
- Feeding birds
- None
- None. Ppl will begin to abuse animals on private property.
- Gardens not intended for animals
- none MYOB
- The feeding is fine However teasing should not be aloud
- If it's not your property teasing or feeding animals should be fined.
- Bird feeders
- Birds, ie bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bees, birds, etc.- when beneficial to species survival
- Teasing needs to be further defined. There should be a bylaw to prevent harrasment of wildlife on private property.
- Skunks must be controlled by the city.
- Birds
- Bird feeders
- birds would be considered wildlife and feeders often brings squirrels. Gardens also bring rabbits which might be considered feeding but unintentionally.

- I wouldn't agree with a fine, but better awareness strategies of why people shouldn't do this would be better. Parks Canada has done great work with their awareness campaigns "fed bear is a dead bear"...
- If the wildlife is in danger or is dangerous then humane capture and safe release that may involve bait should be allowed.
- skunks, rodents and magpies be exempt
- The feeding aspect is what concerns me, as much of the wildlife tends to eat flowers, shrubs. clover etc. I would be concerned that the next thing I know I would not be permitted to plant a garden. I fully support a bylaw that prohibits the teasing.
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- The animal is injured or in a situation where it can't survive on its own and needs human intervention
- wintering birds, bees and necessary pollinators
- Wildlife should never be teased or harmed. We do feed the birds however!
- None
- Baby animals found without a mother, or injured animals
- Trapping of feral creatures using food as a lure
- Simply notify it to wildlife
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders should be exempt.
- Bird feeders
- We should always be allowed to feed birds.
- Bird feeders and similar approaches.
- Feeding birds
- Bird feeders
- bird feeders acceptable
- If the animal is in distress or hungry, we should be allowed to help them.
- Suggest exception for bird feeders.
- Bird feeders are okay
- I don't think those are the same. Feeding birds some seed or a feral cat isn't the same as teasing an animal. I support feeding but not teasing. Large animals such as bears would be an exception to the feeding.
- Wildlife shouldnt be on my private property. If they are, I should be able to deal with/deter them as I see fit.
- Putting "feeding and/or teasing" in one question is misleading. Feeding often is done out of kindness or positivity, teasing implies negative treatment of animals. I support bylaws against negative treatment of animals no matter where they reside
- Feeding of birds (eg. hanging a bird feeder) should be acceptable.

- Bird feeders and bird baths permitted
- none, respect private property
- Bird feeders
- Bird Feeders should be allowed.
- In cases where an animal is sick or injured and unable to feed itself or forage for food, and is sheltering on a private property while recovering
- None. Drives me nuts when neighbors feed the squirrels.
- bird feeders except
- Skunks have to be controlled by the City.
- Birdfeeders
- Bird feeders - too hard to enforce.
- fines
- Animals that are deemed pets. birds or squirrels
- Birds
- None
- Birds
- Orphaned baby animals or injured animals might be fed only until wildlife officers can collect them.
- Birds and squirrels
- If it is an orphaned animal
- Unless the animal is sick or need help
- The provincial wildlife act already has this covered I would not use the word tease. Disturbed is better
- Bird feeders
- Feeding/playing with wildlife being kept as pets (rabbits, squirrels, etc)
- Adding to the body of legislation implies that said legislation will be able to be enforced - how will this be done without violating privacy and property rights? 'Teasing wildlife' is pretty vague, but don't current animal cruelty statues cover this?
- None
- Bird feeders
- A wild life rescue would be an exception
- If the feeding is done as a means of deterring the animal away
- None at this time.
- If an animal is in distress and in need of immediate food/water
- none
- Bird feeders are ok but should be limited to 2 per home because some neighbours do not want 100 birds pooping on their property.
- Bird feeders
- Educate the public on the types of wildlife
- Bird feeders

- None.
- Feeding injured animals
- bird feeders should be exempt, unless they are attracting predators such as bears
- Birds and squirrels
- Welfare standards to apply to all animals - including wild life we live along side
- Bird feeders
- If a squirrel is digging in my flower pots and killing my plants and making a mess I should have the right to chase him away or even spray him with a hose to deter his visits.
- Should be no reason for us to interfere with feeding. Only time should be done is where in attempt to relocated a animal.
- none
- If the animal is injured or hurt and you need to help them
- Bird feeders
- Owning "wildlife " on private property such as deer and elk.
- If the owner of the property supports it ie: bird feeders
- Feeding - allowed if you are talking about birds and squirrels. Teasing - never allowed
- Bird feeders should be allowed.
- None
- No exceptions
- Bird and Squirrel feeders should be allowed.
- I'm not sure what that would mean as I'm not aware of any issues (besides feeding birds).
- People generally love wildlife and likely one cannot stop people from feeding deer rabbits etc. Most people arent stupid enough to feed bear coyotes cougars etc.
- Feeding birds an approved seed / seed mix / suet should be allowed both on public and private property.
- Education of the effects of feeding wildlife
- Bird feeders, bat boxes, bee boxes
- Animals in Danger or needing assistance
- Bird feeders
- To help it
- Birds. When we have long winters they sometimes depend on the help from people's feeders.
- Feeding birds, having loose seed on the ground (from bird feeders)
- In case of injury
- I would suggest an exception on birdfeeders
- Humane trapping and remote release.
- No
- If an animal is hurt or in need of medical attention, you should be able to take it into their care and feed it until until relocated at a medical/rehabilitation center.
- That this is something up the discretion of the property holder that has a bylaw behind it.

- No exceptions
- Okay if property is secluded
- Birds
- Trying to shoo a wildlife off your property shouldnt be considered teasing
- away from other property
- none
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds
- Within city limits or how dangerous the animal being fed can potentially be
- Provide access to wildlife sanctuaries or companies who can remove pest woldlife
- fines
- Birds.
- If someone has ducks or chickens they should be able to feed them on their property pending it does violate any zoning issues or bylaws
- Bird feeders
- I would have an exception for the rabbits in Earltton as long as they were being fed things they would normally eat (i.e. not cookies, chips, bread, etc.).
- Birdfeeders
- N/A
- Many people have bird feeders and it has gone on for as long as I can remember. I don't think we need to stop it.
- Can feed birds or squirrels.
- The establishment of Bird Feeders as a means of feeding as well as feeding of small localized creatures should be exceptions to the bylaw. To be clear this would make feeding of small wildlife such as rabbits, birds and things of that sort.
- If the feeding is unintentional (animals finding food in garbage, etc)
- Birds, of course.
- A stray animal is trying to be rescued
- Injured animals
- Trap and removal from private property should be excluded
- Feeding orphaned animals
- Bird feeders
- Birds and bird feeders
- Generic feeding of birds
- Feeding birds?
- Feeding or otherwise trying to help injured wildlife on your own property should be ok. It's better than having injured animals run over to death like the police do in Lethbridge.
- No teasing should apply to all animals, but feeding wild birds and squirrels, obviously should NOT be prohibited! We should still be able to feed Birds and Squirrels on private property.

- Unintentional feeding of animals. If you feed your animal out side or you have livestock and an animal comes through and eats, considering that there is no nuisance wildlife in the area you would be aware of (city notification/ animal sign postings)
- None.
- Bird seed.
- Physically causing harm to any animal.
- Birds bird seed everyone has bird feeders. Wild animals should not be fed. Once they are dependent on humans and no longer have to hunt they become a nuisance to humans and end up being killed.
- Birds, squirrels
- My elderly neighbours live to feed the squirrels. While it drives me bonkers, because the squirrels hide their food in my flower garden, I wouldn't want to end this bit of joy for my neighbours.
- Bird feeders ok but NO cat food!
- DO NOT RESTRICT PIT BULLS THEY ARE FAMILY TOO
- If the animals best interest is being held
- No one should be allowed to tease animals and if they feed them they should be a part of a program that is to support wildlife that is in danger therefore helping them as a program, many people think feeding animals bread is a great idea, when it is not.
- None
- Standing fruit trees, open yards.
- Birds ,Squirrels
- This is already a law under the wildlife act! STOP WASTING MONEY!!!
- Homeowner calls for the cities help.
- All animals should be allowed to eat
- Rabbits / birds entering back yard themselves and feed naturally on grass or fruits and they are not touches or captured or touched.
- No exceptions
- Feeding of wild birds and squirrels should be allowed. Teasing of any animals should be prohibited.
- Bird Feeders
- Bird houses should still be allowed
- Unsure if this includes feeding peanuts, seeds to birds and chipmunks. I have no problem with this.
- Bird seed in bird feeders that are only accessible by birds (not deer, bears, raccoons, squirrels, chipmunks, etc.).
- Birds using Bird Feeders, or any other wildlife who may eat the seeds.
- None
- that we are allowed to feed birds, but not other animals ie., deer, coyotes, foxes, etc
- No exceptions.
- I think that bird feeders woudl have to be exempt however, it should include just throwing grains on the ground.

- Bird feeders, as long as they are cleaned appropriately
- Birdfeeders? Disuade people from setting up birdfeeders on public property, such as parks.
- None! Nobody should get to tease wildlife WTF
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- The exception would be if the resident or homeowner is simply chasing a nuisance animal off their property, or if they have a permit to capture.
- None
- Feeding on private property seems less problematic than teasing.
- None
- Bird feeders
- There are birds who depend on bird feeders why would we take that away?!
- If the animal was injured and unable to fend for itself
- Birds
- I think someone leaving feed out for deers is fine. Anything else no.
- Birds, squirrels and critters of similar nature
- No tolerance for 'baiting' wildlife.
- Bird feeders.....
- Bird feeders
- Private means private
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders
- None
- None
- None nuisance animals such as oriental birds
- Definitely agree to the teasing, but think there should be more specifics on feeding, such as no predators, but things like birds are okay.
- If the person contacts wildlife control and it is a baby animal, maybe it needs some nourishment, only if this can be done safely
- You shouldn't be able to control what people do on private property
- Anything done to specifically protect life or property.
- Feeding birds
- wild bird feeders should be an exception
- Don't want strangers harassing my dogs from outside the fence
- If baby animal was abandoned and you had to feed it before animal control arrived.
- Education of citizens so they know how to treat wild animals
- I think we have to consider what animals....what if you're feeding birds compared to deer or bears?
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt.

- None
- Back yard bird feeders are ok
- Absolutely no feeding wildlife on private property.
- N/A
- I think don't TEASE DOGS ON PRIVATE property is a law that should be passed. In my neighbourhood, there are kids who tease my dog thru my fence and
- Protecting property eg scaring off a bear
- bird feeders
- birds
- Exceptions for herbivores. Feeding coyotes seems obviously bad but a deer? Not so much
- Bird feeders
- Bird feeders, set in specific locations, to promote feeding birds and not other wildlife should be allowed
- The only exception MIGHT be if it is an endangered species; provide a clause that would allow a change to this by-law if urgent
- Only for people who don't live/own/work on the property
- Feeding birds birdseed should be an exception.
- registered pets
- Birdfeeders and the like should be made an exception
- none
- does this include bird feeders?
- None
- a situation of trying to feed an injured animal to be able to get close enough to them to get the animal and take them to a wildlife hospital.
- Stay out of my yard
- birds as long as appropriate supply is not causing skunk increase
- Hurt/abused animals
- No exceptions within city limits
- If the person in question has a license of some sort that allows them to feed wildlife, safely. Teasing or harassing wildlife should have a huge fine to discourage people from getting too close to wildlife.
- Birds (ie birdfeeders) and small animals like squirrels. Only apply it to big animals like deer, coyote, wolf, bear, etc.
- Two different issues requiring two answers. Many people feed birds. However, I would be against all other feeding of wild animals. I do not support harassment of wildlife. Owners should have means of scaring off Nuisance animals such as skunks, deer.
- No hunting nor teasing, but we should be allowed to feed rabbits, squirrels, and birds
- Rural property
- We have a bird feeder and I hope that we would be allowed to continue doing that.
- Allowing feeding wildlife that are hurt and not for eating purposes.

- Bird feeders
- bird feeders
- Helping a sick animal
- If an injured wild animal happens to be on private property i think owners at the instructions of appropriate personnel could do what was necessary until animal is removed if they felt safe doing so.
- Hanging a bird feeder on private property is much different than teasing wild life, please fix the question.
- I feed the wild rabbits carrots in my complex, many people do as well, I could stop if needed. We shouldn't be feeding wildlife at all.
- None
- Private property is private. Leave it as is.
- None. No exceptions for squirrels especially!!!
- small bird feeders
- If you are using food as a way to coax the animal off your property or if the animal is injured or abandoned and you are taking care of it until a city employee or the proper person arrives
- I guess bird feeders are okay and if wild life comes into their backyard as they have fruit or veggie bushes that is okay, but not the act of coarsing the animal onto your property.
- Using food as bait to trap feral rabbits
- Bird feeders
- I'm not opposed to bird feeders, bird baths but am definitely opposed to teasing any animal
- 1 educate new comers that animals have feelings and that letting their children throw rocks, at birds, squirrels, cats, dogs or any animal must be stopped.
- Bird feeders, feeding feral animals
- Fines
- Bird feeders, bird bath, define treasing
- none
- The city can leave out food for said wildlife.
- exempt birds from bylaw
- Bird feeders
- Feeding birds should be okay still.
- Possibly bird feeders. I don't know how heavily native birds currently rely on this food source.
- Bird feeders
- a hurt animal
- Bird feeders
- Squirrels, Birds (bird feeder, and the squirrels end up eating some too and maybe other wildlife eats the dropped seeds too)
- None: the squirrels in my area are crazy over populated
- Orphaned wild animals

- The teasing of all wildlife, that is cruel. However the feeding of birds and squirrels should be allowed as long as it's appropriate food in proper feeders, lots of people enjoy a bird feeder in their yard
- Birds
- Birds, squirrels and critters of the sort
- Animal is obviously emaciated
- None
- We often have coyotes and bob cats in the area. Making it unpleasant for them in the yard by making it unpleasant is a way to discourage them from staying. Things like banging pots could be considered teasing.
- Endangered species.
- Yes to larger animals but no to birds.
- bird feeders
- Bird feeders should be exempt
- The ability to feed birds from bird feeders should still be allowed.
- Birds, bird feeders
- abuse without a doubt protect animals ... but lost of things can be classified as feeding leaving apples on trees -- etc

Dogs

These are comments from participants who selected 'other' to the following question. 'A list of measures that other municipalities have taken to reduce the frequency and severity of dog bites is listed below. Which, if any, of these measures you would support in Calgary?'

- You should be ashamed of yourselves for targeting pitbulls like this and even suggesting all pitbulls would need to wear a muzzle in public. Absolutely disgusting. A muzzle does nothing but confuse a well behaved dog and create more tension. German shepherds and Rottweilers are not listed here. Stop feeding BSL against pitbulls, it's a toxic culture that does not understand the living nature of the breed that's been spoiled by bad owners and dog fighting..
- Any dog causing serious bites to citizens (level 4 or level 5 bites) , should be euthanized after end of Rabies hold. These aggressive dogs are very dangerous for our community.
- The owner is responsible for their pets. DO NOT specify breeds. Pitbulls only want to please their owners. Bad behavior is not breed specific. This would limit breeds. In the past we condemned Dobermans, Rottweilers, German Shepherds, Akidas. I have an Italian Mastiff Cane Corso and a German Shepherd/Healer cross. The Cane Corso is a big gentle baby. My cross is the guard dog but is also a sweetie. It is how they are raised and trained. d
- It's not the breed or the dog, it's the owner. The owner of a nuisance dog should be heavily fined and forced to take their dog(s) to obedience classes. Should the dog(s) remain with "nuisance" status after proper training, the dog(s) should be removed from the owner's care, with a stipulation that the owner would not be allowed to own a dog for a specified period of time (ie: 2 years)

- I believe that certain breeds who require lots of training (example pit bulls - undergo severe investigation before putting in a home) most cases there are issues with this breed or really any breed when a home owner either trains or doesn't take care of the pet/animal (I know many families with pitbulls and they are the nicest, more sincere dogs I have ever met) I have also met bad people who trained their dogs to act the way the dogs (drug dealers etc) make sure these breeds go to loving homes and they are loving dogs. They're same as humans.. kids grow up in good home then they will grow up to be respectful kids. Don't blame the breed
- Pit bulls aren't the problem. Bad owners are the problem. Connect the fines and disciplinary actions to the owner less the dog.
- Don't bully my breed. Breed Specific legislation is atrocious and racist.
- I really can't stand dogs of any kind on my property/grass...their excrements does nothing but wreck the grass...they can go sniff somewhere else...the owners need to be accountable for this and control their dog on a leash to remain off other's properties...clean up the dog's mess, I just don't want dogs on my grass...period!!
- Why are you limiting it to the breed. the owners. Educate people rather than punish the breed.
- None of these are acceptable, you can't just pick on one "breed"
- Fines for owners that don't train the dog be it big or small
- I STRONGLY believe pitbulls should be banned in Calgary and Alberta. How many little kids and adults need to get mauled severely or to their death before we decide this breed is unsafe for the average homeowner. I also believe more and more people are getting them, almost to prove they aren't dangerous. The public are not properly informed about this breed. Ban!!!
- There should NEVER BE ANY BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATIONS EVER!
- Again we shouldn't be penalizing breeds especially when little dogs are just as bad. No dog should be discriminated against for colour or size either. Dog training should be mandatory for dogs who have strong personalities, and stronger interviews should be conducted as well. Fines should be given to any owner who fails their dog, whether a dog bit happens or for poor living conditions or for reckless barking when the dog is usually in distress. We should not be penalizing a breed, and should be making i
- Do some research because pitbulls are not stronger then other similarly sized dogs. That is a myth. Breed specific legislation has been proven not to work.
- After a dog is considered a dangerous/nuisance. Mandatory training. If the problem is not resolved by training remove the dog from the home and restrict the owners from having another. Most bad dogs are made by bad owners.
- Mandatory training and licensing to own certain breeds. Owners must prove they can train the dog and the dog listens to them. Have had dogs my whole life and love them but certain breeds are a weapon, like a gun, they should need to be licensed and trained.
- Leave pit bull breeds alone and consider making training more available for such types of dogs.
- Children and adults are attacked far too frequently. There is truly zero deterrence and if an owner does run away, there's no real to identify them. I'm terrified for my child, there is an on leash park right next to a major playground that is used as an off leash park, why can't it be fenced in? Why can't all of our playgrounds be fenced in like in Europe? Get rid of pit bulls.

- I'm extremely disappointed in the breed specific language. No breed is better or worse. I've been bit by more shitzu's than any of your 'terrier types'
- Pitbulls aren't the problem. It's the owner.
- additional insurance for dogs that have bitten in the past (not specific to breed)
- Obedience training for owners of nuisance dogs
- Please remove the description of the dogs breed.
- There should not be breed specific legislation that targets Pitbulls. Although there is a potential for a stronger bite there is not increase risk. German shepherds and other like dogs are just as capable of causing such a bite. No breed should be punished because they look a certain way.
- Do not treat pit bulls differently than any other breed! ANY dog showing aggressive behaviour should have to undergo obedience training and be on leash.
- Ban pit bulls, period. There are 2 in my building in the beltline and there has already been one fight resulting in injuries to both dogs and one human. Nothing was ever done about it.
- Don't discriminate against a breed, breed does not define if a dog will be a nuisance. Training does.
- Fine people who complain constantly about no issues they claim to be issues
- "Pit bulls" should NOT be treated any differently than any other breed! All dogs have the ability to bite. A German Shepard or husky will do just as much damage in a bite incident.
- I do not agree with any of the above. This is alienating and discriminatory to a specific breed. any dog with a large jaw has the same bite force. Small dogs bite and attack more than large breeds due to improper training. If you discriminate human skin color you're labeled and penalized for it. How is this any different ?
- dont bully pitbulls
- Muzzling causes major issues with dogs. I am fully against breed specific rules. Also costing people more money to own a certain breed only causes hardship for that owner. Act based on behaviour not breed. If requiring training, ensure affordable option available.
- I personally have had more issues with breeds like chihuahuas, shitzus, labordoodles than i have "pit bulls". A dog deemed a "nuisance" should be based on incidents occurred, not breed. My selections above apply to any dog that is deemed a nuisance, not just "pit bull" breeds. Give all dogs a fair chance, just because they're one specific breed does not mean they are bad dogs.
- I would support banning a dog that bites from off leash parks, but it's strange to lump biting dogs with nuisance runaways and barking dogs
- Nuisance dogs are a product of their owner regardless of breed. Set a common standard and enforce it across the board no matter how big or small or menacing or pretty the breed
- Breed specific laws don't work. Any dog can cause harm relative to size only not breed.
- Leave the pit bulls around, it's the type of people who adopt them that you should really be watching, not the dogs.
- Proper breeding licenses for pit bull type dogs with a limit of how many times a female can be bred. Yearly recertification for the breeders

- Pit bulls must be banned all together. They are dangerous dogs and they have no place in the city.
- limit of animals for owners who are involved in nuisance cases/dangerous behaviour until proof of Obedience training for current pets
- Pit bulls do not have a higher bite force than the average German shepherd, Dutch shepherd, Rottweiler, or Doberman. This is a bullshit bylaw and should be dog dependant not breed dependant. Higher fines for poor ownership and training. Make it mandatory for owners and dogs to go through training programs (small breed dogs included as they tend to have worse and more unpredictable temperaments than big dog breeds do)
- The current bylaw has not failed Calgary. People and enforcement has. We don't have a breed problem and do not need to discriminate against pit bulls. We need better enforcement of the current bylaw.
- All breeds have the potential to harm. Bylaw should not use verbiage that singles out one "breed".
- Pitbulls should not be discriminated as German Shepard's and other dogs have stronger bites
- Training and assessment for owners of pitbulls
- if youre admitting pitbulls are not involved in more issues, there is literally no need for breed specific guidelines or bylaws.
- I believe singling out Pitbull breeds is simply racist or uneducated. the focus should be on owners and their responsibilities as a DOG owner.
- Proper training recommendations and if a dog is an issue take a look at the owner and do background research see if they are properly fit for the dog and if it rehome the dog where it can be trained and worked with then take your proper precautions. Dont take it to where it will be a problem and use a leash. Common sense.
- If dog is known to be aggressive then they should be muzzled. and always on leash.
- Requirement of training courses completed for large breed/bully breed dogs, owners of "fight dogs" require extra vetting to be able to purchase these dogs
- SHAME ON YOU City of Calgary! It is incredibly disappointing to see the suggestion of breed specific language being added to a bylaw that was once world-renowned for its success. Only breed-neutral, evidence-based legislation will have any chance to address dog-related problems in the community. You're not even asking for a postal code or any other measure to verify that you are actually a resident of Calgary in order to complete this survey. With the survey being accessible to anyone, what is stopping spammers and pro-BSL lobbyists from skewing the results? Responsible owners of large breed dogs deserve so much better than this type of non-sense!
- Aggression is not breed specific and German Shepard and Rottweilers have a stronger bite than a pit bull. This is outrageous
- Breed specific laws do not address the issues. It's the other end of the leash that too often requires the muzzle. Please don't go 20 years backward and introduce BSL.
- All dog breeds that are a nuisance, have noise complaints or have caused harm should be included in this. It isn't right to only have pitbulls on the list
- Pitbulls should not be singled out...this doesn't make any sense as a bylaw. It is the owners responsibility to train all dog types and breeds

- Calgary should not have any breed specific legislation
- I strongly do not agree with BSL laws. I am strongly offended with the language surrounding 'pit bulls' as there are MANY varieties of other dogs that are deemed more aggressive in nature. I feel like the city of Calgary needs to do their research surrounding dog bite/aggressive breeds. I was once proud to live here for the inclusion of dogs as we are a progressive dog community... or so I thought. Shame on you.
- Owner training not just dog training! A lot of issues in dog parks are the owners not dealing with known issues or not paying attention to their dogs. I don't like breed specific wording. Many people don't actually know dog breeds and it creates an unfair and untrue stigma against the type of dog.
- Pitbulls have not done anything. Any mis behaving dogs should
- Breed specific by laws are wrong
- Do NOT make breed specific breed specific bylawsylaws. Just donr
- How about the city of Calgary worry about the owners and not the dogs. I'd rather have a pit bull covered neighborhood with 5 per house hold then an arrogant person owning a dog and training them to fight. Don't blame any breed for issues when each dog is born caring and loving. It's the owner whom raises the animal. Same as people of their raised like [removed] their gonna be a [removed] person.
- Dogs should not be euthanized
- Any dog can be dangerous, it depends on the owner and how the dog is raised. Pitbull are the most sweetest dogs and don't deserve to me discriminated. Little god like chihuahua are more aggressive and bite more then pit bulls.
- Punish the owners for bad behaviour not the animal
- Please provide training for the owners and public about ALL dogs as lack of training for dogs is an outcome of a dogs behaviour.
- Higher fines for races that are statistically more likely to do certain crimes. Since we're profiling dogs we may as we'll profile people aswell!
- I do not agree with any BSL for our city.
- Pit bulls are not the problem. Poorly trained DOGS are. Stop targeting breeds and target poor ownership.
- Training should be obtained by any dog owner if the dog has no prior training. There should not be any discrimination based on the dog breed. Any responsible dog owner understands that individual dog require individual approach, as well as responsible dog ownership and appropriate training. This does not depend on a dog's breed. Any dog can be trained and cared for appropriately.
- It's not about the dog. It is about the owner. Yes training a dog that is high energy is good. but owners who take in dogs that are more likely to be aggressive should have to go through training so we KNOW these people can properly handle these animals. In the right hands these dogs are not vicious. What about small dogs that are aggressive? why don't they have to be muzzled or trained?
- I strongly disapprove of the emphasis on Pitbulls, even with the explanation provided. This question ceetes a strong bias and fear to those not familiar with dog breeds and cannot provide objectional data.

- There are no bad dogs, just bad owners. It's ridiculous that you are so obsessed with pit bulls, instead of trying to punish bad dog owners.
- Why are all these questions specific to the pit bull breed when others have the same opportunity to harm? I acknowledge the strong bite comment however the way this is written automatically creates a bias and insinuates they are the only dogs likely to behave in this manner. Also, is there's scientific evidence the bite is stronger than other dogs of similar size? If so can that be at least referenced here?
- None of the above - especially not in support of your "pitbull" designations, considering that it's stated above they don't bite any more than other dog breeds. This just serves to vilify and demonize an entire dog type.
- It shouldn't be breed specific, it is mainly how an animal is raised by their owner not the breed.
- Don't target pit bulls because they look scary. Target the owners that abuse their dogs and Don't take time to socialize and love Their animals
- Since there was no comment space allowed for this question, I am extremely disappointed for the City of Calgary to even consider Breed Specific Legislation. The city should be focusing more on responsible dog ownership (of all breeds) as opposed to BSL which has absolutely no evidence of decreasing the number or severity of dog bites.
- Who's the Karen who came up with this attack on pitbulls?
- Absolutely NO SUPPORT for breed specific legislation.
- German shepherds have a stronger bite force then a Pitbull. They are more aggressive then Pitbulls. I would like to see this changed, and Pitbulls removes from the list.
- Stop singling out pit bulls. This is complete [removed]
- this is [removed], every pitbull I've ever met has been a sweet dog. I know breeders. Get the police harnessed and leashed and fined for breaking human rights codes.
- How about training of the owners on proper responsibility of owning a pet and what they need to do. As well labeling one specific breed of animal as dangerous is no different than saying one specific group of individuals is dangerous. Each dog is different and should not be categorized as dangerous because a few incidents happen.
- Remove the breed discrimination. Any dog that bites should have to stay on the owners property for a bit. Not just pitbulls or "bull breeds".
- No higher fines or limitations based off a specific breed. Ridiculous assumption.
- Please don't discriminate towards these animals, I think this is the worst idea for a bylaw and I don't even own a dog of the breed listed.
- I DO NOT AGREE WITH BSL!!
- [removed] pitbulls are not bad breed. Ban all poodles and small dogs they are the real [removed].
- Every bite even from a small animal needs to be reported to an online source. All dogs of breed and stature should be put under restrictions. No breed specific ruling should exist.
- Breed specific laws are prejudice and do not reduce dog bites. Any breed of dog can bite and cause damage. APBT doesnt even have the strongest bite strength, making this uninformed bylaw would be shameful and ridiculous.

- Pit bulls should not be targeted. Many breeds of dogs are dangerous and to specify pit bulls is incorrect
- Breed of dog shouldn't make a difference for anything. All breeds should be treated equally. Many breeds of dogs not listed have much stronger bites than pitbulls. Many breeds are much more powerful in every aspect of their being, compared to pitbulls. City needs to re examine the science before making biased laws and rules
- Nothing leave pitbulls alone
- As someone who owns a staffy, she is not at all a nuisance breed. There is no such thing as a nuisance breed and a city supporting breed specific discrimination is disgusting. My dog is better behaved and less aggressive and less of a nuisance than a yappy chihuahua, shizhu etc. Give your head a shake Calgary. IF there is a nuisance dog or a dangerous dog, then by all means increase fines, make thorough training mandatory but it in no way involves specific breeds!!
- No breed specific bylaws
- Rottweilers are worse then pitbulls
- Please stop singling out pitbull and bully type breeds of dogs. Dogs behave based on owner's and it should not matter if it is a 5lb dog or 100lb dog causing the nuisance. "Stories of bullies' super-strong jaws might make great horror film fodder, but science doesn't support them. Research conducted by Dr. I. Lehr Brisbin at the University of Georgia shows that bully breeds don't show any mechanical or morphological differences in jaw structure when compared to other dogs -- nor do their jaws come equipped with locking capabilities. To explore the question of jaw strength, a 2005 National Geographic study measured force of bite for several creatures as pounds of bite pressure. On average, dogs exhibited about 320 pounds of pressure, while humans came in at 120 pounds and great white sharks at 600. The study also included a simulated bite sleeve test with a German shepherd, a Rottweiler and an American pit bull terrier. The pit bull actually registered the least amount pressure among the group, despite rumors that bully breeds can clamp down with an alarming 1600 pounds of force." Animal Planet.
- Nuisance dogs or pit bulls should just treat as other dogs, they are no different than other breed that harm people too.
- Pit bull dogs should NOT be singled out. There are no bad dog breeds, there are bad owners. Pit bulls are more likely to be euthanized because of the stigma around them. Innocent dogs and good dogs shouldn't be blamed for bad owners in the past. There are many different breeds of dogs that have a stronger bite and are more aggressive. Where are the scientific proven facts against these certain types of dogs. They shouldn't be singled out if they have responsible owners.
- Are you guys serious? Pit bulls? Chihuahuas are more aggressive than the average pitbull. Maybe you should be focusing more on tracking down the people that steal them from peoples yards and use them for fighting. This is despicable. Shame on you.
- Stop with the "pit bull" foolishness. The problem dogs often come from problem owners. Pit bulls are certainly not stronger or more difficult to control than any other dog equal or greater in size. You are falling for the Media hype, get your facts straight. Do an accurate and unbiased tally of complaints based on actual dog breeds and facts.

- Any breed discrimination is disgusting and I am ashamed to live in a city considering upholding these antiquated and uneducated standards. Any animal can bite and many breeds do the same amount of damage.
- Breed specific is archaic and not necessary. Also there should be a difference between nuisance dogs and potentially dangerous dogs. Aggressive would be a better term. You shouldn't lump a noise violation or roaming kind calm dog in as nuisance needing more insurance or muzzle. A high risk dog that is aggressive definitely should be. This should not be breed specific, Rottweiler, German shepherds etc are also dangerous.
- fewer off leash areas. Off leash areas should ALL be fenced. The city should put more signs up at playgrounds indicating that dogs are not allowed.
- This entire question cannot be answered due to the predetermination of a specific breed type being assumed as a problem.
- Pit bulls are STILL caring, amazing animals. It's the owners fault for training them badly, and it's also peoples fault for being nuisances to pit bulls! If a pit bull is attacked, don't allow any repercussions on the dog itself. If a dog owner is not capable of training a pit bull, they should not have any animals in general. If a dog bites someone, it is very much so the owners or the person who was bit faults. Leave the poor dogs alone. If any animal is trained wrongly or whatnot, take the dog and give it to someone who can properly retrain and help those dogs live their best lives. If a dog is taken away from an owner, DONT PUT IT DOWN. Thats not fair to the dogs, they don't know what is right or wrong if they aren't trained properly. Ensure the owners of said dogs are not allowed to have any sort of animal in their possession ever again. Leave pit bulls ALONE.
- All kinds improvements can and should be made, but please do not introduce any breed specific legislation. It is generally not based on good science, it has not been effective in other jurisdiction, and causes far more harm than it prevents.
- Pitbulls bite is not harder or stronger than dogs of similar size. The used definition of pitbull in this survey is also inaccurate. To require additional insurance based off of breed is ridiculous. That's the equivalent of saying everyone named Joe and Sam need to pay more for their cars because they're names Joe and Sam. All dogs should go through obedience training regardless of breed.
- ITS NOT THE DOG, ITS THE HUMAN
- Stop my [removed] neighbour from being an utter [removed] about my dog just because I wouldn't [removed] her.
- Create accountability for owners. Please cite your sources about bites! Your breed specific legislation is disgusting and I don't support this! Punish and hold terrible owners instead of assuming a breed is bad.
- If a dog is declared a nuisance because of barking, I do not agree to muzzle them. They are usually barking because they are under stress (being left alone (in the house or outside for too long), being teased, etc. Putting a muzzle on them is only going to stress them more
- Do not target or ban pit bulls or dogs that resemble pit bull like characteristics. As a dog groomer, the breed has nothing to do with how they behave. Their owners and training have the most impact.

- I would love for the city of Calgary to define what exactly a "pit bull" is? BSL leads to a whole other rabbit hole of issue - and it's unfair to discriminate against one specific breed when it should be all dogs under the same microscope period.
- Why is it the dog is being mad the issue? A 'bad' dog is mainly the result of an irresponsible owner. Taking any attack by any animal out of context minimizes the impact such an owner has on the conduct of the animal. Making training mandatory may be a step but this should also be subsidized so as not to exclude any one.
- Pitbull is not a breed, I'm actually very disappointed with this!
- Targeting Pitbulls is unnecessary and wrong. German Shepherdd and other breeds have stringer bite forces and aggression is NOT a breed specific trait.
- Nothing, I don't think being breed specific is fair. Consider most of the incidents at dog parks are started by untrained dogs and bad owners.
- It has been proven in other jurisdictions That breed specific legislation doesn't work, and shouldn't be supported. Nuisance is nuisance weather the dog is large or small. Only wording that treats all breeds equally should be supported.
- By leaving it open to "appearance" of a pitbull type dog, innocent dogs will be unfairly restricted. Muzzling a dog at an off leash park makes it insecure and a target for other dogs. If someone has a reactive or nuisance dog, they should not be off leash, but we SHOULD NOT make bully breeds or visible bully looking dogs the target of our own ignorance and un justified fear. I have been bit by so many chihuahua size dogs or collie types in my life, but never a pittie. Put more effort into regulating dog breeding, dog fighting, backyard breeders, animal cruelty, and neglectful homes. NO to targetting bullies and pitties. YES to ending cruelty and ending backyard, warehouse, imported mass breeding from facilities.
- A pit bull is no different than a German Shepard or a little Yorkie. Its about how you train your dog. I have only encountered 1 pittie mix that was horrible, but you can tell the owners do nothing with the poor thing. Calling out pitbulls is rude, its the owners that should be charged and dealt with ie, dog taken away after so many offenses. Again, I have had more issues with boxers, little yappy mutts and german Shepards than I have with a pit bull. Fine the owners not punish the dog over and over.
- All dogs must the treated equally. Nuisance dogs is very vague what does it include all. Barking is a irritant and classifying it as a nuisance is a issue. As excessive barking is a problem where as barking once in a while can be "classified" as a nuisance is unfair.
- I do not support breed specific bilaws
- who came up with the attached breeds to pitbull, who came up with pitbull being problematic, staffordshire bull terriers are classed as a nanny dog . Also here is the top hardest biters, you will find a few ahead of said bad pitbulls. Kangal – 743 PSI. Cane Corso – 700 PSI. Dogue de Bordeaux – 556 PSI. American Bulldog – 305 PSI. Doberman – 245 PSI. German Shepherd Dog – 238 PSI. American Pitbull – 235 PSI. There is actually no bad dog, just bad owners, introduce a class training for all owners
- No breed of dog is anymore capable of biting then another. Stop breed discrimination, and start targeting irresponsible owners instead.

- how about the owners need training instead of the poor animal. Not the dogs fault if the owner is Irresponsible. Kinda like how angry people have to take anger management
- This is insanely discriminatory. Pit bulls are neither the strongest nor most aggressive dogs. This is unreal.
- I don't support breed specific laws or language
- All dogs no matter the breed can be aggressive! I have personally been bitten chased or had more run ins with aggressive behaviours from smaller terrier breeds, Yorkeies chihuahua's ect... I have had nothing but good experiences with all bully breeds these dogs should not need to wear a muzzle in public as it causes a bigger stereotype which is unnecessary
- I don't think that labelling pitbull type dogs is necessary. Should be applicable to any types.
- You've already admitted that the bully breeds are not involved in more incidents than other breeds. Focus on the individual animals and their owners not the breed or appearance of the dog. This is a discriminatory proposal.
- Limit the number of dogs owned by someone with a prior nuisance dog. It isn't the dog's fault but the owners
- These are horrible suggestions I don't have a pit bull but frankly it's offensive
- No breed specific rules
- There should not be pit bull specific laws. I will not entertain questions about breed specific offences.
- Breed discrimination should not be tolerated here in Calgary and owners should all be held with the same responsibility regardless of the dogs breed.
- Higher fines for any dog involved in bylaw offences
- Owners are required to take city approved education on responsible pet ownership.
- While pit bull type dogs are capable of doing more damage than smaller dogs, there are still many larger dogs capable of similar harm. I strongly believe that targeting behaviours and irresponsible owners is a much more effective plan than targeting dogs that resemble a "pit bull" category.
- Obedience training required for ALL dogs.
- I am absolutely appalled that the City of Calgary is thinking of BSL! "Pitbulls" are the most nurturing breed out there. I moved from Ontario when they implemented BSL. We are better than that. I think any owner who has an aggressive dog, regardless of the breed should be required to take training. Notice I say owner. I firmly believe all pet owners should be educated on the animal and breed they own. I have a fear aggressive "Pitbull" mix. Why is she fear aggressive? Because humans are the worst breed. She was abused and used for breeding, then thrown out. That said I am a conscious owner who does not take her to dog parks, she is always on leash, I have a caution badge on her leash, and wear a yellow ribbon tied to her leash to clearly identify her and warn the public. She has a muzzle which I take with me in case we come to a crowd area, which I avoid for HER safety. What you really need is more education on how to approach dogs, and how bully breeds are not aggressive breeds. They also are not the only dogs who have a "strong" bite. German Shepherds are equivalent ... and are used by the police, brought to schools by police for education purposes, etc. Sorry as you can tell I have strong feeling on BSL. It's racism. Flat out. People fear things they do not understand, so rather than punish innocent animals, let's educate humans. Clearly the fact that this is being surveyed means education is clearly required. Fyi, if BSL laws go in place in Calgary, I will be moving again, and know I am not alone in this thought.

- Pitbulls should NOT be singled out. Bad owners should be singled out. The poorest owner behaviour I have experienced is in owners of small dogs, who do not monitor their dog's behaviour, socialize them properly, or engage in any training simply because they are small. I was bit by one at a dog park and the owner made excuses and laughed it off.
- Pro active follow up to ensure owners have access to proper containment, vetting and training for nuisance or potentially dangerous dogs
- Owners have to be somehow certified or deemed inept enough to own "nuisance" or pitbull breeds. as not all dogs are bad, some are due to owners, previous owners and abuse.
- The notion that a bull terrier bite is stronger than other breeds has long been debunked. <http://www.animalplanet.com/pets/3-bully-breeds-have-a-stronger-bite-than-any-other-dog/>
- No Breed Specific Legislation. Deal with the bad owners. Focus on problems in dog parks.
- Owner required to take training on how to handle the dog
- All dogs (any breed) and their caregivers should be required to pass basic obedience class. Public need to pass tests to drive a car, seems reasonable to also pass to care for a dog properly.
- huge fines for not cleaning up after dogs
- IT'S NOT THE DOG THAT IS THE PROBLEM, IT'S HOW THE OWNER TREATS THE DOG AND TRAINS THE DOG! IT'S NEVER THE DOG'S FAULT, ALWAYS THE OWNER WHO SHOULD BE PENALIZED NOT THE DOG
- This is stupidly specified towards pit bulls. There is NO evidence that supports your claim that "a pit bulls strength allows for a stronger bite". Absolutely FALSE.
- Treat all dogs as a case by case basis and not on their breed
- Small aggressive breeds (chihuahuas, Jack Russel terriers, shih Tzu, Maltese, etc) be considered on this survey instead of pitbulls as they actually have higher instances of bites, particularly in regards to children.
- Fines and additional insurance required for negligent owners. Or proof of having taken a basic handling/obedience course with dog upon seeking registration.
- You cant discriminate against ONE dog breed. There are all types of dogs that have "more strength" as you put it.
- It's not the pitbull it's the owner. The owner should be fined if they are not trained proper
- Making bylaws based upon the available facts. Pitbull are no more dangerous than any other breed if trained properly. This all bylaws should apply to all breeds and should not be breed specific
- Nuisance declaration how? By breed? No way. Like, NO WAY! A declaration based on investigated complaints with a way to appeal the decision... that makes sense.
- Any large dog has enough strength to inflict a serious bite. Completely unfair to tailor the by laws a target a certain breed or breeds!!!!
- HOW DARE YOU DISCRIMINATE AGAINST A BREED YOU DEEM A NUISANCE.

- Pit bulls aren't the issue, their owners are! My cousin owns 2 and they wouldn't hurt a fly, I know a pug more vicious than they are! Stop punishing a breed that can be sweet when loved, nurtured and trained properly
- My issue with this is that the City should be looking at WHO is the owner of the dog and WHO is the dog surrounded by. A fair amount of people that own dogs are NOT GREAT OWNERS. They do not properly take care of the animal and the animal acts in response. A dog is like a child they view from the environment they are surrounded by, it would be completely stupid and foolish to ignore this fact. If someone can't take care of an animal they should not be allowed to own an animal and should have a BAN on them to prevent them from buying more animals till they are committed. Dog owners neglecting and failing to provide basic necessities for a living creature should be BANNED and the dog should be taken immediately with hopes that a more deserving family/individual will take in the dog before it's too late of age. It's a responsibility so make the punishments and warnings big enough that people understand it isn't just for fun and games. PS targeting pitbulls in this is also not fair, most of the pitbull cases came with poor ownership. Stop bad ownership = less offences.
- None
- Is this a Joke? What about German Shepherds bite strengths? This is pathetic you guys should be ashamed to even suggest this.
- This portion of the bylaw is based off of a ridiculous pre-conceived notion that pit-bulls and cross breeds of them are inherently aggressive. From a quick Google reference there are multiple "aggressive breeds" of dogs. You can see multiple videos on social media of "vicious" dogs who have been mistreated or neglected by owners. Pit bulls should not be labelled as aggressive. It's the same as naming everyone in Forest Lawn poor or lower class. You can't label a breed of dog based on a poor ownership and poor training. I've been bitten by a Sheepdog in the past but I don't want to muzzle all dogs. My friend's German Shepherd got attacked just a few days ago by a Rottweiler cross. This doesn't make me want to muzzle all dogs that I've seen be aggressive. I would have hoped that the city officials I voted for were better than falling into the fear portrayed by the media.
- You only specified pit bulls because of their perceived bite strength when in fact German Shepherds bite is stronger. Do your research. That is here say. Breed MUST be excluded when looking at this.
- Do not make any by-laws breed specific. The strongest recorded bite in Alberta was a CPS K9 German Shepherd. Make obedience training/education part of licensing and mandatory if there are incidents of aggression or nuisance behavior.
- Nothing. All of those are terrible
- Increased investment into location services for reported dog bites where owners have not been identified
- If you can't discriminate people then you can't with dogs. Pitbulls are some of the sweetest dogs out there. Aggression in ANY breed falls back on the owner. With improper training. NOT THE DOG.
- This is bullying against pitbulls as a breed. It has everything to do with irresponsible owners. Not the dogs. They have better temperaments than small dogs. My dog is bitten regularly by little dogs at off-leash dog parks. Do they get size specific fines or legislation? No. Their bite still hurts and their owner's attitudes are sometimes worse than their dogs.

- pit bulls should be declassified as they are not more dangerous than other dogs. Obedience training should only be supported if it is 100% force free and fear free and doesn't include use of any aversives.
- There should be no breed specific language here. This information is not true, and there is no scientific proof that there is. please remove breed specific language. You are making the problem worse by using such language. We need to be breed neutral! I know of more "aggressive" dogs that were 8lbs than of your "pit bulls". Calgary use to be a world leader in animal control legislation in the early 2000s lets get back to that please.
- No change is needed as they are NOT a dangerous breed (pitbulls)
- Don't you dare pick on pit bulls. Our responsible pet ownership bylaw is JUST FINE. You are basically being racist to a BREED OF DOG. There are PLENTY of dogs with strength. This bylaw NEEDS TO STAY NEUTRAL in terms of breed. Sure. Strengthen the dogs deemed a nuisance. But leave "dog race" out of this. Unbelievable that the pit bull part is added in here. It's 2020 for crying out loud. Pull your heads out of the sky.
- All of these are complete jokes. If you don't want to get bit by a dog, don't bother them. Learn the warning signs they give (because they always give them) and don't attack pit bulls for being pit bulls. I am so disgusted in Calgary for even bringing this idea up. Do your own research about pit bulls before trying to spread fear and paranoia about a LOVING kind of dog that is known for being friendly. Shame on Calgary. I have lost respect for this city just by the idea. Do what is right and don't shame a dog just for existing.
- I think the fact that section 3 is targeting pit bull-type dogs is absolutely ridiculous. It is scientific fact that German Sheppards have a stronger bite than pit bulls, and yet pit bulls are singled out for the following reason "the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite." Really disappointed that the city would use our tax payer money to come up with such breed specific legislation tactics.
- Stricter requirements on the owners to support their ability to properly care and understand the dog rather than punishing the dog
- This is disgusting. Shame on the City of Calgary. Such a waste of taxpayer time and money.
- Leave pit pulls alone, they are great dogs. Y'all just mean.
- I don't think pit bulls should be singled out.
- Ban breeds doesn't solve the issue. The issue is bad owners there is proof it hasn't worked in other areas why even consider breed specific here. How about fines for people walking dogs off leash in off leash areas. The amount of times I've stopped a dog fight or broken up one in my neighborhood of various breeds is crazy all because a dog is offleash in area it shouldn't be.
- I think it's unfair to focus specifically on pitbulls your investigation should be based on data and not urban lore
- Higher fines for any pet owner with a dog off leash.
- Pit bulls are muscular dogs yes, but Rottweilers actually have a stronger bite than a pit bull. To categorise or single out a dog based on breed or because the way a dog looks is ridiculous. All dogs can be dangerous. There needs to be education programs for owners so they understand the breed

they have and can give the animal the proper training and socialisation it needs. Most bites associated with pit bulls are incorrectly labeled that way. Most people can't even pick a pit bull out of a line up of dogs that look similar. Instead of focusing so much on controlling specific breeds the focus should be spent more on education on those breeds. You want to muzzle something, muzzle a chihuahua.

- I find the focus on "pitbulls" and other pitbull like dogs, despite all of the overwhelming expert and scientific evidence to the contrary to be extremely regressive, unscientific and, frankly, to be incredibly offensive. I've personally seen too many cases of dogs of non-"pitbull type" breeds chasing, biting/attacking, or otherwise causing injury/distress to humans or other animals go unenforced by bylaw. It would be better for public safety if the City would focus on enforcing their own bylaws consistently and truly objectively, rather than (as would be the case in many of the above suggestions) unfairly punish and target responsible pet owners and well behaved dogs strictly based on appearance, in order to satisfy an uneducated but loud minority.
- I wouldn't bring specific species into play. Leave it alone
- I am so disappointed that the City of Calgary is singling out bully breeds in this survey. I have been so proud of our current bylaws that target responsible pet ownership and not singling out certain breeds. A bullies bite is no stronger than other large breeds. You might want to do better research. Irresponsible owners should be fined based on the dogs behavior versus breed. I hope that common sense is used in the developing of our bylaw changes and that certain breeds are not singled out. Fines and consequences need to be in place for vicious dogs based on their actions not based on breed. DO NOT create Breed Specific bylaws.
- Identifying these dogs as nuisance is irresistible, Husky and Poodles bite far more people annually. These laws are punishing the dog, not the owners.
- If there are no increases in pit bull incidents why is it even being mentioned? Time to break the stigma!
- I'm not sure I understand the term "nuisance dogs". What dictates a "nuisance dog"?
- Please don't single out pit bulls. Any large dog can have a strong bite.
- I am strongly against breed specific rules.
- Send owners for training. Dogs are not the problem, their owners behaviours are. Remove the dogs from the owner but provide them with positive reinforcement training. Ban the owners from having other dogs.
- Pit Bulls are not the problem- it's the owners. And that applies to EVERY & ANY breed
- I can see limiting pets to an extent- like no more than 10 adult dogs in a household to prevent extreme cases but I do NOT support someone specifying that a person can only have one pitbull. To me, that is unforgivable. Then people should be told they can only have one child in a household. That is how ridiculous this is. I am EXTREMELY against breed specific legislation. It is not based on facts. It should be specified to certain behaviours presented by ANY dog no matter what the breed. I want the word pitbull taken out of this completely. It is not backed by research and is supporting stereotypes and stigmatization of the breed. Which is ethically and morally wrong. I would suggest education being provided to the citizens of Calgary regarding dog behaviour and a statement being released that this was an inappropriate suggestion.

- There are many dangerous dog breeds, and singling out pitbulls doesn't help the bad rap they already have.
- dogs declared a nuisance for biting a person the owners should be required to enroll their dog in obedience training and the owners should attend educational training. Dog behavior is ALWAYS the responsibility of the owner not the dog.
- Make proper training of dogs mandatory for ALL dogs regardless of size. Stop breed specific discrimination. Ban/fine use of extended leashes they are dangerous. Leashes should not be allowed to be more than 6ft long. Any person more than 6ft from their dog does not have control over their dog.
- Nothing
- this should apply to all breeds, not just pit bull type dogs. Just because their bite is documented to be more harmful does not mean that the particular dog is looking for someone/something to bite. I work in the veterinary industry and do place judgements on certain breeds because certainly those stereotypes exist, but it does not mean a chihuahua or dacschund gets to go around biting and being a "nuisance" yet a larger breed dog gets punished for a minor offence. Education is the best prevention. Educating current and future pet owners is our best defence in the prevention of these cases. In addition, responsible dog owners do not want to have their pet get into any altercation with another dog or human and naturally would not put themselves at risk. I walk my dog on a leash (non-retractable) at all times, and do not go to dog parks.
- Not the breed!! The owners!!
- *There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Positive (not old fashioned Caesar Milan style) training for nuisance dogs and owners should be required.
- Shame on you calgary Super disappointed in breed specific Language. I have 2 pitbulls and they are better behaved and better trained than most dogs at the dog park or in public.
- If dogs and their owners are required to obtain obedience training because they have been deemed a nuisance (based on aggressive behaviour, not barking/at large), there should be some financial aid in this. I'm not saying it should be free, but there should be some help. I think that would set more people up for success.
- Not all Pitbulls or pitbull mix dogs are bad. You can't stereotype a dog. I say if the dog has a history that's one thing, but my pitbull mix is the most kind and gentle soul and I would never ever muzzle him in public. They shouldn't be restricted on where they can go in the city or anything like that. It's in a way cruel to muzzle a well behaved dog because of its appearance.
- Leave put bulls out of it. Treat case by case owner by owner . This is just disappointing.
- please DO NOT support any kind of BSL (Breed specific legislation)!!! Putbulls are NOT the problem, even if they are potentially considered larger and stronger than other dogs. The onus for care and protection from incidents lies with the OWNER not the BREED.

- The fact that this antiquated idea of 'pit bulls' being more more dangerous bis even being raised here is so frustrating. I do not know why government, at all levels, is so against research! Talk to people who know the facts and propose bylaws based on that. This BSL even being mentioned is an embarrassment to the city of Calgary.
- This is an absolutely ridiculous claim
- pitbulls are NOT the problem
- Ban of pitbulls in the city
- 2 strike rule for vicious dogs biting needing to be apprehended and or euthanized at a cost to the owner.
- None! Any dog could bite! Why are you targeting pit bulls?! More needs to be done when someone trespasses and startles a dog. Pit bulls are loving dogs. It's not the dogs it's the owners that are the problem and the lack of training people give their dogs.
- NO BREED DISCRIMINATION LAWS! They don't do anything but punish good dog because they have [removed] owners.
- Hold small dog owners accountable
- There should be evidence provided by both parties to varify claims. Eliminate here-say. I was once a victim of a nuisance human calling bylaw on my dog out of spite. I was ticketed because this person lied.
- Increase education for dog owners, regulate dog trainers in this city so that people who train with methods proven to have aggressive side effects can not operate. Many issues would be resolved if people had to apply for a licence to own a dog that involves mandatory education on non-confrontational training methods. Shock collars, prong collars and choke chains are the reason behind many causes of aggression towards people - there should be fines for people who use these "tools" on dogs because it is a public safety issue to create a ticking time bomb in a dog who's being shocked or choked into compliance.
- I do not support breed specific legislation. Its the humans that are the problem not the dog!!!
- I find this highly tone deaf to be singling out Pit Bulls
- Anything that hold the owner accountable for not properly training their dog, its the owners fault the dog is not properly trained not the dogs
- Mandatory Training for dog owners who cannot control their pet. This is usually the reason the dog becomes a nuisance.
- How can you define this? I've met more nuisance Chihuahua's in my life and large breed. And breed has nothing to do with whether a dog is prone to be a nuisance or not. Additionally PITBULLS ARE DOGS - no different strength or severity of bite than any other dogs. GET SOME EDUCATION!!!!
- Owner's have the ability to surrender a dog, at no cost, if they are declared as exhibiting dangerous behavior
- Breed specific legislation or rules are equivalent to the racial profiling people! A specific race is more statistically likely to be charged with a specific crime, so would we start putting laws and rules in place to punish all members of that race?! The thought of doing so should be abhorrent in our society, yet the city of calgary is considering applying this same logic to dog breeds? [removed] Calgary?! Focus on the human owners not the breed. Think, don't react.

- Please do not enact BSL. It's rooted in racism and classism, and will not solve any real problems. Rotties, dobermans, german shepherds: we demonize one breed after the other instead of providing affordable education on dog training. When you ban a breed you punish innocent dogs and pet owners, and marginalized communities just move on to a new favourite breed.
- As a pit bull owner, I think it is unfair to single this breed out. If there is an issue with a certain pit bull it should be on the owner. We have spent many hours learning our dogs behaviour and can anticipate his reactions. We (owners) have both had infectious bites from smaller dogs who's owners take them to dog parks and don't pay attention to what they are doing. However because they are small dogs the owners feel like there is no issue. Perhaps having dog parks with fenced areas for large dogs would be helpful instead of only allowing small breeds. It's the small dog owners who are careless. Yes Pitbulls have strong bites but they are also very communicative dogs who respond to other dog cues. If there were bylaws that addressed the "Pitbull" breeds only that is completely unfair. "Bad" dogs are the result of bad owners, how about a bylaw that holds owners responsible.
- Pit bulls are not dangerous dogs, this law would be terrible! Dogs that bite should be treated equally no matter the breed!
- Pit bulls cannot be off-leash on the public streets
- Stop specifying pitbulls as if they are a separate problem
- Confiscate vicious dogs and put in shelters
- Laning a type of dog isnt going to solve any issues...punish bad owners not bad dogs. I am a dog professional and I have been bitten by more shih tzu and chihuahuas than anything....bad owners need to be responsible.
- Ensure and highly fine the small dogs that chase and bite where the owners take no responsibility, and city won't enforce fines
- Eliminate differentiation based on breed.
- Owners who do not train or are able to handle their dog should be restricted from owning another dog for a period of time.
- Pitbulls rank #3 for strength of bite. In no way should anything regarding a pitbull be passed. A golden retriever attacks more then a pitbull as well.
- This has absolutely nothing to do with "pit bulls" and everything to do with the owner. I have 2 Cane Corsos and a Boerboel, and they have never bitten a person or another dog. They have however been bitten by Golden Retrievers, black labs, Shitzus, chihuahuas, etc. Not once have they ever bitten back. You should maybe look a little harder at the percentage of dog bites by breed and rethink your questions.
- leave the pitbulls around. Stop excluding and singleing out breeds.
- Obedience training for all dogs. Dog discrimination is not the way to go, have everyone do it just like public education, a driving license, hunting license and so on.
- Put bulls are NOT the problem. If you have mandatory licensing to own a pet, you should have mandatory training to own one as well.

- All of the above is beyond ridiculous. We are not Toronto. I don't really care for pit bulls but the blatant hate for the breed or similar breeds is shameful
- Pit bulls should not be singled out. You state that it's because of the potential strength behind their bite, yet there are many other dogs with higher bite force that aren't included. I believe singling out pit bulls is ridiculous.
- No breed specific bylaws rather bylaws geared towards poor pet behaviours that are perpetuated or not rectified due to poor pet ownership.
- I don't agree with breed specific bylaws. We should be aiming for bylaws to target poor ownership and potentially make it mandatory for dogs to take meaningful obedience training regardless of breed.
- Replace the word nuisance with dangerous. Have vicious dogs or dogs with bad history's declared dangerous no matter the breed. Nuisance can be the tiny yappy toy poodle which really isn't all that dangerous. Obedience training for dog owners with dangerous dogs.
- Please don't discriminate by breed. There are some amazing bully breed owners and some real jerks who own other breeds.
- None of the above those sound stupid
- This is a (removed)t question. The breed isn't the problem, the [removed] owners of out of control dogs are.
- As a veterinarian, pit bull type dogs are not the issue. I have had more aggressive, ready to bite my face (and hold on) chihuahuas than PBT dogs. Strength should not matter. Training from a young age is key for ANY dog, the same goes for PBTs, so legislation should be towards aggressive dogs in general, not specific breeds.
- Stop discriminating specific breed, instead focus on general dogs behavior. Chihuahuas and miniature pinchers bite more often. Make bylaws that stop PEOPLE from abusing and cruel behaviors towards dogs and make sure those work.
- Pitbulls having a stronger bite is a myth, in fact it has been proven that a German shepherd has a stronger bite than a pitbull. Making any breed discriminating law goes against basic science. Forcing a dog to stay home who has been labelled a "nuisance" due to noise and other minor offences will only make the situation worse, as you have just removed their outlet for their energy (going on walks, parks, etc) The best thing the city can do is education on positive reinforcement training and counter conditioning, and banning force based training techniques that are scientifically proven to cause more harm.
- Obedience training for ALL breeds, not just pit bulls
- " pitbull" breeds should not be singled out! ALL nuisances dogs should be in same category regardless of breed. Owners responsible for their dog and the training. Bad dogs = bad owners
- To ensure that there are enough staff to enforce the rules
- No breed specific legislation ever! Anyone who is pushing it is an idiot that does not understand animals at all and if an animal is an issue it is the fault of the owner not the animal. Many people are too stupid to teach a dog not to bark and that is the easiest thing to teach any breed of dog! So if a dog barks at everything it is also likely trained nothing!

- [Removed] with any breed specific bylaws. THEY DO NOT WORK.
- Do not agree with any of these measures based on breed alone!
- All dogs that have attacked another dog or has bitten someone should be included in the Pit bull category - sounds discriminatory towards pit bulls. Also, obedience training should be required for all dogs in a dog park but too difficult to enforce.
- Required training for the owner of the dog. Dogs, regardless of breed are not bred to be a nuisance.... Dogs who exhibit this behavior do so by lack of training and/or discipline by the owner. There are no bad dogs, only bad owners.
- We/bylaw should never judge a dog based on it's appearance/breed.
- Stop profiling this breed
- I do not believe we should discriminate based on breed.
- This is frankly ludicrous. You acknowledge that pit bulls bite no more frequently than other breeds. In fact, research shows it is significantly less frequent than breeds like labs and retrievers. These are all extremely loaded questions. You're stirring up fear in the ignorant masses, invalidating the very reason for this survey. As a pit bull owner, I can tell you there are fabulous dogs. Kind, gentle, and loyal. Please do your research before stirring this kind of shit up. Bites and nuisance cases should be judged case by case, not by profiling the breed.
- Dogs with a history of aggressive behaviour must undergo training w out h an experienced behaviour modification trainer or behaviourist
- Regulate dog trainers and behaviourists so all trainers need credentials. Pit bulls are not a dangerous breed, all depends on the OWNERS.
- Provide subsidized training. I'm shocked Pit Bulls are being targeted in Calgary, this is a gross assumption of a breed that has a bad rap because of poor owners. The same could happen for ANY breed (husky's, for example). Do better.
- German Shepard's and Rottweilers have stronger bites than a pit bulls and have the potential to do just as much damage as any other. Breed specific legislation is not necessary or effective
- Pit bulls as a breed are not the issue. This ban or order does not work in other cities or provinces and is being reversed. Small breeds, shepherds, retrievers and chows are the highest seen dog fight/bite dogs in Canada not pit bulls. I would not support any bylaws that are breed specific and would sell my home and leave Calgary if the city implemented it as it does not work and punishes those who are good dog owners.
- Remove all pit bull wording in this section; it is not appropriate to have it here. Other breeds like German Shepards and Rottweilers have very similar bite strengths yet these breeds aren't included in this section.
- Dogs that are a nuisance should not be allowed at off leash parks AT ALL
- Please adjust this line of questioning to NOT BE AGAINST PITBULLS OR THE OTHER BULL BREEDS YOU HAVE SPECIFIED. Especially the Staffordshire Bull Terrier who you have ZERO data on about bites!! You need to have this ONLY be about ALL DOGS, because ALL DOGS can be a nuisance and ALL DOGS have the propensity to bite! It's been scientifically proven that a pitbulls bite is NOT the most powerful bite— yet you are only singling PITBULLS out. Mastiffs, Huskies,

German Shepard's, Cane Corsos, Doberman Pinscher's and Rottweilers ALL have a more powerful bite and are dangers to other dogs. STOP INSTILLING FEAR IN OTHERS ABOUT BULL BREEDS! You're moments away from a breed ban, and it's disgusting to single one breed out when others have been documented as being far more aggressive. Please reword this survey to include ALL DOGS! Stop singling out Bull Breeds! And Stop including Staffordshire Bull Terriers in the mix with PITBULLS. As a responsible owner of a Staffordshire Bull Terrier— who has NEVER bitten anything or caused a "nuisance" to others, it makes me angry that you include staffys in with what you depict vicious dogs to be... if you have ever seen one or been around one for 2 seconds you would never lump them in together. Period. Do your research and stop fear mongering. We are not Ontario. Breed fear and breed bans are in humane, they ruin families and they cause unnecessary trauma. I will NOT take part in a survey that promotes breed fear without cause, and will stand with others against you who feel the same.

- There are no bad dog breeds, only bad owners. Singling out "bully breeds" is unfair, and leads to animal abuse in the long term.
- This shouldn't be breed specific. Any nuisance dog should be dealt with the same way.
- BSL is absolute garbage! Shame on you for thinking penalizing a whole breed. We do not tolerate bigotry or racism in this city why do you believe it is appropriate to extend these values to canine companions and four legged family members. Next you'll ask for extra insurance for dogs larger than 50lbs or any male dogs. This is absolute garbage and narrow minded.
- The term "pitbull" or any such breed listed above should not be singled out. It is a proven fact that other dogs including German Sheppard's, Doberman breeds, and Chow Chow breeds have the same biting force as "pit bulls". Putting this type of negative impact of bully breed owners will create an overall negative view on how Calgary is seen. It shows poor judgement and creates a fear based mentality.
- It should be noted that it is not usually a specific breed of dog that becomes a nuisance or harmful but the way in which they were trained. More training for OWNERS and their pets should be regulated and more easily accessible.
- I absolutely do not support pit bulls being singled out and denied access to off leash dog parks. In my experience, aggressive dogs come in all shapes and sizes. I work in several Calgary Emergency Departments, and I have seen more dog bites from German Shepards, Labrador Retrievers and small breed dogs. Denying access to owners of pit bulls and pit bull type breeds is atrocious. Obedience classes should be mandatory for all dogs not just the breeds you deem necessary.
- the real issue here is not the DOG. It has never been the dog. You should be focusing more on the ownership and owner of the dog. Often dogs who are a nuisance is because they're just not being properly watched and trained by their OWNER! As a city we should focus less on the typing of 'problem' dogs and more on the owners responsibility to that dog.
- breed specific language is [removed] its not the breed its the owners
- It is very disappointing that the city of Calgary would target a specific breed this way. "Pitbulls" are no more or less likely to engage in nuisance behaviors than any other dog. It is NOT the breed's fault. It is the owners lack of care that leads to an aggressive dog, not the dog breed itself. You should be ashamed of yourselves even bringing this to the table. No dog is born aggressive and aggression is not based on breed. Using the excuse of their strength is unfair and I've encountered more aggressive dogs in my time that aren't "pitbulls" than ones that do fall under this category. Please do some serious research and watch some Cesar Milan before taking this further.

- I think the bylaws we have currently are enough. Penalizing dogs for being of a certain breed or owners for having a certain breed is ridiculous and is equivalent to racism..
- Obedience course and dog ownership license program
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Punish the owners not the dogs, its not the dogs fault it is the owners.
- STOP BREED BULLY THATS DISGUSTING BEHAVIOUR BY CITY OFFICIALS
- Do not single out pitbulls
- Breed specific is irrelevant. Only 1 nuisance dog per house hold
- Breed specific laws don't do anything. Owners should be given resources for training and education in regards to behaviour of ALL dogs.
- Pitbulls are a social media darling for targeting. Pit bull is not a specific breed nor any under this category are more prone to hurting people than other breeds. It is fully on a dog owner if their dog exhibits ongoing dangerous behaviours and is not the fault of breed.
- None, I cannot believe in this day and age that BSL is even on the table:(I also think that the owners should attend classes on to how to look after their dog if there is any incidents.
- Stop with the Breed Specific agenda and propose a bylaw for every breed of canine!
- Cane Corso should be included in this list. Also any pet considered a nuisance should have to wear a tag to let other pet owners know that the other pet is a potential danger.
- All dogs regardless of breed should do obedience training!
- No changes
- I feel we need to look more at small aggressive dogs - my dog is regularly lunged at by shitzus, cockpits, daschunds, and chihuahuas. The sweetest dogs we meet are those listed above.
- All dogs biting or not trained should have the same rules. At off leashes it's been German Shepard's attacking or bullying my dog, min pin biting my kid and a shitzu, recently a chocolate lab at large attacked my dog on leash over and over and I couldnt stop the attack. Those dogs and mainly those owners should be held accountable. No breed specific. That's lack of education thinking its breed specific
- Obedience training for ALL dogs
- Owners with a criminal history cannot own pitbulls
- Stop worrying about pitbulls and do something about the chihuahuas! I've been bitten/ attacked more by small dogs than any "pitbull" or nuisance dogs. There are no bad dogs, only bad owners, why must you perpetuate this stereotype of pitbulls being bad dogs??
- Regulations on dog trainers to reduce occurrence of behaviour suppressing techniques (eg. Punishment)
- Higher fines & more enforcement for people not stopping their dogs from fighting at off leash parks.

- The information about pitbul bites is a myth . No extra legislation around them is necessary . Its not supported by science and is a biased sterotype. Chihuahas ans other small dogs are more aggressive.
- Pit bulls should not be discriminated against. There are many breeds that have potential for a more severe injury or bite. The stereotype around pit bulls does more harm than good, empowering other dog breed owners to neglect training and feel superior.
- It is a step backwards to introduce bylaws targeting specific breeds or breed look-alikes. Each animal is an independently thinking and behaving animal and biased treatment should not be considered to breeds as a whole, rather on a case by case basis with specific dogs.
- It is not the dogs fault, none of these should be put in place. It is the owner who is responsible, dogs get punished for terrible owners. Ban the owners from having a dog that is not trained.
- No bans should be put on a breed it is the owner's responsibility to train the dog. Put a ban on people who have priors of animal negligence and abuse not the breed of the dog
- It is incredibly inappropriate to classify pitbulls as an issue. They are innocent animals. I work in veterinary medicine, and it has been proven that they are not stronger biters. Do some research.
- I have seen more bites from other dogs mostly small than I have ever seen from a big dog pit bulls are not the problem any dog can bite its [remove] owners and lack of training services for all breeds
- Notice that I answered yes to nuisance dogs and no to all pit bull specific
- I've been bit by a lot of dogs and none have been pitbulls
- I'm frustrated to read that Pitbulls are the dogs of question. Even tho they may have stronger bite strength, it's not more than mastiffs, Rottweilers or even German Shepard's . You're pinning these dogs with more severe punishments than other breeds and that's ridiculous.
- Stop picking on certain dog breeds, if pit bulls are not the main cause of bites then why are you picking on them? This is a silly trend that needs to stop. Plus these other breeds listed are not pit bulls. Please treat every case individually as it should be. You need to look at how the owner responds to what is going on to determine further actions th me to be taken against any individual dog. Plus how would you regulate all the mixed breeds? Just because you say it looks like a bit bull doesn't mean it is! It's a very silly idea and would cause a lot of anxiety to responsible pet owners. Please do not implement such a dog breed specific law.
- This attack on pitbulls is garbage. Fine the crap out of the owner for misbehavior, don't penalize the dog or good pitbull owners. Stay away from fear and cancel culture.
- Stop discriminating against pit bulls. It's pathetic and not fair to generalize by looks or assumptions.
- pitbulls are not the problem! They're the least probability to bite with the right owner . Pit bulls are the most caring dogs I have owned or come into contact with .. the real problem is [remove] owners on untrained dogs . The fact that pit bulls are singled out in this is disgusting
- Could reward owners that pay for obedience training for nuisance dogs / pit bulls. le - reduce city registration fees by $5 when you submit proof of obedience training completion.
- Its 2020, why are we making laws about dog breeds? It's the owners. As a dog owner, ALL dog owners need to be healed accountable REGARDLESS of breed. And for god sake, get stricter on your "off leash" by law on residential streets, because it's out of control out here.

- None of the above. You are unfairly targeting pit bulls
- No breed specific legislation. This is racism. They are not more dangerous than any other type of dog.
- Obedience training required for all dogs if you're willing to include specific breeds. There are no nuisance dogs, just nuisance owners. Don't punish the breed.
- Let's hold rescues accountable, rarely will a well bred dog ever cause a nuisance as mentioned above as their owners have dedicated their life to include them in their family's. Rescues although don't always ensure that. There is no temperament testing done on the pups they put up for sale or "adoption" as they like to call it. They create situations for puppy's to be put in family's that cannot handle the unpredictable temperament of a mutt. They post about their dogs saying their "pitbull" mix for adoption and people apply to adopt these dogs thinking that they can handle a pitbull. It's very likely that they can handle a pitbull, the problem is they can't handle a pitbull mix cause they can't prepare for the possible temperament of the dog as the true breed is unknown. So let's ensure rescues do as much as reputable breeders do in insuring they dogs are places with appropriate family's.
- THIS IS A COMPLETE VIOLATION OF MY RIGHTS TO OWN BULL BREEDS WITH NO BACKLASH FROM IFIOTS LIKE THE PERSON OR PEOPLE WHO HAVE DECIDED THAT THIS NEW LAW FOR OUR DOGS IS GOING FO BE ENFORCED. ILL FIGHT THIS ALL THE SAY TO COURT
- Only one nuisance dog per household
- DOg this dog that. Its never the dogs fault, its the irresponsible dog owners. Stop putting the blame on pit bulls, that's [removed]. Fine the people, they are the problem.
- No BSL - I believe these rules should apply to dog breeds. It's not dependent on the dog but rather the owners diligence!
- I think the bias towards the "bully" breeds is reprehensible, I deal with several dogs a day during work, and I have for many years. Breed specific legislation does not work.
- I am disappointed that you have included misinformation in this survey. It has been proven over and over again that pit bulls type dogs do not bite any harder than similar sized dogs. I own a large breed dog and he could bite just as hard or harder than a pit bull just due to his size.
- Temporary or Permanent bans on ownership for problem owners (multiple offences or more than one dog). Pit bulls aren't the problem, it's the newbie owners thinking they know how to handle a stubborn breed or careless, negligent and egotistical owners that cause problems. Would also like to see more enforcement on small dogs with aggression issues.
- Offer a discount for training at the humane society. Ensure these people get proper training for their dogs
- Pit bulls and similar breeds are being singled out. Smaller dogs like Jack Russells and Chihuahuas have a significantly higher bite ratio. My large breed dog (not a pit bull breed or terrier breed) has been bitten and attacked over a dozen times by these smaller breeds but because of my dog's size, it was never taken seriously. The same small dogs that attacked my own dogs, attacked BOTH of my kids. The problem is not the big dogs, the problem is the dog owners of the smaller breeds that do NOT train their dogs appropriately.

- Fine people who antagonize other people's dog such as approaching and trying to pet dogs without permission. Dogs should not get into trouble when humans cause problems for them such as a human touching an unfamiliar reactive dog and thus leading the dog to nip/bite out of self defense.
- DO NOT STEREOTYPE PIT-BULLS. There should not be any specific rules or bylaws for pit-bulls, only for people who are not responsible dog owners.
- Case by case basis, if a dog is bad over and over again, then it wears a muzzle. You cannot lump a breed all together.
- DO NOT FOCUS ON PIT BULLS SO MUCH
- Mandatory training for both dog and owner of ANY breed of a declared nuisance dog.
- Look at ALL dog breeds not just bully breeds, please do more research instead of feeding off fears of a breed brought on by misinformation
- None as pitbulls shouldn't even be a issue or brought into this conversation. A non breed specific law should be in place or remain in place pitbulls is not even a breed. And they don't cause a threat. Chihuahuas attack more. Labs attack more Dalmatians attack more Jack Russells attack more. Stop creating fear. And spreading false facts to implement a bylaw.
- DONT BREED SHAME.
- Not all pit bull are nuisances
- Dog safety education at all dog parks or online education required when registering a dog. Ei , body language, how to prevent bites, how to interrupt a dog fight.
- Owners need to be held accountable, bully breeds should be more controlled so irresponsible owners cannot easily obtain a dog. There should be NO discrimination against pit bulls. Responsibility falls 100% on the owner
- Allow the animal to live at home with the owner until after the hearing. This is far too traumatic for an animal!
- Not fair to single any breed. All these will do is make sure the wrong people get those dogs and don't register them with the city.
- Pit bulls are not a problem. People who own dangerous dogs are the problem, no matter what breed it is. Dangerous dogs are people-made NOT born that way. Breed specific legislation has been shown not to work.
- Please do not single out one dog breed
- I believe all dog breeds should be held at the same levels. Not make specific rules for a specific breed. Owners should be facing more accountability than the animals as training is everything. If you even had a doubt in your mind that your dog could bite or harm another individual or animal, there is proper precautions to take and if not followed, the owner should pay for those actions. All breeds should be treated the same.
- strongly oppose breed specific legislation
- I feel the description of nuisance dogs given does not justify any of the recommendations here. I also feel that "pit bulls" do not require the separate treatment.

- Breed specific is so dumb and perpetuates fear of pit bull type dogs. Please stop it.
- Why are pit bulls being targeted? I've been attacked by a labradoodle and never had an issue with a pitbull. A breed shouldn't be targeted, bad dog owners should be targeted.
- Responsible pet ownership
- No more than one nuisance dog per household. I do not support breed-specific legislation. It is ineffective.
- Educate yourselves before trying to implement [removed] discriminatory protocols. This is not what I want my tax dollars spent on.
- I don't support any of these measures as you clearly have it out for Pitbulls, attacking a breed does nothing I have been bit by multiple dogs in Calgary biking and never once was it anything that looked like a Pitbull. Give your head a shake
- Provide resources or financial help to owners of nuisance dogs of any breed for obedience or training classes
- Higher fines for dog park offenders who let their dogs bite other dogs at the park. Sue Higgins is horrible for this
- How about obedience training required for ALL breeds.
- No breed judgement on specific breeds such as pit bulls. Please.
- repeat offenders (owners) should be subject demerits and only reduced over time and with formal education/courses
- Pitbulls or any breed should not be treated differently! No breed-specific legislation!!!
- Do not specify 'Pitbulls' for any reason. There are plenty of breeds that have a stronger bite. This should NOT be addressed or even an option. BSL is unfair.
- You clearly state that pit bull breeds don't have more bites than other breeds. Let's not penalize them because of an unfounded fear. How is that different than racial bias against different human races. I have rehabilitated many problem dogs, rarely pit bull breeds, and the biggest problem was other people trying to say that their dog was friendly and it was okay for their dog to run up to my difficult dog. That's far more irresponsible, in my opinion.
- Please remove breed specific legislation. It's dog racism
- It's not just a pit bull. It's poor socialization by owners. If dogs received proper training there would be no issue. Small dogs cause issues too
- STOP singling our specific breeds. I'm tired of this crap. Do you know what I see at dog parks? Breeds that are NOT pit bull type dogs getting into it with other dogs while their owners stand around talking and not controlling their animals. I'm sick of a specific breed being singled out. Just stop.
- Breed specific legislation is ridiculous. It amounts to racism amongst animals. Deal with problem dogs an owners, not blanket statements about breeds.
- If any of these rules are placed, pit-bull breeds SHOULD NOT be singled out and be the only breed included.
- Don't engage in breed specific legislation because it doesn't work. By placing this in the bylaw you will be encouraging people's irrational fear of pit bulls which will increase false reports. This harms the dogs and owners. By perpetuating a stereotype your system will become overwhelmed. BSL doesn't work.

- Equal fines across the board regardless of breed.
- I don't think that pit pulls should be classified as a stronger dog than other dogs. Any dog can cause harm or damage to a person or other dog regardless of whether they are a pit bull type dog or not. Pit bulls should not be bullied. The owner of the dog should be held responsible for dog. Maybe a better back ground check or something to further determine if a person is mentally or even capable of owning a dog.
- I am very strongly opposed to any bylaw that involves breed discrimination as this is biased and prejudiced. Only breed-neutral, evidence-based legislation should be allowed as this is what will actually be effective for supporting the community.
- I don't support any of these. They are outrageous suggestions.
- Someone needs to take out these piece entirely. You guys have seen what ostracizing one breed does. Get informed.
- Nothing wrong with pittbulls, its the owners not the breed.
- stop singling out pitbulls because they are attractive to bad pet owners
- No BSL. Punish owners not dogs
- Breed specific legislation is absolutely ridiculous especially when the government says it classifies pit bulls as "any dog with the appearance of a pit bull breed".
- train the owners as well how to deal with a pitbull breed/aggressive breeds, often times its the owners that create aggression and problems with their dogs, its not the dogs fault, but how they are trained and handled. Cesar Millon type workshop.
- My daughter experienced a bite to her face requiring stitches from a dig off leash in a playground. We wanted the owner to undergo training with their dog as they clearly were not aware of their dog's anxiety around children. We were deterred from this happening as we were told we needed to go through the court where my young daughter would heed to testify. This was not something I wanted to put her through and would have appreciated mandatory training imposed by the bylaw officer as the bite was uncontested.
- I am not in agreement with any breed specific bylaws . Any breed can have issues and these need to be proactively managed with training.ed specific
- This is all ridiculous. It's bsl and it's wrong!!!
- Increasing fines for repeat nuisance dogs of any breed.
- None of these are acceptable, at all!
- not singling out pitbulls as a breed because thats just eugenics with dogs this time
- I believe all dogs need training not just pit bulls. I believe any breed (regardless of their genes) should be given a chance rather than being banned from certain areas. If dangerous behaviour is exhibited then steps should be taken to be declared a nuisance. Any breed can be declared a nuisance .

- Not sure if breed specific legislation is doable. Who will determine if a dog looks like a pit bull. Second offenses should be treated seriously. If the owner is trying to solve nuisance /nippy dog behavior it would be great if the city could help the owner find training or other resources
- All of these measures should apply to ALL dogs, not breed specific dogs. I have personally been more severely harmed by a chihuahua than any large dog I have ever encountered.
- Targeting one breed does not work and is not reasonable to all RESPONSIBLE owners of those breeds. It is the owners, regardless of breed, that do not train and socialize their animals.
- All dogs not just pit bulls
- Owners must go through training too so people leave pitties alone. Bad owners not bad dogs.
- Dogs that are declared a nuisance should receive mandatory but free or discounted training. Many owners can not afford private classes for difficult dogs.
- Wow... none of these. We don't have a serious issue and this is definitely trending in the wrong direction. [removed] would be VERY DISAPPOINTED
- Stop generalizing a breed. Do it based on specific situations and include other breeds.
- Number 2 is the only good option. The rest is a joke. Dogs are dogs and Pitbull are the one of the sweatest breeds. It's not the breed in question it's the demographic of people that are more likely to own strong breeds. How about saying people with a criminal record involving drugs and or violence can't own an strong breeds such as German Shephard, rotweilers, Doberman, and pit bulls
- Something must be done about a dog owner who lets their god bark all day (from 5am in my case) to past 11pm. I'm a dog owner and an animal lover. But the process to do anything about it is long and expensive (including court) I should be able to log times of barking days involved etc.... and put in a noise complaint.
- Higher fines for bad owners. It's never the animals fault
- There are no bad dogs, only bad pet owners
- absolutely against BSL and pit bull discrimination
- Nuisance dogs should have nothing to do with specific breeds. A nuisance dog should be based on each specific dogs behaviour not by the breed
- I 100% do not agree with breed-specific bylawas. Shepherds, Dobermans, and frankly, even chihuahas are all biters, and often small breed dogs are more dangerous, because their owners don't consider small teeth dangerous.
- ban pit bulls. they have no place in an urban environment
- I'd like to see holding owners accountable for ANY dog that is aggressive or fear based aggression because of lack of knowledge by the owner
- Hate how you are singling out breeds . It's owners that are the problem . I think all dog owners should take a test when getting a dog license.
- I never seen a pit Bull aggressive but mix other dogs like Labradoodle yes on many occasions
- How about stop being so biased against "pit bulls". How SICKENING!!!!
- I have 2 small dogs (Maltese x) but I work as a dog trainer and I also work at a vet clinic. Have you actually researched any studies that show a pit bull having more bite strength? Because they don't. Doodles are what we find at the clinic that bite and cause damage.

- Pit bulls are not the only breed with enough “strength” to injure someone. Any large dog could and often does do as much damage as a pit bull. Stop spreading the false narrative that pit bulls are more dangerous because they are strong or look intimidating to some. A badly trained dog is a badly trained dog. No matter the breed.
- We must regulate rescues. Please see <https://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/calgary/ej-rescue-1.5630648>
- ALL RULES SHOULD APPLY TO ALL BREEDS REGARDLESS OF SIZE! DESPICABLE AND HIGHLY IGNORANT TO SUGGEST OTHERWISE! A BITE IS A BITE!
- why are you listing pitbulls when there is much more K-Nines with dangerous bites such as German shepherds etc..
- This is breed discrimination. Pitbull like dogs are not the problem. Negligent owners are. If the dog can be retrained and removed, make it so Negligent owners cannot get dogs!
- Pit bulls should not be discriminated against at all. A dog should be assessed by it’s behavior and history.
- If obedience training is required it should be through the Alberta force free alliance- the training world is not regulated and there should be standards held. If using the wrong trainer a dog can get worse instead of better
- Do NOT bully bully breeds, city of calgary is much better than that! How sad! German shepherds or huskies can do just as much if not more damage than a bully, give your heads a shake city of calgary.
- I do not support breed specific bylaws
- You cannot discriminate against "bully" breeds. Research shows that dogs that bite the most are in fact chihuahuas. If you want to discriminate against "bully" breeds then you better include muzzling, banning, requiring additional insurance, and more for chihuahuas. This law needs to be scientifically backed.
- Dangerous dog designation and licensing for dogs with a Lv 4 or higher bite, or forward moving aggression, unprovoked attack, or redirect bites at Level 3 or higher.
- Treat all breeds equally! It’s the owners, not the dogs that are the potential issue!!!
- Harsher fines for dogs on the loose. Example my neighbours dog gets loose everyday and runs all over our property which rules up our dogs and destroys my property
- There should not be more than one nuisance dog allowed in a residence. I do NOT agree with labeling a pit bull as a nuisance dog because of the breed and would not support additional rules just for them
- I would support ANYTHING BUT BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION. These proposed amendments are awful, pit bulls might be strong but so are other dog breeds! If pit bulls HAVE to be muzzled, then all dogs should have to be muzzled.
- Pit bulls and bully breeds are not at fault. It is owner negligence and lack of responsible pet ownership that causes these issues. Don’t blame the breed, blame the owner
- This seems biased towards pitbull breeds. Make obedience training free for for "nuisance" dogs, and stricter guidelines (or rehoming) for abusive owners who refuse to properly train their dogs.

- Fine or punish the owners of dogs that are violent.
- Pit bulls aren't the problem. Any dog can be a bite risk if not trained properly.
- Ban pitbulls all together. They do bite more than any other breed. They've killed more humans than any other breed
- Higher fines for any dog, not just PITBULLS involved in bylaw offences. These options are sounding far too much like BSL and its wrong. Any dog can be aggressive, any dog can be a nuisance. Owners need to held accountable. Dogs are not inherently bad, bad owners, unfortunately end up with poorly behaved dogs.
- [personal information removed] I do NOT AGREE with legislation questions such as this one. The stigma and fear around this breed is emphasized by questions and surveys spreading misinformation. This is making already fearful people fear the breed even more. Do your research before posting things like this. Don't bully a specific breed of animal. We have been avid dog park regulars for 5 years and never had an issue but witness plenty with "regular breeds". End the stigma of bully breeds. Legislation like this is part of the problem. A pitbull will always be more feared than a black lab because of statements such as this one regarding "severe bites". Where are the German Shepard and Rottweilers and mastiffs listed here? They're all large dogs with a large mouth resulting in a more severe bite. #dontbullymybreed
- no pitfalls like in ontario
- Breeds cannot be classed in this way, it's the same idea as racism. Dogs are subjects of their environment and upbringing.
- There is no reason to put any extra means onto a certain breed, when it is usually problems with poor owners. It is a complete disgrace that this city's council would even consider banning or restricting pit bulls like Toronto. [removed]
- FOCUS ON THE HUMAN NOT THE DOG. Human's should be penalized NOT the dog. Stronger dog training techniques/companies should be used.
- The only thing that would help is stronger screening for animal adoptions. It is the owner who trains the dog to be violent, not the dog itself. And a nuisance dog is no danger so leave them alone. Some dogs are fearful and so they bark or they're learning to be comfortable around people after being beaten their whole lives. Don't go after the people who are trying to help these animals, go after the ones who abuse and mistreat animals.
- In every occasion where a dog is determined to be a nuisance animal, the owner must submit to mandatory dog handling training otherwise the dog may be seized, or if the dog is already been seized they must complete the training in order to get the pet back.
- fine and force educate the owner, and force owner to take the animal through behavioral, obedience training.
- It is a really bad idea to have restrictions based on breed. Restrictions should be based on demonstrated behaviour.
- Regarding nuisance, what number constitutes multiple minor offences
- Dump breed specific phrases entirely. I currently hate this city and council. If i could sell my condo I'd be long gone.

- Pitbulls are not an issue, there should be no dog breed specific bylaws!
- I do not think any breeds should be singled out as it is not the breed but how a dog is raised and trained. Dogs that are aggressive and bite need training and should not be off lease. If owners don't comply, dogs should be seized and need training.
- None of the above. It is not the dog it's the training and owner. Do not take away the right from other pitbull owners to walk their dog anywhere. They are NOT aggressive.
- none of the above
- Why on earth are you being breed specific? I have met more aggressive chihuahuas than pit bulls. It is never about the breed it is about the owner.
- Pit Bulls aren't the problem - stupid people are why not educate them more why does a helpless dog suffer for the stupidity of its owner
- Don't breed discriminate! Have you never actually looked at the stats?
- STOP CLASSIFYING PITBULLS AS STRONGER THAN OTHER DOGS! There is no science behind this.
- It's ridiculous to identify a breed and this would cause issues with people making their own decisions as to what they decide is a pitbull. I can't believe the city will be so ignorant as to even consider this
- Pit bulls should not have any extra bylaws compared to other breeds.
- Calgary should not be looking at breed specific legislation. BSL has not proven effective and only enhances prejudices against a breed.
- their all stupid , need more examples , pit bull and pit bull type dogs should not be the target of this bylaw , the owners should be
- Don't be one of those communities that has hate against a type of breed for no reason. Each dog is different and it depends on how they are treated. Start fining the owners and taking more actions in coming down on poor owners.
- Having a dog declared as a nuisance is too broad of a spectrum. If they are to be banned from off leash there needs to be a more narrow classification as a dog that has been classified as a nuisance due to noise complaints will not always be an aggressive dog. There also needs to be a classification for a dog that is a frequent antagonist in situations but is the dog that gets hurt. I have seen multiple times in dog parks of dogs I know finally snapping at a persistently antagonistic dog that will not leave them alone.
- Pit bulls and similar dogs are proven time and time again to not be problem dogs. If you want to crack down on bites of any breed, instead of punishing dogs fine the owners for not training them properly. But bylaw offenses are broad, this should only be for severe bites not just any offense.
- None of these
- The bsl questions are disgusting and ignorant coming from the City of Calgary in 2020. Has this year not taught us anything about discrimination?! I am utterly appalled.
- Stop targeting pitbulls
- Do not focus on breed. Breed focus is unfair and overlooks the fact that other breeds are similarly dangerous or moreso. Focus on breed is outdated, misleading.

- WOW!!!!!! Appalling and a clear lack of education. I have been bit by little dogs, my dog has been bite buy other little dogs NONE to have been a pitbull. Pitbulls have been some on the nicest friendliest dogs I have met and these comments scare people and then they react and then the dogs react. Very very disappointed with the city of calgary. MAYBE educate and stop pointing fingers
- PITBULLS ARE NOT AT FAULT FOR POOR OWNERSHIP. Small dogs are way more noisy/aggressive than a generalized "pitbull" breed. Golden retrievers are more likely to bite than a pitbull, because pitbulls are many breeds grouped into one that makes their numbers look large. A pitbulls "power" isn't a good enough reason to singlebthem out. What about Rottweilers? German Shepherds? This is discriminatory against a gentle and kind breed that used to be considered nanny dogs. Shame on the City of Calgary for even considering this.
- All dogs should be treated the same no matter the breed. Also what happens to people who don't require insurance cause there listed under someone else who owns the property they shouldn't have to pay more. I think high fines, mandatory 12week training from places like SPCA not the useless list they provide at the city animal services.
- Breed does not equate aggression or nuisance, bully type dogs should not be a consideration in these new bylaws. I am against any BSL
- Owners should have to prove they took the dog to obedience classes, dog should be tested through Humane Society or dog trainer to ensure dog no longer presents a risk. Owners who have dog seized shouldn't be able to own a strong breed for a period of time.
- Stop this garbage saying pitbulls or "aggressive" type breeds need to be extra muzzled. It's a silly fear tactic and Calgary is better than this
- Work with the owner/handler to increase their knowledge of dog behaviour and reactivity via reputable trainers, classes, online resources to help SOLVE the problem, not just to penalized the dog. The singling out of pitbulls from my city is very disappointing. BSL has never been a proven solution in other cities, and doesn't focus on actually solving the problem of aggressive dogs, which comes in all shapes sizes and breeds. A focus on keeping rescues and breeders reputable by regulating the industry is what our city should be looking at. Most aggressive dogs comes from breeders who are not reputable or ethical, lots of times backyard breeders, who are not health or temperament testing their dogs. Breeding aggressive dogs is what should be grounds for hefty fines. Breeding for looks and not health or mental stability is what should be penalized. Rescues should be held to similar standards and should never be "no kill" or in other words "willing to adopt out even the most aggressive dogs". Behavioural euthenasia is the reality of poor genetics and lack of socialization in some cases, and both irresponsible breeders and rescues should be held liable if they are knowingly selling or adopting out aggressive dogs, or puppies who's parents are known to have behaviour problems that are serious bite risks. Penalizing all dogs that fit a certain "look" is ridiculous and would make me feel ashamed of my community.
- Fines should increase with each and every offence no matter any time passed between offences.
- Pit Bulls are big dogs yes. But I have more run ins with small dogs that want to bite and there are no protections for myself and my large dogs against them as they can't do physical damage. I believe any dog who has the potential to bite regardless of size should be required to be muzzled in public, go through proper training in order to show they are no longer a nuisance and can be a model citizen without a muzzle. However obedience training must be required intermittently (3-4 6-week obedience sessions a year from a accredited behaviorist trainer the city chooses) for the remainder of the dogs life regardless if it's a proven model citizen.

- None. This is an owner issue, not a breed issue
- You can't simply deny dogs being in certain environments. Many dogs while they can exhibit tendencies of their aggressive ancestors, they have been bred and chosen to be family pets, guard dogs etc. People should not be fined for owning and having a dog. IF it attacks someone or something, then it can get into trouble but not before. I know it's a dog-world, but it's dog-equivalent to being racist or prejudice. Let the dog and the owner define what kind of behaviour and if it breaks rules then fine the human, and if it's done major damage then the owner gets in trouble
- Any bylaw that singles out pitbull type dogs is unfair and will be challenged. Many larger dogs can have a powerful bite, and many smaller dogs can inflict serious injury.
- Offleash areas in middle of main paths = I can't avoid offleash area (i.e. nosehill). I now avoid nosehill.
- Nuisance definition was too unclear, cannot answer these questions
- Extra fines for puppy mills and pet stores selling dangerous dogs
- Place a ban on specific (more aggressive) dog breeds
- Continuing barking needs to be addressed by a fine
- Breed specific legislation is not appropriate in any circumstance. Signed, an ER veterinarian who sees dog bite injuries almost every day. Also a Shih Tzu owner.
- Trying to sneak in breed specific legislation by creating a biased association between "pit bulls" and nuisance dogs is unacceptable. Shame on you.
- In my experience I have not had issues with pitbulls but rather other breed owners not following leashing requirements or small dogs with aggressive behavior
- ANY dog can bite. Picking on certain breeds is not the answer. I have worked with dogs for 20 years now and I have had more bites from small breed dogs than any other. NO WAY do i want to see bsl in calgary! What someone decides is a "nuisance" may not be a nuisance to someone else. I think kids are a nuisance...can they be muzzled??!!
- I do not agree with anything specifically singling out pit bulls.
- BSL should NOT happen in Calgary. I do NOT support BSL
- Ban pit breeds
- None of the above.
- How about stop politicizing a breed. It is the owners Pomeranians and small dogs are out of control. How about fining owners who can't control their dogs and stop playing a political game.
- Clearer definitions of nuisance. The same potential penalties should be directly related to specific types of incidents. I.e, a dog with barking complaints and no issues with violence or aggression should not be subject to the same potential measures as an aggressive or violent dog (muzzled in public, not allowed at off leash parks, etc).

- There is absolutely no evidence to prove that pit bulls cause more severe damage than any other large dog. As a veterinarian, I am appalled that this is even an option. There should be absolutely no discrimination based on breed. Bad owners have bad dogs. It is not breed specific in any way, shape, or form. That being said, any breed that has bitten a pet or human should be subjected to training by a professional. If that is unable to be provided by an owner than apprehension from the owner, rehabilitation by apprehending party, and readoption would be recommended.
- Adequate fence requirement for pitbull owners!
- Banning a specific breed of dog from doing anything is ridiculous. A chihuahua is more likely to bite someone than a pit bull.
- Stop assuming pit bulls are dangerous dogs. I am more scared of a chihuahua than a pit bull.
- There should be no requirement for animals such as pitbulls as this is a misconception of the breed. Owners or civilian should be fine for mistreating or harming these animals. The animal did NOT come as nuisance, it is an animal. Please educate people on this! These animals are not born mean!!!
- I disagree with automatically labeling pitbulls as a nuisance animal.
- Fines for nuisance owners
- NONE BSL is stupid!!!!
- Dog training required for all dogs. Don't single out pitbulls. It's bad owners not bad dogs
- Get rid of breed specific legislation . Hold the owners accountable and rather than obedience training for the dog the owner and the dog needs to go through force free training.
- Ban pitbulls entirely
- Obedience should be from approved trainers using science based- not aversive- methods
- None of the above. If nuisance means a dog with a bite behaviour then some of the suggestions are OK but if nuisance means a barking dog or an escape artist then these are very extreme measures.
- There appears to be a strong focus on the bully breeds here (pitbull type). There really shouldn't be any discrimination as to breeds; any dog regardless of size can bite, bark, cause issues etc. It is up to an owner in the end to provide the appropriate training and mental stimulation to their pet(s). Maybe starting with pet owners, as opposed to jumping straight to a particular offending dog breed may be the way to go. Implementing BSL has proven time and time again not to be effective. You speak of their strength and bite power....the larger a dog is the higher the bite force is going to be. Perhaps some more research needs to be done on this, as bite forces with breeds have been done before, and large mastiff (molosser) breeds came in on the high end of this. Im rather disappointed to see the City of Calgary even considering these options. Having worked in the animal field (spca, Animal control, dog training, etc) a good portion of my life, a lot of these canine bylaws really make no sense. More responsibility needs to be put on owners. At the end of the day a dog is an animal with instincts.
- Humans are the problem. Mandate training and behaviour training for owners of nuisance dogs. All dogs should require training. More bylaw officers in off leash parks and a test of recall if all dogs. Where are the extra rules for those who don't observe on leash areas that then cause issue with reactivity.

- Additional insurance required after any dog bites!
- I Have ONLY ever been attacked/aggressively bitten by a chihuahua. If AN animal has had reactive behaviour with a negative reaction then have the owner and animal required to take a course through the SPCA and have the owner trained how to handle the Animal. THERE ARE NO BAD BREEDS JUST BAD OWNERS!
- people should have to get training and they should be familiar with pit bulls before they can own a pit bull. It's not the dog's fault, it's always the owners
- Condition checks for households with more than 10 animals
- Stick with the current bylaw and take it on a dog to dog basis. Breed should not be a factor ever!
- I disagree with all pit bull related stereotyping
- Ban pit bulls. Kill any that bite. They are bred for biting and have no place as "pets"
- Fines should be for bad pet owners and if an owner repeatedly has aggressive pets they should have a ban. I am all for nuisance dog owners being penalized however those of us that are responsible should not have to pay the price.
- I think all dogs over 20kgs should have mandatory obedience training. It isn't usually the dog that is the problem it is an inexperienced owner
- When licensing your animal it should be mandatory to enroll and pass with certified animal behavior training code. This should be done with all dogs! Even the extra small ones! The city needs to set the standard on who can teach these programs. Set everyone up for success not failure. If you do not complete the program you have up to a certain date before a fine is issued. Then continue on until taking the person's animal away and putting the person on a no pet watch list. If people can not afford animal behavior training they are not responsible pet owners. As for the problems with dogs biting now, hire park people to enforce proper behavior in both humans and dogs. Not in a voluntary way. Real job, not a fake one.
- I do not support this. Treat all dogs the same.
- Please educate yourselves around bully breeds. This information perpetuates stereotypes that are inaccurate and dangerous. I have had more negative interactions with smaller breeds (shitzus and chihuahuas, etc) than ever with bully breeds. Go to the experts in the field not citizens with little to no dog experience or knowledge.
- Stop discriminating against "pitbulls" or any breed for that matter. You're furthering an incorrect stigma and it's embarrassing (for you)
- Owner review to determine if they are able to provide adequately for a pit bull. Sometimes the owner is the problem, not the animal.
- If a dog does an act of violence toward a person then they should be put down
- Pitbulls are amazing and lovable dogs. Just like every other dog. Dogs are only aggressive because of poor ownership and being bad people.
- Lots of picking on pitbulls here.
- Nuisance dogs must wear identifying ID/collar to alert others when they are in public.
- It's not proven that BSL actually helps prevent dog bites. You should be ashamed that you are even asking these breed specific questions. Shame on you.

- current bylaws need to be in forced, dogs off leash in leashed zones.
- Pot bulls are no different then any other breed of dog and should be treated no differently. As a dog attack Survivor I will personally say that any untrained abused dog is dangerous.
- None of the above, I don't think that pit bulls or other larger breeds should be discriminated against.
- Removal of dogs living in abuse, whether being exposed to elements or other.
- None of the above owners build the behaviour and it just so happens people purchase "pit bull breeds. There are plenty of good owners with great dogs that are being drug down but An irresponsible group.
- Afrer two incidences of biting or nuisance dog not allowed at off leash park. dog must be muzzled when out in public.
- NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION. NUISANCE IS NOY DEFINED WELL ENOUGH
- No repercussions for pit bulls, look into the irresponsible small breed owners. Those dogs are the least trained and most aggressive.
- If training is required it will be important for the city to govern appropriate, science based, reward based certified trainers as there are a lot of people out there offering services as trainers with no education or formal training.
- Please stop advocating against "pit bull" type dogs.
- The owners of the dogs that have been deemed a nuisance should have to undergo dog training courses and be fined accordingly.
- Lay off the pit bulls! But general nuisance dogs, of ANY BREED (the meanest dog I ever met was a shitzhu!) should be considered.
- First off, remove the term pit bull from this amendment. Rottweilers, mastiffs, german sheperds, doberman pincers, chow chows, they are all dangerous. / Dogs declared a nuisance that have been to obedience training get reassessed. Being declared a nuisance should not be a life sentence. / Owners with more than one dog that has been declared a nuisance need to undergo proper pet ownership/responsibility training. / There should be unannounced followup to owners who have been banned from owning animals for the full duration of their ban.
- Do not be breed specific
- Please do not make this about pit bulls. Any dog can be a nuisance, and we do not need to go backwards with BSL language
- City should provide behaviour and training assistance with animals adopted from a shelter or the city.
- Bigger charges against anyone who teases, abuses, pets a dog who ISN'T theirs and gets bit etc. Also, not having breed specific rules. Blame the owner. Not the dog.
- Much, much higher fines for having dogs off leash. Fines that exist on a sliding rate so heavier dogs that are more likely to cause harm are fined more for being off leash. Much better enforcement of off leash rules in parks and streets (every part of the city has a problem with dogs off leash).
- These selections are based on Bias and have no place in this survey.. introducing any type of Breed Specific Legislation, by the City of Calgary is reprehensible. Education of dog owners and the public at large, especially with children on how to act responsibly around all animals would have a far better outcome.

- Proper ownership responsibility training .
- I find it highly offensive that you seem to be picking on the "Pit Bull". We were targeted by a neighbor who encouraged our dog to bark by standing by our front fence. Then attacked me by saying our dogs were always barking. (let me start by saying that I put the dogs out ran up 5 steps to the bathroom and by the time I was on my way downstairs not even 2 mins my dog barked once and this neighbor was bashing on my siding of my house. He was standing there the whole time. We got a notice and I called and never heard from the officer.
- Pit bulls not to be brought in through rescues
- I have had no issues with pit bulls in the past. I believe that dogs are taught behaviours by their owners. I feel if the owner has not raised the animal properly the responsibility of a dog biting or acting aggressive should fall on the owners.
- First this should be provided in plain language not legal for all citizens to understand and not mixing all animals and specific breeds in the same question. Also all breeds should be held accountable not just a certain breed. Bites on the city have not gone up enough to provoke an act like this.
- This is complete nonsense. They have proven time again how their PPSI bit is no different than a GSD or Retriever. So get those facts straight first before you decide to be breedist! Absurd
- Please do not be dog racist. It's a bad look. Every dog can be aggressive or considered a nuisance- don't make it breed specific!
- There is not data to support the discrimination of 'pitbull' type dogs
- No breed specific laws. It causes the crazy people to go out and hurt them
- I don't want to ban a breed ever. And I fully believe that we shouldn't punish everyone preemptively. Insurance and fines for dangerous dogs make sense but only after they've proven to be an issue. Lots of pit bulls are just big clumsy angels. But any dog with a history of attacking should have to go to rehabilitation training at the owners expense, and if they can't afford it maybe it needs to be surrendered to a rehab facility and adopted after training. I think the dog deserves a chance because some people do not properly approach dogs and it's not fair to expect the dog to not react when scared.
- Stop picking on pit bulls
- Stop discrimination against pit bulls (or dogs that look like them). Nuisance dogs could come from any breed.
- City of Calgary, already has amazing bylaws in place for dog owners. What I would like to see them enforced. For example I see daily dogs off leash in areas that are supposed to be dogs on leash zones.
- stop with the pitbull racism. ANY dogs that bites should be trained.
- Balanced training for nuisance dogs, not "force-free positive"
- Preventative obedience for all dogs as part of the licensing process. NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION PLEASE! It sends the wrong message to people who own other breeds that their dog is not dangerous.

- Any dog can be deemed a “nuisance”, I believe education can help these dogs and their owners. I support increased fines and seizures if owners do not comply with education requests. There are some very good dog behaviouralists in Calgary that can assist in the education. There are no bad dogs, just naive and bad owners
- NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION
- Any legislation designed to address problem dogs must be breed-neutral. Breed is not the determinant of a problem dog--the owner is.
- ABSOLUTELY NOT- this is DISGUSTING FOR A CITY TO PROHIBIT A DOG DUE TO THEIR UPBRINGING OR PAST.
- Dogs that have attacked or bitten another dog should be banned from off leash dog parks.
- This is insane! You are suggesting dogs that bark are equal to dogs that are attacking people with lethal force? Also, I don't like the singling out of Pitbulls. While I totally appreciate the concern of their strength and it has concerned me a few times when I have seen some dogs at off leash parks that look like they're not friendly, most pit bulls and staffers that I have met regularly walking my dog off leash are very nice. What I think needs to be enforced is people who take former racing greyhounds to off leash parks. Mine was attacked by one when he was only 8 months and it was terrifying. Right at my feet! Then the owner continued to walk the dog without a leash towards the exit of the fenced park and it went after two other dogs separately. Be much more specific about nuisance and call out each problem - don't group them. Furthermore, most dogs bark. Almost all will bark when another dog in the neighborhood starts barking. It should only be declared a nuisance when the owner leaves the dog home day after day in the yard to bark without being brought in or any attempt to try to get the dog to change the behaviour. Also, dogs that often attack other dogs - if there is a need for vet care the owner should be fined, forced to pay for the vet care, pay an increased kennel fee, not be allowed to take it off leash, the dog muzzled and put in reactive training. If the dog doesn't hurt the other dog but either chase it, knocks it down or terrorizes it - it should be muzzled, require training and be not allowed off-leash as well as fined. If a dog is reactive on leash, and another person or their dog approaches despite the reactive dog owners warnings; there should be no case - they were warned. If this can't be proven, it should go to arbitration if there was an injury to the non reactive dog as to whether the owner should pay for it. The dog should still be made to take training. If an animal kills - it may be required to be euthanized. A trial should be held to investigate the circumstances. Was it defending its owner or property for example. Incidents involving dogs should be handled by animal control - not police - unless there is an injury to people. Also, what does this even mean? “minimize impact to others and follow the rules” - I be very clear!
- Blame the breeder, not the dog. Pitbulls are not dogs that should be discriminated against, bylaws that apply to them should apply to any and all other dog breeds within the City of Calgary
- "It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite." This is completely false and who's ever put forth these certifiably false claims on a government website should be let go. All I can say is, this had better be changed because it's 2020 and bigoted government won't be tolerated.

- STOP BLAMING THE BREED!!!!
- There should be no bias to "pit bulls" as a breed. Many large breeds can be dangerous if not trained/handled or approached properly. Dogs should not be euthanized immediately after an incident. Training and assessment by a qualified professional trainer should be mandatory beforehand.
- Higher fines to owners of any aggressive dog
- In order to have any dog, the owner must go through city approved training. Breed does not matter.
- I would not support any of this. This just puts a huge burden on dog owners and allows greater mistreatment of these animals as these could be exploited by cruel neighbours and the like.
- Fine owners for their lack of control over their animal
- Owners required to do training if dog is deemed a nuisance.
- These are all crazy
- This breed specific targeting is so wrong. Like it says pitbull types don't bite more than other breeds. How about we punish owners whose dogs are not trained properly no matter what the breed. Specifically targeting a dog by the shape of its head creates fear that the dog is mean. That is the worst message to send.
- Owners should be held accountable for their dogs, increased fines, euthanize the dogs and criminal charges, especially for owners that flee
- Don't pick on pit bulls! A few bad owners should damn a breed
- All dogs should have training
- possible criminalization of repeat offender owners - pet ban and enforcement for owners who have serial nuisance pets.
- Please stop with the shaming of pitbulls, do some research and see how many more little dogs bite. These questions in regards to pitbulls is backwards thinking and wrong Shane on you for spreading fear and hate when no reason too.
- It is shocking that you are targeting pit bulls. I have never met an aggressive pitbull. Dogs should not be judged in their breed. Fine the owners if they are irresponsible or don't properly train their dog but you should NOT target pit bulls.
- Fines for all city staff members who propose bylaws that are not backed by science, like BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION.
- No No No!!!!!!!
- Pit bulls are not the problem. It's their owners training them bad behaviours. Any dog can bite. This is insane of this city to focus on this. How about not letting just anyone get a dog....make them pass a test. For once, do the right thing.
- Stop blaming pit bulls. ANY dog can be a nuisance, and a Doberman, Rottweiler, etc all have strong jaws and a bite from them is just as bad as one from an aggressive golden retriever. Stop punishing the breed, punish the owners.
- To be honest, I am involved in Animal Rescue as well as dog training. It is often the dogs owners that are the problem, no necessarily the dog. That being said, I am very cautious around of Pit Bulls because of their power. One of my dogs is extremely fearful, and is elderly. She is now starting to lose her sight. I have encountered numerous dogs in our neighborhood that are loose on the owners yard. They have come charging and barking at us, and it invokes a reactive behavior in her. (Not her fault) it is super frustrating, and I should not have to muzzle my dog in order to walk her on public streets. I never take her to dog parks etc, so I find it hard to penalize Pit bulls specifically

- Stop focusing on the breed of the dog. The behaviour is what is important
- Stop breed specific legislation and see that small dogs are problems too.
- This section is very ignorant. If you declare pit bulls, you must also declare German Shepard's, labs and other large MORE aggressive dogs. "It is important to note pit bulls are NOT involved in more bite incidents than other breeds.." then act like it, pathetic. Also, for your information my "pit bull" has been attacked by large dogs on multiple occasions and never retaliated. Do better. Make these rules for all large breeds instead of directly attacking pit bulls. Make it even and fair.
- Better people owning dogs in general and stricter laws for people hoping to save a dog. It's not the dog, it's the owner!
- Requiring public to report bites. Also I do not believe in breed specific regulations and in one of the options above they were condensed into one option. Nuisance dogs-onlybone per household regardless of breed. Also assessment by expert behaviorist to establish what is a nuisance dog.
- Pit bulls or breeds in this section should not be treated any differently than any other breed. MANY breeds have significant strength, and even smaller, "weaker" breeds can cause severe damage when they bite.
- It is honestly very disheartening seeing a breed bias here. Why did that have to be included? Why can't it be left at nuisance dogs.
- Stop discriminating against a breed. Fine the owners of ALL dogs who are a nuisance. Jesus. <eyeroll>
- More affordable training for dogs so people can more easily afford training for ANY dog
- I think it's absolutely disgusting how this is targeting pitbull's we're not all pit bulls are the problem there is just as many large dogs they can do just as much damage that have done just as much damage and I don't think it's fair that if you owned Pitbulls you will be targeted and discriminated against
- None of the above, take the breed out of this and ask it again.
- I do not agree that all of yhe breeds listed above should be considered a nuisance. Stafford Terriers are not aggressive, or at least none that i have encountered.
- Shouldn't judge just one breed and make it harder for people to own pitbull. Make owners responsible. Not the dog.
- How about we focus more on the "nuisance" and a little less on the "pitbull". Quite frankly I'm appalled that the City is using the terminology above and supporting BSL. Nuisance dogs are a problem, the breed of such dog is not. Bad pet owners need to be held responsible for their animals. Period. Fines. Apprehensions. Nuisance titles given to them. Quite simply, if the name/term "pitbull" automatically deems a dog a "nuisance" then no thank you.
- Please review and present peer-reviewed research on the strength of bite from pitbulls versus other large dogs. Resources and laws need to be allocated based on facts not fear.

- Most often it's an issue with the owner not being knowledgeable. More training for the owners of nuisance dogs.
- This entire thing is based on BAD SCIENCE... the scientific facts around pitbulls or bully breeds that you as a city are using is absolutely wrong in EVERY REGARD..
- What year do we live in that we still think the BREED is the problem? It's the owner! Come on!
- I vehemently oppose breed-specific legislation, so any stronger measures for "nuisance" dogs should not in any way target or single out a dog by breed, but by temperament.
- DO NOT BREED LEGISLATE PITBULLS. That is absolutely LUDICROUS. ONLY provide repercussions for dogs who actually prove to provide a problem. PITBULLS ARE NOT BAD- it is the equivalent to saying that muslims are more dangerous than Caucasian people because they're more prone to being terrorists. GET REAL.
- Leave the [removed] pit bulls alone.
- There are many dogs that have a strong bite. Calgary was once considered one of the best cities for fair and equitable pet ownership laws. BSL is a step backwards.
- Absolutely no mention of breed on the bylaw. That would be a massive step backwards. Calgary has been at the forefront as an example to the world how BSL doesn't work.
- Breed discrimination will not help in assisting the city control dogs. Sheppard bites can and have been just as bad as Pitbulls. Punish bad owners not "scary" breeds. This is a publicity stunt.
- There needs to be a concrete way to prove a dog is a nuisance. The current system is incredibly flawed and encourages dog owners to not register their dogs. There needs to be proof it was said dog, and if an owner has proof it was not their dog that needs to be respected and accepted (it currently is not, based on personal experience). .
- Ban pit bulls , it's the only breed that in my 60+ years lifetime that has consistently attacked humans and is the only breed that consistently kills humans
- I STRONGLY oppose breed specific by-laws. It's a step in the WRONG direction.
- I hear more about smaller breed dog bites. Stop trying to bully the breed. It's the owner not the breed.
- Ban pit bull type dogs
- leave pit bulls alone! They do not deserve to be penalized for negative ideals people have of them.
- Ban the deed, not the breed!! If someone wants to own a pitbul they need to be monitored to ensure the dog is not being raised violently. Don't blame the dog!
- Please leave pit bulls alone. Do not breed discriminate. This approach has not worked anywhere ever
- I believe more than bully breed bites can i flick pains, so educate owners
- Mandatory spay/neuter of nuisance dogs
- Pit bulls are not vicious by nature. To single them out is absurd. Nuisance dogs are dogs with recent or repeat incidents, be it a German Shepherd or a chihuahua.
- I don't believe it's the nerds fault. Comes down to responsible ownership no matter the breed.
- Breed specific legislation will not decrease the frequency and severity of dog bites, and will only result in dogs not being adopted from shelters and increased abandonment.

- I do not support a bylaw that is breed-specific. Please reach out to responsible bully breed groups for more information. Focus on owner education and cracking down on irresponsible breeders to keep bully breeds out of the hands of problem owners.
- There should be NO laws that are pit bull or pit bull “type” specific.
- Fines for nuisance must be looked into closely. Others will abuse this just to report neighbours were no such strong evidence it is recurring.
- How about including other large dogs such as German shepherds, husky, Akita, they have strong jaws too
- Chows and German Shepherds, in my experience, cause more problems in off-leash parks
- this cannot be breed specific. needs to be dog specific.
- Other dogs attack not just the ‘bully’ pitbull breeds stop putting all the blame on that specific breed
- More signage about keeping dogs on leash in problem areas (Flames Community Arena field is not off leash, but has dozens of daily visitors next to a children’s playground)
- Shut down rescues that release a nuisance dog especially when new owner doesn’t have the facilities to keep the animal. IE six foot fence. All nuisance dogs that are aggressive must be muzzled even in yard if not properly contained.
- This is discriminatory and breed specific. The focus should be on owners exclusively, including potential license requirements for anyone owning a dog exceeding 20lb and that they should be of age to be liable for pets actions.
- None.
- A Kangal has the strongest bite of 743 PSI. Chow Chows are notoriously aggressive but not a bully breed. I think this is fear mongering and I do not agree with any level of breed specific legislation within the City of Calgary. This only makes people not register their pets and lie about the breed they own because the discrimination based on little facts. Look at places like Winnipeg Ontario and other areas this type of legislation has failed the community. Hold all pet owners equally responsible.
- Ban pit bulls
- I feel the language should be aimed at the owner or caregiver of pit bulls, not the pit bulls themselves. I think the owners deserve higher fines, obedience training etc. I don’t think it’s breed specific to pit bull type dogs.
- It is rude to single pit bulls out there are many aggressive dogs that aren’t that breed. It is not the breed but how the dog is raised !!!!
- No pitbull bylaw (and any other breed deemed unsafe)
- Wheather pit - dobbie - GS - or any dog - before taking dog away - 1) i feel as a dog owner it is important that owner and dog be mandated to get 8 week training session in obedience !! This shows that owner has more control !very important !!
- None of the above!!!! Singling out pit bulls is ridiculous! There are plenty of other breeds more viscous then any pitbull bully breed dog I have ever met! Proposing any of the above is just ignorant!
- Stop legislating a breed!!!

- You should NOT be discriminating against the dog breed - according to many scientists, dachshunds are naturally the most aggressive dog. Are we going to be dining those dogs?
- Leave pitbulls alone, they are amazing animals, and are always targeted, u say there bite is more severe.....but they don't bite the most, so why isn't the breed specified that bites the most and only "pitbull" is described, bsl doesn't work and its time to leave this breed alone!
- Stop assuming all "pit bull" breed dogs are the problem. Increase the punishment and fines for owners that do not train their animals.
- [removed] with the pit bull hate, [removed]. It's the owner, not the dog.
- it is the humans that need the obedience training on how to train and look after their animals. It is bad humans not bad dogs of any breed.
- Leave pit bulls alone! No extra regulations are required for them.
- Owners that have had a nuisance dog that have been fined are not allowed to have another similar dog for 10 yearsbreed dog
- Issues occur when a negligent or bad handler is involved . The bite of a Pitt bull is no different than a shepherd, lab, Doberman or Akita. Smaller dogs bites can be severe as well. All dogs should be judged equally as every circumstance is different.
- BSL does not work. Do some research
- Nothing against pit bulls. All dogs should be treated the same way no matter what breed.
- BSL does not work. If you are going to impose restrictions, limit to ALL nuisance dogs, regardless of breed. There is too much ambiguity with BSL as well, and not enough SMEs.
- Is anyone even look at this from the perspective of the dog? People are [removed] idiots when it comes to dog behaviour - understanding, reading and reacting - even people that have owned dogs all their lives. As a kid the dogs that worried me were the little ones.
- Any dog that bites an adult or child should be euthanized unless there are exceptional circumstances.
- Better signage clearly stating that the majority of places / parks in Calgary are ON LEASH AT ALL TIMES places, versus assuming the public knows this. We live near path and pond system and dogs are always off leash and in the water, destroying the ecosystem and putting bio waste into water.
- None of the above. These biased opinions toward specific breeds of dog are unfounded.
- No to BSL
- It's nonsense to Focus on pit bulls just as a breed - animals are a reflection of their owners behaviour and treatment. I know many people with nuisance dogs who bite and are threatening and none of them are pit bulls.
- Replace pit bulls with "small aggressive dogs" because those are the ones doing the biting. Your reasoning for listing pitbull is their potential for bites. You as a human being have the same amount of potential to be a serial killer, but I don't see anyone preemptively punishing you for that.
- No BSL! That's going backwards
- Any breed, not specifically pit bulls, should be required to complete required specifications if there have been known offenses. Pit bulls should not be isolated for their breed.

- This classification of an animal by breed, not temperament is DISGUSTING, and you can be sure that if you proceed with this classification, the community of responsible owners will rise up!
- Deeper research into accusations of nuisance dogs. Proof required to label dogs a nuisance. Not breed biased.
- Required obedience training. Pay a monthly fee until your dog can demonstrate basic obedience. Sit, stay, down, come and heel.
- Stop coming after specific breeds! Anyone with any education knows these issues are owner issues NOT a breed. Hold ALL dog owners accountable!!!
- I do not support any BSL
- If you are think about required obedience train make it mandatory for all dogs
- Pit bulls are not the problem. Other municipalities have tried to persecute pitbulls for their bites and ignore the fact that more dogs of other breeds bite more and cause more damage and they've realized it's not pit bulls causing the issue and have taken these rules away due to banning/declaring one breed a nuisance has not been proven to reduce the number of bites. PIT BULLS ARE NOT THE ISSUE.
- BREED BANS ARE ABSOLUTE TRASH!!!! I own two spayed/neutered bullies who are trained and socialized and the friendliest sweetest dogs ever. My responsible ownership should NOT be punished by a breed ban. Punish the bad owners with fines. Huge ones. To support the animal support systems we have in place.
- Why is this even a thing? Why just pit bull / bully breeds!!?? Not acceptable!
- None
- Pit bulls were nanny dogs back in the 80s and 90s. Each decade a different breed gets mislabeled. It is the owner not the dog! Nor allowing pitbull breeds into offleash areas or mandatory muzzles is not ok. Aggressive dogs any breed sure but just to judge on breed I disagree with.
- I feel the breed should not be punished for poor leadership displayed by owners. It is the owners responsibility to keep their dog and others safe. Make sure people understand the breed and are capable of managing the dog
- I agree if a dog bites someone, the owner should be fined. However, I do not believe in blaming the dog. If the dog is required to be removed then it deserves a chance at dog training, and a new owner found. Dogs reflect their owners behaviour.
- Keep breed specific wording and action OUT of the bylaw
- No breed specific legislation!!!
- Pit bull who are voluntarily enrolled in training by their owners would not have to carry special insurance as long as they have not been a nuisance.
- PITBULLS DESERVE ALL THE SAME RIGHTS AS OTHER BREEDS
- strongly disagree with any and all "dog breed" by-laws, in my personal experience nurture over nature almost every time. Also every dog and dog owner must be given the opportunity to correct behaviour say in a course or other training venue. In almost no cases should a dog be euthanized, only extreme extreme cases, owners of "nuisance" dogs should be required to go courses before taking a dog etc etc

- Criminal prosecution of pit bull owners whose pit bull maims with a six month jail term. Civil negligence should be considered insufficient given owner's inherent knowledge of risk of ownership.
- As a pitbull/bully owner of two I think this is outrageous!! A pitbull being treated different is another form of racism and discrimination! These are wonderful animals and ALL DOGS CAN BE VICIOUS! Not just bully's! They have no reason to be treated different! How about you look at the small dogs who bite! I had a ankle biter literally bite my son in the face! Pitbull have 0 reason to be treated different or have a ban! Everyone wants to jump at pitbull or large breeds which is insane!!! City of Calgary you honestly make me sick of how you're addressing pitbulls and I can promise I am a woman who has 0 issue raising a roar about things when it comes to pitbulls! I wish the government treated sex offenders or child molesters like you do pitbulls! Shame on you! Spend a moment with a pitbull and you'll see they are the most amazing animals! Any dog can be vicious and normally the owner is doing cruel things so maybe instead of banning pitbulls from things look at the owners and use your all mighty power to remove that poor animal and get it true love! I have 2 bully's and 4 children and my kids can do anything to those dogs with no issue, they care for my kids like their puppies!!!
- There should be nothing stating anything to do with breed specific legislation. ABSOLUTELY NOTHING. Breed specific legislation does not work. Nothing in legislation should include a specific type of dog. The fact that quotations are even used in this survey proves that. Obedience training should be "force free" as negative reinforcement is a recipe for further problems.
- I think if a dog bites someone it should be the owner that gets fined. And or must take obedience course. Cause who know if the owners have trained there dog to be like that.
- Higher fines for all dogs, not specifically pit bulls.
- Owner training should be mandatory for nuisance dogs and really for ANY breed owner. I do not agree with pigeon holding the breeds you have included in your list. A small yorkie can do a huge amount of damage to child. I believe the key is the owners not necessarily the animals
- I don't think any of these should apply, again it's not the breed it's the owner and I think singling out a single breed is in humane and quite frankly ridiculous. Focus on stricter and more severe laws for animal abuse and a more vigorous investigation process for such claims including "fear based" training programs.
- Stop with the pit bull or any other species identifying stuff. Any dog can inflict damage if it bites. Even the smallest chihuahua... Which is a very aggressive breed.
- Under no circumstances would I ever support breed specific bylaws. My Pyrenees has been bitten more times by small dogs than pitbulls.
- Training for the owners nuisance dogs
- BREED SPECIFIC BYLAWS IS LIKE DOG RACISM. how about deeper fines for ANY owner of a dog that has more than one offense. With mandatory muzzles when leaving their property
- Pit bulls aren't more dangerous. They should be allowed offleash
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Pit bulls are not the problem. Nuisance dogs are should the whold breed suffer.
- Absolutely do not support any breed specific rules.

- Stop focusing on specific breeds. Any breed can have problematic individuals. Higher fines for repeat offenders, take away off leash privileges, seize or restrict do to yard, etc for problem dogs.
- Pit bulls... how about chows? Bullmastives? Burmese mountain dogs? Don't breed discriminate. If damaged caused is the issue then make regulations size related not breed.
- All dogs should have obedience training, low income people should have help
- Having pit pulls included in this is a distraction from the real issue of irresponsible dog owners. Get rid of the pit bull questions.
- All pitbull and like dogs should be BANNED.
- No need for breed specific legislation. You use their strength to target put bulls, but make zero reference to any other breed that is stronger than a pitbull or can exert more bite force.
- Give me a break. It's like the village idiots are running this city.
- Pit bulls should not be singled out as bully breeds. The dog is not the problem but the owner is. Shameful that pit bulls are lazily lumped into a category because of irresponsible dog ownership.
- STOP TARGETING JUST ONE BREED.
- I would like to see dog owners and handlers that Do Not obey the Bylaws bear responsibility as well.
- This should not be breed specific. It should focus on the owners that feel they are above the laws and do not keep their uncontrolled dogs on lease. Whatever breed they are.
- Obedience training required for all dogs. Known aggressive dogs should not be allowed in off leash areas (or be muzzled) but I do not agree with singling out pit bulls as this could discourage people giving much needed homes to pit bulls and most are not bite risks. Instead focus on behaviour risks of individual dogs and encouraging or enforcing training.
- Obedience classes must be required for ALL dogs.
- So from what I am reading, the option is that noisy dogs should be muzzled? Bites are very different than a noisy dog
- No breed specific regulations. Fines for owners who don't control their dogs all of equal consequence.
- Will never support Anything that goes after one type of dog is wrong, and should not be allowed.
- Breed specific legislation does not reduce nuisance complaints or dog bite incidences.
- Criminal charges fir the owner as it is NEVER the animals fault it is ALWAYS the irresponsible owner who is at fault
- Higher fines for German Shepard's involved in bylaw offences. They have stronger bites than pit bulls. As well as Doberman pinchers. These laws should be based on available data and that data shows pit bulls DO NOT have the strongest bites.
- It is not okay to classify pitbulls in the same sentence as nuisance dogs.
- A law that bans owners of an aggressive/dangerous dog (if it has bitten) from owning dogs in the future, as clearly they do not train and control their animals..
- Having "pitbulls" being specially addressed is asburd. It's about the owner, not the dog. How about anywhere that is not an animal shelter be shut down, ie. Petland, etc. There are already too many animals in this world that need homes. Educate pet owners and the public properly. Stop spreading propaganda about breeds. That is archaic.

- Do not ban pit bulls! Breed-specific legislation doesn't work. All dogs bite
- Don't target pitbulls
- I don't support any of this discriminatory [removed]
- These recommendations for bully breed dogs are ridiculous. Please do not do this to our city. And no, I do not own a bully breed dog. Also, the description of a "nuisance" dog is laughable. Are the people writing these suggestions/bylaws familiar with dogs at ALL???
- Incentive programs for those who put their dog in training classes (certified trainers) and reduced fines for nuisance dogs when the owners seek out training
- Higher fines for ANY dog off leash unless in designated areas
- Do not single out ONE breed. There is a white "fluffy" small dog that attacks large dogs. The owner screams and complains about large dogs. Fluffy is NEVER on leash. Fluffy is the nuisance dog AND the entitled owner.... teach the owners.
- Not targeting Pit bulls
- The inclusion of pit bulls as a nuisance breed is deplorable. There is ample evidence to support the fact that pit bulls have great temperaments overall and are no more dangerous than any other breed. The options provided in this question are not based in fact and can only be viewed as an unethical and uneducated attack on a misunderstood breed of dog.
- "Pit bulls" are not even a breed, get your act together!
- Mandatory obedience training for large dogs, mandatory online responsible pet ownership training
- There should not be measures set ONLY for pit bulls.
- It is the owner and not the breed of dog that is an issue. All pet owners need to teach and train their dogs whether they are 5 lbs or 150 lbs
- Owner of dog needs to get a license to own one of these types. The dogs aren't the problem. It's the owner and lack of knowledge on their end. Bad dog owners are the problem, not bad dogs.
- None of these Calgary has never and should never support breed specific legislation. Calgary was always opposed to BSL and should continue to be
- What is the definition of "exhibiting dangerous behavior" and "nuisance" and who assess or assigns the moniker? The above seems specific in breed type and general in definition. Clarify your definitions and then people can give their opinions on your options. I don't believe pit-bull type dogs are all assumed to be dangerous. Perhaps the OWNER should take the 'How to be a Good Owner' class instead of the dog being vilified.
- Pit bulls aren't the problem.
- I do not agree to singling out pitbulls in particular. You're grouping all pitbull owners and that is super unfair. Besides there are other breeds that have a deadly bite along with pitbulls. Might as well add German shepherds, huskies, Rottweilers, dobermans, and so many other breeds.
- Enforce current bylaws in non offleash areas.
- There are more destructive breeds than pit bulls and I feel it is unfair to target specific breeds. Husky's and Ikeda's are more likely to bite. Bully breeds are unjustly targeted. Any dog that is antagonized can bite.

- Please do not name dog breeds!!! This just adds to the negative stigma. All dogs and owners have the ability to be inappropriate.
- Do not single out pitfalls, the dogs are not the problem, its the owners. Pitfalls are no more dangerous than any other dog and you singling them out like this is only going to harm responsible pet owners and fosters.
- If a there is a second instance of a dog being a nuisance there should be an automatic fine. If it bites, the fine should triple.
- NO DOG OWNER SHOULD HAVE TO PAY MORE FOR THEIR DOG JUST BECAUSE OF THE BREED OR THEY WAY THEY LOOK!! BAD OWNERS ARE THE PROBLEM NOT THE DOG
- It is not just pitbulls. It is the owners. Give them a huge fine. Also some small dogs are scarier than a pitbull. Dont distinguis from any breed. They bite someone or attack another dog. Seize them and fine the owners. I dont know if the dogs should ever be returned obviously the owner wasnt responsible enough. No second chances.
- All dogs regardless of breed are the responsibility of the owner. Owners should be penalized if their dogs cause other people and animals harm. I'd like to see some public education to prevent dog bites from happening.
- Please do not make laws specific to pit bulls. There is no benefit to breed specific legalization.
- Nuisance applies to many dogs of various breeds! Large breed are no stronger than bull breeds and unless it's a blanket rule to muzzle all large breeds like Rottweiler, cane corso, Mastiff, husky, Akita this is unfair to responsible owners who have trained and have never had an issue. More feet on the ground needed to enforce all the off leash dogs in on leash areas and people not scooping their poop. Focus on offenders and dogs that are picked up at large or breach bylaw rules and deemed specifically a nuisance. Not the breed but the individual dog!!
- Small dogs bite people more then pit bulls... you look so ignorant singling out these breeds.
- Choosing to backslide into breed specific Language in your bylaws is ridiculous. Calgary has long been held as the gold standard of animal bylaws in large part because of their fair and unbiased approach to bully type dogs. Going back from this is a huge step backwards. And for the record, do the research on Pitbulls and bite forces; they are NOT the strongest bite force dogs.
- Breed specific legislation is a lazy attempt and creating sensationalized news. Make legislation based on facts not media talking points. Disapointed the city wastes time discussing pitbulls at all!
- Fine the owner of ANY BREED! Not just "pit bulls"! Stop the narrow-minded biased opinion against "pit bulls"
- Owners should be held responsible for nuisance claims rather than punishing the pets
- The proposed breed specific legislation would apply directly to us, since we have had two "pit bull type" dogs living in our household for the last ten years (without any incidents). We are very concerned with several aspects of breed specific legislation (BSL) in general and these proposals in particular. The breed specific restrictions that were implemented in other jurisdictions (amongst them Edmonton and the province of Ontario) were not successful to curb unwanted dog bites, and also not successful to reduce the overall severity of dog bites. Such legislation would also unfairly target us dog owners who are complying with the bylaw and have licensed our dogs with the correct breed.

The proposed legislation also leaves completely open how and by who a dog's breed would be assessed, which could potentially lead to lengthy disputes. It also makes no statement regarding the "grandfathering" of dogs like ours that have lived in the community for prolonged periods of time. If any breed specific legislation were to be implemented, we would prefer a system where dogs could demonstrate that they are not dangerous (e.g. by a behavioral assessment) and live in the community normally.

- City of Calgary STOP USING PITBULL AS A BLANKET TERM FOR ALL OF THESE BREEDS. In addition the lumping in of the Staffordshire Bull Terrier with these breed is asinine. Our breed standard states "totally reliable, affectionate to all people, with an affinity for children". Does that sound like the standard of a dangerous dog to you? Smarten up, and stop calling my breed a pitbull.
- I don't like your wording here, because as much as you think we're brain dead, we know what you mean by "nuisance dogs". I do believe ANY dog that has been in trouble before should be dealt with differently. HOWEVER, we all know you guys are targeting pit bulls. Which, I dunno, fine problematic owners? If an idiot who buys a pitt bull trains it to be aggressive and you put the dog down, they will buy another dog and teach it to behave similarly. Punish the gross and incompetent owners. Fine them, maybe ban them from owning animals. You punish these people and all of a sudden you got a lot less issues with dogs and you could probably fine them a lot to make a bunch of money for, you know, a snow removal budget or something. I don't own a dog of any kind, but this is like killing a cat because it's black. [removed]
- Pit bulls are not the reason! It should be the owners who get penalized! I have been bitten by multiple small dogs unprovoked and the owners do not care. My dogs; current and past who have been pit bulls been attacked by other breeds and did nothing but the other owners do not take responsibility for their dogs because the breed that I had! It is unfair to single out a breed because the media chose to install fear in people's lives. It happened with other breeds in the past and should not continue! It is like singling our people because of the "stereotypes" which is wrong! Do not blame the breed because of other people's mistakes! No more back yard breeding and people need to be educated and trained on how to care for dogs because any dog can bite unprovoked but it should not be isolating a breed for no reason. That is shameful, embarrassing and disgusting.
- Two problems that bother me with bteed identiity is that people will mis-identify and hode that their dogs are pit-bulls and there are many people that take good care of their staffordshire terriers so they should not automatically be treated like bad dogs. I support massive fines and rules for dogs that are aggressive towards people even without a major bite occurring.
- insurance should be required for all dogs, then let the insurers decide what are high cost or low cost insurance dogs
- only one or two dogs per person while in park.
- "Pit bull" dogs are not the problem. I've NEVER had an issue with these breeds and I am an offleash ambassador as well as a vet assistant. Little dogs are way more often a nusience, loud, vicious, badly trained and more likely to attack. If you're worried about "pit bull strength" you should also worry about Bernese, St Bernards, Rottweilers, and wolfhounds. That excuse is a cop out. BSL has never been proven effective, anywhere, in its entire history.

- Stop the breed specific garbage.
- Using Breed Specific bylaws has been proven ineffective as a bite prevention mechanism in nearly all jurisdictions. STOP using language that perpetuates myths that pitbull-type dogs are more dangerous than other types. This is untrue.
- It is usually the owner at fault and not a specific breed. Staffordshire bullterriers are NOT pitbulls. They are known as the nanny dog, please educate.
- IT IS NOT PITBULLS THAT ARE THE PROBLEM ITS OWNERS THAT ARE THE PROBLEM
- Don't blame the animal, blame the bad Owner.
- Ban dangerous breeds
- I don't think pitbulls should have any extra laws it's not the dog it's the owners how about the owners needing to prove they can handle the dog not the dogs problem! I have a pitbull service dog fully certified with the government he's getting the short end of the stick because of stupid owners! He's the friendliest dog but now he can't go enjoy off leash parks or be a dog just because of his breed that isn't fair!
- Let's not go down the pit bull path - there is no evidence it works - instead focusing on "nuisance" dogs. Many dogs may look "pit" like but contain none of the listed breeds - then is it subjective rather than objective
- We are NOT a breed specific legislation city!! Please look at the responses to BSL in other areas. It does not help. Washington state recently passed a law banning municipalities from having BSL. This committee is going backwards on this issue. BSL does not work!!!
- Higher fines, obedience training, bans from dog parks (or other restrictions) should be required for dogs that have had a complaint of nuisance and/or aggressive behavior or if Calgary Community Standards representative observes it. Patrolling of city parks for these behaviors is encouraged.
- Several dog breeds are big and strong, signaling out one doesn't keep communities safer. You should have consulted veterinarians before mentioning any specific breed of dog, and this survey doesn't even ask me for a postal code, very disappointed my tax dollars are going to ask a lay person's uneducated opinion, go with science!
- Not singling out pitbull breeds, any dog breed can bite.
- Absolutely no breed specific bylaws.
- How about just aim it at nuisance dogs and not "pitbulls". Shepherds are more prone to aggressive behavior, should that not be specify if youre going this route?
- Rehoming nuisance dogs on first offence, termination on second offence.
- Avoid all breed specific legislation. First was dobermans and Shepard's and now pitties. Bad owners have bad dogs of all breeds.
- You should not focus on pitbulls as any large breed dog can do the exact same amount of damage. This is disgusting you're suggesting BSL.
- Bylaw should not discriminate against dog breed
- Nine of these are good options. A dog gets a noise complaint so it can't go to an off-leash park?? What's one got to do with the other. And can we please stop targeting "pit bull like breeds? Chihuahua's need the obedience training I've certainly been bitten more often by them.

- None of the above, its not a "breed" issue. Don't be foolish.
- Certified education program for owners of all pets made mandatory
- Absolutely disgusted to see Breed Specific Legislation being floated here. Shame on you.
- I do not support any legislation that singles out a specific breed or appearance of dog to be subject to different rules. There is an abundance of research out there that confirms BSL does not work. Calgarys model has been referred to all over the world as what responsible pet legislation should look like. We should not be changing from that to something that has been proven not to work. Ontario is looking at repealing their BSL because it doesn't work.
- Each person will have a subjective opinion of nuisance or dangerous behaviour. Will never support BSL, every dog is capable of biting and all should be treated equally despite the breed of dog. We need MUCH better control of off leash dogs being purposely walked off leash in on leash areas.
- Credentials for obedience trainers. there seems to be an awful lot of trainers operating in the city of Calgary using methods that science and experience have determined to be detrimental to the human/dog bond and often lead to an escalation of problem behaviours, especially in the case of aggression and other fear based behaviours. Pitbulls are not the problem. Their owners thinking they have a power breed that needs to be dominated in order to be under control is. If needed I can send a mountain of literature to back up the evidence that behaviourists the world over currently use in their practice to assure they are using the most modern methods to assist dogs in overcoming issues.
- I've been bitten by small dogs eleven times! Go after the individual dog, not a certain breed!
- Any breed can be found a nuisance so these should be applied to all animals.
- Rules should NOT be breed specific
- A nuisance dog is a nuisance dog. Shouldn't need to specify pit bull. I personally believe that all dog owners should be required to attend training with their animal regardless of size and/or breed.
- I would support a pitbull ban.
- I DO NOT support any breed specific bylaws.
- Breed specific legislation has proven to be ineffective and misguided in many other cities. I do not in any way agree with breed specific bylaws..
- charging owner with assault for repeated aggressive acts comitted by their dog. There are people who don't care about the danger their aggressive dog poses to the public. The only thing that gets their attention is to treat the attack as though the owner themselves had committed it
- Pittbulls arent the problem, owners tend to be more of the issue. People having unleashed dogs at the leash dog parks, not controlling their dogs..If a dog is trained to view everyone as a threat guess what happens when that backyard guard dog gets out? 24/7 tethering should be banned, and aggressive dogs should be required to be spayed/neutered.
- Stop picking on pit bulls or dogs of a specific breed...any dog can be a nuisance or attack without proper training or handling. The City if Calgary doe not need to be indicating a specific breed and this is wrong!
- Just ban pit bull ownership completely

- BSL has not worked in other cities. What has happened to Calgary? We once were a city whose animal control bylaws were lauded throughout North America
- BSL punishes innocent dogs based on 'looks' and not actions. Calgary has always been about responsible ownership but this will create misinformation misinterpretation resulting in innocent dogs suffering. Only breed-neutral, evidence-based legislation will have any chance to address dog-related problems in the community.
- Very disheartening that you're including breed-specific legislation, which is not supported by the literature regarding effective animal control bylaws.
- It's disgusting that you are making it seem that bullies are the problems. This is not ok and should really think about this one!
- This is so breedist. Essentially racism.
- Give a free year of licencing for all dogs that have completed obedience training, another year for a microchip. I have met some lovely staffies, amstaffs, pit bull terrier and am pitties. I have personally been bitten by a chinese crested that took a hunk of skin through my jeans. Give me a pit any day!
- I am offended by the way you single out pit bulls. There should not be specific rules for one type of dog
- Any sort of suggestion that pit bulls should some how be treated any differently than any other breed shoes a lack of understanding and close mindedness by the author. This is beyond ridiculous
- It's nice how one breed is discriminated against so fervently and used as a example in so many instances when I believe it's not warranted why not use a chihuahua as an example for breed legislation those "ankle biters" little dogs have nipped at my "pibull" than any other breed the city should be ashamed to demonize such beautiful dogs
- Fines for owners that let their dogs run off leash in a residential neighborhood
- BSL is not a good thing. I think you should be focusing on responsible pet guardianship and increased obedience training for all dogs. The off-leash parks in this city are a joke, too many untrained dogs running around while there people are visiting with friends. Retractable leashes shouldn't be allowed either, I think you should have to have a special license if you are going to use one of those.
- I am not sure that your definition of a nuisance dog would push me towards these restrictions, nor the type of dog. I would support these ventures if a dog has been sited for exhibiting dangerous behavior. A dog who can escape from its yard or possibly barks a bit too much and annoys the neighbors is not a good enough reason for me.
- fines for any dog involved in bylaw offences. any breed dog should have obedience training. If there is a potential for any breed dog to be out of control they should be muzzled. No single breed should be held to a higher standard
- Please do not separate out a breed. This has been proven not to work.
- if nuisance were defined solely as biting I'd be more in favour of some of these steps, but a dog that barks when left outside home alone for hours shouldn't need to be muzzled or banned from an off-leash park. The problem should be addressed with the owners. Dog's should be removed from owners who repeatedly allow their dog to escape their yard, who are off-leash in on-leash areas, or who otherwise disturb members of the public in public areas

- Behaviour follow up reports would be useful
- Why just Pit Bulls. A Bull Mastiff attacked my dog and they have a locked jaw. They can be just as dangerous. How does someone get declared a nuisance? It has to be defined
- I would like to see more enforcement of "dogs must be under control" in off-leash parks. Just because a dog doesn't actively try to run away from the owner doesn't mean it is under control.
- Targeting pit bull breeds is a sign of total bias and miseducation.
- Owner education, that is all
- Please dismiss any and all options that are breed specific. It does not matter the breed of the dog when it comes to being a nuisance. Very disappointing that Calgary seems to be taking a step backwards with their thinking of some of these bylaws.
- Pit bulls do not have a stronger bite than most dogs. The average dog bite comes in at 230-250 psi, a pitbull bite is 235 psi. Fines and regulations should not be breed related.
- If you are going to add "pit bulls" you must define also add all the other strong breeds such as Akita, Chesapeake Bay Retrievers, Catahoula Leopard Dog, Doberman Pinscher, Rottweiler, Boerboel, Cane Corso, Pressa Canario. Plus, if you discriminate against dogs with pit bull in them, you are killing thousands of rescue dogs, as they may be 1/10th pit bull. Please do not have any breed ban or discrimination. Control the behaviours. Bad pet owners can ruin any breed of dog, including some that are even stronger than pit bulls.
- Stop going after bully breeds. Breed specific laws are ridiculous. Breed specific discrimination should not be tolerated. Owners are responsible for the actions of their animals (unless they are the victim) and themselves. Breed discrimination is absolutely archaic. There are no bad dogs, only bad owners. Put more resources into being able to educate people about different breeds and requirements.
- Follow what you have been doing don't label a breed.
- You must keep this breed neutral, several breeds have greater bite force and breed is not a factor in dog bite incidence
- Dangerous dog bylaws can be effective but breed specific bylaws have been shown to be expensive and ineffective. It is important to target legislation at dogs that have a history of dangerous behaviour not a wildly ambiguous law that targets dogs based on their looks and perceived breed.
- There should NOT be 'pit bull' specific laws of any sort. I do not own one but they are just another kind of dog.
- All dogs (no matter breed) should have mandatory obedience
- obedience training required for all dogs, not just pit bulls. Also, I don't understand why more insurance would be needed for a nuisance dog, as defined above.
- None of the above. It's truly disturbing (disgusting actually) that the city would even consider labeling pit bulls and pit bull like breeds. This is not acceptable in any way.
- Nothing pit bull specific, it's ridiculous to target one "breed" rather than the behaviours and poor ownership that can happen with any breed

- Take "pitbull" out of all of your selections. This is discrimination against a breed that is very difficult/impossible to identify. Don't even go there.
- Fines for owners who have dogs or children that initiated the incident. Little dogs and children are notorious for running towards, jumping at, biting and other instigating behaviors towards larger dogs. Most large dogs ignore it until they need it to stop - this is usually when a bite happens. More accountability must occur for the ENTIRE situation. Not simply punish the big dog and their owner. I would also argue that small yappy dogs should be considered nuisance dogs since they bite and are aggressive just as often as "pit bull" like type dogs, or any other large dog. ALL SIZED OWNERS SHOULD BE HELD ACCOUNTABLE FOR THEIR ACTIONS OF THEIR DOGS. Please stop targeting one breed, or one set of owner types (large dog owners). I own both - my yorkie was always the instigator against my rottweiler (10 lb vs 140 lb). Too many people simply blame the big dog - when the child or the small dog should have been stopped long ago from carrying on its provoking and annoying behaviour.
- The owners of nuisance dogs need low or no cost access to qualified, positive reinforcement-based trainers. It is shameful that breed specific legislation against pit bulls is even being considered - please follow the science on this subject and not uneducated public opinion. As well, forcing owners to get insurance for nuisance dogs (which includes 'barking') is ridiculous and only serves to add financial barriers to pet owners
- Don't bully my breed! My Bully has been charged at by "non-friendly" purse breeds (shitzu's, Chihuahua, etc) that have been in Off Leash Parks while remaining on a leash. Leash reactivity is the main issue that causes dog fights and issues.
- Fines and/or potential jail time for owners who do not remain on the scene of a dog attack
- If you include pit bulls please include the following: German Shepherds, any mastiff, all labs any medium to large dog. It would be more appropriate to do it by weight. How do you single out a pit bull and not a mastiff that weighs 150 lbs? I think if you have been
- Don't apply additional measures based on the breed. The measures should be the same for all breeds.
- Obedience training for ALL dogs, not just specific breeds or nuisance dogs.
- No breed bans
- It's not just pit bulls or "anything" that looks like!! I have seen more small dogs bite, than pit bulls! It shouldn't matter the breed, these rules should be for ANY breed. I think more needs to be done about small dog starting things, or being off leash and running up to big dogs. Many breeds bite and can be unsafe, you shouldn't centre out one breed. Send out a survey, asking what size dogs cause most issues, and what size dogs cause most issues, whether on street or dog park. You will see where the issues lay'
- I am 61 years old. I have never in my entire life ever met a mean or aggressive "pit bull". Though I have met over 100 mean and aggressive small breeds! Stop berating "pit bulls" and go after any dog that bites!
- Pit bulls are not the issue. As far as I know husky (huskyx) are just as risky as far as injury and death. Please do not single out pitbulls. We want safe socialized dogs. Whether it is a small breed or large nuisance, out of control dogs should see the higher licensing, fines and insurance. Maybe then they will take pet ownership seriously.

- all dogs over a certain weight (certified annually by a qualified professional) should require to be muzzled in public regardless of breed. Its wrong to single out a dog by its breed. All dogs will bit a person but the big dogs can cause the problems. This should be applied to so called support animals.
- I strongly disagree with singling out pit bulls. The added strength is an old wives tale. I have more issues with labs and golden retrievers than bully breeds.
- Dogs with a pitbull look should have nothing to do with this. Treat each dog and owner individually. BSL doesn't work and only perpetuates the stigma.
- None of the above. The above restrictions are a form of prejudice. The breed is NOT the problem. Educating the public about dogs/kid behavior in dog parks/adult behavior in dog parks would be an excellent starting point.
- Most of the time it is the owner's fault, lack of training with the owner, not the specific dog.
- No breed specific legislation.
- Aggressive dogs should be euthanized. If someone is hurt no 2nd chance.
- Associate nuisance dogs with their owners.. aka if you have one trouble dog, all your dogs are flagged as potential trouble dogs.
- I strongly object to this whole line of suggestions Never owned a pit bull or Staffie but this is simply unacceptable to a 80 year old dog owner who has never had a dog picked up by the pound and has always had my dogs licensed. I object to this whole line of questions
- NOTHING!
- Pitbull breed should be banned within city limits. Enforcement should include jail time.
- More emphasis should be put on the owners of these dogs (there are no bad dogs, only bad owners!) Require owner to pay hefty fines that help fund rehabilitation programs for the dogs.
- I do not agree with breed-specific by-laws. Dogs should never be blamed for their behavior. The behaviors they exhibit are purely a reflection of their owners.
- Keep a recors of the owners and increase fines deny liscing within the municipality for repeat offenders. Action should be focused on the owner not the animal
- Pit bulls are not the issue, you really need to re word and re think this section
- Ban dangerous breeds from Calgary.
- “ the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull’s strength allows the potential for a more severe bite.” This is a fallacy and I STRONGLY OPPOSE BYLAWS BASED ON MYTHS! Bully breeds do NOT have any stronger bite power (psi) than ANY other breed!
- Item 2 - only orders acceptable would be to ensure dog stays on owners property for extent of investigation. No other orders would be acceptable.
- Please use science here. Obedience training is important for 'nuisance' dogs, but not all obedience training is equal. Punishment based training has been shown to increase aggression in dogs. Please make people get science based/humane training. It works and it's safer. Also I assume a dog isn't declared a nuisance for escaping its yard once or twice... that wouldn't be fair to the dog or owner.

- Get your disgusting BSL away from my dog.
- Nuisance dogs are nowhere near same worry that biting dogs are so don't understand why you want heavier control. That was not what was shared in meetings I attended. And BSL is not what the engagement groups wanted either so stop pushing your desires on the public please/. No need for BSL. Any dog can be a threat.
- This is totally unacceptable the problem does not exist with the breed it exists with the person who owned it. I have owned several large breed dogs in this category and they have amazing temperaments. The problem is training is needed of the owners
- Fully on board with restrictions based on nuisance behaviour, but absolutely against those restrictions being breed based. There is insufficient data to demonstrate that pit bull type dogs are any worse behaved or more dangerous than other breeds. I would also support similar rules applying to all dogs owned by a household that has had nuisance dogs, so that the bad owner who has a nuisance dog already is discouraged from getting additional dogs and turning them into nuisances.
- Pit bulls and other like breeds MUST be outlawed. They are a danger and threat to all including their owners
- I am disappointed in breed-specific legislation. It's based on public pandering, not science
- I feel like for any responsible dog owner to use an off leash park they should be required to go to obedience classes.
- Ban the breeding of pit bulls. There's no place for a dog breed with aggression as a breed trait and that much strength in modern society and it's unfair to them to be a breed often sought out by irresponsible dog owners (and thus neglected and abused). Owned and adoptable pit bulls and responsible owners shouldn't suffer for it as not all are aggressive, but they should be illegal to breed. Also, a lot of these questions are too open ended, if my dog growls and barks at someone entering my property, does that give the city the right to take her away? What exactly is a nuisance and what option of redemption do they have (ie. if they were barking all day and owners were trying to find a solution, does this mean they can't go to dog parks? What purpose does this serve and can the owner go to dog parks after a set amount of time since nuisance report? A bored dog is just going to bark more).
- Pit bulls banned from ownership or adoption in the City of Calgary
- Dog parks Are accidents waiting to happen, we not make people leash dogs here. A person should Be able recall their dogs 100% of the time to be off leash. There are so many bad pet owners going to nose hill.
- The term "nuisance" as defined in a sketchy way make same sort of all the options, for ex. if a dog barks for 1-2 minutes it could be then a nuisance for anybody who does not like dogs and call the Bylaw for any personal grievances., plus the influx of drug addicts with erratic/psychotic behaviour provokes barking. Keep dangerous dog definition as attacking people or other dogs ! .
- Incident specific bylaws, not breed based bylaws. specific
- Pitbulls are not the problem, owners are. breed specific legislation does nothing to curtail bites, just look at other jurisdictions with the same rules. they are actually reversing them.

- Causing pitbulls to be muzzled across the board is cruel to the animals. They are super sweet dogs naturally and shouldn't be subject to that unless their owners have trained them to be bad.
- There are more breeds (EX: Chihuahua, Pekingese, Yorkies, Dachshund, Jack Russell's, Cocker Spaniel's) that bite people the most often. Yet you don't hear that on the media! Stop vilifying "pit bull's", 99% of them are well behaved, unlike small dogs that are mean and vicious to everyone 60-70% if the time!
- You're very much pigeonholing people/breeds. Many people own dogs that have reactivity issues. Basing the bylaw based on breed or without clearer definitions/terms is way off base. Perhaps the city should open up buildings and help reduce the cost of training classes. This would pay off 10 fold as we all know a well trained dog is typically a happy dog. Happy dogs, don't seek their own entertainment. If we can educate owners and make training accessible to more people. We should see a decline in AC calls.
- Small dogs should get the same discrimination as pit bulls. They are out of control, barking, nuisance, they aggravate all other dogs in off leash parks and owners do nothing as they lunge and bark at bigger dogs. Who in turn are the "bad dogs" for defending themselves. If pit bull training is mandatory all dog training should be mandatory.
- It doesn't make any sense to bar all nuisance dogs (ie a frequent barker) from dog parks. It doesn't make sense to ban an entire set of breeds. Ban dogs who have bitten. Require muzzles for dogs who have bitten.
- Reach out to breeders ckc and trainers such as myself (harmoniousstate.ca) we can help implement better programs. As a breeder of am staffs I can tell you how wrong your information is about the breed.
- NO BREED SPECIFIC BYLAWS. Come on grow up and leave the hard work done by Bill alone.
- How dare you single out pit bull like dogs? any dog that is bigger than a rat has the potential to inflict damage when they bite.
- Additional authority to euthanize problem dogs.
- Obedience training required for all large or potentially aggressive dog breeds.
- Discriminating by breed is tantamount to racism, the fact that this is even being considered makes me ashamed of this city, I have been attacked by 5 dogs on separate occasions, 1 Pomeranian cross, 2 shih tzu mixes, 1 Dachshund and 1 german shepard mix, yet I have had more interaction with pit bull mixes and have never been shown aggression.
- These are ridiculous. Breed specific legislation has been shown not to work in multiple other cities, and singling out one breed, rather than a specific behavior is ignorant. Focus on training and limiting exposure to problem animals. If a lot of these came into effect you would have to specify what "nuisance" means. Based on the definition for these questions, it is a wide scope of issues. Muzzling dogs that have been at large more than once doesn't make sense.
- Graduated license scheme where owners of specified breeds need to demonstrate an understanding of the breeds specific needs. This is no different than needing a different license for different vehicles. Public education campaign aimed at non-dog owners. They can be a significant factor in inducing negative behaviour. It is far too easy for many people to forget that different communities view dogs role and status differently and they may not understand the conventions here leading to confusion and possibly conflict. The dog is a product of its environment.

- Higher licensing fees for pit bulls and nuisance dogs.
- Singling out certain breeds just makes those potential owners find the next best dog for them. It's the owners that's usually the problem, not just the dog's fault.
- Avoid all breed specific legislation please.
- Why are you singling out pit bulls?
- Tracking ownership of "nuisance dogs" and put restrictions in place to prevent owners that have a history of incidents from owning powerful breeds.
- This should also focus on the Owner's behaviors, they should complete significant training if one offense.
- Cannot select these without knowing how a dog is declared a nuisance. What are the criteria?
- I fully support the way Calgary has handled BSL, and refusing to make it a part of our culture. The stereotypes against them are just that, and as a city where we promote inclusivity, I think this is a very important decision to foster belonging. Bully breed owners are discriminated against enough, we don't need it from the City we call home as well.
- I firmly believe there are no bad dogs, just bad owners. Seizure of problem dogs would be acceptable if they are given a second change in foster care and not destroyed.
- Pit bulls are not more of an issue than other dogs. Any bylaws should not be breed basis.
- If pitbulls require obedience training, ALL DOGS should required obedience training. There should not be any breed-specific bylaws for animals. Aggressive dog behaviour is a result of its owners and are not indicated by breed. I know more people who have been attacked by golden retrievers than pitbulls. I can't believe this is even up for discussion. Very disappointed in the city.
- If a dog is loose and bites a person it should be caught and destroyed within 24 hours. Owner should be fined in accordance with severity of bite.
- EVERY large dog can cause serious injury stop singling out specific breeds!
- Ban on those breeds altogether
- I would support banned them altogether.
- No breed-specific legislation - owners of all breeds of dogs need to be more responsible with their animals, including leashing, obedience training, etc.
- I highly appose singling out out pit bulls in any city bylaw
- Responsible ownership certification for owners of "nuisance" dogs - putting the emphasis on educating the owner, rather than fixing the dog. Behavioural issues are often a result of neglect on the owner's part - they've neglected to socialize or train the animal, or they've not treated them well (lack of exercise, time, attention).
- We're against any BSL. Stop targeting breeds and focus on education. For example You need Education on the pitbull terrier breed. And remove all other breeds from this discussion.
- Enable 311 report when dog owners don't have their dog on leash in leash zone such as play grounds and parks.

- Easier reporting process for persistent and uncontrolled barking dogs where owners do not control their dogs. Fines for repeated offences that can be verified by video reports.
- it's so much more about proper training. both 'nuisance at & dogs that wouldn't be considered as that. all dog & pet owners are 100% responsible for their pets. always.
- Please do not practice such blatant ignorance regarding "pit bulls" as it comes across as uneducated, stereotypical and biased
- No dogs should be off leash except on private property. Off leash parks are not a good idea.
- I don't support singling out pit bulls for bylaw purposes.
- Breed specific laws are ignorant and dangerous. You've phrased on of the questions here to equate put bulls with nuisance animals, which is pointing to your intent to label pitbulls are nuisance animals, which violates evidence and the Spirit of this survey
- It is clear that the City is looking to be selective towards 1 type of looking dog. I can not see these addressing true concerns of Dog bites. This is forcing on breed nothing more.
- Disheartening that you are being breed specific and would prefer that nuisance is referred to ANY BREED/TYPE since BSL has been proven inefficient in many states/provinces. I feel nuisance should be reviewed as a case to case basis... and required dog/owner training would be mandatory if fined/offender etc. Options to surrender their animal to a rescue of their choice vs humane society.
- I like the idea of muzzles, though I worry it could turn some folks into the 'pit police' thinking they can identify and confront park users they think for this description. I think that education is key. I don't favour solutions that favour those with money to counter bad behaviour. Perhaps owners with pits and nuisance animals would have to attend and pass a city run (free) obedience course (showing appropriate control of their animal) to be exempt from any higher insurance need or to receive a special 'pit' license (the city is aware of the animal and content it was able to complete the needed training so the handler and animal are able to demonstrate their knowledge in navigating problem situations. I don't want the city to judge the animals by themselves as many can be great and it's poor handlers that often result in poor animal behaviour. I don't favour outright breed bans but education and precautions seem reasonable.
- Pit bull ban
- Ban pit bulls. Also ban people who think it's cool to have one. Alternatively allow citizens to use public facilities while carrying defensive weapons. Which is riskier - pit bulls with unknown tendencies under the control of careless or aggressive owners or weapons in the hands of licensed citizens?
- I found it difficult to answer these questions when "nuisance" doesn't must mean a vicious or prone to biting, but rather includes roaming and loud dogs. I don't think a dog that barks loudly or roams should be muzzled but if it's vicious and/or bites, then yes. Same goes for the additional insurance - yes if they are vicious or a biter, but not if prone to bark a lot or roam. I would also add that I don't think Pit Bulls should have special restrictions but the threshold should be lower i.e. if a Pit Bull bites once, they must wear a muzzle, if a non-Pit Bull bites once, maybe they get another chance before being considered a "nuisance" just from a safety perspective.

- BAN PITBULLS COMPLETELY IN THE CITY OF CALGARY AND OUTLYING AREAS UNLESS THE DOG ATTENDS A STANDARD BEHAVIORAL TEST AND PASSES
- pitbulls are not the problem, please do some research, it is poor ownership. there are several dogs ahead of pitbull types that bite more people per capita.
- Calgary Community Standards should have the authority to seize a dog that has exhibited dangerous behaviour but also dogs that are responsible for more than 2 interim orders or nuisance infractions. Upon a 3rd incident, people can only stop the seizure if they complete a thorough obedience class within 60 days. If a 4th incident occurs, then the dog is seized and the owner cannot get a license for another dog.
- Mandatory spay neuter. There are some lovely ones. The breed however needs to disappear.
- The breed is not the problem, the irresponsible owners are.
- Don't implement breed specific legislation, especially since you clearly state these breeds are not more likely to be a nuisance. Breed specific legislation is not evidence-based policy.
- DO not penalize the DOG and the breed! Change the dialogue to address the bad owners! My dog had been 'confronted' by many other breeds of dog in the off leash but never a pit bull! There needs to be free classes for all dog owners to learn dog behavior and better communication/understanding of dog behavior. Of the 20 years I been attending off leash, incidents always happen when the owner is not watching their dogs behavior. There are no bad dogs, just poor dog owners!
- Great ideas. I support all of them! Watched a golden retriever killed at Edworthy dog park last year by a pitbull. The guy took off with his pitbull as people tried to save the retriever.
- Including "pit bulls" in this questioning makes no sense. All dogs have a bit risk, labeling a specific breed makes no sense. We don't have breed specific legislation in calgary.
- I do not agree with any of these. It is very unfair to just assume the pit bull breads should have more rules than any other dog breed. If anything it should be the owner who needs to be watched or looked over because that is where the dog learns its behavior. It breaks my heart to see these accusations.
- I do not support measures that affect pitbulls or dogs that appear to be pitbulls (having seen other municipalities incorrectly identify non-bully breeds on appearance alone). I do support measures that discourage people from seeking bully breeds for violent uses/ aggression.
- I would not single out one breed. IMO It's the owners that need to be held accountable. How about educating the public about dog ownership before buying/licencing a pooch.
- I don't think its fair to single out a breed. Whatever measures that are put in place should be to encourage responsible ownership and training. Not on punishing the dog or responsible owners
- I strongly support all of these steps to reduce serious attacks by pitbulls. My family has 2 pitbull attacks n kids in front of our home with a month of each other. The first child required reconstructive surgery. Thank you for addressing this issue.
- All programs must be cost-effectively enforceable; No regulatory burden shall be put in place if it can't be cost-effectively enforced; prioritize cost-efficiency;

- The pit bulls in my neighbourhood are quite well behaved, and to put a bylaw on ONE breed when others like the Dogo Argentino are permitted is crazy. Shouldn't single out legislation for one breed. Studies show small dogs are the most likely to bite.
- This is the dumbest thing I've read. You want to separate people from their pets? You want the power to seize pets for NO reason?? If any of these pass I will work tirelessly to replace this city council with smarter people !
- While I do not feel it is fair to single out pit-bulls. I do support limiting the number of nuisance dogs per-household
- I strongly disagree with targetting pitbulls and pitbull owners
- More patrol and stricter enforcement of pets off leash in non off leash areas.
- Deal with dogs case by case. Don't judge a dog by their breed. It's about ownership not the dogs breed.
- bsl unfairly targets responsible pet owners. The reality is all dogs can pose a huge bite risk. The current by law needs to be enforced more. The city has fallen short in this area.
- It is ridiculous to punish and single out a single dog breed. I understand the intent in protecting people from the most dangerous bites, but the punishments should be on the owner and NOT the dog in any way.
- Do not target bull breeds - you're wasting taxpayers money by going after these dogs
- None of the above. These options are ridiculous
- If pitbulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other breeds why are they SPECIFICALLY being targeted for rules while other breeds are not?
- Owner training for nuisance dogs. I would not support any breed specific legislation, however.
- Please educate yourselves to see that this is not the way to go. I cannot believe that Calgary is so ignorant that they might try to enact breed specific legislation.
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- You people are mental. This is idiocy
- Making a Breed specific legislation does not fix the problem. The problem is irresponsible pet owners. Bully breed dogs should not be condemned because of how they look.if you want changes start at the root which is pet owners that do not understand how to control a dog (this means ANY breed). A lot of problems are small dogs that can get away with anything just because they don't cause as much damage when in fact they instigate situations that they can not win. Make resources more affordable and easier for dog owners(large and small) to access. There is no reason to single out a dog because of how it looks, stop the stigma. Before pitbulls it was german shepherds, and before that another breed. .
- I don't think it is fair to discriminate the bully breeds. IF new bylaws are passed not allowing bully breeds in certain places , 1 per household , muzzling them. The City of Calgary is the problem. More dogs will end up in shelters / homeless. They deserve to live a normal life just like any other breed. Dogs that have known behavioural issues should have to go to obedience training .
- The problem behind nuisance dogs is the owner not the breed.

- Pitbulls aren't a problem, poor owners and those with a lack of knowledge or experience with this dogs are the problem. I own a pitbull terrier cross and hes been bite by countless purse dogs all while hes never attacked anyone and hes a gentle soul. Shame on the city of calgary for accusing animals like pitbulls to be vicious or dangerous. You seem to lack an understanding of canines and which ones are a nuisances. You base their aggression and level of dabger based on their size? So i assume all males who are taller than 5 ft should be considered dangerous aswell? Shame on you and your narrow closed minded outlook on this totic of breed selected legislation. My pitbull will always remain with me and i assure you that not one person will be placing their hands on his head so help me god! So its safe to assume that the statistics that showcase how small dogs are lore vicious will be included in this survey?
- Pitbull and pitbull type breeds should NOT be singled out - if any dog is demonstrating agressive behaviour or has bitten someone, the owner of the animal should be required to take some kind of training to be able to work with and train their animal properly
- I have noticed a larger number of dogs in Legacy and are not well controlled, I.e. barking and lunging at youngsters. When young mothers with strollers are fearful to walk in the park I think dogs should not be allowed near young children and have a walking park for themselves.
- All of these suggestions are ludicrous. Punish the owners, not the dogs. The fact that the city is considering breed shaming is disgusting and the city should be ashamed of itself. Impose harsh penalties on owners that don't take care of their dogs, but it is absolutely stupid to lump all dogs together in the same category because of their looks.
- Owners should be responsible for their pet training. The definition of 'declared' seems a bit loose and arbitrary. You're targeting a breed instead of reckless behaviour of the owner.
- This bylaw needs to be scraped. It's not the dogs that are the problems it's the owner
- Rottweilers and German Shepherds have been scientifically proven to Have a stronger bite force than a pitbull. Chow Chow, doberman pinscher, dalmatian, Rottweiler, Jack Russell terrier and German Shepherds have all scientifically been proven to be more aggressive than Pitbulls. I think Calgary needs to re-think the breed they are attacking and look at the owner instead.
- It's not the dogs it's the owners, how many times do you need to hear that before it clicks.
- NONE!!!
- Don't discriminate against a specific breed! This city is better than that!!
- BSL is wrong
- NOTHING!!!!!!!!!! It is 99.999% the owner, NOT "bully" breeds. Get over this discrimination.
- Confiscation of nuisance/threatening dogs from irresponsible owners and bans on those owners owning further animals set at a lower threshold. Punish the owner, not the dog (Unprovoked aggression should never be tolerated)
- People with a history of violence, criminal activity, owning aggressive animals or known for nuisance should be banned from owning any dog breed
- I feel the targeting of pit bulls due to their breed is a form of dog racism. It should be on the onus of the owner to be training their dog properly. We should be targeting behaviour, not breed.

- I would support treating each dog with the same rules and regulations AND NOT SINGLING OUT certain breeds.
- Please no discrimination against bully breeds! I work in the animal industry and the worst dog fight I've been involved with was instigated by a golden retriever.
- This is absolutely ridiculous ! As you've stated pit bulls are NOT involved in more bitter incidents than other breeds !! What that means is that it is NOT the breed, it is the owners. Animals should NOT be punished for human error or laps in judgement. Good animals and responsible dog owners should NOT be punished because there are a few bad seeds !! Honestly, as a non 'pit' or 'bull' breed owner myself, it's disgusting to think that some people would actually think any of these suggested options are a good idea at all.
- I am shocked that a progressive City like Calgary is reverting to this truly closed minded way of thinking. [removed] Therefore there should not be biased laws based on breed.
- I think it's disgusting that you would single out one breed as causing the problems when you actually stated that they don't have a higher rate of bites. The problem lies with the owners. If they can't control their dog, whether it be on leash, or if it gets out of the yard, or whatever the situation is, then deal with the owners. If a dog bites, then deal with that individual situation. Have you seen images of the damage a Husky can do??? How about a Golden Retriever? Like the one that tried to attack me and went into a rage. I can't believe in this day and age there are still people around that are so stupid to think that these ridiculous laws will protect people. Do you actually think the people that keep dangerous dogs are going to follow these bylaws? The local drug dealer who trains his dogs to bite or be aggressive is not going to muzzle the dog when he's walking down the street.
- Pit bulls are not the problem , bad owners are , huskies are more likely to attack . Chihuahua may not have a huge bite but they are more aggressive . If passed I would sell my house and move from Calgary in a heartbeat ! I don't even own a pit bull currently because of work but have in the past . City of Calgary give your head a shake !!
- None of the above
- Stop demonizing one or two dog types. Make all dog owners responsible and hold small dog owners to the same standard you put them all to
- None of the above - these are blanket questions with no scenarios. This survey is towards pit bulls and I don't agree with any of this.
- Pitbull types of dogs are not the problem. How about every human has to learn to be a proper and responsible pet owner? How about all dogs should require obedience training before being allowed in off leash dog parks in general I wouldn't specify it any breed of dog, I specify that to everyone of them. And dogs have to be neutered and spade to go to outdoor public dog parks. No ands or ifs.
- This is breed specific legislation and I do not support any of the above
- Start holding owners accountable for nuisance dogs! Owner of vicious dogs who have failed to correct issue after dog has been deemed vicious should have dog removed from home and taken to a humane society to be rehabilitated, well owner should be banned from owning dogs.
- These rules are completely ridiculous. Punish the owner not the dog.
- Apply to all dog breeds, smaller dogs bites more then "bully" dogs

- Pit Bulls are not inherently aggressive. There should not be Legislation against them.
- Nothing breed specific. A nuisance dog is a nuisance dog. Breed shouldn't matter. Responsible ownership of all animals is what matters.
- Nuisance must be more clearly defined in order to accurately answer questions.
- Owners being held responsible, responsible pet owners classes for person's with nuisance dogs. Who cares about the breed, its all about the owners
- BSL doesn't work. Literal science to back this up. Shame on you Calgary.
- Do NOT breed discriminate.
- All dogs should have obedience training. Owners should be responsible for their dogs behavior. Why single out pit bulls. Why not add German Shepards, labs (lots bite and they are strong too), Rottweiler's, etc, ect, etc.
- New dog owners need to do a basic responsible dog owners course before they get their dog licensed.
- Nothing, your picking on a breed when there are others ie. shepherds with just as strong bites... not ok with any additional bylaws for pitbulls.
- Owners be educated on dog behavior, pitbull or poodle
- Guard dog type working breeds such as German Shepherds and Rottweilers should also be considered for these bylaws due to their jaw strength, and not just "pit bull" type breeds.
- no breed soecific legislation works. It is the owner, not the breed. Pit pulls are not the dogs that attack the most. Why are you targetting them you jerks!
- Full investigation launched into the owners treatment of nuisance dogs and if evidence of abuse or neglect found, dog is apprehended, rehabilitated and rehomed and owner is charged criminally and banned from owning animals for life.
- Do not make owners muzzle their dogs. That is terrible.
- Stop blaming pit bulls when it is irresponsible pet owners. Pit bulls are not the problem.
- People who own little dogs and believe they are not the problem should be held more accountable than people who own "pitbulls". My "Pitbull" is far more well behaved than a lot of "grandma" dogs aka the little shits that bark at a [removed] butterfly or a leaf. How dare whoever came up with this idea to ostracized "pitbulls" and have it come to this point. They clearly have never owned one or been around one before. Shame on them.
- It is terrible that you're considering taking this action against specific dog breeds. I am so disappointed.
- How about fine the [removed] owner. Make them take an education course
- Dog training required for any new dog owner
- Stop singling out pit bulls, they are beautiful dogs (once called the nanny breed because of how good they are with kids). Maybe we need to jail the owners and rehome the dogs!
- Higher fines for people who don't train ANY dog properly leading to bites or other nuisance behaviour.
- Training for owners of nuisance dogs
- Pit bulls are wonderful dogs. Dogs should be individually assessed.

- I cannot believe I am having to say this but this feels very discriminatory towards the staffy/pitbull breeds. You should be focusing on dogs as a whole and not separating out breeds. A dog is a dog. Yes, a staffy is larger than a jack russell making it stronger. But is it really different from a german shephard or a mastif? Please research the bite facts of dogs and the different breeds before stating "It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite." Not because it's a pitbull..
- Training to advanced level with proven testing of owners for nuisance dogs is more important than insurance. But insurance must include renters not just home owners. A nuisance dog is any breed and is an untrained owner - must prove ability to handle animal to remove nuisance declaration.
- Fine and punish owners of dogs that have actually committed an offense.
- Invest in training for dogs and owners found to be a nuisance. The problem is not the dog it is often the owner and shame on the City of Calgary for singling out "block headed" dogs
- This Bsl is bs If your going to pick breeds by likelihood of nuisance, biting , barking etc Chihuahuas, jack russel , shitzus And the number 1 is lab retrievers This poor breed has been maligned because of few bad owners They test 10% higher than average in all areas of positive demeanor 25 yrs of rescue this infuriates me
- It's appalling that pit bulls are being identified like this.
- Pit bulls are not a dangerous breed. It's the owners that make a dog, putting these laws against what you consider to be a "dangerous" dog would lead to unnecessary euthanizing of perfectly fine dogs. Untrained and uneducated owners are the problem not pit bulls.
- There is no evidence to support breed specific legislation. As a veterinarian who treats many pit bulls, I am strongly against any breed or pit bull specific legislation.
- Any specific breed is not to blame! Chihuahuas are involved in more dog attacks in North America than any other breed! The owner is to blame , not the dog! Any law that targets a specific breed is no better than a law that targets a specific race and have no place in modern society!
- STOP blaming the appearance of a dog. Put more responsibility on the owner. I believe there should be a standard obedience training for ALL dog owners and to not single out a certain breed or behaviour that a dog is exhibiting. The owner should have temporary custody and training should be completed within 3 months after acquiring a pet. Baseline skills need to happen for both the owner and pet. After the temporary custody, the owner needs to license the dog. Failing to license the dog should be a maximum fine.
- Dogs should be on leash 100% of time when on side walks or back alleys
- Ban Flexi leashes. They are dangerous and ineffective, they lead to more fights and human injuries.
- I don't understand why Pit bulls are the only breed put as the most dangerous dogs, I had a dog that bite me and he was a small dog, I think it is the owners responsibility, do not single out one breed.
- No fines stupid bylaw plan
- Don't discriminate a specific dog breed. Crack down on the owner of _any_ dog breed allowing or encouraging dangerous behaviour, whether it is a pit bull or some blood thirsty demon worshipping chihuahua

- Segmenting a dog based on a breed isn't right unless there are other qualifying criteria. As stated "pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents". If the breed does not cause more bite incidents than others there has to be another criteria other than the way the dog looks.
- Obedience training required for ALL dog owners.
- Just want to say its kind of BS that you are singling out Pit Bulls and Pit Bull like breeds. I have a Boxer and she is the nicest dog in the world! She lets kids do whatever they want to her and has NEVER shown aggression to people or other animals! I shouldn't have to mussle her when the worst thing she's going to do is lick you!! I believe fines for bad dogs of all breeds are acceptable. But don't single out a breed without knowing the dogs demener. Its like racism.. but towards dogs! Come on City of Calgary!!! We are better then this!!
- There needs to be owner accountability. It's not the dogs fault, it's the owners fault for not training them. Make sure that owners are aware of the individual needs of dogs and are prepared to take care of them properly. The owners need to be held accountable, not the dogs who look to the owners for guidance.
- Change pit bull to any dog. I have never felt threatened by a pitbull, but been bit by small dogs, chased by breeds considered family breeds (was crossing the street)
- Dogs considered a nuisance must be kept on-leash at off-leash park.
- All dogs should require obedience classes. All people should be taught how to be around animals. Singling out Pit bulls is not a solution. Who gets to decide which dogs are dangerous or a nuisance? It is sometimes the fault of the way the animal is approached and not the pet owner's fault.
- Being a dog owner all of these are discriminatory towards a breed of dog that are some of the kindest (and no I don't own a bully breed). There are small dogs cause more issues that any big dogs.
- All dogs that are "nuisances" should have penalties NOT just "pit bulls"
- No to breed discrimination. A dog's behaviour is based on the training and treatment of the dog. Owner is responsible for it; not it's breed. Do not single out pit bulls. I know people who own pit bulls and they are the sweetest pups. Sometimes smaller breeds are meaner than pit bulls.
- Pit bulls have become the most mis understood breed ! Any breed with lack of good leadership can act out and all breeds need to be treated equally
- Fines should be given based on the owners training of any dog. SHOULD NOT be breed specific. Suggesting pitbull breeds should not be in off leash areas is outrageous. Simply, aggressive dogs (ANY BREED) should be dealt with through training and owner responsibility.
- Please educate yourselves, as this survey is offensive in today's day and age. Pitbulls are not "nuisance" dogs. ANY dog can be nippy and it is dependent on many factors not just breed.
- None of the above Racism is not cool any more
- Target bad owners not the animal. It starts with the owner. Bad owner equals bad behavior.
- Higher fines for all dogs and their owners involved in bylaw offenses
- Behavioural programs for the owner of nuisance dogs. The dogs behaviour is learned from the owner. If they are treated poorly, they will act poorly. The owner should be given resources for how to properly treat a dog.

- Breed neutral language is important. Behaviour Trump's breed.
- Obedience Training and Grooming required for dogs OF ALL DOG BREEDS.
- Hold the owners responsible; not the dog. It's all based on how the animal is trained
- I would kindly ask you to do your due diligence on how powerful a "pit bull" bite is versus a Dalmatian and any other dog. Your information is incorrect.
- Cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a house hold no matter the breed.
- As a pitbull owner I am extremely dissatisfied to see pitbulls targeted in this question and proposal. Unless you have evidence to justify a different rate or severity of attacks by breed you are discriminating needlessly. Further, by adding more restrictions one encourages less socializing of animals and thus encourages more anti-social behaviour from them so setting breed specific rules will further enforce stereotypes. Again, severely disappointed to be seeing such discrimination.
- training for owners. Obviously people don't understand their dogs or know how to train them. Everyone goes right for the dogs first, it's the owners fault not the dogs. Pit ills are by nature actually a very gentle breed. Stop blaming them, start blaming the owners.
- To single out pit bulls and bully breeds is completely and utterly wrong. My bully got bit by a Bernese Mountain Dog for no good reason, and he cried and ran to me instead of fighting back. Should we now consider all Bernese mountain dogs dangerous? The onus should be on the dogs owners, NOT the breeds. I've seen chihuahuas more aggressive than any bully I've encountered.
- Little dogs can be more aggressive than pit bulls. I don't support any additional fines, training, muzzling or anything that singles out a specific breed. I would however support that ALL dogs registered within the city of Calgary be required to take obedience training. If required, the price should be subsidized or come at a more affordable rate ($25/class and under).
- This is a bogus bylaw, any dog can bite and hurt someone. All large breed dogs have a strong bite force that doesn't diminish the aggressive nature of some small breed dogs. Responsible pet ownership is just that, the responsibility of the owner to raise a trained and proper behavioral characteristics. Punish bad owners not the dogs
- The Bylaws suggested for pit-bull and pit-bull-like breeds are extremely biased, and if its specifically in regards to the potential damage they may create it would only be fair to push for the same legislation on all large dog breeds of the like. Its just another breed being victimized from a long list. German Shepard's saw it in the 1990's and the Rottweilers and Doberman breeds got the brunt of it over the previous 2 decades. The problem involves bad owners, who need to be charged, not the dog type. Look into more charges/arrests/etc. For those abusing their animals, and mistreating them. That's where the problem behaviora generate from.
- Higher Fines for the owners that Have nuisance dogs. They are the ones that can't control them & shouldn't own them.
- None of the above. Making separate rules for pitbull type breeds is ridiculous
- This bylaw should be breed neutral. Not the breed but the uneducated owners and walkers are the real problems. I don't have pit bulls but if I could have a second dog, it would be a pit bull.

- I do not support any breed specific legislation. Being a pitbull or any other breed does not make a dog a nuisance animal. This language is highly concerning. No animal should be singled out based on their appearance and compared or lumped in with nuisance animals. No.
- it is disappointing that a specific breed is mentioned and i do not support this type of verbiage. Dogs that require training and restraint should be mentioned. Owners should be held accountable for their animals behaviour.
- Owners are the problem, not the breed. Don't punish breeds for a few owners. Have enforcement actually engage in parks and popular areas and deliver judgment based on real time evidence, not breed myths. I've had my finger torn open by pomeranians and watched bully breeds exhibit extraordinary nurturing and empathetic behavior. These dogs are victims. Their owners are the criminals. This is abhorrent and cruel and unfair, this is one of the only provinces where bullies can have good homes and not have to face the anxiety of muzzles, mistrust, and feeling the stress of their owners because of their physical characteristics. Many dogs will end up euthanized because our rescues won't be able to take them all. Focus on crime handling of fighting rings, gangs, and gambling, and you'll see the abuse that makes dogs violent lower too. Good grief, Calgary.
- No more than one nuisance dog in the home - not type/breed specific
- Make obedience training a requirement for all dogs. The owners are the issue not the dog breed.
- Breed specific legislation should NOT be considered for Calgary
- The inclusion of Pit Bulls is not necessary. Some of the possibilities listed here punish all dogs of that breed when the problem is the owners not handling their dogs appropriately.
- This is wrong just because a dog is a certain breed it should not be penalized. I know lots of beautiful bull dogs. This is very disappointing.
- All of these breed specific regulations are ridiculous.
- No dog is biologically equipped with a unique jaw structure, locking mechanism or "style" that would differentiate them from other breeds of dogs. No scientific research exists to substantiate the myth that pitbull dogs bite differently or more severely. A study of a simulated bite sleeve test with a German Shepherd, Rottweiler, and American Pitbull Terrier showed that the pitbull bite registered the least amount of pressure among the group. As a responsible pitbull mix owner, I beg you to please do your research on the matter before imposing egregious bylaws of the sort on a specific breed when the majority or the concerns are based on false information and myths. I fully agree on sanctions being placed on irresponsible pet owners that do not take appropriate measures to reduce risk and properly train their animals but this cannot be determined by breed. There are many breeds with double and triple the bite PSI of a pitbull that are also greater in size and force in general. If sanctions of the sort are put on pit bulls they should also apply to all breeds with equal or higher bite psi. The pitbull ranks 19th out of 23 in dog bite PSI and Cane Corso's are 3rd out of 23 on the list at 700 PSI. That is 3x the PSI of a pitbull. For another reference, the pit bulls PSI is 5 PSI more than a labrador which has a bite PSI of 230. Statistics show that pit bulls have one of the weakest bite force of all breeds. The top 5 in dog to human bites rated by frequency and severity is 1. Labrador's 2. German Shepherd 3. chihuahua 4. australian cattle dog and lastly in 5th place is the pitbull. These ranks also confirm that in the majority of cases, the dogs are provoked, are not spayed or neutered, and often times chained animals. Pitbulls also have a very high temperament passing rate at 86.7% which is higher than Chihuahuas, border collies, and beagles. Multiple peer reviewed studies have found that breed specific legislature does not improve public safety. The American Veterinary Medical Association did an in-depth study of dog bites in 2014 of the last 40 years in 10 countries including the USA, UK, and Australia and concluded that there has been no evidence that breed specific bans or regulations reduced the rate or severity of bite injuries. I feel strongly that the bylaws being presented in this amendment need to be further reviewed and examined as it is based on breed prejudice.

- Training for owners. People always go right to the dog, the owner needs to be trained, since they are not properly training the dog. It's never the dogs fault, stop blaming them and start looking at the owners.
- Training for the stupid people who don't know how to read or communicate with their dogs!!!
- More control on nuisance dogs not by breed, my dog has been attacked at the park and event time it's been a lap dog. Also I believe that if you get a dog through the SPCA you should be required to take training classes(bad owners are the issue not the dogs!!!!)
- The City of Calgary should start investing in programs that actually help the prevent irresponsible pet ownership. This bylaw is stating that is OK for the government to pass discriminating bylaw on certain group based the action of individual. The racism and discrimination is created when certain group is prosecuted solely by the action of some badly behaved individual. Calgary is a place of inclusion and diversity rather a place of discrimination and racism. (For additional useful information the term dog bread was first created within the 19th century.)
- Calgary prides itself on being a great and affordable city to live in. This is outrageous absurd! Pitbulls are not dangers to society. [removed] There are no bad dog breeds only bad owners.
- Very against breed specific or breed type legislation. After a dog is declared a nuisance, there must also be a way to rescind that decision by the owner providing proof of improvement.
- Opposed to breed specific legislation
- I don't support any of these options. Treat pit bulls the same as every other breed.
- Please ban all pit bulls. Most owners do not have the capability to train these dogs. I have witnessed pit bulls off leash on kids play grounds. Pit bulls attract a certain demographic of people of which most are inconsiderate about safety of others. Untrained pit bulls are dangerous to Calgarians and the city can't police owners diligence in training these pets.
- This is horrific. Breed specific legislation misses the point of how important pet owner responsibility is. It is not fair to punish a breed due to your preconceived notions. I believe in humans that is called racism.
- None of the above
- Just do what your doing. No need to be dog racists
- Breed specific fines and restrictions is inappropriate and the wrong direction to take.
- Anyone who owns a pitbull or nuisance dog or that wants to own one needs to get a special license or permit to be allowed to have such an animal, to get this license or permit they need to pay for training to know how to properly raise and treat these dogs (with kindness) and a written test so the people training them can know what kind of person they are and if they should be accepted to own a pitbull or nuisance dog.

- There needs to an expiry of a nuisance designation after some period of time or after appropriate training.
- I do not believe any of the above are fair. I feel the owner has more influence on a dogs behaviour that the breed of the dog itself
- Special assessment required for people who wishes own a pit bull (or nuisance dog) or prove that they will be a responsible owner along with requirement to chip and register the dog
- Leave the pitties alone. GO AFTER THE IRRESPONSIBLE OWNERS
- Training for owners of dogs that are not appropriately trained. Two strike program for owners. Find suitable alternative homes for dogs with owners that do not invest the time required to properly train and maintain dogs.
- All dogs should be able to demonstrate basic obedience within a year of being registered with the city.
- How about you don't single out a certain breed and keep it as if your dog is a problem or an [removed] you have to take it to obedience class
- None of these make sense, stupid honestly
- All dogs, no matter what their breed are, should be muzzled (nose tie) when way from owner's if they have showed nuisance dog syndrome..
- This is completely bias towards one type of dog bread. I want to see factual statistics or study that actually confirm it's this breed. The person who came up with this should be ashamed.
- Stop picking on pit bulls. Muzzle and fine the owners. Don't punish a breed. I've been bitten by dogs, and they're all small
- Stop breed discrimination and punish bad dog owners instead. Dogs that have nuisance behaviours (all types, not just breed specific))must undergo mandatory training.
- Mandatory dog training classes for nuisance dogs and for owners who continually have problems. Fines against those persons who instigate inappropriate interaction with a dog.
- Dogs that have not been neutered or spayed are not allowed to be at off leash parks. Many owners come to the off leash dog park when dog is in heat which causes male dogs to loose their minds over the female dog causing fights. Unneutered males give off a smell similar to a female in heat that is a challenge to the neutered male dogs which is challenging them. This causes dogs to fight, it is a pecking order. People are unaware of dog behaviours when the are not neutered or spayed.
- stop focusing on pit bulls. My worst problems came from small terriers! Also I believe all dogs should be muzzled if some dogs are muzzled
- Any pit bull ban is garbage. There are only problem dogs because of bad owners. All dogs treated the same.
- If a dog is dangerous it should be based on that dogs actions and not what breed it is. [removed] Therefore there should not be biased laws based on breed [DUPLICATE]
- Obedience training required for all dog-owners (not specific to pit bull or nuisance dogs). Breed-specific legislation (including outright bans, as well as required usage of leashes or muzzles in public) has been consistently shown to have no statistically significant effect on preventing or reducing dog bite injuries (Nilson et al., 2018; Creedon & Súilleabháin, 2017; Collier, 2006; Barnhard, 2018). If the rationale for regulating pit bull-type dogs is based on the fact that their "strength allows the potential for a more severe bite" (as stated above), such legislation is not supported in the peer-reviewed literature. Furthermore, the claim that the strength of pit bull-type dogs allows the potential for a more severe bite is neither justified nor supported when examining the scientific evidence. Much of the research on dog bite force has been criticized for using unreliable and indirect methods to measure bite force, such that highly variable results can be observed even when replicating identical methods (Ellis et al., 2008; Kim et al, 2018). For those studies that do consistently measure bite force, evidence points to the size of an animal and the shape of its jaw as being the most reliable predictors of bite force, rather than breed (Ellis et al., 2009). Kangals, Doberman Pinschers, and English Mastiffs have the largest cephalic indexes and widest jaws among domestic dog breeds, and have all been shown to have higher bite forces than pit bulls when measured by pounds per square inch (Max Sparwasser, 2019). Without context, evidence, and relevant expertise, it is at worst outrightly false and at best questionable to claim on a public platform without citing any sources that a pit bull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite. Likewise, within the pit bull-type breeds listed in this survey, it should be acknowledged that there is enormous variability in size, strength, and breed characteristics. Staffordshire bull terriers, for instance, generally weigh less than 40 lbs, while American pit bull terriers can weigh upwards of 90 lbs. It is unclear why such breeds should be grouped together into the category of "pit bull," if the rationale is based on a "pit bull's" strength. The strength of an English Staffordshire bull terrier is comparable to that of many other non-pit bull-type dogs. If breed-specific legislation were to pass in Calgary, I would ask for (a) reliable, recent evidence that such legislation works; and (b) a better justification for specifically targeting an extremely broad group of dog breeds under the "pit bull" category. Since neither were provided within this survey and I have not been able to find them in my own research, I cannot support breed-specific legislation.

- The breed does not matter, but when dogs are involved in multiple "offences" I think the care and conditions of the animal needs to be looked into. Aggressive and nuisance dogs are a result of improper socialization during the puppy stage and improper care/training. IT IS NOT THE DOGS FAULT- it is the owners who need to be looked into and perhaps they are not fit to properly care for their dog and the dog needs to be removed from their care.
- None of the above, the majority of these opinions would only worsen public perception of pit bulls and pit bull type dogs creating a more dangerous environment for essentially harmless dogs
- Punish the bad owners not the dogs
- Any dogs that have been declared a nuisance need to have completed some obedience and safety training sessions and have a trainer sign off that they are safe to be without a muzzle.
- I think it is unfair to single out a particular breed. I agree to proposals for nuisance dogs of all breeds. I disagree with all proposals aimed at pitbulls specifically
- Stop focusing solely on pit bulls and other large breed dogs. Small dogs bite just as often but aren't reported as much since the injuries are typically less severe

- All potential dog owners MUST be vetted.
- The problem is irresponsible owners. We should not be punishing the dogs when the owners are at fault. I think behavioural training for dogs and owners would be great.
- I would be more worried about my little boston terrier than I am about a pitbull. What about when dobermans were the nuisance dog. Or rottweilers? Did you know pit bulls were originally called nurse dogs? They were bred to look after children. It isnt the dog. It is the owner!!! Stop putting a breed in a category where it doenst belong. Little dogs are far more vicious and prone to poor behavior. Have you just sat at a dog park and watched?
- Stop judging pit bulls. Any dog can be dangerous
- None.
- There should be absolutely NO separate designation for Pitbull breeds. There should only be a nuisance category. It's about dog ownership and training NOT breed. If you going to single out a breed all other large breed and strong breed of dogs must be included (ie. Doberman's, Rottweiler, Great Dane etc.
- Fines to dog owner of an vicious dog. Do not make this breed specific. Dog racism is not ok either
- Include German Shepard in the dangerous dog category. I lived in Cranston and the most aggressive and dangerous dogs were German Shepard, they would aggressively rush the fence toward me as a walker/runner on the community pathways. I was yelled at by an German Shepard owner to go another direction when he was walking his dog because he was afraid it would attack me (I found out he was a Calgary police officer in the canine unit so this needs to includes dogs 'owned' by the Calgary Police. I grew up in rural Canada, loose German Shepard were shot on sight(unwritten but understood rule as they will kill livestock and attack children unprovoked).
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Consider owner training/licensing to ensure that people are willing to train/take their dog to training. This is not a breed specific problem, it's an irresponsible dog owner problem.
- I do not have a dog, but the fact you have not declared German Shepherds or Rottweilers in this and only segregated Pit Bulls is not fair. Isn't there a reason why police use German Shepherds as police dogs? And I'd be more afraid of a Rottweiler than a pit bull. I have never had a problem with pit bulls, but a German shepherd who her owner has called "Jackle and Hyde" had her whole mouth around my French bulldog 4 years ago. She was off leash on a sidewalk. I'd call her more of a nuisance than any pit bull.
- Have you considered how you would handle situations in which people are purposely antagonizing a dog which then creates a situation where the dog obtains a nuisance designation? People must also be accountable and dogs cannot be expected to tolerate harassing behaviours from individuals. That's simply unreasonable and beyond the control and scope of even the best dog owner.
- HEAVILY FINE THE OWNERS OF THESE BREEDS! It's not the dog's fault!
- Do not single out a breed. Problem dogs are caused by bad owners not by breed.
- Investigate reason that lead to incident. Public awarness needs to be raies over proper etiquett around dogs. Way to many people aproach stranger dogs that leads to possible reaction by the dog by no fault of the animal.

- Calgary Community Standards has the authority to issue mandatory training courses for dogs declared a nuisance. However there should NOT be any breed discrimination of dogs.
- The focus needs to be on owners. Not on dogs. Larger fines for owners who's dogs bite someone or another dog. There are many other dogs that have a bite strength of equal or greater.
- Remove the breed specific measures. Anything implemented should be for every breed.
- Literally take your whole pit bull bylaw and make it, not even necessarily nuisance dogs, because that can be a very broad term, but any dog that has been aggressive towards a being.
- Cannot be more than one nuisance dog per household. Punish the offence, not the breed.
- This is ridiculous. You cannot tar an entire breed based on the few. Absolutely ridiculous. We should be banning BSL not encouraging it. Shame on you City of Calgary.
- More ownership on the pet owners and less on the dogs. Biting is NOT a breed specific problem it means the owner does not know how to train a dog. Stop punishing dogs for their bad owners.
- Owners with multiple nuisance statements may forfeit offleash/in-city public roam areas until proof of injury liability is gained.
- Obedience training should be mandatory for ALL dogs. Not one or the other.
- Mandatory obedience training for second offence of "nuisance dogs"
- There are NO bad dogs. Period. There are bad owners. The fault needs to fall upon the owners NOT the dog. If the owners are neglectful in not caring for their dog and training the dog properly the owner is the one that needs the bylaws against them. The owner needs to take classes. The owner should not be allowed to have the dog. IT IS NEVER THE DOGS FAULT. It is the owner.
- You should never discriminate against a single breed. If our idiot mayor thinks that pitbulls are dangerous, he will confirm my opinion of him being an idiot. It is not the breed but the owner. So wake the [removed] up Calgary. Toronto banned pitbulls and dog bites did not go down
- All of these options only pertaining to pit bulls and similar breeds are absolutely ridiculous and shameful. Aggression is a learned behavior and is not inherent. Preemptively requiring all of these things for these specific breeds is ignorant of the case by case reality of dog aggression.
- My father had a purebred wolf, I was raised around him. Not once had he ever bit me, harmed me in any way. To classify an animal as dangerous means to deem the environment it is in as hostile. Once you do this you can begin to figure out the triggers for its aggressive behaviour. You cannot base your evidence purely off the look of it. You need to know how it has been treated, was it beat, harmed. Was it left outside to suffer elements, was it neglected and never taught human interaction. Animals cannot think or provide for themselves on the level that humans do for them, so why is it justified to blame the animal for the neglectful actions of their owners?
- Stop ragging on pitbulls they are lovely dogs when they have good owners who care about them. Try looking at the bad owners who have these dogs as they are the problem.
- Do not bring in Breed Specific laws they don't work Don't be lazy and hold the owner accountable is not the dogs fault the owner is the human adult
- You can NOT pick on PIT breeds . There are OTHER BREEDS as well. It's not the breed of dog . It' the owners that are to blame ! Then dogs get blame for barking. When they are doing there job.

Because I have SCREAMING KIDS that parents don't look after their kids . Let them run free and bug dogs.

- I think all dogs including pit bulls are innocent until proven guilty and should be dealt with at time of incident.
- I hope you understand that with proper training, any dog breed can be a GREAT dog. It's the owners of the dog that perhaps need special training.
- Leave pitbulls alone as you single out a single breed. The bite can be bad for dobermans so why not
- Please do NOT make this breed specific. This is a classic political knee jerk reaction. Some of city council are way smarter than this. The mayor excluded. Don't be quebec. Yes, that was left in all lowercase for a reason.
- Change obedience training to proper socialization or positive behaviour. Obedience training sounds like the question was written by a person who has never seen a dog. This question is so very badly written
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Don't single out bully breeds based on myths
- Courses for all dog owners developed to teach responsible ownership for any nuisance pet.
- Fines should be give to owners of dogs considered a nuisance, not specific breeds. It's completely unfair and damaging to make one set breed out to be more dangerous when small dogs are proven to be frequent voters and nuisances.
- All breeds should be treated equally as a bylaw
- No dog should be held to higher standards due to their breed. Instead ANY dog that exhibits behaviour that has harmed humans or other animals should have restrictions. Another thing that should be looked into is the previous training and handling of the said dog.
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog per household (pit bulls are fine!)
- This is [removed], dogs are innocent punish the owners
- It is not the breed of the dogs fault it is owners who don't take the time to train and raise their dogs right you are blaming a huge issue on one breed of dog so penalize the bad owners but don't penalize a breed of dog when according to most rescue training facilities pitbulls are the least likely breed to bite. They are just very strong so when not raised properly can cause harm if they attack but so can any other big dog.
- None of these. Dogs need to be walked and cared for, recommend services that have affordable dog training.
- Why after many studies have been done would the city be suggesting breed specific legislation? It equates to racism as there is no scientific evidence supporting that it works on any level
- Owners are the problem not the type of dog. Depends how they are trained not breed.
- There should be increasing fines for repeat offenders. Each offence increases the fines. They should not be breed specific
- stop bullying the breed!

- Stop training dogs and blaming dogs please. The owner requires training. Bad, uneducated or uninvolved dog owners are the problem - people are the problem. Fines and punishments for the dog will not benefit the unfit owner.
- Don't objectify and bully a specific breed.
- Owner screening and education. All the above blame the animal when it is the owner that is abusing the animal in some way. Please increase punishment for animal abuse/neglect/ etc. It's not the dog's fault. Especially pit bulls, very racist if you point them out specifically.
- Hold all animal owners and breeds to the same accountability as I have been bitten by 3 German Shepherds, 1 Rottweiler and 3 Chihuahuas. All pet owners should be held to the same standard. Stop breed discrimination as it is a form of racism to breeds and there is no proof to bans on breed preventing bites anywhere ever.
- Bully breeds should not be treated any different than any other breed. Just because a few have shown bad behaviour they are now judged that happens in every type of dog breed.
- Mandatory dog owner classes for owners of nuisance dogs. The problem begins and responsibility lies with the dog owner.
- [Removed] you and your pit bull discrimination.
- It is absolutely ridiculous how people think pit bulls are more dangerous or have a "stronger bite" than other dogs. Use common sense. No dog breed is more aggressive than any other. That's like saying "white people are more aggressive than brown people by nature". Pull your head out of your [removed] and grow up. I can train a pit bull to be more loving than a golden retriever or a golden retriever to be more aggressive than a pit bull. The breed DOES NOT MATTER. How about implementing a screening process for people buying dogs instead of blaming the dogs when they're "too aggressive"?
- Obedience training for ALL breeds of dogs. I do NOT support breed specific legislation and am utterly disgusted that this is even mentioned as a possibility. It is all about the owner, training and being responsible.
- Not all blame belongs to the dog or owners. All Pitbulls are wonderful living sentient beings that do not deserve to be profiled in any negative way. If owners are discovered to be bad, abusive and neglectful they deserve jail time and rehabilitation for the animals that were abused.
- Additional guidelines/regulations needed to define "nuisance dog", "dangerous behaviour". Also need to define terms of release of said "nuisance dogs". Breed bias has been proven misleading at best, as ALL dogs are capable of incidents. I have never been bitten by a "bully breed", but have had 1 child hospitalized after a Jack Russell terrier almost took his eye in a facial mauling (dog and owner never fined or reprimanded despite complaints and trying to have something done), and that is a child who only knew pitbulls at that time. Also coached a child who was mauled by a black lab and is unrecognizable when you compare early childhood photos.
- Do not make breed specific legislation. As a zoologist, pitbulls do not bite more strongly than other breeds. A German shepherd has a stronger bite force than a pitbull. They also do not have locking jaws. To implement any restrictions for pitbulls or any other breed would be fear mongering, cruel, and not fact based. Shame on the city for even suggesting this.

- Nuisance dogs are a terrible problem. It is not a matter of one particular breed. I have dealt with several nuisance dogs in recent years, most of them small breeds (terriers, beagles). Small breeds also bite! The problem is nuisance dogs and irresponsible owners and the problem must stop!
- Every dog owner is required to complete dog trainer fundamentals prior to being approved to adopt or purchase a dog. In order to have a dog you need this and dog a liscence. Proactive approach!
- Accidents happen with all breeds
- BSL have proven to not work. It is unfair to all the good dogs out there to be lumped into the same group as a couple bad apples. My previous dog was a bully type and was a registered therapy dog and went to hospitals to visit people
- I am against BSL. There should be stricter punishment enforced for pet owners based on specific events and not applied to All pet owners who own a certain breed of dog
- Ive been attacked and had barking issues with more small dogs them any large dogs. Everything has a potential to be dangerous including humans. Should we designate a status on people who display all these signs as well. What about vehicles?
- All dogs should be required in ownership to be trained. Pittbulls shoukd not be listed as a dangerous more at risk dog over any other. Get on the owners and fine them $5000 if their dog is aggressive.
- I am against BSL. There should be stricter punishment enforced for pet owners based on specific events and not applied to All pet owners who own a certain breed of dog
- Stop trying breed specific legislation. The statistics do not back it. It is based on ignorance and misinformation. Stop pandering to uneducated and ignorant people.
- Its completely inappropriate to punish a breed in broad legislation, dog behavior falls largely on the training and responsibility of owners. This legislation would punish owners who have responsibly trained and cared for their dogs that fall into the category of "pitbull"
- Don't let dirtbags own dogs.
- Do not target pitbulls
- Punish the owner not the dog!!!
- You cannot base a by law on a specific dog breed. Owners are responsible for their pets behaviour, perhaps if a dog is considered a 'nuisance', the owner is required to complete behavioural training or face fines; this cannot be based on the breed!
- Obedience training required for all large dogs, as the dog itself is not the problem, but how they are trained (or lack thereof). As the city has stated "pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog", the dog itself is not the problem and should not be stereotyped.
- When getting a Dog, requirement for certified lessons on obidence for all dog owners to license
- [removed] off. The rules that apply to pitbulls are the dumbest thing I have ever heard. F the right off.
- "pitbull terrier" is no more of a breed than, say "retriever" Please provide the scientific evidence used to make the statement, "a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite". Also, whilst "Obedience training required for dogs that are declared a nuisance" is an option, the option surely should be "training required for owner's whose dogs are declared a nuisance". Re fines in particular question 9A, in other situations eg driving, there is scant evidence that fines alone change behaviour. Fines coupled with education, training etc would seem a far better justification for increasing licence fees and fines.

- It's not the breed it's the owners, should be mandatory courses to teach people how to be responsible pet owners.
- It is irresponsible and inappropriate to have breed specific rules - that reinforce inaccurate stereotypes. Shame on you.
- No breed specific rules, all owner/dogs must go for training, socialization
- Clarify what constitutes "nuisance"; e.g. complaints about barking when on private property? Or actual harm caused by the dog?
- unfair to classify a pitbull as a dangerous breed as other dogs such as a german shepherd or mastiff could also cause severe injury. This is stereotyping the dog. As a society we are working on not stereotyping people so why do it to our beloved pets. Also, it is the person who owns the dog and the environment the dog is raised and trained in that develop the aggressive behaviour so more behaviour based training for larger dogs is needed.
- The city should be dealing with dogs on a case by case basis. The more secluded pit bulls are. The more "nuisance" dogs there are. Dogs require training in order to do what they're supposed to. How is anyone supposed to train their dog if they can only keep them in the backyard their whole life? Focus on the bad owners instead of a specific breed of dog.
- I do not agree with breed legislation it should apply to all dogs and not be breed specific
- The owners of nuisance or "dangerous breeds" must complete a responsible pet ownership course as well as learning how to deal with and properly care for these dogs. This should be done prior to being issued a dog license.
- You can take all of these and stick em where the sun don't shine, these are all ridiculous. Cash grab at its finest if you ask me
- Why specify Pit Bulls, dog breeds aren't the issue, owners are. Bad owners make good dogs bad. There's no "bad" dog breed
- Absolutely none of the above. The measures you are taking against DOGS is disgusting. It's the OWNER not the dog.
- There should be specific to a dog, there should be owners who are held accountable and more done towards the owners when these incidents happen any dog can be aggressive it's the owner who trains the animal to do such. One could fight primary instincts but animals have proven to show care and compassion and seek help when in need, owners make their dogs aggressive and keeping these "rules" in place won't make it better people will just find better ways to hide it and that will only give pittys a worse rep then they already have.
- Pit bulls are not a problem nor other bully type breeds! Get your facts right. Most aggressive dogs are small dogs all determined to be "fine" but yet they spark more reaction and instigate more than the dogs you're referring too. Is a nice little shitszu a nuisance? It certainly can be! To generalize dogs is to generalize us humans .. are all ethnicities ok? Certainly we have some "bad eggs" in every grow up but we're not all bad! Really it's people who need training not the dogs. The dog's don't choose to honing fight rings... people put them there. It's frustrating to think that Calgary is not open minded enough to see the big picture on this. Dogs are inherently good, it's people who change them

- Something needs to be done about the nippy, yappy, tiny dogs not just big breeds.
- There should be NO specific law for any breed of dog. Many types of dogs are as strong or stronger than "pitbulls".
- Mandatory obedience training for all breeds of dog. Little dogs are just as likely to bite/be a nuisance, if not more likely.
- Poodles bite more people than "pit bulls" Let's ban poodles.
- Mandatory training for OWNERS. It's not the dogs fault. It is a product of its environment.
- Additional measures should not be breed specific or specific to nuisance.
- I do not support breed specific regulations
- Breed specific legislation does not work, also a "pit bull's" bite is no more stronger than any other dog that size.
- These measures should not target pitbulls. It is the owner, not the dog, who causes these issues. German Shepherds are just as capable of a strong bite and this qualifier is already pre-disposing people against pitbulls.
- I would not support any of these measures.
- it's not the breed that needs to be taken into consideration but the owners treatment of said animal. Often aggression is a sign of abuse otherwise any breed can be harmless or fatal.
- Do not continue the meanness towards the breed, but enforce laws harshly on those terrible abusers who get pitbulls to be abusive. They are the ones giving the animals a bad rap and need harsher punishments.
- You cannot put all dogs under the umbrella of one breed. A "Pitbull" dog should not have to be treated different from other breeds. This is a disappointing request and should not put in motion in our city. It is inhumane.
- Rules against particular breeds of dogs are absurd.
- Licences required to own potentially dangerous breeds
- The fact that you specifically select pit bulls is pathetic!! I am a pitty mix owner and he is the best most gentile dog ever he is very well behaved and plays with my step son and can be totally trusted. Putting the blame on a specific bread is basically dog racism. Owners teach their dogs how to act and allow or promote aggressive action. To say all animals of a breed are aggressive is a sad position for a city to have. If you want to do anything stop owners who have a history of owning a neusance dog of any breed to no longer be allowed to own a dog. Don't punish all dogs
- No breed specific restrictions.
- This is Stupid, Pit bulls have a bad rap because of bad owners, changes the laws to be about owners rather than the dog. Nuisance animals should be defined by the previous life. We dont say a people of a certain color have to live life in Jail as soon as they're born. Why are we doing this to dogs? Also I've had more chiwawas and small dogs attack my dogs because the small dogs are behaved and off-leash in On-leash walk-ways.

- How about do more to the dog owner rather than ban a breed. Other dogs have just as strong of a bite as a pit bull. It is not right that you discriminate against one breed when , there are numerous other breeds that can do just as much damage you just don't hear about them. Because people that don't like certain breeds will always pin it on a bulky type, when in some cases it wasn't a bully breed at all. It is poor pet ownership not a dog breed problem.
- Dont worry about the type of dog but the person training whatever breed to be a "nuisance"
- A discounted or free obedience course for people with gaurd breed type dogs who sign up voluntaly, prevention is the key here not a breed bylaw. Stop the bites before they happen. Help make courses affordable.
- Owners who have offences should not be allowed to own a dog.
- BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION IS [removed]. Small dogs like chihuahua's are much more aggressive. Specifically, im my experince as a dog owner, most bites happen when one dog is on leash while the other is off-leash. This is because dogs are in a flight or fight mode, and if they cant run away they will almost always fight. We need to better patrol for off-leash dogs in leashed areas, and vice versa. There cannot be on-leash dogs at off leash parks. I dont know who the hell wrote this "survey" but it is clearly biased from a perspective of fearing pitbulls. This is not a just and factual way to measure responses as you are already feeding the answer to the responder.
- Obedience training and a leash required in public when a dog bites
- I think it is incredibly unfair that you are singling our one breed of dog for special treatment. It is obvious that whoever set up the survey is not well educated on the behaviour of dogs. I suggest they go to one of the well respected training schools such as clever canines to get educated on the matter. There are is such thing as bad dogs, just bad owners.
- Nothing specific to these breeds. The breeds are not the issue it's the people who own them. Have harsher penalties for owners (ban them from owning animals after investigation) and give dogs to rescue to be retrained and rehomed. Pit bulls are not the issue it is people and low bar of entry to own a dog.
- Endorcing breed specific legislations is absolutely ridiculous. Pitbulls are the same as any other dog in regards to their behavior, and like any other dog are well behaved or poorly behaved based on the owners training. If anything ANY BREED OF DOG should be ceased from irresponsible owners and fostered or rehomed to responsible owners. Pitbulls and or any other dog should not have to suffer a lack of rights or freedoms because of other people being uneducated or irresponsible. Any dog of any breed can exhibit aggressive behaviors if provoked in the wrong way. Education should be provided to people around best behaviors to exhibit as a human around dogs. Muzzling, banning, or restricting a dog based on breed instead of behavior of an individual dog is ridiculous.
- Calgary should not be bringing in breed specific legislation. The focus should be on dogs who have shown a propensity for aggression.
- All of these bylaws are way off. Pit bulls are not nuisance dogs. I think any dog that has an irresponsible owner should be fined. What are the fines for dogs off leash in non off leash areas? Nothing seems to be done about that.

- Pit bulls are not necessarily any stronger than other large dogs. The mastiff breeds in particular are capable of far more damage. Targeting owners with stiffer penalties & restrictions is more effective. If anything, categorizing dogs by size is more effective.
- Ontario has proved banning bully breeds did not help AND Canadian literature actually suggests husky, mix breed, and sled dogs cause the biggest issues.
- Mandatory Obedience training could work but it needs to be more acceptable. Lots of people can't afford it. It's tough cause most people don't sweat and that obedience training is mostly training the owners, not the dogs. There is lots of terrible owners out there that just get there dog training and expect them to just change. It's 90% the owners and 10% the dog most the time, some extreme exceptions. Lastly, stop targeting pit bulls, it has been disproven many times that they do not have stronger bites than many others dogs. Whoever put this together obviously doesn't know what they are talking about and needs to put more effort in to this than just basing it off of size and looks.
- Authorities are failing to make the link between the types of owners who desire fighting breed dogs and the problem of serious dog bites. I can state categorically, that the worst types of people i have worked with in blue collar environments, especially drug dealers and low level criminal types, all either had a fighting breed dog or wanted to get one. These are the LAST people in our community who should own a potentially vicious animal, and yet they are the MOST likely to possess one. These animals are a menace to public safety and should be banned in Calgary. How many more children need to have their faces reconstructed before you people figure this out?
- Bylaws shouldn't be written to preclude ownership or restrictions of only certain breeds. Nuisance dogs can come in all shapes and sizes. What criteria determines a nuisance dog? Risks of subjective complaints that may not be justified.
- This is stupid, no such thing as an aggressive breed it's bad owners. Almost all pit bulls are really kind. This reinforces a outdated stereotype that has been proven wrong.
- Do this for all thats bite or that are vicious not just pitbull type dogs, punish the the deed not one specific breed
- It's not the breed, when will people realize that? Before it was the German Shepherd and before that it was the doberman...come on
- None of the above
- Discontinue trying to push breed specific legislation. Listen to veterinarians and scientists that show IT DOES NOT WORK. There are many other dogs that have a stronger bite than a "pit bull". Also, dogs that have the appearance of a "pit bull" can be a boxer lab mix. There is no SCIENCE behind these ridiculous statements. Refer to the CVMA (Canadian Veterinary Medical Association) for their statements on BSL. In 2020 for this to still be something that any city to consider is offensive. Learn from experts. Politicians should not be making these decisions without EVIDENCE and from professionals that know what they're talking about. Shame on the city of Calgary for even considering such a disgusting by-law.
- Leave pit bulls be. This is an ignorant judgement. Of all the dogs we meet while walking or at the park, it is certainly not pit bulls who are cause for concern. Singling out specific breeds will not solve any issues, will create black market/illegal breeding putting animals at a greater risk

- Training or some sort of intervention should be available after 2 or more complaints. A one time nuisance is not enough information to go off of for the dog in question.
- Obedience training required for all dog owners (and dogs by proxy)
- Charge owners and not the breed. Bully breeds are not the issue, owners are. Do not discriminate against bully breeds
- I don't think breeds of dogs should be punished for an owner's poor behaviour. When people are taking on a pitbull as a pet, or a traumatized dog, they absolutely should be accountable for its well-being. Ensuring they will provide a good home and attention/training needed should be the main priority!
- This is absolutely outrageous. Pit bulls are one of a kind, I have one of my own and smaller dogs are much more vicious and aggressive than any pit bull I've EVER MET. Do not leave one breed out in the loop having their freedom taken away from them when other dogs even with a "smaller bite" can just roam freely !!!!!!!
- No breed specific legislation. I'm a Vet Tech and professional dog trainer. I have never had an incident in the clinic with a Pit bull or pit bull type nor have I had a single aggression related behavioural problem with a pit bull or pit bull type as a training client
- I do not agree with any of the above statements. I feel it infringes on the rights of the dog owner/trainer. A dog that becomes a "nuisance" is never at fault, it is the person caring for them that allows this behaviour to occur without proper training. If these measures are put into place, it opens the door for restrictions to be placed on all dog owners, regardless of breed due to the vague wording of dogs that "appear" like pitbulls. These measures should not be put into consideration.
- You should fine and or charge the owner. We/they are responsible for their pet
- Mandatory dog behavior and training courses for all nuisance dog owners. Please designate this for all nuisance animals, not breed or breed type specific. Please do NOT single out breeds or types, please focus on responsible dog ownership.
- no breed specific legislation is needed.
- None of the above. Singling out a specific breed is outrageous!!!
- Ban pit bulls completely
- Pit bull breeds are no more dangerous than any other. Perhaps owner training for any dog involved in an incident, and not breed specific.
- THIS SHOULD BE BY INDIVIDUAL DOGS. The force of a bite from any big dog/wolf dog even small dogs is dangerous. The only reason pitbulls are being targeted is because of the stigmas.
- Pitbulls are not inherently dangerous dogs. If restrictions are being placed to increase the safety of people the restrictions should be placed on all breeds of dog regardless of appearance. I see no issue with increasing precautions for the safety of the public but the idea of only putting these restrictions on a specific breed does not serve the purpose of keeping people safe, only to decrease the quality of life for specific dogs.
- Research shows pit bulls aren't more aggressive than any other dog breed. Banning pit bulls or making it mandatory for them to wear muzzles is not going to solve anything. Pit bulls are some of the sweetest breeds out there.

- There should be no bias against the type of dog. An owner should simply be fined if their dog is involved in an incident and if a dog is involved in an incident then training can be mandatory with requirement for proof, and as well that dogs annual fees may increase. This puts the owners on the owner to be responsible and make responsible choices for their dog- regardless of breed. I think it would be nice to see people receive discounted annual fees for submitting proof of obedience training certificate.
- “There cannot be more than one pit bull or nuisance dog in a household” This is irresponsible and disrespectful language. This should be two separate questions. By making it one you are implying that a pitbull is a nuisance dog. Please change that.
- None, this exercise is a ridiculous use of tax payer money
- Define what nuisance means
- Dogs should not be targeted for their breed. All dogs should be treated equally and be judged based on their behaviour not breed.
- Bully breeds should not be singled out.
- Apply fines to negligent owners. You are putting all the blame on the DOG. Dogs are just a reflection of their owners, good or bad.
- Having more restricting laws just because a breed is capable of doing more damage seems unjustifiable. I have Australian Shepherd and an Australian cattle dog cross with a collie, these dogs are just as capable of damaging humans as they gave extremely powerful jaws. There are more dogs than just pit bulls or bully breeds capable of damaging another person or animal. This all seems based upon fear of pitbulls. Some dogs are naturally aggressive as heelers can be or husky, etc. But accidents that happen are more so the owners fault as you know your animal and should never put them in situations where they may attack other animals or people. If you know your dog nips at others or is very aggressive then that is your responsibility as a pet owner to not only protect your animal from others but also others from your animals especially if they show signs of aggression towards other breeds or people.
- It’s not the breed. It’s the owner. Perhaps assessing owners, pets home life and training should be evaluated. All dogs bite. But it’s the owners responsibility to train them otherwise, provide a loving and safe home and curb those inhibitions.
- This isn’t breed specific regarding Dog fights. It would be a major devastation to pit bull owners that our city wants them muzzled. I find most pit bulls I’ve met are some of the sweetest dogs. It’s not breed specific training needed.
- If the nuisance is being at large, how will not being allowed at off leash park help?
- It’s offensive to do anything breed specific
- Instead of fines and muzzles for dogs. What about training for owners! There are no bad dogs just bad owners. Let’s not put muzzles on dogs because owners are bad.
- Pit bulls is a very unscientific approach to classification. Add a number of other breeds with a known safety history. Pitbull would create a [removed] storm for the courts to try and interpret, and wouldn't be effective. Make it breed specific.
- PITBULLS ARE NOT INHERENTLY DANGEROUS. THIS IS STUPID.

- Stop being racist! Pit bull lives matter
- Dogs are taught to be aggressive by bad owners. Don't blame the breed. Not all pit bulls are bad dogs. If we blamed every pit bull for the actions of a few that would be like saying all middle easterners are terrorists, and we all know what the [removed] is
- BSL for pit bulls (breeds specified), breeding regulations, import restrictions, and better enforcement.
- All of these suggestions are ridiculous. Pit bulls should not be the only dog breeds to be considered dangerous.
- Fine the owners. Pets acts as how they are raised/thought by owners
- It is ducking pathetic you include pit bulls because they are stronger NOT because they are involved with more human injuries or aggressive behaviour. The [removed] [removed] that even brought this up probably owns an ugly [removed] shitzu and she needs to be fired for even mentioning this.
- Make the owner go to obedience training because 99.9% of the time it's not the dog or the breed its untrained and irresponsible owners
- Should not affect specific breeds as a whole. If I dog bites, fine the owner, put the dog on a list. Require them to go to obedience training, insurance, muzzle. Should not penalize specific breeds. Penalize the owner.
- The fact that you are looking at singling out pitbulls is appalling. Do more research and please learn that singling out dogs of any breed can be aggressive and/or bite. This is ridiculous.
- Intact male dogs not allowed at off leash parks unless under the age one years. Soo many issues are caused by intact male dogs. The smell automatically sets off other dogs.
- Focus on nuisance dogs and training for all pet owners, please stop considering breed specific legislation.
- All dogs should adhere to the same rules regardless of breed OR APPEARANCE
- Nothing. It's the owner's fault for not training the dog properly - not the dog.
- Dogs that have a significant bite history should be muzzled in public and have high fines.
- Please stop discriminating against pitbulls. Every single pit bull I have met have more love in them than aggression.
- Dogs should be judged on their behavior not on their breeding. I'm more scared of chihuahuas and the only dog I ever got bit by was a malamute. I still dont think this dog should be muzzled
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Why pitbulls? What about German Shepards? Mastifs? Dobermans? Rottweilers? There's lots of dogs who could do a lot of damage by biting someone. Maybe any dog someone could theoretically be scared of should be muzzled at all times and not allowed to leave private property? I'm 100% in support for increased measures against aggressive dogs but needing liability insurance for owning a pitbull is one of the stupidest things I've ever heard in my life. I don't understand what group of Calgarians are being represented these anti-pitbull suggestions. My suggestion is to punish bad owners, throughly investigate and handle reports of aggressive dogs and most importantly crack down on irresponsible breeders. Things like "designer xl/xxl pitbull breeders" (of which there are in Alberta) are creating mutant, inbred dogs. In my opinion, that's where the pitbull problem stems from.

- This by-law should not be breed specific. We should not target pitbulls. Calgary is better than this, after 10 years of living in this great city. This by-law has blame considering moving.
- Owners held responsible for the behaviour of the dog, regardless of breed. There is an abundance of supporting evidence that animal behaviour is a result of training (or lack thereof) and the behaviour of the owner. There is nothing to support that a pit bull is stronger than a mastiff or a Great Dane or any other large breed that was bred for sport or hunting. To declare a breed as a problem when the owner has the ability to create a well adjusted, happy, loving dog based on their raising of the dog, is prejudicial. Owners must be held accountable for the way they raise & manage their chosen pet. Every behaviour can be retrained or worked through with proper handling. This mention of a breed specific regulation shows ignorance and lack of proper research by the city of Calgary and is shameful and embarrassing. Just posting this plants the seed of doubt and promotes fear mongering. This prejudicial breed reference should be removed immediately.
- IF THIS BREED SPECIFIC [removed] GETS PASSED IN CALGARY IM [removed] MOVING AWAY!! DO NOT MAKE THESE MEASURES PITBULL FOCUSED!!!!
- Pitbulls are super friendly and do not need the same segregation as racists give to other humans
- Horrible bylaw to have in place. Do not pass this bylaw. I will be exceptionally disappointed and will refrain from voting for any city council member who is in favour for this.
- I do not support this [removed] bylaw against Pitbulls or the bull terrier breeds; it is not the breed it is the owners who should be punished. Since when do we Calgarians discriminate against one specific breed of animal; shame on you City of Calgary for even suggesting this non-sense.
- None of the above, by declaring the other answers, you are placing unnecessary blame on a breed of dog, that you admit to not being in the outliers for dog attacks. There is also a great deal of misinformation in the statement of this survey about dog bite strength for particular breeds. Pitbulls have significantly lower bite strength than more common breeds like German shepherds, dobermans, and various other large breeds.
- Hold the owner responsible for their pet, both financially and criminally.
- Fine awful pet owners. There are no bad dogs.
- Pitbulls are wonderful dogs. Its about the owner. The owner should be fined for them exhibiting behaviors unacceptable and it shouldn't apply to them in specific. This is discrimination of the breed. The dog shouldn't be held responsible. The owner should be fined and required to attend proper obedience with the animal to obtain an alpha dominant figure. DOGS SHOULD NOT BE HELD ACCOUNTABLE. Any dog can bite. I've seen chihuahuas more aggressive.
- No breed specific laws!
- Proof of dog training by certified dog trainers and/or order for same if a dog is declared a problem. I am a dog owner and any dog can be a problem dog not just pit bulls or bully breeds
- Obedience training required for ALL dogs in a dog park. Targeting one breed is ignorant and feeds into a dangerous stereotype. It also assumes that other dogs, like Golden Retrievers, are automatically not dangerous; in reality, a dog's behaviour is determined in large part by the training the dog - and its owner - receives. Look at the owner, not the dog.

- There's no such thing as a bad dog, just a bad owner. Before becoming a dog owner you should have to be screened so the city is confident you'll be a suitable dog owner. Any dog can be a Nuisance if they're owner is one as well, any good dog owner knows that. In instances where "Nuisance Dogs" have an incident, maybe the owner should be investigated.
- Leave owners to their own disputes. These are family members to most. This legislation is being created by a loud minority who wish to have the government control more of our freedom. It's not welcome, it's despicable and you should be ashamed for proposing this.
- Aggression should be punished and the definition of nuisance in your survey is terrible
- I do not agree with any of these suggestions. I had 2 American Bull Dogs, part of the bully breed for 11.5 years and not once were they reported for bad behaviour, or vicious attacks, bites, or aggressiveness. I was, and now I am a new owner of a blue nose pit bull and I believe it is on the responsible dog owner to train and have their dog in a position to succeed, rather than fail. People who believe that Rottweilers, German Shepard's, or even Labs are any different than a pit bull are clearly out with a motive and should understand that any dog bite can be deadly. Calgary is known as a progressive community, and this is a regressive mind set as far as I am concerned. Don't blame the dog for poor human ownership.
- Pit type dogs ARE NOT the issue, any dog can be aggressive regardless of the breed or size. Responsible ownership is imperative. A particular breed should NOT be mandated to be muzzled BUT a particular dog that has been identified BECAUSE OF AN INCIDENT NOT BECAUSE IT IS A PARTICULAR BREED, can then be mandated. Education for owners, people(dog) training classes. A muzzled dog should not be in an off leash park.
- Any and all measures must apply to ALL dogs not just those you are classifying as pit bulls. It is not the breed, it's the owner's fault for not training the breed. There are far more incidences with smaller dogs being a nuisance or danger to children. You cannot classify breeds as nuisance dogs. It needs to be case by case basis.
- None of the above!!!! Pitbulls and bullies are not the problem and punishing them for nothing is not humane! Take your garbage BSL elsewhere
- Pit bulls should not be singled out. If they prove to be "nuisance" dogs, then they can just fall under that category. Calling them out is unfair, as all the pitbulls I've known in my life are incredibly well behaved dogs.
- Higher fines for all dogs involved in bylaw offences. Not just nuisance breeds. Just ridiculous to point out certain breeds.
- Pit bulls are not the issue and it's pretty comedic that the city of Calgary thinks that they are. It's the owners fault if an animal is irresponsible; it does not matter what the breed is. Also, pit bulls pose minimal threats compared to the hundreds of wild animals roaming around the city, including coyotes and bobcats. Also has anyone ever considered that rottweilers, Germans shepherds, and Doberman's are equally and strong as pit bulls? Probably not, but might be worthwhile looking into.
- No law should specifically attack a single breed. This city is disgusting

- It is straight wrong to classify pitfalls in the same category of nuisance dogs that would be the same as classifying a human based on their skin colour as a nuisance please reconsider before you think about segregating a breed ,it's an owners responsibility to raise their dogs you can't blame a breed.
- Pit bulls are not an aggressive breed in nature. It is how the dog is brought up and the owners trainer/aggression use towards them. For the city to deem pitbulls "aggressive because of their stronger bite" is unrealistic and biased. I do not agree that pitbulls or any dog under the breed/appearance of a pitbull, should be punished for behaviour that they likely don't have. Dogs are not born to be aggressive, just like humans aren't. It's a taught and learnt behaviour. If a pitbull is aggressive from learnt behaviour, then some of the bylaws surrounding "nuisance dogs" should be implied towards that ONE pitbull, but same should go for any other breed of dog that is also showing aggression. Not just one particular breed.
- No breed specific bylaw! Can't have laws for specific Race people so why do it for pets
- Stop lobbying against certain breeds. Higher fines should be to the owners of aggressive dogs regardless of breed as well as being banned from off leash dog parks.
- Owner should be fined. If they are not able to properly train their dog, it should more be the dog who is punished.
- How outrageously uneducated of you to apply this to certain breeds. Start holding poor ownership accountable.
- Pit bull behavior is based on the training of the owner. There are many pit bulls in calgary that are well trained as their owners have put in the time and effort. Blaming pit bulls and blaming a breed for a human led problem is not okay. There are plenty of badly trained humans at dog parts who should not be allowed to have poorly trained dogs in a variety of different breeds. I am upset that the city would even consider this as i have many pit bulls in my life who are the most loving and caring dogs. It is humans who are the problem NOT the breed
- ban all PIT Bulls
- Why would it be breed specific when it is specifically noted that "pit bulls" are not apt to a higher incident rate?
- If a dog injures someone I think the owner should help pay for the injured person.
- This is absolutely ridiculous to label a single breed a nuisance. You guys should be ashamed.
- This is absolutely ridiculous. That is singling out one breed of dogs when there are many other bully breed dogs out there! Let alone little dogs are more of a nuisance they are noisy and bark at everything. Removing a dog from someone's home when they own one or more pitbulls is completely inhumane . Pitbulls need rescuing and love just like any other dog. Pit bulls are not the problem UNTRAINED DOGS ARE THE PROBLEM
- Don't punish my well behaved dog because of the actions of the very few. My mutt (which you declar is a 'pit bull' based on looks) stopped a break in. She is a hero and deserves to play fetch.
- obedience training required for all dogs. Any dog declared a nuisance to be muzzled in off leash parks.
- Its a dog and dont think to much about it. A dog is a dog no matter the breed
- Please do not add breed specific language. It is equivalent to human racism applied to dogs.

- all of these solutions are focussed on the dog. We know that breed specific legislation does NOT decrease the number of bites. As calgary has been a leader in breed-neutral legislation, why not put into bylaw interventions that work. I.e, stiff animal cruelty laws, decrease backyard breeding. have new owners of ANY AND ALL DOGS be required to take force-free positive reinforcement training when they register their dog iwth the city (and have a program of reimbursement for those who cannot afford). all of the solutions above are band-aid solutions that do not get to the root fo the issue- people train dogs, and it is our responsibility to train them in a positive method. we need to shift responsibility to the owner not the animal. your proposed recommendations above will simply have reinforce backyard breeding, have people NOT register their dogs with the city, and create unfair fear around 'pitbulls' (which is a broad term with no scientific basis).
- Mandatory training course and licensing for all dog owners similar to the PAL firearm with current owners grandfathered in.
- Nuisance is a BEHAVIOR not a breed. This is a blatant form of discrimination and ignorance
- Dogs who bite and injure a human or attack and seriously injure or kill another dog should be euthanized.
- There are no bad dogs, just bad owners. Banning or punishing a dog breed is not the answer. Punish bad dog owners, not dog breeds!
- I do not like the breed specific questions. Let the title go to the animals that have shown repeated behaviours, regardless of breed. The pit bulls I have met in my life have been loving, gentle dogs. It is the owners responsibility to train and socialize dogs, punish them, not the breed.
- Stop discriminating against dog breads, just shows how uneducated the people in charge here are.
- all dogs should be held to the same standards, bight from and American Bulldog or a German Shepherd has more bite force than an American Pitbull. This comes down to the trainer/owner of the dog, not the dog.
- Owners letting dogs defecate and urinate on private property should be charged
- None because German shepherds and Rottweilers have just as much potential
- They SHOULD NOT!!! Ban ANY SORT OF DOG. There problem dogs because of there owns! It's no fault of there own! I own a Doberman and my girl friend owns a PITBULL and there both the sweetest thing. Think banning dogs has being racist! Think about it
- None of the above. They're not a problem.
- Pit bulls must be spayed/neutered & not allowed to reproduce in Alberta, prior to banning them altogether.
- Pit bulls ARE NOT an issue. All dogs can and do bite. The media and public only share portions of information. If you are going to try ban pit bulls then you best add chihuahua, poodles, shitzus, German sheps and huskyies to the list as well
- Breed specific legislation should not be considered for Calgary. Penalizing an entire breed for the misbehavior of a few (which is the result of poor treatment/training by humans) is archaic and unfair.
- Zero tolerance for aggressive dogs.
- Increase fines per bylaw offence. Ex 1st offence is X dollars, but 2nd offence is X dollars plus, increasing more for repeat offenders

- Make it illegal for people who raise aggressive dogs to obtain any kind of dog ever again. Focusing on “pit-bull” type dogs is retarded, too many dog breeds with similar or greater strength. Germany has a classification system for dog breeds and it’s extremely flawed. Focus should be put on irresponsible dog owners!
- Should not be breed specific at all.
- enforcing breed specific laws are EXTREMELY expensive and do not work. There's evidence on this, it is costly to train bylaw officers to recognize a breed due to their appearance. Calgary's dangerous dog bylaw already works, do not change it to a less effective method based on fear based decision making.
- I do not support Breed specific legislation of any kind
- un-neutered male dogs should not be allowed in off leash parks. The definition of pitbull is too vague and many people "call" every vicious dog a pitbull when infact many are completely different breeds. Many small dog owners let their dogs 'get away' with bad behaviour and these dogs can be just as much a nuisance as any so called pitbull. My experience of pibulls has been that they are wonderful, friendly dogs when in the right family situation. Don't forget that there have been attacks from well trained police dogs in Calgary and I don't see you banning German shepherds. ds
- NONE.... you have no idea what dogs are like. Its how you raise a dog. A pit bull is NO different then a lab. DO YOUR RESEARCH !!!!!
- Breed discrimination is unnecessary and pointless. A dog's behavior is 100% relative to it's owner and how it was raised.
- [removed]
- Fines and required obedience training should be done based on the individual cases not by breed or dogs declared a nuisance.
- No breed specific rules.
- euthanisation upon 2nd offence
- Sterilization of animals deemed a nuisance or danger
- Higher fines for any dog, nuisance status or not, that is off leash in on leash areas. Fines for any dog, friendly or not, provoking others when an owners asks for the offending dog to be removed from their space. Fines for dog walkers who have large groups of dogs not under control. Higher fines for dogs at large. Mandatory obedience classes for any new dog owners or adopter as well as a course in dog behaviour and body language. Please do not turn to BSL it is proven ineffective and really we need to be focusing on better behaviour from all dogs and more responsibility on the owner.
- small dogs should be treated the same as other dogs. Only time I ever had dogs bite me they were small and un trained.
- No breed specific laws.
- Dogs that have been repeat offenders should be fined appropriately. Dogs that have not been offenders should not be punished before they have done anything. That is the same thing as guilty until proven innocent. Not cool Calgary.
- What if the “pit bull” identifies as another breed? Serious question

- A dog is a product of its environment. Punish the irresponsible people not the breed. This is ridiculous.
- Obedience training should be required for all dog breeds. Just because pit bulls are stronger than other more aggressive breeds doesn't mean they should be singled out. All dogs should have proper training regardless.
- A single breed of dog should not be singled out. Small dogs can do just as serious of damage and are often dismissed as minor. A bite from any dog is no less traumatic.
- It's not the breed it's the owner. I'll literally move out of this city if my sweet boy who is an American Staffordshire terrier x bull mastiff just likes to cuddle dogs. It takes a responsible and confident owner. Off leash parks are ALL wild with dogs biting people myself included and need better bylaw monitoring (checking for tags too).
- Giving my head a shake to this.... how about freezing wages of politicians
- None. To single out a specific breed, let alone one that is gentle and kind is extremely irresponsible on the governments behalf.
- Pitbull type dogs are not a problem. Owners of "nuisance" dogs or dogs with behavior problems should be given the opportunity to correct the behaviour through guided training from a professional dog trainer.
- Fines for owners of small dogs who leave their dogs's poop in the street or trails "because it's small and doesn't matter". I've watched people with small dogs leave it so many times. Also, any size dog who bites (including chihuahuas and Yorkies or other small breeds should be held to the same fines and dangerous/nuisance designations if they are exhibiting or attack other dogs.
- bad owners who have a breed they cannot handle should be fined. all breeds have a capability to be declared a nuisance. bad owners need reprimand. not their dogs. we need to be watching and screening people who own these breeds
- People who own nuisance dogs should go to obedience school.
- I don't think it is fair to single out pit bulls or any dog breed, isn't this issue more about bad dog owners than bad dogs. Dog owners should not take their dogs if they are known to bite to the off leash park without a muzzle or maybe at all. Some badly behaved dogs are rescues and need a chance to socialize with other dogs and a muzzle may be enough to allow this safely.
- To single out a breed or breed type is putting many of these dogs on death row. What has not been noted is the fact that dogs act they way they do because of the owner. If there is no proper discipline. They will act out just like a child.
- Pit bulls are kinder than any breed I've met. I personally have one now. They should be treated the same as every and all breeds.
- Owners should be fined for any bites that are as a result of improper or lack of obedience training for all dog breeds, not just pit bulls. The owners should be held accountable without demonizing specific dog breeds
- Ignoring the breed any dog not properly trained by the owner should incur a fine.
- How is a dog declared a nuisance? Also absolutely no breed specific legislation in Calgary

- Please keep a dangerous dogs map with photos and addresses (like the City of Minneapolis) to help keep the public safe and informed. Medical literature is absolutely consistent on pit bulls causing a plurality or majority of severe injuries and deaths: review it and rethink the logic behind "breed-neutral" laws: the medical literature is abundant and clear. If Calgary chooses to remain "breed-neutral" in the face of mounting public health evidence, the City should at least maintain a dangerous dogs list with photos to help keep the public safe and informed. Publishing clear images of dogs deemed dangerous will enable independent research and put to rest the never-ending "breed misidentification" arguments by showing us what our dangerous dogs problem really looks like. MSP's dangerous dogs list is over half pits. DO NOT allow pit bulls, or any dangerous/nuisance dog, to go back home for "rehab" as true aggression is extremely hard or impossible to rehabilitate and these dogs simply reoffend.
- Training for owners that have a dog declared a nuisance
- Breed specific legislation is not required. It's biased to do so.
- Investigation on the dogs home and the way the dogs are being treated. Are they scared. Do they get abused
- Most of the measures listed are pointless as breed specific behaviour is a farce and no actual scientific research supports these claims. It is about common sense training and understanding general dog behaviour. Training should be essential for all dogs going to offleash parks and there are many other breeds that can cause severe damage if they bite (not just "pit bull" type dogs)
- Should be muzzling the owners who do not train their dogs. Leave the pit bulls alone!
- Encourage Pitbull owners to get training provided by community groups.
- Place larger fines on the owner. Leave the breed of the animal out of the picture. A dog is no more at fault for its actions than a child if the dog owner or parents don't raise and train them properly.
- Are you kidding me with this discriminating against a specific dog breed stuff? You need to do more research if you think specific dog breeds should have specific bylaws. The problem is owners, not specific breeds.
- Any breed can be aggressive if not properly trained, it's absolutely ridiculous to single out pit bulls. Every dog owner should be required to go through some form of obedience training. Even if it's just a basic level
- I think any dog with a bite history should be required to be muzzled while in public. I am sorry but a 'pitbull' strength DOES NOT make it's bite any worse. Small dogs, large dogs, any dog bite can cause disease. I can think of multiple dogs with a stronger bite (husky, german shephard, boxer, malamute, etc.). SHAME ON YOU CALGARY for even considering this. 100% disappointing and disgusted that in the year 2020 we are still even considering that this would solve a problem. Look at studies were they have enacted BSL legislation - MAKES NO DIFFERENCE FOR BITE RATES!!!! I am appalled, disgusted, and saddened by this survey.
- All of this is [removed]. I hope you do not add any of this to your bylaws!!
- This is an abomination of a survey biased towards one breed.

- Fines for dogs should not be labeled to certain breeds. I have been bite by a dog before and so have a few people I know, and guess what?! Not one of them were of the breeds you have mentioned. Bad dogs = bad owners.
- Breed specific laws are just as bad as human racism. Don't.
- PIT BULLS -OR ANY SPECIFIC BREED SHOULD NOT BE SINGLED OUT. ALL DOGS CAN BITE AND ALL DOGS THAT DO ARE THE RESULT OF A BAD OWNER THERE ARE STATISTICALLY MORE BITES BY LABRADORS AND GERMAN SHEPHERDS. THIS IS A REQUEST BY A SPECIAL INTEREST GROUP AND SHOULD NOT BE CONSIDERED.
- Destruction required for all nuisance animals.
- THERE SHOULD BE NO DIFFERENT TREATMENT FOR ANY OF THE ABOVE DOGS!!!
- Owner's should be held responsible for their animals actions, not the animal. Bylaw enforcement for leashes and proper yard containment should be focused on, not individual dog breeds. It is extremely archaic to think that these breeds are different than other dogs. I have been bit by big dogs and little dogs but never once by a pitbull. The dogs that bit have terrible owners who are borderline abusive. It is so evident that behavioural issues stem from the owner and not the breed. Fine terrible humans and ban them from owning animals...don't harass well behaved dogs because there are irresponsible people in this city. These types of bylaws punish the wrong group.
- Owner safety training for pit bull dogs and nuisance dogs
- Breed specific guidelines are proven to be ineffective and spread dangerous stereotypes.
- I detest that you call out Pit Bulls directly in this - many other breeds have equally powerful jaws and your lack of what seems to be an attack on this specific breed and not talking about the owners - is disgraceful. Your wording is a trap to skew the answers from this and really makes this entire thing invalid.
- Please do NOT have a bylaw against a specific breed of dog. It is ALWAYS the owner who should be held responsible , not the dog. I have known a couple of vicious standard poodles in my time and you're not listing those. It's a slippery slope to over regulation and we don't need that.
- Hold specific owners responsible for their dogs not an entire breed. This is discriminatory and if you did this to people it would be called racism. Good owners and dogs should not be punished because of how they look but by actions. There are many dog bites a year by all breeds. Police specifically use German shepherds for ease of training and attack power so should there be specific laws against those as well.
- There are many breeds associated with violent and erratic behavior, including German Shepherds, Chow Chows, Huskies, Rottweilers as well as smaller breeds, which may not be as physically strong, but are equally dangerous especially to children. I do not agree with singling out "Pit-bulls" for this bylaw.
- There should be no rule discriminating against only bit bulls
- First off we need to be reminded that there are no bad dogs but bad dog owners. Second it seems to me that communities would be better served with education rather than fear mongering. Pitbulls and Rottweilers by nature aren't violent! The people that own them make them that way. I would suggest that rather than animals further suffer humans be made to pay the price. Animals should be removed for rehabilitation and owners be prevented from ever owning animals again and be put on a municipal and provincial watch list, much like sex offenders.

- I disagree with any form of breed specific legislation.
- Rather than target a specific breed, I think more education on dog behaviour and management of dog behaviour is important. Maybe obedience (positive reinforcement) classes should be a requirement of dog ownership.
- Look at the big picture. Small happy dogs that instigate issues with larger dogs and when the dog gives them quick no harm snap to back off, it's the instigator that is the nuisance
- Exponential fines for owner who fail to comply with proper dog training and care. And for the love of god do not discriminate Pitbull breeds that's such BS.
- I checked one point. That should only happen if dog attacked for no reason. On the other hand is a stranger (including) a child was aggressive towards the dog and it gave a warning in the form of a nip or bite then it's the person's fault. If dog is protecting home during a crime it's the criminal's fault. Leave dog alone.
- Pit bulls should not be singled out. ALL dog bites should have to be reported, including by all small dogs. It should be against the law to not report it. Hyper focus on pit bull type dogs has put fear into people.
- I am vehemently opposed to any breed-specific legislation.
- reassessment of 'nuisance dogs'. As a runner I've had zero issues with bully breeds (they're giant lapdogs) and far more with Shepherds and labs (makes me sad - I love labs).
- Honestly, do your research! Breed has nothing to do with this, especially Bully breeds. They (like any other dog) reflect their owners and their training. [removed] Treat the real problem: their owners! If someone has had multiple nuisances against them, ban them from owning dogs! Don't blame the dog or breed.
- None. These are unfounded and unwarranted fear-based suggestions. If the city is going to start profiling dogs according to the breed, there will be respect lost for the reasonable decision making capabilities of city bylaw. Where is the fact based research attached to these claims, other municipalities enforcing these bylaws is not valid reasons for implementation, that is essentially hoping on the bandwagon. There are a lot of things that have increased potential for harm similarly to the power of a dog bite, are we going to start labeling everything that is "potentially more dangerous" a nuisance and single them out? This is fear based and not fact based, do your research breed specific bylaws are not more effective in preventing aggressive/harmful dog behaviour.
- DOGS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM, OWNERS ARE. How can you say that a pit bull is any stronger than another large terrier? Make Obedience training less expensive for all people. Better trained dogs (not just pitbulls) are good for the community.
- As a dog owner myself, I have had more negative interactions with intact male dogs than any pitbulls ever. Intact dogs should require additional insurance, as well as obedience training, so that owners truly understand the implications of keeping their dogs intact and what that means for interactions with other dogs.
- I would look at making Breeders responsible for selling dogs to people who should not have them.

- Breed based bylaw is a horrible idea and is completely unnecessary.
- Stop [removed] targeting pitbulls. Nuisance dogs makes sense but discrimination does not. This is absolutely ridiculous to even be proposed. Get your head out of your [removed]
- PITBULLS OR ANY BREED FOR THAT MATTER DO NOT DESERVE ANY OF THIS
- How about you make rules surrounding aggressive small dogs instead
- Better education for dog owners. Better screening when owners adopt/shop for 'nuisance' dogs or pit bulls.
- These are ridiculous.
- There should be no breed specific rules, the owner should be at fault and not the animal
- Dogs behaviour is directly a result of the owner. So owners should be required to take a course on dog behaviour.
- [removed] THIS. I do not own a pit bull, and I find every comment on here hilarious. IT IS NOT THE [removed] DOG. IT IS THE [removed] OWNER. MAYBE THE OWNERS SHOULD HAVE TO TAKE CLASSES BEFORE THEIR ALLOWED TO OWN A DOG. A DOG PERIOD. STOP BREED DISCRIMINATION.
- THERE IS NOTHING WRONG WITH PIT BULLS! ALL DOGS SHOULD UNDERGO OBEDIENCE TRAINING. STOP DEMONIZING PIT BULLS!
- Any laws that apply to dogs should apply to all dogs not to a specific breed or breeds.
- Unfair to target a specific breed... do not believe in that at all
- Pit bulls and nuisance dogs should not be on retractable or very long leashes, and should only be handled by those in full control of the dog (i.e. no friends or family members that cannot control the dog).
- I don't think this should be applied to one single breed. Any dog has the capability to be aggressive if not trained and raised properly. There should be an increase in awareness for owners not repercussions for a dog that might not have been taught any better.
- Both my daughters have had and have now the Pit Bull type dogs...these are beautiful animals, they love love people, they love playing ball and snuggling up on the couch/bed. These are Beautiful Gorgeous animals and to lump them into this BSL Catagory is so ridiculous its unfair... then you should have to do this with ever single breed, there is more dog bites from other breed dogs, one being the Labrador Retrievers. My one daughter had an amazing beautiful relaxed very low key became a service dog visiting people in nursing homes, hospitals etc. She had to go through specific training and she passed with flying colors. There's bad apples in every breed, if an animal is abused, starved, left outdoors all the time, is on a chain, has no shelter against the elements there's a chance that dog might bite because of fear and or protecting itself, this is with all breeds. NO NO NO I'M AGAINST BSL
- Ban of pitbulls entirely. If caught with a pitbull, dog is taken away and owner cannot be allowed to own another animal ever again, even a cat or fish as punishment.
- Nothing if theses dogs are not the problem make it for every type of dog all dogs can be trained to kill

- Obedience training for all dogs in off leash areas. If obedience training expected for bull dogs I due to severe bites I would say obedience training for all dogs over 10lbs.
- I'm very disappointed in the breed specific language in this survey I've had worse bites from those little dogs who think they have something to prove I've seen small dogs biting and nipping at bigger dogs who are trying hard to be patient and/ or move away. And the owners just stand there laughing saying things like oh he thinks he's a big dog Yeah well when the big dog gets mad who do you think they will blame ? There are no bad breeds just bad training/owners. No one breed should be singled out.
- Targeting pit bulls is absolute nonsense. In the words of former director of animal services for the City of Calgary, [removed]; "I don't support breed bans because they don't work." "We have to get to the root of the problem, and that is that people must maintain control of their animals."
- Why not make a bylaw where all dogs are required to take obedience? BSL will not change dog ownership, the dogs are not the issues its the humans that own them,
- A description of "nuisance" dogs that are not pit bull specific; I've had more issues with nuisance behaviours from dogs like shih tzu's or chihuahuas or german shepherd dogs or labrador than I ever have had with pit bull dogs. I'd rather nuisance dogs be defined as dogs that are unnecessarily loud, stranger or dog aggressive, or actual behaviours that are problems, rather than the breed of a dog being specified.
- NONE
- This is [removed]
- Train and fine the owners equally of any breed. Its not the breeds fault its the person who owns them. Remember in the 80s how it was shepherds?
- Pit bull does not equal nuisance, therefore a number of pit bulls in a home should not be umbrellaed under one option. I own 3. They are well trained, socialized and we're chosen for disposition. I avoid off leash parks due to prejudice. Even more so, I avoid off leash parks because small dog owners are NOTORIOUS for not training their dogs, nor do they treat them like dogs. Small dogs constantly display aggressive, pre mount, dominant and claiming behaviours whilst the owners look on and laugh and call them cute. Small dogs are instigators - period. I understand my pits are larger and stronger, but instigation should also be considered. Small dog owners are often undereducated in dog behaviour, the little dog ruling the house. I see this all too often and choose the company I allow my dogs to keep. I am a very responsible dog owner. I have taken steps to ensure my dogs are advocates for the breed. Me and my dogs should not be punished because I prefer a "type". An option that should be considered is that EVERY dog owner in the city have to take a dog behaviour course.
- None of the above. Definitely no breed specific rules. The biggest nuisances are chewawas.
- STOP categorizing Pitbulls. Make these bylaws for ALL aggressive dogs. Punish the owners not the breed!! This is absolutely appalling.
- None breed specific laws that require basic obedience training for all dogs! Require a license to have a dog to help ensure people of are of sound mind and intent to protect animals and avoid unnecessary euthanization from poor training habits.

- Pit bulls and other pit bull related breeds are not the problem. Poor public education about dog safety, and irresponsible owners are the problem. If any dog (any breed) is involved in an incident, it is the owner who should be to blame and rehabilitated, not the dog.
- Obedience training for all dogs? Wheres that option? Come on guys.
- I have had more bad experiences with non-bully breeds than I have with bull breeds. Calgary should be more forward thinking. The dog's breed is not to blame, it is the owners and training available. Spay and neuter options available for all dogs that are registered with the city to limit the amount of backyard breeding. Have owners who wish to breed fill out a registration form for breeding and limiting the number of litters bred.
- It's not the dogs that are the problem it's the people that own them they have the lack of education. A dog only does what it's taught. So I said owner teaches dog you "get him" or "watch him" then of course he/she is going to show aggression. A dog has the right to defend its home, but at the end of it... ITS ON THE OWNER. They are the ones who have made pit bulls and any bully/Terrie breeds dangerous. The dog didn't chose to be mean and aggressive....the owners made it be. The sooner we understand that... Then the sooner we can correct people. We euthanized a dog because it bites someone.... But we set free sexual offenders who are likely to offend again... And they get multiple tries at life... Where is the euthanize penalty for them?
- More clarity regarding the definition of "nuisance" is required - why would they ever need to be muzzled or kept from off-leash parks if they have only been involved in "minor" offenses? Dogs with a history of bites, however, should absolutely be required to have a muzzle.
- Pitbull and pitbull type breed dogs should absolutely not be victimized by by laws. ALL dogs have potential to be dangerous, and thus, all dogs should be under the same restrictions or bylaws. It is archaic and of bad taste to be proposing these types of bylaws where other provinces are tabling to have them removed. Please don't penalize this breed without statistics and evidence that has more than a possible correlation, but not causation. Many statistics do not account for otherwise extenuating factors. It is more ideal to have bylaws for responsible dog ownership, in general.
- I do not believe they should be muzzled. It is not the dogs fault, the dog only goes off of the owner (how it's trained) even a rescue dog can turn into the most loving animal. It just depends on how it's trained. Not just pit bulls have a hard bite, there are plenty of them that do.
- There shouldn't be special bylaws or fines based on the breed of dog.
- This is ridiculous! Pit bulls aren't involved in more bite incidents...which are? I feel like we've gone back 30 years. First it was the domermans, then the german shepherds now it's the poor pitties. And just because a dog has a square jaw and short hair doesn't make it a nuisance. Spend my tax money on something USEFUL!
- If data shows that pit bulls do not pose a threat then categorizing them a nuisance because of a stereotype seems unnecessary.
- stop call dogs (pitballs) a nuisance dog. They are extremely loving animals and this is ridiculous to have any of these options even as options. If a dog bites, it's up to the owner to fix the problem because clearly they didn't train it or trained it to be disrespectful. Fine the owner of the dog bites, do not blame the dog. This is stupid to be even proposed.

- No regulation of pitbull breeds, only instances where a dog (of any breed) bites or physically harms humans or other dogs
- It's disgusting that the city of Calgary is discriminating against certain dog breeds. Especially at a moment in time when "discrimination" is a world wide issue.
- I believe this should be a case by case decision and get rid of the term 'pitbull' some labs look like pitbulls.
- Are pit bulls automatically considered a "nuisance" dog even without previous offences? I feel any breed should be subject to stricter rules IF they are known biters etc. But I do not feel it right in away to put pit bulls into its own category!
- Above "measures" regarding pitbull breed is ignorant and is infuriating to myself, and i'm sure many others. Increased insurance? Muzzles? Required dog training? That is ethically wrong. People should have the freedom to decide what breed of dog they want to have in their life. This limits that choice in so many unnecessary ways. Please stop with the discrimination of pitbulls - so wrong.
- This is a ridiculous bylaw, a waste of time and resources. The dogs are not the problem it is the training or lack of from negligent owner. Penalize the people not the animal.
- I do not agree with BSL, it's similar to racism, it's how the dogs are brought up
- mandatory dog training for all owners, regardless of breed. Being the guardian of a living being is a privilege, not a right.
- All pitbull type dogs to be banned.
- Not ever dog is the same even if it's the same breed. The actions taken should be specific to what that pitbull has done, not making it a problem for everyone who has a pitbull in their house
- There could be an opportunity here to make some sort of dog/puppy training mandatory before being able to register your pet with the City. I believe all owners should invest in training their dog to some extent.
- Just ban them all
- NO BREED SPECIFIC PENALTIES - PERIOD
- Using specific breeds is disgusting city of Calgary. NO BREED IS BAD!!!! It's the owners that should be dealt with. I'm disgusted at the specific breed topic. More bites happen from aggressive small dogs
- Change pitbull to Pomeranian. Legitimately though. Super racist to target one dog Breed. How uncanadian. Who knew council was so racist against dog breeds.
- Ban on pit bull ownership in Calgary.
- A dog park for just pit bulls or dogs declared nuisance so theres no fines or muzzels involved, and instead of taking dog away or putting dog if dog shows examples of violence or bites then they van go to obedience training. Not all pitbull dogs are violent and a nuisance.
- None of this. They are a very kind, loving breed. You said it yourselves, they are not dangerous dogs so stop labeling them as monsters. There are many other breeds that are far more aggressive yet you target pit bulls because they look scary. Scrap this weak attempt at a power trip. Maybe extra training at the most but everything else is laughably absurd.

- Consideration given to aggressive small-breed dogs, as they are antagonistic and often the aggressor towards larger animals. If there is a confrontation between animals resulting in injury, the antagonistic smaller breed dog should also be declared a nuisance animal.
- Put a muzzle on the damn chihuahuas. A dog is only as aggressive as its owner makes it. So if there's an aggressive dog, blame the owner for abuse, not the dog. Pitbulls have such a bad rep when in reality they used to be used to help nanny children.
- DO NOT even think about putting in place a breed specific law.
- There is evidence Breed Selective Legislation does not work. The statement you included about bite severity and pitbulls is misinformed and provides bias to your survey to mis-educate the public. It is not supported by scientific fact and is irresponsible misinformation, I would expect better from my City Council. If actually interested in tackling irresponsible owners and aggressive dogs do so under breed neutral terms. ALL dogs have the means to be aggressive and there are breeds larger than pit bulls that can produce a severe bite. Other municipalities that introduced BSL in fact had an INCREASE in aggressive dog attacks as their legislation did nothing to address actual offenders but instead criminalized the innocent.
- I do not support any of these measures, and find it ridiculous that the City of Calgary would discriminate on dog breed. Breed does not determine behaviour.
- Pit bulls are not the problem poor and in educated dog owners are the problem it is not the dogs fault, it is a direct reflection of ownership and how the dog has been raised, dogs need to be socialized properly and grow up in a loving environment, do not punish good, educated dog owners simply because there are bad ones that's the equivalent of telling people that can't go into corner stores because some people rob them. I know so many well behaved and loving pittys, WAAYYYYY more than bad.
- Don't restrict pitbulls. No logic involved. It's bad owners, not bad dogs. Punish the owners, not the pups.
- Absolutely none of these are remotely okay! None are warranted, needed or wanted!
- No rules should be breed specific, only from shown behaviour in the dog.
- None of the above!! Pit bulls are not dangerous. Humans are.
- Obedience training required for ALL pet owners, similar to driver's licensing. The more training, the less the fees are. Retraining every 5 or 10 years or so for the privilege to own a pet, plus reward-based training with each new pet. Once those documents can be produced, then other vendors such as pet stores and veterinarians can process yearly visas for pets and owners that have passed this prerequisite training. If you go ahead with the "nuisance" measures, an in-person investigation must verify that the dog is a nuisance. There is too much stigma around breeds that they could be falsely accused.
- Owners must be reviewed, not just animals!! If an animal is a "nuisance", owners must be required to dog school and graduate with a certificate, and/or complete dog training with said dog in question
- Easier to report owner of dogs who allow or refuse to leash their dogs in public spaces
- I DO NOT support breed specific legislation or bylaws against pitbulls. There are no bad dogs that need to be muzzled. There are only bad people who poorly train animals. People who are against pit bulls are generally misinformed and have never owned or raised one. Pitbulls properly raised are gentle and kindgs that need to be muzzled. There are only bad people who poorly train their animals. People who discriminate

- Owners must complete training before registering a pit bull breed. It is not the breeds fault but rather poor owners not knowing how to properly train them. Punish the owners and not the dogs
- I believe that the fear mongering you are doing here in regards to pit bull breeds is disgusting. The fact that you villanize the entire breed group based on zero factors about the individual dogs is a gross oversight and I am incredibly disappointed. It is one thing to have specific restrictions for dogs of a specific size, but the think about setting up harsh measures like this based on breed is an absolute joke. So disappointing to see.
- Please stop singling out pitbulls. Dog owners are responsible for socializing their dogs, regardless of breed.
- Any bylaws put in place should NOT be breed specific. Rather, they should place responsibility on the owner to properly train and control their dog. Dogs "declared a nuisance" should be given the opportunity to somehow prove otherwise after some amount of time.
- Don't make bread specific bylaws. They are fear based and punish animals not irresponsible pet owners!! They aren't right and Calgary is better than this.
- Mandatory spay/neuter for all Pit bulls
- Punish the PEOPLE who inadequetly trained their dog, do NOT punish the dog. Most of the options above are cruel. Don't single out pitbulls. If you did any research, you would know pitbull bits are not stronger than any other dog bite of the same size. All dogs should requie proper training.
- owners should be required to do mandatory training with dogs before it is taken home.
- Dogs with a bite history not being allowed in parks. Most animals at large need more exercise.
- Pit bull definition is ridiculous. I don't support breed specific legislation.
- None.
- Nothing. The fact that the city is targeting "pit bull type" breeds is despicable. I'm ashamed to be from a city that thinks this is acceptable. It's been proven that these dogs are not more aggressive and shows that the City of Calgary has not done due diligence in researching the legislation they are putting forward. This is a stain on the city, and if approved will be a looming shadow on the city.
- Don't pick on one breed. Rottweilers and dobermans are more terrifying then a pit bull
- None of the above
- How about looking at the people that are cross breeding these nuisance breeds you think of? You are looking at this the wrong way. You need to crack down on the people that own the dogs. Anyone that wants to adopt or buy from a kennel should require background check. Training properly should be mandatory. Crack down on the breeders out there and look into dog fighting rings ! There's your solution to the problem. These breeds you speak of are actually amazing, loyal, gentle and affectionate when they are treated and trained properly. I should know, I owned one for 12 years and I had a baby and he was an amazing dog. It's called Responsible Dog Ownership !
- I support NONE of these measures
- None

- there shouldn't be a law towards a type of dog it should be the way an owner trains these dogs.
- It is not the dogs at fault, it is the owners. Pit Bull breeds are kind and loving, it is the owners that can be the problem. No dogs should ever be held at fault but the people should be. The dogs just need love and proper training.
- Do not pass any of these.
- This proposal is a joke and if anything borderline racist towards a specific breed of dog
- I don't support breed banning, but the owner must be held accountable and I don't feel that is happening as strictly as it should. If you have a dog like that, the owner is negligent if s/he does not properly train the dog. Training should be a requirement of owning such a breed. If a dog bites or attacks, the owner's status should be monitored, and if the dog is seized, and the owner prohibited from getting another one.
- there should be no Breed Specific Laws
- If a dog has attacked or bitten another dog or person ... it should be declared nuisance
- Calgary is being flooded with pitbulls by all these US rescue firms from the 1,000+ cities where they have been or are being banned. I suggest we follow banning them as well. Aren't we all getting sick and tired of reading these weekly stories in the news of unprovoked pitbull attacks?
- Hard no on any breed specific legislation
- First off Pitbull, or dogs in general are not the main issue. Yes their are a ton of bad dogs out there because their are a ton of bad owners with no education not properly dealing with their dogs. I would suggest more bylaw activity at the dog parks, consequences for owners who do not control their dogs, and owners not paying attention, on phone or etc, and not cleaning up after their dogs. Their are far to many people who watch their dogs poop and don't even pick it up.
- City of Calgary Bylaw Officers need to do their job and respond to 311 calls. I reported the drug dealer neighbour's [personal information removed] at-large pit bull that almost bit my [personal information removed] father over my fence (it was caught on video) FIVE times (all five times were also caught on video) - and Bylaw didn't respond ONCE. Not even a phone call. They just closed the SR request weeks later without responding. The dog was usually chained on a deck but the yard has NO gates. They also bred the dog with another pit bull on the deck with no gates. Police responded once because of the drug activity and the pit bull were out at the same time on one occasion but there was NO response from Animal Services to 311 calls.
- Bylaw put in place to prevent backyard breeding of any breed.
- Rather than being breed specific, a reduction in license fees could be applied for dogs that have certificate in obedience training. As part of that training, the trainer would have to also provide the bylaws to the owner.
- Dogs and or pit bulls are not the problem. Humans are the problem. Humans need training. One dog breed is no different than the other. A dog requires love and support and pit bulls are no different. Bad owners are the real issue and require training. The stigmatizing bs that surrounds pit bulls as a breed of bad dogs all transpires from uneducated idiots. Do research and learn these dogs are no different than any other.

- no such thing as a bad dog. Obedience school must require owner training as well, don't just send the dog off to be trained by someone who knows how to handle the dog. Perhaps dog owners should get a licence before getting any dog to ensure they can handle it.
- Can dogs that bark all day/night in someone's backyard be considered a nuisance?
- Pit bulls are fine doggos, its the owners who should be further investigated for cruelty, i know pitbulls who have come from abused homes and have been fostered to become loving house hold members
- Targeting and Implementing breed-discriminatory bylaw is unacceptable and opens a door for the city to target any working breed (Dobermans, German Shepherds, Rottweilers) as examples. Nuisance dogs come in every breed, shape and size, so targeting the bully breeds without stating the percentage of bite/nuisance incidents that have happened in the city over the last 12 years is irresponsible on the part of the City's Bylaw Department.
- Any dog lusted as a nuisance and it's owner should be required to go through training to deal with the behaviour and said dog should never be off leash.
- I understand the association that pit bulls have because of their strength but I have had more issues with smaller breeds in offleash parks because their owners dont seem to think they need the same level of control as a larger breed. My dog has never been attacked by a pit bull breed but has many times by smaller breeds, I think this important to note.
- Training for the owner - NOT the dog. It is people who fail to understand animal care and training.
- Pitbulls are not the problem. It starts with the dog owner and that applies to all dogs period. I find more small does bite then the large dogs.
- All dogs should have obedience training. This needs to be a requirement for ANY dog using off leash parks. I don't feel that breed specific bylaws are warranted.
- Dogs declared a nuisance cannot be in off-leash parks or need to be on a leash, but can be re-assessed following appropriate training. Dogs with a history of bites should require liability insurance.
- None, these are all very bias and do not consider the owner in charge of the dog.
- Owners of animals considered "nuisance" pets should be required to have in person visits from a qualified dog trainer. It's usually the human's inability to handle a certain breed of dog. Dogs are not the problem, irresponsible owners are.
- STOP BEING RACIST TOWARDS PITBULLS! Fine, charge or remove the owners right to own animals if the can not properly train and control their pets. Its not the dogs fault!!!
- No breed specific legislation! Treat cases on a case by case basis. Stop punishing responsible owners and good animals because of bad ones.
- education focused program to increase compliance vs punishment first with no support for correction of the issue
- Pit bulls are not the problem. The owners are.
- I don't believe breed-specific bans or penalties are truly beneficial. Any dog can be a nuisance if it isn't properly trained or has been abused, and any dog can be a good dog if well trained. We need to encourage better pet ownership practices and awareness of the responsibilities.

- I am strongly opposed to expanding Calgary Community Standards authorities and any measures implemented against a specific breed are discriminatory and should not be accepted in our society.
- PIT BULLS ARE NOT A PROBLEM BREED; fines should be determined by responsibility of pet owners, not the dog breed
- No bylaw should be breed specific.
- Any animal can attack and cause harm. Pit bulls are friendly dogs unless trained otherwise. Muzzles should be based on any aggressive animal, NOT all pit bulls.
- "Nuisance" dogs should include obviously aggressive SMALL dogs, not just specific breeds that some people think are a problem, I have been bitten by more small dogs than big dogs....
- I do not support BSL! It is extremely racist and if we've learned anything lately is that racism will not be tolerated! BSL does NOT work! There are many breeds that could cause the same amount of damage as a pitbull. Maybe a higher fine to be put in place if a bite or aggressive situation happens?
- The trouble dogs are due to the horrible owners - not the dogs.
- Dogs declared a nuisance must go through obedience classes before being allowed into off leash parks
- No bylaws should be subject to breed. "Pit bulls", while very strong, are one of many breeds that can exert substantial bite-force (Dobermans, Rottweilers, Cane Corsos, Irish Wolfhounds, Akitas, etc.)
- DON'T INTRODUCE BREED SPECIFIC BYLAWS ALL ISSUES SHOULD BE LOOKED AT ON A CASE BY CASE BASIS !!!
- There should be no laws against any breed i.e: Pitbull . What a joke
- I don't support any of these that say that the dog cannot visit parks and such. I do not support having to muzzle a dog to go out.
- The by laws should be applicable to all dogs and breeds of dogs over a certain height and weight. DONT DISCRIMINATE AGAINST PITBULLS!!!!
- rehab for aggressive dogs and training for the owner if any incidents occur. Stop blaming pit bulls! They are great dogs. This just builds people's fear in dogs.
- it is not the breed , it is the training of the animal and the OWNER that needs training. I do not support the idea of picking on certain breeds. The dog is only responsible for how it is trained and the environment around it.
- People with more than two dogs in a house hold (a pack) should be on a leash at dog parks. Three or more dogs is a pack and gang up on other dogs.
- there needs to be a better understanding and definition of what a nuisance dog is, and there needs to be a good check on ignorance among bylaw and general public.
- DON'T INTRODUCE BREED SPECIFIC BYLAWS ALL ISSUES SHOULD BE LOOKED AT ON A CASE BY CASE BASIS !!!
- Owners of off leash dogs on the side walk need to be charged and not warned.
- Do not single out one particular breed! My golden retriever was attacked by a chihuahua!
- SCREEN THE PEOPLE NOT DOGS.
- Need to fine backyard breeders breeding bully breeds without proper temperament and health testing. Make a mandatory spay-neutered for bully breeds.

- All of these are complete [removed]. Educated yourself [removed]. STOP DISCRIMINATING AGAINST BREED!!!! Not all pitbull type dogs are dangerous just like not all labs are dangerous!! I will never mussel my dog in public. Ever.
- Doesn't matter what breed or size of dog, if they have bitten or caused harm to a dog or human multiple times, training must take place
- Stop targeting Pit Bulls. It is not the breed, but the owner. I have seen way more smaller breeds being aggressive and snapping at people.
- Track number of complaints lodged against a dog owner including - but not limited to - off-leash dog running off property and attacking dog on leash and on public property (EG. sidewalk). Not all nuisance dogs are large. Often the small ones attack the big ones and eventually the bigger dog will nip at them to drive them off (generally without injury). People need to train and keep their dogs under control regardless of its size.
- All pet owners should be required to go through training before owning a pet.
- Bylaws should not attack certain dog breeds, only applying to across all dog breeds equally.
- Teach people how to raise their dogs better. Its the dog or the breed its the person who raises it. We don't blame kids go how they act why would we blame dogs. Quit putting blame on the animals and look at the real problem which is people
- No special enforcement.. fine repeat offenders.
- Keep [removed] philisophy to place responsibility on the humans and not the dogs. This is dog racism and this is 2020 when racism is trying to make a change. Dont revert back to something he created that worked so good.
- I AM AGAINST BREED SPECIFIC LAWS !!!!
- Do not implement breed specific legislation. It's judging a book by its cover and that is exactly what we teach kids not to do. I expect the city of Calgary to be a role model. My dog was bit by a doodle; breed means nothing. It's the owner.
- None, this is a terrible idea
- Pitbulls are a kind and loving breed. The fact that it is rumored that they are aggressive is a pure joke. Please ensure these implementations are representative of all breeds. Simply put, smaller dogs are more aggressive, but as they have a lower impact aggressive behavior their actions are dismissed. I am appalled at the idea of all the suggestions above.
- The fact that the city is bullying specific breeds is ridiculous. Teach your dog not to be an [removed]. Owners need to be held responsible. A dog is a animal by nature, it does not matter how much training you have, if a animal is provoked it's provoked. (I do not see huskies on this list? They are just as wild and aggressive as any other animal.)
- Pit bulls are not the nuisance people seem to believe, the owners are the issue, not the breed!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
- Better monitoring and enforcement of dogs off-leash in on-leash areas.
- Can you add something about if the owner poses a threat to the animal or others in a dog bite situation.
- Punish the owner, not the breed/pet. Even golden retrievers can be vicious if taught to be that way.

- singling out a type of breed with eliminate any support from me. Additional training, higher fines, etc. for ANY breed of nuisance dog is the route to go.
- Dog owners who are not responsible enough to care for and train their Pit bull or any other dog properly should be fined.
- Your bias against Pitbulls is both frustrating AND unscientific. You clearly acknowledged that Pitbulls do not bite more often than other breeds. So if you use the "bite strength" excuse to target specific breeds, PLEASE follow published scientific evidence regarding dog breeds and jaw strength (e.g. here: https://dogs.lovetoknow.com/wiki/Which_Dog_Breed_Has_the_Strongest_Jaw) and objectively target all breeds above a certain strength, like German Shepherds and English Bulldogs. Or better yet: do not target any BREED, but individual nuisance dogs.
- breed specific bylaws are a terrible idea. Deal with problem animals case by case.
- its not the dog its the person who raises it... like your kids should be muzzled at the mall for running around screaming. but eh [removed] you
- Breed has nothing to do with behavior. It is the ownership
- owner education, a dangerous dog is different than a nuisance that makes noise or at large and non-aggressive - maybe a different category - I would support a separate dangerous dog designation that can't then be in off-leash parks
- A requirement that owners must get their dogs trained regardless of the breed. Exceptions would be for those who actively work with dogs ie veterinarians and the like
- NONE OF THESE! Pit bulls aren't the problem, bad owners are!
- Any dog if not trained, loved, or treated properly can develop behavioural problems. Owners need to be educated on proper care, and discipline
- If the ANY breed shows SEVERAL offensives then it should require training or be muzzled if cannot train. (By several I mean the 3 rule)
- I worry about the implication that higher fees as punishment to the OWNER might have on the dog. An owner who chooses not to pay a fine might consider harsher alternatives like ... dumping their dog, beating or even killing it in order to punish the DOG and avoid future fines.
- If an owner has a large amount of charges they should not be to own a dog.
- Higher fines for people with any dogs that bite. Eg: Chihuahua's, pomeranians, shitzu type dogs. I think public officials that spread false information such as "pitbulls bite more or harder" should be fined and removed from whichever position they are working until properly trained.
- Pit bulls shouldn't be excluded out. It's nuisance dogs in general. There should be no breed specifics listed. People freak out without even knowing pitbulls personally. I'm tired of them getting singled out.
- Pit bulls have a less powerful bite than German shepherds and other breeds given that is your reasoning for singling out the pitbull or pitbull type breed then should this law apply it would therefore have to apply to all breeds that have as powerful a bite or more so.
- Pit Bulls as described above are not the problem it's the owner that has trained the dog or lack of training that generally causes the problem. Offer subsidized training to those who need more help to train their dogs.

- It's not a pit bull problem it's bad owners. Not fair to single out one breed.
- I think we shouldn't just keep it to one specific breed, i have been bitten by smaller dogs on more than one occasion. I have also had other breed dogs attack my American bulldog, and my dog wouldn't even defend itself. I believe the owners of the animals should be held accountable on a case by case basis.
- Instead of fining people for nuisance dogs, offer programs to rehabilitate and train the animal with the owner. Refusal to enter such training should result in seizure, training and adoption of the animal. Putting a price on bad behavior will not stop its frequency.
- Would be in favor of banning the breeding of pit-breeds, and for requiring a special license to own a pitbull in the city.
- the only acceptable change would be to increase fines on irresponsible pet owners. Perhaps even issuing bans on people so that they cannot own a pet. The argument that pitbull type dogs are more dangerous because their bite has the "potential" to do more damage is irrelevant. A human on human assault charge is the same whether they use a 9mm pistol or a 50 caliber rifle. [removed]
- I think instead of specifically isolating and targeting animals you clearly view as a nuisance, find a way to make obedience training mandatory for all dogs.
- Ban pit bulls
- I don't think we should be breed type specific (Bully breeds) a bite is a bite regardless if it comes from a small animal or large one. It should be one rule for all not just some.
- There cannot be more than one nuisance dog per house.
- The city is out of their [removed] minds with this survey. It's the owners fault NOT THE BREED. The owner should be responsible for proper obedience training. How dare you Calgary, single out Pitbulls. Let's just go ahead and raise insurance for specific racial backgrounds for people now too hmmm? [removed] ridiculous
- None of these make sense. Why would a dog declared a nuisance for being "at large" be required to be muzzled in public? Raising the fines will only negatively impact the dog and lead to cases of neglect/abuse.
- Equal laws for all breeds and assessment of dog owner to see if they are good care givers.
- I am more scared of Chihuahuas than a pit bull.
- Euthanization of pit bulls or nuisance dogs involved in serious offences (e.g. serious injury or death of child).
- LEAVE THEM ALONE. It's the owners not the dog. All breeds are different and you can't discriminate against animals
- Require obedience training for pitt bulls but otherwise, leave them alone. Focus on nuisance dogs in general.
- You guys are disgusting and cruel for even suggesting the earlier options. Pitt bulls are the friendliest dogs - and this is coming from someone who doesn't like dogs.
- Please don't target Pitbulls they are sweet dogs who don't deserve it

- A Pitbull is NOT a vicious animal and the fact this bylaw may go in affect is [removed]. Pit bulls are sweet animals and there should be no laws against them being alive and being happy where they should be, in parks, walks, anywhere.
- am offended that you are singling out pit bulls when I have had more troubles with owners of small dogs quit trying to single out one breed. develop a bylaw for all dogs and apply it equitably to all dogs. have seen too many people complain of german shepherds at the off leash park when it is actually the complainants dogs that are not under control.
- None of these measures are founded based on valid/proven studies or science. All dogs have equal chance of being aggressive and it is entirely based on training. Singling out "pit bull" breeds and dogs that "appear" to look like an aggressive breed is COMPLETELY absurd and unfounded. This is a play on the stigma behind "aggressive" breeds and nothing more. To follow through with any bylaws like this would be disgusting and absolutely ridiculous.
- It's not the breed it's the owner.
- Increased fines and enforcement for off leash dogs in leashed areas. More bylaw presence (more jobs, yay)
- Bylaws should apply to dogs that are nuisances. Not all pit bulls or bully breeds are bad dogs. More small dog breeds have been known to be aggressive
- Don't do discrimination on pitt bull... stop!! All big dogs are the same.
- Nothing!! The type of dog does not matter. [removed] you Calgary for even thinking this is an issue.
- You are focusing on one type of dog. In my experience "pit bulls" have never been a problem. It comes down to the owners responsibility. By singling out 1 type of dog, you are perpetuating a stereotype and the perception these dogs are to be feared.
- Pit bulls are not problematic you ignorant [removed]
- I would not support any of these options I firm believe any dog is a nuisance it's the owner who is at fault for poorly training ANY dog
- Owners with nuisance dogs require proof they have sought and taken training with their pet to stem the bad behaviour/habits they and their pet have.
- Additional enforcement or fines for dog owners who do not keep their dogs on a leash on community sidewalks or allow the dogs to relieve themselves on neighbors property/flower-beds.
- Creation of bylaws that are limited to specific breeds should not be implemented. It only encourages the public to be afraid and discriminatory against certain breeds. Any dog is capable of becoming a "nuisance" and I strongly believe that mandatory dog training for ALL dog owners is a more fair and effective bylaw.
- Discriminating against pitbulls is so wrong. Shame on you Calgary and shame on the people who thought of introducing this as a bylaw. Never been so ashamed of this city in my life. BSL does not work and does far more harm than good. Pit bulls are not aggressive by nature it is all in the upbringing and socialization which is the responsibility of the owner. I have a cane corso and she is the sweetest dog ever but with this bylaw her and other dogs will be unfairly grouped for absolutely no reason. Educate people on how to socialize dogs. Make screening people before they get any breed mandatory. I have met far more small dogs that are aggressive than bully breeds. I've personally been attacked by both yorkies and pomeranians and them along with dachunds have more bites and are more likely to bite. Educate yourselves please because this is the most ignorant thing I have ever seen. Seriously shame on you.

- Do not single out pit bulls. Any dog has the potential to be dangerous or a nuisance
- apply this to any dog no matter what breed or size. In the past I was almost attacked while walking in my community two poodles. The owner could barely control them. On the other hand, I have encountered pitbulls that were as gentle and kind as can be. I am not a dog owner but have a lot of friends with various dogs. Also making sure people know how to handle their dog. I see many people with big dogs and small dogs who don't know how to handle/control them. I am living in a highrise where dogs are allowed and have seen a lot.
- Don't target Pit Bulls. All dogs can be bad.
- None of the above - leave these animals alone
- All dogs should require training for both dogs and their owners. This is not specific to pit bulls or similar breeds
- Provide programs for all registered dogs to receive obedience training. Seize unregistered dogs and those who have not gone through obedience training
- Owner should be held responsible not the animal, fines for owner
- STOP MAKING BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION ITS EMBARRASSING
- Why would Pitbulls breeds be singled out here? Why would the city perpetuate this stereotype so more irresponsible owners acquire these breeds because they are considered the bad boys in the dog world??? This is exactly the problem underlying the Pitbull issue, in the 80s it was the Doberman and the German Shepherd, now it's the Pitbull. Please educate the public and don't perpetuate this stereotype!!!!
- Mandatory training for new and existing dog owners, with biannual refresher training
- Pit bulls should absolutely NOT be targeted separately. If you want to place legislation for dog bites so do it for all dogs. A responsible pet owner of a pit bull is the same as a responsible pet owner of a chihuahua.
- Do not allow pit bulls in Calgary. Do not allow dogs to be brought in from other countries.
- It is very disappointing the city would discriminate based on breed. There are several dogs that have significantly stronger bite force (mastiff, bulldog) and many that are just as powerful including German Shepard, Dobermans) that are also common breeds.
- No, no, no. "while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's [sic] strength allows the potential for a more severe bite" This is plain wrong. It's based on urban legend and decades of sensationalistic reporting, not science. First, there's no good way to measure bite potential in dogs. You cannot put a device in their mouth and direct them to bite as hard as they can. There have been some studies using dry skull measurements, by using electrical stimulation in anesthetized dogs, and by using calculations based on muscles and anatomy. None have given a satisfactory answer to the question, and the results vary from study to study. In one very interesting Canadian study, 40 skulls were sorted by size (small, medium and large) and by shape: brachycephalic (flat-faced), mesocephalic (medium proportions) and dolichocephalic (elongated). It was determined that bite force was strongly correlated with the overall size of dog. For medium and large dogs, the shorter skull shape was associated with a somewhat stronger bite, perhaps because longer skulls have less leverage. This difference was not seen in small dogs. So what does this mean in laymen's terms? Breeds that fall under "pit bull" restrictions: the American Staffordshire Terrier, Staffordshire Bull Terrier and American Pit Bull Terrier, are all medium sized dogs classified as brachycephalic type. That means that they may have a slightly stronger bite than a similarly sized breed with a long nose. But there's no reason to presume their bite would differ from other brachycephalic breeds of the same size, e.g, the Chinese Shar-Pei, Chow Chow, or Boxer. This also means that as a medium-sized dog, their bite strength would pale in consideration to breeds that are larger. There are dozens of breeds that are larger in size and, according to this study, would have the potential to do more damage with a bite. Once again, science tells us that assessing an individual dog's behaviour and looking at proven risk factors for dog aggression is the key to protecting community safety. Neither breed nor anomalous bite strength, are among these factors. Point E, above, is especially grievous; it provides no substantive or objective way of determining a dog's breed. It simply has to "look like" or exhibit characteristics? This boils down to the biases and subjective determinations of bylaw officers and WILL be challenged in court. Breed-specific legislation has NO place in Calgary.

- Leave the pit bulls alone you [removed]
- If they are muzzled then they can be in off leash parks
- It has nothing to do with the breed of the dog.
- There should not be anything breed specific. Please do not limit this to pitbulls. This is absolutely insane.
- I would not support any of these measures.
- Its not the dogs, its the owners. Owners should be given training in how to handle these types of dogs. Some people should not be allowed to own any type of dog if they are mentally unstable, or not very bright.
- Ban of Pit Bulls within multi-unit dwellings were other residents have not choice but interact or run-into this breed (condos, apartments, townhouses)
- Leave pit bulls alone
- No breed specific legislation relating to pit bulls or any other breed. As pit bulls are (as stated above IN YOUR OWN SURVEY) no more likely to bite than any other breed, I do not support legislating them any differently than other dogs.
- Any dog, not just. Higher fines for owners that think it is ok to be off leash in an on leash. IE. Confederation Park. Even if they think there dog is under control. This threatens dogs that are on leash. This has Ben an issue for over 10 years. All they get is warnings. I have witnessed so many dog attacks and they are not just Pit Bulls. Higher fines for disobeying the rules.
- There should be laws enforced to stop back yard breeder of any type of dog. People who wish to get large breed dog should be required to take educational courses on owning a dog, training, laws. A Pit bull type dogs quality of life should not be ruined because people are under educated, (these are special dogs who should only be in the care of the right people) Also the media should be fined for creating fear against 'pitbull' type dog breeds. The public and catholic school system should as be educating children about approaching dogs, and how to treat animals.

- It is not the breed it is the owner. I have seen other breed attack as well. People need to be responsible for the actions of their dogs no matter what breed.
- It's really nonsensical that so much attention is being put on Pitbull needs when they are no more likely to bite or attack than any other breed. Please use your brains and think about breeds which have proven to bite and attack people regularly like German shepherds. Don't just be dog racist just because a dog is strong, go with factors not blind great mongering, it makes the whole city look stupid.
- I don't think it should be breed specific laws. There are plenty of dogs whom aren't pit bulls that are way more vicious. Any dog, and any breed that exhibits aggressive behaviour of any kind should be muzzled.
- There cannot be more than one or nuisance dog in a household
- It is a myth that pitbulls have a "stronger" bite than other dogs. I expected more research from the city of Calgary. I believe the owner should be held accountable and not the breed. Being prejudice against a particular breed seems like an archaic way of thinking and causes issues to go underground
- A few bad apples don't spoil the whole bunch. Please deal with dog issues on a case by case basis and don't discriminate pit bull breeds and definitely dismiss the idea of a muzzle at parks.
- Fine the owners of the owners of any breed of dog that is showing signs of aggression. It's not the dogs fault... chihuahuas, German Shepard's bite more people than a pit bull, there is just a discrimination towards pit bulls that need to stop
- Breed specific legislation is disgusting and unhelpful. None of these options are reasonable in any capacity.
- Your prejudice against pit bulls is insulting
- They should not be specific pit bull legislation
- Owners of dogs (any dogs) that have had offenses (i.e biting, attacking) should be held more responsible as an owner. Many people with dogs (does not matter which breed) who have had instances of biting, attacking, etc should be held more accountable for how their dog is trained. 2-3 offenses of biting, attacking should be fined at a higher rate and 3+ cases required to take dog obedience classes and receive a certificate that their dog has changed/improved greatly. There have been many people who laugh it off when their dog jumps and growls and tries to bite someone walking by (even if it's on their own property) and your walking on the sidewalk not near the fence. I have had dogs try to jump the fence to attack when just walking by.
- I think small dogs are far more aggressive and a nuisance (yappy) than pitbull dogs. I would rather see something done about that.
- NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION, that is very disappointing to see.
- Increased fines and enforcement for off leash dogs in leashed areas.
- So disgusting you guys discriminate against bully breeds. The little chihuahuas are the nuisance dogs. Disgusted

- I do not believe anything needs to be done.
- Owners must be screened for dog's training and treatment at home
- This is a joke right? I have been grooming dogs for 10 years and never met an aggressive "pit bull type". In fact I would trust them over many other breeds. Please give your head a shake city of Calgary!!
- All dogs should be muzzled.
- Additional tracking / restrictions to OWNERS of nuisance dogs. Obviously if they do not have the ability to properly train, they should not own other dogs in the future.
- I feel like the criteria given to explain nuisance animals is way too vague. If an animal has shown violent tendencies WITHOUT provocation on numerous occasions then I feel like they could be classified as a nuisance animal. But too often larger dogs are blamed for incidents that are not their fault, but that of smaller dogs, children or other owners not knowing dog behavior and warning signs. I believe employing an animal behaviourist as those involved in rescues around the city would be the proper way to address whether an animal is a nuisance or not. Based on an evaluation, not just a specific he said she said incident.
- If your dog is a nuisance (pit bull or not) you shouldn't be alien to take it to an off leash area unless you've taken obedience training with your dog and it's been passed by the person running the class
- Mandatory training for owners of dogs that are declared a nuisance
- Pitbulls are not the problem it's the people who own them for the wrong reasons, it's like comparing the son or daughter of a drug addict to their parents they have done nothing wrong
- None. It's the owners. Not the dog. Don't make me get rid of one of my fur babies because someone else can't control theirs. It is not fair to me
- Higher fines for people allowing their dogs to be off leash in all designated "on leash" areas
- Pit bulls are not the problem... untrained dogs in general are. Whoever came up with this notion needs to be looked at as a viable candidate for their position because clearly they are missing vital information on how dog breeds differ.
- It's unfair for the city to specifically target any type of pitbulls. There are many other dogs that are nuisance dogs. Many other large breed dogs severely bite. This poll is one sided and not accurate
- It's not the [removed] breed, leave our pit bulls alone. If I want to have 4 pit bulls in my house I damn well will have 4 pit bulls. Don't single out a breed, there's no such thing as a bad dog just a bad owner.
- None, pit bulls are not a problem it's how their owners train them.
- The main problem is the owner, not the dog!! Stop attacking innocent animals. Make training for stupid people. They're a huge problem!!
- Owners who have multiple nuisance dogs must be sent for training.
- Pitbulls are no more dangerous than any other breed
- Treat all dogs the same. Provide training for all breeds and hold pet owners responsible for the dog.
- I have known many pitbulls several of whom are rescues none of them have any issues and if they did have issues once removed from a negative environment the issue quickly dissipates, Banning and restricting pitbulls creates an environment of hostility towards them which will lead to more incidence because dogs can sense what people are putting off also restricting them socializing in dog parks means the few times they do see other dogs it may potentially be worse because they have less experience being social!! Also other dogs are going to suffer for this I have spent a lot of time walking a black lab crossed with a boxer the sweetest little girl in the world however her head is square and her fur is short and we have had a lot of negative reactions to a very friendly dog luckily she does not feed into the energy and has never had an incident, but it's heartbreaking to watch her approach people with love and have them shun her and be visibly disgusted she comes back with her ears down sad.. I have been bit by four dogs in my life one large one who I did not meet the owner I was a child I was running down the street it came out of its yard it was big and furry and black and bit me and then ran back into its yard that dog did not draw blood, and three small ones 10 20 and 30 lb respectively each one of those dogs drew blood none of these bites were ever reported. I am not alone in this so your bite statistics are severely skewed.

- STOP BSL
- Leave Pit Bulls out of it. Go after the owners. Dogs do as they are trained. We shouldn't be going after one specific breed. That's like dog racism because they are stronger they have the potential.
- Obedience training or behavioural investigation into the owner as they are the ones who taught the dog to act that way.
- Creating bylaws based on breed is a poorly informed choice. As a professional in the veterinary field it is my opinion that the behavior of a dog has nothing to do with breed and everything to do with training and owner compliance. I would recommend enforcing and educating the public on "leash code", where different colour leashes are used to indicate others about the temperament of your pet (for example, yellow usually indicates a dog that does not do well with others). There is little to no scientific backing that a bully breed would inflict a bite worse than that of a dog of another similarly sized breed. By educating the public on leash code, proper dog park etiquette and encouraging proper training of all breeds, we can mitigate the risk of dog bites and other dog related incidents.
- This is discriminatory against pit bull breeds. I do not support this.
- I think all of these ideas are idiotic. Terrible idea.
- The dog is not at fault for any of these scenarios and it is the owner who should be prosecuted for their training strategies.
- None of the above. I do not support any of the listed measures
- Don't punish a breed punish the nuisance dogs
- The way a dog responds and acts is entirely on the owner. There are a lot more breeds than just pitbulls.
- NONE OF THE ABOVE
- These bylaws should apply to all dogs who display aggressive or nuisance behaviour. Breed should not be part of this survey.
- There should be no bylaws passed specifically for pitbulls, this is an outdated and inaccurate belief with no merit. It is embarrassing that the city of Calgary is even considering this.
- I would like more information on "dangerous behaviour" and how it's determined. I think it would be better to refer to it as negligence on the part of the owner rather than the behaviour of the animal.

Please reconsider breed specific legislation. It has nothing to do with the breed and everything to do with the owner.

- why specify pit bulls? there are many more large breeds that could be as strong and cause a severe bite. this question reinforces the fear mongering that is not based on actual frequency of pit bull bites vs other breeds. regulate the owner and the nuisance dogs, not breed. or if you MUST identify breeds pick the top 10 that cause severe bites and insist on extra training, not just one . I am very disappointed in how this question is phrased
- Please do I put breed specific bands or fees just because of breed. It should be for dogs who have caused problems in the past
- Obedience training required for all dog breeds small and large.
- Breed specific legislation has been proven to be ineffective. Punishing owners for the breed of dog they own, despite the dog having caused no problems doesn't do anything to resolve dog attacks.
- None of these should be enforced. Pit bulls and similar breeds should not be punished for simply being born. It is the owner's fault for conditioning a pit to be aggressive or violent. Stronger training is a possible solution but would be difficult to mandate and ensure.
- This is racism towards pitties. How can you be so cruel?
- None of these should be enforced. Pit bulls and similar breeds should not be punished for simply being born. It is the owner's fault for conditioning a pit to be aggressive or violent. Stronger training is a possible solution but would be difficult to mandate and ensure.
- If pit bulls have to be muzzled, so should all breeds. It's the owner not the dog. Make owners punishable. Not dogs.
- It is never the dogs fault. It is the owners and the world should know this by now!!!
- A fenced in yard that is in good repair and sufficiently high enough to adequately contain dogs exhibiting dangerous behaviour. Also, obedience training should be mandated for all breeds that have a higher degree of or propensity for dangerous behaviour. A clear definition of dangerous behaviour is required and should not discriminate against any one specific breed, but all-inclusive of dogs exhibiting dangerous behaviour. Also, the City should consider that all dogs can be antagonized to exhibit nuisance behaviour when its yard back onto City parks as the general public, including dog owners, can be quite inconsiderate of private property by allowing their children to throw things into a yard at a fenced in dog or allow their dogs to run off-leash/on-leash immediately behind the fenced yard.
- This is so beyond wrong to go after a certain breed. It's the owners not the breed. Start going after the people who abuse these dogs because of their breed! I don't own a pitbull and probably never will because I don't want to have to pay more money to own one or not be allowed in certain areas with my dog.
- This is absolute garbage. My dog has been injured twice by other dogs. Once a German Shepard and another time a Jack russel. My rotti cross dog has never even defended herself. You can't judge dogs based on breed. It's individual just like bad people
- Because "pit bull type dogs" are not involved in more incidents it makes zero logical sense to punish them for peoples unjustified opinions on the breed.

- Remove all "pit bull" specific and targeted language and policies.
- This should not be breed specific! There are many dogs involved in bites etc, and picking on one breed simply because of their bite strength is not right. That's like damning a person before you even know them. Dogs should not be euthanized, they should be removed from the BAD OWNER and given a second chance to show their true colors, with an owner who will love, care for, and train properly. There are no bad dogs, just bad owners.
- Legislation targeting 'pit bulls' is the same discrimination as racism. I've been bit by a husky and a chow chow, never by a pit bull. A dogs breed does not determine its behavior. There are gentle, affectionate pit bulls, and vicious, violent golden retrievers. All dogs are products of their upbringing, not their breed. This seems so basic common sense
- BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION IS DISCRIMINATION!!!!
- Muzzled up to a year in public places. Once dog behaviour specialist has confirmed dog has been rehabilitated then it can be muzzle free
- BREED SPECIFIC BANNING IS NOT OK. WE WILL NOT STAND FOR IT AS A COMMUNITY. DOG BITES ARE PUT ON THE OWNER NOT THE DOG!!!! WE ARE BETTER THAN THIS AND THE CITIZENS OF CALGARY WILL FIGHT FOR THIS FOOLISHNESS TO END. STOP WASTING OUR TAXES!!!!
- Should not be breed specific, outline should be subject to all breeds. False information above about "pitbull" bite strength. They are much lower on the list of bite strength compared to other breeds. Also plenty of info in Ontario showing its the owners not breed. Please remove false, misleading information when engaging with the public.
- Not all dogs who have been involved in noise complaints or being at large are harmful at all. These measures are useless. Make these measures for the dogs that actually have a history of causing harm, or that do bite. Pitbull breeds specifically should not be penalized for other dogs behaviors!!! If they bite and are aggressive then yes, something needs to happen but not ALL pitbulls are aggressive!!!!
- Annual checks (or registration renewal) to ensure insurance is current and obedience training has been completed. Until insurance obtained and obedience training completed, not allowed to leave property. Could require a refundable bond in interim.
- Target the irrepressible and lazy pet owners who don't properly train their dogs instead of targeting the breed. The breed is not the issue. Lazy and irresponsible pet owners are.
- Owners with insufficient knowledge on large breed dogs should be encouraged to attend obedience. Passes to better understand their dog. Large breeds such as pit bulls are being wrongly labeled due to the uneducated owners.
- Don't discriminate against dog breeds, such as pit bulls, when making your legislations
- Dog owners get in trouble for not teaching them properly. It's not the dogs fault!
- If this apply to 1 breed why not all .Why not try and find a solution that doesn't have to be as drastic as this . When puppies are licences there should be an automatic obedience course for all dogs. My dogs have both been bite by smaller or non pit bull breeds and it's not fair to say that these dogs are the most dangerous when in realtiy it's all up to the responsibility of the owners. If a dog has had a few instances for showing aggression regardless of breed I think they should be put on an aggressive dog list. This should include all breeds not just pit bulls

- Owner training with their pets to correct nuisance behaviour.
- I do not support this specific breed legislation whatsoever
- How about no pit bull breeds at all? They have a jaw like they do for a reason, they are not safe dogs and as someone with small children who does not know how to read dog behaviour I hate when I see one approaching.
- Dog owner training and certification to safely and effectively lead their pitbull or any other breed of a large size. The breed is not an issue. The issue is when people don't know how to communicate with and understand their dogs. There needs to be more accountability on the owners knowledge and stop blaming the dogs.
- Targeting «pit bulls » is not a solution... the owner is the source of the problem, not the dog. Having race specific bylaws will only increase people's fear for that type of dog.
- Dogs that are deemed a nuisance after having committed an offence, depending on the severity, should have to take their dog (breed unspecified) to a rehabilitation / retraining program so that the behaviour can be changed for the betterment of the dog. The cost would be at the expense of the owner. If the owner refuses to retrain/rehabilitate the dog in question through a training/socialization program, then they would face either additional fines, or the potential of having their dog taken by the city and given to a rescue agency, so that other, non-ignorant owners could help rehabilitate the dog upon adoption.
- These things should apply to all dogs not just Pitbulls.
- When adopting a dog (particularly a pitbull in this instance), training should be mandatory upon adoption. Although I do not believe in discriminating against a breed, not everyone is equipped to handle a dog with this power or stigma. Adoption agencies should be held accountable to whom they adopt their dogs out to. Pitbulls and powerful dogs of all breeds are not responsible here, their owners are.
- I do not agree with this being breed specific. I have been attacked more by small dogs than I have ever been by Pitties. If changes are going to be made, it should be to rules for ALL breeds.
- NA
- Non of these, this is completely discriminatory towards a breed of dogs and is WRONG!
- More enforcement on leash bylaw. In the last yr when walking my dog we have been attacked by multiple dogs that are off leash in areas that are not designated for dogs to be off leash. At times it has overwhelmed me I can't even go outside in my neighbourhood (Ogden area) with the fear of a off leash dog running on there property and attacking my dog or when I walk and people there dog without a leash and also have a fear of taking my son to the park where others have been using as an off leash parks for dogs when it is not a dog park.
- A nuisance dog must be a dog that has had issues in the past, (ie. noise complaints, aggressiveness) one dog breed should not be singled out, each dog should be on a case by case bases

- I would like a full on ban on the above listed breeds. I fear for my children walking alone to the bus stop as we live near several dog friendly spaces.
- Blame should be put on the owner, not the dog. This “nuisance behaviour” is a product of nurture rather than nature. If a person knows they have a nuisance dog of ANY breed, it is their responsibility to work on training and control.
- Some form of screening before owners even get dogs/pets (regardless of the breed), would solve a lot of problems. Most dog issues are caused by the owner. Limiting the activity of a 'nuisance' dog, one that is noisy or escaping the yard, will only escalate the issue. Those dogs require more activity and stimulation, and attention, in most cases.
- Nuisance dogs that repeat offend after graduating obedience training should be banned from offleash parks. Also, should be made to wear/use a large and/or bright dog licence to visually identify the animal.
- Multiple occurrences should not be allowed. Owners of dogs barking after 10pm and before 8am should receive only 3 warnings and then be fined or mandatory training classes. Dogs known to be biters should always be muzzled when not on owners property. One time offence should mean destruction of dog. More enforcement is needed for dog walkers not using leashes and not picking up poop. Escalating fines should be given based on dog's tattooed id.
- It should be the owner getting punished and not the dog. Pit Bulls aren't the problem it's poor ownership of the dog that is. Singling out one specific type of breed is shallow and unacceptable.
- All dogs should be treated the same . And it has been proven smaller dogs are more of a problem than bully breeds.
- Nuisance dogs are to include the small unmannered ones biting the other dogs and provoking them.
- Your survey is garbage and narrow minded. I can give three dozen dog breeds with more power than a simple 40-60 lb bully breed dog. You complete incompetence does align with most of the City of Calgary Management though, so at least you stupidity level is consistent.
- Mandatory training for owners of aggressive breeds. Dogs who are nuisances should be euthanized.
- Perhaps more focus could be put on educating the public about how pitbull breeds are NOT inherently more dangerous and we can stop using this bias against specific dog breeds!
- None of the above.
- All dogs no matter the breed should have the same penalties for bites or aggression
- Do not discriminate based on dog breed ie pitbulls and pit bull type dogs.
- Mandatory spay/neuter for pitbulls or nuisance dogs. Ideally, people should not bring fighting-breed dogs (pit bulls) to dog parks, but if that is to be allowed, the dog should be muzzled.
- Pit Bulls should not have any separate treatment than other breeds.
- Not all pit bulls are bad. Why are you blaming one breed. What is wrong with you?! I know many dogs that don't like other dogs and they aren't pitbulls!
- Absolutely not. None of these should apply
- Behavioural training for dogs involved in dog bites, this could also include a victim dog as often times a victim dog trigger a reaction because of lack of training or possessive behaviour to their owner

- THERE ARE NO BAD DOGS. THERE ARE BAD OWNERS AND PITBULLS ARE NOT A NUISANCE!
- Don't be ridiculous. You can not unilaterally say a breed is bad or dangerous. That is archaic and foolishly dangerous thinking. More chihuahuas bite people than any large breed. Education across the board is far more helpful than arbitrarily blaming an entire breed. . Calgary is better than this.
- I think there should also be some sort of measure or consequence in place for repeat "complainers." Sometimes when there is a feud between neighbours because of other matters, they will go after the pets because it is easy and a sensitive subject. There should be a record kept for these complaints and perhaps an investigation/proof required if there are repeat reports about specific animals, just to be sure.
- None of the above, you people are just pissing people off trying to change things in the middle of a global pandemic. What type of dogs that are allowed in parks doesn't matter right now, focus on what does do your damn jobs for once.
- a note to add in that specifying pit bulls is outdated and ridiculous.
- Obedience training for all breeds. Big and small. small dogs are scrappy and more vicious than most of the larger breeds. But because they are small they're often not reported or looked over as being a threat.
- Higher fines for owners of ANY breed of nuisance dogs. Pit bulls are not bad dogs and are some of the most living dogs out there. Owners need to take responsibility for their pets, no matter what breed. Chihuahuas can be much more vicious than pit bulls.
- Only dogs that have bitten once or more should have to have a muzzle in public.
- This should be based on a dogs temperament not no the breed. You have an aggressive dog you muzzle it. If your dog has aggressive and proven to be then there should be actions taken. Don't blame a breed for bad owners. This is stupid.
- Quit picking on Pit Bulls, small dogs can be worse I have met some.
- A dog is a dog. The breed may entail some behaviours however that does not warrant any reasoning to muzzle a dog because of their breed. If a dog is biting and harassing other dogs and people then yes, a muzzle or intense training would make sense. Pit bulls are good. All dogs are good
- Hold the owners responsible when dogs exhibit dangerous behaviour and/or are a nuisance. All these options put the onus on the dog whereas the dog behaviour is inherent to how it's trained/raised.
- I think it is extremely prejudice to use only pitbulls. They are not bad dogs. If I, a human, hit a man on the street, he will hit back. If my dog is attacked by a dog, she will fight back. [removed] you guys.
- I somewhat disagree with targeting pit bulls. I live next door to one, and it is the most well trained dog I have ever met. I know that his owner had extensive training with his dog though. I'd be supportive to require owners of pit bulls to show proof of obedience training from a recognized program
- Bite severity shouldn't be the only determining factor, small Dogs can bite all the time and be a nuisance. Ban bad owners with a history of mistreatment of animals, or a history of documented nuisance animals. Have a database that doesn't allow bad owners from having pets. Being a pet owner is a privilege and needs to be treated as such.

- Ban pitbulls. They were bred to kill.
- No pitbull breeding in Calgary
- This is a truly awful and stupid action. This is racial profiling of a dog breed. It is the owner not the dog that is the issue. Shame on you all for even considering such cruelty to any breed of animal especially pit bulls.
- There can not be more than 1 nuisance dog in a household.
- Do not focus on one type of dog. If a dog is behaving badly it's usually the fault of the owners. I have friends with Pitbulls and they're the sweetest, most loving dogs I've ever met. Stats show that Pitbulls are not involved in more biting incidents, so why implement a blanket policy against them? It makes absolutely no sense. Target the owners of nuisance dogs
- Obedience training for all dogs and owners
- STOP GOING AFTER BREEDS AND START GOING AFTER PEOPLE!!!!!!!!!!!! THERE NEEDS TO BE A TEST INVOLVED BEFORE EVEN THE ADOPTION OF CERTAIN BREEDS WITH REGULAR CHECK UPS!!! AND THE OWNERS NEED TO BE THE ONES GETTING PUNISHED NOT THE FLIPPING DOGS!
- It needs to be known that a "pit bull ban" IS not an effective way of keeping people or pets safe. Shepherds, boxers, bull dogs etc ALL have bite forces similar to pit bulls. It's stated that there are no higher recorded issues of pit bull bites compared to others so why even bring this up. Any dog no matter the size of there is an issue owners need to be held responsible and if there's an issue mandatory classes are way more important.
- Focus on owners, not breeds. It is the owner who trains and either discourages or encourages dog behavior, not the breed.
- Stop using the term Pit bull it is not a breed. Trying to bring in a BSL bylaw under the guise of updating an old bylaw is shady as hell. Don't do it !
- Fines for spreading misinformation about certain breeds of dog ie: pitbulls being more aggressive and having a "higher bite strength" which is completely untrue a German Shepherd has a higher bite strength than a pitbull.
- This is outrageous! The city needs to look at the research behind this! Why single out a breed based on how it looks. Who ever came up with this should be ashamed. There are far more "aggressive" breeds that are issues than dogs that look like a pitbull.
- Training that includes full participation by the owner should be mandated to ensure the owner learns as much as the dog. Breeds should not be singled out in regulations.
- Owners need to take a training course
- Mandatory training for dog owners. Dogs are not the problem — bad and/or uneducated dog owners are the problem.
- It is not a breed standard. Banning a breed is just wrong! You people need to not be bystanders to a breed. Dogs are friends. Stop buying into the media

- Pit bulls should not be singled out as a breed when other dog breeds such as German shepherds have a long history of also proving they are capable of severe biting. Singling out a breed only further promotes a stereotype on the animal that makes it more likely to be put down and left at shelters. All breeds should be allowed as long as the owner is able to care properly for the animal. Large dogs will always have a harsher bite because they are bigger, not just pit bulls.
- This is discrimination against specific breeds and as a homeowner who fosters abused pitbulls. I do not agree with any of the above.
- Should a nuisance dog cause damages to property or dog of another, the owner should be legally required to cover those fees.
- I am shocked that the city is considering taking measures against pit bulls. These are some of the loveliest dogs. These dogs are not more harmful by nature. This is essentially unfounded discrimination. If a dog is poorly behaved, this should reflect on the owner, not on the dog.
- This is ridiculous > it is the owner's job to train the animal. My bully is the sweetest and known for it and she has been attacked by every other breed but below bullies. Punish bad dog owners not a breed it's ridiculous
- fees on nuisance dogs. do not discriminate against specific breeds, or generalizations of that breed. address the problem, not misinformed public opinion.
- Punish bad owners with troublesome dogs!!! Don't just go after one breed, that's shameful and terrible!!!!
- Pitbulls are the sweetest dogs around. Focus on the smaller dogs who actually bite. Jaw strength doesn't matter if the dog won't bite.
- None
- It's not just a breed like pit bull that is the problem, it's the owner. I also see a lack of mandatory education for owners of nuisance dogs in addition to fines.
- I absolutely do not support breed specific legislation in any form - there is not evidence to support this as an effective safety measure.
- No BSL!
- As a veterinarian I support additional training; consultation with a veterinary professional should occur when a dog is declared a nuisance. There should be concrete definitions of "nuisance" and a timeline through which a dog can be deemed no longer a nuisance through appropriate training and actions.
- Specifying pit bulls is so ridiculous because it is not a breed specific problem. More dog bites and troubled behaviour comes from small dogs such as chihuahuas or Jack Russell terriers. I am appalled by the city of Calgary using pit bulls as a scape goat. This is embarrassing and disgusting. All you and this survey does is add to the stigma of a breed that once used to be used as a nanny support for children. If you're going to mandate breed specific laws and fines, you have to ask your city WHAT OTHER BREEDS ARE PROBLEMATIC. Instead of choosing for them and not letting other people's concerns about other breeds be heard. This is so wrong on many levels and I am ashamed to even have this be a survey the city thought would be worth while. Do better.

- Training for owners is more important .. train a dog all you want it's the owner that is the problem!! Tim for the world to realize it's the owner not the dog that is the problem .. perhaps a required obedience training with all dog license would be a better approach then to be BSL Plus your wording of "Delcared a Nuisance" would prefer your definition before answering those questions so I reserve to answer those at a later date when it's explained.
- It's not the breed it's the people! This idea of yours makes ZERO sense
- no "pit bull" specific legislation!!
- People must take a behavior training course with their dog if it has any incident. Breed specific fines and need for insurance based on breed is disgusting.
- How about obedience training for any dog big or small? Behaviour starts with the owner not the dog. Failure to train and socialize and dog be it a chihuahua or a Great Dane can And will result in aggression. Maybe don't form opinions on specific breeds and then include false facts. Unless you see a dog being aggressive or have proof otherwise, no dog should be forced to be muzzled in public. That is biased and based on fear
- All owners of ALL dog should be required to go through training with their dog. Not breed specific. There are no bad dogs there are bad owners. Any dog involded in any offence should be dealt with accordly. Education for the owner. No dog should be off leash unless the owner has control of said dog and they are polite dogs to people and other dogs.
- I think putt calling out pitbulls only is not right. I have been bitten by dashounds , Pomeranians and so forth. Just because a pitbull is bigger yes it's bit will be more superior. But doesn't mean a lab, golden retriever, Huskys, granted Danes, cocker spaniels or any other breed for that matter can't cause harm.
- Look at each dog on an individual basis and have charges, etc on that individual basis.
- If dog continually misbehaves, remove dog and ban owner from owning any other dog.
- Why is this just pitbulls? This is discriminatory against a perfectly safe breed. It is not the breed it is owners who are the problem. Chihuahuas bit more people than any pit bull breed does, should there not be increased fines for them and insurance requirements for them? Pitbulls are some of the gentlest breeds you can own.
- If a dog, regardless of breed or size, attacks unprovoked, the city has authority to seize. Very important, however, to ensure it was unprovoked.
- Inthink it to be verry detrimental to single out a specific breed of any animal. The claims that pitbulls have a stronger bite then most other dogs is simply inaccurate. And thus the premis these proposed actions are based off of is misleading and false.
- Animal control officers have to take courses in dog behavior
- I think all of this is absolutely absurd. I own a Cane Corso who is trained excellently, very friendly. BUT he will protect his property and family. We need to be educating people on how to approach all dogs, and ensuring that training for ALL breeds is done. I got bit by a husky when I was younger I don't see these measures being taken with that breed? My corso and I got attacked by a chow that was out of its yard, what about them? When I was a kid time being bit was my fault because I wasn't taught how to approach a dog properly and I didn't ask the owners I just ran up to the dog. MY

FAULT. The chow was protecting its property and just got out of the fence, it happens. You guys would never racially profile a person why are you doing it to a dog?! There's no such thing as bad dogs, just bad owners. This makes me extremely angry, and I think the city needs to reevaluate how exactly then want to deal with this presumed "problem". This is an absolute joke. I have a Cane Corso, so I guess he falls under the similar characteristic portion, absolutely stupid. You said yourself that there isn't more attacks. Unbelievable

- Penalizing an entire breed of dog is absolutely backwards thinking. INCREDIBLY disappointing to see this from a City I would consider a forward-thinking organization. Absolutely ridiculous.
- None of the above. We should not discriminate against specific breeds.
- Shepherd, great daines have just as much bite force. No breed should be judged as a whole or unable to enjoy walks/ parks. Any dog with a history of violent attacks should be trained or muzzled for there safety and others safety. Fines should be the same across the board as small dogs with bad training usually instigate the fights and should be held responsible too.
- Stronger bylaws to counteract animal abuse. A lot of times pit bulls are aggressive due to the owner treating them and training them to be aggressive. Instead of banning or placing laws in for the dog, let's place laws in so that people no longer mistreat them.
- I want to know where the city of Calgary got their stats to single out pit bulls. Small dogs may not do as much damage but they can be very aggressive on or off leash. Muzzles can actually increase a dogs anxiety and an exercised dog is a happy dog.
- Mandatory training for ALL dogs, not just a specific breed!!!! STOP DISCRIMINATING AGAINST THE BREEDS!!! Don't allow people that are abusive to animals, have them. Don't let people who have trained or neglected dogs in the past, have them again! Do better, dont punish an animal because of what it looks like. Muzzles can be terrifying for dogs that have never worn them before. A scared dog can become aggressive.
- Must be opportunity for rehabilitation and a process to be delisted as a nuisance if improved.
- Pit bulls are not the problem
- Bully breeds are not the problem. Owners need to be educated and breeders need to be more vigilant as to who receives their charges.
- If the city does force training then the city should pay.
- Singling out bully breeds is unbelievably narrow minded. Punish owners of dogs showing ACTUAL dangerous behavior, not specific breeds with bad press and unfounded fear. The only dog I've ever owned who bit someone was a Shih Tzu!!!
- DONT BULLY MY BREED. My "dangerous" American staffordshire has been set on at the offleah by MULTIPLE "safe" breeds, and she cowers in fear. SHE IS NOT THE PROBLEM!
- ANY dog that is aggressive should have fines, not breed specific. I've seen poodles and other small breed dogs that are more vicious then a pit bull. If you want a dog then dog training should be mandatory and be offered by qualified instructors that are licensed by the city and it must be on the animals license
- This breed specific legislation is a crock, everyone at city hall know its. GROW UP.

- The definition of nuisance in this point is not appropriate. noise, at large and vicious behavior should not be lumped together and no breed should be labeled. It's been proven time and time again (location by location) breed specific bylaws are archaic and cause more harm than good, they don't offer protection but create another division in communities, creating fear and contempt. Every animal is unique in its own right and should not be depicted otherwise or treated differently especially without cause. When it comes to offenses and fines or training enforced it should all be based on the facts of each occurrence (with exception if the same offence is continually repeated) then look for options/opportunities that would really help resolve or prevent re-occurrence not just a financial hit. It's time we work together to make things better, re-engage a culture of respect (live and let live), more rules make for more animosity, if it's one thing we've learned as Calgarians it's when we ban together to help we make change and foster respect.
- Dogs without proper training should not be allowed at dog parks.
- How about we stop directing this at pit bull or bully breeds?!? Pull your heads out of your [removed] - chihuahuas bite more people per year than bully breeds combined do! What's next, segregation for people on the colour of their skin?
- This should not be specific to only "pitbulls" - all dogs have the potential to be dangerous. Please consider a smart responsible bylaw that protects everyone and all animals. Pitbulls are not the only dogs that can cause damage and the City of Calgary should be the leader in setting a safe pet ownership bylaw that other cities can learn from. Simply targeting one breed will not increase safety for anyone.
- Owner training. All dogs are potential bite dogs. Picking on one breed over another is equivalent to racism in humans. It becomes a slippery slope to more controls and more laws that do nothing in the end. Spend time training off-leash supervisors to monitor actual parks of concern. Then watch an episode of the little rascals, and see what was the dog of choice for children. Pit bulls were always kids dogs, as they were the most gentle, loyal, and safest of all breeds for being around children. Go after the owners who raise them to attack. They are the culprits.
- Any Dog that attacks another dog, animal, or human being should be put down.
- Every case should be looked at individually, a blanket solution is not the answer.
- All dogs should be treated equal. Just as we are all humans, they are all dogs. If there is any of the above legislation put in place, it should be for every breed (i.e. retrievers, labs, chihuahua, big, small, etc.). The above seems extreme and the responsibility falls onto the owner, more programs to ensure that pets are in a safe home and give the attention ALL breeds need.
- Licensing program for pet ownership. Something like the learners test. Alternatively, all pets must undergo obedience training within X months of purchase. Enforcement of nuisance dog rules must ensure they cannot be abused by the reporter
- How about not targeting Pitbulls and invest in a spay/neuter programs for feral dogs as well. All of these above are [removed] bylaws
- Ban pitbull type dogs. These dogs are responsible for more fatal attacks and maulings than any other breed. There is no need or justification for ownership of this breed. Children and the elderly are at particular risk. There is no place in our society for these powerful and unpredictable dogs.

- This should not be breed specific and is an absolute joke. If a dog has issues it doesn't matter what breed it is. I'm disgusted that this is even being considered.
- Non of the above
- Provide educational brochure/talk to those who have nuisance dogs. Provide solutions for them.
- ALL dogs must require obedience training! You are more likely to get bit my a chihuahua then a pit!! Don't discriminate the breed, discriminate the owner!
- NO BREED SPECIFYING. but if you are, maybe the owners should be EDUCATED on these breeds to UNDERSTAND their temperament. Don't you dare think this kind of crap will work. Pay more for having a specific breed, even if they're absolutely amazing and cause no problems? Get your tax and insurance money elsewhere.
- Quit singling out pit bulls... a ton of dogs could do the same damage
- There should be more education for pet owners, there are a lot of breeds that are more dangerous than bully breeds, as well as people calling in to bylaw due to a dog being aggressive or barking - what is the cause of this. I have had numerous cases where children and teens are tormenting and teasing my dogs though a fence which causes them to bark
- None of the above
- Don't discriminate against pit bulls. ANY DOG that is aggressive or a "nuisance" should be flagged not just pit bulls. You people realize it's the owners fault not the animals for not being trained properly! Making a bylaw against pit bulls would be so wrong.
- This stigma about pitbulls needs to stop. You are more likely to be bit by a chihuahua. I don't own a pitbull but ive encountered hundreds. And they are the sweetest
- Overall there needs to be much higher enforcement of by-laws in Calgary parks. Dogs off leash in on leash sections parks for example. By having stricter enforcements of those by-laws you can take a proactive approach and wouldn't have so many dogs declared a nuisance in the first place.
- I don't support singling out one breed. Perhaps humans need to take extra courses on behaviour, animal manager and funding the right dog for your needs
- First of all, your survey questions unfairly singles out pit bull type dogs. I have experienced more aggressive behaviour from great Danes, German Shepard's and chihuahuas.
- I would never support ANY breed specific legislation, and the city should be deeply ashamed of itself for even considering that an option. What a horrible idea.
- Obedience training required for all dog breeds
- Stop targeting pitbulls, if a dog is exhibiting bad behavior blame the owner not the dog!
- consequences (if possible sharp fines or beyond fines) for OWNERS who are noted 'toughening' dogs up or ruining them.
- Nothing
- Any bylaw should NOT BE BREED SPECIFIC! [removed] It's not the breed it's the owner!
- breed specific legislation is a joke and the person that needs to be targeted is the owner - 100%!
- You should do nothing to "Pitbulls" or their owners specifically you should treat every dog and owner the same until there is a specific reason To treat that specific dog and owner. This should never be generalized or breed specific but handled by situation.

- Focus on owners not on breeds.
- A city wide ban on Pitbulls. Extremely dangerous breed that can cause tremendous harm when it attacks.
- Do not punish one breed for existing...other breeds can do just as much damage as pitbulls. It's the owner not the breed. Pitbulls are the absolute sweetest. There's aggressive dogs in every breed.
- Educate yourselves! Pit bulls are NOT a problem! Humans are! Go after the irresponsible owners, for all animals. No one is going to admit to a nuisance pet & raise their insurance, how would you enforce that? Irresponsible owners in my area lie through their teeth when reported to bylaw.
- "nuisance" is described as a dog who has been at large or makes noise... why would they need a muzzle? Do you know what a muzzle is for? Why couldn't a dog at large be allowed at an off-leash dog park, do you know what an off-leash dog park is? I seriously question who wrote this and their qualifications.... Seize a dog exhibiting "dangerous behavior", who gets to decide this, some people are just purely scared of dogs no matter how friendly. Stop wasting tax payer money and time with this nonsense.
- NONE OF THESE THINGS SHOULD BE BREED SPECIFIC - it should be for all pets if something this ridiculous is being put into place.
- I have never met a pitbull or a rottweiler that has been anything other than a giant marshmallow. I agree with the logic of the bite being more severe, but I think we can discriminate against a whole breed because of a couple of bad apples. All the dog bites I have received at the dog park have been from the smallest dogs. While the severity of bites isn't as bad from a small breed, the frequency is. I think we need to put attention on the offenders and not on a breed. Innocent until proven guilty.
- Owners of nuisance dogs should be required to do training and or community service such as picking up poop in a dog park. The owner is generally the problem not the dog
- Referral to a trainer at the Calgary Humane Society for nuisance dogs and check that they attended a consultation.
- to make any of these laws breed-specific is absurd. don't do that.
- All dog owners required to have training with their dogs
- I am very disappointed with the city of Calgary and this survey's breed specific bias against pitbulls, you should be ashamed of yourselves, this survey is a witch hunt and worded in such a way that uneducated individuals manipulated by media bias will certainly suggest action against "pitbulls" shame on you shame on city council
- Obedience training required for ALL dogs who engage at off-leash/dog parks and weigh over 45 lbs, REGARDLESS OF BREED. (Not exclusive to nuisance dogs/pit bulls. This should include any medium-large dog and potentially small dogs)
- This is not a breed issue!
- This sort of bylaw has been implemented in other parts of the world unsuccessfully. Most are now retracting these laws. As any dog, if the owner does not take responsibility for its pet, it can turn violent or distressed. Singling out a breed like "pit bulls" is irresponsible and shows a complete lack of knowledge other than what's been brought forward by inflamed news articles and fear mongering special interest groups. Banning any breed is not a proper solution, but identifying and punishing irresponsible and malicious owners would yield a better result for the common goal of reducing any incidents. If the city of Calgary made dog registration a requirement from all pet stores and breeders, all dogs and breeds would be captured with bylaws enforcement. If a bad owner is flagged in the system, then action against that owner can be appropriately auctioned. The options suggested above only generates more fear mongering and punishes good pets and owners and shows a complete lack of trust and understanding for them. Some of the available option are simply irresponsible to have been even made an option. I'd like to challenge the decision makers to actually follow up with actual owners of these type of dogs and not simply listen to the few historicals voicing their opinion. Please do not place this bylaw in effect. Its simply going to waste tax payers money as well as create negative emotions towards dogs and owners that have this amazing breed of dogs.

- Why are you singling out this breed? People clearly have no idea that it is not the breed that is dangerous, it is the people who own them. They are sweet and loving dogs but hey don't worry about the idiots that buy them for fighting and train them to be mean.... Start putting your efforts into that area. ALL dogs can bite regardless of the breed; so singling out one is ridiculous. It would be like singling out a certain race of people
- I just want to say that I think pitbulls should not be singled out in any legislation. Pitbulls are not more likely to attack or cause injury than any other type of dog of their size, so there is no reason to single them out. Dogs that are aggressive should be muzzled and not let into off-leash parks if they are still aggressive and nervous around other dogs. The breed of the dog is irrelevant if these types of precautions are taken. Pitbulls are not more dangerous than any other type of dog. Every breed of dog can be dangerous. Putting in legislation only against pitbulls is misleading to people who don't know better and creates more fear and will not solve any problems.
- If an owner of a non-pitbull is involved in bylaw offences fined and required to take a dog training courses. Targeting bully-breeds is not the issue. We all know this. It's owners not making the best decision for their dogs, providing proper training, knowing what their strengths are and then purchasing a pooch that they can't handle. So if this stupid bylaw that targets bully breeds goes through I expect that when a person with a non-bully breed dog bites etc. that they are punished harsher than a bully breed. Because if we are saying bully-breeds 'typically' show this behavior then there is no excuse for a non-bully breed to bite under any circumstance. It's dog racism and you know it.
- Better education on what pitbull means, it isn't a specific dog. It is an umbrella of breeds of dog, so adjust you definition as this includes British and American Bulldogs as well as others. Better education to remove the stigma the is associated with the term "pitbulls". Stress the importance of proper training whether it be facilitated by a course or public teachers like Creaser Milan. No dog is a nuisance, it's the owner not putting time in to train an animal properly, we as a society vet the adoption process very heavily. So putting emphasis on proper training is a key part of making our parks safer.
- I do not think it is right to impose breed specific legislation but I agree with measures taken against nuisance dogs.

- There should be an exam for pet ownership!
- Investing in optional pet training (NOT breed specific) accessible to all dog owners
- Training for owners with "nuisance" dogs. Dogs like this are more like to have irresponsible owners. The owner along with the dog would benefit from more training
- None, only one that should be held accountable for anything is the owner, not the dogs fault. Dont discriminate!!!!
- go-getter a single breed is not the answer. I did not select any of the answers pertaining to nuisance dogs cuz what is your idea of one the breed as a whole cuz you say it is or a proven to be case by case.. if it is case by case I agree with nuisance laws mentioned above.
- This is BS!!! This is an owner problem not the dog. Remove the dog from the owner Rehabilitate the dog and find a good home form the dog. Calgary should have a no kill shelter to
- I believe it is very wrong to single out a specific type of dog even though their bite has more power compared to another breed. They are the most loving dogs and I believe there should be more education on how owners can train their dogs properly. I am a pitbull owner myself always have been and never once had a problem with biting/ being a nuisance..? I believe it should be fair for all breed of dog. I have been severely bitten by a lab before but I don't see them on here...
- Breeds should not be discriminated against. Bully breeds are sweet and used to be known as NANNYS left to babysit children. This is wrongful breed discrimination.
- increased monitoring for off-leash dog walking. Often it's a pain to be in my community when many people dont have their dog on a leash.
- fines for the owner for poor training of the pet. Bad ownership leads to bad behaviour in dogs.
- Very disappointed to see BSL language. Dog not breed. Its discriminatory.
- There should be nothing breed specific! Pit bulls dont bite more so why have rules just for them? Dogs that are ACTUALLY a nuisance should have better care taken but there should not be one breed singled out. Every dog is different just like people. [removed] It's not fair! Dogs need to be dealt with on a case by case basis. Not breed specific. [removed]
- There was no section allowing me to type a response to the breed specific issue which I believe is an oversight. It specifically says here that pitbulls and associated breeds are NOT involved in more bites than usual, so why would you need to punish the dogs and their owners on the point of fact that they exist. How is the number of pitbulls in one household relevant to the behaviour they would exhibit. Moreover, if you want to increase bad behaviour in dogs, not letting them expend their energy at a dog park is a sure fire way to do so. Moreover, is the bite of a pit bull that much more severe than that of a German Shepard or Grey Hound?
- Dogs are not the route of the problem, the owner is. Pet owners who have neglected, disrespected or encouraged bad behaviour in their pet should be punished, not the animal. As a pet owner, you are responsible for your pet. A dog acts as it was trained, there is no inherent "bad" or "dangerous" dog. A small dog is far more likely to bite then a larger one.
- Responsibility must be put on owners of bigger or certain breeds, require them to take training and education with their pet

- Increased registration for nuisance dogs. Please don't judge dogs based on their breed rather base it on their behaviour
- Obedience training for pitbull owners.
- The wording is very dangerous on this with the "dogs that appear like pitbulls" and even so pitbulls are not the problem. Owners are, police owners.
- It's not the pit bull it's the owner!!!
- Unless you add every single breed of dog to this section, you're entirely biased.
- How about charges to the owners, dogs attack because of uneducated owners. We should be looking at the owners not the dogs
- Don't single out Pits. Those are some of the sweetest dogs I have ever met. Yes they have a hard bite, but why muzzle an animal who is friendly and gentle go muzzle one who has bit someone
- Breed specific bylaws don't address the issue of bad owners. Make owners take classes if their dog is involved in any sort of altercation.
- Make sure the humans that own pitbulls know how to handle them, it's never a dog problem it's a human problem
- Pit bulls are not a problem dog. They are nursing dogs. To single them out is unfair. A German Shepard, Rottweiler our boxer can be the same size if not bigger than a pit bull and can cause the same injuries. And obedience training should also fall to the owners, not just the animal.
- None of these this is the worst bylaw I've ever heard of in the history of mankind.
- This is awful!!! I cannot believe we are back to discriminating against this specific breed. Shame on you. Muzzling a pitbill and not allowing off leash because they are a pit bull. What is going on here? This cannot be real!!!
- None. It's the owners not the dog, there are no problems with these breeds unless people make them a problem. Stop applying racism and fear to animals, it's a [removed] joke. Dogs are not the problem. Do not discriminate against them.
- Breed bans do not work. Don't let fear and ignorance set policy.
- The fact that Calgary is even considering breed-specific legislation, clearly directed toward pit bulls, is appalling. Please do not consider making any generalized measures directed at one specific breed, especially when you state that pit bulls do not actually have higher incidents of bites than other breeds. This is discrimination, and I do not support any of the above measures directed specifically at pit bulls. I do believe that additional training should be required for any owner/dog that is involved in a bite/attack bylaw offence. I do not believe that is necessary for all nuisance dogs (noise complaints/at large) necessarily.
- Pit Bulls are not the problem; irresponsible owners are the problem. You should be ashamed of yourselves for suggesting that a beautiful breed of dog, that I have worked with for years and have never seen one do anything other than lick you to death and want to cuddle !!) is singled out like this!! If you spent a second doing research on breeds they are totally the opposite of this ridiculous misconception!!! Shame on you!!!
- Fire everyone at City Hall trying to pass breed specific bylaws

- What you are outlining is Breed Specific Legislation. I AM COMPLETELY AGAINST THIS!!!!!! I feel our current by-law orders are MORE than sufficient.
- Mandatory completion and certification of at least one obedience course for ALL dog owners. Owner required to make efforts to rehabilitate dangerous dog. Seizure of dog after repeat incidents if owner cannot prove rehabilitation efforts have been made.
- Appearance specific legislation based on fear and mis-information should be laughably naive. Stop pandering to the un-informed
- Have the owners accountable for their animals.
- None, leave as is.
- I think we need to stop punishment to dogs for being dogs and I think there needs to be more education for owners on how to deal with their dogs. Like mandatory obedience classes for all dog owners.
- Any dog be it pitbull or a yorkie needs to be trained and handled the same way
- I think whoever put this in motion should not be working for the city I live in, thanks for a stupid motion!
- The dogs are not the issue - the owners are the issue. Fine the owners of animals that are nuisance or dangerous, but do NOT include any breed specific rules. It is not the breed. It is the human who owns it. I find it offensive that Calgary would look into rulings that target a breed of animal, rather than recognizing the role of the owner.
- Clause (e) is troubling as it is based solely on appearance and has no basis in behavior, breed etc. Further, there is a large number of breeds with considerable bite strength that are not included. This entire proposal is troubling. The vagueness leaves it highly open to subjectivity.
- There should NOT be different rules for pit bulls!!!! Many other breeds have equal levels of risk/incident and they are not targeted. We wonder why the public fears these dogs and stereotypes against them...this is why. I also am offended that the media only tends to focus on animal attacks that involve pit bulls. All breeds should be treated with the same cautionary measures!!!!
- Horrible you specific pitbull. As a dog owner, my poor encounters are NEVER with pit bulls. Stop being like the rest of the world and single them out. Shameful..
- How about require PEOPLE to partake in courses or education around owning and training a dog. Pit bulls, and other dogs that may bite, are NOT the issue. Poor owners are the issue. This is an absolutely ABSURD direction from this city. I am so disappointed to call myself Calgarian right now.
- Have no breed specific by-laws, they are ignorant and do nothing to educate people on dog ownership. They do the opposite of educate by playing in to common misconceptions, such as; pitbulls have lock jaw, pitbulls are default human aggressive, pitbulls have some kind of super natural strength where a bite from them would be so much more severe than a bite from any other 80-100lb dog. Which these are simply not true. Please do not pass a by-law based on ignorance and fear, we have enough of that nowadays.
- I do not support Breed Specific Legislation. Your * notes that pitbull type dogs are not involved in more bite incidents, and you provide a factually inaccurate statement about bite strength (german shepherds, rottweilers, many mastiffs, cane corsos, and more all have stronger bite strength than pitbulls)

- It's not the breed of dog, it's the owner.
- I would prefer if the city wasn't discriminatory towards pit bull breeds. They are the biggest babies who are actually very sweet.
- Pitbulls are pretty calm dogs. Any dogs become aggressive if it trained to be like that. Not a raze problem is an owners problem
- No breed specific legislation. Other breeds other than pit bulls can be aggressive and exhibit poor behaviour it is about breeding and upbringing nothing to do with species. Very archaic thinking and quite in the realm of racism.... they are dogs just as much as another breed is a dog.
- This is ridiculous- it comes down to the owner and not the breed of dog.
- Ban pit bulls
- Fines and regulations should be targeted towards owners practicing unsafe handling of all dog breeds. Placing untrained dogs in uncontrolled situations is the problem. Enforcing on and off leash zones, fining those not complying, and enforcing proper training certifications with focus on owner training in conjunction with pet training.
- Implementing any laws around pitbulls specifically is ludacris, it needs to be applicable to ALL breeds!
- There is no evidence that pitbulls need to be treated as outlined above. These regulations will only lead to more problems. The nonprofit National Canine Research Council said pit bulls' reputation for being stronger and more vicious than other kinds of dogs is untrue, and that there's media bias against the dogs. Fans of pit bulls are quick to assert that a dog's propensity for attack depends in large part on its owner and how it is raised, and there's considerable evidence that owners of pit bulls and other high-risk dogs are themselves high-risk people. A 2006 study from the Journal of Interpersonal Violence revealed that owners of vicious dogs were significantly more likely to have criminal convictions for aggressive crimes, drugs, alcohol, domestic violence, crimes involving children and firearms. Last two statements from the internet.
- Dogs declared a nuisance should only be muzzled in public off leash, if they are on a leash, the owner should have control of the dog.
- Fines and jail time for owners that are NOT responsible dog owners. Punish the deed NOT the breed
- BSL legislation has not been shown to reduce the number of bites, and other dogs have stronger jaw strength than "pit bull types" which, particularly when it includes "any dog that looks like a pit bull" is far too vague of a description. Muzzling etc. for dogs that have been found at large or barking seems like a strange jump as well. Perhaps as part of the licensing process owners are required to undergo responsible pet ownership training? Why not put some onus back on the owners rather than the animals.
- Dogs (regardless of their breed) should not be condemned for poor ownership! My friend adopted a dog that was considered a "Problem" and with love and care and classes she is the most loving dog ever! It is the owner, not the dog!

- Biting should not be on par with noise complaints against a dog
- Pit bulls should be the focus of changes. What about a mandatory course or training for people with dogs who bite. Or a voluntary course offered for people with nervous dogs because they are more likely to bite. Especially nervous small dogs.
- Owners of problem dogs should be fined first. Followed by training of the human and dog, upon success no pending charges.
- I believe that pit bulls and the other breeds similar should be treated as the same as ALL other dogs just because of the reputation they have does not determine that all dogs are the same. It all depends on how the owner brings up the dog and I can tell you that the name of a pit pull has been looked down upon for so long which is not acceptable because all other dogs are capable of doing the same thing. There should be no excessive rules for pitbulls
- I do not support any of these stupid ideas. There is no evidence that pit bulls are inherently dangerous. My neighbours Dalmatian is more aggressive than any pit bull I've met.
- Pit bull type dogs have no stronger a bite than any other breed of dog. Enacting breed specific legislation does not work, and does not take into account each individual dog's temperament. Pit bulls continuously score higher than several other dog breeds on temperament tests.
- BSL DOES NOT WORK STOP SUPPORTING BSL
- You should not be including breed specific wording in this bylaw, specifically when you state that pitbulls aren't involved in more dog bites. It should be directly related to any breed of dog (for example with your last suggestion - "higher fines for any dog involved in bylaw offences").
- A dog breed cannot be high risk, it is the owner who raises the dog. It not specific to pitbulls. I own a staffy and he does not even bark when someone is at the door. Don't be stupid, all dogs should be treated the same and the owners should be held accountable when their dog (ANY breed) causes an issue in a public setting. This is the stupidest question I've ever read.
- this is [removed] up, "dangerous breeds" don't exist, dangerous owners do. Be better than this
- Pitbull specific bylaws are completely UNFAIR! All breeds are capable of harm and should be treated as such. Any Nuisance dog is a problem, and the owners should have to take steps to correct it such as mandatory obedience classes or face giving up the animal!
- Don't group one breed type and call it a nuisense breed. That looks very uneducated as a German shepherd dog has a stronger bite than 'pitbulls'.
- Please don't single out any breeds, any can be a nuisance with bad owners.
- Leave pit bulls out of this equation! They are not a problem, some of the owners are.
<https://www.vrcpitbull.com/pit-bull-facts/>
- Seriously? Going after pitbulls? You obviously dont know anything. My pitbull goes to the dog park and gets bit by the small dogs there and he does nothing. Little dogs are the mean ones. Pitbulls are not.
- Pitbulls are gentle dogs that only become aggressive because of lack of care, however German Sheppard's and other dogs are even higher on the list of aggression and deadly attacks but there is no discrimination against them. Pitbulls and other dogs are not the problem, people are the problem, have stricter guidelines for pet owners instead of targeting the animal, animals shouldn't be punished for the mistakes of their owner. Invest in rehabilitation programs for aggressive dogs, they CAN be retrained.

- This thing against pitbulls is so archaic. The only dog I've ever felt threatened by is a golden retriever. Special restrictions and fines against a specific breed is about as stupid as making males pay higher car insurance before they reach the age of 25 because of the "potential" harm they could do to the vehicle. If you want to reduce pitbull attacks perpetrated by aggressive training methods given by big muscly bros, then find a way to fix toxic masculinity in western culture. That's your real problem.
- It's not just pitbulls that bite. Other breeds do also, and pitbulls should not be discriminated against
- you should not be singling out dogs of certain breeds. Each breed must be held accountable in the same ways. Your model is the best in North America and you have the lowest dog bites in the continent. Don't change your exceptional model.
- It is not dogs thought sometimes sometimes it's the owner I can't go against pitbulls I can go against the owner
- Back ground checks done on all pitbull owners and obedience testing on all pitbulls.
- No Breed Specific Laws - instead, education for owners and extreme requirements for training for any nuisance animals. Consider requiring training for EVERY dog. Every local mailman I have spoken to says the only times they have been bitten was by a SMALL dog like a chihuahua!
- I support none of these
- This is ridiculous! Not all bully breed dogs are the same. I have an adopted staffie/black lab and she has stranger danger and is always on a leash and we have done extensive training with her. If she sees another dog she absolutely loses her cool...if bylaw were driving by and had the ability to take her because sure was then deemed a nuisance that would be absurd. We always keep her as far from other dogs as possible and use all of our training but she still looks like shes lost her marbles and its because she was never socialized and has no idea how to interact with dogs or...how to be a dog!! Each animal is so individually different. You cant group them all under one bylaw because of their breed.I think you need to look at bites on a case by case basis and see how the dog is being treated....fine the dogs owners dont penalize the dog for its stupid owners decisions
- The issue is not breed specific. Please do not target pit bulls but rather the irresponsible owners that mistreat animals
- It's not fair to classify dogs as dangerous based on their breed. It should be based on action, I.e. dogs who have exhibited violent behaviours.
- Less focus on pit bull breeds and worry about people that don't know how to care for a dog in general.. Stop focusing on one breed of dog. People not being competent in training their dog are the biggest problem.
- LEAVE PIT BULLS TYPE BREEDS ALONE STOP ACTING LIKE ITS THE BREED ITS NOT!!!!
- Charge owners who train their dogs to be vicious and aggressive. Dogs are fought vicious tendencies by owners and it is not a dogs fault. Stop classifying pit bulls as vicious animals. They are not.

- Not focusing on primarily pit bulls - smaller dogs are more likely to be aggressive than larger breeds. The law shouldn't penalize innocent dogs - if the dog is a nuisance, then the law can manage that.
- Stop picking on breeds, the owners are the ones responsible for bad pet ownership. The owners should be forced to attend a training if they have an incident, the animal should never be harmed
- You can not be selective with dogs. All dogs will bite when provoked singling dogs out is not going to work to
- Dogs that can kill children, adults and other dogs should not be allowed in the city. We have many laws parallel to this level of safety.
- No breed specific legislation, bylaws should apply to all breeds
- I do not support Breed specific legislation in any way shape or form
- None. Get your heads out of your... In my life I have been bitten by a jack russel, a chihuahua, a poodle and another small mutt of a dog. While a bite from a larger breed of dog (not specifically pit-bull types) can be more serious... I believe them to be less frequent. The incidents involving larger dogs get reported more often when they happen. The incidents involving smaller dogs are more easily shrugged off and dont get reported, even though they still require the same or similar medical attention as a bite from a larger dog, ei. tetanus shot, a couple stitches, cleaning. The issue is not the dog... the issue is the dog owners, and the owners of small dogs often don't take their stewardship of their animal as seriously as those that own larger dogs, regardless of the breed. Breed speciic legislation is rubbish. Deal with problem dogs as they need to be dealt with, and where the root of the problem lies... the owners.
- None.
- Fix the owner. Make mandatory training for the owners available when they have a dog who bits more than once. For any dog owner. Even the tiny ones. Chihuahua's are the most vicious dogs
- Don't discriminate over pitbulls. It's the owner that creates a nuisance dog. Stop being discriminatory, this isn't Ontario.
- Breed specific ordinances hurt families and dogs that are nice as well a nuisances. Plus, many larger dogs have similar bite strength, therefore it would not make sense to change the bylaws to be breed specific. Dogs that have known instances of dog or human aggression should not be allowed in off leash parks, and it should be the owners responsibility to make sure they are secured.
- BLAME THE OWNER, NOT THE BREED!!! I have a pitbull who protects our four year old daughter, has never and would never hurt a soul. She doesn't deserve to be punished for other dog's behavior. Thats prejudice!
- I agree with having the authority to seize a dog when exhibiting dangerous behavior - but only because it's the OWNERS who are responsible for that dogs behavior. There should be a high fine for owners who do not care to train their dogs. NOT just Pit Bulls. Pit Bulls are the most loving animals and to muzzle pit bulls in public just because of the way they look is ridiculous. Fine the owners and take their dogs away and give them to someone who will train them like almost all pit owners do. Shame.
- It is unfair to judge a pitbull simply because it is a pittu. Extremely unfair, they are lovely creatures & aggression stems from improper ownership, & mistreatment.

- Pit bulls are not more dangerous than any other dog. Calgary City Council should be ashamed of this garbage proposal.
- As someone who directly works with animals, I have seen other dogs' bites so far worse damage than a pit bull's. I highly disagree with breed-specific discriminative legislation
- None. Stop thinking pitbulls are bad dogs. What about yappy little dogs that are aggressive. You do not mention them in this? They are the problem. Not this "pit-bull" as this states. Even your comment "It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite." is a joke. Stop blaming the breeds. There should be fines for owners who let their little dogs do this behaviour
- STOP GOING AFTER PITNULLS!!!!
- Breed specific legislations are wrong. As indicated by the city "pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds". Why is this breed being singled out. It is the owners responsibility, and it is unfair if a good dog owner and their good dog are being punished based on what they look like. This is the same principle for racism, which is also wrong. DO NOT MAKE BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATIONS. I am proud to live in Calgary, and if this were to become a bylaw in Calgary, I would be moving away from this city as this is so against my beliefs, not only as a dog (all breed) lover but also as a human being.
- Instead of fining owners, they should be given the opportunity to sign up and follow through with training for them and their dog. Support education rather than punishments that don't really help the owner or dog become better in the community. Any dog that does not have proper training has the ability to be a problem, not any one specific breed. Breed specific legislations don't stop all dogs bad behaviour. Education and training is what will make the difference.
- This is not ok to pick one breed and give higher fines or make them pay more money on top of bills/ insurance/ taxes and other necessities. Yes i agree if a dog bites a human there should be consequences and depending on the situation and severity, then assess the situation and deal with cases individually, go from there on making rules for that specific case on whether or not it needs to be muzzled/ fined/ banned from parks or whatever needs to be done. Dog/ cats/ horses/ ferrets. They all get into fights, THEY ARE ANIMALS! If a dog has repeated reports of aggression, that's when rules should be put into place and maybe an investigation on the owner and his methods of training or abuse. Pitbulls as you call them are the most loving and dedicated animals to their owners, think about that, if they know they are going to please their human, they will do whatever they ask of them. Most people who maybe have one of those aggressive dogs towards other dogs, take the precautions and don't socialize their dog with others without someSort of protection. The ones who don't, yes there should be consequences but one time offenders, look at the situation and whether that other dog was actually the problem and provoked it, again this is not ok to even suggest breed specific rules
- Consequences should be for the owner, not the dog. Why are we going backwards? A bad owner could have a small dog be more aggressive than a pit bull with a good owner. Put the blame on the right person, not the dog that was trained.

- Ban German Shepard's. The pre-requisite you have installed is a joke. pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite. That's like banning big truck because they have more potential to run over pedestrians. Someone's competence should be reassessed
- Mandatory training class for all dog owners, teaching appropriate training techniques and how to minimize dog bites. Could be offered online and must be completed to get your license for the first time
- Perhaps have a few designated off leash or (on leash parks) where these dogs are permitted so they are still provided with an opportunity for exercise.
- Bylaws should be based on behaviour not breed.
- Absolutely do NOT support breed specific bylaws!!
- The direct attack on pitbulls is disgusting; the lack of true research is embarrassing; the blame is always on the owner, and not the breed, and the fact that you allude to Pitbulls being a problem is appalling.
- Pit bull breeds are not and should not be automatically categorized as nuisance dogs. An 8-week old "pit bull" puppy should not be held to the same standard as a dog who has injured or killed something/someone. Shame on you City of Calgary for discriminating against this breed and the responsible owners in this city who have properly trained and cared for their pets. I have lost so much respect.
- No pitbull specific actions are needed in the city. If in your article you are stating that their biting rate is no higher than any other breed, then they do not need specific laws against them. They are wonderful animals. The bylaw should be against ANY breed that is aggressive or injures a human. The fact the city would do this to a breed is disgusting.
- None of the above. The legislation should be breed neutral. The breed isn't the issue. Pit bulls are a gentle dog. Research dog bites and aggression in dogs. Pit bulls are not at the top of the list.
- The issue lies with the owner and their training, therefore I believe the owner themselves should be charged for any severe dog behaviours. Implementing a 3 strike system (i.e. if the dog has attacked multiple times with no correction in behaviour), the dog should be removed from the care of the owner permanently so they have a chance at reformation with a new owner who can follow an appropriate approach in regards to training. You wouldn't put all the blame on a child who acts out, you'd blame the parent. So why shouldn't the same model be applied to dog owners?
- Pitbulls and bully breeds should not be considered a nuisance. All dogs have the ability to be wonderful or a threat I believe it should be that all dog breeds can be declared nuisance animals if there is evidence and it is the owners responsibility to muzzle or avoid dog parks if their animal is a threat. DONT DISCRIMINATE AGAINST BULLY BREEDS
- Owners should be screened as they tend to be the actual problem. Mandatory training and screening prior to owning this breed of dog (police checks).
- Nuisance - referring to dogs that have history of biting or attacking , fines should be higher as well as being off leash
- Disgusting that you would put any breed specific legislation into place.
- None don't make anything breed specific, it's the owner NOT the breed of the dog

- owner training and qualifications/background checks should be met to own a dog that could be hard to handle
- None. It's not a bully breed, it's bully owners that create the dangerous dogs.
- Policing of "pit bull dogs" is proven to be a waste of time. dogs that bite aren't the problems, owners that don't properly teach their dogs to bite are, and many dogs that bite are not pit bulls.
- No breed specific legislation.
- These aren't reasonable, instead if the city should add programs free of charge for pitbulls and bulldogs
- Owners should be criminally charged, if their dog hurts another dog. they are members of families. front end training for all dogs and owners, no bad dogs just bad people: no bad children just bad parents..... why do humans get to own other living creatures.....create the world we want....
- At yearly registration, ALL dog owners are provided with either 1 Responsible Pet safety ownership class OR a Red/Yellow/Green lead which dictates friendliness of the dog. Dogs may only change designation after a sign-off from a recognized trainer.
- END BSL. BSL IS A JOKE
- Its the owners faulty not the breed
- More due diligence and care needs to be used - I.e. WHY did the bite happen? Was the dog teased, provoked, attacked...
- Very disappointed in the City for even attempting such an unfair, disgusting idea. If bully breeds need obedience training, then so should ALL breeds. I've seen more aggressive Pomeranians and chihuahuas than I have pit bulls.
- This is wrong
- The dogs aren't the issue, the owners are the issue. Police your people better.
- The fact that pit bulls are being singled out because they are stronger than other breeds is a joke . As mentioned above, this nuisance issue is less common in pitfalls, and therefore should be enough reason to not single them out alone. That's like saying if I became a bodybuilder, I would need to go workout at home because I intimidate people at the gym despite being less likely to do anything harmful than the neighbourhood convicted killer
- How about you take off all the options that target pitbulls specifically since there is no scientific basis to target this group how about we do some research before we conduct such a study Calgary- honestly, come on. Since your entire team is lacking the fundamental knowledge regarding pitbulls here's some results of research that completely debunks the BSL you are trying to enforce.
<https://www.avma.org/resources/pet-owners/why-breed-specific-legislation-not-answer>
<http://www.animalplanet.com/pets/3-bully-breeds-have-a-stronger-bite-than-any-other-dog/>
- Breed selective legislation has been proven many times over to not be successful. It is the OWNER that is the problem, NOT the breed. It is the very exact same thing as unfairly targeting a specific race that is more likely to commit a crime, when it is more complex than that.
- No breed specific rules are supported - same rules apply to every dog based on their individual history and behaviour.

- None of these rules make any sense. There's no way to monitor dogs that actually contain pit bull, with so many mutts for adoption.
- I do not support ANY of these initiatives. Not one of them does anything to address the questionable humans raising these innocent souls. Go back to the drawing board. Your proposals are divisive, damaging and useless!
- Ban pit bulls and other vicious breeds.
- I will not support ANY breed-specific legislation.
- None of these are fine at all. Pit Bulls have been proven to be kinder and more caring dogs.
- Also a ruling that if a dog is to be surrendered, it goes to a breed specific or specialized group for re-training. Not just the city pound. No breed specific laws. Its about the training, not the breed.
- End BSL
- Stop blaming the breed of dog and start blaming the humans. Pit bulls are kind loving dogs it is the humans that are to blame. If the human does not train them properly force them too, if the human teaches the dog bad behaviour fine the human. Take the dog and put it in a rehabilitation program to teach it to be better, do not hurt the animal but when it is the humans fault
- A nuisance animal should have 3 offenses or complaints at least before being declared a nuisance.
- None, this bylaw against a specific breed of dos is ridiculous. Chihuahuas, Yorkshire terriers, Maltese, shitzus, etc. bite more people than pit bulls, they just don't go to a hospital for it so its not on record. What I would support is if a dog has aggressive behaviour on their record, large or small breed, they have a warning on their harness that is visible to others around and that they be muzzled. I have been nipped at on my ankles more than once by a little dog at a dog park. Owners do nothing because their "harmless". Incorrect.
- Stop specifying pit bulls, they are good dogs. Crack down on individuals exploiting these dogs instead.
- If anything, I've had issues with smaller dogs and never a pit bull. This is fear mongering
- Obedience training is required for ALL dogs, not specifically pit bulls.
- NO TO BSL
- Do not single out breeds, instead single out bad dog owners. If someone has shown that they are irresponsible pet owners then consider not allowing those people to have pets.
- Ban pitbulls.
- Creating ANY legislation specific to a dog breed is completely ridiculous. I am so extremely disappointed in this. This is feeding into stereotypes and puts zero true accountability in owners of all pets to properly train and control their dogs.
- This blantant disrespect for pit bulls and bull breeds disgusts me. There is no reason for them to have any restrictions placed on them.
- Only dogs that are proven nuisances deserve any of these treatments. do not blame the breed for an owners lack of training.
- Any dog should have these restrictions. Many other breeds cause cause equal damage, why single out one breed. If you want to fine or restrict violent dogs do so, dont restrict one breed.

- Higher fines and punishments for ALL dog owners found not being responsible. Bylaws should NOT be for a specific breed EVER. Yes I understand "pitbulls" can have a more damaging bite, but it's the owner not the breed. As a side note 'pitbull' is a term for a fighting dog. NOT a breed. More education and training and less on fear reactions.
- it is horrible to target pitbulls specifically, all dog owners should be held accountable for their actions regardless of breed
- This is a disgusting push backwards to a society that is willing to discriminate by breed & appearance. Shame on you all.
- don't get breed specific.
- [removed] dog owners should have their dogs taken and rehomed, bad behaviour comes from neglectful owners who should be put on a list not allowed to have dogs.
- BSL does not work. Education of owners is necessary.
- Breed specific legislation is a poor decision. The media blows these attacks out of proportion. Smaller dogs are typically more vicious. Pitbulls make the news.
- All dogs should have training. Not just a specific breed
- There is no bad dog it's the owner that's bad!! The dog is not a nuisance and certainly not breed specific!! This is an outrage!! The owners need to be fined and put to sleep the dog is always innocent!! Most dog bites are provoked! Teach kids in school at young ages do not provoke or tease any animal! To properly ask if they can pet and see dog! Owners should have to go through courses on how to be proper pet owners
- Fines and stricter rules on more aggressive dogs regardless of breed...
- Attention Project Team: Please refer to article attached (one of many in existence) that states the "fact" of breeds coming under the "pit bull" umbrella having stronger jaws, and therefore causing more severe bites, is FALSE. It has been disproven many times, among other supposed attributes pinned on these breeds (aggressive aggression, etc.). The article cites its sources, which may be a place to start your research. <http://www.animalplanet.com/pets/3-bully-breeds-have-a-stronger-bite-than-any-other-dog/>
- Fines for dog that defecate on an owner's lawn!
- Fine for owner negligence
- I don't think you should ban a specific breed. It is stated above that pitbulls do not bite more than other dogs, and there are dogs with a higher bite force than a pitbull.
- This is disgusting and ignorant. Clearly someone in city hall is uneducated about dogs. Give your head a shake.
- I have NEVER encountered a pitbull that wasn't an absolute angel. I have, however, encountered numerous small breeds which don't stop barking, have little to no obedience training, AND one has bitten and drawn blood from my partner at the dog park. We are at the dog park every day and only the small breeds (shitzus, maltese, etc.) have been aggressive to my dogs and caused problems. Every pitbull has been friendly. DO NOT penalize pitbulls for being muscular. They are not the problem.
- Pit Bulls who bite non-owners should be put down.

- This is discrimination
- Obedience training for all dogs not just ones “deemed a nuisance” pit bulls have been proven to be some of the friendliest most caring dogs while other smaller breeds have been shown to exhibit more aggressive behaviours.
- Pit Bulls are not the problem here. I was bit by a tiny dog when I was younger and it was definitely not a typical 'scary' nuisance type breed, just a yappy little thing. Don't paint all dogs of a certain breed (or breed characteristics) with the same paintbrush.
- Pit bull breed dogs ARE NOT THE PROBLEM. If one breed of dog must wear a muzzle, then all dog breeds must wear muzzles. If one dog breed must attend training, then all dog breeds must attend training.
- It has to do with the OWNER and how dogs are treated and trained. This breed specific [removed] needs to stop. I have owned 2 pit bull terriers in my life and they were absolute angels it all has to do with how they are raised and trained.
- Take further action for the nuisance dog owners. If they have one offence, they must be held accountable. The poor dog does not know any better. Small dogs can also cause a lot of damage compared to a pitbull.
- The only issue is dogs that bit. Not a specific breed or a dog that has escaped its home "been at large" all of these options are discriminatory and absolute [removed]. Do better Calgary and dont discriminate dog breeds!!!
- Better screening of owners when they are obtaining "pitbulls" or animals know to have aggression. Have more information available about animal to those who are rescuing them. Making animal training more accessible.
- Any breed specific regulations are unfair and unwarranted.
- Irish wolfhounds also have the bite strength of a pit bull. Why are they not singled out? Breed discrimination is unfair. If it's about bite strength, all dog breeds with strong bite strength should be singled out. All dogs with poorer temperament should be singled out too (Akitas, Shiba Inus, Chow Chows, etc.) this is ridiculous.
- Maybe try offering a discount for proper dog training to people who register ANY breed/size dogs.
- None of the above
- Important to consider- some dogs can't physically be muzzled such as bulldogs and pugs.
- Its wrong to single out pitbulls here. No mention of German Shepard (similar circumstance).
- If you want to control a breed like the pitbull specifically, rather than banning them outright, or, more worryingly, placing sanctions on them which may exacerbate aggressive behaviour. You should consider requiring a special license for ownership. This could easily be attained through completion of a short class or test and an assessment of you by a behavioral team. Systems that already exist for all reputable rescues and the city's bylaw services.
- Owners of 'nuisance' dogs should be looked into if more than one incident happens with that dog. Dogs are not bad, people are. There could have been a lack of training, or the dog could have been trained to bite. Fines and consequences should be placed on a person, NOT a dog

- BSL is absolutely outrageous and should not be considered. Nuisance dogs can be of ANY breed and should be treated the same. ANY dog bite can be dangerous, breed is irrelevant and should not impact quality of life for pitbulls that are good tempered, kind and loving.
- If I dog has severe nuisance issues eg) many attacks on people other dogs, then they should have to be muzzled in dog parks.
- Do not believe in breed-specific rules. Do fully support very large fines for owners found to be negligent, especially if they have a nuisance dog.
- Owners not dog breed should be targeted. I have been attacked by more small dogs and nothing is done. Large dog owners mostly take more care. Any dog that bites should be dealt with Any well behaved dog should be allowed to follow the same Rules as any breed
- Dogs whom are abused or neglected should be taken to a shelter and adopted out into a new home. People who know how to rehabilitate animals properly.
- Singling out pit bulls and other similiar breeds is absolute [removed]. Any dog the same size as one or bigger has the potential to create more harm in a bite. Use your [removed] heads and you can expand the list of "nuisance" breeds or you can pull your heads out and strike this part from the bylaw. If ANY dog wanted to it could inflict a "severe" bite.
- How can you call out an animal for bad behaviour when it's all about the training of the animal. I've known more dangerous beagles and golden retrievers than I do pitbulls. This act is a disgrace and makes me embarrassed to be Canadian to read it. Educate and provide proper behavioural training for all dogs. Pitbull lives matter.
- Chihuahuas who are aggressive should not be allowed in public these dogs are often not trained due to their size and need to be pursued due to there aggressive behaviour
- Bad owners breed bad dogs. Blaming certain breeds for the fact that bad humans are buying them specifically to turn them into bad dogs solves nothing. If we ban pit bulls these people will just pick other breeds to torment and make into nuisance breeds, and there are many dogs with much stronger jaws and powerful bite capacity than pit bulls anyway. The cycle needs to stop, and the only way to do that is to start really cracking down on these bad owners. Much more severe penalties should be in place for owners found responsible for encouraging nuisance dog behaviour. Once an owner is found to be encouraging or fostering nuisance behaviour in dogs (any breed) they should be put in a database that flags them so it is much harder for them to get anymore dogs, and random checks to their homes and businesses so if they are found in possession of any dogs there is a much higher fine or jail time issued to stop these people from destroying more dogs. Protect the dogs as they are the victims here, and the real monsters are the terrible people who treat them terribly for so long that the effects can't be reversed. Dog breed bans don't work, hold the people responsible accountable and make it severe enough to stick, that will work.
- Higher fines for people that allow their dogs to run off leash in pulbic parks and spaces. I have had to restrain my own high prey drive dogs (not pit bulls) many times because people with small, untrained dogs will approach them aggressively when off lead. I support fines and repercussions for all careless and inconsiderate pet owners, breed is irrelevant. To single out "pit bulls" is unfair.

- If a dog bites, NO MATTER THE BREED The owner(s) and person bitten should be investigated for accountability of the accident. Owner negligence leads to ill behaved animals, and the negligence of others who instigate/taunt/threaten and/or scare an animal who may have behavioural/trust issues due to abuse/neglect from past owners or circumstances. People should inherently know better, not the dog.
- There should be no additional anything for specific dogs as stated there is no one breed that causes one more bite than another
- none of these bylaws should be breed specific
- all of these options are invasive and stupid. Lots of people have problematic children yet they aren't taken away. Rethink these rules you are trying to enforce. It has everything to do with the OWNER not THE DOG. PEOPLE NEED TO BE TRAINED NOT DOGS.
- Some of the best dogs I know are pitbulls. How is it not obvious that people are the problem. Not a specific breed. People need to be punished, not dogs. Please use your heads. Crucifying a breed is ridiculous and it just breeds fear. This ENRAGES me and I dont even own one of these breeds. Good, healthy people raise good healthy dogs. These options are a bandaid to a deeper problem. Have some sort of guidelines to who can own a dog instead of punishing dogs. Dogs need protection from people, not the other way arounds.
- Obedience training required for all dog owners.
- A dog that is aggressive, has bit, etc should have precautions to help keep them and everyone safe. Like a basket muzzle etc.
- Pit bulls should be regulated more than any other breed. Instead the city should offer obedience training at a low cost for pit bulls
- i think that nuisance and repeat dogs should have consequences but i see that the whole breed of pit bull is being targeted here where every one i have met and been around is the sweetest thing ever! i think a lot comes down to the owner and i dont see any punishment for owners on here. they should also be put through training if they cannot properly train their dogs. if they have a dog that is more likely to act out then they should be able to adjust to the life of their dog and not have to punish a whole breed of dog.
- Deciding to take action against a "breed" of dog is a terrible move. ANY breed of dog has the ability to be aggressive and act as a nuisance. It comes down to the training by the owner, not the dog. Perhaps making a mandate for some behaviour class when a dog is adopted/bought/licensed- within x amount of days/month they need to be enrolled in a city approved program and have proof of attendance afterwards. Again. Dont ban the dog. Educate the owner. I've been bitten and harrassed more by small breed dogs such as shitzus and chihuahuas since they "cant dont harm because they are so small".
- I dont think it should be so breed specific. A lab could be more aggressive than the average pitbull. If your dog is aggressive and has behavioural problems you should take the proper measures
- Don't single out "pit bulls"
- It is very immature to assume all dogs of the same breed are the same in their actions, that's the equivalence of assuming all of the same race is the same. Dog behaviours are brought on on how they were raised and treated by their owner. As for adoption from a rescue place, that should be looked at as a grace save, as who adopts then has saved their lives from any negative energy. Rescue dogs take time to recover from trauma.

- BSL is absolute garbage. Consider the frequency of bites from other breeds. ANY DOG BITE CAN BE DANGEROUS
- This is an absolute joke. The dogs should not be treated as a dangerous animal.
- The owners care and training for the dog should be evaluated
- Please do not demonize pit bulls!
- Not breed specific legislation. It does not work.
- Stop bullying bully breeds!!!! They are the sweetest dogs out there and the city can NOT be prejudice just because Karen doesnt like bully breeds. Charge higher fees for those [removed] rat dogs (Chihuahuas) instead. They have attacked my 75pound dog many times and nobody bats an eye.
- Dangerous dogs yes, minor offences as listed above no, and in no means target the bully breeds, this is based on fear and not fact.
- none of the above. Can't believe in this day and age you would even single out certain breeds. Your wording of any dog with similar looks to a pit-bull, that is [removed]. Any [removed] with authority could tell a lab or a boxer look like a pitbull. Ban BSL.
- Owner training for having dogs considered a nuisance. There should never be breed specific laws or bylaws, it always comes back to the owner.
- There is no reason to restrict any pit bull breed. If anything must be done, fine the owner of any type of breed for severe bites or acts of aggression. The problem is with the owner not training their dog properly. It's not the dogs fault.
- Any dog can be dangerous or a nuisance. Please don't discriminate based on breed and keep any bylaws to a case my case basis
- They are many dogs that look like a pit bull that have no pit bull breed in their blood. If a dog is dangerous it should be based on that dogs actions and not what breed it is. [removed] Therefore there should not be biased laws based on breed. [DUPLICATE]
- Having veterinarians report dogs they feel could be a danger to the public...but it needs to be anonymous to the owner
- no vicious dogs at all in public spaces
- Additional training/education for the OWNERS of dogs declared a nuisance regarding appropriate and respectful dog ownership. As a veterinarian, I do not agree with breed-specific legislation. All dogs are capable of biting another animal or human and there are several breeds capable of causing severe damage.
- BSL does NOT work
- Breed Specific Legislation is stupid and has been shown to not work. Pitbulls can bite hard but so can a German Shepherd. Suggesting to implement BSL is absolutely ridiculous.
- All dog owners should be required to take training on dog ownership.

- I think if ANY dog bites or is aggressive. The owner should receive a fine and a warning. And then it be required the dog gets professional training. There is no bad dog just bad owners. I think this would be a much more respectful solution than banning them or muzzle them. Muzzles are not nice. They can actually cause more aggression. I think a fine and warning and dog training would be the best and just have it enforced that they HAVE to get training.
- No more than one NUISANCE DOG per household. (Why was this the only one not separated out between nuisance and pit bull)
- Higher fines for PEOPLE and possible jail time for PEOPLE who do not train their dog (no matter what breed). This has NOTHING to do with breed and EVERYTHING to do with people being irresponsible.
- Why are you attacking one breed? Ive been around pitbulls my entire life and have never experienced aggression. Dogs can be aggressive no matter what breed. It all depends on their backgrounds. You're being extremely unfair and it makes me ashamed to live here.
- Ban all breeds of pitbull
- Mandatory animal behavior classes for owners of dogs declared as nuisance. The owners need educating more than the dogs do.
- Im sorry, but are you kidding me?? "Pitbulls" are not the problem. This is disgusting that you would even propose this.
- Calgary USED to be progressive when it came to not targeting specific breeds. But these new rules sound regressive. Plus if someone attacks me and my dog protects me, these new proposed rules sound like you can take my dog and euthanize it and or make my normally friendly dog wear a muzzle - despite me being attacked.
- I don't understand why the pit bull breed is being singled out simply because of bite force. It is discriminatory as they are one of the most loving breeds. A bite is a bite, whether it comes from a Chihuahua, pom pom, pit bull, Rottweiler or shitzu. Nuisance dogs are ones that bite. Period. Damage due to the bite should not be taken into consideration.
- How about providing training? The problem is the owner, not the dog.
- Caution around "bull breeds" for example english and French Bulldogs should be exempt based on temperament and statistics that they are in the top 10 household pets. They are "bull breeds" but should have an exception. Proof should be provided at time of license for the exception (ie AKC or CKC registered pure bred English/french)
- Dont really agree with definition of nuisance (i.e. it makes noise?). Should punish the irresponsible owner, not the dog. Do not agree with breed specific laws. Put limitations on the type of obedience training. Ensure training is based on positive reinforcement
- Please do not be breed specific. Nuisance dogs are nuisance dogs. Don't create a polarizing conversation.
- Seriously?? You are seriously suggesting and looking into discriminatory breed based bylaws? Pit bulls aren't a dangerous breed! Stupid owners are dangerous... if Pitbulls pose a higher risk due to the strength of their bite, why have you also not suggested Rottweilers, Doberman's, German Shepard's, Mastiffs. The list goes on. Again, don't be stupid.

- Breed specific legislation unfairly discriminates against good dogs and good owners. Prefer to see enforcement against dog fighting, animal cruelty and chaining dogs outdoors which leads to dangerous animals.
- Punishment for the OWNER not the dog that didn't learn any better. Calgary has way to many horrible pet owners and yet we look at ways to limit a dog . It's pathetic . Further action must be taken on humans that don't know how to properly care for a dog.... no matter what the breed is. Any dog I'd raised in a poor aggressive environment has the potential to seriously harm or cause trauma to another individual ... not just pit bulls .
- don't think this should be breed specific.
- None of the above. stop trying to expand government interference in our lives
- In addition to Obedience training for the nuisance dog, the owner must go under review and receive training on how to teach their dog before the dog is allowed in public again. The behaviour of an animal usually falls under the failings of its owner, not with the animal.
- Stop vilifying pit bulls. Be smarter. Be better.
- My husband and dog were attacked and nothing was done, no fine, dog is still in the house barking like mad and if he ever escaped again will likely kill as the only reason my dog isn't dead is my husband is very strong. Seize and destroy dogs that try to kill other dogs or people.
- Quit picking on pitbulls
- Honestly a full on ban of pitbulls would be better. They have killed 4x as many and mauled 12x as many as Rottweilers who are in 2nd place. In 2018 they killed roughly 14,850 of the 17,250 dogs killed by other dogs. That's 86% of deaths at the fault of 4 breeds and their mixes. These 4 kill and maul more than all other breeds combined. How do people justify this? How do people call them "nanny dogs"?
- They are more dogs that harm people than pitbull. For example labs, German shepherd and chihuahuas are more likely to bite. It's the responsibility of the dog owners not the dogs fault. The owners should be held accountable not the pet.
- Required obedience training isn't the answer for nuisance dogs or pitbulls when it is the owner that largely determines behaviour. If they are not committed to training, obedience classes won't make a difference.
- DO NOT BREED STEREOTYPE. BY DISCRIMINATING AGAINST PITBULL TYPE BREEDS YOU ARE GOING TO MAKE IT HARDER FOR THEM TO BE ADOPTED FROM SHELTERS AND INCREASE THE AMOUNT OF PITBULLS SURRENDERED TO RESCUES DUE TO THE INCREASED COSTS. A DOG SHOULD NOT BE PUNISHED BEFORE IT HAS DONE SOMETHING WRONG. MOST PITBULL OWNERS I SEE AT THE VET CLINIC ARE RESPONSIBLE AND MOST PITBULLS I SEE ARE NOT AGGRESSIVE.
- Many small dogs are more aggressive and problematic compared to these breeds. I have a pit bull mix from a rescue and I volunteer in a rescue home. These breeds are some of the most friendly loving dogs I have ever dealt with. To have certain breeds banned from parks is ridiculous. There are so many dogs that can be aggressive or a nuisance. We go to get unknown dog parks to avoid over crowding and poor behavior mostly from dog owners. This idea is terrible and punished far too many innocent dogs and owners. There is a ridiculously small number of problems from these breeds. I have seen labs, retrievers, Yorkies and ever breed be aggressive. Very unfair to consider this

- This seems to be targeting pitbull, what about smaller dogs that even if their bites are not as dangerous as pit bull, still shows aggressive behavior toward human and other dogs. Small dog owner should be fine like bigger dogs owner
- "Pit bull" breeds are not more vicious than other dogs. Do not restrict the breed!
- Stop hating on a breed of dog!!!! It's bad owners not a bad breed.
- My room mate has a Pitbull and he's absolutely well-behaved. There have been no issues with him and there should not be consequences for the type of dog, just the individual dog.
- Ban pit bull or pit bull cross ownership
- If you are bringing in a nuisance dog bylaw, it should apply to ALL dogs, not breed specific
- It has been proven time and time again that breed specific legislation does NOT make an impact on the number or severity of dog related injuries. STOP bullying the breeds, there are no dogs born bad there are only bad OWNERS. I have been an animal control officer and cruelty investigation officer for ten years, there is absolutely no science to back up these claims against pitbulls or bully breeds.
- BSL does not work. Having lived in Ontario during the ban, and working in the animal care industry, the ban encouraged more back yard breeding and underground trafficking. If you want to do something, EDUCATE the city, it is irresponsible owners, NOT THE BREED! When I lived in Calgary, my Pitbull, was attacked by a smaller and off leash Labrador. Unprovoked, yet who would actually be blamed? BSL is discrimination! It does NOT work!
- higher fines for dogs of any breed that are aggressive. Most aggressive dogs i've encountered are not specified in this. I don't own a pitbull but the ones ive met have been so nice. Don't make laws to punish everyone based on individual bad owners.
- Breeds have nothing to do with how a dog will behave. How you train a dog does. Singling out pit bulls and their owners is NOT FAIR. my St. Bernard is just as strong if not stronger and she's the biggest suck. Does her size/breed deem her dangerous? The city of Calgary is ridiculous
- Responsible dog ownership is more important than a breed of dog. People who abuse and mistreat their dogs are the problem. Proper love training and attention makes a good dog no matter the breed.
- Owner of biting dog held legally responsible.
- Training for owners of nuisance dogs.
- NONE. It is NOT the dogs fault it is the OWNERS fault for poor training. Do not blame the breed for the owners transgression.
- Singling out pitbulls is a disgrace. Being breed specific is small minded and ignorant. The city should be ashamed of themselves for even entertaining singling out breeds.
- Do not include pit bulls in this at all. There are many other more dangerous breeds. Instead of penalizing the dog, penalize the irresponsible owner
- None

- Pit bulls should not be singled out. That is ludicrous. I agree dogs that are aggressive or have attacked need to be monitored and removed from bad owners. But it is all in the owner. What a sad day for Calgary to join this disgusting discrimination towards pit bulls. Shame on you.
- Basic obedience training should be required for ALL dogs of all sizes.
- Dogs should NOT be discriminated against because of their breed. It is fair to have restrictions in place after a serious incident. However putting forth this discrimination and fear is the same as RACISM
- NO BSL, it's garbage and so many cities are moving away from it as it does not work. More engagement with pet owners to promote responsible ownership is required.
- None of these - they are all discriminating against a type of dog that can be loving. These behaviours normally come out of bad ownership, not "bad dog breeds"
- I don't agree with Breed specific legislation and the way these options are worded gives unknowledgeable people an idea that Pitbulls are bad or abnormally aggressive. I am not impressed with this
- I am more troubled by nuisance dogs and the lack of training their owners have provided it vs specifically highlighting one dog breed. Also lots of people don't pay for licenses especially cats. The other bothersome thing as both a dog and cat owner is cats at large coming into my yard and people who don't clean up after their dogs in public spaces- really disgusting
- There are more than just pit bulls that bite. I believe ANY dog has good in them. If something happens they should be given the chance to redeem just like criminals. We wouldn't kill a person who killed someone so why kill an animal.. teach them right and they will do good.
- "Nuisance" dogs are described as annoying in the example, but the questions imply they are dangerous.
- Educational training for people who don't know how to handle their dog properly! You must realize that it's not the animal's fault that they're deemed a nuisance - people who don't know how to train or look after them are at fault! Do not discriminate against a breed! Educate the owners!!!!
- You can [removed] right off with your breed specific rules. Pit bulls should not be targetted because they're "stronger". Have you seen a German Shepard bite? Why do the police use them? They're strong as hell yet they aren't targeted. Don't be like Montreal. You will be sorry.
- If dogs are involved in multiple bites drawing blood a muzzle could be required. Owners are responsible & if trained with dog this would reduce incidents.
- I understand that "pit bulls" have the strength to inflict damage, but so do German Shepard's, Labs, any dog.
- The owner should be accountable. I have met many dogs within these breeds that are sweet and well-behaved.
- Owner tracking - fines to the owner when they are involved in multiple offenses, including prohibited from owning future pets.
- Poor dog behaviour leads to fines for the owner. Any dog can be good or bad, it's all on the owner
- I think obedience training should be required by all Dogs. I don't believe in punishing a breed, but irresponsible dog ownership

- I don't agree with using any "pit bull" type reference. Yes, they might be stronger, but training and care is what matters. I've had more issues with huskies, and Labrador type dogs than I ever had with a pit bull type dog. Chihuahuas are dangerous for the reason they are tiny and people don't think they need training. Leaving a dog loose is an owner responsibility not a dogs fault.
- I do not own a pit bull dog, but this seems like a very pigeon hole discrimination towards a specific breed of dog... If (any) dog is vicious, be it a teacup sized dog or a 200 lbs dog.
- do not single out pit bulls. Responsible dog ownership of all breeds is the goal
- The breed isn't the problem, the owner is the problem. Charge the owner if their dog is involved in an altercation. Small dogs are usually the one that cause scraps with big dogs because owners don't think to train their little dog. It's all in the owner and not the breed!!!!
- There's something I don't understand about dogs. If, by law, our domestic pets are our property, and thereby products that we buy and sell, how come product recalls do not apply when several of the product sold pose a very evident risk to human health and safety? If people were purchasing an object brought into the home that maims and kills them as some dogs do, that would not be tolerated at all. Not all of the defective product sold need to malfunction either before there is a recall. If the product then cannot be adjusted to standards, there would be a ban.
- Mandatory training for any owner of a pit bull do to not train it to be vicious. Punish the owner not the dog
- Absolutely absurd that pitbulls should require different treatment than any other dog.
- pitbulls aren't a bad dogs. I used to have 2 amazing dogs. Its not the dog that's the issue its owners who aren't responsible and don't take the time to care for dogs. I go to dog parks lots and there are St Bernard's and chawwas that are surprisingly worse dogs. This feels like a ban on pitbulls which is a joke. They don't even bark like other dogs.
- None of the above. There shouldn't be breed specific bylaws. To put extra insurance or to have muzzles for pit bull owners isn't fair to them. If any dog is causing harm, that's when measures should be taken. I think obedience training should be provided to owners if their pet has acted up or caused harm. Bylaws shouldn't be put in place based on the idea that pit bulls are nuisance dogs.
- Don't target a breed. All dogs should require obedience training not just nuisance dogs.
- Any changes must be based on actual dog behavior, not just how it looks and public opinion. Need to focus on small aggressive dogs.
- Higher fines for a specific look or breed of dog is abhorrent. Why don't you start taxing based on skin color while you are at it. The fact that you targeted pitbulls and neglected to mention one of the higher bite forces recorded came from a Kangal breed dog is showing how truly biased you must be. You never mentioned higher fines for Mastiff breed dogs, which have a higher Bite Force (PSI) of 556 versus the pitbulls 235 PSI bite force. We see you, if you are prepared to take on this battle. Be prepared for a battle. No one will take you coming for pitbulls sitting down. Look at how much controversy the cities banning pitbulls in Ontario and Quebec had. You want that for Calgary. Yikes.
- This behaviour is not born into a dog it's taught. And it's horrific to think our animals could be treated as unfairly as certain minorities in this country are as well.

- I have NEVER met a pit bull that was aggressive towards my dog. Breed-specific legislation is a DISGRACE. The breed of the dog has no weight on their behaviour. I will be complaining to the city thoroughly and OFTEN if pit bulls are unfairly discriminated against. It's truly a shame that Calgary is even considering it. I spend a lot of time in off-leash parks, and it is never the pit bulls that harass my dog. If the specific dog is declared a nuisance, fine. But DO NOT put forth breed specific legislation. It's just wrong.
- If ANY breed has bitten anyone, they should have to be muzzled or have extra pro actions taken at off leash dog parks. This does not apply to only "pit bull" breeds.
- Stop going after the bully type breeds. There are so many other breeds (including small dogs) that are ill behaved and can cause just as much damage
- How about you just stop with the pit bull stereo types. It's the human. Not the animal. Stop criminalizing the animals.
- How about the city NOT discriminate against a specific breed of dog. Your reason for listing the Pitbull specifically is flawed because many other breeds of given the chance can also cause substantial damage to someone. It's shameful that the City of Calgary is also spreading misleading information about a grossly misunderstood breed. As old an adage as it is: it's not the dog it's the owner.
- Stop placing the blame on Pitbulls. The owner is completely 100% at fault
- Why just pit bulls - should be all dangerous breeds
- Pitt bulls are not dangerous dogs. Stop picking on them.
- Kill all pit bulls. Why own murder hounds?
- It's ridiculous to apply this as breed specific. Any untrained dog can bite.
- Stop discriminating against types! This is [removed]
- Support to help. Training reduces cost
- I am against breed specific legislation
- Training courses for owners wanting to purchase bully breeds. They need to be aware of the potential issues their poor training can result in. The dogs are not the issues, it is 100% the owners.
- Complete ban on having pit bulls within city boundaries
- I generally agree with the nuisance dog stance but specifically identifying pit bulls is unacceptable. I fully respect that they have a strong bite but they aren't any more aggressive than a German Shepherd, Rottweiler or even a Great Pyrenees. It comes down to the handler and ensuring they are trained properly. I fully support nuisance dogs to be enrolled in dog obedience classes at owner's expense. Saying that, there should be a 2 strike policy..often the first time it happens is because the dog is shocked or scared or has been put in a situation it's not used to and it is up to the parent to understand and prevent it for a 2nd time.
- Stop targeting pit bulls!!! They are a very kind breed, crack down on bad breeding and dog fights instead!!
- Stop signaling out pit bulls! This can happen to ANY dog because of their OWNER! Instead of pit bull this and that maybe you should focus on the owners with bad history with dogs?

- Obedience training for any dog in off-leash areas. While this would be difficult to enforce, I would like to see something where there are significantly higher fines for untrained dogs involved in bylaw offences or bites/attacks on other dogs than an obedience trained dog. I see enforcement as a dog bites or is off leash there are two levels of fines and if the owner can provide proof of obedience training, a substantially lower fine.
- I absolutely DO NOT support any breed biased bylaw!
- Pit bulls and breeds of this type be banned in the City of Calgary
- The owners should be mandated to go through a test to ensure they are not abusing the nuisance dog. Dogs only exhibit nuisance or aggression when they are being hurt by their owner. This should include interviewing neighbors and other household members.
 - it is very harmful to single out a specific breed if the justification is that they may cause more harm due to their strength. This is a problem because 1) there are many breeds that are considered strong (e.g. German Shepard's, boxers, American bulldog, cane corso, etc.) and could easily cause the same or greater damage than a "pitbull-like" breed dog, and 2) it excuses owners of these breeds or any breed from having to properly train their dogs such that they are not reactive or aggressive towards other dogs, which is how serious bite incidents often happen. Also, if such a ban were to be put in place it is unfair to place these restrictions on people who already own these dogs. I agree that some dogs should not be able to attend off leash dog parks but, again, putting restrictions on certain types of dogs releases owners of other dog types from being responsible owners. I understand that these options came from discussions with stakeholders, however there is a level of stigma associated breeds that is almost entirely perpetuated by those who do not or have never owned a pitbull breed dog, and thus have a subconscious bias against a type of dog that is not innately more aggressive than any other dog and that is comparable in strength to a number of other dog breeds. Creating legislature that further singles out this breed only serves to perpetuate stereotypes that have been largely manufactured by misinformation and the media. Of course, owning a strong dog comes with increased responsibility, but this responsibility and face consequences if their dog behaves aggressively towards others, but this responsibility should lie with all owners of strong dogs (and any dog for that matter).
- Higher fines for aggressive, biting dogs in general. Ban any dog from off leash public parks that has a history of aggression/attacks to other dogs.
- No breed specific laws
- Why call out Pit bulls, just call out if a dog is deemed aggressive or a nuisance then.....
- LEAVE THE PITBULLS ALONE! SHEPARDS HAVE STRENGTH TO CAUSE DAMAGE AND SO DO CHAWAWAS
- This is insane.... if we are going off the basis of a strong jaw than German shep should be included and many other breeds. Accountability comes to the owner, they need to be viewed. What is the training and living environment for the dog. Especially highly intelligent breeds with various strengths.

- BSL against pit bulls is unfounded, misleading and wrong. Dog bites and behavior are the sole responsibility of the owner!
- Focus more on owners who do not properly train their dogs. Breeds are not the issue, owners are
- Dogs labelled on a harness whether they've been declared nuisance, to give others a heads up.
- This bylaw should NOT target certain breeds. It's how the dog is brought up.
- Dogs that have a bite record and that are "nuisances" should be put into an aggression targeted obedience school with specific guidelines the owner must follow or lose their dog
- Don't be racist and don't hate on a breed that can't stand up for itself. There is no such thing as a bad dog only a bad owner. Just because one cop killed someone does not mean all cops are bad. And hey guess what cops have a higher ability to kill people because they are given guns and have access to private records...
- Ban the bad Dog owners from owning these dogs! There are no Bad dogs only bad owners! Bad dog owners give these breeds a bad reputation because they make these dogs act out because they were not raised properly! Banning the breed doesn't make sense. It the people that are stupid, can't fix stupid! So ban them from owning ANY animals!
- I don't think that the city should discriminate against a whole classification of dog breeds because of a stigma and bias against them.
- Ban bad owners, not specific breeds of animals.
- No BSL, it is disgusting and discriminatory that this is even being considered.
- So you are punishing a dog breed for their history of the owners not training them properly. This should not only be limited to pitbulls but to all dog the are aggressive or loud including small dogs.
- As someone who has been around and loves "pit bulls" they're an incredible dog! It's never the breed, its training and most occasionally abuse from owners. I've been bitten more times by chihuahuas and other small dogs. Laws should never be breed specific!
- Training for the owners. Especially if they are under 25 on how to own a pet and trading it properly.
- Are you really trying to put breed specific laws in place? Maybe look at the owner and get the owners trained. The dog is only as good as the owner.
- If any law changes, it should be for ALL dogs not "specific" based on a look for a dog!
- Pit bulls are some of the sweetest dogs there are. This is discriminatory, and I do not support it. If a Pitbull is aggressive, it's the owners fault, and a investigation should be done because - Absolutely no breed specific laws.
- Obedience training required for ALL dogs. Stop this breed specific bs
- Dogs that have exhibited bite behaviour or are deemed unsafe should be mandatorily enrolled in training classes, this type of behaviour is the result of improper training on behalf of the owner. Training will benefit both the owner and the dog. Note: Please do not trap a "nuisance" animal in a small area as these animals often suffer from lack of exercise or boredom and will only serve to aggravate the issue. Finally breed specific legislation for any muzzle or limitation is ludicrous, such steps should be implemented on animals with a history of biting or aggressive behaviour regardless of breed, and reviewed on a case by case basis. Forcing such legislation on specific breeds only serves to increase fear of them, while not solving the greater issue of people owning dogs without knowing how to train them. Again, further training is needed for the owner of any dog that exhibits dangerous behaviour; untrained owners are the biggest cause of problem animals.

- Are you guys [removed] serious? [removed] get off your high horse. Dogs aren't the problem, owners are. Now the government is going to tell us what dogs can do what? A pit bull can't go to public places because of its strength and possibility to bite? How are we even having this conversation. Ridiculous.
- None of the above , owners are more of the issue then breeds
- I think the rules should be the same regardless of breed. A pit bull is not the problem. The problem lies where the owner didnt get proper training. Dogs are taught bad behaviour. I have a pitty mix and shes fantastic and loving!
- Leave the pitbulls alone.
- This is complete [removed]. Huskies, golden retrievers, labs and MANY more breeds have all attacked humans and in some cases even kill babies/children. Why are these bylaws not for ALL big dogs that have the ability to be "viscous" when in the wrong ownership. The media barely ever shines light on those attacked by other breeds!
- Its not a breed issue its a owner issue and there should be some sort of training for owners involved in multiple offences
- No breed-specific rules.
- Breed-specific legislation benefits absolutely nobody; if a dog is showing signs of any type of aggression, REGARDLESS OF BREED, they should absolutely be declared a nuisance/danger and have limitations put in place. Many other breeds (i.e. german shepherds, rottweilers, great danes, etc) have jaws just as big and strong as "pitbulls", often with even more propensity to show aggression. A dog's temperament absolutely cannot be decided on breed alone.
- you can't declare one breed of dog illegal or create special "rules" for them. this is absolutely ridiculous and cruel.
- Consideration of criminal charges to owners of nuisance dogs involved in attacks against people especially children
- Ban pit bulls and other dangerous breeds.
- IT IS NOT THE BREEDS FAULT! ITS THE [removed] OWNERS FAULT AND HOW THEY ARE TRAINED AND RAISE. EDUCATE YOURSELF BEFORE YOU BAND A [removed] ANIMAL SPECIES AND BAND THE GOD DAMN SICK ANIMAL ABUSERS... MY PITBULL IS MY BABY, IM MORE WORRIED ABOUT A [removed] CHIHUAHUA BITING ME THAN A [removed] PITBULL. [removed] disgusting how it's 2020 and the human race still get get over the fact that it is people that are [removed] not these poor animals who just want to be loved. Go [removed] yourselves :) putting a bad image on Canada. [removed] disgusting.
- Higher fines for dogs involved in incidents that cause bodily harm. Even if its a teacup terrier. I am more scared of improperly trained small dogs then I am pitbulls
- I disagree with having just pitbull breeds. It is owner not the dog breed
- Increase fines and penalties for dog bites (INCLUDING small dogs!)
- I would not support any of these.

- Make pit bulls illegal to own within city limits, and include rottweilers in the ban as well.
- None of the above. The pet owner is responsible for their pet and the government should have no say.
- Ban put bulls
- Breed classifications. Classification A, B and C. Low risk, small breeds would be classified as an A and so on and so forth. Dogs would be classified a base classification based on the physical attributes/breed, the specific animals history and its potential for injury. If an owner chooses to spay or neuter, they could benefit by being dropped a classification. If an animal causes issues, their classification could get worse. Etc etc etc
- Obedience training required for ALL dogs
- This is a n absolute [removed] question. As an owner of a "bully breed" you are simply subjecting the public to their fears. It is the owner, not the dog that should be held responsible for any behavior. If you [removed] in city hall would take your heads out of your [removed] and figure that out it would be appreciated.
- The only problem with any 'nuisance dog', being large or small, Pitt bull or chihuahua or Labrador or Maltese... is 100% the the responsibility of the human owner. Just like all children infant/toddlers/adolescents can be raised and trained to be overall good, so can every pet dog, cat or any other animal be trained with the proper focus and disciplines with the right and responsible and consistent focus.
- i just don't understand why is there only one breed specific it should be for ANY BREED they all are capable of biting and being a NUSANCE and DANGEROUS . And i would love to know WHO CAME UP WITH "A PITBULL'S STRENGTH ALLOWS THE POTENTIAL FOR A MORE SEVERE BITE ????? THIS IS SUCH A RIDICULOUS STATEMENT WHERE ARE YOUR NUMBERS ????? CAUSE THE NUMBER 1 DOG WITH THE MOST BITE POUNDS PER SQUARE INCH(PSI). is a Kangal which has 743 psi the next is Dobermanpinscher which is 600 psi the next is an English mastiff 556 psi The german Shepherd is 238 psi then 8 from the top is the Amercian pitbull is 235 psi you really need to educate yourself before you start singling out ONE TYPE OF DOG...
- No difference in how "Pit Bulls" are treated because they have no difference in bite strength as this is a myth and the city of Calgary does not support discrimination on race or breeds.
- There should be a certain limit of pitbulls in a park in order to prevent bites. For example : One bit bull per dog park .
- I do not support any new rule against pitbulls.. the race does not matter, the owner does.
- This insurance part is ridiculous. No insurance company wants to buy a claim. Get out of here with that. They won't insure an aggressive dog. And pit bulls are not nuisance dogs. I hate all of this. Yes their bite is harder when on the off chance it happens but, I have been bothered and bitten more often than not by purse dogs. Take your Bischon cross and get.
- Do not discriminate dog breeds!!! BSL is unacceptable!!!
- Pit bulls are not an issue. [removed] owners are. Pit bull specific legislation is equivalent to licensing a person on steroids. Fine bad owners and take their animals away if necessary. Just like you would kids from bad neglectful parents.

- Breed specific legislation has no evidence of working and unfairly targets dogs who are not violent. Punish the owners not the breed. Chihuahuas have more bites than any other breed so why not target them?
- PITBULLS ARE NOT BAD DOGS!! They are proven to not be any more aggressive than any other breed and their strength varies from animal to animal and many other breeds are just as strong. I worked at a animal day care and kennel and I was hurt more by dogs with an abusive past and labs more than other dogs. Instead of the stuff above we should invest more money into shelters and humane society for staff, care, food and providing a better life for all animals. This article is outrageous. Pit bulls are some of the sweetest dogs ever. The only reason they can be more aggressive is because their strength and are used in things such as fight rings and to withstand abuse. Just like humans they can share inter-generational trauma and causes issues with the dogs. Not to mention a lot of the times the attack is the victims fault
- Background checks for people with previous charges or complaints of abusive behaviour when choosing to purchase an animal
- Ban pit bulls
- Owners of nuisance dogs go through evaluations before being able to own dogs in the future, or keep their current pet(s).
- If you going to do this then this should be applied to EVERY dog! Ive never been attacked never mind bite by a large dog rather than I have scars from a Shih Tzu ... It is truly based owner to owner and if an accident happens then foresee action just as you should any dog, other wise leave it alone.
- leave them alone
- Stop discriminating against pit breeds. It's the Owners not the dogs!!!!
- Apples be nice if there was training or certification required by a person in order to own a pit bull, because problems arise when the OWNER is a dumb [removed].
- You cannot just single out one breed. Should we make people that go to the gym and are stronger pay higher fines or insurance? Just because there strength is more.
- Pitbulls and similar breeds do have a strong bite, evidence suggests this is related to the shape of a dog's skull rather than the breed. To suggest that only pit bull type breeds have a strong bite is inaccurate and ignorant. Please read: Ellis, J. L., Thomason, J., Kebreab, E., Zubair, K., & France, J. (2009). Cranial dimensions and forces of biting in the domestic dog. Journal of anatomy, 214(3), 362–373. <https://doi.org/10.1111/j.1469-7580.2008.01042.x> (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC2673787/>) and "Bite Forces and Their Measurements in Dogs and Cats" (<https://www.frontiersin.org/articles/10.3389/fvets.2018.00076/full>)
- Higher penalties for dogs off leash in on leash areas
- Absolutely no animal should be scrutinized for it's type/breed. Owners should be responsible and held accountable, not the animals. This is purely prejudice and completely unreasonable.
- treat all dogs the same you psychos
- This is all crap! Pit bulls are great dogs, there are just bad owners

- I owned a small terrier that had a much worse bite than any large breed!! We can not and should not put bad dogs under a breed specific legislation. That's is archaic!
- Subsidized dog training for low income people, focus on education and rehabilitation instead of punishment
- Train the owners of nuisance dogs, it's the owner, not the dog.
- I just want to make a point of saying that these measures should not be dependent on breed. Only on behaviour.
- I have never met one Pitbull that is aggressive. Everything listed is ridiculous and cruel and discriminatory.
- Why are these suggestions so biased against pit bulls?? You do know chihuahuas bite more than any other breeds right? Breeds aren't the problem- people are the problem. These measures were quite offensive (and I'm not a pit bull owner).
- Pitbulls are not to be put into the same categories as 'nuisances". As a pitbull owner, he is the sweetest dog in the world and wouldn't hurt a fly. The breed of a dog does not determine how vicious it is. Disgusting and unbelievable that the city of Calgary is attempting to rally against pitbulls. If this bylaw is passed, action will be taken against it.
- LEAVE PITTYS ALONE! They are big baby's dumb [removed]
- I agreed to one and two but would like a clear definition of dangerous behaviour that is the same for all dogs
- Quite targeting pitbulls and other bully breeds. There are many other breeds that can potentially hurt someone. Bullies are blamed whether it was their fault or not.
- Discriminating against pitbulls shows the lack of knowledge on the dog breed. This is ridiculous and needs to stop as it will severely hurt rescue organizations.
- Higher fines for dogs involved in biting incident.
- prevent shelters from 1)mislabeled pit bull type dogs as another breed 2) masking aggressive behavior in a pit bull type dog or a nuisance dog with deceptive language to unwitting adopters 3) get pit bull type dogs disqualified from ESA and as service animals
- The definition and usage of the word nuisance in questions seems wrong, why would a dog declared a nuisance for noise be required to have a muzzle?
- None y'all [removed]
- No breed specific legislation! Impose legislation on dogs that have a history/likelihood of biting (not just for dogs that get out of the yard a lot or bark. Those aren't indications for biting behaviour).
- Well most dog owners would agree that the breed is not what's causes it to be aggressive but the way they are treated. Pitbulls should not be accountable for other dogs actions because of the owners mistakes. Most owners are not capable of handling some breeds which causes them to neglect them, which leads to violence. Again pitbulls should not be taken away from owners or to banned because of the mistake owners make!
- Blame the owner if a dog shows aggression. Any breed from a teacup yorkie to a pitbull can show aggression. Dogs are like children, and if they are not trained poorly the owner should be fined each time an incident happens if their dog acts out. Abusing the dog because of the owner is beyond cruel. I can train my little yorkie to bite and attack people as well if I wanted, it all depends on the owner. Dogs are the most loving breed. Please stop targeting them.

- Just because smaller and 'toy' dogs don't have the jaw power that larger dogs have doesn't mean they can't severely damage a child - especially since they are closer to child's face. Any dog that bites a person or another animal should be considered a nuisance or a danger. No dog breeds or "looks like" should ever be banned. Owners of all animals need to be responsible! Note also that circumstances need to be taken into account when determining if a dog actually is vicious. ie have people in the neighbourhood been taunting or teasing a dog; was the dog injured, hurting, or protecting pups; etc
- Nothing. This is a ridiculous and very poorly informed. Please look up statistics from other cities who are implemented breed bans and harsh bi-laws. Does not work and perpetuates a false stereotype. Do not let Calgary fall to such ignorance
- "Pitbulls" and all other Bully breeds are not the problem. BAD OWNERS are the problem. Uneducated owners, are the problem. It is COMPLETELY ignorant, ludicrous, and out right unfair to ban or even single out one breed. Years ago they were singling out Dobermans, then Shepherds, then Rotties, now it is "pitties". Stop blaming the dog and look into the actual problem. The people. If a dog is having behavioral issues maybe, JUST MAYBE you folk should consider looking into their living situation and how well the owners are equipt to handle such breeds. I have a American Bully Staff mix and not one person in the time i have had her has had a single bad thing to say about her. What makes her different from all the others? Nothing, other than the fact she was raised right, and by people who could actually handle her breed. STOP SINGLING OUT BREEDS. OF ANY KIND
- Why not Obedience Training required for Owners wanting to own dog breeds that are considered to have a pre-disposition towards being a problem.
- Many dogs in need may be more likely to have issues with noise and have minor offenses. Pitbulls have a harder time being adopted. Adding these bylaws would make these dogs suffer even more. They already need more help than other breeds as it stands. These bylaws would make the issue worse
- If it is STATED that pitbulls are not more commonly found to be in incidents of dog bites than DONT SINGLE THEM OUT!!! ALL dog owners should train their dogs, not understanding dog behavior is why incidents happen. Just because you don't have a 'dangerous' breed doesn't mean your dog is smart enough to socialize and unerstand social cues from other dogs to [removed] off. Bringing in a breed specific legislation is stupid and causes more problems
- Pitbulls are not the issue its the owners
- There should be nothing different for a certain type of bread. Every dog is different. If a dog has bite someone or a bother dog then that owner should be responsible for getting proper training and the city can give them a five if they don't show proof of training.
- Please do not enact ANY sort of breed-specific legislation. Countless studies have shown how incorrect these assumptions are, and how dangerous these assumptions can be to the dogs, which are the ones who need protection the most

- It is absolutely despicable to publicly state that pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other breeds, and then go on to attempt to penalise them purely for their breed. Dog behaviour is almost always a consequence of owner ship not if they are a pit bull or not. Why are you not singling out German Shepards? After all they have a 238PSI (pound per square inch) average bite. A standard pitbull only has a 235PSI. Making them the 6th strongest in terms of bite. Where are the other 5 on your list?? So you don't care about the PSI of bites, you just care about the breed. Pathetic.
- Do not discriminate against one dog breed just because they have a stronger jaw, it is not the breed it is the owner!
- Stop it with the breed specific bylaws. Any ruling applied to pit bulls should be applied to ALL dogs
- I have had no issues with "pitbulls". I've had lots of issues with more friendly breeds. This is utterly stupid. Focus on the real issues please.
- A pit bull gets its strong bite from the bulldog part of its ancestry, so if by extension you are implying that any mastiff, bulldog, St. Bernard, Newfoundland etc are also considered "of the type" then this is discrimination. The only thing the pit bull inherited from the bulldog was mass and strength. Terriers are some of the most aggressive breeds being bred to literally shred rabbits in their burrow. The aggressive tendency comes from the smaller and much more common part of their ancestry. Do some actual research into dog breeds before jumping on the hype wagon of banning certain types of dogs for no reasons. I think you'll find that German shepherds and golden retrievers statistically vote the most people. A dogs bit is it's last line of defence sometimes the person is in the wrong and it would do you good to consider that.
- Stop assuming pit bulls are the problem!!!!!! There are countless other breeds that are of WAY higher concern and the problem is the OWNER not the dog.
- No Breed Specific Legislation. As well education and investigation into why dog acted the way it did. Do not punish a dog for human error or abuse, parents need to control their children and not let the abuse dogs.
- Please don't discriminate against particular breeds of dogs. Each instance of dog issue should be handled on a case by case basis. We should always give the benefit of the doubt to both the dog and owner. Also calm down!
- I do not agree with any
- Other: You're focusing on the animal, not the human that owns it. You should have fines and penalties placed on the individual. You're just demonizing a breed of animal and not having the owns take responsibility for their own action or inaction.
- Other: YOU'RE A GOOF [removed]
- Other: Your rules are [removed] stupid
- Other: Your missing additional, training for those with any dog of any breed, to have additional k9 behavioural training. Breed Specific is racism.
- Other: You shouldn't put restrictions based on breed. Small dog bites never get reported because they are small but just as likely to attack. If you are going to put obedience obligations it should be for all dog owners.

- Other: You should stop discriminating against pit bulls and make it just about nuisance dogs who have bit/attacked someone. If they were human, would you do the same because of their color?
- Other: You should not be discriminating against the breed. Most dogs are not born mean just like people are not born to see skin color it is taught by their owner slash parents. People should be responsible for their dogs actions. A breed should not be punished for the idiocy of a owner.
- Other: You need to get off or breeds, any dog can make a severe bite. Stop groups 10 different breeds as bully. Put responsibility on the owner don't blame the breed it's 2020 give your head a shake. Can we have the same laws for little/small dogs, of course not they bite people and s ok cus they didnt do much damage. A bite is a bite regardless of breed. Wake up city your a joke
- Other: you must include Rottweilers and German Shepherds in this as their bite strength is more than a pitbull's.
- Other: You know what its not just Pitbulls that are bad dogs !!! This is ridiculous
- Other: You have NO right to tell citizens what they can and cannot own. I support NONE of these. Stop overreaching your power. You are supposed to just be a budgeting organisation. Try doing that for once.
- Other: You have absolutely no right to discriminate against dog breeds. What the [removed] kind of a question is this? Any dog can do lasting damage with a bite. If a dog is not well trained, that is when intervention may be allowed. Otherwise, the kind of breed a person owns is none of your business.
- Other: You guys are ridiculous.....who comes with these idea????
- Other: You guys are [removed] [removed] for going after pitbull.
- Other: You don't have the authority to mandate any of this.
- Other: You define nuisance as a dog who has been at large or noisy. This is no reason to say nuisance dogs need to be muzzled in public and in dog parks or not allowed plus additional insurance needed ? I think you need to re word these questions. You mean aggressive dog with history, not random nuisance dog
- Other: You currently have enough laws to cover all instances. Please just enforce the current laws.
- Other: You clearly stated that they are not involved in more dog bites... perhaps you should look at punishing neglectful and abusive pet owners instead of the animals.
- Other: You can't just call out one breed of dog. Just because its a bully breed doesn't mean it's violent. Smaller dogs are statistically more violent so why not put laws on them? Oh wait, because "bull" isn't in their breed name. I know more calm and well mannered pitbulls than small dogs.
- Other: YOU CANT DO THIS TO ONLY ONE BREED!!! German shepherds have a stronger bite than pit bulls. Every single pitbull I have ever met are the sweetest dog. There's should not be a law regarding ONE breed. If your dog is aggressive it should be muzzled no matter the breed. If a pitbull is not aggressive I do not believe they need to be muzzled.
- Other: YOU CANT ASSUME A PIT BULL IS DANGEROUS. THEYRE NOT DANGEROUS AND YOU HAVE NO RIGHT TO DO ANYTHING IN RELATION TO ANIMAL CRUELTY
- Other: You cannot single out one breed. This either applies to all dogs or to none. Breed specific bans are wrong

- Other: You cannot simply blanket all pitbulls as bad dogs. Banning them or forcing them to wear muzzles is terrible and an bad idea. Instead I would invest in more programs for reactive dogs. We have a Collie/Sheltie who is reactive (and not on your list above) and I would NEVER take her to the dog park for that reason. So if someone with a reactive dog - NOT just pitbulls or the ones listed above, it is on the owner to ensure they are being respectful of their dogs boundaries and there 100% needs to be repercussion for actions that dogs take. I know a ton of very friendly dogs who fall into your categorization and if you pass laws that those breeds are banned or have to muzzle it will further perpetuate the stigma around these dogs. The change needs to stem from rescues (humane society, AARCS, etc.) and breeders that there needs to be BETTER training and resources. I did training with my reactive dog at the humane society and it was brutal. We learned nothing and she was still super bad. Until i went private and paid about $400 dollars, I finally understood where her fears were coming from and learned to RESPECT HER. Yes, it would be way easier to take her to the park to let her get rid of her energy, but she is not okay there. So we do leashed/private activities. I think if you mandated required training through the RCMP for ALL breeds, especially from those who adopt, you would see a huge decrease. As well, how would you even track if a banned dog was at the park? Unless you're planning on setting up a check in system, this is going to be impossible. But it would be great if you did have an attendant at all parks and had to check your dog in with their city bylaw number.
- Other: You can't have one rule applying to one specific breed. That's not fair. One rule must apply to all breeds and all dogs. The breed of a dog regardless of the bite strength shouldn't be singled out. Little dogs can be more of a nuisance than pit bulls any day.
- Other: You can't ban pit bulls, it is not the animals fault that they are experienced to trauma. What happens when you enforce this law? All these pit bulls and bully breeds will be euthanized
- Other: You can not determine "nuisance" dogs only nuisance owners. Labelling a dog gives more power to those who choose not to take responsibility and raise dogs that are not trained. Furthermore most dog bites result when the dog has been provoked. There needs to be a different solution that holds the owner accountable and more investigation as why the dog bit to begin with. - was it being harrassed?
- Other: You can not be racist towards any race of dog. To attack pit bulls is wrong and is backwards of making any progress. These questions are wrong these animals are important to people. Imagine saying you can't take your kid to the park because of the race ignorant and shame on you Calgary
- Other: you can not increase tax or ban a breed at a dog park.
- Other: You are way off base pit bull / bully breeds dogs are getting a bad name perhaps if someone has a dog of this breed the HUMAN should receive additional education and follow up with the human . You're blaming the dog where no blame should be placed . DO BETTER!
- Other: You are very wrong to pick certain types of dogs. It's not breed or looks that is the problem. It's irresponsible humans
- Other: You are stupi to just do this on pitbull.its idiot owner
- Other: You are singling out one kind of dog. German shepard, rottis and a few others have very stong bit. This shouldnt be against a particular dog it should refect on the owner. Any dog can attack

if the owner trains them. I dont think it is far to single out the dog. The dog does what the trainer tells them to. Dogs usually obey the trainer. I think the owners should not just be fined but go to jail. Everyone blames the dog not the owner, that discussed me including By law. Maybe these dogs should be trained by police to work in K9 before being euthanized. I dont agree on animals being euthanized. every dog deserves another chance. While the dog waits for court proceedings maybe someone can train the dog properly, the right way. to show the court that they can be trained to be a good dog. Pit Bulls are amazing dogs if trained right. That is the owners responsibility not the dogs.

- Other: You are promoting Breed Specific legislation with NO substantial proof that the specific breeds noted are problem dogs. NOT COOL. NOT EDUCATED. Breed-specific legislation should not be permitted. Nuisance animals can be ANY breed.
- Other: YOU ARE BULLYING A BREED. IT IS NOT THE DOG IT IS THE OWNERS, QUIT WITH THE STEREOTYPE AGAINST THESE DOGS! I have met more aggressive chihuahuas than I have pitbulls. STOP!
- Other: You all need to be voted out... This is disgusting.
- Other: Why on gods green earth are you people narrowing it down to 1 breed? Come on! Give your head a shake! Shame on you. This has become ridiculous!! Small breed dogs attack too! Its [removed] owners who breed them to fight. Get educated! My god!
- Other: Why not suggest all these for all big dog breeds. This is NOT fair for any of these.
- Other: Why is this only for pitbulls this is ridiculous!!! it should not be listed as breed specific at all this is stupid !!! If you are implementing higher fines . Special insurance or restrictions make it for any dog owner who has had a dog exhibit signs of aggression or so called nuisance d breed of dog that has been involved with
- Other: Why is this only about Pitbulls? A dog behaves how it is trained. There should be more responsibility on owners instead of blaming and singling out a breed of dog.
- Other: Why is this being relegated to just pitbulls? We don't need a bully breed legislation. If a dog is aggressive, it should be upon the owner to fix the issue. I've been bitten by more Wheaten Terriers than any other breed. Please rethink a breed specific legislation.
- Other: Why is the pitbull being singled out? Little dogs bite and attack as well. ANY dog displaying dangerous behavior should be assessed and the owner fined accordingly or training classes mandatory.
- Other: Why is it necessary to have them pay more cats are allowed to roam around but a person has to pay more to have a pitbull in there house that's ridiculous
- Other: Why do we need to limit a certain breed? All dogs...just like all humans should be treated fairly and equally.
- Other: Why are you targeting a specific breed of dog?! Experience has been that its not the dog, its the owner who hasn't or isn't responsible enough to properly train the dog, that's not the dogs fault. I've owned a Rottweiler and would again. Not an aggressive bone in her body. I'm disappointed this is how you think this needs to be handled. This will result in many dogs either not being rescued or euthanized for no other reason that they are a pit bull.
- Other: Why are you being breed specific? I was attacked by more small dogs than anything growing up. So disappointing for our city.

- Other: Why are we specifying pitbull when statistically chows, Rottweilers and German shepherds are more aggressive and have stronger bites
- Other: Why are the dogs getting punished for these behaviours when it's the owner that does not know how to treat the dog. Why not focus on the owner getting proper dog training. The pitbull is getting branded as a dangerous dog; I know several pitbulls and they are as docile and even tempered as any other breed.
- Other: Why are pitbulls being targeted here? We have issues with an aggressive lab/collie mix so punishing one breed makes no sense.
- Other: Why do you "label" dogs. It's not the dog, it's the OWNER!!!! They should be declared a nuisance. I have had a dobie, a german shephard, a rottie and a pitbull. None of them ever hurt anyone or anything. But a god [removed] freaking little dog bit my dobie to the tune of 10 stitches and a $150 vet bill!!!!!! STOP WITH THE DISCRIMINATION!!!!!!
- Other: While I agree that dogs that have a history of aggressive behavior should be muzzled. I've been bitten by a small breed dog on numerous different occasions unlike a pit bull type dog that I have never had an issue with. People with small dogs tend to leave the dog untrained, leading to WAY more barking and biting. Breed specific muzzling makes no sense when people owning a pitbull breed usually ensure training because of the stigma behind owning them.
- Other: When a dog (any breed) attacks someone or another animal, the dog and owner must go through an extensive training course to help train the dog and owner. Euthanasia or removal of said dog should be the LAST resort.
- Other: What a joke. Pitbull type dogs are not any more a threat than a German Shepherd, or any small breed dog (who are significantly more aggressive) . Any dog owner should be taking their dog to obedience regardless of breed. This is essentially racism towards Pit Bulls. [removed] owners make [removed] dogs. How bout some education
- Other: We shouldnt target just one breed cause it ability to bite stronger or the size. Its not the breed its the person behind it. Smaller dogs are alot more aggressive then pitbulls why arent they listed its cause everyonr thinks its the pitbulls that are bad you always see them making the news and i dont think thats fair just cause were judging the dog based on media. Horrible idea
- Other: We aren't supposed to discriminate based on skin tone for humans why is it okay to do so by dog breed? Some of the nicest dogs I know are pit bulls and some of the meanest don't have a single trace of pit bull. Grow up!
- Other: Vet the people buying the dogs better, its not the pitbull that's the issue, it's the Owners ineptness that is.
- Other: unfortunately you have taken a beautiful BREED of dog and tainted the breed with singling it out as a bad breed ,just awesome I've never been bitten or attacked by any of these wonderful breeds that you people yes YOU people singled out in this question SHAME on you, I have been attacked by little SHITZU many times that are off leash in public, but believe its not the dog its the uneducated owners its the pathedic owners
- Other: Understand that attacks happen with pit bulls in the vast minority, not make harsh rules for one of the least violent (yet powerful) dogs.

- Other: Treat pit bulls the same as every other dog!
- Other: Treat every dog the same don't single out pitbull type breeds
- Other: Treat all dogs the same and look into the reason why they bit!
- Other: Treat all dogs equal
- Other: Training the owner/human
- Other: Training should be for the owners. More often than not it is other dogs like labradors that have caused a hazard for our dog. We are witnesses to several dogs running around off-leash at Haultain Park and never once has a Bylaw Officer been down to check this out despite my complaints to 311. Any breed of dog is a nuisance or acts badly if it is not trained properly or the owner is not responsible or intelligent enough to control that dog. I think a person should have to go through training to get a dog licence. Bad vehicle training begets bad car drivers and there are plenty of those in the city.
- Other: Training required for the dog AND the owner. The owner is responsible for how the dog turns out and if they're not properly educated on how to train their dog properly then their dog is more likely to be a nuisance.
- Other: Training for nuisance dog owners... owners are the problem not the dog.
- Other: Train the owner to be a better owner then. They are the problem not the dogs.
- Other: Train the humans before restricting breeds. Its not the dog that is at fault its the humans.
- Other: To treat all dogs (INCLUDING PITBULLS) with respect.
- Other: To classify pit bulls as more dangerous because of their breed is absolutely disgusting. Shame on you for this. If a dog becomes an issue REGARDLESS OF BREED then there must be consequences. But it is RIDICULOUS to say all pit bulls are bad.
- Other: This whole thing is terrible. Pit bulls are not dangerous and shouldn't be treated so badly. Any of these bylaws are absolute [removed].
- Other: This type of talk feeds into the stigma and fear that people have against bully breeds. Every single dog breed, when put into the wrong hands or when trained inappropriately, can do major harm to others. It is ignorant to believe that bully breeds are the only breeds should be punished when any other animal is capable of harm. Additionally, some bully breeds have a shorter snout. If you were to implement a bylaw requiring muzzles for these breeds, suffering and harm can be done to these dogs as they already have breathing restrictions. A bylaw such as this, could lead to many harmful or even fatal complications. Please recognize the discrimination towards bully breeds that this potential bylaw has. We need to be making steps forwards, not backwards. Alternatively, ALL dogs should only be in the hands of responsible, committed owners.
- Other: This specific targeting of so called pit bulls helps no one and alienates lawful dog owners who care and love these breeds. If anything is to be done it should be pre- screening of potential owners. It is not the breed that is dangerous it is the humans who abuse these animals. German Shepard's are used as police dogs for a reason.
- Other: This shouldn't be targeted towards pitbulls. There's more to attacks than the breed of an animal.

- Other: This should not be imposed period. Shame on the city of Calgary at even thinking about imposing bylaws on bully breeds.
- Other: This should not be breed specific, its the ownership not the dog that affects its behaviour
- Other: THIS SHOULD NOT BE BREED SPECIFIC!!
- Other: This should NOT be breed specific! Many other dog breeds are just as likely if not MORE to bite or attack.
- Other: This should not be naming specific dog breeds at all!
- Other: This should not be a thing. This is uninformed discrimination that the city should not be proceeding with.
- Other: This should not be a municipal government, or any government, responsibility. These matters should be examined civilly by a court should a case be brought to court.
- Other: This should be for owners REGARDLESS of breed.
- Other: This should be a dog by dog basis. It makes no sense to muzzle or punish a whole series of breeds, golden retrievers bite more people than any other dog are you thinking of implementing these against them too? This needs to be dog by dog basis.
- Other: This section needs to be revised. I'm a staffy owner and this is not the case in terms of bite strength. Pound for pound a chihuahua and a dachshund have more bite power. I'm sick of breed specific scrutiny. A pit bull is a mix of various breeds and a blanket term for a square or blocky headed strong dog. I don't like to be discriminated against because of my dog's breed and appearance.
- Other: This section is entirely ridiculous.
- Other: This question is disgusting. Drop the BSL [removed].
- Other: This needs to be 2 separate questions...one about nuisance animals and one about pit bulls. If there are dogs that have multiple bites or multiple being at large then that is what I would consider a nuisance and make them pay higher fines and make them complete courses to become better owners and train their dogs. As for pit bulls I have never believed in breedism (like racism but against dog breeds). I have met so many pit bulls being in the vet industry that are amazing pets. The dog on Little Rascals was a pit bull. When things go wrong it goes wrong with the people....NOT the dogs.
- Other: This must be a joke you just seem any dog that looks like a pit bull a threat. Give me a break smaller dogs are most likely to bite people . This should be all dog breeds or none
- Other: This law is utterly stupid ! The dog is not the problem the owner is. Muzzling every dog doesn't solve the problem
- Other: This is whack. It's not the breed it's the owner.
- Other: This is unbelievable, you cannot declare Pitbulls a nuisance, they are wonderful dogs and let's not do what Ontario did and punish all owners because of a few. I will definitely not support this.
- Other: This is the stupidest thing I have ever read. "Pit bulls" are not the problem and labeling a variety of breeds nuisance just because of the way they look is ridiculous. Shame on you
- Other: THIS IS THE DUMBEST THING EVER!! Calgary you are becoming ridiculous.

- Other: This is targeting a breed. It's not the dog that is the problem with these issues it is the owner. If the dog is properly trained this should not be an issue. Sad to see the target being placed on a specific breed of dog.
- Other: This is simply not necessary! Pitties are some of the friendliest Dogs!!
- Other: This is rubbish. You can't seriously think that a small dog can not do serious damage with a bit right?
- Other: This is ridiculous and will lead to discriminatory adoptions resulting in poorer care and higher euthanasia rates of pitbulls. Cut it out.
- Other: This is ridiculous. Whoever thought of this bylaw is a moron. Thank you #freethepitty
- Other: This is ridiculous. Dogs that are aggressive should not go to dog parks but this is NOT specific to pit bulls or pitbull breeds.
- Other: This is ridiculous.
- Other: This is ridiculous, this is false information, if you want to use the excuse that pitbulls have the strongest jaw I expect Rottweilers German shepherds Dobermans and mastiffs to be included. Wow
- Other: This is ridiculous, pitbulls or any dog for that matter can be aggressive based on the owner. This is biased!
- Other: This is ridiculous, I do not support breed discrimination
- Other: This is ridiculous, discriminating against an entire breed of dog? If Pitbulls aren't involved in more biting accidents why introduce this law?
- Other: This is ridiculous! Pit bulls and the breeds listed above are not the issue. All dogs have the ability to be destructive and cause harm. Don't punish the dogs, punish all bad dog owners. Being breed specific is taking a step backwards. It would be extremely disappointing to see Calgary do this. How about other dogs with high prey drive that are equally destructive? If any of these are implemented, you are setting these dogs and owners up for failure because they don't have equal opportunity for training.
- Other: This is ridiculous! Its not the breed that is a problem..its the human who owns any breed with poor training. Don't single out specific breeds. Please do your research. This is very inappropriate
- Other: This is ridiculous! As mentioned BY YOU...there are no more incidents by pit bulls than other breeds. It's a fact that other breed are more aggressive. Should we ban labs??? Fine owners of aggressive dogs and stop making it about breed! Moronic.
- Other: This is ridiculous to only restrict pitbulls there are plenty of other large breeds that can do the same damage
- Other: This is ridiculous this is even being brought up.
- Other: This is repulsive on every level imaginable. Should we hold council to a higher standard and punish them more severely? I don't own one of these animals, but I find it repugnant that you'd treat a certain breed of dog differently. If this was a group of people... well you get the picture. Its all in how the dogs are raised & trained.
- Other: This is profiling !! Terrible bigotry and prejudice against an innocent animal. Owners should be accountable

- Other: This is not ok, its not the breed (pit bull is not a breed by the way) its then owners and training of any breed. All breeds can be dangerous not just one specific breed.
- Other: This is not fair to specify ONE breed. So I choose none of the above.
- Other: This is not an issue with breed. The city needs punish owners for any misbehaving dogs more firmly. Not just breed. BREED IS NOT THE ISSUE.
- Other: This is not a matter of breed! Any breed can be a "nuisance" or bite. This is unacceptable to even consider!
- Other: This is not a pitbull problem but a people problem. DOGS should all be listed as just that. Every dog can bite. No breed is more prone then an other! People need to be held accountable for there dogs action. If a small dog bites or a golden retriever or a bully breed they should be held to the same standard. There should be higher fines for any nuisance dog. This would include aggressive dogs at dog parks, unleded dogs in leash areas and any other bylaw related offences. I DO NOT agree to singling out a breed because the breed is not the problem the people are. Better training results in better dogs. If anything we should have more private dogs parks(city operated, would be revenue in city pocket) to insure dogs with bite history or aggression issues would not cause problems to people who have worked in training there dogs to be a good citizen..
- [removed]This is disgusting that this is even a topic. If anything goes into place about limited or forcing people to pay insurance for having one will result in riots and protests. This is absolutely disturbing.
- Other: This is horribly arbitrary and chihuahuas are more aggressive
- Other: This is highly prejudicial towards a certain breed of dog. Because I know you aren't going to consider small breeds as nuisances.
- Other: This is disgusting. A dog is a dog. The owner is the responsible party, not the pit bull.
- Other: This is disgusting. Quit wasting my taxpayer dollars on this legislation. Punish the problem owners, not the breed. Do you know that chihuahuas are on the top 10 most aggressive dog list?
- Other: This is disgusting! Wake up!! It's not the dog it is the owner! We will never love or visit Calgary again if you put this law into effect. THE CITY SHOULD BE ASHAMED!
- Other: This is disgusting stop blaming the dogs and blame the owners instead
- Other: This is discriminatory towards a specific breed. Not ok.
- Other: This is discrimination and should not be implemented solely to pertain to certain breeds
- Other: This is cruel punishment for animals that are deemed more potential for a dangerous bite by uneducated, bandwagon individuals. To specify a law against pit ills nearly invoked a Charter violation (which has precedent cases in being used to protect animals). Shame on you, your beliefs and this proposal for putting this forward. A better solution would be a mandatory mussel for animals that consistently show aggressive behaviour towards other people or animals in public areas. This is a bandwagon effort to rally support in a legal fashion for animals that do not get a say in how they are raised or taught.
- Other: This is crazy you are trying to discriminate against a dog breed
- Other: This is [removed]!! Why single out pit bulls?!! Why not the little mutt dog that is face level to a child that bites kids!?! Why not the crazy poodle/poodle coders?? Those are just as bad, if not worst! I do understand must people that get a Pitbull or Staffy, have no idea how to handle them & it goes bad for the dog, don't blame the dog! Blame the owner. It's how they are raised!!!

- Other: This is completely unnecessary. All dogs have the capability to bite. Pitbulls should not be stereotyped this way. They are loving dogs like any other breed.
- Other: This is completely offensive that you are targeting pitbulls like this! I do not even have a pitbull but I have friends with them and they are not problem dogs at all, they are loving sweet dogs. You're suggesting they all be muzzled and have mandatory training which costs lots of money EVEN IF THEY DONT NEED IT WTF IS WRONG WITH YOU?!
- Other: This is called Responsible Owners, make them responsible for nurturing kind & well behaved dogs of ALL breeds!
- Other: This is [removed]. Pit bulls are amazing dogs they don't deserve any of this.
- Other: This is [removed]. I know so many pit bulls that are nicer then little rat dogs
- Other: This is [removed]! Do you know how stupid you sound?!
- Other: This is breed discrimination. There is no need for the type of dog to be punished. The owner of said dog is the problem, therefore they should be punished. Pit bulls are not an aggressive breed.
- Other: this is breed discrimination! there is MULTIPLE studies against this. NO elected official in any other city has gone without severe scrutiny over this and will cost votes
- Other: This is blatant and unethical discrimination of dog breed. While I understand the premise of a strength of bite argument the reality is the small dogs/other dog breeds are involved in just as many incidents. Make bylaws that apply to ALL dogs or no dogs - breed discrimination is hideously outdated and short sighted.
- Other: This is animal cruelty no
- Other: This is an absolutely disgusting attempt to target dogs based on appearances and not temperament, poor ownership and abuse. I am disgusted that this is even being considered and the thought of this type of legislation should be abolished immediately
- Other: This is an absolute disgrace that you would even be targeting pit bulls it's not the breed but the OWNERS FAULT
- Other: This is all too ridiculous.
- Other: This is all ignorant and completely uneducated. Pit bulls, in fact, do not have a stronger bite force when compared to other breeds such as German shepherds. In testing it has been shown that they have a lower bite force than average. On top of that they also have a higher temperament passing score than the average (86% vs the average of 83%). The problem with aggressive Pit Bulls is largely a product of neglectful owners and breeders who raise them to be aggressive. Perhaps, instead of blaming the breed we hold the owners accountable. Implement a screening process for the owners of nuisance breeds and all breeds in general. Make obedience classes mandatory for puppies of all breeds to ensure proper socialization and reduce chances of aggressive behavior. Increase fines and punishments for those charged with neglect or abuse. Educate potential owners so they understand the amount of work that goes into caring for a new dog /puppy. Holding dog owners more accountable for the behavior and care of their dog will ultimately help reduce amount of dog attacks in general on top of reducing the number of strays and surrenders and reducing work of rescues, animal services and bylaw officers.

- Other: This is absolutely the most insane thing I have heard of. I would love the city to provide stats on dog attacks and the correlation it has with pit bull or pit bull looking dogs. This is discrimination at its finest and is the most unfounded potential Bylaw I have heard of. Why not ban dogs with a history of biting or aggression ? Why is it singled to a breed?
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous. You should be shamed for being so prejudice.
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous. You know when it really comes down to it this is being racist against pit bulls.. I have owned 2 Rottweilers (a [removed] of a lot more aggressive than pit bulls) and they were lap dogs. So [removed] this, this is [removed] and shouldn't even be a thing. Go look at owners into getting dogs, not the poor pups themselves because they have done nothing wrong. [Removed] you Calgary. [Removed] you [removed].
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous. Pit bulls themselves are not the problem. It's the people who raise them. Owners are in control of training their dogs so that they are raised appropriately. Pit bulls should not be biased against and forced into muzzles and extra fines and stuff just because of their breed. Pit bulls are sweet creatures that have gotten a very bad rap. There should be screening for owners and training for pit bulls. But not extra fines and forced muzzles. People will take advantage of these rules and just go crying wolf anytime a dog poops wrong or something. People are ridiculous and will abuse it
- Other: This is absolutely disgusting to read ! I love this city and to read this as an owner & having to fear that my dogs might have to be muzzled for no reason, is heartbreaking. I will definitely be moving if this is put into place, clearly the city knows nothing about pit bulls, what about Rottweilers or cane Corsos or German shepherds? German shepherds are trained to attack humans as well ?? Why not list them.
- Other: This is absolutely appalling to read. Pit bulls are not the problem, irresponsible pet owners are. Maybe people should be screened and have background checks before they're allowed to even own an animal. I have seen by far more vicious chihuahuas than any other dog. Maybe they should be muzzled and put down. Whoever even suggested this needs to do some research on pit bulls and you'll have a better understanding of how amazing of dogs they are. Get with the times, we are not discriminating against dog breeds anymore we need to look at human behaviour instead.
- Other: This is absolutely absurd. This ideology that pit bulls are more dangerous than other dogs is founded upon with no statistical proof!
- Other: This is absolute garbage Calgary !! If I felt my pitbull x needed a muzzle in public , I surely would . And can make that decision on my own !! Why should I traumatize my rescue dog even more than he has already endured in his first 2 years of life . Leave it up to the owner to decide if it needs muzzling in public . Do not pass this law !!!! And furthermore , the breed isn't the problem . Let's just make every dog have to wear a muzzle in public then !! Chihuahua, lab , pug . All of the above . Absolute garbage you are even considering this . Bologne City of Calgary ! Shame on you !!
- Other: This is absolute [removed], there's dogs with just as/ more powerful bites than pit bulls. Don't single out dogs, this is absolutely absurd

- Other: This is a ridiculous idea , it's unfair to the breed and the breed owners . There's people who have well TRAINED pit bulls . How about instead of muzzling the pit bulls you muzzle the owners . Also if you actually understood dog behaviour you would know that all dogs can't talk right..? They have to nip , bark or give certain body language to tell other dogs to STOP ..
- Other: This is a ridiculous bylaw if I ever saw one the fact that you are putting a bias on specific breeds is disgusting my dog was protected from doodles and German Shepards by pit bulls its disgusting that you would think of even putting a bylaw like this in the city its truly distur
- Other: This is a ridiculous question and is based on a fear of a breed that is not based in actual fact. Even in your question it is noted that they aren't involved in more incidents that other breeds and their bite strength is comprable to other large dog breeds.
- Other: This is a joke. Pit bulls have a history of being affectionate and LOVING dogs. If you're issuing any fines/taking any animal from a home you better be providing a rehab option/training option and you better be exploring the history of the dog. Most pitbulls have a history of being mistreated. How shameful to even consider this. I've been bit by more little dogs then anything.
- Other: This entire question is a complete bias and unacceptable. There are many other larger and stronger breeds than a pit bull and the city is allowing one breed to be unfairly represented in this question. Your beginning statement says there is no evidence of more bites from pit bulls and yet you are unfairly targeting this breed in this questionnaire. Shame on you.
- Other: This choices are much too vague and open to an individual interpretation. You are trying to pass what amounts to Breed Specific Legislation in Calgary. Calgary dog bylaws use to be used as a model for other jurisdictions. Now they are wanting to bring in draconian bylaws which are PROVEN not to be effective.
- Other: This BSL direction is disgusting. I cannot even honestly answer these questions with the discrimination in the questions
- Other: This attitude drives me crazy. The directives here have the wrong focus. It is not the animal that requires training it is the handler. Any dog can be a nuisance if the owner does not properly take responsibility. Small dogs are the worst. they aren't taught anything. If they are mishaving the owner picks it up instead of actually training it. I do not go to off leash parks because other owners do not control their dogs. It's not the dog's fault. People and children are not taught how to interact with a strange dog. Are there problem dogs yes but it is not breed specific. when I was a child I took away a dogs bone, he bit me. I never told my mom about it because I knew I was the one in the wrong.
- Other: This all seems like very old fashioned 20-year old thought. BSL is not the way. My dog was attacked by a German Shepherd mix rescue dog and a Golden Retriever. It's not the breed, it's the specific dog and lack of training and control by the dog's handler.
- Other: They are just like any other dog. They deserve to be treated just like any other. It's all on how the dog is raised. This is unfair and rude for the dog and should not be acceptable
- Other: These suggestions that are pit bull specific are disgusting. Do you not pride yourselves on living in a progressive city? Shame on you, discrimination is reprehensible in ALL of its forms. Why not regulate the German Shepherd or the Golden Retriever, two breeds consistently in the top for dog bites? Way to take a step backward Calgary. Bravo.

- Other: These suggestions are out of line and only give credibility to unproven theories about aggressive breeds. Also if a dog becomes a nuisance due to noise then it should be dealt with via the existing noise restrictions... not through labeling the dog as potentially dangerous.
- Other: These suggestions are [removed] and no necessary.
- Other: These suggestions are [removed] there is no scientific evidence that proves pitbulls are more vicious than other dogs the issue is with how they're being treated by their owners
- Other: These rules are ridiculous ideas, and without specifying what makes a nuisance dog I cannot even consider supporting any of these ideas. But pit bulls and other bully breeds are not the problem
- Other: These rules are [removed] just like the city its self
- Other: These options are ridiculous. Its not about the dog or the breed, it is the owner. If an owner raises their dog to be a nuisance, the owner should be punished. The breed should not be punished.
- Other: These notes about pit bulls are factual incorrect and incredibly ignorant. Any dog has the ability to cause severe damage with a bite regardless of size. It is the owner's responsibility. All of these notes show a lack of initiative to make owners responsible for training their pets and being informed dog owners
- Other: These items listed above are archaic and misguided. Dogs are products of their owners behaviour. Without competent and capable owners any dog can be dangerous and declared a nuisance. Instead of blaming the dog for their behaviour, focus on the owner. The owner should be held accountable for their dogs behaviour of/when an incident occurs. Blaming the dog is the easy way out and I think it is sheer laziness that is driving the City of Calgary to consider this course of action. Extremely disappointed. I thought you were better than this YYC.
- Other: These dogs are not the problem ! Its the owners ! If you want the violence to stop , stop allowing just anyone to own or buy a Bully bread. Train the PEOPLE who own these dogs . Criminalizing this breed due the negligence of the owner is not fair to one of the kindest and loving breed of dogs out there !
- Other: These bylaws should not be considered for only nuisance breeds but for all dogs. And really the ownness of the problem needs to be on proper care by the owner. Invest in training programs for all dogs, and owners. Require specific training to own a pit bull or nuisance dog in Calgary. But don't unfairly punish all dogs, because of a few cases of owner negligence and ignorance
- Other: These breeds should not be required to wear a muzzle!
- Other: These breeds are not necessarily the problem, but their owners! Any dog can be a nuisance
- Other: These are ridiculous and should not be in effect. Pit bulls are sweet, gentle animals. If the animal lashes out it is due to the owner NOT THE DOG.
- Other: These are all ridiculous. Pit bulls aren't the problem, they're just a breed of dog. As with any dog, behavioural problems are caused by the owners, or lack of knowledge from the owners part. Please stop penalizing dogs or certain breeds for the incompetence of humans. Please look within your own "human" community before passing the blame.

- Other: These are all [removed], this is pretty much being racist to the out bull breed. That breed itself is not violent it's the way certain owners have trained them. So the rest of the good should not have to pay extra just because some Joe blow trained their pit bull breed to be violent or a nuisance.
- Other: These all seem unnecessary?
- Other: These bully breeds are not the problem. Any animal isn't born to be aggressive; it is all on how the OWNER trains them and its the owner that should be held accountable not the dogs!
- Other: There shouldn't be any such thing
- Other: There should not be any breed specific legislation, it unfairly targets dogs when owners are the issue.
- Other: There should be no specific actions related to Pit Bulls they are the same as other dogs and should be treated as such.
- Other: There should be no regulations on this specific dog breed.
- Other: There should be no laws against pit bulls.
- Other: There should be no fines unless it is for ALL dog breeds. Limiting fines to just "pit bulls" is ridiculous and uneducated.
- Other: There should be NO discrimination against bully breeds... why not German Shepard then, why not Rottweilers, Doberman etc. this is EXTREMELY unfair and unjust. We have always had multiple pitbulls, with and around children NEVER any incidents at home, public, parks whatsoever. This is absolutely disgusting to discriminate against such good dogs.
- Other: There should be no bylaw specific to pit bulls. It is an irresponsible owner that is the problem. Any breed of dog can cause problems. Make all new bylaws apply to all different breeds of dogs. Do not discriminate against one specific breed. There are many responsible pit bull owners. A lot of pit bulls are good natured and have wonderful owners so I don't think they should have any bylaw specific to their breed.
- Other: There should be NO breed specific regulations. Behaviour of dog depends on responsibility of owner, and it is unfair to assume a dog will be violent based on the breed. Regulations should be made based on the specific dogs actions and not the breed in general.
- Other: There should be no breed specific legislation. This is discriminatory action and is unacceptable to even consider.
- Other: There should be no breed specific legislation. It negatively affects responsible owners, and is not effective.
- Other: There should be no Breed Specific Legislation. I am vehemently against this
- Other: There should be no breed specific fine, it's all the owner's responsibility and how they train the dog. Make obedience training for all owners. Fines for negligence on training pets.
- Other: There should be NO Breed specific bylaws. This is unacceptable the wording implies that there is a problem with the pit bull breed. The argument that they are stronger is false in comparison to Great Danes, st Bernards, Irish Wolfhounds, newfoundlanders etc. is frankly wrong. I don't support any measure that targets a dog based on breed alone. Shame on you! This starts with a backstory premise that the breed is the problem. False!

- Other: There should be no blanket bylaw based on a breed. This should be fines against the owner for not having control of their dog only. And banning a specific breed is disgusting.
- Other: There should be no action against particular breeds.
- Other: There should be more owner education and less breed discriminations. Other breeds can cause just as much harm, if a dog of any breed is showing signs of aggression it should be on leash at all times in public places.
- Other: There should be absolutely no BSL against pit bulls or bully breeds. This is absolutely ridiculous.
- Other: There is nothing wrong with Pitbulls its how the owner train the dog. Blame the owner not this specific breed. When I was going for a walk I just about got bitten by a little barking Mutt and the owner didn't say anything.
- Other: There is nothing wrong with Pit Bulls if under the care of a responsible owner. No additional actions towards those breeds should be applied. Penalize the owners, not the animals.
- Other: THERE IS NOTHING WRONG WITH DOGS. JUST HUMANS.
- Other: There is nothing inherently more dangerous about a pitbull than any other big dog. Specifying laws and rules against pitbulls and pitbull owners is wrong. This bylaw should say AGGRESSIVE DOG because that's what kind of animal you need to be preventing access to public parks. Don't breed discriminate!
- Other: THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS AN AGGRESSIVE BREED. DONT BULLY MY BREED.
- Other: There is no such thing as a bad dog, just bad owners! And please explain to me how is this different than racism? Other than the fact that its a different species, this bylaw would be prejudice towards pit bulls simply because they have stronger jaws than other dogs? The ONLY thing I'd recommend is looking into PEOPLE more diligently if they want to adopt a pit bull as there are horrible people out there who choose pit bulls and make them fighter dogs and take advantage of their strong jaws ... but that is NOT the dogs fault so why should they have to pay the price? Its the people we should be concerned about.
- Other: There is no reason to single out a dog. Owners are to blame for they're behavior. More people are bit by small dogs than pitbulls. It's not fair to muzzle a breed on a dog that has NEVER had to wear one.
- Other: There is no evidence that breed-specific laws make communities safer.
- Other: There is NO CORRELATION BETWEEN BULLY BREEDS AND INFLUX OF DOG BITES! Do not in force breed restrictions on pit bulls. Little dogs bite more and aren't reported.
- Other: There are no such thing as bad dogs!!! Just irresponsible and uneducated owners!! To single out a certain breed is ridiculous and incredibly insensitive!!!! Shame on you! Any dog can have mean trained in to them! In the same sense, ANY dog can be trained to be good!
- Other: There are many other types of dogs with far more powerful bites than pitbulls - German Shepards - ALMOST all mastiffs - Not to mention high content WOLF dogs. The language is offensive and racist. If anything you make owners for ALL dogs be more responsible. There are no bad dogs just bad owners!

- Other: There are many other breeds of dogs that have the potential for a more severe bite. This survey is just perpetuating the negative perception of the breeds you listed. The by law should apply to all dog owners of nuisance dogs (of ANY breed). Dog owners should be reprimanded for taking poor care in ensuring their dog is obedient.
- Other: There are many breeds that can be classified dangerous. I do not think that this breed should be called out for being aggressive and stereotyped because this has nothing to do with the dog. Its the person that owns the dogs. You cannot blame a breed for being failed by man.
- Other: Their should be NO bylaws against pitbulls as they is LITERALLY not evidence they are more of a bite hazard then any other dog! This is absolute garbage!!! Regardless all dog should be treated with the same approach
- Other: The problem is not The BREED. It is the HUMAN. Train the HUMAN.
- Other: The pitbull does not have the hardest bite or "lock jaw" some people say. They are normal dogs like others , the reason they are mean is how they are raised. So how about checking the owners if they are abusing the dog or if the dog was abused previously. Small dogs are the most aggressive, the bigger the dog the gentler. Do not single out a specific breed. We have bigger things to worry about like sex trafficking & rapists getting away with their crime. Do something to make Calgary safer, the dogs are the least concern.
- Other: The owners are the problem not the breed. You should not discriminate against breed who were in-fact nanny dogs. Any dog has a strong bite that does not justify extra bylaws against certain breeds.
- Other: The owner of the dog needs to be the one who is targeted not specific breeds. Its always on the owner to train the dog. Dogs just do what they are taught to do. The breeds should not be scrutinized as little dogs bite way more often just don't do as much harm.
- Other: THE OWNER OF THE ANIMAL SHOULD DO TRAINING! THE DOGS ARE RAISED AND BROUGHT UP BY HUMAN BEINGS WHO HAVE CONTROL OF PUTCOMES. BAD OWNERS EQUAL BAD DOGS.
- Other: the law is RETARDED
- Other: The language is too vague. Additionally all dogs can inflict bites. Discrimination against pit bulls is silly. Its dog owners that need to be fined and educated.
- Other: The information provided is false, Pitbulls do not have the strongest bite, bite strength is not necesarrily breed specific. A simple google search would show this. I am disapointed that the people in charge of animal welfare are uninformed about the animals they are prosicuting.
- Other: The fact the pitbulls or bully breeds have a bad rep, and this is the answer if you do look into it make it harder to get pets I personally have been bitten by more smaller dog breeds then larger breeds, the temperaments of each dog comes down to the owners, good bully breeds owners should not be punished for those who raise aggressive dogs, that's like saying that if you find one drug dealer in a neighbourhood everyone in that neighbourhood is a drug dealer
- Other: The fact that you are clearly uneducated in the strength of a bite as both German shepherds and Rottweilers have a stronger bite force than pit bulls means this absurd breed specific abuse is highly unacceptable by our elected city officials.

- Other: The fact that this is mostly about pit bulls is discriminating, as there are many small breed dogs that cause the same issues and nuisance level, yet are not mentioned above unlike how they have mentioned pit bulls multiple time
- Other: The fact that this is a question is beyond me. This is an owner problem, not a breed problem. Having a pet is a privilege not a right. Dogs and cat should be sprayed and neuter, and fines should be issued if they are not. There should be screening before anyone gets a dog, just like they do at the humane society. Pitbulls are highly intelligent and energetic dogs, just like border collies, German Shepard, sheepdogs. People that don't take care of their dogs don't deserve them.
- Other: The fact that pit bulls aren't involved at a high incident then any other breed of dog therefore it is wrong to single them out in bylaws. Also nuisance dogs needs to be defined better.
- Other: the designation of pitbulls as especially dangerous and the negative ways pitbulls are regulated is unjustified illogical unfair and abusive. any dog can inflict serious damage under some circumstances. pitbulls are not more aggressive than other dogs. they are often abused and mistreated to make them angry by a certain type of dog owner. it is those abusive ignorant owners that should be severely dealt with, not the mistreated dogs.
- Other: The definition of "nuisance" is so vague. Some people are scared of dogs and call bylaw on dogs that aren't posing a threat. There is way too much room for bias and dogs that look "dangerous" (like pitbulls) to be negatively impacted by bias and fear. All of these recommendations . Especially for pit bulls that have no history of bad behaviour.
- Other: The city should pay to have dogs Embark DNA tested for result if ypure going to pull this [removed]. BSL is stupid, there are FAR more nery herding breeds that have a higher bite chance than most Bully bred mutts. An American Pit Bull terrier is a rare breed, and I bet you don't even have any in all of Calgary. Just uneducated people who think they know whats best.
- Other: The city should have no right to restrict innocent dogs
- Other: The city needs to focus on educating owners rather than targeting specific breeds of dogs. All dogs can be reactive, it is up to each owner to know their dog and be responsible for its behaviour.
- Other: The Bully Ban idea is extremely wrong and inconsiderate towards those that have them as companions. Very wrong to suggest that their breed is aggressive.
- Other: The breeds are not the issue owners are for all sizes/breeds of dogs. If you are to make a bylaw it should be a owner must take a proper dog ownership class so they can train said animal to not be aggressive ive been snapped at and shown more aggressive natural from small dogs then large ones.
- Other: The breed is not the issue it should be the owner held accountable, when licensing an animal the owner should require a criminal check and breeder/seller information should be required so that the city can begin to look into bylaws to regulate breeders and sellers who are not following laws or potentially stealing as well. Once again this issue is not breed related but more so owner related if any dog is involved in bylaw offences the owner should then enrol themselves and their dog in obedience and training classes, however it should not be breed specific
- Other: The breed has nothing to do with the behavior. Its all in the owner the fact that you are doing anything to dog is ridiculous and no I don't own a pit bull.

- Other: The breed of the dog isn't the problem. It's the owner and how they are trained
- Other: The breed of the dog has no place in this survey. You need to reassess this policy. If there is an issue with improperly trained dogs look to the owner not the breed.
- Other: The blatant targeting of pit bull and larger type dogs is discriminatory. Animal behavior is a proven reflection of training.
- Other: The assumption that Pit Bulls "nuisance dogs" is a dangerous generalization and if ANY of the above is actually accepted as a bylaw it should apply to ALL dogs (but this shouldn't be a bylaw): strength is subjective. Equality should be shown across the board, right? - If that seems ridiculous, maybe consider that the measures listed above are bias. Until we're fining every human being for harming any animal (and don't forget to fine those who profit from the rape and murder of farm animals!!!), how is it that "nuisance dogs" are at the forefront of the city's concerns?
- Other: The above is absolutely ludicrous. Breeds are not the problem. Owners are the problem. If you're concerned about dog bites, make it mandatory for dog owners and their dogs to go through training. Singling out a breed is not productive. If a specific dog (any breed) is the aggressor in any physical harm there should be consequences but no more and no less depending on the breed.
- Other: That you don't discriminate a breed of dog. There are many other Nuisance dogs. Chihuahuas have an always will be worse with their attitude
- Other: That is bigotry!!! It is the owner's responsibility. There should be stricter rules on owners and breeders. Their lives matter.
- Other: Targeting the bad owners not blaming the dog breed based on previous history
- Other: Target specific owners, not breeds! Muzzling a dog at an off leash park due to nuisance title is stupid if its nuisance caused by excessive barking. All dogs need to be treated fair- just as you wouldn't judge a human don't be assuming its a vicious dog because of its breed. More repeat offences by all means higher fines but not simply because of the breed.
- Other: Take your questions and shove them up [removed] [removed].
- Other: Take the pit bull out of all of these recommendations and have this apply to every dog. No breed specific legislation. As a groomer I've been bitten numerous times and not one has been by a bully breed.
- Other: Take the [removed] out of your [removed] and Put them into [removed] of people who actually believe pit bulls dogs and owners should be [removed]
- Other: Support NONE of these. This is ridiculous as BSL has been proved ineffective.
- Other: Strictly basing this off of pit bulls is disgusting, it is all owner based. People showing signs of being a poor dog owner should be muzzled and not allowed in off leash parks as they are a nuisance just like you're claiming an innocent dog. [removed]
- Other: Stop trying to punish owners of specific breeds. Council is consistently overstepping its role and needs to back off.
- Other: STOP TRYING TO BULLY BREEDS, ITS THE OWNERS LACK OF RESPONSIBILITY, NOT THE BREED, DO SOME RESEARCH, IF THESE WERE PEOPLE THIS WOULD BE A RACIAL ISSUE, THE OWNER IS RESPONSIBLE FOR HOW A DOG ACTS IN PUBLIC, NOT THE DOG OR THE BREED! WHAT KIND OF CASH GRABBING, CIVIL RIGHT STEALING LOAD OF DOG

[removed]. I DONT PAY MY TAXES FOR MY POLITICAL LEADERS TO SQUABBLE OVER AN ISSUE THEY VERY CLEARLY DO NOT CARE TO UNDERSTAND, THIS IS A DISGRACE, THIS IS UNLAWFUL, THIS IS EMBARRASSING THAT THE CITY I CALL HOME CAN EVEN CONSIDER SUCH A DISCRIMINATORY BILL. YOU SHOULD BE ASHAMED OF YOURSELVES.

- Other: Stop targeting pitbulls you fools, there is nothing wrong with the breed itself, but the owners. Any dog will be aggressive if it has an aggressive owner. Just like humans. You have a [removed] parent, you are more likely to end up [removed] yourself. Open your damn eyes.
- Other: Stop targeting one breed. There's no bad ogs, only bad owners. Alot of the time it's fear related aggression, because owners believe abusing an animal into submission is okay. The most issues with dogs ive had are the size of rats, chihuahuas and [removed]. Not bigger breeds, and it's pathetic that the City or anyone for that matter cannot understand that concept.
- Other: Stop targeting breeds and focus on owners
- Other: stop specifying pitbulls as aggressive dogs. take a look at the owners and not the dogs. its so wrong to single pitbulls out, and it really isnt fair. will fight for them every single day until i die.
- Other: Stop specifying on a breed. All or nothing. We don't discriminate people on breed, why do we for dogs? We don't convict people before a crime has happened, don't change it for dogs.
- Other: Stop singleing out pitpulls! As you said they don't cause any more damage than other dogs this is rediculous.
- Other: Stop saying pit bulls are dangerous animals. They can be trained like any other breed. Shame.
- Other: Stop punishing the dog for irresponsible owners. I've seen more little dogs bite people then pit-bull breeds
- Other: Stop picking on pit bulls. There are no bad dogs, there are bad owners.
- Other: STOP PICKING ON A SINGLE "BREED" Anyone who does this has no understanding of dogs.
- Other: stop making stupid laws that only line the pockets of the politicians who implement them and make no actual change in society.
- Other: Stop judging just the pitbulls , its not just that breed,
- Other: Stop it! BSL is nonsense and I'm so disappointed our city would even consider this. I say NO NO NO to BSL of any form in Calgary.
- Other: Stop insisting pitbulls are the issue, and fine the owners. It has been proven time and again that pitbulls are not any sort of problem simply because of their breed, and that any problems come from negligent owners. Your insistence on weaving dog related pseudoscience into this survey, to the detriment of all dogs, is proof you have no idea how to filter public outrage, and educate yourselves on the issue at hand.
- Other: Stop identifying breeds of dogs as high risk it is the owners responsibility to ensure their dogs are trained fine the owners And rehabilitate the dogs
- Other: STOP HATING ON PITBULLS!!!! Regulations should be put in place for dog OWNERS not dog breeds.
- Other: Stop grouping all bully breeds together as "pitbulls" it's not even a real breed

- Other: Stop going after pit bull breeds. It is a [removed] cop out made by uninformed people. Maybe look at any dog that is a risk. If you can't do that, leave it how it is and worry about figuring out how to fix the rest of this broken city.
- Other: Stop discriminating against pit bulls! Just stop letting people adopt or purchase dogs with criminal records!! Its the owners that make a pit bull breed look bad! STOP discriminating against a poor animal who just wants love !!!!!!!!!!!!!
- Other: Stop discriminating against dogs! There should be no legislation based on breed! If you are responsible dog owner it doesn't matter what type of dog you own.
- Other: STOP DISCRIMINATING AGAINST CERTAIN BREEDS. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH. THATS ABSOLUTE BULLSHIT. THERE ARE NO BAD DOGS, ONLY BAD OWNERS. I frequent dog parks, and have NEVER had a problem with a pit bull, I however, have had my dog attacked by those tiny white shitzu things, and labs, ITS BAD OWNERS
- Other: Stop discriminating against certain breeds
- Other: Stop demonizing certain breeds of dogs. It's the owners fault
- Other: Stop demonizing a breed for their owners mistakes
- Other: Stop bullying a breed that was known as the nanny dog. Its not the dog, its the owner, stop blaming the wrong end of the leash. If you require breed specific training you best be paying for it.
- Other: Stop BSL. Maybe start fining the owners. Make them take responsibility for their pet !!!
- Other: Stop breed shaming. This is [removed] ridiculous.
- Other: Stop breed shaming. Its people who raise bad dogs. If you are serious about breed shaming, make people who are trying to save these dangerous dogs prove that they are knowledgeable and capable of owning a dog. I've been bitten by two dogs before, one was a golden retriever & the other a black lab. Never once a pit bull. My dad has his thumb bitten off by a different golden retriever. So please take into consideration that people raise aggressive dogs, not vice versa. You cannot define a dog by its breed. Shameful.
- Other: STOP BREED DISCRIMINATION
- Other: Stop blaming pit bulls for having bad owners.
- Other: Stop blaming pit bulls for having bad owners
- Other: Stop being [removed] about Pitbulls! Do not ban this animal. It is the owners responsibility to train the dog properly not the dogs fault
- Other: steep fines for irresponsible dog owners. German Shepard and many large breed dogs have the ability to do just as much damage. Its the irresponsible owners fault not the animal. ow
- Other: Start subsidizing humane society's, prevention is key. Punishment does not help.
- Other: Start looking into who owns a dog ie pitbull and make them take courses on how to properly train and handle a dog!! Look into their history for abuse! Do not let bad people have dogs!! Its not the dogs fault. It's the owners, dogs aren't bad they are taught to be bad!! Do more screenings when it comes to people adopting or buying dogs!! Make people accountable. It's not the breed, it's the owners. Start making the real monsters pay the price. Not an animal that's sole purpose in life is to love you unconditionally

- Other: Specific breed should not be singled out. Over the years different breeds have been issues and the owners were not singled out. This survey is if it appears to be a pit that is not the way to assess a dog. A dog's behavior no matter what breed it the concern. If you are demanding training you need to specific, aggressive trainers do not train. If we are concerned about of leash behaviours what about dogs that charge up to everyone creating chaos? This is not written by dog smart people it is written in fear and a lack of knowledge.
- Other: Specific breed banning or regulations is absurd. It is the OWNER that needs proper training and education.
- Other: Speaking as a vet tech, bully breed dogs don't need to be discriminated against as they are often very sweet and gentle dogs. Any legislation that would put restrictions on this specific breed is unfair and would result in a lot of perfectly great animals not having a loving home as they deserve to.
- Other: So sad as a society we would consider breed specific nonsense. It should be a dangerous dog nothing to do with the dogs breed. Bullies are by far the most loving loyal dogs
- Other: So much for this being a free country. You should put a muzzle on the morons that came up with this [removed].
- Other: So if we make a crazy bylaw like this for animals should we do the same for whatever race in humans is deemed more dangerous!!!! You people are unbelievable!!! This coming from a non pit bull owner
- Other: Smaller dogs can also we nuisanced.We cannot generalize even though there is no sufficient evidenc. Don't punish bully breeds because some owners fail to train their dogs adequately! This is discriminating against dogs merely because they appear more intimidating with no indication they are actual threats
- Other: Singling out 'pit bulls' is wrong. It's about the owner, not the dog. And the same could be said for german sheppards, rotties, boxers, etc. In my experience, I've been bit more times by a small dog than a medium or large breed dog. Essentially, the issue comes down to the owners and the dog shouldn't be punished for that.
- Other: Singling out pit bull breeds is discriminatory, more focus to negligence of ownership then the breed of dog.
- Other: Singling out "pitbulls" or bully breed dogs is ridiculous! We know BSL does not work, so why try to enforce such a ridiculous bylaw!!!! I own the most sweetest, gentlest, kindest, most loved and loving "pitbull" type dog. She is amazing!!!! This is racism! Just throw this in the garbage!
- Other: Similar to obtaining a gun license. If you adopt a dog that has the potential to be, "a nuisance," then owners should be required to take an aptitude/liscense test. From there forward they sign a document stating should an incident occur, fines and/or jail time (animal abuse) should the animal attack. Depending on circumstance. It is not the nature of the animal, but those who adopt.
- Other: Shouldn't be breed specific.
- Other: Shouldn't single out the pitbull breed ! Its the owner not the dog !
- Other: Should not be targetting specific breeds. Rotties have just as strong jaws. Any dog can be a possible risk. It is all dependent on the dog owner.more worried about little dogs that go on the defense faster than the larger breeds. Need to be looking at the owners. Not all people should be allowed to have dogs. Lack of knowledge on how to properly train, or getting breeds that are not suited for city live. Example border collies are meant for cattle work not city life. Can result in behavior issues if dog is not in doing what they are meant tonne doing.

- Other: Should be on a case by case basis and not dependent on the breed. The owner should always be accountable for the dog even if the dog displays bad behaviour.
- Other: Shame on the City of Calgary for inciting breed specific bylaws. Pitbulls are very kind companions. You should assess smaller dogs and their aggression levels and have higher fines for small dogs.
- Other: SERIOUSLY??? wow. Did you know that GERMAN SHEPHERDS HAVE STRONGER BITES THAN THE PITBULL BECAUSE THEY ARE BRED FOR IT (POLICE DOGS) Guys you are better than this. This is [removed] ridiculous. Please do not put anything through since you guys are the most uneducated pieces of [removed] I have seen in a long time. WOW just [removed] WOW. I am ashamed to [removed] live in calgary.
- Other: Same measures for politicians who create these archaic rules
- Other: Rottwilers, Mastiff's, St. Bernard's, Irish Wolfhounds are all very strong dogs. So why is it only pitfalls on your list. Seems less like actually trying to help people & more of a witchhunt against pitties.
- Other: Rottweilers have the toughest bite at 328 pounds of force, then German Shepherds at 238 pounds of force, finally Pitbulls at 235 pounds of force. Pit bulls jaws DO NOT lock, by comparing their skulls to other dogs you see they are similar and they do not have the mechanisms to lock their jaws. This legislation against pit bulls is absurd and only further pushes myths and negative stereotypes. Please educate yourselves.
- Other: Responsibility of owners to train animals properly as there is no specific breed engaged in violent behaviour when trained and treated properly.
- Other: Required training for a dog that has bit someone. Making sure the bite isn't the humans fault first before taking drastic measures.
- Other: Require specific training for the owner of these dogs rather than blame the dog. RESPONSIBLE owners should not have to suffer because of the handful of irresponsible owners
- Other: REQUIRE OWNERS TO GO THROUGH TRAINING IF AND WHEN A PROBLEM OCCURS. THERES DOGS WITH A MORE SEVERE BITE THAN BULLY BREEDS BELIEVE IT OR NOT.
- Other: Removing biased options in this survey which infer that pit bulls are nuisance animals and dangerous. This is discriminatory against the breed, while they do possess significant strength they are no stronger than other large breeds such as Rottweilers. I would propose and ownership ban of nuisance dog owners who have repeat nuisance animals. Including increased insurance, increased licence fees, required muzzles etc. This survey is nothing short of pandering to the current and frankly ridiculous bias against the breed.
- Other: Remove Pit bulls from this exception if they are not causing more bites as noted above. Why single them out because they have more strength? Or include every single breed of dog over 50lbs.

- Other: REMOVE pit bull from the problem or nuisance dog language. It is discriminatory. ALL breeds of dogs can be nuisance dogs.
- Other: Quite frankly, i feel like this whole thing is [removed]. It has nothing to do with the breed but the poor ownership. You guys are using it as an excuse that it has to do with their strength? Funny because I know multiple people with pit bulls & multiple people with other larger breed dogs and needless to say, all the other dogs have been stronger. I've been in pulling classes with my Husky and pit bulls are not the strongest. You need to stop caring so much about what the media says and learn your facts.
- Other: Put the onus on the owner REGARDLESS of the breed!!!!!!
- Other: Put bulls are not a violent breed. Saying that they are stronger is uneducated. German Shepards have a stronger bite. Golden retrievers are more likely to bite. This is fear mongering.
- Other: Punish the owner, not a specific breed. Pitbull lives matter too!
- Other: Punish the OWNER not the dog. It's never the dogs fault.
- Other: Punish individual dog and owners
- Other: Provide training for dogs labeled a nuisance. Don't discriminate against specific breeds. Lots of dogs are strong, that doesn't speak to their character. Offer training classes if you actually want to address the problem (with all aggressive dogs) instead of punishing owners and pets who haven't done anything.
- Other: Provide opportunities for low cost quality dog behaviour training for dog owners.
- Other: Provide funding to have all dogs trained. I have been attacked more and seen more attacks and barking come from small dogs!
- Other: Proper pet ownership and training courses for OWNERS who dont train their dogs to avoid nuisance behaviours.
- Other: Please stop penalizing the breed when you should be penalizing the untrained owners.
- Other: Please stop discriminating against pitbulls. I reject every change based solely on breed.
- Other: please stop criminalizing one dog breed! I oppose and will vote against any municiple official found supporting criminalization of any dog breed.
- Other: Please remember YOU are supposed to be the informed professional. Never loose site of that. Public opinions are... interesting, but many people responding are the fools that require our municipality to need rules about pets. Stop debasing the intellect of your organization by even talking in a National Enquirer scope about a topic you should be vastly better educated in.
- Other: Please refrain from breed-specific laws. Also distinguish between dogs declared a nuisance and dogs who have attacked people and create muzzle and insurance bylaws accordingly. Doesn't make sense for a dog who barks a lot to require a muzzle.
- Other: Please do not target certain dogs based on out dated info and myths. All dog breeds should be held to the same standard. Absolutely ridiculous
- Other: Please DO NOT single out pit bull types. Any dog can be dangerous and feeding into the pit bull myths will not help anyone. Lumping any dog that sort of looks like a pit bull type breed into a "dangerous animal" category is discriminatory and has been proven to have horrible consequences when trying to enforce. I have been a proud supporter of Calgary's logical approach to dangerous dog bylaws as they treated all dogs the same. I am not a pit bull owner but I can not support any breed specific legislation! Please remove any breed specific wording from your proposal! A vicious dogs owners should be held accountable for their dogs behavior regardless of the breed.

- Other: Please DO NOT judge a dog by it's breed. I do not support breed specific legislation
- Other: Place greater emphasis on responsible ownership of dogs, including training, understanding dog body language, treating the dog well, knowing what this specific dog can or cannot do, etc.
- Other: Pitbulls were once used as nanny dogs protectors. There's no reason to ban them. Its not the dogs fault when people train them and abuse them to be vicious that's on certain people and inbreeding.
- Other: Pitbulls should not have any others laws then other breeds
- Other: Pitbulls should NOT have any of this on them. Calgary is better than to single out a single breed. This is ridiculous. My dog has been attacked three times at the dog park. NEVER by a pitbull. I agree with none of those.
- Other: Pitbulls should not be the only dog in this list of we're talking about causing serious damage. Any dog breed can cause this if they are not trained. Please do your research and stop attacking the breed.
- Other: Pitbulls should be allowed to be treated like a normal dog. Chihuahuas should be muzzled and have higher fines as they are a nuisance dog
- Other: pitbulls aren't nuisance breeds :) why isn't a chihuahua on there then? they bite
- Other: pitbulls aren't dangerous. maybe you should be looking into terrible owners instead.
- Other: Pitbulls are very friendly dogs. The problem is owners. Don't punish dogs because people don't know how to properly train. Have a more extensive background check to adopt or rescue ALL dogs!
- Other: Pitbulls are not the problem. Higher fines for people with animals! Obedience classes for anyone with a dog not breed specific. This is the most disgusting survey. The dogs are not the problem their owners are the problem!!!!!!!!!!!!
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM! It's the people who can't be bothered to train or prepare for living with a dog. I've been attacked more times then I can count by small happy dogs and I don't see you wanting to muzzle them! This is complete bs
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM
- Other: Pitbulls are not the issue. Owners are. Grow up Calgary. Pitbulls are some of the most loving dogs. Your viewpoints on Pitbulls is [removed].
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT DANGEROUS, ITS THE OWNERS. THIS IS RIDICULOUS. ITS 2020 GUYS.
- Other: Pitbulls are no more dangerous then any other dog!!! This whole thing is dumb!
- Other: Pitbulls are fine. It's the owners who are at fault most of the time. Perhaps a common sense and aggression test for the people who wish to own pitbulls. Or maybe if someone owns a pair of Oakley sunglasses, they aren't allowed to own a pitbulls since that combination never ends well.
- Other: Pitbulls are DOGS- A breed of dog- that is NOT THE PROBLEM. The owners are the problem!

- Other: Pitbulls are amazing dogs. it is up to how the owner trains them. these measures singles out pitbulls and doesn't address the issue of having the proper owner.
- Other: Pitbulls and other larger dogs should not be discriminated against due to their breeds, its a bad owner not a bad dog.
- Other: PITBULLS AND LARGE DOGS ARE HARDLY EVER THE PROBLEM ITS THE TINY LITTLE DOGS THAT ARE THE PROBLEM MOST OF THE TIME OR BAD OWNERS!!! Do not blame breeds for bad owners
- Other: Pitbulls / pitbull breeds are not the problem. The owners are the problem. Ban bad owners. I don't care if you have to assess someone's criminal history to do it. Bad people make bad dogs. Stop being a breed bully! I've been bit by more small dogs; terriers, chihuahua, poodle, etc than any large breed in my life. Disclaimer, I've never, NEVER, been bit by a large breed or a pitbull.
- Other: Pitbull breeds have absolutely nothing to do with anything of the listed above. The owner itself should be taken into account. There are TONS of aggressive dogs out there that are not of the pitbull breed and can produce a bite just as severe. It is ridiculous to seclude this to one specific breed.
- Other: Pit bulls should require NO SPECIAL LAWS, a dogs nature is in its training not in its breed. Your setting a dangerous precedent with even suggesting this.
- Other: Pit bulls Should not be specifically targeted or punished more harshly than other breeds. Any dog has the potential to bite regardless of size or breed.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out. This is based on poor ownership vs the breed of dog. Do not enhance the fines specifically because of their breed over their behaviour and their owners lack of responsibility
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out. They may have a stronger bite but all pit bulls I know have been the most gentle babies. All they want is love and attention.
- Other: Pit Bulls should not be singled out for this bylaw as ALL breeds have the potential to be aggressive and cause harm. This is discrimination to pitbull breeds and this is unreasonable as this breed - if you know them - is a loving, affectionate and family dog. It is ignorant to think that only pit bulls are being pegged for this. Again - ALL breeds of dogs obedience is based on their training not their breed. German Shepards can be aggressive. Heelers can be aggressive. Bull dogs can be aggressive. Ridge backs can be aggressive. Mastiffs can be aggressive. Collies can be aggressive. Chihuahuas can be aggressive. ANY DOG has the potential to be aggressive. There should not be restrictions. IF you feel the need to create safety precautions implement training options not banning and increasing costs or implementing discriminatory actions. This is beyond ignorance towards dogs. Learn and look beyond speculations and stereotypes.
- Other: Pit Bulls should not be singled out at all since many other breeds are responsible for dog bites as well!
- Other: Pit bulls should not be single out at all. Its small minded to believe pitbulls are the strongest and most powerful. Its be proven scientifically that they are, as well as maintaining a more calm demeanor than 90% of other breeds. If you believe that all humans should be treated fairly. You'd believe that all animal breed and dog breeds should as well.

- Other: Pit bulls have the 19th hardest bite in dog species. There's ZERO reason to pick on that breed.
- Other: Pit bulls have been discriminated against as a stronger or worse breed for years. This is ridiculous. Any dog can be bad or bite or be aggressive if its not trained properly. Invest in programs that help owners with abused pets get professional training that is affordable. Discrimination against one breed is so outdated and its very clear that there has been little to no research that has been done on the breed prior to having this legislation brought up.
- Other: Pit bulls do not even Rank in to 5 for dogs with the strongest bites an do not deserve to be fined based on the stigma people have about them as you have even specified they do not report more biting incidents
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem. Ignorant people who don't control their dogs are.
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem and being bylaw you should already know this. It would be discriminatory to assume such a bylaw.
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem. Breed specific bans don't work. In Ontario they banned pit bulls and now there are more attack by other breeds. Its the owners. Whether they are bad owners or just aren't prepare for the needs of the breed. Don't ban the breed!!!
- Other: Pit bulls are some of the friendliest dogs you meet at dog parks etc. Small dog seem to nip more than large dogs but get away with it bc of their size. Not fair to blame and charge more for Pit Bulls when in fact any breed can bit etc it all comes down to the owner and how they raise the dog. Why not say all breeds before adopting or buying from a breeder must have the buyer attend education classes. Because the problem is not the breed but the owners.
- Other: Pit bulls are not vicious. The most vicious dogs I have found are smaller dogs like chihuahuas. Fine bad dog owners, not "bad" breeds.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem. They are not problematic and the fact that these questions are even on here is the absolutely unacceptable. Putting a breed or similar looking to a breed just creates fear and is not just to owners or dogs. It is not okay to single out breeds and even worse to single out dogs that look similar. I have a Belgian malinois. She looks similar to a german shepherd. But she is not a German shepherd. The majority of people mistake her for one which is fine normally. But it wouldn't be fine if these questions were being asked about a German shepherd. I'm very disappointed in the city for even posing these questions.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem. People are. Plenty of other working dogs can bite harder and are more aggressive if trained poorly. ANY type of pit bull ban would be a terrible idea. The idea that they have more potential to do damage than other dogs is comple nonsense.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem. People are. Make it mandatory for people to take an obedience class prior to issuing a dog licence.
- Other: Pit Bulls are not the problem BSL does not work.It has been proven in municipalities over and over.Education is key not restrictions on breeds based on appearance.
- Other: Pit bulls are NOT the problem
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem

- Other: Pit bulls are not the issue. The issue is the owners of these animals are not training breed specific. Stop putting the blame on pits and bully breeds!!!
- Other: Pit bulls are not the issue, they are loving dogs like any other dog breed. Humans are almost always the issue...
- Other: Pit bull's are not problems, bad owners are. Owners should go through proper screening before being allowed to own this breed or any.
- Other: pit bulls are not dangerous in any sense. Its the owners that create a poor behaved or nuisance dog.
- Other: Pit bulls are not a nuisance. Make sure pet store and shelters investigate the person who buys it. This is discrimination towards animals. The owner is the problem. Not the dog. Make your research and stop accusing dogs.
- Other: Pit bulls are not a nuisance. I have been attacked by more small dogs than big dogs.
- Other: Pit bulls are no more dangerous than other breeds. This is disgusting and I Calgary should be ashamed.
- Other: PIT BULLS ARE GREAT DOGS YOU [removed] [removed]
- Other: Pit bulls are great dogs
- Other: Pit bulls are a lovely breed of dog. The problem is irresponsible owners regardless of the type of breed. Pitbull should not be targeted for breed specific penalties. There are no bad dogs just bad owners.
- Other: Pit bulls and pit bull type dogs are not nuisances
- Other: Pit bull breeds are not the problem! It's all in how you train them, I've only ever had small dogs attack my dog, pit bull breeds should not be singled out.
- Other: Pit bull are not the problem, education and law I of training maybe but not specific to single out a breed. I feel that all dog owners should be responsible to prove obedience training when registering their dog and be charged a penalty if unable too.
- Other: Pet owners should avoid off leash/dog areas if they know their dog is not good with other people or dogs.
- Other: Pet owners of nuisance dogs should be fined and assessed on their pet ownership abilities.
- Other: Pet owners are the issue not breed specific
- Other: People attack people, animals attack animals and animals attack bad people. If an animal attacks look at the home situation before discriminating against dog breeds, its 2020 don't move backwards move forward and be more considerate to situations and investigate better.
- Other: Paid lessons or classes for dogs declared a nuisance
- Other: Owners should pay higher fines for lack of control over their dogs, regardless of breed, whether their dog attacked or even killed another dog or is demonstrating aggressive behaviour in public (off leash areas included). Dogs that fit this description should be muzzled for everyone's safety.
- Other: Owners should have to be trained to be good dog owners it is not always the dogs fault .All breeds of dogs have the potential to be a nuisance especially if they have bad owners

- Other: Owners of dogs who have exhibited problem behavior should have to take obedience classes.
- Other: Owners of dogs who become nuisances should have to go through training. Pit bull DO NOT need to be banned
- Other: Owners need training. All dogs should be leashed except on private property or in the wild.
- Other: Owners need to be held responsible for how they treat and train an animal! It is not the responsibility of the animal or the breed! I've seen small dogs that cause just as much damage but people think they're so cute they don't complain! Anything beyond a first offender should have an animal removed. Not a breed specific ban or extra fee. This is ridiculous!
- Other: Owners make bad dogs! Hold the owners accountable!!!
- Other: Owners are the problem not the dog
- Other: Our dog has only ever been attacked by non-pitbull style dogs (westhighland terrier, Jack Russel terrier & German Shepherd) this whole section is offensive and racist that pitbulls are singled out.
- Other: Only owners capable of training a loving a dog should own one regardless of breed... enough with the singling out certain breeds, it's the owners fault not the dog
- Other: Only Neutered/spayed dogs at dog parks.
- Other: Only dogs who have actually attacked should be put through obedience classes and the owner should be looked at and if issues continue the dog should be adopted out. Not based on breed as it is due to training and not breed.
- Other: Offer owners access to resources for training when they register their dog. It shouldn't be breed specific, we have come across dogs at the off leash park that were not pitbulls but aggressive. Toys may not be permitted at off leash? Many dogs may be toy aggressive, not a specific breed. Also offering a preferred trainer (city partners with organization) as I've heard PetSmart is not as good of a training facility as (Kayenna).
- Other: Offer dog training services at a reduced fee and penalize the OWNER NOT THE DOG. Owners are the problem not dogs.
- Other: Off leash parks should be banned until everyone trains their dog to be polite with other dogs, otherwise there sre way too many unnecessary incidents in those parks
- Other: Obedience training should be required for ALL dog owners within 2 years of obtaining the dog.
- Other: Obedience training required for dogs declared a nuisance after several offenses.
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL DOGS. All dogs can have problems, but the owners should be required to be trained in responsible dog ownership.
- Other: Obedience training required for all dogs in the city. Small dogs can be highly aggressive and provoke other dogs or trigger a prey drive in other dogs when the panic and run. I am the most afraid of dogs who have inattentive owners. Dogs under 20 lbs may not be suitable for off leash parks.
- Other: Obedience training only mandated if the dog has a previous history of nuisance of violence.

- Other: Obedience training for dog bites. THOUGH all dog bite cases should be reviewed for 'at fault' (dog vs. human, ex. Owner said please don't touch and stranger did it anyway, not knowing dog was defensive/in pain/scared/etc.).
- Other: Obedience training for all dogs, not just Pitbulls
- Other: Obedience training for ALL dogs in the city. Small dogs are not a suitable fit for off leash dog parks. I am most concerned of any dog with an inattentive owner. Breed is not the issue, owners are.
- Other: Obedience training for aggressive dog, including little ankle biters (ie..Chihuahua)
- Other: NOTHING. THIS IS A [removed] RESPONSE TO NOTHING. THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING WRONG WITH THESE DOGS. IT SHOULD BE ANY DOG THAT BITES NOT BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION. IF YOU WANT TO MENTION THESE DOGS, THEN ALL DOG BREEDS SHOULD BE MENTIONED. This bylaw is BS and you all need to really give your head a shake to think that only this dog breed is a problem! You obviously didn't talk to any experts. How about the dog that used to be a lion killer (not a pitbull btw) The boxer looks like one, are they exempt because they aren't the list? Oh how about the fact that this phase didn't actually consult anyone and it's biased? Did you know that a Shepard actually is stronger?
- Other: Nothing. Mind your business
- Other: NOTHING. I am a pit bull owner and my dog is a teddy bear and big part of my household! He is loving and caring. Don't not single out my dogs breed it makes no sense!!!
- Other: Nothing. All dogs should be allowed to be dogs
- Other: nothing, I've been attacked by small dogs over large breed. This is blatant hatred towards pit bulls.
- Other: Nothing, it's not a breed specific thing, bites happen!
- Other: NOTHING! Leave BSL out of this! Stop meddling in people's families. The only nuisance problem I see is the make work projects city counsel is coming up with! What's next?! Shepards or reserve rescue dogs? Where does it stop?!? This is SICKENING.
- Other: Nothing should EVER be breed specific. None of the above suggestions are acceptable. Owners of animals who bite (including little dogs!!!!) should have to go through training on how to understand dogs behaviour - nothing should come down on the animal.
- Other: nothing have breed specific laws is discrimination!!! There is no such thing as a bad dog just bad owners!
- Other: Nothing for breed specific legislation. Pitbulls are not the problem.
- Other: Nothing extra for pit bulls because their ability to cause greater damage is a perpetuated myth. Shame on you.
- Other: Nothing done to any pit bull breeds or dogs of similar stature, discrimination against one breed should not be allowed
- Other: Nothing , are you going to create a bylaw for when parents kids misbehave ? Start fining the parents and sending the children to obedience training
- Other: NOTHING !! People need to give it up with the pit bulls being the only problem.
- Other: NOTHING

- Other: Not fair to target specific breeds.
- Other: Not all Pitbulls are problem dogs. Stop being biased assholes.
- Other: Not all people should be allowed to have dogs and stricter adoption criteria should be put in place.
- Other: Not a ban on pitbulls or breeds associated at all ! If you look they score the highest on temperament and were bred to be many dogs and to protect your children ! Not once has my dog ever lashed out ! But has been bitten by chihuahuas, beagles , cocker spaniels . Time after time sometimes drawing blood ! But because my pit bull is hefty he doesn't feel pain ? And if he were to ever strike back in self defence he would be put down ! Does that seem right ??? Look at the stats !! Its not a bad dog its a bad owner ! And you are effectively killing thousands of innocent dogs and family members !
- Other: None. This is assuming a breed is vicious because of media. Take a look before you ban these animals, they are the kindest.
- Other: None. These are foolish suggestions, several unfairly affect urban or low income Calgarians, and BSL IS WRONG!!!! STOP SUGGESTING IT
- Other: None. Pit bull are not the problem.
- Other: None. No breed specific legislation should be issued in Calgary. It forces people to make assumptions about dogs and owners.
- Other: None. It's not the dog it's the owner, some Pitbull's I have interacted with are wonderful and sweet
- Other: None. I work in the vet industry. If your reasoning is that a pit bull type dog can bare harder you're actually severely uneducated. If you look into dog breeds and what the use of the breeds are you can find an abundant amount of breeds with greater bite force than any pit bull type dog. These dogs were not bred for their bite power.
- Other: None. Having a breed specific bylaw is extremely outdated.
- Other: NONE. do not discriminate against pit bulls. They are some of the best behaved dogs.
- Other: None, this is absolute ludicrous.
- Other: None, they're all ridiculous
- Other: None, stop stereotyping pit bulls as aggressive breeds
- Other: None, penalizing the dog or its owners is only going to lead to more bad behavior
- Other: None, completely unfair
- Other: NONE!!! This is absurd
- Other: None! This is very discriminatory.
- Other: None! This is complete and utter [removed]. Golden retrievers are more prone to biting humans. Any dog can be dangerous! And as far as I'm concerned, German Shepards have a stronger jaw than a pitbull you should all be ashamed of yourselves! My staffy is way more loyal and friendly than any other dog I've ever met.
- Other: NONE! Pitbulls should not be stereotyped. Look up the real definition of what a pitbull is! They are nanny dogs; NOT ATTACKING dogs!!! The dog isn't the issue it's terrible owners!! Quit punishing the breed and start ticketing the [removed] owners!! Lots of us out here with outstanding, well behaved pitbulls that thrive on using dog parks. Making our breed be muzzled while attending is dangerous for them in the event another dog were to attack them. They have no chance at a defence wearing a muzzle !!!!!

- Other: None! Breed specific Laws are ridiculous Chihuahuas bite more than pitbulls! Pitbull score in the top ten best temperament!
- Other: NONE! A bylaw based on breed is backwards thinking by the city of calgary. There are bad owners not bad breeds. I am extremely disappointed by this question and line of thinking.
- Other: None!
- Other: None [removed]
- Other: None this is stupid just like who ever had this [removed] idea
- Other: None the these options are fair
- Other: none PITBULLS ARE NOT DANGEROUS, NEITHER OTHER DOGS THAT HAVE SIMILARITIES
- Other: None of this... there dogs punish the owners not the dogs
- Other: None of this. Pets are not a "nuisance"..
- Other: None of this!
- Other: None of this should be breed specific , it's discrimination!
- Other: None of these. This is more scare tactics and fear mongering. I have a pittie. My friends have them. They are no more dangerous than a Lab (which I also have). I'm saying this for the ones I'm the back - ITS NOT THE DOG BREED, BUT THE OWNER. No owner should be penalized up front for the sort of companion animal they get. Bad owners will create a bad dog, regardless of breed.
- Other: None of these. Putting aside that it's cruel, it would be incredible difficult to near impossible to enforce. Creating way more work for Government staff and it'll allow people to use and abuse these new rules. Does anyone need to give Karens any more ammunition?
- Other: None of these. Breed specific bylaws are absurd considering you stated yourselves that they are not involved in more bites.
- Other: None of these. All of these options are absurd. I don't agree with any of these. Pit bulls ARE NOT NUISANCES!!!!
- Other: NONE OF THESE. absolutely ridiculous that pitbulls are being accused of being bad animals. Any animal can be vicious!
- Other: None of these.
- Other: None of these, pit bulls should no be singled out as nuisance dogs.
- Other: None of these, it's the owners not the dogs
- Other: None of these!!!
- Other: None of these! These options are absolutely ridiculous. The breed of the dog is not the issue.

- Other: None of these there's zero evidence that pit bulls are worse dogs than any other dogs this is completely stupid and unacceptable. Since when did we become a communist city [removed] [removed]
- Other: None of these suggestions are helpful, as they reproduce notions of violence against a certain breed, reproduce a neoliberal ideologies surrounding pet ownership and dogs, and the ideas are very micro oriented. Suggest things that would incentivize all dog owners to go through training, to have anyone that is apply to adopt a dog to have mandatory training. - ALL dogs and ALL owners should be considered within the policy.
- Other: None of these should be passed. Pit bulls are not the problem. Its the owner, not the breed.
- Other: None of these should be implemented as its not humane to classify a few certain breeds as dangerous and make the dogs and their owners suffer.
- Other: None of these should apply. The "pitbull" breed shouldn't be singled out because of their strength... If a pitbull bites it's because it was provoked. It's like saying that guy with the big muscles should be charged a bigger fine for defending himself. It's ridiculous!!
- Other: None of these should apply. Leave the bylaw as is. There is no bad dogs, just bad owners. Pitbulls are loving & sweet dogs and there should never be a bylaw put against specific breeds. This is wrong.
- Other: None of these seem appropriate. I haven't seen behaviour from Pitbulls or any breed that would necessitate increasing our regulations.
- Other: None of these options. The city doesn't need to medal in everyday life of the citizens that elected them.
- Other: None of these options because "pitbull" means nothing and "pitbull" doesn't determine if a dog is aggressive. Some of the most aggressive dogs I've come across are small dogs (chihuahua for example), size of the dog makes no difference if they aren't trained properly to begin with. The nicest dogs I've been around in my life have been the larger "pitbull" types
- Other: None of these bylaws are solutions. How about training the owners on how to raise a good dog pitbull or any other breed, all breeds can be a nuisance.
- Other: None of these because they're not a threat to anyone, dogs should be aloud to be dogs in whatever park, only time they bite is when defending their property or their owners. These laws are stupid and heartless.
- Other: None of these - any dog can have behaviour problems
- Other: None of these
- Other: None of the following. Weiner dogs are one of the most aggressive breeds out there. Behaviour is based on training. This is a waste of tax payers money.
- Other: None of the above... the breed doesnt define the dogs actions, a dog is taught to be aggressive.
- Other: None of the above. This is breed specific and totally inhumane and unfair
- Other: None of the above. This is baseless, discriminatory, and completely unnecessary.
- Other: None of the above. These issues are not breed specific, but owner specific. Why should good pitbull owners be penalized for terrible owners. There are many breeds who bite, not just pitbulls.

- Other: None of the above. There is no science that suggests those measures are effective. It is outrageous to exert such control over people's choice in pets.
- Other: None of the above. Stay out of our lives.
- Other: None of the above. Quit overreaching, someone's dog is not YOUR responsibility. Quit demonizing pit bulls.
- Other: None of the above. It's up to the owners for proper training, no need for any city intervening, especially singling out pitbulls.
- Other: None of the above. Its not the dogs fault for its behaviour, its the owner. Stop discrimination against pit bulls
- Other: None of the above. Its about the owner. Not the dog.
- Other: None of the above. I think that if a person has a dangerous dog no matter the breed they should have specific measures. I do not agree with it strictly only being pitbulls. Maybe re word it to be for every dog breed and not banning pitbulls
- Other: None of the above. Dog by dog bases. More dangerous dogs include: German shepherds, Tibetan Mastiffs, Huskies, Alaskan Malamutes, and more. These are all bigger, with more strength. Do dog by dog
- Other: None of the above. BSL is unfair and based solely on biased, unfactual information.
- Other: None of the above. Pit bulls have a bad rap and I think the owners should require dog handling lessons.
- Other: None of the above.
- Other: None of the above, this is increasing the stigma that pit bulls are worse than other dogs and I find it extremely upsetting.
- Other: None of the above, the problem is the owners not the dogs
- Other: NONE OF THE ABOVE, Pitbulls are nicer and sweeter then chihuahuas
- Other: NONE OF THE ABOVE, LOVE PITBULLS
- Other: None of the above, breed banning is absurd.
- Other: None of the above! This is not acceptable Tomm in my opinion to label any breed like this!
- Other: None of the above! Targeting certain dogs does more to spread misinformation than it does to fix a nuisance. As well, increasing fines or anything to do With increased money, instantly targets low income individuals.
- Other: NONE OF THE ABOVE! I do not agree with stereotyping all pit bulls as nuisance dogs. Simply not true and unfair
- Other: None of the above! A dog's behavior is solely dependent on its owner.
- Other: None of the above!

- Other: none of the above you racist bullies
- Other: None of the above this is discrimination for dogs
- Other: None of the above the dog breed has nothing to do with this. It is 100% involved in the owner of the dog not training the pup correctly
- Other: None of the above regarding pit bulls make any sense. A pit bull breed isn't any more dangerous than other breeds. The danger falls on the owner raising the dogs. Any breed can be aggressive. It's WRONG to discriminate against a breed. I do agree that dogs that have a history of biting should not be allowed in off-leash areas. But not breed specific. Any breed that has a history of biting should have high fines imposed and higher fees. But it should be a case by case basis. There are so many peaceful pitbulls who these bylaws would not apply to. Grouping them all together in the same category is wrong and shameful. And I don't even own a pitbull and never have.
- Other: None of the above - this is unfair breed targeting that has worked in NO major city. Statistics show that there is a higher bite frequency in smaller dogs. We need to destigmatize bully breeds.
- Other: None of the above
- Other: NONE ITS NOT THE DOGS ITS THE OWNERS
- Other: None don't punish pitbulls for something they haven't even done yet. Its not fair to ban them from dog parks. Its the owner not the breed
- Other: None breed specific guidelines are unfair to both dogs and owners. If dogs are declared a nuisance owners should have to take a dog safety or training course
- Other: NONE because this is incorrect. Pitbulls do not have a stronger bite than the general dog population. In fact, German Sheppards and Rottweilers are just two examples of dogs with much higher bite strength (measured in psi). Avoid ANY breed specific legislation and make legislation specific to behaviours of a individual dog basis. PLEASE don't reintroduce harmful BSL and stereotypes for an umbrella term of pit bull. You shouldn't pay more insurance, be legislated more, etc because your animal is a Pitbull (incorrectly labelled majority of the time). Any dog from any Breed should have restrictions placed on them if they have been deemed a risk or danger.
- Other: None - these options are unfair to the animals and doesn't account for the dogs actual behaviour. It is stereotypical of particular breads.
- Other: none

- Other: None
- Other: None
- Other: none
- Other: Non of these are required against a pitbull! It should be looked at how the dog owner is treating the dog and if they specifically are fit for being s dog owner!!
- Other: Non of the above. Unfair. If you make any of these laws you must do for all dogs not specific breeds as any dog can harm Anyone or another dog
- Other: Non of the above. Pitbull breeds aren't as viscous as other breeds. Should be aloud to discriminate against breed
- Other: Non of the above
- Other: Non at all no no breed specific legislation!!!
- Other: Noise complaints and being at large are not on the same level as biting and enforcing laws such as muzzles or banning from places for noise complaints are ridiculous. Punish aggression, bites, dog fights etc in ALL breeds that have done this, there are lots of reasons especially after the pandemic that dogs will be struggling with their owners going back to work that should not be phrased the same as biting and damage. Breed specific laws are not the answer
- Other: No. Stop blaming the breed. Blame the owner
- Other: No unnecessary restrictions on dogs based solely on breeds.
- Other: No person or animal should be discriminated against based on breed, race or other inherent trait. Each individual should be judged on a case by case basis.
- Other: No other measures. Stop stigmatizing and punishing one breed because of the stereotypes and misinformation that you have filled your head with.
- Other: No new laws are necessary
- Other: No need for any of this
- Other: No law. Completely screwed up! ALL DAYS CAN BE AGGRESSIVE.
- Other: No dog should be segregated or penalized for its breed. Owners are and must be responsible for their dogs. It is just in fair to single out a breed or type breed.
- Other: No dog discrimination, either all breeds or none
- Other: No dog breed should be singled out
- Other: No discrimination towards a certain breed.
- Other: No changes. Any changes should be applicable to any dog that bites a person. Not just breed specific.
- Other: No changes, leave as is.
- Other: No change. Treat pit bulls equally.
- Other: No BSL shepards have just as strong a bite force the breed is not the problem the owner is.
- Other: No BSL at all.
- Other: No bsl
- Other: No BSL

- Other: No breed specific regulations whatsoever! I coordinate a dog shelter specializing in pit bulls but we take in all dogs. It is an issue with owners not the dogs, do not punish these amazing animals.
- Other: No breed specific regulation. The stats do not support the idea that bully breed bite more than other breeds.
- Other: no breed specific legislation.
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION, this is absurd.
- Other: No breed specific legislation, problem dogs need to be assessed and an appropriate plan for owner and dog including follow up. Could be training, band from vertian public areas, fines for ignoring citations.
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION! It's RACIST!!!!
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION!
- Other: No breed specific legislation- no evidence to support breed specific legislation prevents any amount of bites/ incidences- forcing citizens to either potentially euthanize healthy animals, move elsewhere or abandon animals
- Other: NO breed specific legislation as it is not based on any facts or science. Require tests for the competence of the dogs owners when getting a license. Like are they capable and willing to properly train their dogs.
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LAWS
- Other: No breed specific laws
- Other: no breed should be treated differently. looking into multiple sources pitbulls are less likely than many other breeds to injure people and other pets.
- Other: No breed should be singled out. In any circumstance! Complaints and incidents should be dealt with on a case by case basis. And handled accordingly based on evidence and history of animal and owner. The majority of large breed owners are verg responsible. Dont let the actions of the few dictate the freedom and future of the majority.
- Other: No breed should be singled out due to HUMAN negligence!! In most cases it's not the pet that need the training it the owner!!!
- Other: No breed shaming against pitbulls or breed that even look like them. It's wrong.
- Other: No bread specific descriminon its nonsense. Pitbulls are amazing kind and loving dogs.
- Other: No band on Pitbulls!! Humans are the problem not pitfalls
- Other: No breed specific laws need to be placed , that is unfair to all owners that take care of their pets , we are one of the only places that doesnt have it yet and pitbulls thrive in this city because of not having said law in effect , you cant put all of one breed into a category wjen chihuahuas are more aggressive than a big baby of a pitbull
- Other: New measures to deal with nuisance dogs are not necessary. Additionally, singling out pit bull type dogs will do absolutely nothing to help and will only place additional burdens on law abiding citizens.
- Other: My large Labrador gets attacked by French bulldogs and chihuahuas, it pitbulls. Do something about the actual problem breeds, pitbulls aren't the problem.

- Other: My "pitbull" was attacked by other dogs at a City dog park. To say that pitbulls are the issue shows a lack of education and research. I've been bitten, attacked, charged and made bleed only by small breeds (Chihuahuas, Pomeranian, Corgis.)
- Other: Muzzling anyone who supports a bylaw like this
- Other: More training for the owners. All of these suggest it's the dogs fault. It is NEVER the dogs fault....it is always the ignorant owner.
- Other: More training available/background checks on people with owning "pitbulls"
- Other: More human regulation on who's allowed to own all kinds of animals. All dogs are good dogs and it's not the dogs that need to be trained, it's the humans. When a dog acts out its because the owner is unfit. Create a system that provides dogs with better homes, not a system that singles out and discriminates against one of the most loving breeds in the dog kingdom. Thank you.
- Other: Mind your own [removed] business
- Other: Mind your own business and stay out of people lives. You are acting like fascists
- Other: mind your business?
- Other: Maybe stop signalling out a specific breed and do better Calgary! Its not the breed or the dog its bad owners. Totally discussing that this is even a question! Yeah
- Other: Maybe don't discriminate just because of pitbull has a strong jaw there are plenty of dogs that can do damage more than that a responsible pet owner would know to carry a bite stick. Why penalize an owner with higher insurance etc just because of the breed they have maybe higher fines and penalties for any dog owner that allows their dog to become a nu nuisance why penalize somebody for the breed of dog that they have how about we penalize the owners that allow their dog to become nuisances
- Other: Mandatory training for owners of nuisance dogs.
- Other: Mandatory training for all dog owners. Its not a dogs fault their owner is an idiot.
- Other: Make sure the owners are good, the dogs are shaped by their owners. Maybe a background check or vetting procedure to license a pitbull.
- Other: Make dog owners accountable. There is no such thing as dangerous dog types. There is such thing as bad dog owners.
- Other: LOVE ALL BREEDS OF DOGS. DONT HATE ON PITBULLS!
- Other: Look at the owners before looking at the dog to be a nuisance. Like child abuse, dogs that are not trained properly, or abused can cause behaviour issues.
- Other: Little [removed] chahuahuas shouldn't be allowed anywhere. Pit bulls are not your problem. You guys disgust me
- Other: Little dogs bite too! Stop focusing on pitbulls. I don't know why everybody focuses on pitbulls it's because they look mean okay what about Dobermans or German Shepherds or Rottweilers. Stop focussing on pitbulls. My pitbull is the sweetest thing in the world and would never ever hurt anything
- Other: Little dogs are far more sggresive than pit bulls I do not support this at all. I do not have a pit bull
- Other: Licence to own a dog, if the individuals animal attacks, revoke their license since they're not fit to raise a dog

- Other: Let the dogs be dogs and leave them alone.
- Other: Legislation based on dog breed is unacceptable. Better public knowledge about dog safety and how to properly approach animals should be a top priority.
- Other: Leave things the way they are and stop making pitbulls or breeds mixed with pitbulls look like horrid wild animals!
- Other: Leave these dogs alone. You're perpetuating a terrible stereotype and it is absolutely disgusting to see this from the city. Shame on you.
- Other: Leave the Pitbull breeds alone! They are kind and gentle and any dog has the ability to be a danger to others or their pets. There shouldn't be laws against certain breeds. A badly trained dog is a badly behaved dog no matter the breed.
- Other: Leave the pitbulls alone. I worked for years in the Vet industry and never had an issue with these dogs. This is not a breed problem.
- Other: Leave the pitbulls alone and shame on you for targeting them. Responsible pet owners raise their dogs to reflect themselves. You stated that there are not more bites within the pitbull breeds, so why? [removed] So is targeting pitbulls in this situation. Shame on you and shame on this city. I wish I could be proud to live here.
- Other: Leave the pitbull, German shepherd and other "highly aggressive" dogs alone. It is how you train a dog. It's kind of how you train a kid. If a kid is being mean should we take the child away from its family and put the child down? No. So why are we doing that to dogs. I'm sorry but dogs are people's children. Let the owners of "aggressive" dog breeds ALONE! ffs
- Other: Leave the pit bulls alone.
- Other: Leave the pit bulls alone it is the owner not the breed.
- Other: Leave the dogs alone, no dog no matter the breed is not inherently bad or aggressive its poor ownership that results in a dog having poor behaviours fine the people not the dog.
- Other: Leave the [removed] bully breeds alone. It's not the dog, it's the owner.
- Other: LEAVE THE BREEDS ALONE! I've been horrifically attacked by chihuahuas and golden retrievers. I have never been hurt or even worried being around any pit bull breed. It is completely absurd to put laws toward certain dogs because the media has demonized them. Pit bulls were originally bred as NANNY DOGS because of their nature towards children.
- Other: LEAVE PITBULLS ALONE. You even say here that pitbulls are not involved in more bite incidents.... then WHY are you being specific about their breed? This didn't go well in Ontario, and this will not go well here! Enforce people having to train their dogs properly, don't punish dogs for their situation! This is awful.
- Other: Leave pitbulls alone, they used to be nanny dogs that would watch children. They're the sweetest breed ever, chihuahuas are the biting yappy unbehaved dogs you need to worry about.
- Other: Leave pitbulls alone, not the breeds fault that the owner raised them that way just like any dog
- Other: Leave Pitbulls alone!!! If your going to be racist to a specific breed, then lets include, rotties, german Shepards, bull mastiffs. Cane corso!! This is unreal that the city is even considering bully laws!!!! I will never mussle my pitbull and if I want to own 2, I will!!!! Stop forcing others fears down the teoats of every day people!!!

- Other: Leave pitbulls alone
- Other: leave pitbull alone and muzzle chichuchua who bite more people than any other dog. I would also suggest you looked the power of the bite of German shepherds, border collie, Rottweiler, Akita and cane Corso just to name a few. Or you could atleast provide people with scientific article proving whatever was said here about strength of pitbull bite
- Other: Leave pit bulls alone. It has everything to do with the owner and not the breed.
- Other: Leave pit bulls alone. Its horrible people that make bad dogs. Invest into education and training for people to learn how to own dogs.
- Other: Leave pit bulls alone!
- Other: Leave pit bulls alone ! There is no science to back up banning pit bull breeds in any way shape or form!
- Other: Leave my dog alone. You idiots couldn't organize a circle [removed] in a round house. The city of Calgary is useless when it comes to just about everything (except for blowing tax payer money). My chihuahua would be more likely to bite you than my bully breed mutt. Don't punish a breed because some owners are terrible people.
- Other: Leave bylaws as is.
- Other: Leave breed specific legislation out. All breeds are capable of hurting people and other animals. When it happens, work with the owner to determine whether obedience training would resolve the situation if possible or fine the owner for not training their dog in certain circumstances.
- Other: Law unneeded. Labs attack more people then pits
- Other: just because they are animals does not mean you can't be racist. This is wrong. I have never been bitten or attacked by a big dog let alone a pit bull. Stop the stereotype.
- Other: Judge the individual, not the breed. Also, fault the owner, not the animal. Fines should be incremental with the option to relinquish the animal to a no-kill shelter at no cost.
- Other: It's very subjective, and pit bulls aren't more dangerous. I have one
- Other: It's the owners fault not the breed. Stop being prejudice. Stop entertaining stupid people to keep them quiet
- Other: It's the owner. Never the dog.
- Other: It's the owner, not the dog. Stop this harassment of pit bulls and their owners. Treat all animals on a case by case.
- Other: its the owner not the dog
- Other: It's ridiculous you single out pit bulls and then try to "note" that joy all pitbulls are dangerous. I've known a few dogs to bite people, none of which was a pit bull. It was a lab, a retriever, a chihuahua, a healer, none were my dogs. This question is infuriating.
- Other: It's not the dog, it's the owner. Owners should need to train their dogs and themselves.
- Other: ITS NOT THE BREED LEAVE PIT BULLS ALONE
- Other: It's definitely NOT THE BREEED! ITS UP TO THE OWNERS. PITBULLS ARE AMAZING DOGS

- Other: Its [removed] to target certain dog breeds when the owners are the problem. Enough of this [removed]
- Other: Its actually not true that pit bulls and pit bull type dogs have a stronger bite compared to other dogs, for example German Shepards and Rottweilers actually have a bite pressure higher than a pit bulls. These questions aren't accurate because of false information within them, and I will not support breed specific legislation since it usually results in more of the targeted breed being put down than necessary.
- Other: It's very disappointing to see this breed being bullied with these questions. Enforce training and classes rather than taking someone's beloved animal away. I do NOT support any of these options.
- Other: Its unfair to target pitbulls.
- Other: It's not the breed it's the [removed] owners, this is dog racist as little dogs bite people way more
- Other: It's the owner... not the breed that makes a dog aggressive
- Other: It's phenomenal that the City is considering BSL based on all the research and professional opinion set against it. In Ontario where BSL exists the professional communities (ie the Ontario Vet Assoc) refuses to support such crude Bylaw. I think ANY dog that bites should be punished along with significant consequences for the owners of said dog - regardless of its breed and certainly not because of it. As the owner of a very friendly Staffordshire Bill Terrier this breaks my heart and makes me sick that the City is segregating this breed as dangerous while even pointing out itself that they are not responsible for more bites than any other breed.
- Other: It's not the [removed] dog it's the owner
- Other: it's not the dog it's the owner. they don't hurt anyone unless the owner trains them this way.
- Other: It's not the breed of the dog that is the problem it's the owners. This is very dangerous literature which can cause unwarranted backlash on the breed
- Other: It's not the animal or breed it's the owner. I believe if you own a pit bull or any other dog like that you shouldn't have to be fined for the dog because other people are scared of it or limiting the amount of pit bulls someone can have in a house. That's being racist to this dogs breed... why don't you open up and look at actual angry mean dogs like a Dalmatian. STOP LABELING PITBULLS.
- Other: It's not just Pitties, Don't discriminate against the breed. All Mandatory for training doesn't matter what kind of dog. The smaller dogs are the cause of all your issues. Figure that out first.
- Other: It's not a dog problem, it's an owner problem. Irresponsible owners need to be punished, not the animals. I have many friends with the breeds listed, and none of them are even remotely a problem. Small dogs are more inclined to be aggressive than big dogs.
- Other: It's disgraceful pit bulls are still treated this way by Calgary city council
- Other: It should not be dog breed specific. If whatever breed your dog is, and its aggressive. They shouldn't be at the dog park. That includes Huskies, labs, little dogs, etc.
- Other: It is the pet owners responsibility to participate in training classes. They are many qualify trainers in this city.

- Other: It is outrageous that you would even consider half of the garbage in here. Pit bulls are amazing dogs and should not be discriminated against because of their potential for a more severe bite. That's insane. That's like if your dad murdered someone, and now you go to jail because you have more potential to murder. Give your head a shake people, the issue is the owners not training their dogs properly, education on how a pit bull needs to be trained is the only way to help the situation. This could be a mandatory pamphlet at the time of purchase. Steeper cones will do nothing to deter this activity.
- Other: It is outrageous that you are considering any of the above for ONLY pit bull types when you already clearly state that they are no more of a threat than any other dog! You should be ashamed of yourselves.
- Other: It is not the breed that is the problem it is the owner
- Other: It is not a breed specific issue. Smaller breed dogs are easily as aggressive or a nuisance as any large breed, pitbulls are NOT the problem. Irresponsible dog owners are the problem. We need fines or penalties for the owners of ANY breed that is causing issues. The city should be ashamed to state pitbull or bully breeds specifically in this survey. Your adding to the stigma instead of addressing the bigger problem as a whole.
- Other: It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite, what a load of made up rubbish, so pit bull aren't the problem but you are going to make up a reason to make them the problem. I am a dog owner and have met a lot of pit bulls both on the street and in the dog park, they are wonderful dogs. If a dog is vicious the owner needs the muzzle not the dog and it has nothing to do with the breed. I am not liking you questions so refuse to answer any other them. Wake up and look at the real issues in the city, stop copying out of date bylaws from other provinces, dogs are the least of your problem.
- Other: It is disgusting that the city of calgary is considering breed specific rules. What about all the little dogs that charge fences and harass people walking. Go after them!
- Other: It is difficult to respond to this without knowing exactly what is meant by "nuisance". For example, is a dog who regularly barks when someone comes to the door considered to be a nuisance if a neighbour complains? Please be more specific if you want to get a meaningful response.
- Other: It is absurd to say these rules only apply to pit bull breeds. Majority of pit bulls are the friendliest dogs I have ever met. Rather than being breed specific, it should be behaviour specific. I have seen many more aggressive chihuahuas than pit bulls, yet they're not regulated. At the end of the day, it's the owner who needs to be responsible, not the breed of dog that needs to be regulated.
- Other: It is absolutely wrong and unfair to single out any breed of dog.
- Other: It is absolutely unfair! You cannot single out Pit bulls!!
- Other: It is absolutely disgusting that you are specifically naming Pit bulls. All dogs can bite and attack. Owners are the problem, not the dogs. Can not fully answer as this looks like a witch hunt against pit bulls sorry.

- Other: It is absolutely appalling that you are even considering breed specific laws and discrimination. The other issue I have with all of these fines is my dog was bit a year or so ago and the city collected fines to keep for themselves but none of that is allotted to the victim to cover vet bills.
- Other: It is absolutely appalling that the city believes a dog breed can be so standardized and generalized to be violent; the real issue with violent dogs is the humans that own them. No dog is born violent, it is a lack of care and proper training which makes them violent or a nuisance as you call it. As a veterinary worker, I have seen far more chihuahuas cause injury than any bully breed. Will you ban Irish wolfhounds or Great Danes from being in public, due to the size and sheer power of their jaws? No. I genuinely hope the city gets some actual professionals who have appropriate knowledge on the subject before making these decisions.
- Other: It has nothing to do with the breed just the way its raised. Stop targeting specific breeds.
- Other: Is that a cash grab?! [removed] leave Pit Bulls and bully type dog alone. This isn't [Removed] Nazi Germany!
- Other: Investigation of the owner and why dog is behaving this way.
- Other: Invest in OWNER training before adoption to ensure proper care and training for the dog in the future. Good owners have good dogs... bad owners create vicious dogs. No matter the breed. There are other BIGGER dogs who can cause a lot more harm than pit bulls and using this already stigmatized breed in this example is a very poor and disgusting choice.
- Other: Instead of having any kind of BSL in place you could curb the actual problems by having large fines for backyard breeders and prohibit / regulate online sales of dogs.
- Other: If you are making breed specific legislation this will just amount to more people getting ticketed rather than actual awareness.
- Other: If you are including these "bully breeds" you should also consider the smaller dogs which bit and attack more people then these "bully breeds". People need to be in control of their animals. That being said, how is it fair that if I am walking my dog who is on a leash gets approached by a dog who is off leash and snips and my dog but my dog has a bigger and more powerful jaw then the little one gets penalized because they are a "bully Breed"? All these restrictions and so called by-laws should be in place for ALL BREEDS OF DOGS NOT JUST BULLY BREEDS.
- Other: If you are going to punish 1 specific breed you should be punishing all breeds the same when this behaviour is displayed.
- Other: If the dog is provoked, the person who agitated the dog into a bite should be fined. Ridiculous that the onus is 100% on the dog based on experiences I've had.
- Other: if a dog was to bite or harm a human (any dog not just Pit Bulls) the owner should be fined for not having control of the animal, and have to take mandatory obedience training with the owner and dog, multiple offenders should get higher fines and potential jail time
- Other: If a dog is truly dangerous then there should be laws in place to protect people. By no means should there be any separate laws based on their breed. [removed] Which of course is unacceptable.
- Other: If a dog is deemed a nuisance then the city needs to look at the owner. There is no such thing as a bad dog, only bad dog owners. Pitbulls are not and should not be an exception to that.

- Other: If a dog is dangerous or a nuisance, the owner should have to go through training. No putting the dog down and stop singling out pit bulls. I've seen way more aggressive Chihuahuas than pit bulls.
- Other: I wouldn't consider a dog to be a nuisance if they were barking/noisey? So you can't have a dog that is loud and barks at an offleash park? How about education for people on approaching dogs appropriately and asking to pet rather than kids running up to your dog when you say no and are trying to leave. It's a two way street I don't believe bully breeds should be alienated because they're strong, I've never met an aggressive bully breed
- Other: I wouldn't support the city of calgary for anything regarding BSL.
- Other: I would support none of those. Pit bulls do not have a stronger bite, this is false. German Shepards are actually the most dangerous dog.
- Other: I would support NONE of these things. Owners are the problem, not the breed. It is absolutely wrong to limit pit bulls when you've already acknowledged they are not involved in more bites. Little dogs (chihuahuas) bite ALL the time but no one is banning them.
- Other: I would support NONE of these measures. I have known many Pit Bulls and none have been aggressive. I have been bitten by a Chihuahua and required stitches -- so let's ban them! Or how about German Shepherds ...they are very mean and have ripped people apart.
- Other: I would support none of these measures.
- Other: I would advise that animal bylaw help dog owners when they need it. Example, my neighbors and their kid constantly taunt and harass my dogs, fake bark at them, spray them with water guns, poke them with sticks, throw rocks, even putting hands through my fence. I have advised them to stay away from my animals but they do not care. They will eventually get bit because my dogs are scared and pissed off. Bylaw should be able to fine these people so my dogs don't have to die for their stupidity.
- Other: I will not support the unfairness of this because you have a problem with pitbulls. Any dog can be dangerous it's not about the breed, its about the dumb as [removed] owners who raise them to be viscous. Stop discriminating against pitbulls.
- Other: I will not support any of these. Pit bulls are wonderful and can be aggressive if raised by an aggressive owner. PERIOD.
- Other: I totally disagree with your breed discrimination here. My dog has been chased onto the road (no fence at off leash park??That is ridiculous) by a st. Bernard, a black lab has attacked multiple dogs in the park, a Samoyed type dog has attacked other dogs in the same park. To the point that I will no longer go into that park due to "non pit bull breeds" please reword the question. Any dog bite can be harmful, and there are MULTIPLE breeds that have strong jaws that can do substantial damage
- Other: I think you shouldn't be saying pitbulls it should be ALL breeds of dogs! How dare you just assume only that breed.
- Other: I think this should not be breed specific

- Other: I think the dogs need to be evaluated by a behaviour specialist before being labeled a nuisance dog. Most times the larger dog is defending themselves from more aggressive smaller dogs.
- Other: I think the definition of nuisance needs to be revisited. Just because a dog is loud or a neighbour complains that a dog is barking doesn't mean that the dog is a potential threat. It would be more beneficial for the city to provide free training classes where individuals who require additional help can seek out the resources required to help them train their pets. Often times the animals in our homes are rescues and require additional attention and coaching. There should be no breed specific bylaws.
- Other: I think singling out pitbulls is horrible. This is the owners responsibility. I am a pitbull owner and i cannot imagine how our dog would feel muzzled when she is not aggressive at all. this is a horrible move and so heart breaking
- Other: I think signaling out Pit bulls is horrible. My dog has been attacked twice by labs. The breed has nothing to do with this. It is 100% the owners responsibility and all breeds have the same chance of attacking. All the pitbulls I have come across are the nicest and best trained dogs. As a born and raised Calgarian, I find this very offensive.
- Other: I think setting restrictions on these dogs specifically is cruel. More often than not, a dogs behaviour is a direct result of their owner.
- Other: I think requirement on a specific breed is outrageous. Although a pit bull has a different jaw structure does not mean its damage is going to be more or less severe then any other large dog breed. I think it is asinine to have specific requirements for the pit bull breed. I know because I have an a bit innocent with the city and that dog was NOT a pit bull breed at all.
- Other: I think it's reprehensible to treat breeds of dogs differently. Also I don't support seizing of dogs that exhibit dangerous behavior as this is subjective. Also I don't support the classification of a "nuisance" dog as this is also extremely subjective.
- Other: I think it's [removed] to push such a ruling on one specific breed of dog. Rottweilers are just as bad and so are Chihuahua
- Other: I think it is irresponsible of the city to single out any breed and it will promote hate between people and pet owners. There is absolutely no reason to single out pit bulls. It is upsetting that this would even be a consideration. Please note that I do not own and never have owned a pit bull but have been in close contact with many. If I'm not an owner and this is how I feel. I am extremely disappointed to see this.
- Other: I think all these options are bad. If a pitbull attacks s9mebody or another dog then maybe a fine or maybe training but just to slap so many restrictions is not fair for good pitbull owners like myself. I can walk offleash. Dmy dog doesnt bark at other dogs or chase bunnys or anything. I dont think i should be penalized fpr being a good owner and maybe we could do some sort of liscencing bepre being able to be a putbull onwer or soemthing.
- Other: I support none of these. Targeting a breed specific dog is ridiculous.
- Other: I support none of the above
- Other: I just want to let you know chihuahuas are just as dangerous as pitbulls.

- Other: I have walked by many pitbull breeds. They are gentle. I have a german shepherd husky cross who has been nearly attacked by chihuahahs, or shi tzus. Yes, its the training, a gentle kind hand. But ive been bitten by small dogs and their ignorant owners who think aw cute but their dog is growling and snarling. If mine did that, oh boy.
- Other: I have a pit bull terrier mix and she is the most gentle fighter who had NEVER exhibited nuisance behavior or even tried to bite. I am completely offended by these choices. Not one talks about finding irresponsible dog owners who don't have proper control of their dogs and who constantly put their dogs off leash in on leash areas. I have seen small dogs showing aggressive behaviors toward my put bull and she doesn't react. This survey is a joke!
- Other: I have 4 dogs and my pitbull is the least likely to bite, he is submissive and gentle, any dog can bite! Pitbulls are NOT the issue.
- Other: I find this notion absolutely disgusting. It has been proven that BSI does NOT work. We have a staffordshire terrier that is the kindest most gentle dog. I have however been attacked and lunged at by many Pomeranian and chihuahuas. They are extremely violent and bad tempered. STOP HATING on pitbulls types and heighten the fines and jail time for backyard breeding, animals abuses and have better screening for people that are adopting or buying ANY animal let alone an animal they intend to abuse. . You should be ashamed of yourselves.
- Other: I find that the discrimination against peoples is absurd. Individuals should educate themselves before jumping to the conclusion that pitbulls are considered dangerous, this is untrue and we must do better than to just point fingers at a certain breed. There are many other breeds that are just as powerful which are Dobermans known to be aggressive towards humans, Huskies known to be aggressive to humans Rottweiler, even the smallest dog for instance Chihuahua they play a big personality by the small little size that they are. We should be fair with all breeds [removed], we must implicate the same law for animals and owners should be responsible of their pets. Owners should train their pets to not be aggressive take them to training classes there's many of them out there, have proper insurance for their pet, have their pet vaccinated and to be a responsible owner by not letting your pet out of sight
- Other: I feel this survey is discriminates against a specific dog breeds, and is a clear violation of the Alberta/Canada bill of rights to private property ownership! Maybe we should have humans who go to the gym on a regular basis wear a muzzle as well.
- Other: I feel that none of the above apply. Stop trying to criminalize innocent animals. Do we get to put muzzles on loud children who are nuisances too then?
- Other: I don't understand why it's just pit bulls or pit bull terriers are only on this huskies are the worst they like to attack other dogs same with Chihuahuas there are biting risk
- Other: I don't think any of these should be done for "nuisance" dogs. I would support some of these measures for dogs that are involved in attacks / bites on other animals or people. That being said I am very strongly opposed to any sort of Breed Specific Legislation. Deal with problem owners, not breeds. The fact that BSL is even being proposed is ridiculous and ignorant. I will be contacting my City Councillor to express my anger that this is even being entertained by the City. Pit Bulls can be the most loyal, loving, gentle pets a person can own and should not be singled out or punished by some irresponsible owners.

- Other: I don't think any breed should be automatically labeled a nuisance.
- Other: I don't think a breed is a problem! These guidelines should be applied to all dogs! Usually it's not even the animal that's the problem, it's the owner. So they need to be a responsible owner and take the appropriate measures to maintain their own safety, the safety of the dog, and the General Public. To pinpoint one particular breed is absolutely ridiculous and discriminatory. Dogs are just dogs, they're just following our lead.
- Other: I don't believe pitbulls need to be singled out. And I think it's prejudiced of you to do so. I have NEVER had a bad experience with a pit bull, however I've been bitten by a Shetland collie and had issues with a neighbourhood poodle!
- Other: I don't believe in any of these. Not all pit bulls are aggressive. It's the owners.
- Other: I don't believe all "bull" should be lumped together. I have a French bulldog and he is the nicest, calmest dog you would want to meet.
- Other: I don't approve of picking on a specific breed. There are no bad dogs, rather bad owners.
- Other: I don't agree with this at all! I've met more mean Chihuahuas than I have Pitbulls. In fact, I've been bitten by several Chihuahuas, never a Pitbull type dog.
- Other: I don't agree with any of those!!
- Other: I don't agree that categorizing pitbulls as a dangerous dog is appropriate. Please review expert advice on pitbull behavior before categorizing all pitbulls as nuisance dogs. A dog of any breed can produce a severe bite. Pitbulls have been miscategorized by the press as vicious dogs when in fact, if you review the evidence, they are less vicious than your average Labrador. Please do your due diligence before categorizing a specific breed as vicious. This is an unfair bylaw proposal and if you must, I still think some of these rules make sure it is against all breeds...Chihuahuas are involved in more biting incidents than pitbull breeds.
- Other: I don't agree.
- Other: I don't understand why you think this is a Pitbull problem probably - owners need to be responsible for their pets. Education is key. Maybe more programs to be offered and training ... and not having irresponsible people owning dogs.
- Other: I don't think pit bulls should be discriminated against as other breeds can be just as bad and even worse. Why is there no mention of other breeds on this list of choices?
- Other: I don't think a pit bull is a problem and there should be no discussion on specific breeds, the real problem isn't the breed, it's the owner.
- Other: I don't think a dog breed in particular can be considered a nuisance. There are no such things as bad dogs, only bad people who do bad things to animals, as a result of changing their behaviour because of fear or other such responses. I also believe that we cannot categorize a particular breed of dog, much the same way that we do not do this with humans based on the colour of their skin.
- Other: I don't support any pit bull or terrier restrictions AT ALL.
- Other: I don't support any of these. This isn't okay.
- Other: I don't support any

- Other: I don't believe these dogs should have to suffer any rules. It's quite ridiculous actually. Poor animals being victimized by the city of Calgary. You should be ashamed of yourself. If a dog hurts someone the OWNER should be fined for teaching them to be that way.
- Other: I don't believe it is fair to single out specific breeds and strongly disagree with the above statements. (I do not own a pit bull)
- Other: I don't believe in discrimination towards a specific breed. So I don't feel any of these should be applicable to only pitbull. Going to make a bylaw do it for all or none.
- Other: I don't agree with any of this.
- Other: I don't agree with the above. Its very subjective and leaves a lot of room for interpretation and possible misinterpretation.
- Other: I do not support this you are painting all dogs with one brush based off of hypothetical situations. You are creating a biased opinion of all of this breed which are not the problem. Its going to start with pit bulls and then move on to other pit bull type animals. Cash grab straight up your not trying to protect people. If you were trying to protect people you would look at the dogs that are actually biting people and regulate them on a case by case basis. I do not support this at all and I know it will lead to other breeds that do not deserve this label as well being labelled as such. Throw this out and quit wasting our time and tax dollars. There are more pressing concerns within this city that this time money and effort could be spent on.
- Other: I DO NOT support the use of the term 'pit bull' type breed. I've seen more vicious behavior from retrievers, husky's and terriers then from any other breeds. To single out one breed is irresponsible and paints a negative picture of a large section of dogs. .
- Other: I do not support labelling a specific breed. Any dog can be a nuisance. It should be on the owner and if there is something warranted, then take the steps to ensure the animal is a controlled environment with the proper training and guidance.
- Other: I do not support BSL
- Other: I do not support breed-specific legislation.
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation. Have bylaws that apply to all breeds, do not discriminate,
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation in Calgary.
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation
- Other: I do not support breed specific enforcement. If a specific dog has displayed behavior which is deemed dangerous, this would warrant different treatment for the specific dog not entire breed.
- Other: I do not support bread specific bylaws. They owners are the problem not the breed.
- Other: I do not support any proposals that are targeted at breed specific dogs as they have been proven not to work in other cities. It is the owners that are the problem, not the dogs.
- Other: I do not support any of these. This is an awful generalization of a group of dogs who do not deserve it.
- Other: I do not support any of these. I own a loving pitbull and I have seen way more varying dog breeds who aggressive and should not be allowed anywhere.

- Other: I do not support ANY of these. Smaller dogs bite more and cause more of a nuisance anywhere you go/live.
- Other: I do not support any of these.
- Other: I do not support any of these with pitbulls singled out
- Other: I DO NOT SUPPORT any of these potential laws. Its not the pit bulls fault it's the owners. There are lots of people in the city with THE MOST WELL BEHAVED PITBULLS YOU'LL MEET
- Other: I do not support any of these options.
- Other: I do not support any of these measures. By generalizing the behaviors of dogs that look a certain way, innocent dogs and pet owners suffer. BSL can lead to the euthanasia of innocent dogs that fit a certain "look," and to responsible pet owners being forced to move or give up dogs that have never bitten or threatened to bite. Furthermore, dogs that are considered to be of a "dangerous breed" may already be serving the community in positions such as police work, military operations, rescue purposes, and as service animals. Contrary to being a liability, these animals are assets to society; however they, too, suffer due to misinformation and breed-based stereotypes. Breed bans do not address the social issue of irresponsible pet ownership. Dogs are more likely to become aggressive when they are unsupervised, unneutered, and not socially conditioned to live closely with people or other dogs. Banning a specific breed can give a community a false sense of security, and deemphasize to owners of other breeds the importance of appropriate socialization and training, which is a critical part of responsible pet ownership. In enacting breed-specific legislation, cities and states will spend money trying to enforce ineffective bans and restrictions rather than implementing proven solutions, such as licensing and leash laws, and responding proactively to owners of any dog that poses a risk to the community.
- Other: I do not support any of these measures. Breed Specific Legislation is wrong.
- Other: I do not support any of these measures in particular breed specific legislation that discriminates against pit bulls
- Other: I do not support any of these measures for pitbull breeds. All dogs are individuals and should be treated as such. This does not promote inclusivity at all.
- Other: I DO NOT SUPPORT ANY OF THESE MEASURES AT ALL. Because it is not the fault of the pitbull, it is actually the fault of the owner that raises the pitbull. Because I have a pitbull and my pitbull has never done anything wrong to anyone because I raised my baby with love. So instead of blaming the dog, blame the owner!
- Other: I do not support any of these changes. A certain breed should not determine the severity of there aggression . Any dog can hurt another or be dangerous if not trained properly . This has to be the most insane thing ever. I disagree with all the above and will be ensuring I do everything in my power that this By-law will not pass
- Other: I do not support any of these bylaws. Especially the ones that segregate pitbulls from the rest of dogs
- Other: I do not support any of these
- Other: I do not support any kind of breed specific legislation
- Other: I do not support any breed specific measures

- Other: I do not support any breed specific legislation. Period. It doesn't work, most regions that have previously implemented BSL are now repealing it.
- Other: I do not support any breed specific legislation
- Other: I do not support any breed specific laws, rather treat each incident as needed. There are no bad dogs! There are bad owners.
- Other: I do not support any breed specific bylaws. I think this is extremely discriminatory. My dog has been attacked twice by off leash dogs and neither were pit bulls. I think pit bulls have been unfairly targeted. Owners should be responsible for their dogs. Aggression is not breed specific. Very disappointed with these targeted questions.
- Other: I DO NOT support a ban on Pitbulls!! They may have a strong jaw but they are less likely to bite than a chihuahua or other small dog breeds. Owners with dogs that have bitten a human or other dog should be held accountable and the dog should undergo training. DO NOT ban a breed based on human error!! Its not the dogs fault and is not fair to ban a specific breed!!
- Other: I do not see the issue in the current bylaws
- Other: I do not believe that any sort of breed should have different bylaws, as it is how the owner raises the animal.
- Other: I do not believe in restricting certain breeds ie. Pit Bulls from being in parks or forcing them to wear muzzles in specific areas. There is no reason to punish the animal when it comes down to how they are trained and how their home life is. It is ALWAYS the responsibility of the owner to care for the animal and if there is any aggression then the fault needs to be blamed strictly on them. I have never met a pit bull that wasn't the sweetest creature ever. Solely because their owners know how to properly take care of them. If there is ever an overly aggressive dog, or it bites someone then we need to sieze the animal and fine the owner as well as prohibit them from being able to own another dog either for a few years or permanently unless they are able to show that they can better care for a dog. It is never the dogs fault period.
- Other: I do not believe any regulations should be placed on any breed specifically.
- Other: I do not approve of any of the disgusting "laws" you are trying to impose. This is racism against a dog breed, shame on you. Give your head a shake City of Calgary, I cannot believe I even have to write this.
- Other: I do not approve of all the above. This is basically being dog racist. mind blowing. I DO NOT APPROVE
- Other: I do not agree with this breed discrimination, ive got a 7 year old blue nose who is the sweetest and most lovable old girl ever. Not every pit bull is an issue, just the owners. So if there is an issue with the dog, you should look at the owners
- Other: I do not agree with the breed specific items listed. It should be just dogs. If ANY dog shows aggressive behaviour it should be first be required to go to obedience training. But this should not be based on breed.
- Other: I do not agree with any of the above.
- Other: I do not agree with any of the "breed specific language" in any of section 3.

- Other: I do not agree that targeting a specific breed or group of breeds of dogs that "look" a certain way (ie "Pit Bulls") is an appropriate way to structure measures to control problem dog behaviours. This to me sounds like a uneducated approach to a problem not well understood. I would rather the City consult experts in this field such as canine behaviour consultants or veterinarian behaviourists, animal shelter/humane society experts exposed to these situations on a regular basis.
- Other: I disagree with those suggestions
- Other: I DISAGREE with the above absurd regulations and am disgusted the sly way trying to slide this in. <https://montrealgazette.com/news/local-news/how-calgary-reduced-dog-attacks-without-banning-pit-bulls> : there are articles from around the country and globe stating otherwise
- Other: I disagree with all of these. Pit bulls are beautiful dogs and should not be picked out of a group to have all these bylaws. Maybe you should have better laws when allowing people to have dogs. ITS NOT THE ANIMAL, ITS THE OWNER RAISING IT.
- Other: I cannot believe you're thinking about putting in a breed specific bylaw, that is absolutely appalling and disgusting. There is no science behind any Pitbull having a stronger bite. Calgary bylaw should be ashamed by even bringing this up. Absolutely disgraceful.
- Other: I cannot believe that you are asking these questions based on the hype over pitbull type dogs. No dog should be discriminated against based on the way they look. I find this entire section offensive!
- Other: I can't believe that we're targeting a breed of dog. In 2020 we've worked hard to push for equality for all people and yet we're still targeting animals based on their breeds? All that should matter is how well an animal behaves, not their breed. I have a bully breed who is the most loving and caring animal. I know multiple bully breeds who are loving and caring and great with other dogs and small children. There is no justification to target an animal because of their breed. Penalize poor training and bad homes that turn any dog into a nuisance. Don't target a breed before the dog has done anything bad. I completely disagree with this.
- Other: I can't believe I'm reading this. To me this is exact same as racism and sexism. I am shocked to see that a city I love so much would discriminate a loving family pet based on what they look like. Shame on you City of Calgary.
- Other: I am more scared of a chihuahua taking a chunk out of my knee than a slobbering pit bull. The breed is not the problem the owners are. This is entirely unnecessary. If you wish to muzzle one dog, you damn well better include all breeds under it.
- Other: I am going to fight you every step of the way on this. My dog has never shown to be mean in any way so I will not get insurance due to breed and I will never muzzle him. This is all [removed] and I'm going to rally as many people to protest any of this that I can. Let me finish with a huge [removed] you!!!!
- Other: I am disgusted with the city for the discrimination against pitbulls.
- Other: I am an owner of a pit bull I am very upset with the fact that the city is discriminating against pit bulls . Unless your dogs raised to be an attack dog your bully is highly unlikely to ever show any sign of aggression . You guys should be muzzled ,

- Other: I am against any breed specific bylaws. A dog should only be declared a "nuisance" based on a previous incident!
- Other: I am a ridiculous advocate for animal rights and I believe breed-ism classifications are a dangerous and steep slope.
- Other: I agree with your statements regarding nuisance dogs; however, Pit Bulls should NOT be singled out - a nuisance dog can be any breed!
- Other: <https://globalnews.ca/news/2527882/torontos-pit-bulls-are-almost-gone-so-why-are-there-more-dog-bites-than-ever/>
- Other: How dare you single out specific breeds! There are no problem dogs only problem owners! Obedience training for the owners and permanent bans for people who cannot care for the animals. Side note: I'm a cat person!
- Other: How can you pin things on a breed when it has to do with the dog. Small dogs sometimes are more dangerous..
- Other: How about you stop breed discrimination and start applying your [removed] laws and suggestions to every other breed that attacks people and dogs frequently. This is absurd and you are all disgusting for suggesting these laws. 31 years I have lived here and over my dead body will I muzzle my dog for you inept morons.
- Other: How about you skip BSL. it's a joke and inhumane to single out pit bulls but will allow other aggressive breeds. SHAME ON YOU FOR GOING BACK 20 years. Punish the owners NOT the dog.
- Other: How about you muzzle the [removed] owner who can train a dog instead of having breed specific bylaws. Pitbulls are some of the best dogs, and only have a bad name because of [removed] owners. Any dog has the potential to injure someone severely. Give your head a shake City of Calgary.
- Other: how about you don't single out pit bulls as the breed isn't the issue. the dog owner is the issue. calgary you're absolutely & utterly ridiculous.
- Other: How about we don't single out the breed. It's not the dog it's a bad owner. By picking on specific breeds you further perpetuate the stigma, thus making it very difficult for these dogs to get adopted when they need it.
- Other: How about stop being racist to breeds, if you do this you will loose a lot of Calgarians and you're economy will suffer even more.
- Other: How about educate the owner I love pit bulls and honestly it's not the dog that's mean it's the owner that makes them mean stop trying to make pit bulls have a bad name it's the owner fault not the dogs
- Other: Hold the owners of aggressive dogs accountable rather than punishing the animals. There should be harsher punishment for owners mistreating their dogs or training them to be aggressive, some of them should never be allowed to own an animal.
- Other: HOLD BAD OWNERS ACCOUNTABLE NOT THE BREED!!!!
- Other: Hiw about obedience training for dogs that have shown dangerous behaviour (eg. Bites) and give owners training on how to be a responsible pet owner. It's not always the dogs fault for their behaviour. Pet owners should share that burden with their pets. I think it's wrong to declare a dog a nuisance for being loud or "being at large" dogs make noise...so do humans. Also unbelievable that pitbulls are singled out as these terrible dogs who attack and act crazy and singling them out .. not allowing them to be at off leash parks? Muzzling them? Make owners know their dog and give them training dont just punish responsible pet owners for other people's ignorance.. this is NOT the way to go about this. Dont punish good dogs and responsible pet owners...cant have more than 1 "pitbull" per household. How does that make any sense .. DONT PUNISH RESPONSIBLE PET OWNERS FOR OTHER PEOPLES IGNORANCE AND DISREGARD FOR THE SAFETY OF OTHERS. Give people the ability to learn responsible pet ownership and guidance and training for pet and pet owner... and if after all fails then stricter measures can be taken place. Every case is different and has different circumstances.. dont put everyone and everything in 1 category.

- Other: Higher fines for the owners involved with raising a DOG (regardless of breed) for becoming a nuisance. Having programs for people that cannot attend to the proper care and needs of their pet.
- Other: Higher fines for any person that intentionally trains their dog to be as opposed nuisance. This is shameful what the city is proposing.
- Other: Higher fines for any dogs involved in bylaw offences. Don't discriminate against breeds of dogs.
- Other: Help dog owners that have REACTIVE dogs find training to help both dog and owner
- Other: Having breed specific guidelines is simple put, a terrible idea and further feeds into the stigma against pit bull breeds. In my life, I've met many pit bulls and NONE of them have been aggressive. Please take this off this survey, there is NO REASON to discriminate against a breed simply because some people THINK they are aggressive. I also think it's disgusting to even suggest that pit bulls should be banned from public places or required to be muzzled.
- Other: Govern the humans owning any breed dog that is aggressive. IT is time to STOP blaming dogs. Blame the humans. DO NOT ENGAGE IN BSL. There is nothing wrong with the breed of pit bull. It is the problem of an owner. Heavy fines for the owners of any dog, and believe me little dogs will bite as much as a large dog! Use some intelligence and sanity!
- Other: Go [removed] your self
- Other: Go after the irresponsible owners not the dogs. If any dog is a aggressive with a history of problems. Seek help through animal rescues and fine the owners for the vet/ rehabilitation costs.
- Other: go after owners instead of breeds. Its the people that are the problem, not the [removed] breed!
- Other: Get the [removed] out of here with your BSL [removed].
- Other: German shepards have more powerful bite force than bully breeds. Should include them in the ban if thats the route you take.
- Other: [Removed] this. None of these breeds are bad! Its [removed] owners grow up.
- Other: [Removed] the [removed] right off and deal with the drug crime
- Other: [Removed] right off
- Other: [Removed] off, it's not the Dog bread that's an issue you stunned [Removed]. It's the [removed] owner thats an issue. Leave the doggos alone, you [removed].

- Other: [Removed] off with this bully breed [removed] any dog can be a nuisance and bite and more commonly than not it's not your bully breeds you condescending senile [removed]
- Other: [Removed] off with the pitbull discrimination. Maybe focus on getting our joke of a [removed] out of office, he's more of a nuisance and threat than any pitbull.
- Other: [Removed] off with the breed specific laws idiots
- Other: [Removed] off and stop stereotyping a breed you close minded [removed]. I've owned pitbulls my entire life and none of them have ever shown aggression a breed should not be punished. They're the same as any other dog. But have the potential to hurt someone in the wrong hands. Just like any other dog. It's because pitbulls attract the wrong type of dog owners to a specific breed because they look cool and abuse and improperly train them.... has nothing to do with the breed. This issue will not be resolved by banning them or enforcing bylaws. All you idiots will be doing will make another powerful breed fall into the wrong hands of low life people who desire a "tough looking dog" you guys should be ashamed of yourself for considering such a stupid bi law. You're the same people who probably stereotype people based on the color of your skin. City of calgary I think you guys need to educate yourselves. Being ignorant towards a breed is pathetic. Disgusted with this petition.
- Other: Free community-based education for dog owners and community members to experience dogs and learn to interact safely.
- Other: For the city to understand that the dog is a reflection of the owner, not the breed. It's absolutely sickening the city of Calgary would even suggest any of the above options. The people making these decisions should be owners of large dogs, as they actually have an understanding that pitbulls are amazing dogs, along with all other dogs. Absolutely disgusted.
- Other: For the city of calgary to not classify vicious dogs as just pitbulls. STOP claiming that the breed is the most dangerous. The owners should be held accountable for the characteristics of ANY dog.
- Other: Focus on the ownership and not the dog. I'd muzzle small yappy dogs before pitbulls, as they typically insight fights and problems with large dogs. Deal with ownership, not the breed specific biased drivell.
- Other: Focus on the owners not the breed of dog
- Other: Focus on real issues in the city. This is an absolute waste of tax payer dollars and I am ashamed to call you my city councilors.
- Other: Firstly, I do not agree with singling out one dog pit bull. There are many breeds that are of more danger and any dog that endangers any animal or human should be dealt with accordingly whether it be fined or extra training at the owners offence. I do not and will continue to disagree with singling out a breed when ever dog can be deemed aggressive. The issue is bad owners as well and they should be dealt with accordingly.
- Other: First of all this applies to each every dog that is not raised in a calm manner pit bull lives matter
- Other: Fines for owners, over breed legislation. It is training, not natural behavior, that causes dog bites

- Other: Fines for owners that aren't able to properly train a dog.
- Other: Fines for delinquent bad dog owners and a rehoming program for innocent animals owned by uneducated humans
- Other: Fine the owner. Make it necessary for them to attend a reactive dog trainer class. If not rehome dog. It isn't the dogs fault but the owners
- Other: Fine the owner for bites or nuisance complaints for Any dog breed
- Other: Fine the city for trying to punish good pitbull owners.
- Other: Find bigger issues in city!!!!
- Other: Fair laws for all dogs. Strongly disagree with stereotyping.
- Other: Everything about this question is pure and utter [removed]. Your bias is showing. You all need to be fired.
- Other: Even reading briefly into research on this matter quickly reveals that pit bulls and similar breeds are not inherently violent, only strong. It is owner upbringing that influences the nature of these dogs. I am firmly opposed to any bylaw put in place that would influence ownership over these dogs, with the exception of them being acquired and trained for the specific purpose of dogfighting. Run of the mill ownership of these dogs should not be any more or less regulated than any other breed.
- Other: enough with going after pit bulls. i've meet more small dogs that bite and draw blood than big dogs and pit bulls.
- Other: Education. Pitbulls aren't the problem. Uneducated are
- Other: Education programs for pet owners, the general public and children about how to respectfully engage with dogs, how to approach dogs, the signs for when a dog is uncomfortable and a bite might be possible. Programs can be tailored and delivered at daycares, in school settings, community centres, commercials (like learning how to use our blue bins), mandatory training for new pet owners, etc. The solution starts with education and respect. Not punishment and breed selection.
- Other: Education is key, BSL must stop, I've been attacked by people and they aren't euthanized or banned from Calgary. What about children who go out and hurt pets in back yards? They aren't banned from the city, taken from their families and destroyed. Point is, education is key, they're so many advocates for responsible ownership, why not do more with rescues and trainers to ensure the best possible outcome for the families that pay city taxes who ARE responsible dog owners?
- Other: Education is best. Its not the dog its the people. I find it absolutely ridiculous as a chihuahua can be just as violent and a nuisance as the reference made about Pit bulls
- Other: Education around pit bulls. Don't punish people for owning them and being responsible.
- Other: Education and awareness for all dogs
- Other: Educate yourself in the breed. Small dogs are a thousand times more aggressive and cause more bites/ attacks then large/medium dogs very year. It's all in the way a dog is trained. Please educate yourself before putting out a survey that is fear driven towards a breed. And yes I do agree that every city owner should put any dog they own in obedience school, not so much for the dog, but for the handler.

- Other: Don't. I support none. Do not make pit bull specific bylaws. Stop.
- Other: Don't target pit bulls. Target owners that don't properly train their dogs.
- Other: Don't single out a specific breed of dog. All animals are capable of attacks
- Other: Don't punish the pitbulls for the lack of training from the owners!!! Lumping pitbulls into a negative idea is not acceptable! The only thing i would see as FAIR would be to to have higher fines! AGAIN don't punish the breed/dog for the owners lack of care & training!!
- Other: Don't punish dogs for [removed] owners. My "bully breeds" is frankly better trained then most why isn't she allowed to interact with other dogs???
- Other: Don't be racist, fascists. BSL does not fix the problem, pitbull breeds are no more dangerous than any other breed. Owners of all dogs should be mandated to do training to prevent problems. So stuff your ban. This will also take all of my business from the city. I've moved over 3600km from this nonsense once.
- Other: Don't be breed specific. It is ridiculous to put in bylaws against one breed of dog when it is well known that before pitbulls it was rotweilers that were the "bad dog type".
- Other: Don't treat nuisance dogs any differently than other breeds. It's not a bad dog, it's a bad owner.
- Other: Don't think anything of these are necessary unless it applies to ALL dog breeds. It's unfair to apply to just one breed and using pit bulls.
- Other: Don't target pit bulls. Target their owners to enforce training.
- Other: Don't single out pitbull as a breed
- Other: Don't implement any of these for bully or nuisance breeds. It's not right to ban these dogs.
- Other: Don't do this.
- Other: Don't discriminate dogs because of the breed. Discriminate the owner for their training
- Other: Don't bully the breed. This is such disgusting behaviour, give your head a shake
- Other: Don't ban the breed ban the owners.
- Other: Don't agree with any of the above statements
- Other: Dogs who are considered dangerous must be muzzled in public and can be seized. There should not be regulation regarding traits that can be considered bulldog like.
- Other: Dogs that are harmful to others should have training why do you guys have pit bull. That is disgusting clearly you people don't own dogs.
- Other: Dogs shouldn't be punished for poor ownership and HUMAN error.
- Other: Dogs should not be treated like this no matter there breed. I have met the sweetest pit bull dogs and the most aggressive small house dogs (dash hounds, chihuahua).
- Other: Dogs should not be punished for their actions. It is entirely the owners responsibility. Do not punish specific breeds based on their strength. If both parties (owner and other) is careful no one will be harmed.
- Other: Dogs should not be penalized because of their breed. The dogs that I come across on the daily, its the small dogs that lunge and try to go after my big dog. But because they're small, people think "oh they won't do anything". This is not true. My big dog loves everyone and wants to make friends with people and when a dog a fraction of his size takes him down and growls and nips him,

THIS is not okay. Not once have I ever had issues with big dogs in my entire life of owning big dogs. Its the uncontrolled small dogs. I think that if there is a call made about someone's dog being vicious, that dog should need training or a muzzle when outside in public spaces. But not because of their breed, only because of previous behavior.

- Other: Dogs should not be labelled based on their breed or appearance, all of the above suggestions are poorly thought out and punish people based on the breed of a dog as you clearly state that is not shown to be any more dangerous than any other dog breed.
- Other: dogs involved in multiple offenses should be required to take obedience classes. Dogs with behavioral issues is reflective of the OWNER not the dog. There are "bad" owners not "bad" dogs.
- Other: Dogs (of ANY breed) with a bite history should be muzzled in public and leashed at all times
- Other: Dogs (not just pit bulls) that bite are required to see a dog behaviour specialist to help prevent the same thing in the future.
- Other: Do not target pitbulls. How can you be so cruel? Mine are my support dogs. How could you seize dogs that are family. My potties have done nothing wrong!
- Other: DO NOT SUPPORT ANY OF THOSE. Such [removed]. Don't call out the pit bulls when they're literally the sweetest dog. It's the OWNER not the dog. How dare you.
- Other: DO NOT SUPPORT ANY OF THESE
- Other: Do not specify pitbulls as nuisance animals! Golden retrievers and inbred purse dogs are statistically much more violent. Pitbulls have only been a problem with bad owners. Bad owners should be addressed, not the innocent dogs!!
- Other: Do not specify any animal breeds! Leave the animals alone. Perhaps consider fines for people, that antagonize any animal. The city is looking regulate problems that just don't exist.
- Other: Do not put bylaws in place against pit bulls. I do not support this. It infuriates me that you specify the pit bull breed here and shame on you.
- Other: Do not put any laws into affect that target breeds
- Other: DO NOT PUNISH THE BREED!!!! PUNISH THE OWNER!!!!
- Other: Do not make this breed specific. Statistically, golden retrievers cause more dog bites than any other breed.
- Other: do not like this question one bit it is the owner not the dog. If a person is a proper owner then they would let people know to stay away from their dog. Sometimes people go up to people and touch their dogs without permission and that ia how most people get bit.
- Other: DO NOT legislate breed specific. What a stupid idea. Do it based on Dog behaviour.
- Other: Do not label a dogs temperament based on their breed
- Other: Do not judge dogs by their breed, that's like judging humans by their skin colour- just stupid.
- Other: Do not introduce breed-specific legislation. You do not have your facts right. "The jaws of a pit bull function the exact same way as all other dogs' jaws, and no dog breed has ever been found to possess a locking mechanism. Pit bulls also don't have more bite pressure than any other dog breed. Dr. Brady Barr of National Geographic found that the domestic canines have an average bite of 320 pounds of force, and as part of his study, he tested the bites of three popular dog breeds: a German shepherd, a Rottweiler and an American pit bull. The Rottweiler had the toughest bite with 328 pounds of force, the German shepherd came in second with 238 pounds of force, and the pit bull bit with 235 pounds of force the lowest of the group."

- Other: Do not include breed specific legislation. The issue is the owner. If you are talking dog strength, you should also include dog breeds larger than terriers. Just because an animal has the potential to be dangerous due to "pitbull's strength" doesn't mean it should be held against them and penalized for it.
- Other: Do not engage in breed-specific targeting in legislation. Crack down on small dogs that are more aggressive.
- Other: Do not define a dog by their appearance
- Other: Do not breed discriminate, any animal threatened would bite hard and it's shameful to think city of Calgary would follow in that mindset. It's on owners to train their animals properly so the fines should be Regarding poor training/handling not because it's a pit bull. Offer supportive training programs for all dogs as little dogs if not trained properly can also be considered a nuisance. Help support owners to have happy well trained animals as opposed to penalizing them for owning a large breed dog. I know numerous people with pit bulls that are the sweetest dogs because they were trained properly and not abused. Steeper fines or create a list of people prohibited from owning with previous histories of abuse towards animals would be beneficial for all.
- Other: do not agree with the singling out of pit bulls. Many other dogs ESPECIALLY little dog bite and are a nuisance. The language here is no appropriate. This should be ALL DOGS regardless of breed.
- Other: Do more research on Pitbulls PLEASE!! And stop breed shaming!!
- Other: Do more research before you decide to point the finger at one specific breed. A "pitbull" isn't even a breed, the fact that you want to target dogs based on looks alone is [removed] outrageous.. When will you realize it's the OWNER not the DOG. Unbelievable.
- Other: Discrimination against certain dog breeds should not be allowed under any circumstances. Owners should be responsible for their dogs behaviour and be the ones punished, ie. no forced muzzles.
- Other: Disagree with all of the above
- Other: Definition of nuisance is too vague or broad to fairly assess penalties. My dog barking a few times in backyard might lead to nuisance label. City is overreaching.
- Other: Deal with each dog on a case by case basis. As it's not just pitbulls that bite or are a nuisance
- Other: Current regulations are sufficient, there is no need to introduce discriminatory breed specific legislation as there is no evidence that it is effective.
- Other: Current regulation is sufficient
- Other: Continued enforcement with current rules.
- Other: Considering pitbull type arent the problem. No regulation that are biased against a specific breed pitbull or any other is completely terrible and absolutely appalling on the city of Calgarys part.
- Other: Classifying breeds this way is awful it's about the owner. Dalmatians can be just as "aggressive" as pitbulls are made out to be. Just more education stop trying to get money from us and for generalizing pitbulls as nuisances. So wrong. Should we do that to humans?

- Other: City sponsored dog training facilities. Breed is not the problem, the owners are.
- Other: City sponsored dog training classes as a preventive measure. Who ever came up with these proposed bylaws needs to educate themselves, its horrendous that you are targeting one specific breed of dog. Responsible dog owners and there pets should not be targeted due to the few that are irresponsible. I in no way whatsoever support the proposed breed specific bylaws outlined.
- Other: Charge the humans responsible for not training their dog, as well as offer more training programs so people know how to properly approach new dogs.
- Other: Can't ban a breed. Get your facts straight. This is non sense and people are un-educated all around. Please ban chihuahuas. Please ban min pins. Sharpeis. Akitas (one of the most dangerous) get out of here. Quebec and montreal tried this once. Look where that led. How about we ban and euthanize horrible people in this damn world and those that don't deserve to be loved and cared for by the breed.
- Other: Can you make the wording say dogs and not a specific breed? My owning of certain mixed breed, who is extremely well trained, shouldn't subject me to higher fines than my neighbours annoying golden retriever who snaps at everything it walks by. Why are you singling out on type of dog when it could be any dog? BSL fixes nothing.
- Other: Calgary is not a city that supports breed specific legislation.
- Other: Bylaw gos and investigates if the dog is being treated right if not has the right to take the dog
- Other: Bylaw could invest in training for nuisance dogs. Pitbull type dogs are not all bad. Many of them have sweet personalities, but appears they can be in the hands of poor owners resulting in negative behavior.
- Other: Bullying a certain breed is a disgrace I have owned pitbull type breeds my whole life and have never had any issues it's not the breed it's the owner.
- Other: Bully breeds include small dogs, like minpin, chihuahua and dash hounds. Big doesn't mean bad!!
- Other: Bully breeds are sweet hearts. This is ridiculous.
- Other: Bully breeds are not the problem.
- Other: BULLY BREED BANS DO NOT WORK, ARE UNSCIENTIFIC, AND ARE FRANKLY EMBARRASSING. The city of Calgary should be ashamed of themselves for perpetuating these lies and poor-science regarding these animals. Absolutely do not support this in any way shape or form.
- Other: BSL is outdated and proven not to work. This is discrimination with no basis in fact.
- Other: BSL is ineffective and targets dogs rather than bad owners. It is shameful that this city is even considering something like this.
- Other: BSL is complete bologna, don;t give! Places like Ontario have proven that BSL DOES NOT WORK and they have already introduced a bill to have it removed. Don't take steps backwards ! Leave the Bully Breeds alone and focus on DOGS that do bite regardless of breed. BSL is racism towards breeds and not right. If that's the case let's find out what colour of people cause the most problems and muzzle them, or would that be racist to judge all by the actions of some. I've never been more disappointed in Calgary then I am reading the nonsense.

- Other: BSL does not work. So many communities are repealing and reversing BSL. At most, offer additional training and resources. Any dog is capable of biting, not just the breeds mentioned above. Do not give in to pro-BSL lobbyists.
- Other: BSL does not work. All dogs behave based on the training of their owner, not because they are born and bred vicious or aggressive dogs. Ridiculous.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation is discriminatory. You've also provided incorrect information about pit-bull type dogs. They do not have increased bite severity. This is a well dispelled myth. The fact that you've shared this information in this survey reduces the integrity of the results significantly.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation does NOT reduce the incidence or severity of dog bites, it penalizes responsible pet owners and kills innocent dogs. A community approach to responsible pet ownership, one that focuses on the behavior of the dog and the owner, is the best way to protect public safety and promote animal welfare.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation does not reduce the incidence or severity of dog bites, it penalizes responsible pet owners and kills innocent dogs. A community approach to responsible pet ownership, one that focuses on the behavior of the dog and the owner, is the best way to protect public safety and promote animal welfare.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation does not reduce the incidence or severity of dog bites, it penalizes responsible pet owners and kills innocent dogs. A community approach to responsible pet ownership, one that focuses on the behavior of the dog and the owner, is the best way to protect public safety and promote animal welfare.
- Other: Breeds have nothing to do with it - owners are the problem
- Other: Breeds are not the issue, the owners decisions on training are. If my bull dog breed is properly trained out in public they SHOULD NOT HAVE TO ABIDE BY WEARING MUZZLES. I spend ample amounts of money and time into training my bull terrier. We are responsible owners yet we should not have to be paying more in insurances and fees. We do our part because we know the breed. You should not be imposing fees and penalties to those who are responsible. These laws will increase the risk of abandonment of a breed and more euthanizations. This discussion is pathetic and quite honestly absurd. I have been attacked ore times from [removed] small dogs than big large dogs. Have they ever recieved fines or war rent for opening up discussion for large fees/penalties? NO! If you are going to open up discussion for large fees and penalties for owners then it should be for ALL DOGS NOT JUST ONE BREED. You think my next door neighbour with the [removed] chihuahua who bit me worries about training her rat. I think the discussion opened up should be about RESPONSIBLE DOG OWNERSHIP not breed ownership. Get your [removed] together Calgary, this is racism on dogs.
- Other: Breed Specific measures should not be included in the new bylaw specifically Pitbull related. All dogs should be held to the same standards. Responsible Calgary dog owners especially those who own these breeds already will be subjected to being punished and targeted over a dog breed that has been allowed in Calgary for more than 12 years.
- Other: Breed Specific Legislation would negate most of the animal rescues around Calgary. This is unacceptable.

- Other: Breed specific legislation is not the answer. Concentrate on responsible ownership. Fines and bans on owners who are derelict in their duties as a pet owner.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is not needed here. ANY dog can be a nuisance not just one type of dog.
- Other: Breed Specific Legislation is just animal racism. Seek criminal charges for the owners of ANY animal involved in an assault.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is ineffective and wrong. Please desist.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is dangerous on so many levels. Ensuring owners have the right resources and training to be responsible pet owners is the best call.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is a terrible idea.
- Other: Breed specific legislation does not work. "Pitbulls" are not bad. Require ALL dog owners to train dogs and control them. German shepherds are dangerous, Shar pei, Chihuahua
- Other: Breed specific legislation DOES NOT WORK and is highly problematic in furthering stigmatization of the breed. Problematic dog behaviour is owner specific and should not be generalized.
- Other: Breed specific legislation does not work and does not make sense. A breed does not determine a dog's personality. It's up to the owner to properly socialize and train their pets.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is scientifically proven not to work. Stop trying this ridiculous nonsense.
- Other: Breed Specific Laws are beyond discriminatory to not only the dogs but their owners. Pit Bulls also rank very low on the scale for most breed likely to bite. This is something you politicians can simply google. If you pass this [removed] law you will face lawsuits. I can promise you that.
- Other: Breed specific labeling is racism and should be abolished!!!
- Other: Breed specific bylaws were shown to not be required/supported in previous public engagement. There should not be breed specific legislation.
- Other: Breed specific bylaws have no place in this. The problem is not the breed it is the owner....and the owner on both sides of incidents. Spend time educating dog owners on how to train their pets. This question and any reference to "pit bull" or pit bull type dogs only creates more bias against these breeds.
- Other: Breed specific by-laws are ridiculous. This is a terrible question, shame on you city of Calgary.
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are not appropriate. Any dog can be a nuisance or violent.
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are [removed]. It's the owners not the breed
- Other: Breed specific bylaws and legislation don't work. Huge waste of taxpayer money. Many places have banned this because of that fact. It does not reduce bites or incidents. If anything it entices criminals to seek out these types of dogs for status. Also, it feels a bit racist to me. What's next? Rotwillers? German Shepard? Mastiff? I do not support this at all.
- Other: Breed specific bans don't work so this is a terrible bylaw
- Other: Breed should NOT be a factor. If a dog, any dog, regardless of breed, bites someone or something, then the City has the right to order them to be muzzled in public. You should never force it just over a breed. After 8years of going to the dog park every single day, and playing with Pitbulls, the only dog that has bitten has been a leash reactive 8month old Jack Russell.

- Other: Breed bias should not be part of dog law. Many other breeds are equally powerful and strong. You are punishing people who are breed ambassadors, and will affect the lives and enrichment and socialization of otherwise safe and happy pets.
- Other: BLM does not work. Any dog is able and will bite it does not matter the breed.
- Other: Better training for the owners of the dogs. I find its not the dog that is the issue it is the owner. If there is a way to allow dog owners better training on handling dogs. Also there are situations where the owner of the dog bites a stranger, maybe the dog was protecting its owner. We should have a leash coding system to let people know not to pet strangers dogs.
- Other: Best not to get the City involved in this. Too difficult and hasn't worked elsewhere. Best to address case-by-case as a standard nuisance claim.
- Other: Being breed specific is ridiculous it's almost never the dogs fault. The owners should be held responsible not the dog.. and signalling out pit bulls but not the little dogs that actually bite and attack people just because pit bulls are bigger is ridiculous
- Other: Behavioural* training required for dogs declared a nuisance. Obedience training (sit, stay, etc) isn't going to stop a dog from barking their head off all day
- Other: Behaviour training should be given to owners.
- Other: Basic obedience training should be required for ALL dogs over the age of 3 months, regardless of breed.
- Other: Bans should not be breed specific. That is saying all dogs of one breed are the same, and in this case- aggressive. There are other dog breeds such as Rottweilers that are found to bite harder than Pitbull breeds. This is infuriating that Calgary is even considering breed laws. There should be fines for OWNERS whose pets are aggressive, bite, etc.
- Other: BANNING PITBULLS DOES NOT WORK. there are so many good pitbulls out there this doesnt work! Sure higher fines maybe for repeat offenders. That's it! e. Ple
- Other: Banning and restrictions of specific breeds will help, Pit Bulls are family breeds, this is not based in any science and it's honestly disappointing to see that it's even being considered.
- Other: BANNING A SPECIFIC BREED IS NOT GOING TO CHANGE ANYTHING.
- Other: Banning a certain breed is ridiculous, any large dog is capable of biting, if you're choosing to do this all large breeds should have to go through this. Muzzling a good friendly dog makes them look vicious, there's no bad vicious dog, it depends on how a owner raises the dog. If raised properly there should be no problem. Maybe enforce some training classes before being aloud to own a large breed. But making Pitbull a banned or restricted is absolutely horrid and I'd personally be moving right away if this happened.
- Other: Ban retractable leashes, this is a disaster waiting to happen. Small dog owners allow their dogs to freely roam around at large distances. These little untrained dogs then go and attack larger dogs, but get away with it due to their sizes. I don't think banning Pitbulls would solve the problem. There should be equal punishments for all dog owners, despite the breed or size. In that case, everyone should have to go through obedience training, regardless of the dog's breed and size.

- Other: Ban pit bulls altogether.
- Other: Bad owners should be held countable not the breed of dog
- Other: At no point should anyone be penalized for their breed of animal. It is the owners responsibility to make sure there animals are trained appropriately. There are so many little dogs that are vicious and bite strangers and yet they do not have these types of restrictions placed on them.
- Other: As someone who does not own a bully breed but has dealt with many different breeds of dogs over several years, this is a bias and restrictive legislation. Stop with the fear mongering of the pit bull breeds. This is uncalled for and uncouth. The issue is not the breed but the lack of training due to poor ownership. At the most, anyone who wishes to own any dog breed should be required to take a responsible owners course before owning a dog within city limits. The comment about a pit bulls strength possibly causing more severe damage is erroneous information, as a bully breed tends to bite and hold, where as a Shepard for example bites and tears away . The city should consult with canine behavioural specialists and experts who do not work for the city before they ask the uneducated public for their opinions. The general public's knowledge on such an item comes from sensationalize media, which is also uneducated and miss leading.
- Other: As some one who owns a Pitbul type dog I would prefer to see our dogs breed not discriminated against simply because they fit the physical characteristics. We have never had an issue at on off leash park or walking with any sort of bully breed out there . We CONSTANTLY have trouble with small to medium breeds attacking our dog, and luckily enough ours is trained not to react to them. I think instead of punishing a whole breed you should be focusing on the dogs that are showing these types of aggressive reactions.
- Other: As a veterinarian and a pitbull (which isn't a breed) owner, I am highly disgusted at this questionnaire from the City of Calgary. Every dog is a bite risk. Every dog has the potential to cause damage. Pitbull type dogs do not have locking jaws or superior strength compared to dogs of their own size. Cities used to say the same thing about Rottweilers, Dobermans, German shepherds, etc. I have seen more dog fights between golden retrievers than I have pitbulls. You are continuing a dangerous stereotype that leads to more abuse and neglect to these dogs.
- Other: As a pit bull owner and a lover of the breed this law is disgusting and discriminatory. My beautiful 80lb pitbull could never hurt a fly and is terrified of the air conditioner. I've met hundreds of worse breeds that aren't even listed.
- Other: Are you serious.... I support none of these. You literally state there is NO more bites happening from Pit Bulls, yet you are targeting that breed.....[removed].
- Other: Apply the same rules for all dogs. Don't single out breeds, any dog can be a problem.
- Other: Anything specific to pit bulls is insane. Breed specific bans are the most ignorant thing. It comes down to a dogs owner. Not the dog. As a pit bull mix owner I would be less likely to be supportive of anything in calgary if the city puts this into place.
- Other: Any owner that gets a dog must complete obedience training with each dog. Regardless of breed.

- Other: ANY dog that falls under nuisance or breaks bylaws, the OWNER must face fines and training. It is not dogs fault for being raised that way. Stop blaming the dog or dog breed and start looking at the owner
- Other: any dog owner who has a dog that shows antisocial tendencies she be held accountable, not the dog. The owner is the one who puts the dog in a position where thier behavior puts others at risk.
- Other: Any dog of a large size has the ability to severely injur, discrimination agasint one breed is absurd and outrageous.
- Other: ANY dog not just Pitbulls that cause problems need to recommended extra training. FYI German Shepards have stronger bites that Pitbulls.
- Other: Any dog has the ability to be aggressive. Punish the deed and not the breed. I think it is disgusting that the city is even entertaining this idea of going after pitbulls or pitbull type dogs. That is not fair and discriminatory. As a tax payer I am angry with this and feel as though the city should be ashamed of themselves for entertaining this ridiculousness.
- Other: ANY dog declared a nuisance or dangerous should not be allowed off leash in a public area. All dogs can be dangerous due to improper ownership/training, NOT just pit bulls.
- Other: any dog can bite not just pit bull try looking at facts
- Other: Any dog can be violent , dont single out pit bulls. Let them be!
- Other: Any dog can be nuisance, most little dogs such as a Chihuahua or shitsu can cause damage to a larger breed dog ! Pit bulls are not a problem and never will be it all comes down to being a responsible pet owner nothing to do with any type of breed of dog ! Every dog can bite just like any human can fight or kill . NOTHING TO DO WITH DOG BREEDS . Very unacceptable for the city of Calgary to single out one dog breed . ABSOLUTE BULL !!!! [removed] DONT DISCRIMINATE CERTAIN DOG BREEDS. It's the owners responsibility to be in control and know there dogs behaviour.
- Other: Any bylaw in place that is specifically against one breed is insane. Its not the dogs fault it's the owners. I find all the above completely unacceptable
- Other: Any BSL is unjust. Deal with the specific problem dogs. Do not put all types in one group.
- Other: Any breed of dog, when out into the hands of an irresponsible and inappropriate owner, can be trained to be aggressive. How about instead of targeting one type of breed, background checks must be administered for ALL dog owners. Dogs are not the problem. People are the problem. And bylaws discriminating against certain breeds is what creates fear and stigma.
- Other: Any breed can be raised and trained to be the sweetest animal you'd meet, invest in cheaper and more effective TRAINING. So the animals and owners can be well educated on how to properly take care of their dog. Care about preventative measures, don't limit an animals freedom because of their physical characteristics
- Other: Anti-Pit Bull laws are quite frankly absurd, and the idea that the city would try to rip apart a happy, well behaved dog from it's family by making it financially impractical to impossible for its owners to continue to own it, simply based on breed is disappointing to me as a citizen. I am not a Pit Bull owner, but I don't have to be to see that the "solution" the city proposes disproportionately targets the poor, as well as a dog breed who's only crime is to be an easy target for loud vocal minorities that need to protest something to feel self important. There is no science to back up banning Pit Bulls and not other large more aggressive dogs breeds. We trust our politicians to be leaders who make choices for the common good, not sycophants who cater to the lowest common denominator. This entire approach to this "problem" is misguided and regrettable

- Other: animals. This in addition to the fact that the inaccuracy of dog bite data and the difficulty in identifying dog breeds. What a waste of my tax dollars. City should be focusing on bigger issues at hand while we are in the midst of a pandemic and economic downturn.
- Other: Allow pit bulls to be treated the same as other dogs and not play into a hateful stigmatism
- Other: All targeted breed specific bylaws should be tossed in the trash
- Other: All questions should be applied to the human owner of the breed
- Other: All pit bulls are not vicious.. it should be owner training.. any dog can bite and be vicious. We have a German Shepard in our neighborhood I do not trust and has tried to attack more than once
- Other: All of this breed specific legislation is absolute nonsense. This kind of ignorance doesn't belong in 2020 - you would think Calgary knows better as a self touting progressive city but here we are. Absolutely disgusting.
- Other: All of these suggestions are appalling to me. Pet owners are responsible for making sure their dog isn't put in a situation of discomfort. This can happen with any breed if the owner isn't being responsible. As a professional in the pet industry, I am deeply disappointed and saddened by the breed discrimination in this survey. Pit bulls are lovely animals, and suggesting that they are more prone to accidents/ causing more harm than other breeds is absolutely revolting. A dog is as good as their owner, that is it. I have been bitten by dogs on multiple occasions, but never by a pit bull, and rarely have I seen one in a fight. This survey should be holding owners accountable for their actions, not the dog.
- Other: ALL OF THESE ARE STUPID! PIT BULLS ARE NOT ANY MORE DANGEROUS THAN ANY OTHER DOG
- Other: All of these are ridiculous, it is not the breed it is the owner. If Calgary implements any of these breed specific consequences they should be absolutely ashamed. I will gratefully move away.
- Other: All of these are awful
- Other: All of these actually [removed], pit bull breeds are not vicious.
- Other: all of the above, but please remember that BREED has little to do with BEHAVIOR. If needed, please check that pet owners aren't abusing the animal first, then follow up with the pet.
- Other: All of the above options are wrong. Breed specific legislature is WRONG. Deal with each animal on a case to case basis, not according to their breed.
- Other: All dogs should be treated the same ! Rottwillers have a strong bite.
- Other: All dogs should be trained. All fines should be equal for all breeds. Pit bulls are like any other breed and singling out breeds is unfair in society as we are currently experiencing these problems via race.
- Other: All dogs should be properly trained if they are going to be in the public regardless of breed. labelling a dog because of it's breed is descrimination and shouldn't be tolerated.

- Other: All dogs regardless of breed should have the above measures applied if they are a danger.
- Other: All dogs have the potential to bite and harm others, Pitbulls are not the only breed that have this potential and I do not believe they should be the only breed considered. I strongly disagree with the actions listed above and believe the owner should be punished and not the dog.
- Other: All dog owners should be required to take animal handling courses to help educate everyone on dog behaviour. Small dogs bite more often and create a situation where larger dogs react, and usually badly. Any dog that bites should be seized and evaluated. Just because a dog looks scary does not mean it will bite. Everyone needs the proper education and guidance for responsible pet ownership.
- Other: All Dog owners should attend seminars to fully understand the signs that are being given by dogs. The majority of bites occur when we dont listen to our dog telling us they are uncomfortable in some way. This is their last resort. Schools should implement programs to teach children how to behave around dogs. People are the problem, not dogs
- Other: All dog breeds should be treated the same if their actions are the same.
- Other: All dog breed specific regulations have been thoroughly proven not to work
- Other: Aggressive dogs are formed because of abuse from HUMANS
- Other: Against all of the above
- Other: Address the breeds that are most common for bites. I've worked with dogs for years and have encountered more aggressive shepherds than I have pit bull.
- Other: Absolutely nothing. There are dogs with more strength behind their bites, but pit bulls got called out???? Ridiculous. My pittie would never bore anyone, and doesn't need any additional insurance. Check on Karen's 5lb little chihuahua who bites ankles, and leave my little angel out of this.
- Other: ABSOLUTELY NOT. We just moved from Ontario specifically because of this madness. NO BREED LEGISLATION.
- Other: Absolutely not. It's not the breed. Do not punish the dogs for doing nothing besides being a certain breed. This is not right.
- Other: Absolutely none of the above, any dog can attack and do a lot of damage just as any bully breed can, pit bulls are the nicest dogs I've ever met and have NEVER seen an aggressive one and I own one myself who is best friends with my 2.5 year old son!
- Other: Absolutely none of the above listed measures should be enforceable by the City or by City By-laws
- Other: Absolutely NO legislation specific to pitbulls should exist. Zero. Such rules and policies are based on myth and misinformation.
- Other: Absolutely NO breed specific laws discriminating against pit bull and pit bull like breeds.
- Other: Pit Bull breeds are not always more aggressive, most have a bad reputation because of bad owners. Dogs should be muzzled in public ONLY if they have had a biting offence. All dogs bite, it is one of the few ways they have to communicate that they need space. Biting or nipping is not always aggression. Please do more research on dogs in general before making bylaws

- Other: Bully breed is such a stupid term. It's not the dog, it's the owner. If you get rid of bully breeds those idiots raising them will just turn other dogs into bully breeds. Don't punish the animals because their owners are idiots. If the owner needs for their dog to wear a muzzle, then they can put them on their dog. But saying all pit bulls need to wear them is ridiculous. Did you know pit bulls used to be used as nannies. THEY BABYSAT SMALL CHILDREN. Handle a dog bite as it needs to be handled but don't pin it on specific breeds. Dogs are animals and have animal instinct, its up to us to realize what they are comfortable with and help them through. We as human beings did domesticate dogs after all. It's our fault they're in our homes and it should be our responsibility to make sure they aren't aggressive. But it's not their fault.
- Other: a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite is not an accurate statement as many larger breeds have the same if not more strength and have the capability to inflict far more severe bites and injuries. If the city is so pressed on this breed perhaps requiring a criminal check on people licensing the breed would insure that these dogs end up in criminal environments. And as for declaring a dog a nuisance the situation should be investigated as neighbours with children or neighbours taunt and provoke dogs as well
- Other: a specific bread of dog it not the problem it is the owner. I have seen a 5 pound dog be more aggressive than any pitbull I have ever encountered. Fine the owner regardless for bread! this is discrimination and honestly bull shit
- Other: A huge [removed] [removed] to the city of Calgary for even suggesting this - Pit bulls and the most well behaved dogs I've encountered once they've been trained by the owner. [removed] [remved]
- Other: A German shepherd king corson English bull dog and a bull mastiff and rottweiler all have high psi bite force then a pitbull out of 23 dog breed the pitbull comes in 19th place. And as for stopping dogs from barking you might as well take out your own voice box so you cant make a noise or your kids.
- Other: A full investigation required first, and this must include all dogs, not just bully type dogs. No bad dogs, just [removed] owners.
- Other: A dog shouldnt be charged for its breed as much as a person shouldnt be charged for their color. This makes me disgusted with Calgary.
- Other: A dog should not be held accountable for the way it was raised. It's human error b
- Other: A bylaw that makes it necessary to properly train any dog. Regardless of breed!! All dogs can be dangerous if not trained well! As a child I personally was attacked by a tea cup poodle and had to have stitches and reconstructive surgery to my face.
- Other: A better spca that actually does proper investigations into the situations of pets!
- Other: 20 years ago it was German Shepards, it's not the breed it's the owner. I've owned a few Pitt bills in my day they are no more threat then other dogs
- Other: .
- Other: ALL dog breeds should be treated the same. Pit bulls are no more dangerous than any other breed. Any breed can be a dangerous dog given bad owners - and to be clear the problem is the OWNERS.

- Other: #dontbullymybreed!! It's not the breed it's the owner
- Other: "Pitbulls" are not the problem bad owners are!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! More small dogs attack people and other animals than pitbulls do
- Other: "Pit-bull" type dogs should not be singled out! Lots of breeds have the potential for severe bites. We need to start educating people better about dog training, dog behaviour and responsible ownership. Muzzles, leashes and obedience training are all good ideas for ANY dog that is a potential bite risk but how can you enforce a bylaw for it?? And a dog that barks in the yard is completely different from a dog that is at large and/or a potential bite risk. Lumping barking noise into the nuisance category is ridiculous for the purpose of this survey as it seems you're really only trying to address severe bites, and introduce breed specific legislation which I do not agree with at all. MORE EDUCATION!
- Other: "Pit bulls" should not be specifically targeted in regards to these bylaws. Doing such can impose unrealistic perceptions of the public towards them. Rendering them vulnerable without justified cause. They should be treated as any other dog.
- Other: *It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite. You're words exactly! So why are singling them out??
- Other: A better clarification on what is considered a nuisance dog
- Other: A complete removal of species specialized bylaws. Scapegoating. We all need someone to blame, but
- Other: A reward for well behaved pit bulls and their owners for all the stereotypes and stress they have to go through, trying to prove that they are a product of their environment.
- Other: It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite. You do realize that a pit bull is not in the top 10 for bite strength? If this is your argument then we should muzzle Dobermans, German Shepards, English Bulldogs, Mastiffs, Rottweilers, and Cane Corsos. So this isn't really why. It's because you believe that pit bulls are more likely to bite. Also, who decides what looks like a pit bull. Any dog with a bigger head? This is ridiculous on so many levels.
- Other: Pitbulls cannot bite any harder than other dogs of their size. This is a myth and has been disproven by SCIENCE. Your survey is supporting BSL which again, has been proven to be ineffective everywhere that it has been implemented. Do not waste our tax dollars like this.
- Other: Absolutely disgusted to see that the City is looking to single out Pitbulls! Shame on you!!!
- Other: Absolutely none of this is right. I can't believe the City is actually discriminating against dogs based on breed
- Other: Absolutely ridiculous to try to enforce breed restrictions as they have proven to be biased and unfounded
- Other: Adding additional legislation for pit bulls is unjust for those who facilitate appropriate training for their pets. I do not think they should be singled out.

- Other: After a dog bites/attacks is the ONLY time that punishment should be given. Any of the muzzling/not allowing dogs into off-leash parks creates a stigma against these breeds which is unfair.
- Other: ALL AND ANY aggressive dogs, no matter what breed to attend behavioral training. No laws bias to pit bull 'looking' dogs.
- Other: All dog have power not just pitbulls
- Other: All dogs and owners should be mandated to go through training
- Other: All dogs should be treated the same, pit bulls are the most caring unless they're owner teaches them to be bad if anything chihuahuas and other small dogs act worse & bite etc but I don't see anyone putting barriers up for them. Ridiculous.
- Other: All dogs who have bitten must be treated equally, no matter the breed. A dog bite is a dog bite, owners must have control over their pets
- Other: All fines should be treated fairly not with bias
- Other: Anti-Pit Bull laws are quite frankly absurd, and the idea that the city would try to rip apart a happy, well behaved dog from it's family by making it financially impractical to impossible for its owners to continue to own it, simply based on breed is disappointing to me as a citizen. I am not a Pit Bull owner, but I don't have to be to see that the "solution" the city proposes disproportionately targets the poor, as well as a dog breed who's only crime is to be an easy target for loud vocal minorities that need to protest something to feel self important. There is no science to back up banning Pit Bulls and not other large more aggressive dogs breeds. We trust our politicians to be leaders who choices for the common good, not sycophants who cater to the lowest common denominator. This entire approach to this "problem" is misguided and regrettable.
- Other: Any breed can be a nuisance, if it exhibits had behaviour. No specific breed should get its freedom taken. If it is a "nuisance" then consider obedience training if you'd like to take your dog off leash or without a muzzle.
- Other: ANY breed dog that causes harm or illustrates aggressive behaviors should be mandated to take training classes and be on leash at all times if this is not complied with then a mandatory surrender.
- Other: ANY dog breed should be given a higher fine, if that animal has behaved aggressively. Not all Pitbull type dogs are bad. Any dog can bite. Any dog poorly trained can cause damage. All dogs are good, until put in the wrong hands. Blame the owner, not the dog.
- Other: ANY dog breed with a PROVEN/DOCUMENTED history of aggression, or nuisance behaviour, their OWNER should be mandated to take an obedience class with a trainer shown to help reduce aggressive behaviour in dogs. This is not SPECIFIC to PITBULL TYPE BREEDS.
- Other: Any dog could act this way. People need to pay more attention to the environment of their home. Just like people get therapy, dogs can change too!!!!
- Other: ANY dog that bites should be subject to the same laws as a pit bull.
- Other: Any laws that single out pit bulls specifically is CRUEL and disgusting. These animals cannot help which breed they are, and these laws will result in more of these breeds left alone in shelters. Sad and disappointing as a Calgarian animal lover.

- Other: As a pit bull owner ..these laws are incredibly offensive and ignorant. Yes, if someone has an aggressive pet no matter the breed they should take greater precautions but not all pitbull owners should be punished
- Other: Assess to see if dog has been mistreated and reacts negatively because of that, before rushing to euthanizing. Making sure that the owners are teaching children to treat a dog properly and not abuse it, thus which sometimes leads to a dog bite, self defense on behalf of the dog. Attempt to help the dog mentally first.
- Other: Banning breeds is ineffective. It is the OWNERS that are the problem. Ban people from owning pets if their animals are involved in more than one serious incident. Require them as owners to take responsible pet ownership classes, as well as pet obedience training
- Other: Banning nuisance owners for failing to control their animal
- Other: Behavioral issues should be looked at on an individual basis, not creating bylaws for specific breeds. Many pit bulls and pit bull crosses are likely to be victims of abuse and mistreatment, and creating a bylaw requiring all pit bulls to be muzzled in public will likely prevent many owners from taking their dogs out in safe ways to socialize with other dogs, creating more hostile and antisocial animals. Preventing pit bulls from accessing off-leash parks will have the same negative effect. I believe if the goal of the City of Calgary is to reduce the number of dog bites/attacks and "nuisance dogs" that should be done so on a case-by-case basis, regardless of the breed of dog. Implementing additional insurance or training costs would likely prevent people from being willing to adopt pit bulls from shelters and not do anything to solve the problem. Additional resources and support should be provided to those looking to adopt these specific breeds so they are aware of the additional risks and procedures of owning certain breeds. Research has shown pit bulls are the most likely breed of dog to be euthanized, and placing extra restrictions on the ability to adopt and care for these animals will lead directly to an increase in these statistics. Education will go a lot further in trying to solve the problem than implementing bylaws directly targeting more vulnerable breeds and owners.
- Other: Being breed specific and having surveys such as this creates more issue than not. It is an issue w the owner and as mentioned in the above, pit bulls are not involved in more bite instances. Making those that own pit bulls pay more for example is targeting and not looking at the issue as a whole. It's not the breed, it's those who own and that could be said for any owner or any breed.
- Other: Both owner and dog should be required to be evaluated to find out Why said dog is having problems and lashing out. The dog should be vetted and then directed from there to to classes, again for Both owner and dog. ALL dogs, that are proven to be a nuisance, not just bully breeds.
- Other: Breed discrimination does not work
- Other: Breed discrimination is not ok especially since you are well aware that pitbulls or pitbull like dogs are not involved in more incidents. If more severe bites are the issue there are plenty of large breed dogs with more severe bites than small breeds. Bred discrimination is as unfounded as racism.
- Other: Breed has NOTHING to do with the above, Pitbull types are not more dangerous and studies have proven that. Singling out Pitbull types is RACIST and Discrimination and would be disgusting of Calgary to implement this. It's 2020 time to start acting like it.

- Other: Breed rasism is rediculous! I have not met an aggressive pit bull type dog ever, but I have met aggressive Shepard type and others. So putting pit bull types in a group of their own is not right.
- Other: Breed should not be a factor in this.
- Other: Breed specific bans are completely ridiculous. Its the owner, not the dog
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are cruel. It perpetuates a stereotype when the issue is the owners. Punish the people for being the problem not an entire breed. Punishments should be higher for abuse/neglect/cruelty cases. Pitbulls, or any other "vicious" breed, are not the problem.
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are NOT helpful. All dogs require the proper training. It is not helpful to punish dogs who have never done anything wrong. Target the nuisance dogs, regardless of the breed
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are wrong.
- Other: Breed specific is stupid. All breeds have the ability to be vicious. If any dog attacks a human that did not do anything to deserve it should be put into training, if training does not solve the dogs aggression it should be humanely euthanized no matter what breed.
- Other: Breed specific legislation disproportionately punishes responsible dog owners and preemptively penalizes dogs because of how they look. It is not factually based on their actual training or dispositions.
- Other: Breed specific legislation does not decrease the amount of bites or attacks. The bite force of a pitbull is the same as a labrador retriever. It is irresponsible owners that cause dog bites and attacks. If there are regulations around pitbull type breeds then these irresponsible owners will buy other types of dogs. Please do not discriminate against bully breeds. They are inteligent and high energy dogs that deserve space in off leash parks just as much as any other dog.
- Other: Breed specific legislation has been proven time and time again to be ineffective at reducing both the number and severity of bites. It's so disappointing that my city - a city whose Animal Services was once a model used by other cities around North America is even considering this legislation. Shame on you.
- Other: Breed specific legislation has been proven to NOT work. Montreal for example. Research has proven German shepherds & rotties have stronger bite strength. Pitts were once used as nanny dogs. For example 70s it was the German shepherds; 80s Doberman Pincher 90s Rottweilers. The last 10+ years it's the terrier breeds. In all honesty, I'm more terrified of my neighbours small dog. As they are irresponsible pet owners as they can get away with not training their dog. Therefore more bad behaviour because they are cute
- Other: Breed specific legislation has not proven effective in Ontario. There has been no drop in the amount of bites since the law has been enacted. It is also not true that a "pit bull's" bite is any stronger than a German Shepard, Rottweiler or any larger breed. The dogs behavior is completely based on it's training and environment.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is absurd and should NOT be implemented.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is completely inappropriate and I do not support this is anyway. All dogs should be treated on an individual basis. I have never been bitten by pitbulls or any other large breed dog; I have however been bitten by 6 Chihuahuas. Owners make dog behaviour not breeds.

- Other: Breed-related laws are garbage. Chihuahuas are neurotic and bite more than bully breeds.
- Other: Breeds do not have anything to do with behaviour. It is the about the people. How can the city of Calgary be so naive. This is 2020 for goodness sakes. Don't we know better?
- Other: BSL - which means discriminating against a specific breed has proven unsuccessful in preventing dog bites, etc. And in most cases punishes responsible owners. All animals, regardless of breed, should be treated equally. Any breed if trained poorly or mistreated can cause concern and possibly injure someone. Also: a lot of the responses here can come from those who have preconceived or uneducated beliefs about the breed. They're wonderful dogs.
- Other: BSL (Breed specific legislation does not work. Responsible ownership education and training does. BSL has been proven to increase kill rates in shelters because the communities in which they are impacted force people to not choose great and loving dogs just because of their status. And many dogs that exhibit "bully looks" often are not part of any bully breeds and vice versa. There are many Hound dog mixes that look part bully breeds" when they are not. This BSL only encourages less education and responsibility on part of the owner, and only divides the community. I hope the City of Calgary administration puts the tax dollars to good use and actually researches into BSL and how many cities that once had this legislation have now pulled it back due to 1. Public outrage , 2. Not seeing lower numbers of aggressive dog instances because all dogs are capable of this in the wrong owners hands, 3. It indirectly increases kill rates for bully breeds in rescuers and shelters due to people's want to adopt animals that require special legislation to follow.
- Other: BSL does not solve any problems.
- Other: BSL does not work. There are dog bites of all breeds (especially small!) that go unrecorded daily! This is a horrible decision by the city to even consider.
- Other: BSL is not effective in reducing dog bites and is harmful. Obedience training for ALL nuisance dogs (regardless of size) is a much more applicable and safe practice.
- Other: By singling out pit bulls in this questionnaire, of course people are going to say yes to those things. If you didn't single out a type of dog perhaps this questionnaire wouldn't be biased. Please void all your responses and redo it without bias. What about aggressive labs, or aggressive chihuahuas. Or the shih tzu that attacked my shepherd? This is not a time to encourage bias and single out specific breeds.
- Other: Bylaws that single out certain breeds is ridiculous. If, and only if a dog bites or has an incident should fines and measures be put in place to penalize the owner.
- Other: Calgary contracts animal related issues to a competent person who has the relevant experience and skill to deal with the situation.
- Other: Calgary should not in any way shape or form be associated with breed shaming (pitbulls). Instead of passing ridiculous laws let's focus on educating those who are not familiar with the breed and ensuring that any dog owner regardless of the breed is a responsible one. Pitbulls are amazing, sweet and loving pets and deserve a chance just like any other dog. Any dog can initiate a fight, however with proper training and a smart owner many incidents can be avoided.
- Other: Chihuahuas and pomeranians must be muzzled in public

- Other: Chihuahuas are more of a nuisance and aggressive breed why not put restrictions on them too?
- Other: City needs dog owners to be held more responsible for there pets, You can't discriminate against breads. Pit bulls are one of the nicest breads out there and when raised properly are no different then any other dog.
- Other: Disagree with definition of nuisance dogs
- Other: Do not agree with any of the above.
- Other: Do not ban pit bulls from anything. Its a ridiculous idea.
- Other: Do not enact any BSL. It has been proven to be ineffective.
- Other: Do not introduce breed specific legislation
- Other: Do not lump all pitbull type breeds as bad. They are only as bad as the person training or not training them. Don't lump all breeds into bad behavior, especially when they can be so loving and friendly.
- Other: Do not punish dog based on the bread but also please regard the owner compartment and address the matter to the owner and not the bread. Owner should be responsible for their dog - please check what montreal is now doing
- Other: Do not put a label on pit bull breeds put a ban on dangerous owners
- Other: Do not single out breeds
- Other: do not target a specific breed of dog. It is the smaller dogs like Chihuahuas and dachshunds that bite more often
- Other: Do the same thing you would do if a poodle bit you instead of being biased towards a single breed.
- Other: Dog by dog case. Pitbull does NOT equal aggressive. The owner is the issue, not the specific breed. I've had FAR more encounters with aggressive small breed dogs than with pitties due to lack to training by their owner in my opinion. The breed is not the problem. And I find it quite disturbing that this conversation is still happening.
- Other: Dog owner education for owners of dogs declared a nuisance/involved in incidents.
- Other: Dogs involved in more than one vicious offence in the last year must be muzzled in public, including off-leash parks until obedience training is completed and trainer signs off that dog is no longer high risk.
- Other: dogs on leash cannot be in off leash parks, all dogs are required to take some form of obedience training
- Other: Dogs previously involved in serious violent bites must be obedience trained and remain on private property or leashed with a muzzle until training is completed.
- Other: Don't discriminate against a dog breed. Hold the owners accountable. This is as bad as racism.
- Other: Don't discriminate against any particular breed. Dog bites occur in more smaller breeds and retriever/lab types. Pitbulls may have a stronger bite, but a V6 engine is more powerful than a four cylinder. Both have the potential to kill but do we treat each driver differently or make one pay more insurance?

- Other: Don't just accuse pitbulls of being the problem. The fact that you guys put the breed as an example is pathetic and discriminatory against specific breeds and their owners.... coming from someone who doesn't own a pit bull.
- Other: Don't be against any specific breed
- Other: don't discriminate by breed. all pet owners have same responsibility regardless of breed.
- Other: Drop the breed specific rules because we all know that's not going to work, focus on repeat offenders, fine the owner, put the dogs through obedience training and monitor their behavior.
- Other: Education for all owners; I see small teacup dogs with more aggressive behavior as a standard and small dogs, though bite with less force, are biting people and instigating/agitating medium and large breed dogs
- Other: Education for new owners of ANY dog. All dogs have teeth and the ability to bite, not just specific dogs you decide need to be mandated. An educational course that let's people know what all bylaws pertain to dogs within the city, responsibilities that the owners will take on, and resources where they can find unbiased information about different dog breeds and their genetic predisposition would be useful. Requiring that anyone applying for a dog through a store (few and far between now), rescue organization or breeder have completed such a course would maybe reduce the number of incidents overall around the city.
- Other: End Breed Specific Legislation
- Other: Ensure that ALL dogs are on leash when off of private property. There appears to be ZERO enforcement. If there's no enforcement then the law is useless
- Other: Fine bad pet owners that don't train their dogs properly! Just because I dog was bred to be strong there shouldn't be a ban on them now. I owned a pit bull and a chihuahua and my little one was WAY more vicious than my pit bull. My pit bull was also attacked by a husky and walked away with way more injuries than the husky....the husky was in heat and attacked my dog while my dog was on a leash! Owners should be punished not dogs that are unable to learn anything other than what they're taught
- Other: Fine owners when dog involved in offense
- Other: Fine the owner if a dog bites, it has absolutely nothing to do with the breed of dog this is disgusting. The little chihuahuas and small dogs that have never been trained bark and bite constantly and are considerably more of a nuisance than any pitbull. Dogs are not bad, the owners who do not train them are but you cannot require training for a pitbull and not for a German Shepherd (police dog - they don't have the potential for a severe bite?) or a husky. This is disgusting.
- Other: Fine the owners more who do not train or restrain the dog. Have a fine for owners who do not have proper signage on their property or fence to keep dog in the yard.
- Other: Fines and punishment towards OWNERS who DO NOT properly train their dog!!!! Please do not make this a dog issue, it is a PEOPLE issue!
- Other: Fines for an inadequate amount of exercise for specific breeds. (Huskies, German Shepherds, pitbulls, blue heelers, cattle dogs, collies, labradors & golden retrievers) inadequate exercise can be a contributing factor to bites, behavioural issues and injuries.

- Other: Fines for negligent pet owners. It's not the dogs fault that they are a specific breed. Breed specific legislation is bogus. If a dog, OF ANY BREED, has an instance of nuisance the pet owner must be held responsible.
- Other: Fines for owners but also requiring them to provide better training (mandatory). Put problematic owners on a banned ownership list. Don't punish the dogs, punish bad owners and trainers.
- Other: Fines for owners who are not being responsible with their animal (ie. Following posted signage or breaking by-laws). Free classes for owners to take to help teach good animal behaviours and resources if they have trouble with their pet (ie barking). No laws should exist based on an animals breed, all laws should be based on the actions of the owner.
- Other: Fines for owners who drop their dog off at parks and leave them unattended (eg: leave the park, go sit in their car, etc)
- Other: Fines to owners who can't control their animal. Required training for the OWNER to learn how to handle said nuisance dog.
- Other: Funded education programs for owners of pitfalls. Don't bully this breed!!!!!! its people who are bad not these sweet baby's.
- Other: Further screening for pit bull owners before purchasing a pitbul
- 1
- Other: Get the [removed] outta here with BSL [removed], it doesn't fix [removed] but only causes more non registered animals in your city. These dogs are great animals if trained correctly , just like small dogs or cats. They all have a thing called a stupid owners. Never mind punishing the dogs, punish the owner and maybe even focus on more severe topics like pedophiles and rapists..
- Other: HANDLER training for those who want to own "high risk" breeds. The dogs aren't the issue, it's the owners!
- Other: Have a mandatory basic dog training for all owners and have it be easily offered / accessed by the city
- Other: Have a warning system for nuisance offenders - after 3 warnings, an interim order will be issued. There needs to be a clear definition of nuisance activities.
- Other: Having been attacked by several dogs (none of which are pit bulls) more needs to be done to provide victims with easy recourse and ensure safety going forward. FOR ALL PETS.
- Other: Higher fine for dogs who are being aggressive towards dogs and people NO MATTER WHAT THE BREED!
- Other: How about every person who decides to get s dog needs to get training done. Its not the dog that is dangerous, its the lack of training and the owner being uneducated. Pitbulls are no more dangerous than any other breed of dog and majority of them have great temperaments and are super sweet. Train owners how to properly care and train their animals and there would be less problems and it shouldn't be targetted to one breed only.
- Other: How about fines for pet owners that engage in terrible aggression training or who are negligent in their care and treatment of their pets. Nuisance dogs are like that because of their owners, there are no bad breeds. "It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds". This statement looks like an admittance of bias to me.

Legislation should never be based on something as vague as "potential". I don't see big strong people being condemned for their potential to cause harm. Breed specific legislation is illogical.

- Other: How about instead of blaming the dog you blame the owner. Pit bulls and other bully breeds are not aggressive. The only time a dog is aggressive is when the OWNER!!! Does not train their dog. Start putting the blame on the people responsible.
- Other: How about make any pet owner have to take obedience classes. Dogs need training. It's not fair to punish them when it's the human that can't be controlled.
- Other: HOW ABOUT NOT TARGETING BREEDS, BUT THE OWNERS FOR NOT TRAINING PROPERLY
- Other: How about you waste your time on something way more pressing.
- Other: How can you dictate which dog is a nuisance, How can you dictate which animals is dangerous. There's no bad animal, just bad owners. Animals shouldn't be classified based on the city's perception of past beliefs. Pit Bulls are very sweet and a dog that has a barking problem shouldn't be declared unable to attend an off-leash park. Who wrote these questions
- Other: I agree with none
- Other: I agree with the concept of having aggressive dogs, put in obedience training with the owner. However, I will be taking matters further due to the fact that throughout this entire section you are directly attacking one breed. Especially as a pet owner this should have never been presented in this matter. The content is understandable for aggressive dogs; however you are classifying and entire breed as aggressive. Therefore, I believe if you expect one dog breed to be muzzled, then technically they all should be this includes Chihuahuas.
- Other: I am sorry but you are being pitbull racists. I have been bitten by a pit bull it hurts yep caused pain, yes I have also been bitten by a Maltese shitsu cross and it was worse it got infected. Stop with the Pit bull racism. There are worse dogs than pit bulls get off the band wagon.
- Other: I am very disappointed in the targeted surgery towards pitbulls and likewise breeds. The dog is a reflection of the owner and not the dog for the most part. I am far more fearful of the smaller chihuahua like breeds than a pitbull and I have seen far more fights occur between dogs when it is smaller breeds. Please consider removing pitbull from this survey
- Other: I believe a law should be passed to BAN BACKYARD BREEDING, & only registered, responsible breeders can run this sort of business. With this said, there should then be regulations for these breeders & contracts between buyer & seller that buyer will invest in professional dog training. This will limit the amount of surrenders, poorly trained dogs, stray & homeless dogs, & will provide a healthier lifestyle for the owner & pet.
- Other: I believe higher fines for owners, and higher charges for owners whose animals have become aggressive or displayed dangerous behaviour. It's our choice as humans to own such an animal therefore we should be liable for their actions. No particular breed or species should be exempt or over qualified for said fines/charges
- Other: I believe the owners themselves should also be looked at, not just the dogs

- Other: I can't believe that pit bulls are being singled out again. The legislation does nothing and it has been proven over and over again. Why are we going backwards?? Its NOT the breed. It IS the owners. 100%ven over and over again.
- Other: I disagree with the specific guidelines only towards Pit bulls. It should be the same for each dog and no extra insurance.
- Other: I do not agree that pit bull breeds should be signalled out. As someone who used to work in veterinary medicine for 10 years, I saw next to none pit bulls involved in dog attacks. More often it is the small dogs that are allowed to bark and run and attack anything and everyone that are the problem. As people think because they are small they can't hurt anything or anyone. At the end of the day it all comes down to dog owners being responsible. By responsible I mean taking the time to understand dog behaviour and ensure their dog is trained properly even if that means getting extra training when necessary. Pit bulls aren't the problem, owners are and owners of all breeds not just pit bulls. As an owner of a pit bull whom has taken the responsibility to ensure that my dog is well trained and always under my control. My dog is always seen as a good dog in my community. All our neighbours constantly comment how well behaved the dog is and sweet, strangers do too. Sometimes strangers don't recognize the breed and ask what it is and are shocked when we say a pit bull. Their reaction is typically No!, but he's so nice. So although I understand that their bite can be more severe owners need to be held responsible not the breed. Because other dogs can also cause severe damage due to bites.
- Other: I do not agree to breed specific legislation/laws
- Other: I do not approve of labelling pitbulls differently than other dogs. From experience volunteering with dogs, there is no evidence that pit bulls have more strength than other breeds. I have encountered many other breeds that are stronger than pit bulls.
- Other: I do not believe that specifying pitbulls in legislation is going to help decrease these situations. While it was previously stated that pitbulls do have more bite force, the majority number of dogs that cause bite wounds are breeds other than pitbulls. I think nuisance dogs need to be reviewed with an open mind on which breed is involved, and focus more on what we can do for each individual animal involved over a blanket description of said breed.
- Other: I do not condone targeting a specific breed based on physical traits.
- Other: I do not like this breed specific discrimination. Pitbulls are being labelled negatively. I don't want to have a city that bans a breed of dog. It's not the dog. It's the owner.
- Other: I do not support any typw of breed specific legislation, punish bad owners, all dogs are inherently good, including pitbulls
- Other: I do not support breed specific bylaws, singling out pit bulls is unfair and not proven to be effective in other cities.
- Other: I do NOT support breed specific legislation!
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation. As a certified dog trainer I work with dogs of all sizes and breeds. Breed has nothing to do with severity of bite as it is all in the training and socialization of dogs. Because of their bad rap pitbulls are often not allowed in puppy classes, or quickly discriminated against for normal dog behaviors which leads to not having the opportunity to get the same socialization to learn things like bit inhibition. Breed specific legislation will further hurt this and will cause more problems not less.

- Other: I don't feel a pit bull breed needs to be mentioned at all. My boxer/pitbull mix has been attacked by small dogs more than 10 times out in public.
- Other: I don't see these specific dogs as a problem
- Other: I don't believe it is appropriate to single out pitbull owners. Any dog can be trained to be aggressive. The owners need to take the responsibility instead of the dog.
- Other: I strongly believe the statement about pitbulls having a stronger bite is incorrect due to the fact that many larger dogs such as great Danes or rottweilers can do more damage. I do believe any dog should have any of these rules in place though I do believe that people with previous offending dogs should take proper action to train their dogs better and possibly muzzle out in public for others safety no matter the breed.
- Other: I strongly disagree with breed specific legislation since it has been shown to be ineffective.
- Other: I think all owners should have to obey by the same laws
- Other: I think it is problematic that pitbulls "due to their strength and power" are being put in such a shameful light whereas equally as large and powerful breeds ie. German Shepherds, St. Bernards, Great Danes, Bullmastifs, Wolfhounds, and Labrador Retrievers are not being named specifically. Change the language and stop targeting breeds that already have stigma associated.
- Other: I think only training should be required for dogs of nuisance because it's not the dog that's the problems. It's the owners.
- Other: I think this is rather disgustingly discriminatory actually. I have 3 pitbulls and they are the most loving dogs we've ever had. This would not be fair at all, any of these. Special insurance, muzzling my animals, not allowing them to have the same freedoms etc. If you enforce any of those above discriminatory actions, we will be moving out of this city very very quickly. Shame on you.
- Other: I think you are targeting pit bulls. My pit bull is more liveable than my lab was. I think you should be going after the owners that turn dogs vicious
- Other: I would like to make this VERY clear. I 100% DO NOT support breed discrimination. Pit-bulls are some of the sweetest creatures I have ever met. They do not deserve to be treated any differently based on their size or breed. I have been attacked and my dogs have been attacked by much smaller dogs. This is not okay and I am very disappointed that my city is even considering putting these laws in place. I believe there should be stricter laws in place on who can own dogs in our city. Reduce animal endangerment and make sure these dogs are being trained properly and not mistreated. That is what causes aggression. Animals should be treated as an individual and not defined by breed.
- Other: I would not support any measures specifically targeting pit bull-type animals, and moreover I am quite disappointed that this form doesn't allow for commentary on the matter. This form has itself acknowledged that pit bull-type dogs are no more likely to bite than any other breed. I do not support any limits put on the pit-bull breed merely because they have a more dangerous, but not more likely, bite. Do we limit what bodybuilders can do because they have a higher potential for harm if they were to attack? Any of the above proposals involving pit bull breeds would have multiple effects.

Firstly, it would add further stigma to the breed, which would actually have very negative downstream effects. Further stigmatization means that those who are not knowledgeable about dogs start to act differently around pit bull-types which increases the potential for danger, not decreases. On this point, wearing a muzzle, while decreasing the ability of a dog to bite, makes them more aggressive because they fear they will themselves be attacked. This can severely impact the psychology of an animal and lead to an overall increase in aggression in a dog who previously was not a risk. Additionally, these proposals put an unfair financial burden on the owners of these animals. This will lead to animals not being properly registered and known to the city and, potentially, being abandoned to shelters or the street. This is especially true for the proposal that there can only be one pit bull type per household. What of households who already own more than one? These are beloved animals, and many families have more than one because they integrate so well into the family unit. I sincerely hope these unnecessarily punitive and wholly ineffective proposals are not approved.

- Other: I would support nothin singling out "pit bulls" as an aggressive or dangerous breed; it's discriminatory and completely unnecessary.
- Other: I'm ashamed of this proposal . How dare you awful human beings. Terrible people . Shame on you.
- Other: I'd like "nuisance" in terms of animals to be better defined as currently anything that annoys anyone at any time of day can create a complaint even if animals are simply displaying normal behavior for the circumstance. If someone happens to be annoyed by music, kids, yard work, group gatherings, etc. there are clear definitions about levels of noise, times of day, etc. that prevent unreasonable complaint about activities on one's own private property.
- Other: If a dog is aggressive then it should be dealt with on a case by case basis. Not lumped into a group and there had better be DNA testing paid for by the city before you deem a dog to be aggressive because you think it looks like a pitbull.
- Other: if a pitbul has not done anything and was raised right, why should owners have to pay more money when there pitbuls are already good.
- Other: If you actually do some research you'll find that pit bulls are not aggressive by nature, are terrific with children, and are incredibly loyal. Not to mention the fact that there are many other breeds that pose a greater threat, regarding size, weight, aggression, and bite force. Even the German shepherd has a higher bite force and the police use and praise them (Pitbull 235psi and German Shepherd 238psi)
- Other: If you believe any animal is a nuisance animal that is not wild, then you need to look at the owner not the animal.
- Other: Implement fines for nuisance dog owners - dog owners that neglect their dogs needs or abuse them, or otherwise treat them unfairly.
- Other: In general, what bothers me the most is seeing (any dog breed) walking freely without a leash next to his/her owner. Some people are not serious regarding this point

- Other: In regards to singling out one breed, I think we need to take into consideration the individuals who are wanting a strong breed like a pitbull. Labelling a breed as aggressive does not help any situation, there should be support for owners instead.
- Other: increased bylaws for pit bulls is ridiculous and unnecessary. All dogs, small or large, need to be trained by the owner. The pit bull discrimination is sad. I've seen more smaller dogs creating issues at dog parks and biting children than large breed dogs and pit bulls. STOP TARGETING BULLY BREEDS. ALL dogs have the potential to be dangerous and bite. Not just pit bulls. Make dog training affordable and accessible. Teaching children how to properly interact with dogs.
- Other: Instead of picking on breeds just make obedience training mandatory for all dogs. It's absolutely wrong to try and create specific laws against specific breeds of dogs. Stop picking on Pitbulls
- Other: Instead of Pitbulls or missions dogs these tules should apply to all dogs. For example all owners should be required to train their dog for Saftey no matter the breed.
- Other: Introducing BSL against pitbulls is ridiculous. Dogs react in accordance to how they were raised/trained. Just because someone has a pitbull doesn't mean that dog is more aggressive than a chihuahua just because of the breed.
- Other: Invest in city sanctioned obedience training and education for pet owners. Breed doesn't matter, just as race doesn't, focus on the problem (people) rather than the product (the animal and their behaviour).
- Other: It is absolutely appalling that "pit bulls" are being singled out in such a way. I also don't believe it is right to fine owners for a barking dog. Dogs bark, it is in their nature.
- Other: It is incredibly unjust to blame a breed. That is ridiculous.
- Other: It is offensive and misinformed to specifically target pit bull breeds in this survey. The city of Calgary has a responsibility to provide and present fair, unbiased and non-leading information, questionnaires and surveys to the residents of Calgary. Singling out pit bull breeds is preposterous. I visit dog parks across the city daily and have seen numerous aggressive dogs (None of them 'pit-bulls'), most of them with inattentive and negligent owners. Punish the owners, not the breed. Please consider changing the wording of this survey, it reeks of misinformation and outdated assumptions about specific breeds.
- Other: It is the owners responsibility it is not the animals fault. Responsible pet owners do jot let their animals attack people or other animals!
- Other: It is the responsibility of owners to ensure that their dog is trained and responds to recall and other commands prior to entering off leash areas and areas where a dog has uncontrolled interactions with the public.
- Other: It should not matter if it is a pit bull or not any dog can be viscous, we can't take the right away from one breed and not others. If the dog is dangerous OF ANY BREED the owner is responsible for keeping people and other animals safe from the dog!
- Other: Its not the pit bulls fault that they have a terrible owner
- Other: Its proven by other municipalities that breed specific bylaws do not reduce the number of dog bites. pit bull type dogs are not more harmful as pets if handled by a responsible owner. The city

need more education on dog handling, body language, and dog communication. Our mayor once said we would never have BSL in Calgary. Its unfair to the many, many good dogs that have a bully breed in them to have these unjust and biased regulations. Focus on education, not condemnation.

- Other: It's [removed] that Pitbulls and or Pitbull type breeds are being singled out in this occasion, when there many other types of dogs that are more aggressive, attack or bite other dogs/people/kids. IF you train your pitbull properly then there are NO issues with them. If you watch to see how they react to certain situations you can learn from it and then TEACH your dogs what not to do. They are good loyal, caring and cuddly dogs. If you don't train your dog properly then any dog will become aggressive and have a higher chance of attacking some one and/or another dog. Its very unfair that any type of pitbull gets singled out. ANY dog that i have ever seen attack or get aggressive and snarl/snap is smaller dog breeds.
- Other: It's not the dog breed it's the owner, there should be no breed specific laws. If a dog exhibits bad behaviour once they should go to obedience class, of the dog does it again then decide if it need more training or not potentially surrender to an animal shelter and rehome the dog.
- Other: It's not the pitbulls it's the owners. I am disappointed in the city of Calgary for bring uneducated enough to think it's the dogs fault and not the owners lack of ability to train an animal
- Other: It's the owner not the breed.
- Other: It's the owner not the dog! I've seen far more aggressive dogs than pitbulls! Pitbulls with the right owner are quite docile compared to a non pitbull where the owner treats the dog as a child and unable to control the dog on the leash. Where these dogs are pulling owners and actively trying to get to people/dogs to attack!! It's the owner, not the breed!
- Other: It's the owners, not the dog!!! Stop hating on pit bulls!!!! I grew up with pit bulls and they would never harm anyone! They are just big lap dogs
- Other: Just going to put it out there that this seems very much like a precursor to the city trying to implement a breed ban. This will not work. An emphasis is required on proper training, not blaming certain breeds. It is enormously unfair for a few poorly trained dogs of a particular breed to result in an outright ban for the breed itself.
- Other: Leave breed specifics out of this debate!
- Other: LEAVE OUR PIT BULLS ALONE! The city of Calgary is discriminating against pit bulls, when we should be training PEOPLE to take better care of their animals and give them the care they need. Punish the owner NOT THE DOG
- Other: Leave pit bulls and bully breeds alone. I have never had an issue with one, but I can't tell you how many times I've had problems with small dogs.
- Other: Leave Pitbulls alone. Time and time again it's been proved that bad owners are the problem. Not the dog
- Other: Look everyone should take a class to get a dog to know the rules and not be a [removed] when out in public. To know that a dog on leash when encountering a dog off leash is not going to end nice. Dogs have manors and humans has self entitled egos. Humans need training. Then there would be less dog drama issues. I've never had a problem with a pit but a blue heeler attacked my

pwd. My dog was on leash and had his ear on my calf sitting. If my hubby was not there I would have had a dead dog as he had to pry its mouth open and hubby was bit multiple times.

- Other: make animal ownership way harder like more registrations so you cannot surrender it either
- Other: Making it about only pitbulls is the equivalent of saying only certain types of people are addicts. If you're going to implement bylaws, make it about all dog breeds. Dachshunds bite more; certain owners are negligent. Make it about all dogs or none at all. There's too much fear mongering against pitbulls; they were once nanny dogs and are some of the sweetest and loyal. I don't own a pitbull but have had one before and met several others. Any dog can be a nuisance and can any owner. I'm disgusted to see that the pitbull breed is being singled out as the only nuisance pet.
- Other: Mandatory owner training for ANY dog REGARDLESS of size involved in incident, for BOTH or ALL parties involved in incident. Victim dogs and owners played a roll as well and the majority of people don't know what to do in a dog conflict situation and that can be just as dangerous as an out of control dog.
- Other: Mandatory spaying/neutering. No intact dogs over 6 months of age allowed off-leash
- Other: Mandatory training sessions for ANY dog and owner with multiple offenses.
- Other: Mind your own damn buisness and hold the owners accountable if anything
- Other: More proper education by formal trainers before people are allowed to own dogs as breed has nothing to do with being a nuisance and more information needs to be put out there by reliable sources like Justice For Bullies
- Other: More resources for training dogs and informing the public on dog breeds and proper training of pets. It's the owner not the dog. Please do not put any breed specific legislation, this stigmatizes the breed. Which isnt fair.
- Other: My friend has a pitbull who is a rescue and she is the sweetest damn dog ever! Singling out pittis is a shame! And so very wrong the owners are responsible more than the dog it self
- Other: My roommates dog is a Pitbull type breed and has never bit anyone or attacked any dog. However she has been attacked by poodles, labradoodles, and labs. I think unfair that majority of your options apply to pitbulls. Have you ever spent time with a labradoodle? Those things are crazy. All rules to apply to all dogs, not just a certain breed. All dogs should be required to have training, not just pitbulls
- Other: No breed restrictions are logical... As a Calgary dog owner of 5+ years I have never had an issue with a pitbull
- Other: No breed specific bylaws!
- Other: NO breed specific bylaws! Small dogs pose more aggression and violence than pit bull breeds.
- Other: No breed specific language. Rules for dogs with bad behavior are fine, but you can not attack a dog breed. When stated above they are not any mkrw aggressive then another dog.
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LAWS OR BYLAWS ESPECIALLY TOWARDS PITBULLS
- Other: No breed specific laws.
- Other: No breed specific legislation. There are no problem breeds only problem owners

- Other: No breed specific legislation. Science does not back this and seeing this in Calgary is highly disappointing. Requiring pitbulls to be muzzled reduces their ability to be trained and socialized properly which will create both more problems and more fear. Quebec just decided not to put their breed specific legislation in place. This is a step backwards for Calgary.
- Other: No BSL. Statistic would show responsible BREEDING can reduce genetically unruly dogs. No BSL please. We will not be able to travel and spend money in your city.
- Other: No specific laws should be put in place against pitbulls.
- Other: Noise complaints should not deem a dog a nuisance for the sake of being muzzled in public, or kept on property. Only if a dog bites another dog more than once should the dogs possibly be put on restriction.
- Other: Non breed specific bylaw for dogs that have been aggressive requiring them to overgo reactive training
- Other: None of the above should be breed specific, its not the dog! Itâthe owners! As a bully breed owner I believe it is setting every dog up for success! Its proper training and socialization that allows any breed to act and be acceptable!
- Other: None of the above this is NOT the DOGS fault this is the owners.
- Other: None, the breed is not the problem
- Other: NONE. "Nuisance dogs" only exist because of poor ownership. All these bylaws penalize ownership based on the simple fact of having that bread of animal.
- Other: Not all pitbulls are dangerous. Pitbulls can be loving and loyal companions, and it is disappointing if you believe that all pitbulls are dangerous. If a dog causes an issue to another person, it may be due to past abuse. These dogs need to be supported and not discouraged. City of Calgary can require obedience training for dogs that cause issues to others. However seizing them should NOT be an option.
- Other: Not grouping together nuisance as noise or biting etc. The solution(s) for noise are so different from what owners ought to be doing to address biting.
- Other: Not immediately ordering to muzzle them, not knowing the dogs history.
- Other: Not in favor of any of these many pit bulls are actually very good dogs it is the ownership that is questionable. Have owners take pit bull ownership courses to make the owner responsible for their dogs behaviour. I have yet to meet a bad pit bull only bad pit bull ownership. A kid 16 or 17 years of age is not responsible enough to own one.
- Other: nuisance dog can not include a barking dog (all dogs bark)
- Other: Nuisance dogs who have been involved in biting incidents must always remain on a leash in public, and must be muzzled at the dog park if off leash.
- Other: Nuisance is too broad- friendly dogs that bark or are intelligent escape artists would be subjected to the same penalties as a biting dog. A vicious/dangerous dog category is required to justify all of these measures. I would only support them if they were specific to a dog who has harmed another animal or human. I own a dog that is a friendly border collie mix with zero nuisance behaviours, I have lived in Calgary since I was 5 and now have a family and four children. This survey is yet another (in a string) of the municipal government's lack of respect for the citizens in Calgary that makes me want to MOVE! Its disgusting.

- Other: Obedience classes for DOG owners. Teaching them about different breeds and how to train ALL dogs properly.
- Other: Obedience training for ALL breeds of dogs required. It is NOT the dog's fault if they bite, this is a reaction based on fear, NOT aggression. If a dog bites someone that is because the PERSON has ignored warning signs from a dog and not respected their space. Dogs are not dangerous. People who do not properly train or handle their dogs are dangerous. When getting a dog it should be required that the person and the dog attend training in order to understand dog's boundaries. This is not breed specific. All breeds can come from traumatic backgrounds in which they react negatively to certain stimuli. It is the owner's responsibility to keep their dog safe as well as others. It is completely unreasonable to make this a "pit bull type" bylaw. There is too much grey area for this and a LOT of "pit bull type" dogs are great dogs. Do some research and stop this ridiculous narrative.
- Other: Obedience training for ALL dog NOT JUST PITT BULLS
- Other: Obedience training should be required for ALL dogs. There is NO SUCH THING as a bad dog or a bad breed, JUST BAD OWNERS. Owners MUST be held accountable for training and raising their dogs properly, from pit bulls to chihuahuas.
- Other: offer affordable or assistance program for obedience training to any and all dogs who need it, it would change a lot for owners as classes are usually another expense and are not cheap. Pitbulls should NOT be singled out
- Other: Offer free classes and literature, promoting education over punishment for responsible/safe dog ownership.
- Other: Other breeds that exhibit dangerous behavior should be muzzled in public. Not just pitbulls. This should apply to all breeds.
- Other: Owner education. All dogs can be properly trained if the time and effort is put in.
- Other: Owners put through mandatory obedience class with pet per incident class. Being animal owners for my whole life, any animal will react badly if not influenced correctly.
- Other: Owners should be fined for not handling their dog properly. Higher fines for ANY dog that irritates and causes problems in off leash parks.
- Other: Owners should be required to neuter/spay their dogs for all breeds (with an exception for breeders), to help prevent aggressive behaviour. Pet owners should also be required to read the bylaw and understand their responsibilities - too often in my neighbourhood, owners of various dog breeds will let their dogs run off leash in their front yards, on leash parks, and alleys, even though it's against the bylaw. Breed specific restrictions are ineffective - owners should be held accountable for how they care for their dogs, i.e.; neuter/spay them, keep them on leash, exercise them, train and socialize them.
- Other: Owners should have to take a course. The dogs aren't the problem, people having pets who shouldn't is the problem.

- Other: People who are not capable of owning a dog (of any breed) should be fined for not taking proper care of their animals, which includes training (something all dog owners should have to do).
- Other: People who own animals that are problematic should be required to attend training with the pet. Do not ban the breed
- Other: PIT BILL SHOULD BE REHOMED IF OWNER IS UNFIT TO TRAIN OR TAKE CARE OF IT. NOT CONDEMNING THEM FOR THEIR BREED.
- Other: Pit bull owners must be seriously vetted! It's PEOPLE who are the problem, not the breed.
- Other: Pit bulls are absolutely not the problem, bad ownership is, DO NOT punish a dog for a bad owner. How about you require owners to take classes on how to train their dog and I mean this for ALL dog breeds, tiny dogs are often much more aggressive because people think they can handle it and when they bite it's not as bad. If somebody has a dog showing aggressiveness then the owner needs to do better.
- Other: Pit bulls are no more or less dangerous than other breeds. Also technically pit bull is not a breed. The suggestion of a breed ban is spitting on Bill Bruce. The system he set in Calgary had become an example for the world they call it "the Calgary model". Please do not ban any dog breeds. My Staffordshire bull terrier is a sweetheart and she loves people and kids. She would never hurt anyone. I feel insulted that people would think less of me or my dog because of her breed. She is my best friend and she loves me as much as I love her
- Other: Pit bulls are NOT nuisance dogs! How ridiculous to classify a whole breed. Get your biased opinions out of your lawmaking process. Education on the true loving nature of pit bulls is obviously needed!
- Other: Pit bulls are not bad or mean dogs!
- Other: Pit bulls are not the issue. Bad owners are.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem and they are not naturally aggressive dogs. Any dog can be aggressive if they are trained to be. This is ridiculous that Pitbull breeds are the ones being singled out. Bad behaviour is taught by bad owners and this bylaw is absolutely garbage.
- Other: Pit bulls are not to blame for the way their owners train them. Any dog that causes an issue should have the same rules applied. The breed is irrelevant.
- Other: Pit bulls aren't a bad breed. Owners training their dogs to attack is the issue. You are looking in the wrong direction and will have a huge push back from pit bull and other bad breed dog owners.
- Other: Pit bulls or bully breeds are not the problem. Bad owners are! All dogs should receive training. If a dog bites they are provoked or untrained. THE DOG IS NOT THE PROBLEM PIT BULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM OWNERS NEED TO BE HELD RESPONSIBLE NOT THE DOG.
- Other: Pit Bulls should not be singled out in this. Do some research. A German Sheppard has a stronger bite. This is ridiculous that this is still being talked about. I would be more willing to support some of these if it was [removed] not directed toward one single breed. A breed that in my experience is more loving and kind and gentle than a Yorkie or most small dogs.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out. Dogs should not have to be muzzled unless they have attacked a person/other dog and injured them.
- Other: pitbull behaviour is promoted by its owners, not all pit bulls are aggressive!

- Other: PITBULL'S ARE HARMLESS. I/m more scared of a tiny yapping Chihuahua then a pitbull
- Other: Pitbulls are NOT a nuisance breed! Training courses and neuter/spay should be mandatory regardless, but there are MUCH MORE DANGEROUS breeds of dog than a nanny breed of dog. This goes to show that the people suggesting these bylaws are of little intelligence.
- Other: Pitbulls are not inherently dangerous animals
- Other: Pitbulls are not the issue. They are not a bad breed and they absolutely should not be singled out. If you're going to enforce these measures please do not increase the stigma that these breeds face. My husbands family has three pitbulls and they are more friendly/well behaved than my goldendoodle.
- Other: Pitbulls are not the problem, its the owners. Instill fines for homeowners that don't properly train their dogs
- Other: Pitbull's are NOT the problem.
- Other: Pitbulls aren't dangerous, don't exclude other breeds. A dogs temperament is based on their owner.
- Other: Pitbulls aren't the problem. Little [removed] rat dogs are. Larger fines for people who walk their dogs on extendable leashes and don't control their animals
- Other: Pitbulls should not be singled out. They are great dogs just like any others.
- Other: Pitbulls should not be targeted, they are a wonderful breed. Adequate behavior training should be required for all dogs & dog owners.
- Other: Pitbulls should not have any additional threats made against them or the owners as you say above there are not as many bites from pit bulls as there are from other dogs
- Other: Please do not proceed with breed specific legislation
- Other: PLEASE DO NOT SINGLE OUT PITBULLS. THE PROBLEM IN ALL DOGS BECOMES WHEN THEY ARE NOT TRAINED. PEOPLE NEED TO BE TRAINED ON HOW TO TRAIN THEIR DOGS. PLEASE PUT A FOCUS ON TRAINING. SIMPLY BANNING DOGS FROM PARKS OR OUTDOOR AREAS OR MUZZELING THEM DOES NOT SOLVE THE PROBLEM. TRAINING SOLVES THE PROBLEM
- Other: Please don not become like these other ridiculous places that ban/discriminate again a specific breed. I do not own a pitbull and think these bylawsbannings a ridiculous. The city is pushing all this love ! [removed]
- Other: Please stop discriminating against bully breeds! Your own survey admits they are less likely to bite than other breeds. These types of questions and proposed bylaw just reinforce the FALSE narrative that these dogs, as a whole, are a problem
- Other: Promoting responsible ownership regardless of the breed. More control on backyard breeders. Mandatory puppy classes for all dogs.
- Other: Punish / fine individual owners. Not a breed.
- Other: Punish the human for not training their dog. Don;t punish the animal
- Other: Put more responsibility on the dog(s) owners, breed has nothing to do with bad behaviour or dog bites

- Other: Putt bulls should not be targeted in your legislation. There is no increase in dog bites from them over others and I think this is an antiquated argument. Calgary can do better than this.
- Other: racist against pits and breeds such as pits. Demanding obedience training could make dogs worse with the wrong trainer. You are clearly not educated in dogs and your council is a disgrace. Should not matter on breed since all dogs can be a nuisance not just pitbulls. Leave the bylaw the way it is without that dumb racist ban. stop making your city hate you NO TO BSL!!!!!!!!!!!!
- Other: Raise the fine for the owner. It's the owners fault the dog has become a nuisance and/or dangerous. The fines should not be targeted to the type of dog, but to the owners of the dogs.
- Other: Regarding the asterisked information, if the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull/s strength allows the potential for a more severe bite, why are Rottweilers and German Shepherds not also listed in the Bylaws? Rottweilers have the toughest bite with 328 pounds of force, the German shepherd came in second with 238 pounds of force, and the pit bull bit with 235 pounds of force the lowest of the group
- Other: Responsible pet owners, foster homes not applicable. Irresponsible pet owners need training to own pets.
- Other: Same rules should apply to all breeds of dogs. It is up to the owner to ensure they train there pets appropriately not the dogs fault.
- Other: Scientifically pit bulls do not have a harder bite and are not a more aggressive breed when compared to others. I would support this if more research and scientific evidence was backing this up.
- Other: Should not specify breed at all. A golden retriever is just as likely to be just as strong and aggressive as a pit bull. There should be regulation on the education of owners and dog behaviour rather than setting fines for dogs with behavioural issues.
- Other: Single breeds or breed types should not be singled out. The owner is usually the problem as dogs only know what they are taught. Bad owners should have their dogs removed for the safety and well-being of the animal. They should be fined and restricted from further pet licensing in the future
- Other: Singling out ONE BREED is WRONG.
- Other: small dogs bite more than pitbulls. ban chihuahuas and other breeds that are KNOWN to be more aggrieved than a pitbull. banning pitbulls is dumb, short sighted, and easily the dumbest thing this government has proposed in my 36 years in this city. don't be dumb.
- Other: So sad you're building fear and using pit bulls in this engagement.
- Other: Sorry I have seen more people bitten by little dogs than big dogs, 99% of the time if a big dog bites a little dog it is because the little dog owner allows it to run at the big dog and/or bite the big dog and the bigger dog defends it self but because it is bigger it is somehow it's fault? no. Also jaw strength doesn't matter to a child who is traumatized, has severe facial damage or scars. I don't own a pitbull but I have friends who have a rescue and he is the kindest dog I know singling them out isn't ok.

- Other: Sounds like you've made your mind up about pit bull type dogs.. how about applying those exacting standards to all breeds and maybe factoring in irresponsible owners rather than taking the approach of swatting a fly with a mallet?
- Other: Stop blaming the breed of dog for the issues that are clearly from uncaring owners. Screening of potential animal owners, or anyone that would misuse/not properly train any animal are the real problem. Potentially looking at licensing people to have an animal would be more effective than blaming the breed of dog.
- Other: Stop bullying a single breed!!!!!! Leave pit bull breeds alone!
- Other: Stop discriminating against pit bulls as Chihuahuas are just as bad. Nuisance for constant barking and neglected animals need to be addressed
- Other: Stop discriminating or using language that indicates bias towards certain breeds. ANY breed of dog has the potential to be dangerous. I should know, my worst encounter was with a shitzu, that lunged at my face and managed to inflict damage to the tune of major scars and more than a dozen stitches. The problem is never the breed it is always the owner. Even the best intentions on the part of the owner are useless when there is t an understanding about the nature of dogs all breeds. How about mandatory education for the owners. Creating a community that supports prevention by working cooperatively with shelters and rescue groups to subsidize training and education. Create a system where completion of the training would allow for a reduction of the licensing fees as an incentive. Educate the public better on the purpose of licensing making it a program that citizens see as cooperative instead of punitive. Subsidize and incentivize spaying and neutering and support legislation and enforcement at all levels to prevent puppy mills/BYB from working without regulation or enforcemen mass breeding and inbreeding just exacerbate the problems dogs, and the owners who don't hVe the skill or resources to deal with it.
- Other: Stop discrimination based on breed
- Other: Stop profiling "Pitbulls", and start implementing stricter punishments to the owners. Its not the dogs fault, its the owners fault.
- Other: Stop separating pit bull type breeds & bully breeds from every other dog. Chihuahuas are a bugger nuisance than Pit bulls and are never considered a problem. Give your head a shake, this revision is not going to go well for this city if you go through with legislation like this.
- Other: STOP SINGLING OUT PIT BULLS It's not even a real thing.
- Other: Stop targeting Pit bulls!!! Responsible owners train and look after their dog(s). The breed is not the problem - irresponsible people are the problem. Fine irresponsible owners and ban them from owning pets - stop making it difficult to own a bully mix. My bully mix had less of a prey drive and was not an alpha like my purebread Rhodesian Ridgebacks.
- Other: Stop using bully breeds as a scapegoat for bad owners with poorly trained dogs.
- Other: STOP with the pit bull discrimination. This breed is incredibly intelligent. Punish the owners for not training and controlling, not the dog!!! You wouldn't ban trucks because enough people couldn't drive them properly. Makes NO logical sense to introduce restrictions on ANY single breed. Chihuahuas are more violent. Do the actual research.

- Other: Targeting pit bull breeds is ridiculous. I've been bitten by more small dogs- why aren't they classified as nuisances?
- Other: Targeting pit bulls is classism at its finest.
- Other: The dog breed shouldn't matter, it's the owner's fault if their dog isn't properly trained, there should be a high fine if their dog is in a fight or causes injury. The dog breeds aren't the problem and singling out a breed like pitbull just adds to the stigma and fear around them.
- Other: The fact that you are bullying one breed disgusts me maybe you should take the time to actually do some research the city of Calgary is pathetic
- Other: There is no reason to specifically target pit bulls - that is discrimination!
- Other: The large breed dogs are not the issue. It is the untrained little dogs that get into the face of large breed dogs. I've seen it hundreds of times, if not more. I am the responsible owner of 2 large breed dogs, and I tend to stay away from them, because I have dealt with my dog administering a bite because a little dog, whose owner was 500 meters away had zero control over their dog. It ran up to my one dog, who was leashed, and hit at her face, resulting in my dog defending itself. If anything, start a traffic light color system. Red means I like my distance, I may bite, I may be aggressive, I don't like dogs or humans, etc...) Yellow means cautionary (I may bite, I am shy, I'm in training, I am old and arthritic, etc...) and Green means I am friendly and approachable. I think if you use the traffic light color system, you will see a lot of owners being much more responsible, and keep their untrained dogs away from potentially aggressive or arthritic dogs
- Other: The level of breed selectivity in this survey is absolutely appalling. As someone who has worked extensively around both people and animals (used to work at an emergency veterinary clinic for 5+ years, and currently have a Masters in Occupational Therapy), it is absurd that Pit Bulls are being targeted. I am disgusted that the City is even proposing such options of singling out the umbrella of "bully" breeds. This will not promote responsible pet ownership, and will end up penalizing responsible owners of dogs that happen to fall within that category. I have seen a larger number of nuisance dogs of other breeds, as opposed to 'pit bulls' during my 5+ years working in the emergency veterinary medicine field. I can only hope that the City strongly re-evaluates how they are approaching responsible pet ownership.
- Other: The owners should be banned not breeds of dogs one of the sweetest dogs I know are pit bulls. Bad owners make bad dogs
- Other: The problem isn't the breed, it's the owners, don't target specific breeds. Target behaviour.
- Other: the reality is that these dogs are no more dangerous than any other. They're not predisposed to attacking and this question shows your ignorance. Any dog can be vicious if they're trained that way. Even German shepherds focus on the owners not the breed.
- Other: THERE ARE NO BAD BREEDS ONLY BAD OWNERS. As well as a pit bull does NOT have a "stronger" or more severe bite than any other breed, more research is obviously needed by the committee that put this proposal together. Very unfortunate if this happens to go through.
- Other: There are other dog breeds who have stronger bite than pitbull breeds so please educate yourselves

- Other: There is little to no scientific evidence demonstrating a causal relationship between pitbulls and pitbull-like dogs and increased aggression or aggressive tendencies. The imposition of such a targeted bylaw appears predicated solely on longstanding and unfounded myths about these breeds of dogs. Such bylaws, rather than reduce harm, leads to additional cruelty and abuse to these dogs breeds. The City of Calgary should not be associated with condoning such beliefs, whether implicitly or otherwise.
- Other: THERE IS NO EVIDENCE THAT PITBULLS ARE A ANY MORE DANGEROUS THAN OTHER BREEDS. In fact, the ASPCA has a statement that opposes breed-specific bans and legislation (<https://www.asPCA.org/about-us/asPCA-policy-and-position-statements/position-statement-pit-bulls>). If a ban of this nature were to go into place in Calgary, I would challenge with a lawsuit to protect my dog.
- Other: There is no reason to apply any sort of ban towards a breed that is in NO WAY more aggressive than others.
- Other: There is no such thing as a bad dog only bad owners. I've been bitten by chihuahuas a lot more than pit bulls
- Other: There needs to be no distinction between dog breeds. Almost exclusively smaller breeds are more likely to bite than larger breeds. Pit Bulls in particular are rather living did and do not need to be distinguished from other breeds in any way.
- Other: There should be limitations on the breed, if the dog has issues that it should be put in training. The problem is, is that alot of trainers charge way too much. There should be affordable classes
- Other: There should be mandatory training for all dogs. The majority of dog owners lack basic knowledge to understand dog behaviours, causing their dogs to create problems for others. In parts of Europe training is mandatory for a lot of purebred dogs. I don't see why we shouldn't ensure people proactively take the steps to train dogs before problems arise.
- Other: There should be more public education on not allowing children to run up to random dogs. The responsibility should be place on both parties. Not just the dog owner. I dont even own a pit bull and I think this is ridiculous
- Other: There should be no breed limitations.
- Other: There should be no changes with regards to "pit bulls". They are the same as any other bread and it is this issue with the owner improperly training the dog or not letting other be aware that their dog is not friendly. Requiring a dog to be muzzled can increase the fear/agresion response of the dog making the problem worse in the long run. The voluntary dog early warning system is a much better option than those suggested above.
- Other: There should be no distinction between breeds. Dog problems are always the responsibility of people around them. In public, I have been accosted by far more small breed dogs than large ones and that is also a nuisance based on the definition provided. There should be a difference between nuisance and dangerous with resultant treatment of each issue being different.
- Other: There should be no dog breeds considered a 'nuisance'
- Other: There should be no fees or restrictions on any pit bull breeds. It is owners that produce nuisance dogs, and not a result of the breed.

- Other: There should be no off leash pets except for in dog parks, it's not fair to dogs who are considered a nuisance to be attacked by dogs that are off leash. This should be highly considered please. Also for dogs that are considered a nuisance, the owner should be looked at, maybe they are abusing their animals. Animals usually present what behaviour is presented to them.
- Other: There should be no pit bull related laws as the stigma on them isnt based on any credible facts
- Other: There should be no restrictions because of a specific breed! If the dog (no matter what breed) is violent and the owners aren't training correctly then action should be taken, but breed should have NO factor.
- Other: There should be nothing put against any type of breed. If a dog of any breed is declared dangerous, fine should be applied to that dog only.
- Other: There should be training for the owners on how to properly train their dog.
- Other: There should NEVER be any BREED SPECIFIC restrictions or rules. Penalize irresponsible dog owners regardless of breed.
- Other: There should no limitations for the dogs. But more so the owners. Dogs act how owners teach them (just like kids). Please don't punish the dogs for human error
- Other: There should not be any breed specific rules.
- Other: There should not be pitbull specific bylaws
- Other: These are awful awful hurtful ideas. These poor dogs and their owners. A specifically good idea would be to leave these dogs and their people alone.
- Other: These measures are unacceptable and should not be implemented.
- Other: This interim must be applied to ALL dog breeds, not just pit bulls. Pet owners need to take responsibility for their animals, however targeting one breed (or one that 'looks' like a specific breed) does not solve the problem.
- Other: This is a stupid bylaw trying to be enforced you can;t judge a whole breed on a couple bad dog owner. All the bully breed dogs I have been around have been nothing but well mannered and properly trained
- Other: This is absolutely disgusting, you should be ashamed of yourselves.
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous and proven to not work...ANYWHERE. Quit wasting my tax dollars on your stupid projects. You're a joke!
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous. Pit bulls should be treated the exact same as any other dog breed and owners should be held to the same level of accountability specific to the incident NOT THE BREED
- Other: This is absurd. It is stated that pit bulls do not have more cases of bites so they should not be treated as such. If any laws are being implemented on a pit bulls it should be any dog over a certain weight. You would never ask to muzzle every golden retriever. Very disappointing.
- Other: This is ridiculous. Sad to see this in our beautiful city.
- Other: This is ridiculous. There are no bad dogs, just bad owners.

- Other: This problem is not breed specific but owner specific -- give much higher fines for people that can not control their dogs!!! It is all about the owner not the breed of dog! I do not support any breed specific banning, etc....
- Other: This seem abit bias against pitbulls and pitbull type dogs, they are not bad pets it's about the owner who need to train them a bit more, pitbull bite force ain't that high compared to mastiff, if a dog is deemed aggressive by owner or by law that said owner should take responsibility for his/her dog, taken the opportunity to get the dog trained, if the dog is aggressive around other dogs do not bring them to dog parks along with if there's another dog walking down the same sidewalk they can move to the side and block there dogs view and let the other people pass or walk across the street to the other side walk.
- Other: This should not be breed specific, it is unjust. If you put a bylaw in place it must affect all breeds not just one.
- Other: This should not be for a specific breed (aka pit bulls) if a dog in general is aggressive it should be all be handled the same.
- Other: To restrict a dog from socializing will not allow them to learn the necessary social skills. Whose ever idea this was your thought process pathetic. The fact you got a job in the city concerns me for the future of our city.
- Other: To single out bully breed dogs is unfounded as you have stated above. Please remove bully breed dogs and make it across the board for all nuisance animal or animals that have been charged for bad behaviour. To punish dogs like mine without provocation will incite those owners and only makes the situation worse!
- Other: Training for dog owners would be great. If people had to apply for permit before acquiring a pet dog and they'd get screened would that help reduce number of people who are not suitable pet owners?
- Other: Training for the owner - it is not the dogs fault if the owner has not taken appropriate steps to train the dog. Poor dog behavior = poor owner behavior.
- Other: Umm check your data. Pit Bulls bite psi is 235.... a dane is 238.... why are you supporting breed discrimination
- Other: Under no circumstances should owners and animals be penalized for their existence. There is no evidence that pitbulls are more dangerous than other dogs. This lies in 5he manner the owner has trained them. DO NOT implement any form of extra regulation simply based on breed
- Other: Use dog behavioural assessment for problematic dogs regardless of breed. Do not introduce breed specific legislation, current city parks and dog walking areas are tolerant and respectful of all dogs
- Other: What an idiotic approach. BSL based on zero evidence, it's a stigma created by the media and pushed by the ignorant. You cannot single out an animal because of how it looks. It's a different breed every decade, it's irresponsible owners who don't change!
- Other: When a dog is declared a nuisance the owner should be required to get training BUT it should be free of charge or by donation to any of the bully rescue groups or SPCA. The bully rescues frequently have behaviour specialists to assist in training of adoptable dogs.

- Other: Why are picking on the pit bulls. It's usually the owner fault with lack of training and such. Or even lack of ppl who just approach dogs If a dog does bite. Evaluate the situation did a random person just walk up to say dog and approached it weird or did the dog come running at person and attack. Investigate the situation and talk to both parties. Do not take the dog away from owner as this causes more stress on the animal. Have them stay at home can not leave , have a trainer come and work with ppl and dog
- Other: Why are you only including pit bull type dogs that is egregious. Its narrow minded and its breed shaming when the real problem is unregulated breeding and purchasing.
- Other: Why does a pitbull have to be named. It is the responsibility of the dog owner. Dumbest thing I have heard to pick on the terrier breed.
- Other: Why pit bulls? I have been bitten by one German Shepard and one Rottweiler. Why is the focus on pitbulls yet no mention about the owner have the proper training to be able to have a dog. This is absurd
- Other: You all are [removed] dog racist, try and take my 2 pitbull like dogs from me, someone's gonna get hurt worse then what my dogs could ever do to you
- Other: You guys have to be kidding on the BSL [removed]. Get with the times and grow a brain, pittys are not the problem
- Other: You guys need to get your head out of your [removed], pit bulls are not the problem, how they are raised is the problem. I've known all dogs that cause more damage than any of the pitbulls I know
- Other: You just said that pit bulls or pit bull breads aren't involved in more violent incidences so why would we take measures for the potential that they could bite. Any dog can bite. There are many other breads that are larger and/or stronger so then they should also have the same safety measures. This is a very bias survey. Unacceptable
- Other: You must recognize the difference between a Pit Bull Terrier and an English Bull Terrier. They are not the same dog. The bylaw needs to be expanded to ANY breed of dog that exhibits aggressive behavior towards people while in public (ie off leash dog parks). The bylaw should not be breed specific, but should be centered on the behavior of the involved dog.
- Other: You're missing many breeds that should be on the list, and pitbull is not one of them.
- Other: You've explained why the pit bull breed is singled out. But I still do not think there is a reason to focus on them as a dangerous breed as I have encountered many breeds of unfriendly dogs.
- Other: You're discriminating against pitbulls... Calgary, you can do better. If you want to actually support the pet owners, maybe having a subsidy for training, for every dog. Punishing the dog for not being trained correctly isn't the dogs problem, why isn't there more support for the owner?
- Other: A course for humans to go through to make sure they are capable of being a responsible dog owner, before they are allowed to own a pit bull breed
- Other: A dog that barks, causing a neighbour to complain, or is frequently running loose does not need to be muzzled. Often times the best solution is to provide better education. Maybe consider increasing fines if you cannot keep your dog from getting loose, or having someone go to the residence and give advice on how to contain the dog. Work with the public instead of just penalizing them. It will make Calgary safer and a more pleasant place to live for dog owners.

- Other: A test to pass basic obedience for all powerful/working dogs
- Other: Admitting that pit bulls don't bite more often and then suggesting that they be banned/overregulated is unscientific, biased, and frankly a tyrannical form of discrimination against many peaceful dogs. I will not comply
- Other: ALL bully breeds. Too many rampant German shepherds and rottys too. The pittys seem less to me than the German sheps. Don't discriminate on breed use the science of all three bites
- Other: All dogs of any breed should be on a leash when in public areas. If dogs are brought to an off leash then owners should be aware that they risk altercations happening between their dog and other peoples dogs.
- Other: All dogs should be trained, and all crappy owners should be fined. Stop blaming the dogs. BSL is basically racism and it's stupid. Come into 2020 and stop having these stupid conversations. Profile the owners and youll see who is actually a bad owner by listening and looking at them.
- Other: All dogs should be treated as the same for punishment and fines
- Other: All dogs should complete mandatory training like a license , it will reduce problems for all breeds
- Other: All dogs should have to go through basic obedience full stop I don't agree though with breed specific laws, the owners are the ones who should be accountable, people need to start researching the breed before they obtain any dog they should educate themselves in that breeds needs
- Other: All dogs should require obedience training. Pit bulls get a bad rap, but my border collie comes off as more aggressive than the pit bull sweetheart down the street. Our pup has received lots of training, but she's fearful of many things and she barks when she sees them, and it looks like aggression. Please don't ban pit bulls, I would agree that owners should require obedience training, but so should all owners.
- Other: All dogs, regardless of size or breed, need to be treated equally. I am against BSL when the majority of bites come from insecure small dogs. I don't care that their bites may be less severe. People brush it off as they are cute or small. The minute ANY medium to large breed exhibits the sms behaviors they are immediate deemed a nuisance. Be fair to everyone. Ban retractable leashes. Any pet owner has ZERO control of their animal while on a retractable leash.
- Other: Any breed of dog (not just pit bull breeds) that display aggressive behavior should be treated the same when it comes to controlling them. Even labradoodles can be aggressive and a dogs natural defense is to protect themselves and their owner in what ever way they know when they are threatened.
- Other: ANY DOG adopted from any shelter, pet store, or privately and is therefore registered, must attended obedience training with listed owner for 1 month. Upon completion of the month long course, the owner will receive a certificate stating their dog has successfully pass this course. This certificate must be listed with registration. If owner (and dog) fail the course and do not receive certificate, they must retake the course. The owner has three attempts at successful completion. If not successful they must surrender the dog. Again this is for any dog.

- Other: Any dog who is involved in an unprovoked incident must complete obedience training to a satisfactory end point by the instructor
- Other: ANY OWNER of dog labeled as a nuisance dog (no matter it's breed) must complete a city appointed training 8-10 week consecutively
- Other: any sort of breed specific fines or bylaws are RIDICULOUS
- Other: Anybody with ANY breed of dog that has been in a dog incident causing harm has to go through obedience training
- Other: As a dog owner of a non pitbull type breed, and as someone who doesn't personally care for pitfalls etc. I do still feel the singling out of a particular dog breed is overall a bad decision. Problem dogs in general are the result of problem people, some of the sweetest friendliest dogs ive met are pitbulls, the key is the owner. Personally I would sooner see a ban on problem dog owners with repeat problems. Its not the pitbulls fault, wouldn't matter if it was a pitbull, a chihuahua or a golden retriever, its the owner.
- Other: As an ER nurse some of the worst bites I have seen have been from small terriers - I am conserved that Calgary is looking at Pitbulls specifically . I feel the problem of problem owners needs to be addressed - lets keep the focus on them and not Pitbulls
- Other: As I cannot make a long statement at the bottom of this survey, I do not believe singling out one type of dog breed and limiting access to a particular breed is unfair. Any dog can attack and any dog can be declared a nuisance. I believe by limiting particular dogs it limits exercise and activity ability, as well as limits the defenses of the particular breed. All dogs should be treated fairly. I know many pitbull dog owners, where in fact other dog breeds have attack the pitbull, how does the pitbull if muzzled then protect itself. IT CAN'T, plain and simple. If any dog is muzzled it lessons the ability to defend themselves. No animal should be put in that type of situation, period. It is up to the owner to make sure for all dogs there is proper obedience on their own property and off the property in public areas. Therefore the consequences should be to the owner. Repeat owner and dog offenders, should be put on probation, hight fines. Dogs with aggressive behaviour has reasons behind it.
- Other: Avoid breed specific legislation that is watered down like this ... Has been proven time and time again all over the world that it does not work.
- Other: Breed discrimination is ridiculous. There are alot of other breeds that have incredible strength similar to pitbulls, yet they are not included here. DO BETTER.
- Other: Breed specific answers are foul and disgusting and quite frankly, you should be ashamed of this survey. The answers are coerced and you are inferring that all pit bull like-dogs are equivalent to what you've described as nuisance dogs. From a purely statistical standpoint, these answered should be nullified as the answers given are one sided.¹
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are unjust - any dog can have behaviour issues, especially those with a background of trauma. Most "aggressive" behaviours are actually a fear based or protection based reaction. An emphasis on training and working with the right trainer for your dogs needs should be placed with all dogs that suffer from behaviour issues. The City of Calgary should provide resources to help dog owners connect with the correct dog trainer

- Other: Breed specific legislation is discriminatory, lazy and ignorant. There is no evidence that bully breeds have a stronger bite or are anymore aggressive than other breeds (<https://www.pitbullinfo.org/dog-bite-scientific-studies.html>). Likewise, breed specific legislation has been proven ineffective. Finally to require a dog to be muzzled and excluded them from off leash parks on the basis of looking like a pitbull, when bully breeds are regularly misidentified in the first place is deplorable. In Canada we do not pass judgement on what people might do on the basis of their appearance, but rather on the basis of their actions, our animals deserve the same protection. The behavior of a dog is based on its training not its breed. I am embarrassed Calgary would even consider something this ignorant
- Other: Breed specific legislation is disgusting. Imagine treating humans the same way, targeting and penalizing a group for their potential strength, rather than individual behaviour. Most dogs have potential to do harm. Do not put a target on "pitbulls" and do not punish good dogs and good owners with prejudice and lazy blanket legislation.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is unwarranted. I do not support any BSL. Folks who have an inherent bias against the breed should not outweigh the research that BSL does not work and is not warranted. (I do not own a "pit bull".)
- Other: Breed specific legislation only causes problems. It doesn't fix them. Re asses your logic here, you are sorely misinformed.
- Other: Breed specific legislature is an absolute farce. Punish dog owners as a group and stop targeting a vague group of dogs.
- Other: Breed specific regulation is utterly ludicrous. I am shocked this is even being entertained. I am all for regulating "nuisance" dogs, as they have exhibited poor behaviour. However, when determining which dog is a "nuisance" a full investigation must be done, especially for dog vs. dog violence as more often than not, the scarier looking dog is deemed the nuisance, not the one enticing the violence (small dogs with poor owners).
- Other: Breed specific regulations is disgusting. Shame on you City of Calgary.
- Other: Breed specific restrictions have been proven not to be effective. Focus on education for pet owners.
- Other: Breed, no matter bite strength is not the problem. The OWNER and training of the animal is the problem.
- Other: Breeds should not be singled out, I have seen more aggressive Rottweiler and German shepherd show aggression to both dogs and people. You should not single out pit bulls as they are a great breed and to do so shows how uneducated and arrogant this survey is
- Other: BSL has been proven ineffective time and again, the fact the city even wants to explore this is abhorrent
- Other: BSL is not the answer! Pit bull dogs are not more likley than any other breed to bite or cause a nuisance. Owners should be educated and dogs not punished
- Other: City of Calgary can inspect the homes of nuisance dogs to ensure they are being cared for properly.

- Other: Consequences for owners with off leash dogs in protected areas or parks that explicitly say dogs must be on leash.
- Other: Corrective actions by owners could reduce future restrictions (ie obedience training, personal mitigations (muzzles, etc.)
- Other: Create subsidized programs to make training dogs that misbehave more accessible, that way the occurrence of an incident will decrease. More people will be inclined to train their dog if it is affordable.
- Other: Dangerous dogs required to wear a muzzle off property (NOT nuisance dogs); higher fines for all dogs off leash in non-designated areas
- Other: Designating specific breed of dogs is a completely outdated and unproven way of thinking. Every dog has the potential to hurt someone/ another dog. All these rules should apply to all dogs. Period.
- Other: Do not follow the path of other ignorant jurisdictions that enacted breed specific legislation. There is ZERO proof of any of the "bad breeds" named biting more people or other animals nor being a noise issue.
- Other: DO NOT KEEP STIGMATIZING PITBULLS. THIS IS RIDICULOUS. ALL DOGS SHOULD BE ON A PER CASE BASIS. PERIOD.
- Other: Do not start with breed specific laws. They are highly unscientific and pander to ignorance.
- Other: Do not support breed specific fines. If anything, fine chihuahua owners. Those things are the most aggressive breed I have ever seen.
- Other: Do not support breed specific legislation. All owners need to be in control of their animal regardless of breed.
- Other: DOG ATTACKS ARE NOT BREED SPECIFIC. Check the owners.
- Other: Dog breeds should not be singled out. Ridiculous bias and not scientifically based.
- Other: Dog specific regulations are ridiculous. Don't label one breed
- Other: Dogs considered a nuisance for noise related reasons wouldn't need to be muscled etc, in fact it would probably make it worse. For instance my dog has separation anxiety but he is the sweetest kindest dog that my friends actually use for socialization with their puppies. If he was ever declared a nuisance because of being vocal when left alone. He is not harming anyone or any animal and should not be treated as if he was an aggressive dog.
- Other: Dogs have their own set of nature vs nurture, I don't think discriminating against a breed is the way to go. I truly think we need responsible owners to train and be responsible for their dogs. Some breeds could be predisposed to
- Other: Dogs that are a problem are usually because of bad owners. There are many nice pit bull type dogs that are trained well. If a number of complaints come in fine the owner only if an investigation takes place as I have seen neighbours being vindictive.
- Other: Dogs that have previously exhibited unjustified dangerous behaviour should be prohibited from being off-leash in dog parks until successfully completing an obedience course
- Other: Don't segregate pit bulls because of how they look. It has been proven false that a pit bull bite is the strongest out of any dog breed. Any dog has the possibility to be vicious.

- Other: Don't single out pit bulls. All dogs can risk biting, you need to hold the owner accountable and increase pet owner education.
- Other: Don't blame the breed just because pitbulls are no different than other breeds! I have seen more aggressive golden retrievers than I have pitbulls. Many of my friends and family have pitbulls and a few have service dogs that are pitbulls! Blame the owner not the breed
- Other: don't narrow this to pitbulls. Or such breeds. If a dog is aggressive its aggressive no matter size or bite and if it's well trained its just another good doggie. Authority to seize violent dogs is good but don't pick out "dangerous" animals and discriminate. I find chihuahuas more aggressive than any pitbull I've met.
- Other: Don't pull the breed specific [removed]. It is down to bad dog owners/previous trauma suffered (especially children) teasing why dogs generally misbehave, and it is NOT just one breed!
- Other: Educate people instead of perpetuating unnecessary fear about Pit Bulls. Statistically, Chihuahuas have a higher bite rate. People need to learn about dog body language (though, they shouldn't have a dog if these signs cannot be recognized). People need to know when a dog is in distress or appearing dominant/potentially aggressive. This is not breed specific. Dogs are dogs and any one can bite when instigated.
- Other: Education for all pet owners (not just pit bulls) who have dogs exhibiting problematic behaviour.
- Other: EVERY dog needs to be put in obedience / training course, if the household HAS ZERO TIME to help improve the dogs well being for socialization etc. THEN MAYBE that household should not own a dog in the first place.
- Other: Every dog should have obedience training. In extreme situations where a dog has attacked and severely injured or killed an animal or person the dog should be seized.
- Other: Finding out the root cause to why a dog is exhibiting such behavior is important. Dogs have a flight or fight instinct like every animal. A dog may be aggressive because of fear or trauma.
- Other: Fines for people walking dogs off leash aggressive or not. They run up to people with reactive dogs and it provokes them
- Other: Fines to unfit owners (as that's where the problem stems, not with specific breeds) rehoming/rescuing of animals if the household cannot provide proper care/attention.
- Other: Focus on the owner not the dog (e.g. training required for the dog AND owner after being declared a nuisance); "nuisance" status needs to be reversible if dog is no longer a danger; breed of dog is significantly less indicative of behaviour than lack of proper training/irresponsible owner - pit bulls should in no way be singled out.
- Other: For the first option, I worry what the exhibiting dangerous behaviour is and if it can be interpreted differently by each employee.
- Other: Free breed awareness classes for people adopting pitbulls. Educate people before there are issues!!
- Other: Get your head out of your[removed]s on the pitbull issue.
- Other: Harsher fines holding dog owners accountable for their dogs actions not based on breed but based on bite. Dog bites are not specific to a breed and all dog owners should be held accountable

- Other: High fines for ANY dog off leash in non off leash zones! Haven't seen anyone in my area being held responsible for not following that bylaw. All non pit bull
- Other: Higher fines and limitations on dogs that exhibit dangerous behavior. Noise is not a good definition; dogs that showed aggression are. You can have a dog that barks a lot because it's bored. In the dog park it'll be a model citizen. This list seems lacking in up to date knowledge about dog behavior. Maybe bring in certified professionals from the field who are up to date on modern dog training and handling to phrase the options.
- Other: Higher fines for multiple offences FOR ALL DOG BREEDS.
- Other: Higher fines for people that use pitbulls as a fighting dog or abusing them
- Other: Higher fines only if the dog has caused a severe problem. No matter what breed dog is.
- Other: Hold all pet owners accountable regardless of breed. Any unfit animal owners should be held accountable for their actions. If an animal regardless of breed isn't taught and socialized properly has a chance to bite. Small dogs can do as much if not more damage then large breed.
- Other: Hold individual dog owners responsible for their pets instead of generalizing all dogs of a specific breed.
- Other: how can you justify picking one breed of dog and classifying them as dangerous. Every dog can be dangerous depending on how their owners act.
- Other: How dare you put a separate category for pit bulls under the premise that they COULD be dangerous. This is [removed] discrimination and we will not stand for it. You should be ashamed and maybe be responsible and not spread fear and hate on a survey about community safety.
- Other:
<https://www.google.com/amp/s/api.nationalgeographic.com/distribution/public/amp/news/2016/07/pit-bull-ban-aggressive-dog-breed-bronwen-dickey> pitbulls are not a dangerous breed.
- Other: I adamantly oppose breed specific bylaws and legislation. However, there are many people who should not have dogs especially power breeds. I would like the city to focus more on problem owners vs the dogs
- Other: I am against breed specific legislation
- Other: I am completely against breed specific legislation! Owners should be punished not the breed!
- Other: I am extremely disappointed by the city adding any kind of breed specific legislature. Any responsible, educated dog owner knows the issue is not the breed. Calgary has long been a gold standard to other Canadian cities because of their fair and just animal bylaws. Don't ruin your reputation know. If singling our pit bulls why not also include any large dog breed? In the 80s German Shepherds would be on your nuisance list and in the 90s Rottweilers. These proposals are not ok. I dont even own a dog and I am out raged.
- Other: I am shocked that you would put a label on "pitbulls" in this way and even allow the suggestion that any dog that looks like a "pitbull" can't enter an off leash park or must wear a muzzle. Please educate yourselves before putting out this damaging message to the general public.
- Other: I am strongly against automatically deeming a dog dangerous and therefore treating it with separate rules, based only on its breed or perceived breed.
- Other: I am STRONGLY AGAINST BSL

- Other: I am unequivocally opposed to BSL (breed specific legislation). Being a "pitbull" or looking like one has no scientific link to viciousness. Please do not go down this stupid path. And do not ask citizens that are not dog behaviourists to support laws based on hysteria.
- Other: I believe all dogs have the potential to be a nuisance or bite people. NOT JUST PITBULLS!!!!!!!
- Other: I believe animals have rights just like humans and you cannot arbitrarily assign a certain breed different standards.
- Other: I believe no dog should be banned from parks (on or off leash). This is detrimental to the quality of life a dog. Also proposing breed specific legislation is a slippery slope that I think will be a very bad decision that will result in public outcry. There's so many examples of cities where this has failed.
- Other: I believe that there should be every right to put extra fees of out of control dogs but you should never label it to one dog even if they are the stronger breed. It should never have one breeds name in the by law because that is what makes people scared of those breeds even if they are the sweetest most gentle breed.
- Other: I do not support any breed specific by-law legislation
- Other: I do not support any breed specific legislation as there are countless large breeds that can cause severe damage if they bite; any single breed should not be single out, as it is unfair to pets and their owners.
- Other: I do not support any measures that discriminate against breeds in such ways. The specified criteria regarding pit bulls has been proven false many times and such measures lead to further misconceptions and unwarranted fear mongering on the part of the dogs.
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation.
- Other: I do not support breed specific regulations at all and would leave calgary should it introduce any such ineffective regulations. I am a dog training professional with my KPA-CTP certification
- Other: I dont agree with half of these, pit bulls or any bully breed dog SHOULD have the right to use off leash parks freely, AND WITHOUT muzzles. Ownership responsibility comes into play here. I see many pit pulls at the park and not one has ever made me or my dog nervous or caused harm I do see other breeds of dogs at the park with muzzles, like Shepards or even poodles. This is ridiculous and once again I don't agree with any of these proposed.
- Other: I don't believe breed discrimination is the right approach you are looking at punishment for good dogs that are trained to be around other people and dogs. However if they have been a problem animal in the past rules should be put in place for those owners not just because of their breed.
- Other: I don't own a pitbull, but I think breed specific fines is not helpful. There are not nuisance dogs, there are irresponsible owners. If a dog has been found to be a nuisance by barking or roaming freely, that is an owner problem and should be labelled as a nuisance owner resulting in escalating fines to that specific person.
- Other: I don't think it is right to single out a specific breed. Pit bulls are the sweetest most well tempered animals I have ever met in my life. A bad dog comes from a bad owner that doesn't bother to train and teach when needed. I think it should be based on each dog specifically if a dog has a history of being a nuisance or of biting extra precautions do need to be taken. But it is completely not okay to say that one breed is worse than the rest.

- Other: I don't think we should have breed specific bylaws
- Other: I don't agree with any extra rules around pit bulls. Its like saying men are stronger, so if they assault someone, they should get more of a punishment than everyone else. Why doesn't bylaw invest in mandatory training programs for nuisance animals? Also, fining people has always been about collecting budget money. An increase in fines at this time, when taxes are so high and people aren't working isn't ok. If you write a ticket to someone, it may mean they can feed their animal in the subsequent month.
- Other: I don't believe that dogs should be punished just for being a certain breed or exhibiting a behavior that is NOT their fault. If Calgary implements any kind of breed discrimination I will move! I don't own a pit bull but inscimation is wrong!! And it's never the dogs fault.
- Other: I don't like the focus on pit bulls per se. While they may pose as a higher threat, other larger breeds may pose as big a risk. If a poodle got out and was running amuck, is wildly different than a Great Dane for example. If there are bylaws about breeds it should be broader and more focused on training rather than penalizing.
- Other: I don't think breed specific laws get to the root of the problem. If you want dog training, make it mandatory for all pet owners to put their pets through recognized training.
- Other: I have been bit hard by a Chihuahua but never a pit bull type breed. Maybe add that breed to your list and take pit bulls off
- Other: I just want to mention that I personally think that putting these restrictions around certain breeds only causes bias towards breeds, and not accountability for teaching your dog properly. I also know breed bans are a huge deterrent for living in certain places, and I would not consider staying somewhere were pit bulls were banned. Alberta has some great pit bull rescue programs, this just forces more dogs into those spaces, and less into loving homes.
- Other: I strongly believe that pit bulls should not be singled out. Most incidences of nuisance behaviour are a result of owner negligence not breed.
- Other: I think it is completely inappropriate to restrict animal ownership right or force actions that affect the dogs quality of life (ex. Not going to offleash parks) based on anything other than physically aggressive behaviour. I disagree with the term nuisance being applied to loud dogs or dogs that are not displaying physically aggressive behaviour.
- Other: I think it should be on the owner eg if over years an OWNER. Had had aggressive dogs that have shown aggressive behaviour they should receive higher fines. I think it should be all owner based and not breed based:
- Other: I think owners perhaps should be required to take training if their dog has/is causing a problem. I'm being serious. Owners perhaps need to learn how to be more responsible with their particular pet, no matter what kind of pet. Perhaps partner w/Humane Society for this. Although different subject, please make animal abandonment/abuse/neglect an extremely high fine or criminal charge.

- Other: I think signaling out a specific breed of dog is awful. If the dog (any breed) is deemed dangerous then there should be a fine or required training.
- Other: I think that Muzzles aren't the answer as it can lead to more issues at the off-leash dog park (for a multitude of reasons). I do think that additional training should be mandatory for potentially dangerous dogs that are purchased/adopted (or alternatively proof that the person has owned a well-balanced dog of that type currently or previously, with no issues). I.e. If person A wishes to purchase/adopt a Presa Canario, they must either take training classes or have proof they have owned one before. I think this applies to dogs with multiple offences as well, they should be made to take obedience training with a certificate from the trainer showing the dog is ready or if more training is required. In basically any situation it is NOT the dog's fault, it's the owner's fault when something happens and it's usually from a lack of leadership on the owners behalf.
- Other: I think this is completely unfair to say that it is mainly pit bulls being the problem. It is the owners fault. NOT THE DOGS. Make those who own a dog that has behavioural issues go into training. Should not be the dogs fault and be punished or killed because they are under the care of non responsible owners.
- Other: I think this is disgusting to single out pit bulls, it's owner issues.
- Other: I think training for owners is important. I'm tired of small dogs attacking and being aggressive pushing my bigger dog to react. How is that ok ? Look at the owners and how they train. Not just a wide brush stroke of breeds
- Other: I think using the term pitbull is not necessary. Any dog such as a Rottweiler or Dobermans can also have harmful and server bites. Pit bulls were actually used as nanny dogs before they were deemed fighting dogs for their scary looks. Disappointed in Calgary for specifying a certain breed.
- Other: I think you're putting too much punishment on an animal when this should all be referred to the owner. Just because a certain type of dog CAN produce a string bite, doesn't mean it will. I've been attacked by smaller dogs way more than pitbulls
- Other: I took pride that I lived in a city that had no breed specific legislation and I really hope I can continue to promote the city of Calgary. However, I cannot take pride in this city nor would I want to continue living in a city that is okay discriminating against pitbull type dogs. I own 3 pitbulls that have never been in any incidents and happily go to the dog park every chance they can get. I can't fathom not being able to bring them to the dog park or forcing a muzzle on their face because of ignorant citizens who do not understand dogs at all. I SOLD my condo because I was being verbally harassed, threatened, complaints falsified towards me about my dogs AND made to pay fines for things my dogs didn't do SIMPLY because they are pitbulls. The fact that the city is even bringing this topic back to the forefront which is NOT backed by any scientific research is completely ridiculous. The survey in itself reinforces the harassment that my dogs and I face all of the time. I thought the city stood behind the idea that discrimination is a horrible and archaic idea and yet here we stand with the city considering limiting the freedom of pitbulls and their owners by discriminating against them. Even after having acknowledged that they are not more likely to be involved in biting incidents. Absolutely pathetic! For the record, my aggressive pitbulls have been attacked by a nuisance cat in the neighborhood and a Great Dane at the dog park. In both incidents, my dogs did not even try to fight back and the owners of the animals received no repercussions for their animal's behaviors. So maybe it's time we start looking at owners instead of punishing pitbull type dogs.

- Other: I want it to apply to all dogs. Not just pit bulls. Yes they are stronger but because people are lazy with less aggressive breed I have been bite by many safe dogs. Never seen it in pit bull owners cus they know they gotta have them trained. When I have seen a pit bull attack its been because the other dog instigated it.
- Other: I want to agree with a lot of the nuisance statements, but you did not define it. You left it open ended so you could mold it to the way that would work for what you wanted. Dogs who are violent towards other dogs or people should be muzzled in public. I think that would be a better way to word these questions. Have a pitbull vs have a pitbull in public
- Other: I would just like to point out the obvious fact that all large dogs have the ability to leave a more serious bite. Seriously, don't jump on the bandwagon of hating on Pitbulls. It is sickening. Of you're going to put these ridiculous rules into place as a money grab then do it for all dogs over a certain size. At least that would have some logic behind it. I see tiny women walking three giant dogs of different breeds and that seems more like a safety issue. Put in weight restrictions on walking dogs so people can keep them under control when needed.
- Other: I would support a much larger number of these if bylaw officers had more discretion (e.g. only dogs declared a nuisance for bites are required to muzzle in parks).
- Other: I would support the need for training nuisance dogs, but because you haven't specified what kind of training and by whom, I can't support this. There are too many awful trainers out there and a lot of inferior and/or abusive methods still in practice.
- Other: I'm against any type of breed-specific laws. It should based on prior history of the dog, not because it belongs to a specific breed.
- Other: I'm not saying pitbulls don't have the potential to be nuisance dogs, I believe that all dogs should be required to undergo some sort of obedience training should they be involved in some sort of incidence.
- Other: I've never had an issue with large dogs to me it's small dogs like chihuahuas that I've had near bits from that where not Provoked. All dogs should have obedience training.
- Other: If a dog is a nuisance for biting why does mean they cant be off leash
- Other: If a dog is declared a nuisance because of barking, being at large, or something minor it shouldn't have to wear a muzzle or be restricted from dog parks. There needs to be more detail if restricting. If that dog has a bite history or is aggressive towards dogs at parks, then ABSOLUTELY! I DO NOT agree with any breed restrictions.
- Other: If a dog is problematic, regardless of breed, then measures should should be implemented to either train the people on how to handle this dog or to retrain the dog. If a dog is not problematic, they should not be targetted. Pit bulls should not be targetted specifically, aggressive dogs and problematic people should be.
- Other: If the dog has the right owner it doesn't matter the breed. But holding owners accountable is where there can be more done!

- Other: In most cases it is it owners fault, or lack of involvement which leads to aggressive behaviour in dogs. There should be NO breed stereotyping- dogs that exhibit aggressive behaviour should be recommended to take training classes, BUT unless these classes are free of charge nothing can be forced. The city should put in place training sessions for nuisance dogs covered by the city
- Other: In regards to dogs declared a nuisance not being allowed in off leash parks, I believe this should be up for re-evaluation after training has occurred. On another note by no means should a dog ever be seized from the owners of its declared a nuisance. This is traumatic for the owner and the dog alike, leading to more aggression.
- Other: In regards to your post i think its disgusting that you have the audacity to even post options that are breed specific. Speaking from someone who has been bitten by dogs a few times i will list those breeds for you. Those breeds include a pomeranian, dashshund, and border collie. By all means if a specific animal not breed is deemed a nuisance that specific dog shall fall under a specific category but not be labeled by its breed. My current dog is a 3 year old stafforshire bull terrier that has never once barked at a passing dog, has never once bitten anyone, has never once fought with another dog at a dog park nor has he ever barked when i come home from work. I think to label a breed based on previous provinces is sickening and i think that all dogs have the ability to hurt someone not just listed breeds you have above. I think you really need to re word your documentation cause you will face increased issues in the future with rallies and support groups that will fight this against counsel before you could spin your head
- Other: Increase fines for irresponsible owners
- Other: Instead of assuming that ALL pit bulls and nuisance dogs are the problem, maybe realize that the owners are who train, and as a result, dictate how the dogs reacts in situations. Offer the proper training and resources to owners instead of making them restrict a member of their families. Would you muzzle your mouthy child in public? At the same time, give your police officers and animal handlers better training and resources so they don't just hurt/kill an animal just because they don't know how to handle them. SMH... City of Calgary being stupid again....
- Other: It is 2020, if the city of Calgary still doesn't realize that Pitbulls are not the issue and any breed is likely to bite if antagonize.
- Other: It is disappointing to see that pit bull bread is being targeted within this survey. We all know that the dog behaviour is taught. This should be about the owner and not the breed. Bread profile does not have a place within a survey.
- Other: It is discriminatory to only assume Pitbull need to be in the bylaw. It should only be based on nuisance dog. Everyone knows it's bad owners that make bad dogs, why outcast one breed when German Shepards and Rottweiler have the same capacity to cause damage?
- Other: It is EXTREMELY closed minded of the city to generalize a breed. It completely depends on the owner. Should any fine be dealt- let it be on the handler regardless of breed.
- Other: It is not the dogs fault. Pit-bulls are great if trained properly. It is up to the owner to train them right.
- Other: It's not the breeds its the owners. Programs to screen pet owners

- Other: Its not the dog, its the owner. Mandate proper training. The pit bulls I have met have all been kind and loving.
- Other: It's unfair to target dog breeds. It would be more logical and fair to target problem owners and those involved in dog fighting. This type of fear pandering will only lead to more dogs being surrendered, overcrowded shelters, and euthanized dogs. Don't side with the wrong side of history please.
- Other: It's more often than not the owner that needs training. Dogs are a reflection of the owner. provide training for the owner NOT just blaming the animal.
- Other: Its more on the owner for the behavior of the dog and not the breed. The fact that you look only at the breed of dog is absurd, as small dogs can be more of a terror then big dogs, it all depends on OWNERSHIP!
- Other: It's not the breed, it's irresponsible owners... small dogs are just as aggressive. If a small dog picks a fight, my dog gets blamed for defending itself simply because it's bigger and stronger. I've been bitten by three dogs before, all small breeds, not bully breeds. The owners should have to take responsible ownership classes.
- Other: It's not the dog it's the human. Train owners people and you'll have loving kind dogs.
- Other: Its not the dogs its the owners. Make it a must for anyone with any dog big or small, whatever to take obedience classes. This isn't a "pitbull" problem. Education is key. I truly don't understand why these things aren't in place already. Again my point is its not the dog its the owner. These options make me shake my head. So you might ban dog breads that need to run and excersise from the only places they can legally go other then their yardMAKES ABDALUTLY NO SENSE. fines should be higher across the board not just to one bread or " a dog that looks like one of them" just rediculas. Mandatory training and education and higher fines. That's it thats all. The rest is just noise.
- Other: Its wrong to single out pit bulls. More often than not its the smaller breeds causing issues. You should not be singling them out, but more so working on any dog that is considered problematic, not breed specific.
- Other: I've been nipped at by poodles & jack Russell terriers.
- Other: just a comment. It specifically states that a nuisance dog may be one that is noisy or at large, etc. Yet the next question asks if nuisance dogs should be muzzled. A muzzled dog can still bark and run at large. This feels misleading.
- Other: Leave Breed based legislation out of this.
- Other: Leave pit bulls alone, the only time pit bulls are a problem, is when the owner hasn't trained them properly
- Other: Leave Pitbulls alone please, and thank you. Your description of nuisance (ie barking / being at large) doesn't seem to cause harm to dogs so why restrict from dog parks for example?
- Other: Legislation against owners who are not minding their dog at an off leash park. Also, take out any breed specific language. I was once bitten by a wiener dog, but nothing happened because it is a small dog. My dog is a mix, but would fall under BSL and what you call a pit bull, even though she is also a lab and many other breeds. Why are these breeds targets? Rottweiler, Doberman, German Shepard, Mastiff, all breeds that also have the jaw strength to do just as much damage.

- Other: Licence the HUMAN as responsible enough to have a dog. Most often these incidences are due to negligence or poor treatment. Poorly trained animals are also the responsibility of the HUMAN being.
- Other: Make all dog owners have certification of proper handling of their animal class/certification with that animal. Provide resources to public how to prevent this behavior. Any dog can be a good or bad dog. It is all how the owner is
- Other: Make obedience training more available/affordable, it should NOT be breed specific, only if the dog itself has displayed a need for it like exhibiting dangerous behaviour.
- Other: Mandatory dog behaviour education for owners of nuisance dogs
- Other: Mandatory obedience training for all dogs regardless of breed.
- Other: Maybe having a subsidy plan with companies like Clever Canines or Dog Ma that train on dog behaviour not just obedience! Not everyone can afford their programs and they are very helpful in understanding reactive dogs (excitement reactivity and aggressive reactivity)
- Other: Muzzle if the dog is aggressive and bites at people
- Other: My opinion has always been there a no bad dogs, just bad owners. I have met many pit bulls over the years that have been great dogs.
- Other: No additional bylaws. Current pet bylaws are adequate
- Other: No breed bias/breed specific policies. Dogs are not the issue. Its no different than racism at the end of the day.
- Other: No breed specific action shall be considered. Any dog regardless of breed is capable of inflicting significant damage if not trained and controlled properly. You can make statistics prove any point you wish. This is not scientific. All factors that contribute to the behavior of a dangerous dog must be considered.
- Other: No breed specific approach as its usually tied to owner behaviors vs dogs (Myself and my dog have only been attacked by small/medium breeds, never Bullies). Training for owners of dogs with history, working with other municipalities/provinces for chronic pet abusers.
- Other: No breed specific bylaws
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION! BLAME THE OWNER NOT THE BREED! COMMON SENSE! DO WE HAVE RACE OR GENDER SPECIFIC LAWS FOR STRONGER HUMANS?? GET WITH THE TIMES!
- Other: No breed specific legislation. Any dog can be great or be a problem. People should have a background check before being allowed to own animals. Owners sold twitter training if they have a nuisance dog - it is the humans who are the issue in that case.
- Other: No breed specific restrictions.
- Other: NO BSL
- Other: No discrimination against breed specifically.
- Other: noise complaints should not be a complaint and reason for higher fines or giving up/ putting down dog, etc.

- Other: Not all dogs like to be approached with a fast approaching stranger, screaming child, or yappy dog. Just as some humans don't like to be approached by strangers, receive hugs and kisses from strangers, and even having screaming children around them. There are other breeds that have bigger bites without the stigma of what the pit bull breed has. It all comes down to the owners of all breeds. I've been bitten by a Rottweiler, German Shepard on one side of the spectrum and also small daschunds. We need to focus on pet owners, registrations/chips. Making sure that unethical breeders are fined heavily, as they are bringing in breeds of dogs without the best of temperaments. There are pit bull breeders out there who actually care about their dogs and make sure owners are screened and if the match is not good they take the dogs back to find them the right homes. By places breed specific bans you are causing unnecessary higher costs and limited access to resources/parks for those pet owners where their dogs have absolutely no history. How is this any different from judging a person by the color of their skin? With any dog its always the pet owners responsibilities. We need to protect those pets who can't speak for themselves and are not being trained properly. Being purchased just to look cool, and neglected when they aren't needed. Depending on the size of the victim a small dog can still do a lot of harm to an infant and small animal. So size of the bully bite should not be the only focus for this bylaw. Pet owners need to be responsible, so that they think before purchasing or adopting if they are capable of the time and attention needed to raise these pets.
- Other: NOT discriminating against a specific breed because it COULD POTENTIALLY cause more harm with bites. Pitbull breeds CONSISTENTLY score better than most "family pets" (golden retrievers, labs, German shepherds, border collies) on temperament test. You make an assumption of an animal based off its look is the same as judging another human based off of their looks. Tests the accused dog's behavior or make mandatory training with a dog boarding service rather than euthanising a dog because it looks intimidating.
- Other: Not in favour of the extra measures for minor offences. Would be in favour if it as for aggressive dogs
- Other: nuisance dog should NOT be BREED SPECIFIC! it should be ANY dog. If a dog engages in negative behavior that results in a bite the owner should be responsible to have to take the offending dog to obedience training.
- Other: Nuisance dogs are UNTRAINED dogs. Mandatory 4 week training course when people register their first dog with the city. Take pit bulls off of this survey, its disgusting and you should be ashamed of yourselves for even adding this on here.
- Other: nuisance is too broad a category to for me to agree to mandatory insurance, higher fines, muzzles, etc. A dog declared a nuisance for barking isn't an increased risk for biting. I would support these things for dogs with multiple complaints for aggression behaviours.
- Other: Obedience training required for all dog breeds. In public parks. Subject to fine.
- Other: Obedience training for all dog owners regardless of breeds. Small dogs instigate fights and are aggressive.
- Other: Obedience training for ALL dogs regardless of breed.
- Other: Obedience training for ALL dogs, nuisance or not.

- Other: Obedience training for ALL OWNERS who own dog(s), not just pitbull breeds or nuisance. Your first year of registering your animal with the City should come with a discount code to an affiliated reward based dog training facility. or if you can show proof you've taken your animal to obedience training, you should get a discount on your yearly fee.
- Other: Obedience training for any dog mostly the small ones, pitbulls are only aggressive and dangerous breeds when they are raised that way
- Other: Obedience training for any type of dog that shows violent behaviour.
- Other: Obedience training for EVERY DOG
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL dog owners. Some of the nastiest and most aggressive dogs (who can frequently instigate conflicts) are small dogs whose behaviours are mishandled leading to altercations with bigger dogs. There should be significant difference between nuisance dogs bc of noise and nuisance dogs with a history of at-large or chase threat offences. Put Bull should not be a qualifier at all as there is no research that BSL works and instead increases fear, judgement and misinformation, while doing nothing to teach the public about how to properly and safely interact with dogs.
- Other: Obedience training required for any and all dogs, aggression be it fear based or otherwise is not breed specific and the public must understand that.
- Other: Often, smaller dogs are overlooked as violent because their bite potential is less. We have had far more issues with small dogs attacking our larger dog, including biting. I don't think it's fair if my larger dog defends itself that it is claimed to be violent. She has not defended herself yet against these attacks, as she is very mild mannered. That said small dog bites can still draw blood and traumatize children. We need to hold small dog owners responsible for training.
- Other: OWNERS are to be given a designation of a 'nuisance' when their dog that has been involved in multiple minor offences. OWNERS have to go through obedience training and proper care of these animals before they are returned after an incident. similar to demerit points on a licence. A coloured bandana is to be worn on the arm of the OWNER who is deemed a nuisance as a warning to other animal owners until a training course for the OWNER has been successfully completed, minimum 90% pass required. Not wearing an issued bandana will result in immediate fines and loss of possession of animal until fine is paid and obedience course has been completed again.
- Other: Owners fined for not being able to control dogs in off leash - just visit ranchlands off leash park. It's unbelievable!
- Other: Owners of nuisance dogs should be required to have training and a license.
- Other: Owners of pitbulls should be more accountable for the training and care of the animal. It's not a breed problem it is a people problem.
- Other: Owners should be held accountable if their dog hurts someone, if they are determined to have provoke an attack they shouldn't be allowed to own any dogs ever.
- Other: Owners should be help responsible for their dogs regardless of breed, if an animal bites or causes a nuisance the own should be responsible for taking training courses on how to better manage their dog. A dog can not know any better if the owner doesn't take the time to reach them better.

- Other: Owners who are obviously ignoring and/or incapable of handling their dog should be required to go for training to learn how to handle their dog.
- Other: Penalties should not be breed specific. Pit bulls should not be singled out. There are a lot of aggressive dogs that aren't pit bulls.
- Other: People caught with their dogs off leash outside of an off leash park get stiff fines. My 2 dogs and I have been attacked 5 time in the Elgin area within a 3 month period and now my dogs are reactive when they see other dogs. I have also caught kids teasing my dogs outside my fence and had other dog owners stand at my fence with their dogs teasing my dogs. So when a dog is deemed a nuisance there is usually a darn good reason for why the dogs bark or are reactive.
- Other: People must train their dogs properly - including small dogs who should be muzzled if they growl or bite.
- Other: Pit bull ban
- Other: Pit bulls and pit bull types should not be separated under these requirements. All dogs including little ones must adhere to the same behavior standards while in public and off leash areas. I find more little dogs with poor behavior than large ones.
- Other: Pit Bulls are fantastic dogs and specifically calling them out like this is awful. I am really disappointed in the city for doing this on the survey. Nuisance dogs are an issue. Pit bulls are not.
- Other: Pit bulls are great dogs and the fact that you are even considering this is disgusting. Do more research.
- Other: Pit bulls are wonderful animals. It's the owners that need to be taken care of. I have never met a bad pit bull. [removed]
- Other: Pit bulls aren't a danger, [removed]
- Other: Pit bulls do not offer more of a threat than other dog breeds, and there are many myths associated with them. I implore city council to discuss pit bulls with actual veterinary professionals, and come to non biased decision regarding their well being. Calgary needs facts about pitbulls, not myths and fear mongering.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be demonized! It is not the breed, but rather the ownership! Any breed of dog, small or large, has the strength to bite a human being hard if they are given the opportunity & trained in constant fear of their owner. People who are afraid of dogs are also part of the problem! They should either remove themselves from the situation or find a way for them to not place themselves in a situation in which they would interact with a dog - often they do not & purposely interact thinking they have the right to harass & tease a dog that they fear simply because it must be on a leash - this kind of behaviour ALSO leads to dog bites! Where are fines for people harassing & teasing dogs that lead them engaging in inappropriate behaviours!?
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out. If ANY animal has proven to be aggressive then they should have fines brought onto them. There are MANY large breeds that can cause damage from bites. ITS NOT THE DOG ITS THE OWNER
- Other: Pit bulls should not be treated differently than other breeds! It's the owner who cultivates the personality of the dog, don't blame a breed!

- Other: Pitbulls are amazing dogs, and shouldn't be focused on specifically. Do research and look at where pitbulls score. If they're mandatory to be muzzled, I'm not doing it. My dog is gentle and kind.
- Other: Pitbulls are like other dogs. Obedience training is a good start.
- Other: Pitbulls are not the issue, if people have nuisance dogs then it is the owner's responsibility to get training regardless of breed.
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM
- Other: Pitbulls are not the problem. [removed] owners are. Please give your heads a shake. Pitbulls are big baby's.
- Other: Pitbulls aren't a problem, Chihuahuas are more volatile than a pitbull.
- Other: Please consider removing any specific questions about pitbulls. They are beautiful dogs who are gentle-natured when not trained by HUMANS to be aggressive. My golden doodle is more aggressive than any pitbull I have ever met and our doodle is a family dog who is trusted around a 2-year-old daily. Any owner found guilty of neglect or animal abuse needs stricter fines, there is no need to punish a beautiful breed of dog.
- Other: Please do not implement breed-specific legislation. This is really harmful as many of our shelters are filled with pitbulls.
- Other: Please don't single out a breed. Please. There should be a limit for dogs per household. Ricky View County, Foothills County allow 3 dogs per household and don't need to pay for license but must be registered.
- Other: Please remember, it is generally poor training/a bad owner that causes unfortunate circumstances. Dogs may be domesticated, but they are an animal. People forget that and can treat them as human.
- Other: Positive obedience classes that all adults working with the dog must take, bearing in mind some dogs are rescues and now have good owners. Blame bad owners, not the breed.
- Other: Positive reinforcement-based training required for all dog owners, including basics of understanding dog body language.
- Other: Programs for dog owners who don't know how to properly handle their animals.
- Other: Properly socializing and training your dog is a critical part of responsible dog ownership, regardless of the breed or size of dog. All dogs have the potential to bite and cause serious harm to humans and other animals. If the intent of the bylaw is truly to reduce frequency and severity of dog bites, a bigger emphasis should be put on training and enforcement; there should not be breed-specific legislation in place in Calgary.
- Other: Punish behaviour not the breed
- Other: Punish the owner not the breed.
- Other: Quit focusing on pitbulls. All dogs can and do bite. I also don't like there is no standard to declare a nuisance dog. So any questions about them are a waste of space. A muzzle is good enough for a nuisance dog. Demanding higher insurance coverage is beyond the city's authority. Seizing a dog exhibiting dangerous behaviour in their own yard would be ridiculous (abuse of power). So NO to seizing. Stop focusing on specific breeds. Obedience training is not for dogs, it's for their owners. Some owners shouldn't have dogs. A yappy chihuahua dog is a nuisance dog by your definition, this is inane.

- Other: Quit profiling dogs based on how they look!!
- Other: Quit punishing the dog for the owners behaviour. Pit bulls are not the problem, their owners are. Maybe the owner should be the one to be punished not the animal. And why don't you have any other breed on here? Does the city not understand it's the owner not the animal. Educate yourselves
- Other: Realizing pit bulls aren't a dangerous breed and that it's the owner who trains it to be dangerous not the breed itself.
- Other: Regardless of the breed, owners need to be held responsible for their dogs actions. It is NOT the dogs that are the problem. If an owner knows their dog doesn't recall and will bully other dogs off leash, don't take them to off leash. Off leash parks shouldn't allow dogs to be on leash as this is a place for dogs to socialize and will always try to go up and say hi. If an owner has a dog off leash at a clearly stated on leash area and do not recall the dog when others are approaching, they should be fined.
- Other: Re-homing a nuisance dog, usually poor trading leads to accidents. Just needs a new home
- Other: Remove noise from the criteria. Some dogs that will be declared noise nuisance have problems that CANNOT be solved by obedience training. Requiring insurance for a dog that barks a lot is not reasonable and is ripe for abuse by busybodies or neighbours with axes to grind. Additionally the reason given for singling out pitbulls is dishonest. The average bite force of a pitbull is below that of german shepards, Mastiffs, Rottweilers, and american bulldogs. If you acknowledge there is not a higher incident rate there is no reason to single them out over other breeds.
- Other: Remove the "pitbull" term from the bylaws. All dogs can be dangerous
- Other: Require proof of training with dog registration. Breed specific bans do NOTHING- there are no bad dogs, just bad owners. If every owner is forced to train their dog, bites will decrease. Additionally, NONE of these measures address the human half of the interaction. Many dog bites happen because the human has no idea how to properly interact with a dog- what is being done to educate them?
- Other: Require supplemental education for owners licensing a "nuisance dog"
- Other: Required training for all dog owners. Only using industry-leading certified dog trainers that hold a DCBC or CPDT designation!
- Other: Required training for any breed of dog displaying dangerous behaviour punishable by fines if owners don't comply
- Other: Requiring all pit bulls to be muzzled is unacceptable. This should be a case by case basis as the majority of the Pitbull breeds listed above are very sweet gentle dogs. My Pitbull would not hurt a fly and to require her to wear a muzzle is completely inappropriate.
- Other: See how the owner is taking care of the dog. If a dog is aggressive then it's usually the owners fault
- Other: See if it's an owner issues, there are times when it's the owner's lack of responsibility that results in bites.

- Other: Should differentiate between nuisance and aggressive (biting, chasing). NO breed specific legislation!!! No "pitbull-ish appearance" legislation!
- Other: Small breed (yappy) dogs that antagonize other dogs should have harsher fines/punishments. Breedism isn't just as terrible as racism!
- Other: Small dogs (toy poodles, Chihuahuas, etc) that are aggressive/barking/exhibiting confrontational behaviors towards larger dogs and humans can also be deemed nuisance. Size of animal displaying Aggressiveness and severity of bite does not excuse poor animal behavior.
- Other: some points should be more specific: nuisance is too general e.g. a muzzle is useless for an excessive barker and would not be relevant in public; obedience training should be required for nuisance dogs but it depends on what the issue is as not all are training related e.g. a dog at large is not necessarily a training issue and is more likely an irresponsible owner; do we have a point for animal removal due to negligent or irresponsible ownership?
- Other: Stop basing this on pitbull breeds. Any dog can be aggressive, ITS BAD OWNERSHIP AND TRAINING NOT THE DOG.
- Other: Stop breed specific discrimination and legislation!! Tiny dogs, or "cute" dogs like goldens and labs, if poorly trained, are just as likely to become a nuisance dog. Pit bulls are not the problem, breed discrimination making people scared of them is the problem.
- Other: Stop discriminating against pit bulls.
- Other: Stop [removed] targeting pitbulls. They are not the problem, the owner that does not properly train the pit bull is the problem
- Other: Stop getting mad at the dog who has no choice but to listen or get beat by its owner. Punish a dogs behaviour based on how it was trained at home. If the dog lives in an abusive home. Dogs don't want to be mean or abusive. Its for their own taught and self learnt mechanisms to get them the way a dog is. You give a pit bull shame for biting someone when it feels scared. But don't give 2 shots about a small chihuahua doing the same. Why? Because obedience
- Other: STOP MAKING IT BREED SPECIFIC. Dogs should be trained regardless of breed or declaration as nuisance.
- Other: Stop singling out breeds!!
- Other: Stop targeting bully breeds - this is an outdated behavior, and similar to being racist.
- Other: Take action against irresponsible pet owners, not against breeds of pets.
- Other: take pit bulls out of the equation. Any size animal can inflict damage.
- Other: Take the dog from the bad home and rehome it to one that will train and take care of it properly.
- Other: Targeting pitbulls is very short sighted. There are many strong breeds living in our city. BSL accomplishes nothing. Education for owners is far more effective. Vindictive reporting is also an issue among neighbors that don't get along.
- Other: That any dog despite the breed, should be allowed in off leash areas unless previous bites or nuisances have occurred.
- Other: The amount of bias towards the city's definition of a pit bull is absolutely unfair these dogs were once known as nanny dogs as because of their kind nature. There is no such thing as a dangerous at birth do just horrible owners who do horrible things to these animals. I have been to the park with my pit bull who I rescued from a dog fight ring is the most kind soft hearted dog ever and I have seen her chased down and bit by dogs such a chihuahuas but because of their smaller size they are deemed not a threat? I believe the amount of biased to the pit bull breeds needs to be re-evaluated and looked at as an overall aggressive dog rather than focusing in on a specific breed

- Other: The amount of lights received at dog parks or even myself who lives in a community with small dogs have been primarily from Chihuahua and terrier pitbulls if a nuisance it is because the owners and the owners need training. The dog is declared a nuisance if and when it is involved in an incident or reflects an aggravated position to another dog. Any breed of dog can become a nuisance specifying one breed over the other will just determine people from getting that breed which happens to be a very social breed. Owner training is required or should be required. Are too many good people and good owners out there to bundle breeds together as listed above.
- Other: The city council and anyone else involved in this, are unbelievably inept and probably have never owned a dog in their lives. Do not target pit bulls because the media leaves you to believe they are bully dogs. [removed]
- Other: The city should have a right to intervene with serious incidents or if there have been multiple calls about a certain household or animal. The fact that these breeds are being singled out are ridiculous, I've seen more aggression shown by poodles and chihuahuas than any pit bull type dog
- Other: The current definition of a nuisance dog doesn't mean that a dog displays dangerous behavior and may just mean multiple noise violations. I suggest creating a different category for dogs that display dangerous behaviour and then applying restrictions (muzzled in public, etc.) to dogs that fall in that category.
- Other: The dogs are not the issue, the owners are. Stop blaming the breeds and focus on bylaws that focus on owners. All first time dog owners regardless of breed must go through training on proper care/responsibility training.
- Other: The fact that pitbulls are mentioned so many times here is disturbing. Multiple studies show breed specific legislation is not effective - pitbulls pose no greater risk than any other dog. Anyone that has been around a well trained, or merely not a pitbull with a bad owner knows how sweet, happy and friendly they are. Maybe the city needs to put whomever decided on the above points through training classes involving only pitbulls, and educate them on this breed. This stigma and stereotyping is disgusting, and shortsighted as usual by the city. Unqualified people should not be put in charge of making any kind of legislative decision. Increase fines for bad owners - mandate dog training classes for bad owners. Regardless of breed, it is an OWNER problem. A human problem - dogs are a product of their owners. This is something so easy a child can grasp it - so why can't the city?
- Other: The fact that you have pit bulls distinguished from every other type of dog is absolutely ridiculous. Their power may be similar or SLIGHTLY more than some other breeds (ie: Rhodesian ridgeback), however they are singled out. If a dog barks on its property, according to your definition above, it is considered a nuisance. Why on earth would it be not allowed at a dog park? I'd love to see the correlation explained.

- Other: The fines need to be for irresponsible owners. Just because a dog's breed is a pit bull or dog that looks alike DOES NOT mean it is dangerous. Any breed of dog can be aggressive and 9/10 it is smaller breed dogs. Before you pass any laws on this please get your facts correct.
- Other: The majority of issues that I see arise from owners who do not observe leash laws. Enforcement of leash laws could help reduce instances of bites and nuisance. The fact that pit bull laws are even being considered is disgusting. They have proved ineffective in other jurisdictions and unjustifiably discriminate against a dog on breed or look. The city of Calgary should be ashamed for even considering following the mistakes of other cities.
- Other: The only thing you guys should be doing is signing better for dog parks - reduce the amount of on-leash in off-leash and vice versa, that's where the problems arise.
- Other: The owners of nuisance dogs must attend animal behaviour classes to learn what THEY are doing to create a nuisance environment for their dog.
- Other: The pit bull discrimination is appalling. You should be ashamed of the policy supporting the confinement and removal of innocent animals
- Other: The targeting of pit bulls here is quite unfair
- Other: The term nuisance should be separated into 2 separate categories. An aggressive dog is not the same as a dog that barks a lot. I would support some of these measures for dogs that are involved in biting incidents, but not for dogs that simply bark a lot. Dogs who bark a lot should be allowed to be in public spaces.
- Other: There are many other breeds that have a strong jaw. You simply cannot ban one breed or make owners pay more just because they are classified as a nuisance by the city. Why not make it a bylaw to have all breeds require obedience training? Yeah, it doesn't really matter if a small dog bites, but a kid will still remember it their whole life regardless of size or breed. If people want to have dogs, doesn't matter the breed or size, they should be responsible for them and have them trained properly if they want to take them out in public spaces shared by families and other dogs. What a world it would be if every dog was trained and friendly, regardless of breed or size. Most of the time it's the owners fault that a pitbull is aggressive, not the dog itself. They are a very smart breed and should be respected and not classified as a nuisance just because their jaws are stronger than other dogs.
- Other: There are no such thing as bad dogs (esp specific breeds? That's retard talk) just bad owners
- Other: There should be a difference in this survey between nuisance dogs and dogs that have bitten people/other dogs. Those are vastly different scenarios and require different responses. In addition, breed specific questions are a terrible idea. It's not the breed or the dog, it's the owner.
- Other: There should be greater screening for those people wanting to adopt dogs with higher needs. I find many owners are not prepared to appropriately be aware of aggressive behaviour or appropriately monitor/train their pets. It is not a breed problem, but rather an issue with underprepared dog owners.
- Other: There should be no singling out of one specific breed. Either require obedience training for all breeds or none. A good first step would be to require a pass of at least a basic obedience course for all dogs.

- Other: THESE RULES ABSOLUTELY SHOULD NOT BE BREED SPECIFIC!
- Other: These should be for all dogs that are considered a "nuisance" not only "pitbulls" because not all "pitbulls" are a "nuisance" so that would not be fair to call out these breeds when all dogs can have this issue. This is about training not about a certain breed!
- Other: These should not be solely to one breed they should be more in the general species of a dog I own a boxer and everyone thinks they're a pitbull
- Other: This cannot be focused on a breed specific legislation.
- Other: This city seems to be picking on pit bulls - all dogs can be nuisance and any biting of other people not just severe should be addressed. Attacked by one dog in my life that ripped my thumb apart not a pittie it was a poodle! Little dogs are meaner because they are not trained and treated like babies.
- Other: This discrimination against Pitt bulls and dogs within the pitbull family is unfounded. There is a lot of room for retaliation from neighbour or persons who can just say a pit bull caused a disturbance even if it is untrue. There should be absolutely no breed discrimination in the making of Calgary bylaws. The fines should be applied to owners who clearly have not trained their dog to be suitable for utilizing public spaces. I often find that Pitt bull owners ensure their dog is well trained because of the discrimination against the breed. There are many other large and extra large dog breeds that sustain more damage in their attacks than a Pitt bull does during there's. Examples include: St. Bernards, Rottweilers, Doberman Pinchers, Great Danes, German Shepards, and Dalmatians. A number of small breed dogs have are known to have a higher bite percentage. Chihuahuas for example. Please make your bylaws discrimination free in the future.
- Other: This is a cash grab at most, all large breeds have the ability to bite harder, you can't just come up with more things for the people to get mad about in this city, when it comes to pets. There's so much backlash at montreal for their pitbull laws, maybe Calgary bylaw shouldn't be so naive and stereotypical towards those breeds.
- Other: This is a ridiculous section. All of the scientific evidence points to breed specific legislation being completely ineffective. Please Calgary do not go down this fool hardy route. Pit bulls are no different than any other dog.
- Other: This is completely unfair to target pit bulls when you SPECIFICALLY say pit bulls do not bite more then other dogs. This is outrageous and unfair to those dogs.
- Other: This is ridiculous to specifically call out pit bulls. Do NOT include breed specific legislation.
- Other: This question is saying all pitbulls are nuisances this is a stupid question any dog can be dangerous. So if I get attacked by a laberdoodle that's okay it won't make the news, but if it's a pitbull uh oh what is the city going to do! Re word your answers dogs are the problem not just whatever you classify as a pitbull.
- Other: This survey is biased towards certain breeds of dogs (those falling into the category of "pit bull") and many citizens of the public are uneducated about this subject and have a biased themselves towards pit bulls for no good reason. All this survey is doing is allowing those people to continue to believe that pit bulls are more dangerous dogs. There are many other breeds that could be argued to be more dangerous than pit bull breeds. A lot of the time, the problem is with the owner, and not the dog. Maybe if more dog bites and incidents are happening in Calgary, the city should look at how to make the owners more responsible when choosing to have a pet rather than punishing people for owning certain breeds..

- Other: Training for a human to own this type of dog. Ex how to take care of them, Maybe no backyard breeding.
- Other: Training for owners of dogs declared a nuisance.
- Other: Training required for s dog that has become a nuisance. Train the owner not the dog
- Other: Treat all dogs the same, Not just pitbulls
- Other: Treating pitbulls differently than other breeds is not ok. Issues should be handled in court, not by the city.
- Other: We are not supposed to be going back in time. BSL is the dog equivalent of being a racist. I've got two pitbull type dogs one is a manageable dog and he doesn't like other dogs. So I do not put him in any situations where something would happen. It doesn't matter what type of dog someone has if it acts out. My dog goes to training twice a week and doesn't have the opportunity. Having breed specific law in place isn't going to make people stop getting them or change anything it means people who do get them just won't license them with the city
- Other: We cannot discriminate based on assumption or fear, bylaws need to respond to an wctua0 behaviour or incident, such as a bite, not just the fear of possibility. All animals have the potential to be dangerous under the wrong circumstances
- Other: We SHOULD NOT be implementing breed specific by laws as most behaviors are a result of poor ownership training and knowledge
- Other: When one is exhibiting violent behaviour, consider the circumstances before the breed.
- Other: While I am aware that a pit bull bite has the potential to be more severe, I do not support making breed specific bylaws. All bylaws should apply to all animals regardless of their breed. Pit bulls and pit bull type dog breeds are not bad, it is usually the owner that is a problem if the dog is an issue. Pit bull and pit bulls type dogs are the bad dog of the moment. The city should not discriminate against the owners of these dogs based on a few rotten apples.
- Other: why are you falling into stereotypes around specific breeds? All dogs can be dangerous if not taken care of properly. This is ridiculous.
- Other: Why just pitbulls there are so many other breeds that need this as well it should be a law that if you own a DOG of any kind you are not to abuse them or teach them to be aggressive! It is not a dogs fault what they are taught just like children grow up government!
- Other: Why not look at the owner and the situation that the dog is in and not just the type of dog. i.e. (Pitbull) Come one Calgary when are we going to stop with these false breed predigest? It is the owners fault 99% of the time not the dog or type of dog. Maybe the bylaw should be against the wrong people owning and breeding any type of animal? Would you not let a child play at a park or have more than one allowed in their family due to skin colour? That is exactly how Pitbulls are being treated with these proposed bylaws.

- Other: Why not teach people proper responses to dogs. Screaming and yelling near a dog and running definitely doesn't help if a dog wants to interact with them. It's not always the dog creating problems. People are just as bad.
- Other: would prefer to see a proactive approach to pet care. Most responsible "owners" would happily take additional training if a pup has an incident. And I've been nipped at more by small dogs, while generally not painful, I would consider them a nuisance. And when owners don't have small dogs under control, they cause dangerous situations with reactive dogs of any size.
- Other: You are racists against pit bulls! Hope you making special dog parks that are for pit bulls only!
- Other: You can't discriminate against dogs. That's like being racist .
- Other: You specifically say that peoples don't exhibit more bites of the other breeds. But then you specifically target pitbull's in the questions here. Pimples are naturally very sweet dogs and of course in the wrong hands they are going to be aggressive. But the fact that you're thinking of making pitbulls not allowed to go on an off leash area/ muzzled all the Time is disgusting.
- Other: - having separate dog park areas fenced off for small and big dogs also penalties for dogs that hurt other dogs at dog parks (as owners should know their dog and not bring a dangerous dog to a dog park)
- Other: A dog bite is a dog bite. It doesn't matter what the breed is. The owner is to blame
- Other: A general comment that I do not support bylaws or fines that target specific breeds (eg. pit bulls). Breed biases should have no place in bylaws when it can result in perfectly behaved dogs being punished or restricted just because of how they look.
- Other: A) Breed specific legislation (BSL) DOES NOT WORK. It is the equivalent of racism and unless Calgary Police Service is ready to implement the same bylaw against white males because they're more likely to be serial killers, this should not even be a consideration. I am disgusted that it is. B) There is a very big difference between nuisance and injury-causing. A dog who barks a bit should not require extra insurance. Maybe a bite history warrants extra insurance. That said, have you ever actually tried to obtain insurance as a dog owner? Good luck! So you are creating a potential barrier to pet ownership and may even be setting up a situation where people have no option but to break the law because they can't actually get services.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be penalized more so then any other dog, they should have not have their own check column in this survey.
- Other: ABSOLUTELY NO BREED SPECIFIC RESTRICTIONS! OWNER RESTRICTIONS AND EDUCATION BUT DO NOT SPECIFY BY BREED, SIZE OR PERCEIVED APPEARANCE.
- Other: Absolutely NO PITBULL BAN or singling out Pitbulls
- Other: additional insurance for all pet owners with the option to reduce the premiums through demonstrating responsible pet ownership such as qualifying a dog through the Canine Good Citizen program. Engage businesses in further rewarding responsible pet owners with more access (in transit, public buildings, stores that don't sell food, restaurants) - look at Germany for an example.
- Other: Aggressive dogs should not be allowed at off leash parks
- Other: Aggressive dogs should not be allowed at off leash parks

- Other: All breeds are required to have obedience training and proof of that when you purchase a dog. Not just pit bulls. Bad owners not bad dogs.
- Other: ALL dogs have the ability to injure others. I do NOT support breed specific legislation of any kind. Owners of nuisance dogs, no matter their breed or size should be mandated to attend training classes for a certain number of hours
- Other: All dogs should be treated equally they are no different then people
- Other: All owners should be equally held accountable for their dog's actions regardless of breed.
- Other: Any dog can create damage, this is pathetic just going after a specific breed.
- Other: Any dog has the potential to have a lot of power and have a sever bite, Pit bulls are not a problem or nuisance dog. ITS A BAD OWNER THAT MAKES A BAD DOG! Stop putting labels on just one breed!
- Other: Are we going to start forcing large men to stay home because they are stronger. The hate towards pit bulls just because they are stronger is disgusting and wrong.
- Other: Are we seriously having this tired BSL conversation based on outdated and uninformed fear of dogs with blocky heads? Disappointing and misses the heart of the issue, which is deadbeat dog owners and mismanagement/non-management of problem behaviours. How about discounted licensing with proof of an obedience class in the licensing period? How about a secondary/elevated license for off leash areas that requires (among other things) proof of obedience class? This would actually help improve the safety of the community and create an incentive for owners to actually put some effort in with their dogs and be good neighbours, which I'm assuming is the intent of this misguided "pitbull type dog" nonsense. Your pitbull description is inaccurate (no such breed as a "pit bull terrier," only a APBT) as is your information on bites (bite force of German Shepherds, Rottweilers and other large breeds are higher than APBTs and Staffies, and the locking jaw thing is well known BS). Lazy, shortsighted and based on nothing but fear. Yes, 'pit bull types' attract a greater number of loser owners, but so do many other large breeds that typically scare people.
- Other: Bad pet owners are usually the issue here so I'd like to see something in place that looks out for animals by ensuring their owners are educated on responsible pet ownership with the animal rehomed if their owner fails to take proper care of them.
- Other: Basing any bylaw or enforcement on a particular breed is ridiculous. Many breeds can cause severe injuries and many breeds have bite strength similar or greater than that of a pit breed. The statement regarding pitbull bite strength is incorrect and misleading. It is even prefaced by saying they are not involved in more bite incidents. Why even put the options regarding pitbull breeds? German shepards have a stronger bite strength - are there going to be special rules for them too? What about mixed breeds? Either a dog is aggressive/nuisance or it is not. Breed is irrelevant and it is unproductive and irresponsible to even suggest that one particular breed requires different rules.
- Other: Being as specific to pitbulls as this is, is only adding to the wrong stereotype.. disgusting. It should be dogs in general there are plenty other breeds that have a stronger bite then pitbulls FYI. Not the dogs fault they have awful owners
- Other: Breed should not be a factor, but requiring training of nuisance dogs of any breed is a good idea.

- Other: Breed specific bylaws are biased, and do not stop dog related attacks from occurring, other large breed, and even small breed dogs are just as likely to have aggressive characteristics. Bad irresponsible owners are to blame, not the breed of dog
- Other: Breed specific by-laws are never the answer
- Other: Breed specific bylaws are not right. It should be dog specific. It is not the breed it is the way they are raised. You shouldn't punish a dog or an owner that has not been a problem based only on the breed.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is a hate crime. It is exactly the same as saying that one race is a "nuisance." I am appalled by city Council even considering this. Also, "pit bulls" are no more likely to do serious damage than any other breed. In fact, they are prone to over-reporting of bites, if anything. I've worked in animal care (vet, shelter, and biologist) for 20 years and BSL DOES NOT WORK. Dogs with a bite history are one thing, and I support (within reason) some changes to that bylaw, but breed should never be brought into it. Your animal services officers are already too guilty of bias (like the woman who told me "the only good chow is a dead chow") when she arrived at my vet clinic to pick up a very friendly stray chow. That is dangerous behaviour, but that woman wasn't mandated to wear a muzzle (though she should have been!).
- Other: Breed specific legislation is both awful and ineffective. Calgary needs to be better than that.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is unfair. Good dog owners are punished for bad dog owner behaviour. Shame on you for even considering this... I expected better from the City of Calgary.
- Other: Breed Specific Legislation has been proven ineffective and to have negative effects on public opinion.
- Other: Breed specific never worked nowhere just thinking about it is regressive and goes against science. The mayor of Montreal lost his election a couple of years ago just because he wanted to implement such a bylaw. I would rethink this guys.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation is uninformed and ineffective. "Pit bulls" may have stronger jaws but they are not more likely to bite nor are they a dangerous breed. Do you penalize owners of small dogs like Pomeranians that often exhibit aggression as part of their personality to establish dominance and assert themselves? No. Their jaws are small, but they can easily rip faces of children and cause major damage to faces and the body. Stop pursuing BSL. It is ridiculous and ignorant. Look to lump all dogs together and then assess based on each individual dog which needs tighter restrictions, fees and owner guidance. Stop punishing pit bulls for the messes we have made and our ill-informed views.
- Other: BSL is garbage please don't do this
- Other: BSL laws do not work. Many areas are abolishing them. The current program Calgary has is sufficient
- Other: Bull breeds aren't bad, it's 100% on the owner to train their dog. ANY breed can be a danger and or nuisance.
- Other: Calgary has long been looked to as having the gold standard, why have discussion to go to a more archaic legislation focused on pitbulls? Pitbull type dogs do not have stronger bite force and are no more a risk than any large breed dog.

- Other: Calgary shouldn't be getting involved with pit bull problems ever
- Other: City to provide obedience training for pitfalls or nuisance dogs at no or low cost to owners to remove financial barriers to training.
- Other: Create a new definition for dogs exhibiting dangerous behaviours. This should not be breed specific and should not include nuisance behaviours such as noise, found roaming, etc.
- Other: Deal with the dog owner through access to certified dog trainers to address behavioral issues.
- Other: Do NOT bring in breed specific legislation, it is not effective.
- Other: Do not make limitations specifically against pit bulls. This is wrong
- Other: Do not penalize the breed, pit bulls and their mixes are intelligent animals and raised properly are very good pets, there are many other breeds that are problematic, not just pit bulls.
- Other: Do NOT Support Breed Specific Legislation. The problem is NOT the dog/breed. The problem is the OWNER who cannot train or handle the animal. Punish the OWNER. Not the BREED. -signed a veterinary professional-
- Other: Do not target breeds of dogs, lets not be like Quebec. Fine the homeowner for neglect, no training for the dog and overall not fit to be an owner. It is never the dogs fault, simply the owners. Punish the owners or make them take training for dogs and you will see things to decline. With that, STOP euthanizing dogs due to a bit. Again neglect and poor training from the owner. They have no voice. We don't euthanize a person for punching someone.
- Other: Do NOT target by breed. I am so disappointed that this is an option. All breeds have the same ability to bite and all breeds should be held to the same standard. DO NOT discriminate against pit bulls or any other breed.
- Other: DO NOT TARGET PIT BULLS! WE KNOW THAT DOESNT WORK. I don't like that Nuisance is so broadly defined yet the restrictions suggested imply they are dangerous. If nuisance includes getting loose from their owner or noise there is no reason they would need to wear a muzzle or not got to off-leash parks. It should say dogs with a bite history or deemed dangerous. Dog owners who constantly let their dogs loose should be fined more, this is not the fault of the dog.
- Other: Dog breed does not dictate behavior, it is discrimination, just as it is to pick out one race, to say a breed is worse than another. As for nuisance it better be iron clad that the dog was not provoked. Many dogs are tormented by ppl as they go by their fence to make them bark to the point that as soon as someone goes near it, they will bark.
- Other: Dog owners that take obedience classes pay a lower licence fee
- Other: Don't be stupid; stop blaming the breed. As far as I'm concerned, every citizen should have to take obedience classes. [Removed] didn't believe in blaming the breed. Maybe [removed] should go through all the obedience classes and see what they offer, and see what's effective. Most treat training facilities don't even deal with what you call nuisance dogs anyways or use stupid contraptions or ideas that don't work. I think there should be a law that you can't publish the breed of the dog, only state the colour and size (small medium and large). You have to think where the stigma is coming from to begin with; it comes from social panic caused by the media instead of looking at actual facts.

- Other: Don't single out pit bulls
- Other: Don't type cast a certain breed. If a dog is poorly trained that is because of the owner.
- Other: Don't engage in breed specific legislation
- Other: Don't pick on pitbulls. Pick on [removed] pet owners.
- Other: DON'T SINGLE OUT PITBULLS!!!! Shame on you.
- Other: Educate yourself on the breed and get your head out of your[removed].
- Other: Education for owners on the breed, responsible ownership, educate the public, this is almost always the fault of the owner not the dog, stop letting one incident ruin the breed, all dogs bite, stop singling this breed out....all dogs, not just pitbulls
- Other: Education program for the public/pit bull owners on how to treat their dog properly cause that's the real issue
- Other: Fines for people who instigate or provoke and animal.
- Other: For the first checkbox, what is considered dangerous behaviour? I support seizing a dog if it is biting or being aggressive without provocation towards people or other animals. If being a nuisance is defined as "noisy" how does a muzzle and extra insurance help? E.g., a dog barks because it is bored and home alone so the neighbours complain, but the dog is not a bite risk or a risk in an off leash park. The definition of a pit bull is ridiculous - many dogs of mixed breeds can look like a "pit bull" but aren't, and none of these dogs are more dangerous. Many dogs (e.g., German shepherds, rottweilers) have very strong bites, not just pit bulls, but you're not targeting them. One thing missing from here is increased reporting - encourage increased reporting of aggression, almost bites, and actual bites, especially biting other animals (make it mandatory for veterinarians). I would like to see increased fines for repeated "nuisance" or bylaw offences and encouraged or mandatory education. In terms of part 9 below, I would support that some fines stay the same for the first offence, then fines increase for multiple offences.
- Other: Force the owners to to to training
- Other: Free education course (a one day workshop) for dog owners to learn about dog behaviour and responsible ownership. This could also be in the form of a info booth set up at busy times at a popular offleash park. Education is key, not discrimination against bully breeds. Any dog can become aggressive or be a nuisance without proper training.
- Other: Free education or support for owners that have any breed of dog that is exhibiting inappropriate behaviours and allow a non punitive approach as the primary interaction. Sometimes the owners just need help to deal with certain behaviours.
- Other: Go to school, I hope whoever came up with this didn't, but if they didn't I'd like to know where to avoid sending my kids
- Other: Higher fines for dog owners of ALL breeds of dogs who cause a nuisance to other dogs, including provoking leashed dogs.
- Other: Higher fines for owners who have not socialized their pet to be around other pets. It's never the animal's fault, but the owner's.

- Other: Higher fines for people who train dogs to be aggressive or to fight. It's all about the owners choices and not the dogs. Therefore, pit bulls do not need to be singled out. For example, I've never been hurt by a pit bull but I have been bitten by numerous other breeds.
- Other: Higher registration fees for pit bulls
- Other: Holding owners accountable in obedience training is the only way to make a serious impact in dog attacks and misbehaviours. By specifically mentioning pit bulls you negate the responsibility of owners to understand and train their breeds accordingly. If you are targeting pit bulls with strength as your reasoning you should be issuing this towards all large dog breeds. Please reconsider your motions towards pit bulls. Thank you.
- Other: How about finding the owners for ALL BREEDS who act irresponsibly and more presence from the city in dog parks? I've seen plenty of a-hole dogs that aren't pitbulls. It's the owners. Not the dogs. Not everyone should be able to own a dog. This is a ridiculous rule you are putting in place.
- Other: How about training and fines for inept dog owners - the breed is fine, its the morons that do not have the skills or brains to properly train these dogs. Also huge fines for the ones that train their large/strong dogs to be aggressive. Do not blame the dogs for irresponsible dog owners
- Other: How about using real research, such as researching the actual jaw strength of various breeds and seeing that "pit bulls" are actually only slightly above average
- Other: I am absolutely AGAINST ANY breed specific legislation. It is a waste of time and resources. The above criteria could be for ANY large breed dogs (a "pitbull" is a medium breed) there is no evidence that this line of distorted thinking has actually helped any communities rather it promotes bigots, discrimination and allows for mistreatment and abuse of said breeds. It is a waste of time and money that should be spent on keeping Owners accountable for their dogs. Owners should be held responsible for their dogs behavior NO Matter the breed! I am disgusted our city is even considering this! Let's work together to keep our citizens safe using educated bylaws. [Name removed]
- Other: I believe dog owners are unfairly penalized. Cats roam free without licenses, causing noise, feces, and property distruction. The responsibility for problem cats is put on to neighbours. Deal with the cat issue before focusing on dogs.
- Other: I believe this is targetting pit bull-type breeds and is unjust. I was bitten in my vet's office by a mixed-breed dog, definitely with no pit bull in her genetics, because the owner's partner did not listen to the owner's instuctions regarding another dog in their care. I have a small dog, and have not had any issues when meeting pit bull terriers / staffordshire terrier type dogs, nor have I been threatened by them. We need to target dog owners in general, not specific breeds. We're focussing on the wrong end of the leash here.
- Other: I do not agree with this breed specific legislation. Pitbulls are not the only dogs that bite and frankly I thought the City of Calgary was better educated and informed upon dog attacks and bites and the reasons behind why they happen. It's not a breed problem it's the owners fault.
- Other: I do not believe it is fair to put pitbulls in their own category. They are the sweetest most sucky dogs I have owned. It can not be just put on the breed. Ive had weiner dogs come up and bite myself and my pitty. My pitbull didn't react. Same with labs I have had 3 different dogs either bite or so aggressive behavior towards my dogs and myself. I believe it should be the owner that gets the bad name not the dog. They only know what we teach they depend on us and for the dog to get the punishment is unfair the owner should be punished and taught the correct ways of owning an animal whether its a weiner dog or pitbull.

- Other: I DO NOT SUPPORT BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION
- Other: I do not support this breed-specific restriction. Restrictions should be applied to any breed.
- Other: I don't believe this should be breed specific it's not fair to responsible owners that take the time to train there dogs.
- Other: I don't think any bylaws should be breed specific.
- Other: I don't believe in breed-specific legislation and it has been shown multiple times to be ineffective. Many dogs that are non-pitbulls can be aggressive (in the 90's, German shepherds were the "dangerous" dog) and not often than not, I find small dogs are more likely to bite than large dogs. Every pitbull and pitbull-type dog I have met has been incredibly friendly and sweet, and I believe it's generally poor ownership if one is aggressive
- Other: I own two mixed breeds with pit bull characteristics, would they be grandfathered in if bylaws change? Or would my dogs be apprehended like Ontario and killed?
- Other: I think as example I had a friend get attacked by an aggressive dog, and the city asked for the dog to be removed from the area and the family would be fined 25 dollars everyday it was in the property. And for the record it was an American Eskimo dog. the bully Breed is by far the best breed, and they are the most caring. any dog could attack it's the owner not the dog.
- Other: I think it's sad to see that the City is trying to ban a breed when 99% of the time training and poor owners are to blame with nuisance animals.
- Other: I think the definition of nuisance needs to be updated. biting is much different that noise. They are two separate things.
- Other: I think this is a matter of the owner, not the dog. My shih-tzu shows more aggression than my Rottweiler ever has. Owners should be held accountable no matter the breed. If declared a nuisance, it should be mandatory to have the owner take the dog through training. Don't blame a dog for how lazy an owner can be, enforce the owners to take better care in training if the dog (any breed) becomes a nuisance.
- Other: I will not support any measures that are biased against specific breeds or physical characteristics of an animal since these measures cannot accurately predict a dogs behaviour.
- Other: I work with dogs and HIGHLY disagree with any type of BSL - dogs like German Shepherds have a HIGHER bite strength and are not being punished by punitive legislation. There is NOTHING to support that bully breeds are more aggressive or have stronger bite strength than other dogs of similar size. I implore that you do not enact BSL in yyc - it is so detrimental to to dog community and adds unnecessary fear to a breed that has been unfairly STEREOTYPED. I've had more negative experiences and more bites from LABS - I've never had a bully breed bite me. This breed discriminatory legislation is actively hurtful to so many dogs and responsible owners in this city.
- Other: I would like educate to be published about the glamorized picture painted about the harm pitbulls do. Many other dogs do the same amount of damage. I would like the city of Calgary to stop group multiple breeds under the umbrella term pitbull. People need to be educated, these bylaws would only punish responsible dog owners and now decrease numbers of nuisances with dogs

- Other: I would not count loud/barking dogs as a nuisance requiring additional measures, I would like these to be explicit to aggressive dogs, not ones that bark or get out of the house
- Other: If a dog has multiple offences, the city should have the right to request training for the dog and that the dog stay on private property and/or be muzzled in public until the training is completed.
- 1
- Other: If harm is caused by a pit bull or nuisance dog, the owner should be banned from owning dogs in future. Since all bad dog behaviour stems from bad owner behaviour.
- Other: If you [removed] want to introduce breed specific prohibitions, then just say so and stop hiding behind passive aggressive surveys questions that are written to result in only the results you want.
- Other: In the majority of cases the issue is not the dog but the owner not understanding dog behaviour and their needs. I would like to see the city come out with a responsible dog owner manual that explains dog behaviour, medical advice including basics on grooming, etc. Many problem dogs are perfectly fine once they have proper training and guidance from their owners. Also, there working with dogs for years, there are numerous breeds I'm more wary off than pit bulls.
- Other: Increased fines for people who do not train their dogs. Dogs with behaviour problems are not breed specific they are owner specific. Dogs should not be punished or singled out just because they have bad owners.
- Other: Instead of focusing on pitbulls, which as you said aren't statistically proven to be more aggressive, you should focus on responsible ownership in general. I believe some sort of obedience/ownership training, for example, should be a requirement for all dog ownership.
- Other: It is really disturbing that the City of Calgary is targeting pitbulls and "(e) a dog that has an appearance and physical characteristics that are substantially similar to those of dogs referred to in any of clauses (a) to (d); (pit-bull. What a subjective measurement. All pets should be held to the same standards. Specifically targeting pitbulls is fear mongering. Second, what is the definition of nuisance? If a dog is known for barking (due to fear, separation anxiety, etc. why does it need to be muzzled or even not allowed at dog parks? I support not allowing known aggressive dogs in these places, and requiring muzzles until they have passed temperament testing, but not barking dogs. This definition is much too broad.
- Other: It seems ridiculous to assume pit bulls are inherently worse than other dogs when we all (including you, [names removed]) know that it is people who teach their dogs to be aggressive. You should be focusing on educating people who adopt ANY kind of dogs to be responsible owners.
- Other: Its not the pit bulls fault its aggressive where is the reprimanding for the owner why isn't there an option to fine them
- Other: It's not the breed. Make training mandatory.
- Other: It's the owners, not the dogs fault. If the dog is being abused by the owner it will act aggressively.

- Other: Just a comment that increasing insurance and fines for nuisance dogs, keeping in mind that when people first acquire a dog they don't think it'll be a nuisance, might increase the number of abandoned dogs due to owners not being able to afford insurance and fines. Or it'll just increase the number of unregistered dogs. Make dog training services easily accessible and affordable. Take a compassionate approach.
- Other: Keep breed specific legislation out of our city.
- Other: Leave breeds out of it. Poorly behaved dogs come from ALL breeds (note deadly attacks by huskies) it is a problem with the owners. OWNERS need training regardless of dog breed. Regarding roaming cats, fines for INTACT cats makes sense but altered cats shouldn't be a source of fines.
- Other: Leave pit bulls and their owners alone. Your statement regarding pit bulls not biting more but are stronger therefor need more restraints is very flawed. Check your logic
- Other: Make it mandatory for the OWNERS to partake in some sort of program that deems them fit to own and seek help/remedy training of nuisance dog. It's always the owners not the dogs themselves.
- Other: Mandatory obedience classes for new dog owners. STOP ALLOWING STORES LIKE TOO DOG TO SELL ANIMALS & STOP BACKYARD BREEDERS!
- Other: Minimum Obedience/behavioural training for all dog owners not just pit bull owners. Even some online course. No euthanasia for the dogs. Its not thr dogs fault if it wasnt trained properly. Increase funding for shelters to provide spaces and training and promoting adopt dont shop
- Other: More accountability And documentation to dog fights at off leash parks.
- Other: More specific language. I dont care if a dog is barking non stop at an off leash park (nuisance) but I do care if a dog is dangerous. Our dog has been attacked once and we've seen another dog be attacked and neither time was the result of a pit bull. All first time dog owners should be required to take mandatory training which breeders and adoption orgs should require.
- Other: No breed should be singled out. All potential dog owners should be required to complete a certain number of training classes before they can register their dog, NO MATTER WHAT SIZE OR BREED. All potential dog owners should also be put through a screening process, regardless of how many dogs they have owned in the past, before they can even start looking for a dog.
- Other: No breed specific legislation.
- Other: No breed specific legistlation against pitbulls!!!
- Other: No BSL, it doesn't work. A golden retriever can do just as much damage as a pit bull if they bite.
- Other: No bylaw should be breed specific!!
- Other: No discrimination against pit bulls as many other breeds such as German Shepards have even more dangerous bites
- Other: No restrictions by breed, but rather behavior only. Major violations should have more severe outcomes, minor ones are just that, minor. Major issues should have major consequences.
- Other: no singling out pit bulls, any and all dogs . Opens up other questions then: should female dogs, male dogs, puppies, senior dogs? Should there be less of a concern when the dog is elderly?

- Other: Nothing specific to breed. Any dog can be a nuisance not fair for one to be deemed so because of breed
- Other: Nothing to do with a specific breed. If a dog has aggressive behaviour then they should be on leash and possibly with a muzzle.
- Other: Nuisance dogs and pitbulls are not the same. There should not be breed specific laws
- Other: Obedience and rehabilitation training for any dog exhibiting dangerous behaviour or has bitten another animal or person
- Other: Obedience training ONLY if provided at low to no cost.
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL dogs who have complaints against them (including noise complaints)
- Other: Obedience training required for all licensed dogs (course paid for in initial licensing fee). Separating true nuisance behaviours from aggression and dangerous behaviours (a friendly dog barking hello from its yard should not be treated the same as a dog that has a history of aggression). There should be a very clearly stated law AGAINST breed-specific bans, particularly ones that include "looks like" - these have been proven stupid and ineffective for improving public safety in many areas around the world, and need to be taken out of consideration.
- Other: ONLY dogs that are considered to be dangerous or a nuisance should have ANY of these applied to them. It is outrageous to bring forward a breed specific legislation against one specific type of dog based on their strength. I was bit in the face as a child by a COCKER SPANIEL and no one ever complains about them. It's disgusting to bring these types of laws and rules against one type of dog within Calgary. I am appalled that this is even a conversation. ONLY dogs that are considered dangerous should have any specific restrictions placed upon them.
- Other: Only dogs with aggressive nuisance complaints should be considered and then all of the above for nuisance dogs should apply
- Other: Owner screening for specific dog breeds or large dogs (German Shepard, Doberman, rottweiler, pitbull etc)
- Other: Owners of first time offender nuisance dogs or first time minor bite must attend behaviour training with the offending dog. Must provide city with proof.
- Other: Owners of nuisance dogs have to take a responsible dog ownership course and show to city officials they are making appropriate changes in their home to help solve the issue.
- Other: Owners requiring training when having any type of bully breed
- Other: Owners should be assessed as well, certain people should not be allowed to own a dog if they cannot accept the responsibility or have a dog for the wrong reasons
- Other: Owners should solely be responsible and fined heavily and should not be allowed to own any pets in the future. The bylaw should not be dog breed specific. The dog should not be punished or put down, it should be the owner's accountability and responsibility to train and keep their dog under control.
- Other: Owners who don't comply with rehabilitation and training of their dog can have their right to pet ownership revoked

- Other: People owning a pitbull or similar dog should get a kind of licence that says they are able to care for such a dog. The dog is not the problem, the problem(s) come(s) from a human who doesn't know how to deal with such a dog.
- Other: Pit bull bans are based on feelings and not fact. Be better than this.
- Other: Pit bulls are not a breed. If your going to consider making LEGAL LAWS around animals then consult with a specialist such as a veterinarian and get your statistics before posting a PUBLIC survey.
- Other: PIT BULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM ALL DOGS ARE THE PROBLEM BREED DOES NOT MATTER THAT IS BREED DISCRIMINATION.
- Other: PIT BULLS ARENT THE PROBLEM. BAD OWNERS ARE. IT IS ALSO A PROVEN FACT THAT MANY LARGE BREED DOGS HAVE AS STRONG OF A BITE FORCE AS PITBULLS. SO WHAT ABOUT THEM. SMALL DOGS ARE PROVEN TO BE MORE LIKELY TO SHOW AGGRESSION TOWARDS BOTH PEOPLE AND ANIMALS. IF A MAN KILLS SOMEONE YOU WOULDNT CALL ALL MEN KILLERS. SO IF A DOG BITES SOMEONE YOU WOULDNT CALL ALL DOGS AGGRESSIVE.
- Other: Pit bulls should be treated like all other dogs. Since they are kind and much nicer than small dogs
- Other: PIT BULLS SHOULD NOT BE SINGLED OUT!!!!!!! It's bad owners that are the problem, not the breed.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be stereotyped. It's the owners that need to take responsibility and train their dog.
- Other: Pit bulls shouldn't be such a main focus - any dog can be labeled as a "nuisance"
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM. WHAT IS WRONG WITH YOU CALGARY. I AM ASHAMED THAT THIS IS EVEN AN IDEA. CONTROL THE BAD DOG OWNERS. NOT THE DOGS
- Other: Pitbull's should not be singled out due to the HUGE lack of proof showing they are a high bite risk than any other breed. On that note, the proposed above regarding Pitbull's IF enforced, expect an increase of abandoned dogs of this breed due to high cost ESPECIALLY in times like these.
- Other: Pitbulls should NOT have anything to do with this matter. The bite force of a pitbull is less than a German shepherd. Are you going to force all German shepherds to be muzzled in public, not allow them at off leash dog parks, not allow more than one per household, require insurance, etc? That is absolutely embarrassing to even be a thought.
- Other: Pitbulls to be removed as nuisance dogs. This is discrimination against a breed
- Other: Please do not place laws on Pit bulls specifically.
- Other: Please do your research. Like the top of this survey mentions, statistically Pitbull breeds do not cause the most bites. Take a look at how well it worked for Montreal in 2017. Focus your efforts on general nuisance dogs and not specifically one breed.
- Other: Please don't go breed specific. There are bites of varying severity from ALL types of dogs.
- Other: Please don't implement breed-specific bylaws. The bylaws should apply to all owners/pets equally regardless of their dog breed.
- Other: Please just better educate owners/people with regards to the dangers of dogs.

- Other: Please never ban Pit Bulls!!!
- Other: Prohibited ownership of ANY animals should there be a serious incident more than once or non compliance to obedience training
- Other: Public education on how to properly interact with and approach animals AND public education campaign on what it means to be a responsible dog owner.
- Other: putting extra restrictions on "pitbulls" is absolutely terrible and should not even be considered
- Other: Remove breed specification and just focus on the behavioural issue. By adding breed you are suggesting that this breed specifically is a problem. If a non dog owner takes this survey they are more likely to choose areas where you have specified breed just simply because you suggested it.
- Other: Remove pitbull from all of those and generalize it as DOGS IN GENERAL. You ignorant humans.
- Other: Require all dogs, not just "Pitbulls" or "Nuisance Dogs", to require obedience training.
- Other: Shock collars on small dogs, they bark too much and are far too aggressive. I'd suggest putting a muzzle on the owners as well.
- Other: since the city is focussing of pit bulls and pit bulls type, is the city willing to pay for DNA testing on those dogs? Is the city honest enough to accept the DNA results? Aggressive animals, any and all breeds, is the fault of the HUMAN. I don't see any training, that the owner of an aggressive dog is REQUIRED to act. We all know that is an animal is aggressive, that is because the HUMAN is at fault, NOT the dog. You need to understand, comprehend this. But the blame where it belongs...on the HUMAN. Also, get rid of all the off leash parks! That is a problem. Ignorant owners who knows their dogs is aggressive to other animals, go to off leash parks and let them loose to attack other dogs. What are you doing about that?
- Other: Small aggressive dogs that nip/bite/provoke big dogs should be kept out of dog parks. Most aggressive pit bulls/large dogs are only aggressive AFTER a poorly trained small dog (yorkie type) have provoked the attack.
- Other: Small dogs are much more aggressive than larger breeds. There should be restrictions and penalties on small dogs as they tend to initiate more acts of violence and aggression. They are often treated more as a toy than a pet.
- Other: Special licensing for breeding pit bulls where applications are more strict, training for humans and the dogs. People breeding without a license heavily fined. Dogs being seized but NOT put down, these dogs are loving animals but in the wrong hands any dog can be dangerous
- Other: Specifying pit bulls would be unfair to owners of well behaved pit bulls. All bylaws should refer to nuisance dogs only
- Other: Stop picking on pitbulls. Stop wasting my tax money and fix this city. Time for an entirely new city council
- Other: Stop targeting pitbulls and target the terrible owners
- Other: Stop targeting specific breeds when you acknowledge there's no higher frequency of them biting
- Other: Stricter laws on the breeding and ownership of dogs. Breeds arent the issue, people are. Proper training and/or a liscence to own a dog should be required. People should have to take some kind of Healthcare and training program for high risk dogs. But, let's not kid ourselves, the dogs are not the problem.

- Other: Targeting pit bull-like dogs for the "potential to bite harder" is like targeting ethnic groups for the potential to be involved in crime. Maybe treat the greater issue at hand rather than sweep these dogs under the rug as having to be taxed just for being alive. Prevent terrible people from owning and abusing dogs, don't blame the dogs for simply existing. It's like a form of racism for dogs.
- Other: Targeting pitbulls and their that look like them (ie bully breeds) is racist. It is 2020 - aren't we beyond this!!
- Other: Terrible to single out pit bulls, any breed has the potential to be a nuisance, these should be approached based on the individual not the breed.
- Other: The bias you guys are expressing towards pit-bull type dogs is ridiculous. I do not own one, but responsible pet ownership should be breed-agnostic and enforced equally across all dog owners (even those annoying purse rats)
- Other: The breed of dog is irrelevant. It is the owner that is the problem.
- Other: The circumstances of each case must be determined, and the owner should be held accountable. Bites can be triggered for a variety of reasons, people need to learn responsible pet ownership. I am quite disappointed that Calgary would even consider putting laws in that are breed specific.
- Other: The city should implement lighter annual fees for ANY dog that attends obedience training. Once a dog has been in an altercation, the dog and owners attending the dog during the altercation should be required to attend mandatory obedience training. You need to amend your definition of nuisance; muzzling a dog who is barking or at large will not change those behaviours.
- Other: The dogs are not the issue, the people are. Instead of targeting the animal why not target the irresponsible ownership? Make obedience training necessary for ALL owners. Put more time and money into illegal breeding which is where many irresponsible owners find dogs.
- Other: The fact that the city is even contemplating BSL is sad. We are a city that was once looked upon as a leader in animal welfare and animal care and control. Look what happened in Quebec, the time, money and effort involved with putting in BSL to only have major push back and reversing their decision later. It would be terrible PR for the city to put this in place. As an organization that deals with dog on a regular basis you have to know that any large breed dog is capable of the same damage a pitbull type is. Individual dogs with a history of bites I'm all for restrictions, but not just because they are pitbulls.
- Other: The owner should be at fault the dog no matter the bees should be given a shot at being rehabilitated before deciding to euthanize
- Other: There are a lot of dogs that have a worse bite than a pitbull. Look at German Shepards and other dog breeds! The government has no right to impose bias laws that punish owners of pitbulls. You can not condemn a breed cause of prejudice. Your bylaws should be for all dogs plain and simple. Muzzle every dog or none. I will stand behind a law that has animals put down if they are involved in an incident but why punish an innocent pit bull that is my two year olds best friend. My pitbull is the friendliest dog I have ever owned.

- Other: There has to be something said about the owner, most of the time it is not the dogs fault it is the owner he has to be accountable for his or her pet. I do not own a pit bull but I have seen many pit bull dogs that are better behaved then other dogs.
- Other: There is no evidence that breed specific legislation works
- Other: There should be no breed-specific bylaws
- Other: There should NOT be breed restrictions on pit bulls.
- Other: These descriptions are far to subjective as stated.
- Other: This is the dumbest section, EVER. Since when (PLEASE SHOW ME) Evidence that PITBULLS or BULLY BREEDS are in fact more dangerous than other breeds? Its the OWNERS. my PITBULL has been bitten by small dogs and a german shepherd. Everyone i always speak to at the dog park says "are people scared of your dog?" I say yes! they reply with " thats such a shame they're the nicest dogs. I will literally move my business and my self to a different province if this by law goes through. Holy [removed] we have gone back in time.
- Other: this separating out of pitbulls is ridiculous and is taking the City backwards rather than focusing on the issue at hand. It is offensive and this whole survey has just lost all credibility. Your proposed engagement really just means you've already decided to push this through and are using the fact that you aren't having in person engagement to get it approved. When other provinces and cities are looking at reversing this type of breeder specific legislation calgary proposes to bring it in. Ridiculous. This should not be supported.
- Other: This should also include small dog bites when reported as they are MUCH more frequent. Fines should also be higher for people with dogs off leash in on leash areas.
- Other: This should never be towards one singular breed. Ever. I've seen more Huskies & German Sheppard's more aggressive than put bulls. This is the 21st century! It's always the owners responsibility to insure their pet is well trained.
- Other: This shouldn;t be 2 different questions. Pitbulls are DOGS just like any other dog. This survey is uneducated and disgusting
- Other: This shouldn't be specified to a specific breed. There are so many misbehaved dogs of all breeds. No breed specific regulations. It's not the dogs fault for having bad owners. All dog owners should be taught how to train their dogs properly before even being allowed to own one. Breed specific regulations are ridiculous.
- Other: Train people on proper dog handling making dog training classes mandatory. Perhaps lower dog licences when owners complete a dog training course. Raise fees for those who don't. Reward system works better than punishment.
- Other: Training for owners as they are the ones that create the behaviors
- Other: Training should be mandatory when anyone adopts a dog regardless of breed. The city could invest in a training program or support one already in place
- Other: Under NO circumstances should dog breed discrimination be included in this bylaw. Dog behaviour is a product of human interaction, therefore all dogs should be given a point policy such as demerits on a license to allow for owners to be given the time to correct a behaviour issue without the fear they will have to target their dog as a danger by using muzzles etc

- Other: Untrained and unsocialized dogs of all sizes and breeds are prone to biting incidents and becoming labeled a nuisance. Dog training should be mandatory for all dogs in order to prevent these incidents from happening in the first place.
- Other: We need to stop perpetuating unnecessary fear around Pit Bulls. I get what you're trying to do, but statistically, Chihuahuas have a higher bite rate. Instead, we should simply be educating people on dog body language and signs to look for for a distressed or dominating dog. If people cannot read their body language, they shouldn't have a dog.
- Other: What is determined or defined to be a nuisance?
- Other: What you're trying to do with pit bulls is utter horse [removed]! Its racism, but for dogs
- Other: When thinking of a dog declared a nuisance it should only be for dogs that have attacked other pets or person with two or more offences. You cannot "judge" a dog by its breed and or look. You also cannot judge by a first offence bylaw officers do not know the circumstance of what made the dog attack, the dog could have been scared or felt threaten wouldn't you defend yourself? An animal is just the same... The decision of declaring a dog a nuisance should also come from a panel and not one single person.
- Other: Where is the option where the dog racists educate themselves and turn their minds to negligent owners and NOT to demonizing a breed/select characteristics?
- Other: Why are pitbulls being singled out?
- Other: Why does this target Pit bulls ? I've had issues with mane dogs , NOT ONCE WAS IT A PITBULL
- Other: Wtf is with y'all's [removed] policies against pitbulls. Look at the stars ya [removed]
- Other: Y'all dog racist.
- Other: You BETTER focus on SMALL NUISANCE BREEDS OR YOU ARE PREJUDICE!
- Other: You cannot have BSL. That is essentially racism on dogs and is a completely disgusting proposition.
- Other: You cant make a specific breeds a nuisance. If a dog has bad behavior its the owners fault. They need to me taught properly. Its the owners fault not the breed..
- Other: You can't single out one breed like this. How many people are actually bitten by these dogs? The fact that this is a discussion proves how dumb city counsel is.
- Other: You guys seriously need to stop unnecessarily targetting pit bulls, seriously. That is so archaic. It's like putting rules against a certain human race because they have the capacity to do more damage than others. Absolutely ridiculous. It is always, ALWAYS, the human that causes negative behaviour in a dog REGARDLESS of breed. Stop this pedantic pandering of "pit bulls BAD rah rah rah". You sound like uneducated children.
- Other: "pit bull" dogs should not be automatically held to the same standard as a "nuisance" dog simply because they are born. I am disgusted to see the city of Calgary partaking in discrimination.
- Other: 1.The person who is bit/owner of the dog that was bit to be reviewed if other incidents have occurred/if they approached the nuisance dog without asking permission to pet or if said dog was good with other dogs. It can sometimes be the fault of people who were improperly taught to deal with stranger dogs. 2. Nuisance dogs should fall into different categories. Based on those categories, these dog should have to wear a tag of a bright and noticeable colour in public so that others can tell if the dog falls into a certain category without approaching closely.

- Other: A bite is a bite it should not be on the breed
- Other: A dog that bites (and its owner) should have to PASS mandatory obedience training with certified trainers at the Calgary Humane Society. If the animal fails the obedience training, Calgary Community Standards should have the authority to seize it and determine an appropriate course of action, which may be euthanasia.
- Other: A program of reduced licensing fees if owners can demonstrate their dogs participated in obedience training and refresher courses at a period of every 3-5 years. If trainer notes dog does not play well with others, regardless of size/breed then they would not be allowed at off leash areas but not charged additional fees for ownership. This would increase incentive for training, as well as educate owners on how their dog interacts or does not interact well with others.
- Other: Nuisance dog OWNERS should be taught how to properly train a dog
- Other: Absolutely stop breed specific bylaws. They do NOT work and they are completely ridiculous and frankly whomever brought this forward should be ashamed of stupid this idea even was to bring forward for consideration.
- Other: Accountability to owners of nuisance dogs to include canine behaviour education and education on what the consequences could be for a nuisance dog.
- Other: Aggressive canines is NOT breed specific. ALL dogs can be aggressive and/or bite. Breed specific laws do NOT work as it does not matter the breed.
- Other: All dogs require obedience training. Dogs with a history of violent behavior must be muzzled in public.
- Other: Also remember that small dogs can also be a nuisance and can get large dogs aggressive with there behavior. I'm sorry a small dog barking and growling causes all dogs to feel amped up.
- Other: Any breed can be a nuisance, the rules should apply to all breeds that exhibit the above behaviour
- Other: Any breed of dog that has a any type of aggressive behaviour should be treated the same from the smallest like a chihuahua to the largest like a great dane
- Other: Any bylaw should not be linked to the breed of dog but the dog owners so they are made accountable
- Other: Any dog can be a problem dog. The only way to fix that is through training. So nuisance dogs should have yo go to some kind of training with owner and pass.
- Other: Any form of BSL is counterproductive. The logic used to suggest BSL is non-sensical. Pit bull type dogs may be able to produce more severe bites but this is due to their size not breed. By your logic, any dog over 40lbs should be considered for BSL due to the potential to produce more serious bites. BSL is outdated, ineffective and unfair. It only creates disparities with communities who own these dogs and allows for the further victimization of an already vulnerable population of dog. Please only use science based evidence to create your policies.
- Other: Ban animals and ALL become vegetarians...

- Other: Breed is not the issue when it comes to any dog attack or bite. We need stop playing the he said she said thing. Unless the dog is is papered the dog is not a pitbull and need to stop putting blame on dogs with similar characteristics
- Other: Breed should have no part in consideration of if it is a nuisance or not. A chihuahua who bites or is aggressive to everyone all the time is more an issue than a pitbull type dog who bites once under extreme circumstances
- Other: Breed specific legislation (BSL) has been time and time again proven useless. As a dog trainer, it is not one or two specific breeds that bite. More often than not, small dogs are the more common biters. Don't blame the dog, blame the handler. The people training the dog are 100% accountable for how the dog turns out. Biting is not based on breed. Implementing BSL would be one of the most ridiculous things the city could do.
- Other: breed specific legislation does not work. I am disappointed that it is even on the table for Calgary. Look at Quebec. Breed specific legislation puts dogs and owners in danger unnecessarily.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is unwarranted discrimination. You state in your poll that they are not more likely than any other dog to be an issue, yet you single out a specific breed. [removed]
- Other: Breed Specific Legislation is widely accepted to be a wrong practice. This should be completely scrapped. Any breed is capable of biting and aggressive behaviour and just as people are considered to be innocent until proven guilty, dogs should be the same. Any dog that actually harms a human should be put through all of these, but its ignorant to believe that only pitbulls are capable of this behaviour. Please don't make the city of Calgary look as ignorant as this policy is by putting forth breed specific legislation.
- Other: Breed specific stipulations is outdated and proven to be unnecessary as the dangerous breed has changed numerous times throughout history; from bloodhounds in the 19th century, to Dobermans, Rottweilers, German Shepherds, pit bulls and the list goes on. For a comparison the bite force of a pit bull is 238 psi which is identical to a shepherd and far less than a Rottweiler. Any dangerous dog act or similar bylaws should be based on a dogs behaviour not it's breed.
- Other: BSL does not work. I would suggest you do some actual research on municipalities that have put it in place.
- Other: BSL doesn't work! Any breed can be a nuisance, singling our Bully breeds is ridiculous. It's about how you train an animal, not the breed.
- Other: BSL is ignorant. Huskies and German shepherds have been known to cause more damage than pits.
- Other: Case by case review rather than specific breeds being singled out
- Other: Certificate of training completion to own a aggressive breed or nuisance dog. Similar to owning a fire arm. Training requirements min 30 hours with professional program. Start cracking down on people selling dogs on Kijiji or other market places.
- Other: charges against the person aggravating the dog and causing it to react.
- Other: Colour coding tags or ribbon ect. for collars or leashes. Different colours for different temperaments, shy/timid/fearful, excited- but friendly, not good with other animals, and for dogs who are good with everything. Just as a rough example. Targeting pitbulls in general is unfair. Mastiffs have greater power in their Jaws. Trying to dictate how many "pitbulls" someone can own is there business. I have owned 4 together from babies until they passed of old age, and they were properly socialized and trained. I never had one incident. Though, I think it should be harder for people to obtain dogs regardless of breed. Filling out applications especially for any game bred, "aggressive breed" or high energy working dogs. Such as but not limited to: Belgian Malinois, German Shepherd, Presa Canario, Cane Corso, Rottweiler, Great Pyrenees ect. So many people get dogs with out knowing what they are getting into and so many backyard breeders will sell to whomever. The dog then suffers because the human doesn't have the adequate skill or time to train or give them the "work", exercise or mental stimulation they need to keep them mentally and physically satisfied.

- Other: Dangerous behaviour must be clearly defined. What one individual considers dangerous dog behaviour can easily differ from a different individual's opinion.
- Other: Define 'nuisance dogs' as any canine who has bitten a human (due to owner negligence)
- Other: Do not agree with breed specific legislation against pit bulls. There should be fines against people for not properly training their dogs and all dogs should be required to pass an obedience exam or the owner will be subject to fines. There are many little dogs that have attacked other dogs in off leash dog parks. Additionally- other breeds can do just as much damage and do (please research too dogs for attacks: German shepherds, etc). The dogs are not the issues- it is people who do not train their animals and have no business owning a dog that they don't train (this includes small dogs like chihuahuas). Breed specific is exactly like racial prejudice in our society- targeting a specific group with no right or evidence to support your claims.
- Other: Do NOT ban pit bulls or increase any fine or fees for owning a pit bull. Pit bulls do NOT have more biting power. This is a MYTH. Look into ACTUAL REAL FACTS before introducing anything. As someone who works with dogs day in and day out I can confirm that "pit bulls" are no more prone to biting or aggressive behaviour than any other dog. If you want to put restrictions on dogs put it on the toy or tiny breeds. I have gotten bit and ripped apart from more tiny dogs than larger dogs. Any dog can be aggressive. Don't condemn a breed just because they look scary. If you impose these restrictions more and more sweet innocent dogs that look like pit bulls will be euthanized over other breeds because of this. You will be killing off innocent dogs before they even have a chance to live if you impose these restrictions.
- Other: Do not punish an animal based on their breed, punishments for nuisance animals are solely the responsibility of the owners.
- Other: Do not single out a breed or type. Focus on ownership responsibility and training.
- Other: Do not single out pit bulls and bully breeds, this is harmful and damaging to the breed. Other dogs are also nuisances and the language and singling out of a breed is very dispicable and the city of Calgary should be doing better. The owners are the problem. Have better resources for owners. Also ensure proper adherence to bylaws such as owners having their dogs off leash in non off leash areas, I know that this is a huge issue as a dog will run up to a dog with fear issues (who is leashed) and they will cause the problem but it will always be the bully breed that is marked as the problem

- Other: Do not start with that breed-specific legislation stuff please. It's garbage and it doesn't make a difference.
- Other: Dog behaviour course for all nuisance dogs and high bite.
- Other: Dogs are dogs. I know peaceful pitbulls and violent pitbulls. I know violent pugs and peaceful pugs. We shouldn't single out pitbulls because of their breed. It's all about the training.
- Other: Dogs declared a nuisance must label or muzzle their dog in public as a warning to others
- Other: Dogs declared a nuisance to be leashed at all times.
- Other: Dogs involved in a reported bite incident (human or other animals) that resulted in severe injury must wear a muzzle or be required to stay on leash (no flexi leads or long lines - standard 6ft leash only). And can only be walked or taken off a person's personal property by someone 18 years of age or older.
- Other: Dogs should not be punished for poor ownership, pit bulls are capable of being very caring animals, it is not right to ban any kind of dog from a park, it's not good for their health or social skills and will only make the issue worse. We wouldn't ban a human from a store because they are strong, so why would we do the same with dogs.
- Other: Dogs shouldn't be penalized for the breed only for their actions just as humans.
- Other: Dogs who are a nuisance regardless of the breed
- Other: Don't define pit bulls as nuisance dogs unless they demonstrate behaviour that would define them as such. This term should be dependent on behaviour, not breed.
- Other: Don't discriminate against one single dog breed. There are plenty of strong dogs. It's about the owner and how it has trained the dog. Take this pit bull [removed] out of the equation
- Other: Don't go down the same road as Ontario. First of all your Def'n of pit bull is ridiculous. A dog is not an APBT because it may have short hair, a whip tail & a blocky head. Calgary was the envy of the World for its Responsible Ownership Bylaw. Why are you doing this? Why are you even consulting the Public on this? Who has gotten to you? I thought Calgary was smarter than this. Consult with ? Where on earth did you get the idea that the dogs lumped under that insane Def'n have a stronger bite resulting in more damage? Geezus talk to some Experts not the Public.
- Other: Don't just target pit bulls. I have had horrible encounters with huskys and German Shepherds. Mandatory obedience school for all dog owners would be appreciated.
- Other: Don't ban pitbulls, you guys are clearly uneducated [removed] if you think that is ok,, [removed] Let's put muzzles on great danes to then, those dogs look scarier than pitbulls. [removed] pitbulls have been proven to be one of the sweetest most child friendly breeds, and this backwards [removed] way of thinking needs to end.
- Other: Don't discriminate based on appearances. As you state above that pitbulls are involved in no more bite cases yet dogs with proven strong bite forces and bred specially for human defense are not? This is no different than racism
- Other: don't single out any breed. Problems are with owners. Punish owners of any breed when a dog attacks. Do not penalize or punish responsible dog owners simply for owning a pit bull
- Other: Don't target pitbulls. Target bad owners.
- Other: Fine if a nuisance dog is found to be in an off-leash park.

- Other: Fines for the owner bringing a aggressive dog to the dog park
- Other: Give that it specifically states above that Pitbulls are not reported to have any increased incidence of bite rates or aggression, by singling out this group of dogs you are perpetuating fear surrounding the breed along with punishing the numerous well behaved animals of this category and responsible owners.
- Other: Have specific rules for pit bulls or any dog resembling a pit bull is absurd. There are no dangerous breeds there are dangerous dogs. Painting all bully breeds as potential attackers is so unfair. Any dog can bite. While bully breed have strong jaw strength that is a ridiculous reason to call them out. Poodles, labs, huskies, shepherds, boxes can all cause the same damage. This is so unfair to the dogs.
- Other: High fines for not being in control of your dog.
- Other: Higher fines for subsequent offences. Owner prove they are capable of taking proper care of animal.
- Other: Higher fines to owners who do not properly contain their pets. Put more funding towards educating pet owners on responsible ownership and on obedience training.
- Other: Hold nuisance dog owners responsible! Fine them. Don't let them own dogs again. Training of ALL dogs! The dogs are only in these instances because of owners!!!
- Other: How about stricter punishment for the owner not the animal and shame on this for trying to single out pit bulls ! The Rottweiler had the toughest bite with 328 pounds of force, the German shepherd came in second with 238 pounds of force, and the pit bull bit with 235 pounds of force the lowest of the group. Why dont you have rottweiler listed or German shepherd they have stronger bite force and are more temperamental
- Other: I am a veterinarian and have found no evidence that BSL has ever shown a reduction in dog attacks. To combat the problem of dog bites higher fines or even criminal charges for the owners of dogs who are involved in cases of unprovoked violent acts.
- Other: I am disappointed in the city of Calgary and their approach to this project. Pit bulls are not the issue. Bad owners are. Targeting one breed now opens the door for more breeds later. You prevent a bad owner from getting a pit bull and instead they get a German or a rotti and now you have the same issue. A big, untrained dog. All owners should have to take puppy classes and then adult dog classes when the dog is 2 years old (if behaviours issues are starting to show). Why isn't there a demerit process in place for bad owners. Why are we punishing an animal that doesn't know any better instead of educating people or preventing bad owners from getting dogs they can't control. If an owner has had too many incidents then they should be prohibited from getting more dogs. Similar to the adding a breathalyzer to a drunk drivers truck. I know over 20 different pit bull type dogs that I feel safer being around than a large number of small and medium breeds. Fine I understand the damage a pit bull can do. I have also been bitten 15 times by small to medium dogs where nothing was done about it. Limiting the number of pit bulls in a house hold isn't going to prevent what you are trying to prevent. It just means good owners are unable to help this breed and will still allow poor owners to get one. Why should I be punished because I can control two of them but my neighbour gets one and they can't control it. For the record I don't currently have a bully breed dog. But I have spent my life around them. I have watched the damage banning the breed has done to families and the breed. Be better Calgary. Invest in education, training (of both the animals and people) and represent the city I know us to be. Don't punish an animal because there are some bad apple owners.

- Other: I believe you have to be careful with your definition of nuisance ... a small barking dog is not necessarily in the same class as a biting dog...
- Other: I did not select many of the nuisance options as I feel that the mentioned behaviours (being at large, noise) do not necessarily indicate aggressive behaviour. I do think that a dog with a history of aggressive behaviour towards other dogs should be banned from off leash parks. I also think unneutered male dogs over a year old should not be allowed in off leash parks.
- Other: I disagree that pitbulls are on this list of questions. Any breed can be dangerous, it's the owner NOT the dog at fault!
- Other: I DO NOT agree with any of the above being breed specific. [removed] dog owners and their nuisance dogs should be the main focus not one specific breed.
- Other: I do not support BSL in any way, there are no studies that show it is effective. Any breed can be a nuisance. I support larger fines, criminal charges against the owner, and the owner being banned from owning any animals.
- Other: I do not support segregating pitbulls from other dogs. From my experience, they are typically nicer than other dogs and my dog isn't afraid of pitbulls, as she is of other large breeds.
- Other: I do not understand why the word Pitbull is used in the above. A nuisance dog is a nuisance dog. This type of language, whether perpetuated by the media or you (our city) further perpetuates the misconceptions around the terrier breeds. And further leads people who abuse those types of dogs and put them into positions where they become a danger to the public to attain them because of this bad-ass stereotype. I am truly appalled that the city would stoop to the level of perpetuating this sentiment in this survey!!!!
- Other: I don't agree breed should influence regulations and fines. Every dog has the ability to bite or attack. It's how they are raised and treated.
- Other: I find it absolutely ridiculous that the city wants to penalize "Pit Bulls", due to the biased stance that the city is taking against this "breed." To note: "Pit Bull" is not a breed, it is a generalization of the appearance of the dog. I find it exceedingly concerning that by the city's definition of "Pit Bull", this would mean that at the discretion of a bylaw officer my dog could possibly be seized due to their physical disposition, and I completely disagree with this outlook. As long as my animals are well trained, cared for and that I am in control of them at all times, it should not be the city's concern how many "Pit Bulls" live in my household. My dogs also do not have a history of aggression nor have they ever bitten anyone, it is unfair to penalize my adult dogs, who were not trained as puppies to wear muzzles, to be forced to wear them in public or be excluded from dog parks or off-leash areas. As for carrying liability coverage or pay a higher registration fee for my "Pit Bull", absolutely absurd. I already pay my property taxes each year, ensure my dog is registered correctly. Again, my dogs have shown no signs or aggression or gotten out of the yard, why should we be penalized for the city's ignorant bias?

- Other: I find it highly irresponsible to post information regarding dog bites without citing sources as such.
- Other: I have a pit bull and she has been attacked by a golden retriever and a Catahoula. My pit bull didn't even fight back. The others weren't fixed and my pit bull is. You should make spaying or neutering your animal a bylaw and it would solve a lot of problems. Also you should really stop singling out pit bulls, ever one I have ever met has been a sweetheart.
- Other: I have a pitbull, a shitzu and a Bassett Hound. The shitzu is the mean one. The pitbull is the sweetest girl you've ever known. Rottweilers, Cane Corso, and most mastiffs Husky all have a harder bite than a pitbull.
- Other: I have been bitten and had worse reactions and interactions with shitty little dogs (chuaau, shitszu and the like) and their owners than any other large breed or pit bull.
- Other: I have worked in a clinic and have treated hundreds of pit bulls. The only dog that has ever bitten me was a toy Pomeranian. Stop focusing on pit bulls. Bad breeding and bad owners are the problems with ALL dogs !! Maybe you should think about mandating licensing for breeders of all dogs. Yes I know that would be impossible to police due to manpower etc.
- Other: I only think that obedience training should be necessary to ensure that the pit bull will not be taught to be aggressive by their owner. I have witnessed large dogs trained to be aggressive as puppies because it is cute who then terrorize the neighbourhood when they get older and are no longer under the control of their owners. These dogs then never get exercise or appropriate outlets for their energy.
- Other: I own a pitbull AND a retriever, and my retriever has aggression issues, not my pitbull. We cannot discriminate against breeds, but this must be geared towards behaviour of the animal. If a dog is labelled a nuisance for barking or escaping, but is friendly, a muzzle will do nothing to change this. I encourage the law makers to review reasons dogs are muzzled and what TYPES of muzzles are for what kinds of issues. The standard Baskerville muzzle you find in the pet stores I the city WILL NOT protect against a bite. Please consult an animal behaviour specialist about this issue.
- Other: I personally would not want the responsibility of a pitbull, that said it is the owner inability to be a owner not the dog or breed. Training over punishment. Refuse training, punishment next..
- Other: I really hate that "pit-bulls" are being targeted here! I think owner education is key when getting ANY type of dog. I have a pit bull and she is the sweetest. One walks she is well trained and never parks or lunges at other dogs. But we have had other dogs (small breeds usually) who will bark and lunge and she will not react because we've trained her well. Last week we had a bulldog who got loose from their owner run up to both our dogs and our dogs did not react. I put the blame on the owners and not the breed. I think people need to be educated and go through a test to see whether they are appropriate to even have a dog in the first place. Pit bulls are NOT the issue!
- Other: I think by highlighting bully breeds in this survey is wrong and you are promoting breed prejudices when animal behavior is linked to the human owning them, by pointing out they could potentially be harmful you are promoting the wrong type of person to want to adopt them. People who want aggressive dogs or who are ignorant in training will get nuisance dog regardless of breed.
- Other: I think if you want tonhave a nuisance dog you should require a special license and training.

- Other: I think it becomes more about the owner and less about the dog, If an owner is deemed to repeat nuisance instance they should have to pay a city fee for the right to keep the dog and then the dog must go x amount of time without and instance of nuisance. Basically a dog bond
- Other: I think it is unfair to lump all pit bulls under one category. Any dog can cause damage if they are a problematic dog. Nuisance dogs in general should be kept in check. But I would be extremely disappointed in my city if they create bylaws specific for pitbulls
- Other: I think it should apply for all dogs not just a specific breed. It is typically the way the dog is being treated at home or but the person who got bit. Pit bulls are not that aggressive
- Other: I think it's disgusting to highlight dogs who have a specific appearance over others. Bad ownership and training is responsible for nuisance dogs and breed or appearance has been shown to have no effect on temperament. Responsible owners are crucial regardless of dog breed and the city should focus on encouraging that.
- Other: I think it's important that you don't single out any specific breeds. To have a dog declared a nuisance it should have one or more minor offences. No breed is inherently bad, it's irresponsible dog ownership.
- Other: I think painting all dogs within a breed as being a nuisance is very much like casting judgement on an entire group of individuals. Some animals most certainly are an issue, yet others within the same breed are extremely loving and not a nuisance. Personally I believe that if we as a society cast judgement on a group of animals and assume they are all the same, that it is very much the same thing our ancestors have done in the past with skin colour and religions and personally believe this to be a very low level way of thinking. If an animal becomes an issue I believe rules should be imposed on that owner and animal but not on an entire segment of dog owners. Growing up my grandparents had a bull terrier that was an incredible dog. Never did it bite other dogs, nor humans. It was super loving, even though it wasn't the smartest of dogs. To say that dog was a nuisance would be ridiculous, yet this is proposing that
- Other: I will not support discrimination of any breed. We do support sexism, racism or bigotry in people and I believe this should be the same in animals. I am appalled that the city of calgary would even consider such a thing.
- Other: I would be terribly disappointed in the entire city of Calgary if you brought any BSL (Breed Specific Legislation) into this city. It sickens me to even have to read about it.
- Other: I would just like to state, that in 10 years, there have been MORE bites from small aggressive breeds, and other larger breeds than there are pitbulls. DO YOUR HOMEWORK. Do you realize how many children will poke at a dog they know nothing of, and WILL NOT BE STOPPED? There is more to many "aggressive breed" dogs. I tend to get snarly when people poke me in the eyes or tug my ears too. How about TRAINING THE OWNERS, before they get a dog.
- Other: I would like to see much more respect demanded for owners of big dogs when around little dogs
- Other: I would request that breed specific legislation be avoided as it is not supported by many veterinarian groups and it lacked sufficient evidence of efficacy. Specific to this survey, I also have concerns that pitbulls in particular are unfairly identified; many dogs have stronger bites and yet these are not included even though this is the reason given for pitbulls being included.

- Other: I'm disgusted that our progressive thinking city council is even considering breed specific legislation. Pit bulls have been terribly villainized due to the actions of a few poorly trained examples. Much like Dobermans, Rotweillers, and German Shepards from the second half of the 1900s. Breed specific legislation accomplishes nothing aside from killing innocent pets and traumatizing families.
- Other: If a dog is friendly but cannot be recalled by owner it should not be allowed off leash. Many dog fights are started by dogs with no manners and aren't under owner control.
- Other: If a dog is determined a nuisance and is on leash and bites another dog that is off leash there should be no charges and a fine for the dog off leash.
- Other: If City Seizes dogs they should be placed in foster homes to give them the chance to be properly socialized and loved. Obedience classes for dogs need to be better advertised, and more accessible financially as there are low income families who would benefit from the companionship and love of a pet, but can not afford thorough training. (Or cannot travel to participate in large classes)
- Other: if dog bite causes death, euthenization
- Other: Increase or developer legislation to help bylaw officers enforce and enact on rescuing animals from dangerous situations, ie abusive and/or irresponsible pet owners. It's been proved that enacting bylaws or legislation on certain breeds DOES NOT help, in fact it only results in more problems. The fact that this is even being considered is appalling. Please focus on helping animals and educating owners, not criminalizing certain breeds because of a very small percentage of ignorant and reprehensible individuals.
- Other: Increased screening and monitoring of owners with problematic dogs.
- Other: Instead of targeting a breed of dogs: ie pitbulls. It would be better to educate those who are getting a dog. People create problematic dogs, dogs are not problematic on their own. We dictated their behaviours to be bad. This is horrible that city counsel would even consider these for one breed type and you should all be ashamed of yourself. This is like calling out a problematic group of kids and then generalizing them all under the same category. Instead of informing/informing or educating those in need you're punishing them. Put a big umbrella over dogs in general and fine accordingly.
- Other: Is it possible to create a bylaw prohibiting intentional breeding of pitbulls?
- Other: It is appalling that pitbull types are being singled out. They are some of the friendliest dogs we meet at parks. Stop breed discrimination and start teaching people that training affects your dogs behavior MORE than breed. We have way more issues with misbehaving retriever, labs and small dogs who instigate by snapping and barking aggressively at larger dogs
- Other: It is discriminatory to only specify pitbulls. In my experience, other dog breeds (EG: chihuahua, shitzu, pinchers, rottweillers, dobermans, etc) are just as if not more dangerous - more often than not. This is highly uneducated/un-informed to state that only pitbulls should be muzzled and considered a risk.

- Other: It is important that owners take responsibility for their dog regardless of breed. There are many breeds that have significant bite strength when not trained to reduce bite strength. I do not support breed specific law.
- Other: It is the owners of the nuisance dog that should be dealt with, not the entire breed itself. Pit bulls should not to be singled out
- Other: It should not be breed specific!
- Other: It should not be breed specific. It is the owner and Their training practices that is the problem so I think it's better for the owner to be encouraged(whether with fines or otherwise) to go to training/be trained themselves on how to raise bully breeds. Bully breeds are extremely loving and gentle creatures it is the owners who make them not so.
- Other: It's the owner that creates nuisance dogs, not the breed. It should be encouraged for people to call and let the city know there are these kind of dogs around. And for the city to actually do something about it.
- Other: ITS NOT THE DOG, IT'S THE OWNER! There should be fines, required training, seizure of animals, ban on owning animals. Don't punish a dog just because of its breed...
- Other: Leave breeds out of classification for bad animals.
- Other: leave the breed alone. If ur going to make laws make sure its for ALL breeds. This is like being racist bcuz u are singleing out a certain race. This is how u avoid problems by including ALL dog types. All breeds have ability to bite. Theyre DOGS!!
- Other: Legally ban pit bull breeds in the City of Calgary
- Other: Lots of dogs regardless of the breed can be very much of a nuisance. Why aren't small breed dogs like; Chihuahuas, Minature Doberman Pinchers, and mix breeds of these two breeds. Sorry, I've been attacked more by small breeds than large breed dogs. I will start calling in these homes that have these small breeds. I'm in contact with at least 10 different dogs on my delivery route (Canada Post) daily.
- Other: Love the option for additional training for dog owners. Far to easy to purchase an animal without knowing how to properly look after it. To own an animals should be registered / microchipped and a training certificate held.
- Other: Make these rules applicable to all breeds
- Other: Making anything for mandatory for a specific breed is extremely ineffective. ANY dog breed can be dangerous without training.
- Other: mandatory BALANCED training for owners of dogs deemed a nuisance
- Other: Mandatory behavioural training for nuisance dogs before anything else
- Other: Mandatory OWNER/HUMAN training for any person that wishes to own a bully-breed. The problem is the human... not the dog. Dogs feed off our energy.
- Other: Mandatory positive reinforcement training for owners or dogs declared to be a nuisance
- Other: Much, much higher fines for owners, as any and all situations regarding these questions pretains to poor ownership and training, not specific breeds.
- Other: Need to make sure that nuisance dogs aren't created out of breed bias as well

- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC BY-LAWS. They are totally crap and alienate amazing dogs and amazing dog owners
- Other: NO BREED SPECIFIC LAWS!!!! Only have repercussions for dogs/owners who have specific history with aggression.
- Other: No Breed Specific Legislation whatsoever. All breeds should be treated the same.
- Other: No breed specific legislation, people specific legislation is what is needed. Stronger legislation for people who mistreat/hoard animals and participate in dog fighting.
- Other: NO breed-specific legislation at all.
- Other: No BSL!! (Breed specific legislation) boo City of Calgary!
- Other: No BSL. any dog can be dangerous or a nuisance. I think all dogs should have to have obedience training
- Other: No laws specifically about pit bulls! Lots of non-pit bull dogs cause big problems too.
- Other: No laws targeting a breed, just target behaviour and owner education
- Other: Noise and roaming are not vicious behaviours and have nothing to do with the dog being a problem in off-leash parks. The breed of a dog does not determine it's aggressive behaviour but prior events do.
- Other: None of these seem like actual solutions. obedience training would be good for the dog yes, however it's not only the dog that needs to be trained. That said, "nuisance" dogs are more often than not the result of negligent owners or owners that don't care. There is also a trend that needs attention where people become emotional and overly sensitive to normal canine behaviour. Some dogs play more "aggressively" than others and some dogs are more vocal when they play. Neither of these are absolute indicators of nuisance or dangerous dogs, yet there seems to be a growing # of people who I would say that it does. People that don't understand basic canine behaviour are also part of the problem. Somehow the pendulum of logic needs to be controlled.
- Other: Not all nuisance dogs are pitbulls, and not all pitbulls are nuisance dogs! My golden retriever has been injured by a pitbull locking it's jaw on her neck, and that bothers me less than the city of Calgary putting such harsh rules against a specific breed
- Other: Not attacking pitbull owners should be one. My am staff terrier has been attacked numerous times and not once did bylaw charge or go after the other parties even with license plate, address and phone number information of the offenders.
- Other: Nuisance dog(s) and violent/bite risk dog(s) should be different categories with different penalties/fines. A bite risk NEEDS to include ALL dogs/breeds, not just "bully/bull" breeds. (Smaller dogs, often off-leash and not well trained, are quite often the aggressor/instigator)
- Other: Nuisance dogs must be muzzled in off-leash parks (or perhaps in public) ONLY IF previous offenses were for biting. (Noise complaints might make a dog a "nuisance," but don't warrant a muzzle.)
- Other: Nuisance should be bites or aggressive behaviours only and not based on noise complaints. Muzzling dogs that bark but have never been aggressive is not fair
- Other: Obedience training for all dog owners no exception also high fines for those who dont comply to that .also i think there should be a law that you must have a back round check because there is only bad humans in the world not bad animals and you should be able to provide for you animals make a decent income to be able to support your animals.

- Other: Obedience training required for ALL DOGS. Its the owners, not the dogs.
- Other: of the many dogs in my neighbourhood who show aggression, not a single one is a pit bull...this survey is ridiculous.
- Other: Only Dogs that have multiple bite offences should be muzzled in public as muzzles can interfere with breathing and should only be used as needed. The pitbull stuff is fear mongering against a breed and unless the actual recorded instances of bites changes I see no reason to target them. Dogs that bite do so out of fear, retaliation, or poor training. There is also a difference between a warning snap or bite that doesn't draw blood and one that actually causes a wound. Animals and their owners should be judged on their actions, not their possible actions.
- Other: Only dogs who have a history of aggression should be required to be muzzled or avoid dog parks. By the definition above, dogs who have had noise complaints etc are also considered a nuisance, but likely these dogs are noisy because they are being left in a backyard all day and actually would benefit from the exercise.
- Other: Owners of nuisance breeds MUST prove appropriate training so not only the dog is assessed but the owner also and results submitted to licensing board. There are really no bad dogs but a lot of bad owners so my idea would definitely help. We should also have on file nuisance owners.
- Other: Owners should be investigated as to how they are looking after and training the dogs. Maybe specialized training requirements.. I know very nice dogs who are a dangerous breed and that's due to the owners properly training and looking after them.
- Other: Owners should be need to be educated for specific "trouble breed" dogs. I would be that would help with Nuisance dogs. The fines, education, obedience etc should be looked at a case by case basis. Not generalizing the entire breed.
- Other: People should not be penalized specifically for owning a pit bull this is an unfair dog bias. Any dog can bite multiple times, a chihuahua is more likely to bite than most pit bulls. Don't bully the breed as a city.
- Other: Personally I own two pit bull type dogs who have been bit on several different occasions at the dog parks, it wasn't a similar breed biting them but generally small to medium size mix breed dog who attacked them from behind when unprovoked. During these occasions my dogs didn't even think to retaliate or do anything wrong, because they have been trained and are well mannered dogs. The owners of these dogs that attack and bite my dogs don't do anything but turn and walk away without even apologizing, I feel as though more education and training owners would be a better way to work towards your goals on dealing with severe bites and problem dog behaviours as oppose to lumping my dogs into a BSL.
- Other: Pit bulls (or dogs that look like pit bulls) should not be singled out. Owners tend to be the issue with dogs; more wallet-friendly training would be a better way to deal with responsible owners & their dogs. Small breed dogs tend to be more aggressive than larger breed dogs, the difference is that small breeds don't tend to break skin or cause large amounts of damage. Singling out larger breeds only fuels fear in the general public, which is unwarranted. The majority of news on large breed dogs 80-90% of the time says the dog is a pit bull, Rottweiler, or shepherd breed and NEVER corrects this when the dog turns out to be anything else. General public is fearful of dogs based on media outlets & singling out pit bulls only enhances that fear. Education & training opportunities are far more effective than fear.

- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem, bad owners are! There are far more aggressive behaviors exhibited by other breeds.
- Other: Pit bulls are NOT the problem, many smaller dogs are behaviourally more aggressive than a pitbull. Any bully breed that turns aggressive is due to the OWNER training the dog to be bad, Pitbulls were bred as NANNY DOGS due to them being patient, calm, and gentle. PITBULLS aren't the problem, BAD OWNERS ARE.
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem. This should not be specific to pit bulls. Any dog can be a nuisance if the owner isn't treating the dog properly. Change your survey.
- Other: Pit Bulls do not have a stronger bite. You realize that dogs over 150 pounds exist and are way more of a threat than any pit bull you'll ever meet.
- Other: Pit bulls vs any other breed, malamutes, huskies, Shepards, they all can bite with force to injure. Focus on the owners responsibility to train any breed of dog.
- Other: pitbulls are not the problem. Any dog can be a nuisance. The owners are the problem. Stop blaming the breed.
- Other: PITBULLS DO NOT HAVE LOCKING JAWS. Pure fiction!!!
- Other: Pitbulls have a lower bite force than other dog breeds, such as German shepherds. Informing the public on dog behaviour instead of punishing a creature's existence should be the goal. Look at the grey areas that many of the "problem" dog breed breeders are doing to ensure healthy and happy dogs are being provided, instead of reinforcing the idea that a breed is inherently aggressive. Australian cattle dogs have more instinct to bite in them than a "pitbull" does. Teach people what a reactive dog is, not to react to dogs.
- Other: Pitbulls have a similar bite force to other big breed dogs and shouldn't be singled out.
- Other: please do not breed specific. If a particular dog is an issue, blame that dog (and owner), not the breed.
- Other: Please do not consider Breed Specific Legislation. It doesn't work and is bad legislation
- Other: Please do not discriminate against any particular breed of dog. Fine owners for not being responsible pet owner. Punish the bad owners not the good pet owners.
- Other: Please do not make enforce BSL. As a shelter worker pit bulls are already held to such higher standards because of the reputation and the media. In reality, this helps dogs of other breeds with behaviours problems because they aren't a pit bull well in reality any dog can be a nuisance. Please do not make it breed specific but please make all dog owners be more responsible because pit bulls are the problem in Calgary it's crappy owners who have never been forced to train their dogs.
- Other: please do NOT make this a breed ban! BAD owners not the dog!
- Other: Please don't just single out certain breeds of dogs. It is important that all owners are responsible for the animals regardless of breed. While obedience training is a useful tool it can be expensive and some people can't train their dogs effectively without it. The suggestions you are putting forth are clearly being used as a deterrent for people to not get "nuisance breeds" which is unfair for both the dogs and owners.

- Other: Please do not single out Pit Bulls. Owners are the primary cause of violent or hostile dogs. Not breed. Refrain from using breed specific language in bylaws.
- Other: provide more accessible and cost effective training options for owners of dogs that may be a nuisance. Rehabilitation is possible.
- Other: Punishing dogs based on their appearance or breed, disregarding their behaviour is ridiculous. Bad dog owners should be punished regardless of the breed. Gentle, well-trained dogs should not be punished if a bylaw officer declares them to have "substantially similar" appearances to a version type of dog. Any large breed can be trained by a bad owner to be aggressive.
- Other: Reactive measures need to be taken against all dogs, not breed specific. Especially around noise as there are no ramifications as of now.
- Other: Remove dogs from owners who have more than 1 violation. Aggressive behavior is learned behavior. Change the owner and save the dog!
- Other: Remove pitbull from all wording. Especially the line about look like a pit bull, [removed] which is ridiculous as all dogs can bite, smaller dogs bite more often.
- Other: Required obedience training for owners of nuisance dogs, NOT breed specific. Pet ownership restrictions for persons who have greater than 2 serious nuisance offences, regardless of breed. Let's hold people accountable, not punish the breeds.
- Other: Restrictions on breeding pit bulls to limit breeding to those that would not breed for aggressive traits. Enforcement of ban on dog fighting to discourage irresponsible ownership. Special license requiring inspection of home environment make sure owner does not use dog as guard or train aggressive tendency. Owner education paid for by owner required as part of license.
- Other: Singling out pit bull breeds is not the answer. We don't impose restrictions on humans for their race and by how they look and we shouldn't do it to dogs either. Just because a dog has the ability to do something doesn't mean they will.
- Other: So disappointed in the CoC for this attack on pitbulls. Shame on you.
- Other: Stop bullying pit bulls there good dogs..its the owners
- Other: Stop proposing breed specific legislation and start proposing stronger authority and consequences for all pet owners, regardless of the breed or species of animal. All dogs can bite. Some can bite hard. Some can kill. Most never do. Higher fines and more appropriate penalties for animals involved in such incidents.
- Other: Stronger punishment on owners of trouble dogs
- Other: Subsidies for training programs provided to all pit bull owners.
- Other: Targeting a specific breed is no different than being racist , there are good dogs and nuisance dogs leave it at that and stop trying to penalize responsible dog owners for a stigma
- Other: Targeting pit bulls is systemically wrong. All dogs have the potential to bite or be a nuisance. It's on the owner of the dog to take the steps necessary but to target one specific breed or look of a dog is a terrible stance to take. In doing this you show no knowledge of dogs. Pit bulls have not got a stronger bite and to say so shows you have done no research. Animal planet conducted a scientific study in 2005 to disprove this. Other breeds have a much stronger bite force. Also this same line of thinking was done on Dobermans, Rottweilers and German Shepards over the years. It's time to stop blaming breeds and start blaming bad owners.

- Other: the bigger dogs are not as much of a problem as the smaller dogs. for this reason pit bulls should not be singled out. a couple of years ago it was dobermins, b4 that it was german sheppards. for that fact alone NO ONE breed should be singled out
- Other: The definition of nuisance and "pitbull" is complete [removed]
- Other: The fact you have identified one specific class of dogs due to their breed is ridiculous. German shepards and mastifs have a stronger bite than out bulls. No mention of that though.
- Other: The OWNER is the single most influential source for any dog. Breed specifications are ridiculous! Pit bulls/terriers DO NOT have the strongest bites among dogs. Fine, but more importantly EDUCATE the owner. MANDATORY training for the owner with the "nuisance" dog.
- Other: The problem is always the owner. Any dog will bite. I have never once been bitten or threatened by any pit bull type animal. Proper training is all that matters. LIST OWNERS AS NUISANCES AND RESTRICT THEIR OWNERSHIP WITHOUT TRAINING. This is not the dogs fault. Personally I have been bitten by numerous small dogs. Poorly trained lap dogs with no repercussions for bad behaviour. Have you ever met a street dog abroad? Big surprise, they're the sweetest things. Not once has a street dog ever threatened me. Shit and abusive owners are the problem.
- Other: The term nuisance is too broad to adequately answer some of these questions. If a dog has been cited for a noise infraction they are classed as nuisance. That same dog could be allowed in an offleash park. But if the nuisance behaviour was aggression towards other dogs than they should not be allowed in an offleash park unless they are muzzled (it is an important step to rehabilitation that they can interact with other dogs in a safe controlled manner)
- Other: There can not be more than one pitbull or nuisance dog.... are you kidding me? Separate that question. It looks like someone putting this survey together wants to spark controversy over pitbulls
- Other: There is no need to single out a breed. Fines should be given to any dog that is aggressive and owners who do not train and treat their animals properly
- Other: There is other breeds with higher bite strengths, I'm not sure why this would choose to single out pitbulls. I've been bit a few times but never by a pitbull despite being around them frequently.
- Other: there should NOT be breed specific rules/laws. any and all rules/laws should pertain to all dog breeds.
- Other: There shouldn't be any breed specific legislation for pitbulls. This should apply to all dogs exhibiting aggressive behaviour.
- Other: This is a horrible idea - pitbull is not a breed, and many dogs who look like pitbulls are not - most dog bites are not by pitbulls. I would appreciate stronger enforcement for off leash dogs in on leash areas, and muzzles for preciously dangerous dogs, but absolutely not a breed specific bylaw. Many other places have tried this before and it does not work.
- Other: THIS IS A OWNER PROBLEM NOT A BREED SPECIFIC ISSUE!

- Other: This is a tough area to address. Ultimately who decides what is classified as "dangerous behavior"? For one dog running and "chasing" could be simple play while to another it is threatening. There must be proper guidance by professionals to make these decisions without personal biases. I feel any breed specific legislation has been proved unhelpful and detrimental to these targeted breeds. It is simply unfair, unwarranted and discriminatory toward the breed and stereotype of the citizen who owns that breed. Should the dog, regardless of breed, prove dangerous or uncontrollable there should be action taken. It should be judged on a case by case basis and while working with the owners or local rescue groups to re-home the animal to a safer and more rehabilitative environment.
- Other: This is absolutely outrageous that Pitbulls are listed here as "more dangerous". I have owned pitbulls almost my entire life and they are the most loving, kind dogs I have ever had. It would be a severe injustice to name these dogs as more dangerous and put bans on them.
- Other: This is so disappointing, discouraging, and disgusting, to even see the Pitbill word on this survey... other dogs are way more aggressive, like small dogs!! Pitbills have been mistreated. We should advocate for them, not label them! Unfortunately, the bad owners make it hard for the good ones. Bad owners should have these potential new laws, implemented towards them!
- Other: This really just seems like racism against certain dog breeds. Why punish a group of dogs because of a stereotype. Also if a few other breeds are going to be categorized alongside pit bull terriers because of alleged bite force, the methodology used to select the other breeds should be outlined. To make it unbiased, measure the bite forces of different dog breeds and then choose breeds based on the results
- Other: This shouldn't just be about pit bulls, there should be an education program for all owners of dogs
- Other: Training for owners who have nuisance or problem dogs who bite
- Other: Treat all dogs as dogs. There are no bad dogs just bad owners.
- Other: Very clear guidelines of nuisance behaviour versus dangerous behaviour need to be clear.
- Other: When you limit the number of unparented, [removed] children people can have, you can tell us what breed of dogs to own
- Other: Why are Pitbull breeds named because they are stronger but Rottweilers, German shepherds, press Canarios, American bulldogs, and cane corsos are all stronger breeds of dog and have stronger bite force?
- Other: Why the pit bull hate??
- Other: You are carrying the moth that pit bull are more aggressive then other dogs. It's not the breed , it's the owners of any nuisance dogs. Your focus on pit bull is miss guided. And owner of a dog involved in a incident should be taking dog training and pass dog control exam regardless of breed
- Other: You invalidate your argument bringing up BSL. These two conversations do not belong together.
- Other: You should not punish the breed because of poor pet ownership. Charge the learners of nuisance dogs, fine but you cannot paint all bully breeds with the same brush. Some of us train and care for and ensure our dogs are never a threat, why should that dog be punished because of others?!

- Other: "nuisance" must be broken down into more specifics, for example a dog with noise complaints needs different measures than a dog who has bitten. Under general "nuisance" bylaws, this would mean that a dog who barks in it's backyard would have to wear a muzzle at the off-leash park? Doesn't make sense.
- Other: 1. Unneutered or unspayed dogs are a bigger risk than any particular breed; if a person insists on not altering their dog it should be interpreted as wanting to breed their dog, they should have to obtain a Business License when the dog is six months old, whether or not they use that license. PLEASE STOP BACKYARD BREEDERS - at least, require inspections of households with intact animals over 6 months of age. 2. There needs to be a way for a dog to pass a test to be declassified from 'nuisance' to 'nice pet.'
- Other: 1. Dogs declared a nuisance can't be off leash at an off leash park but can still go and use the park. 2. There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household (not exclusionary to pit bulls)
- Other: A nuisance dog that barks on its own property no being allowed at off leash parks is considerably different that a biting dog not being allowed. I would like to see some Discretion here
- Other: Absolutely absurd that municipalities are still targeting the pit bulls instead of bad owners. Stop it! I don't even own a dog, but I can see how wrong that is.
- Other: Absolutely no breed specific legislation. A dog should only be declared a nuisance based on their INDIVIDUAL behaviour and not based off any stereotypes of their breed or appearance
- Other: All dogs regardless of their breed should require obedience training to be registered in the city of Calgary.
- Other: All dogs should be treated the same REGARDLESS of BREED.
- Other: ALL dogs should have required obedience. We have seen in other citys that breed specific laws don't work.
- Other: All large breed dogs can create a serious injury. Breed specific laws are not fair to owners who put the time and effort into having a well behaved dog.
- Other: Although often of more concern, I'm not sure it's fair to label pit bulls all the same. I would prefer to see case by case and have them made a nuisance dog if there is an issue. Some are sweethearts!
- Other: Any dog that can pose a threat due to size , strength and to poor animal ownership should be included such as Rottweilers, German Shepards, Dobermans should be listed. They can do as much damage as a pit bull and in some situations more aggressive.
- Other: ANY dog that is a nuisance should have higher fees. It shouldn't be subject to just one breed of dog (ie pit bulls)
- Other: Any dog that is consider a nuisance or aggressive should not be allowed off leash and should have the owner fined and gave them take their dog to an obedience trainer to try and break them of aggressive behaviour but if it can't then they should be muzzled and leash at all times. Pit bulls should not be singled out as all dogs can be aggressive and typically that is associated with the way the owner has raised them.

- Other: As a proud Pitbull owner it's not the dog it's the owner make fines and penalty's for nuisance dogs not breed restrictions thier not all bad.
- Other: Banning or placing fines on pit bulls is ignorant. Statistically chihuahuas and daushounds are the most aggressive dogs. I find this so offensive. Pit bulls are not the problem. It's the people who don't train their dogs. My dog was bit by a golden retriever, are you going to ban those? No. I don't think so.
- Other: Barking should not be grounds for any of this.
- Other: Breed specific by laws are basically another form of racism. Targeting a specific breed is narrow minded and wrong. Dog owners should be held accountable for their dog's actions. There is no mention of Rottweilers, mastiffs, or Great Danes all of which are as powerful as Pitt bulls.
- Other: Breed specific laws are not well thought out ever. Make the owners responsible.. not bad laws on dogs
- Other: Breed specific legislation does not work. This is proven in multiple communities that have enacted it and saw no change in dog bite/attack statistics and have even retracted their breed specific legislation. The onus needs to be on the owners of any dog, regardless of breed, who is a nuisance, not innocent families and dogs who are essentially discriminated against because of their breed. There also needs to be more support in rehabilitation and proper training of nuisance dogs (e.g. free or lower cost obedience training for people whose dogs have been deemed a nuisance).
- Other: breed specific legislation is a bad idea, it does not work and only results in more of these dogs in shelters
- Other: Breed specific legislation is missing the entire point. Focus on training and consequences for problem dogs rather than a breed itself. It's the owners, not the dogs.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is NOT okay. Punishment should be reserved for dogs that have exhibited poor behaviour and not pre-emptively based on breed. This is a step backwards for Calgary:(
- Other: Breed specific legislation is not the solution, punish the deed not the breed.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is shameful and ineffective. Who is the authority to declare a dog a pit bull? Look up the reliability of phenotyoc estimates, sources of dogs in the city, and relaibility of DNA tests. Embarassing that this is being presented as an option to discuss. Provide sources indicating these breeds or even SUSPECTED based on PHENOTYPE have potential for more severe bites. Explain why other powerful dogs bred to bite (heelers, malinois) or be suspicious of strangers (guardian breeds such as cane corsos, rottweilers, dobermans) are not also listed?
- Other: Breed specific legislation is wrong!!!!
- Other: breed specific legislation is wrong. Period. Realize that its not the breed, its the owner and the way the dog is raised. Disappointing to see the pit bull garbage on this survey. Any dog can bite, including Chihuahuas, which actually have higher statistics of bites than bully breeds.

- Other: Breed-specific legislation is ineffective and discriminatory and should NOT be included. Owners should be held responsible for the actions of their pets and if necessary, mandatory training requirements imposed.
- Other: BSL is a form of prejudice and should not exist. Any breed of dog can bite, it always depends on the owner, training, treatment and discipline of the dog. BSL are being removed from all regions of North America so let not move backwards.
- Other: BSL should absolutely not be created. Nuisance dogs should be dealt with, pit bull breeds should not be discriminated against.
- Other: By law officers should ensure fenced area in home or other measures listed above will apply.
- Other: cannot be breed specific. eliminate unfair pit bull bylaws to be broader to any breed. people pay less attention when focus is on one breed only as a risk.
- Other: Dangerous dog legislation NOT breed specific legislation, dog bites are not breed related (many dogs have a stronger bit force then pit-bull)
- Other: Designating a 'breed of dog' (pitbulls are not usually a breed as it refers to a loose classification of dog type) does not address the issue of dangerous animals. Many jurisdictions have had to roll back such regressive policies. +
- Other: Didn't see comment section. Just want to suggest that nuisance be clarified if any of the above go forward. I don't think a dog being noisy on multiple minor offences would justify being declared a nuisance (definition above) such that it would then be prohibited from an off leash or required to wear a muzzle. I think that would be excessive for that type of nuisance.
- Other: DO NOT enact breed-specific legislation. Use education and prevention tactics.
- Other: Do not punish bully type breeds for existing because of a bias that is scientifically proven untruebias
- Other: Do not specify any breed in the bylaws as any and all dogs have the ability to become a nuisance or cause harm
- Other: DO NOT START BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION! If you're basing it on bite strength, eleven breeds have stronger bites than piggies. Also, people's ability to recognize a pitbull is ridiculous. I had a Thai ridge back/lab cross at one point and people though he was a pit. Base fines on behaviour not breed!
- Other: Do not wrongfully go after one breed. Consider what happened in Montreal. Focus only on dogs that exhibit problem behaviours.
- Other: Dog training required for all dogs registered in Calgary.
- Other: Dogs declared aggressive cannot be in off leash parks
- Other: Dogs should not be penalized because of breed
- Other: Dogs who exhibit aggressive behaviour should be treated accordingly, rather than punishing a dog and owner for a dog looking a particular way. It's important to note that if we are penalizing "pitbull" owners for their strength, should we not also be penalizing Great Danes, Rottweilers, German Shepherds, Mastiffs, large Golden Retrievers, and any large mutt from a shelter? The logic is highly flawed and fear based. Please choose bylaws based in logic, reason, and science rather than fear.

- Other: Don't discriminate breeds. Many small breed dogs can be vicious but aren't as heavily regulated. If a dog is showing poor behaviour, the owner needs to step up, no matter the breed. Have mandatory classes in order for them to keep the dog.
- Other: Don't breed shame! Look at little dogs that bite too of your considering breeds that bite.
- Other: Dont specify only one breed, its ignorant. There are many large stronge breeds.
- Other: Eliminate breed specific by-laws, base nuisance on individual dogs not by breed
- Other: Encourage owners to train their dogs and work on passing the Canadian good canine citizen test. If you actually look at overall bites, there are far more from small dogs than big. Big dogs just have more power. Pet owners have to research their breed and properly train ANY dog to prevent bites. Also I would really like the be a tree brought back to schools. It is a teaching tool taught by animal professionals to teach children how to avoid bites
- Other: Enforce and fine people for dogs off leash in on leash areas especially not pit bulls. People should be able to enjoy walking there dogs on leash without so called friendly dogs running off leash right up to them
- Other: Enforcement should not be breed specific. Behaviour issues should be addressed on a case by case not by penalizing specific breeds, or by default responsible owners.
- Other: EVERY dog should have training before they are allowed in off leash parks
- Other: Fines and bylaws surrounding the number and severity of offences the owner(s) of these dogs commit as they are the ones who are responsible for their dog's behaviour, regardless of it's size/breed
- Other: Fines for people who have their dogs off leash in an area not designated off leash, if they are not trained with recall
- Other: Fire the person who added the pit bull to this. Any large dog can cause the same damage ie German Shepherd
- Other: Government to help fund the mandatory training so that someone wanting to put in the work to save their dog can afford to do so as dog training is very expensive
- Other: Higher fines for ANY dog involved in multiple bylaw offences!
- Other: Higher fines for dogs at large with zero chances if owner is clearly not looking for their animal.
- Other: Higher fines for nuisance dogs who have had previous bylaw offences. Do no like the breed specific language, any breed can be a nuisance and this is often the owners fault. Include in obedience training for nuisance dogs that owners require canine education also.
- Other: How about we as a society stop targeting one specific breed of dog, and instead target the type of owner who has dogs that are biting? We care about stereotyping people, but you guys are fine to stereotype an entire breed of dog and give it an entirely different set of rules. Quite frankly I've never been more ashamed of my own city council. Absolutely disgusting.
- Other: How the [removed] is this a serious question. Bully breeds are no more or less dangerous, or prone to biting, than other breeds. The fact that some have decided they are the flavour du jour to hate is exactly like Shepherd hate in the 90s, and doberman hate in the 2000s. Grow the [removed], Calgary. Also, why the [removed] is this a public survey with no postal code requirement? You're just going to get spammed with anti-pitbull psychopaths.

- Other: <https://youtu.be/N996jvCYNks>
- Other: I completely and fundamentally disagree with your breed specific legislation. You stated pit bulls do not have a higher bite rate yet singled them out. Why? Shame on you! Chows, German Shepherds, Rottis ... so many breeds have capacity for severe bites. Yet, per the predicable usual - you demonize this breed. It's 2020, how about the irresponsible humans are addressed versus breeds. Very disappointing Calgary. You used to lead the way. Shameful
- Other: I do not believe that it should be breed specific.
- Other: I do not believe we should discriminate based on breed.
- Other: I do Not support breed specific legislation BSL ... I have met some viscous little dogs
- Other: I do not support the BSL
- Other: I don't believe you should categorize Pitbulls as a good any dog can be aggressive
- Other: I don't think targeting pit bulls is an appropriate response to irresponsible pet owners. If you are going to get a dog that is known to have a locking bite or is stronger or more difficult to train/control, it should be the pet owners responsibility to invest in obedience and training, and understand what that animal's triggers might be. Targeting one specific breed is not okay.
- Other: I don't support a separate set of laws, standards or requirements for certain breeds or cross-breeds of dogs. All dogs and their owners should be treated equally, until that dog exhibits nuisance behavior.
- Other: I feel as though ALL dogs should take obedience training.
- Other: I find it reprehensible that you would illogically single out one breed instead of applying it to all nuisance dogs.
- Other: I find this highly offensive not all pit pulls are the problem most are not trained properly is the problem I am a dog groom I've owned a pitty and plan to again
- Other: I just want it noted that I am highly offended that specific breeds (ie the bully breeds) are even mentioned in this surveys. There are other large breeds that can also be damaging, and I have obtained more bites by small breed dogs. The breed is not the issue. Responsible pet ownership is the issue!
- Other: I know of more bites caused by a chihuahua than a pit bull. It's not a dogs fault, it's the human who cannot handle the dog they are getting a fault. BSLs DO NOT DETER BAD DOGS! Instead they punish the good ones. people are responsible for bad dog behaviours more than any breed. A dog is a dog and punishing a breed or a breed look a like is BS. Shame on you.
- Other: I oppose breed specific by-laws.
- Other: I oppose the singling out of a particular breed. It's owners who are responsible for the dog. Banning a breed of dog is racist.
- Other: I strongly agree that Pitbulls dog breed likes that should not be in a separate box or law then nuisance dogs. They should all just be under one umbrella.
- Other: I think fine should be increase with each offence. I also think there needs to be fines or bigger fines for those found teasing, tormenting animals (especially if it lead to a bite). Parks patrolled and tickets handed out to those not in control of their animal.

- Other: I think it would be wise to maybe have a publicly subsidized program to teach basic obedience to dog owners. Maybe also consider giving dogs that went through certified obedience training a discount on their annual fee, like the way fixed dogs get a discount
- Other: I think it's insanely stupid for you to single out pit bulls. There are many dogs much bigger and just as strong as pitties. It's comes down to responsible ownership of any animal. In fact studies have shown pit bulls score VERY WELL on temperament test. Give your head a shake
- Other: I think it's ridiculous that you are grouping pit bulls as their own group. Guess what kind of dog tried to bite my dog at an off leash area.... NOT A PITBULL. Discriminating against a dog breed is ridiculous. Requesting that a perfectly friendly/playful dog to be muzzled or restricted from interacting with other dogs in an off leash area is absolutely crazy.
- Other: I think stating pitbulls as options is bias. Sd said they do not have higher bite rates, and most animal attacks we see are from smaller breeds
- Other: I understand that pit bulls can cause sever damage but so can police dogs and they at german shepherds. Huskies can also kill and maim people. I think the city needs to focus on nuisance dogs and higher fines and measures.
- Other: I work in vet med and pit bulls are NOT aggressive by nature, and putting them into their own category is completely ignorant.
- Other: I'm quite frankly disturbed by this breed specific approach. It's not the right way to go.
- Other: Increased fines for people who dont control their dogs. Dont be idiots and put fines on a specific breed because of ignorance. If you require muzzles for all pit bull breeds, all that will happen is nobody follows it and then it will cause conflict between people.
- Other: Informational classes for the owner if their dog is considered a nuisance, all dogs act out if they are not trained properly, regardless of breed.
- Other: Instead of punishing dogs that exhibit "pit bull" characteristics we should be provide more insentive for ALL dog owners to follow responsible pet ownership. While the strength of a "pit bull" like dog could make a situation "more severe" we should not ignore the fact that ANY breed has the potential to cause a severe incident. We should focus on, fund, and support education and training for owners and even NON-owners on general dog behaviors, what causes certain behaviors, and how to identify and handle certain behaviors.
- Other: Investigations on the the owners of dogs involved in any serious bites/fights
- Other: It is not pitbulls that are the problem. It is irresponsible owners who don't train their dogs properly. Don't blame the dog breed. Blame the owner.
- Other: It is wildly unfair to single out pitbulls here.
- Other: It's more often than not the case of bad pet owners rather than bad pets. Dogs seemed nuisance should be required to go to training as much as the pet owner should be required to take a class as well.
- Other: [removed] you're targeting pit bulls? IGNORANT
- Other: Leave breed specific out of this. They are bad dogs its people who don't know how to train their dogs. Any dog can bite and 9 times of 10 small untrained dogs bite.
- Other: Leave specific breeds out of it, singling out Pit Bulls is arbitrary

- Other: Legislation that removes dogs from problem owners instead of blaming the breed.
- Other: Make the laws apply to ALL dogs and concentrate on holding the owners responsible.
- Other: Making sure proper training and rehabilitation services are able to be provided for dogs who become a nuisance
- Other: Mandatory obedience training within the first year of ownership for ALL licensed dogs.
- Other: Mandatory training for the owners of "nuisance" dogs.
- Other: Many municipalities and countries have actually reversed breed specific legislation as it does not address bad dog behaviour or bad owners and has been proven to be ineffective in reducing dog bite issues. I'm curious as to why BSL is being suggested at this time, it's incredibly ineffective and an antiquated idea. Emphasis should be put on dining bad owners and making obedience classes accessible to all dog owners
- Other: Mastiffs, rottweilers and german shepherds can all have stronger jaws than "pit bulls" but yet "pit bull" breeds are potentially going to be singled out and potentially require additional insurance, muzzles, obedience training, or banned from off leash parks.
- Other: More should be done against owners who have dogs that bite/attack. Also, targeting a breed is not ok. Chihuahuas are awful dogs that attack. Dalmatian have one of the worst bites. More legitimate research needs to be done. In order to obtain a license for a dog proof of obedience training needs to be show (enrolment and completion). Higher fines for repeat offenders.
- Other: No bad dogs, just bad owners
- Other: No breed specific legislation, require retraining for nuisance dogs
- Other: NO BSL - all dogs should be obedience trained, all owners should show proof of training.
- Other: No BSL!! Gangstas will just pick a different breed.
- Other: No need for breed specific legislation. BSL has never been shown to reduce dog bites in a community. Please check <https://justice-for-bullies.myshopify.com/pages/does-bsl-work> for all the info. Thank you! #endbsl
- Other: Non-pitbull dog bites can also be very severe. I suggest that if breed specific language is included in a bylaw, please consider the following breeds: Poodles, Labradors, and Golden Retrievers.
- Other: Nuisance dogs, should be specifically routed to small breeds. Chihuahua, Pomeranian, bichon, all the small dogs that tend to rush other dogs, bark, and cause large dogs to act defensively. "Pitbulls" are not the problem. When a little dog starts a fight, and a dog retaliated in defense. It is never the small dogs fault. Stop punishing the wrong breeds.
- Other: Obedience or other dog training for any and all dog owners. Maybe reduced licensing fees for those who do.
- Other: Obedience training is key in dealing with nuisance dogs, more for the owner to be educated about how to handle the problem(s).
- Other: Obedience training required for all dog breeds, or maybe above a certain weight class. Pit bulls are not the only bad dogs out there thanks to irresponsible owners.
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL dogs

- Other: Obedience training required for owners of nuisance dogs. Stop singling out pit bull breeds. I don't own one and never have but the ones I've had a chance to know we're the most beautiful and easiest going dogs I've ever met (including my own dogs). The problem dogs at off leash parks are almost never bully breeds, shepherds are far worse when forced to single out a breed.
- Other: Obedience training should be required for all dogs. the little ones are the worst offenders. It's the owner that a problem not the breed.
- Other: Often it's not the dog, but the owner that's the real problem. Can you ban people from owning pets that are a nuisance? Even for a year? This includes people that have cats that stray constantly because they refuse to follow the bylaws!
- Other: Owner training certification required upon nuisance/offence complaints/cases; restricting the owner from adopting/purchasing additional pets in nuisance/offence cases.
- Other: Owners of dogs deemed a "nuisance" should be required to have training in the responsibility of animal ownership and animal behaviour.
- Other: Owners of nuisance dogs must be with pets when in public and warn people coming in close contact that they are a nuisance/provide warning
- Other: Owners should pay for property training for nuisance dogs
- Other: Owners with "nuisance" dogs and have been declared as such should have to attend classes for their dogs and them self's
- Other: Pit bull is an ill-defined breed classification. Also, no dog breed should be preemptively punished.
- Other: Pit bulls and other such breeds should not be singled out! I have met/been chased down the street by/ been bitten by many small breeds who are far more aggressive. Dog owners should be held responsible regardless of breed! However many small dog owners believe that because the dog is small they do not have to bother with obedience training.
- Other: PIT BULLS ARE NOT DANGEROUS!!! They have an unfair stigma against them because they're so HEAVILY over-reported on in media. If you look at any study from any veterinary or animal behavioral group they're NOT DANGEROUS!!!
- Other: Pit bulls are not the issue, it is the owners
- Other: Pit bulls are NOT the problem. The owners are the problem. ALL DOGS need to be properly trained, it is NOT breed specific.
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem, the owners are! Fine the owners for not properly training their dog and getting the help it needs so it doesn't have bad behaviour. It's not the dog who has the bad behaviour it's the owner who does it. The owner is the problem!!!! The dog should not be taken away or anything. It should be taken away from that owner to a better home that will train it properly. It can be any breed, this survey is stupid to base it off of pit bulls. Owners should not be bringing their dog to dog parks if they know they are violent, they should be getting help for that dog and if they don't they should get fined. I should be allowed to take my pit bull to a dog park to play and have fun without People judging me and scared of it. It's not the dog it's the owner. Yes pit bulls are strong dogs but they aren't the problem or the reason for anything.

- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out as dangerous dogs. Plenty of other breeds are mean and bite more often. Action should be taken against owners of nuisance dogs.
- Other: Pit bulls should NOT be singled out. All dogs have the potential to inflict serious injury. And for the first point: Would ammendment that they have the ability to seize if the dog has multiple offenses
- Other: Pit bulls shouldn't be singled out here. BSL is discrimination
- Other: pitbull specific designations are unnecessary. Fueling public fear should not be the object of bylaws. Poor owners can create a nuisance dog from any breed.
- Other: Pitbulls are not the problem owners are the problem . Small dogs have much sharper teeth and cause much more damage. And I owned a Chihuahua.
- Other: Pitbulls are no the problem. Bad owners are.. good owners should not suffer because other people are shitty owners... punish the people not the dog... people who dont properly train the dogs should have stiff fines and get dog taken away.. after the third time the dog is removed they no longer have the right to own a dog.. the three strikes should go for all animal abusers.. dogs are no the problem people are, period!!
- Other: Pitbulls are not dangerous. Bad owners are the danger here and not the animal. Please do not subject specific breeds to uneducated discrimination.
- Other: Pitbulls have less bite force than german Shepard and Rottweilers, as per Google. Specific breed rules is not going to solve issues. Problem dogs require attention as well as the owner. All dogs or no dogs. Breed specific bans are unfair and unfounded.
- Other: Please do not enact BSL. Calgary has been an example of how well it can work as responsible pet ownership bylaws without discriminating based on breeds.
- Other: PLEASE do not implement BSL!!!! It had been proven time and again that it does not work!!! Reprimand the individual dogs and owners, but please do not base these decisions on the breed!!!
- Other: Please leave breed specific laws out and focus on ALL problem animals regardless of breed
- Other: Please look at singling our other breeds that have a higher bit strength psi such as Rottweilers and German Sheppards. Your use of pitbulls in this form is disgusting! Do your research!
- Other: Please look that all dogs have poor behaviour due to being in the wrong hands. I've had my dog provoked more from husky a lab and a labradoodle and never once by a Pitbull. Don't stereo type dog breeds but please hold owners accountable.
- Other: Please remove BSL from your vocabulary. A physical trait cannot determine a proclivity for 'nuisance' behaviour anymore than your foreheard determines your proclivity for shoplifting. Language reflecting larger dogs and bite ratios should be based off weight/size/termperment assessments. Calgary, you disappoint. You have been a voice of reason to the world regarding BSL, and its absolutely disgusting that you are backsliding. It is unacceptable. Absolutely shameful.
- Other: Problem is half the time it's not the pit bull itself. We've come across many vicious small breeds, labs, springers to name a few. All of which are more territorial and require stricter training. Constant barking and I'll care from owners (our neighbour is on with his German shepherd cross) and doesn't care either. Bylaws have no effect or action despite constant contact. It's too much work or hassle for them and the city. Staffys are NOT to blame, owners of smaller other breeds and ill managed dog owners are.

- Other: Proof of obedience class completion within one year of receiving pet license
- Other: Punish the owners NOT the dogs. Breed specific bylaws are such a step back in thinking especially for our communities.
- Other: Punishing owners based on breed is the worst idea I've heard proposes. The owner and how the dog is trained contributes to the animals behavior. Pit bulls were originally known as the "nanny dog" because they were known to protect and love children.
- Other: Required assessment by a certified dog behavior consultant for all dog bites no matter how severe.
- Other: Second offenses should elevate to seizure, but a first offense should look at training opportunities and remove the dog from off-leash areas. Biting is a lack of training on behalf of the owner most often.
- Other: small dogs are more aggressive
- Other: Stop being so discriminatory against pit bulls. it's not the dog that's the problem it's the owner. period.
- Other: Stop hating on pit bulls. Plenty of breeds are a nuisance because they have a shitty owner.
- Other: Stop lumping "Pit Bulls" in as bad dogs. I have owned multiple breeds of dogs, and my Chihuahuas and my Golden Retrievers are more unpredictable than my Pit Bulls. Maybe give incentives to people who own stronger breeds to take them to affordable or partially subsidized obedience classes so they can learn how to correct the behaviors.
- Other: Stop pretending pit bull is an actual definition. It's not. Breed specific legislation is gross.
- Other: Stop singling out pit bulls. Bad owners, not bad breeds.
- Other: Stop singling out the pit bull breed. I was attacked and bit by a Staffordshire dogs and it was the owner that was the problem not the breed....
- Other: Sure lets single out pitbulls while my neighbors aggressive german shepard barks and tries to lunge at my pitbull and I everytime we walk by them. This is racist.
- Other: Targeting a particular breed is atrocious. Large dogs give more severe bites than small dogs. Shall we restrict the size of dog permitted in the city? This is sarcasm obviously don't restrict the size of dog permitted
- Other: The fact that you're still discriminating against a line of breeds that are proven to have a better test results in the field of aggression than a golden retriever, yet they are not specified, is appalling. Until a dog is declared a nuisance, REGARDLESS OF BREED, there should NOT be any penalties or restrictions on breeds. They were bred as nanny dogs, they DO NOT have locking jaws, and their temperament tests are better than most breeds. This is ridiculous.
- Other: The mandatory training should be for all dog owners.
- Other: the pitbull addition and list of breeds is extremely disappointing, not supported by the data on reducing bites, and irresponsible owners will still be irresponsible- it punishes those doing due diligence to ensure their bully breed dog is not a nuisance.. breed specific legislation does not solve nuisance behaviours. Mastiffs, Cana corsos, german Shepard, saint Bernard's, pyerenese are all a few of large dog breeds that can cause serious damage when they bite- so does a 90lb labrador retriever (compare it to a 35lb Staffordshire bull terrier), therefore the statement about 'pitbulls being listed due to their bite strength' is not accurate, as many more breeds should be part of this list if bite strength is a factor. lastly a 'pit bull terrier' is not a breed of dog, but rather a group of breeds and mutts based on physical characteristics, and is difficult to navigate and again, does not address the root cause of nuisance behaviours. I'm disappointed by how ill informed this is. German Shepards had a bad rap, then dobermans, now pitbulls. please focus on responsible pet ownership irregardless of breed of dog.

- Other: The poor behaviour of many dogs is poor ownership. The owners of rescues and large dogs should be required to have their dog attend and pass a legitimate obedience training course with the owner involved.
- Other: The smaller little happy breeds are worse than pitbulls. Pitbulls are more loveable than a Chihuahua. Chihuahuas and people's pressy little spoiled dogs that don't listen are the real problem.
- Other: There are no bad Pit Bulls only bad owners. And that goes for all dogs. All dogs should have a liability insurance if they are declared a nuisance. And the reason the dog bit someone should be investigated. And if the person who was bit is found guilty they should to pay a fine for harassing a dog.
- Other: There cannot be more than one pet in a nuisance dog in one household
- Other: THERE IS NO BAD BREED! STOP IT WITH THIS BS! PITBULLS ARE WONDERFUL DOGS YOU JERKS!
- Other: There should be more intensive training given to all nuisance dogs, regardless of breed. If there is proper training, the bond between the dog and owner is enhanced and the dog will want to do what is asked of it. Training should involve the owner as quite often and uneducated owner is the source of difficulty for the dog.
- Other: These should be in place for all dogs that meet the requirements not just certain breeds. Smaller dog breeds are vicious as well
- Other: This appears very discriminatory - it's very difficult to make an informed decision in the absence of underlying data/statistics on alleged bites/attacks/nuisances. I would especially like to see citation on the statement above that reads *It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull strength allows the potential for a more severe bite.
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous to focus on pit bulls. Small dog breeds and golden retrievers have a higher rate of biting and attacking people.
- Other: This is absolutely ridiculous you're trying to target bully breeds. Remember the hero from a couple weeks ago that saved his sister from the dog bite? Yeah that was a German Shepherd Mix dog...not a bully breed of any sort. German Shepherd's have a stronger bite and are more dangerous than a bully. STOP with the profiling.
- Other: This is an INCREDIBLY leading question playing into an extreme bias. You clearly state that "Pitbulls" are not involved in more bite incidences, yet you also clearly single out the breed (conveniently after you've already played in to the bias!) You note a "nuisance" dog is a dog at large, noise (no refermfe of bite incidents) ... Then specifically link Pitbull and biting incidents. So.. A golden retriever that bites is just a fluffy nuisance, but a "Pitbull" that has never shown any aggression is automatically a danger to society?! "Appearance and similiar characteristics".. That's a slippery slope. A dog with a large square head - Pitbull! A dog with a short, shiny single coat - Pitbull! A dog that bites and has four legs - must be a Pitbull BSL does not work. There is much data and evidence that supports this. I've experienced more aggressive behaviour from chihuahua's, dalmations and poodles than I care to count...I've had zero incidences with any "bully" and breed. Any breed can have irresponsible owners. Your singling out of a specific breed, and playing into people's (uneducated) bias is just as irresponsible.

- Other: This is not a breed specific problem and targeting pitbulls is NOT the correct course of action. Dogs that hurt, or kill other dogs should be immediately put down and the owners should be fined. I have found boxers to be more aggressive than pit bulls.
- Other: This is NOT A PITBULL OR AN BREED PROBLEM! This has everything to do with the handler. Unfortunately, tougher looking dogs attract some of the wrong kinds of people. All pit bulls I've encountered had responsible owners and were the best dogs ever, and have been attacked 3 times (2/3 by German shepherds). I cannot day this enough, it isn't about pit bulls, or it shouldn't be. It should be about handlers/dog owners being responsible and understanding the needs of the breeds, temperament etc and training these dogs properly and providing proper care, exercise etc.
- Other: This isn't a pitbull issue. I had my face town open by a cocker spaniel when I was young.
- Other: This should not be pitbull it should be any dog that has not been trained probably because of bad owners the owner should be responsible
- Other: Training course for new owners of pitbulls
- Other: Training for all humans before getting access to the dog and their dogs to respect the breed.
- Other: Training for owners with nuisance dogs. It is not always the dog at fault. Often times it is the owner that is the problem.
- Other: Training need to be given to the owners. Its bad owners that make bad dogs...NOT the breed!
- Other: vicious dogs are because of the owner, so it shouldn't matter what breed the dog is
- Other: We should have higher fines for any specific type but we should double the fine after every third offence.
- Other: When a dog attacks someone else's dog make it easier for the victim to get their vet bills paid. My dog was attacked and the owner of the other dog got a fine but the city was no help to me in getting the money for my vet bill. Why should the city make money from my dogs injuries? Also, we have been going to off leash parks in Calgary for years. While we do not own a pitbull, every one we meet at an off leash is very nice and friendly. Out of all the untrained aggressive dogs that have caused problems at the park, none have been pitbulls. Usually the nuance dogs are small Yorkshire terrier sized dogs. These small dogs are usually very badly behaved and in trained. They are not seen as aggressive because of there size, it they bite a normal sized dog and it protects itself and fights back, they smaller dog could be killed. There should a law stating there will not be any repercussions to the larger dog if this happens.

- Other: Why are you picking on pit bulls. Pick on people who don't properly train their animals. You guys are feeding into the fear of these animals. Deal with the owner, any animal has the bite instinct
- Other: Would prefer not to have Pit Bulls specifically mentioned, however, make it easier to tell if there is a nuisance dog in a residence. Maybe signage?
- Other: You are ridiculous to scape goat pitbulls and bully breeds.
- Other: You can't single out a breed. Its about how the dog is trained. That is totally unfair.
- Other: Your term, nuisance dog is not clearly specified. (eg. being at large, noise, etc.), leaves a lot to an imagination. For accurate servery results accurate information must be spelled out. A dog barking is an annoyance to the neighbouring people, it is not a danger. If you want input regarding any attributes they should be clearly listed. Had you stated in the opening brief you were targeting biting dogs then my answers to the questions would be significantly different.
- Other: ZERO breed specific laws, as pitbulls are unfairly typecast as aggressive
- Other: "Pit bulls" do not have stronger bites than other large dogs. Please don't perpetuate this myth
- Other: 1) allow nuisance dogs to go through training and be removed from nuisance dog list. 2) DO NOT ENFORCE BREED SPECIFIC LEGISLATION AGAINST PIT BULLS.
- Other: A well trained pitbull is no more dangerous than a badly trained dog of any breed. That you specify pitbulls here frustrates me as I have had problems with more non-pitbull breeds over the years than I ever have with a pitbull. I agree a badly trained pitbull can be a danger, but so can a badly trained labrador. Apply the rules to all dogs and dog owners, not just pitbulls.
- Other: Any dog of any breed should have the same bylaws applied. As a professional trainer I have been bitten by more small breeds as they often do not get trained at all and will bite strangers who approach.
- Other: Any law that specifically targets one breed (in this case Pit Bulls) is unsubstantiated by actual animal behaviour and serves to do significantly more damage than it could ever hope to negate. I've been bit severely by 3 dogs in my life and not a single one was or even resembled a pit bull. Any law hoping to reduce dog bites cannot target the phenotype or genotype of an animal, as genetic makeup alone does not determine any animal's (including humans) behaviour. Humans who own nuisance dogs and who are found to be accidentally or deliberately negligent in training proper behaviour need to be fined and punished, including being banned from owning dogs. You want to prevent dog bites? Prevent bad and negligent humans from owning dogs.
- Other: Applying for a license to own a pit bull and proof of obedience on both the dog and the human needs a passing grade!
- Other: As an owner of a Pit Bull, I think it is absolutely asinine that you have singled out the Pit Bull breed. Shame on you and how ignorant of you all in charge of this survey. Breed specific verbiage needs to be removed to properly represent this city.
- Other: As someone who dog has been bitten by a German shepherd while also experiencing very kind loving ones, singling out one breed (even though the proposed bylaw is singling out an appearance) is not effective. Various breeds can have strong bites and even smaller breeds can do damage to children. The problem is with nuisance dogs, not breeds in particular. I support enforcing regulation of nuisance dogs.

- Other: Ban pit bulls
- Other: Breed specific laws are not effective. They unfairly pick out one specific breed while ignoring all others with similar bite strength. Studies have shown time and again that poor dog ownership is to blame for dog attacks, not dog breed, and that any large dog is capable of inflicting serious or even lethal damage in an attack. Stricter enforcement against owners is needed, not against dog breeds.
- Other: breed specific legislation is a terrible idea!!!! It does not work and targets lovely dogs and responsible owners unfairly This city has literally thousands of pitties that cause absolutely zero issues. Deal with problem dogs not based on breed.
- Other: Breed specific legislation is complete crap and has been proven many times over to not be effective. Do some research and stop targeting specific breeds. The problem is irresponsible owners who don't properly train and socialize their animals, and owners who don't respect other dogs and their owners. It's never the dogs fault, its almost always the fault of someone who says "oh my dog is friendly, its ok!" as they rush up to an on-leash dog that may be reactive, putting the reactive dog and owner into a dangerous situation because the "friendly" dog and its owner are actually really rude and disrespectful.
- Other: Breed Specific Legislation is equivalent to racism in animals.
- Other: Breed specific legislation never works, this must be implemented based off of track record offences and behaviour, the owners should be held accountable more so than the animals
- Other: Breeds are not the issue. Owners are
- Other: BSL is out dated, please do not use this language, it is a waste of everyone's time. It unfairly targets pet responsible pet owners. The reality is all dogs can pose a huge bite risk. The current legislation needs to be enforced more.
- Other: BSL solves nothing. Singling out one breed is ludicrous to me and I would 100% NOT be in support of this. Any dog that bites or is a nuisance should be penalized. Not a specific breed. Come on City of Calgary, we are better then that.
- Other: Bylaw officers have the authority to make owners of nuisance dogs fix and/or maintain a fully enclosed yard.
- Other: Cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household. Do not define pit balls in this option
- Other: chihuahuas are more aggressive than pit bulls, pit bulls are targeted because of their reputation with those that abuse them. People need to educate themselves on their specific breed, its the owner that makes a dog. Ive had rotties in my life for years and with proper training they are great. I've only ever seen aggression from small breeds and have been bitten by chihuahuas in the past. Enough of targeting the breeds people THINK are aggressive, go after the people who can't be bothered to train their dogs, regardless of the breed
- Other: Chihuahuas bite more people than any other breed. German Sheppard, Rottweilers, and Bull dogs also have very strong and dangerous bites. Do not breed shame. Control nuisance and dangerous dogs.
- Other: Chihuahuas can be a nuisance too.

- Other: Clear wording of definitions of nuisance dogs, and include how other breeds can be nuisances as well.
- Other: Consider tiers for the level of nuisance that a dog poses. I.E, just barking and being annoying vs being a danger to others
- Other: Do not be breed specific. Don't licence dogs... Licence owners.
- Other: Do not consider a pit bull ban. A Shepard can cause JUST as much damage and this is a slippery and nasty slope.
- Other: Do not discriminate against bully breeds. I have two very loving pit bulls who have never bit or hurt anyone. Why should I have to pay more or have insurance when my dogs are not aggressive. These fines and insurances should only be in place if the dog is vicious or a nuisance.
- Other: Do not discriminate against pit bulls. It's not the breed but the owner.
- Other: Do not single out a certain breed. ALL DOGS have the potential to bite. Dog bites regardless of breed are terrifying and scary.
- Other: Do not single out one breed. It is the training and owners that influence the behaviour, not the dog itself. Fine people that have dogs that are not properly trained and do not single out one type of dog due to a stigma.
- Other: doesn't matter the breed of the dog, it's all on the owner. I am very displeased that the city is signaling out one specific dog breed that doesn't even have a high record of bites. Pitbulls are giant babies unless raised by a monster. As with any dog who is raised by a monster. I think the city should be cracking down more on animal abuse rather than putting restrictions on certain dog breeds. If a dog is not aggressive or has never bit anyone then it doesn't deserve to be musled. Your city is signaling out pitbulls and I think that is just absurd. I'd like to know if the person who came up with the idea of signaling out a specific breed does not like pitbulls because these questions are just ridiculous and shame on whoever thought this was okay
- Other: Dog breed doesn't matter. If a dog makes a habit of being aggressive or a trouble maker, regardless of breed, both it and it's owner should require further training and if that household has had multiple "nuisance" animals, maybe that household shouldn't have pets.
- Other: Dogs behave badly because of how they are trained. I think it is disgusting that the city of Calgary is choosing to single out pit bulls. It should be mandatory that if you get a dog that they have to take mandatory behaviour training for both the animal and the owner. Also its not always the dogs fault. Some people choose to pet an animal without permission. If someone came up and touched me without permission it wouldn't be acceptable. So why is it acceptable for animals? Then let's say this animal came out of an abusive home and fought back. I don't think they should be put down or punished because someone wasn't being respectful.
- Other: Dogs declared a nuisance should not be in off leash parks but I don't agree that they should be muzzled when on leash
- Other: Dogs removed from families after offences or several reports from neighbours (i.e. being treated badly/exhibiting aggressive behaviour). Take it from the family.
- Other: Don't discriminate based on breed it makes zero sense

- Other: Don't judge a dog by its breed. Judge it by how it was raised and what kind of person the owner is. Every pitbull I've ever met was sweet and gentle.
- Other: Don't single out Pitbull breeds. It is unnecessary
- Other: DONT BULLY MY BREED. Why would you single out the pit bull breed when German Shepards have a stronger bite force? Perhaps you need to add additional options for all other breeds with stronger bite force. This is absolutely ridiculous. Any nuisance dog is dangerous, Rottweiler, German Shepard, pit bull.
- Other: Dont focus on specific breeds. Focus on bad owners.
- Other: Don't get into Breed Specific Legislation. Bylaws/ gives should be based on a specific animal's behavior/ actions.
- Other: don't tease/provoke any dog
- Other: Education for dog owners. I don't like the pit bull wording as I believe it's ultimately the owners who are uneducated. I don't think that it's fair to target a specific breed.
- Other: Evaluation by 2 or more CPDT-KAs who focus in behaviour consultation to help put together a plan. Nuisance dogs should never be present in dog parks or face removal from the home. PLEASE DO NOT include breed-specific legislation; we know that it does not help. Focus on the dogs that are actually causing problems.
- Other: Fine irresponsible owners. Fine owners of untrained dogs.
- Other: Fines for those that are letting dogs walk off-leash in any area that is not specifically designated to be off leash
- Other: [removed] with the discrimination against pit bulls. My dog (not a pit bull, for the record) is most often attacked by dogs under 20 lbs.
- Other: Having breed specific policies is a joke and shows how uneducated this pole is, very disappointing
- Other: Hold bad dog owners responsible, regardless of breed, and stop making "pitbulls" out to be the bad guys. Thanks.
- Other: Hold people - IE pet owners - responsible for their pets regardless of breed, don't restrict the breeds.
- Other: Holy [removed] this is dumb. Take PITBULL out of the equation. Not the breed. Its the owner you closed minded [removed]
- Other: How about not being breed specific..its [removed] that pitbulls are listed here. Ive seen more chihuahuas rip kids faces apart than a pitbull
- Other: How about obedience training for all dog owners period. As a responsible pitbull owner I muzzle my dog to protect dogs that approach my leashed animal when their owners lose control of their unleashed animals.s
- Other: How about we deal with the dogs that actually bite.
- Other: I am shocked and appalled at the scapegoating of bullybreeds, please don't let Calgary turn into Ontario!! Banning this specific breed is so unfair, it's the owners that need to be accountable, don't blame the dog. There are so many wonderful bullydogs out there!!

- Other: I believe instead of mandating the nuisance dog stays home for a period of time, owners have to put their dog through training courses to help the issue. Not lock the animal up.
- Other: I believe training is key. Maybe an application process to own higher risk animals..fines dont prevent but training can
- Other: I disagree with specifically identifying pit bulls in these suggested changes various breeds can be a nuisance that require measures and I don't like that pit bulls are high lighted especially the statement "a dog that has an appearance and physical characteristics that are substantially similar to those of dogs referred to in any of clauses" I think that any of the measure should not be breed related pit bull or other
- Other: I do not agree with breed specific bylaws (pit bulls)
- Other: I do not agree with breed specific bylaws. However, in terms of nuisance dogs - when the problem relates to public safety I would argue that these dogs should be kept on leash. However, if the nuisance was related to public disturbance (i.e. noise) muzzles and leashes in off-leash parks should not be required.
- Other: I do not agree with the pit bull designation meaning they should have any bias just because of breed
- Other: I do not believe in breed specific bans or infractions. I think all judgments should be based solely on the behaviour exhibited by the animal not withstanding what breed it is a Chihuahua can do just as much damage as a pit pull if provoked. [removed] DO BETTER CALGARY!!!!!!
- Other: I do not support breed specific bylaws.
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation. Target, educate, and fine IRRESPONSIBLE OWNERS.
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation. There are plenty of other breeds with just as much capabikity to injure
- Other: I do not support breed-specific by laws.
- Other: I don't believe that breeds should be pigeonholed. All dogs who exhibit aggressive behaviours regardless of breed should be assessed for safety concerns.
- Other: I don't think any dog declared a nuisance should have repercussions. I do not think pitbulls should be singled out. I also think that any dog who is involved in a situation that results in a bite from the dog should be looked at on an individual basis and the circumstances should be looked at. (eg) the dog was startled or cornered etc.
- Other: I don't think that any dog should be judged by its breed and it's owner should also have some responsibility and fined or not allowed to own other dogs if they have had a lot of offences with nuisances. It is the persons fault for allowing dogs with aggressive tendencies to be around people and other dogs and should be punished as much as the dog!
- Other: I dont believe it's necessary to specifically target pit bulls. If that is the case, then you should have demonstrate graphs/charts and data trends and analysis to prove why you need to be targeting pit bulls. If the purpose of this engagement is to find opportunities for improvement, targeting pit bulls in the same category as nuisance dogs has already made the assumption and biased the stakeholders to this belief which is wrong. Stakeholder engagement should not put opinions and biases on the citizens.

- Other: I don't believe one breed should be singled out. There are more than just Pitbull type dogs that can do a lot of damage from a bite. Owners should take responsibility for the actions of their dogs
- Other: I don't believe pitbulls should be the target. I am sorry to say a lot of people who are not an expert on the matter would be judgemental and will be against pitbulls. Because that is what they heard from someone without looking into fact. I am actually disappointed that the city has decided to put them in this conversation! But that being said we should not jump to conclusions and decide the fate of the dog on the way they look. In fact we should have a separate division who can be an animal behaviour expert, and decide if the problem is with the animal or the owner!
- Other: I don't think pit bulls should be a targeted breed but these laws should go for ALL dogs. Including smaller dogs as they are often more aggressive than large dogs. Discriminating against a specific breed is not only unreasonable but is a step back in treating dogs with nuisance behaviour
- Other: I STRONGLY disagree with labeling any specific breed. There are "bad dogs" in any breed or mix. And many mixed breed dogs can have a pit bull type of appearance, but have absolutely no bully breed in them at all. Breed specific legislation opens a can of worms in which no one wins. In addition, the breeds listed are true breeds of dog recognized by the Canadian Kennel Club. What most people think of as a "pit bull" is not a registerable breed.
- Other: I think it is disgusting to have pitbulls separately. They may have more chance of doing damage but they're less likely to attack. I have NEVER been a rude pit bull but I've met very aggressive chihuahuas and shih tzu.
- Other: I think the breed specific legislation is an incredibly ignorant choice. German shepherds, mastiffs, and multiple other breeds have equal bite strength and can do equivalent damages as "pitbulls". This is a decision based on fear based media not facts.
- Other: I VEHEMENTLY opposed breed-specific legislation.
- Other: I would not support any type of breed specific bylaws; thus wording is inappropriate and should be left to nuisance dogs only. The issue is not related to breed but to irresponsible owners. Full stop. Disappointing to see this biased wording on a city survey.
- Other: If a dog (any breed) is declared a nuisance, the owner should be forced to undergo, and pass, a training session with the dog (at the owner expense) before being allowed to take the dog home again. If an owner opts not to take the training, the dog should be confiscated, rehabilitated and found a new home and the owner should be barred from having another dog until they can complete the training. Any owner of a dog who is destroyed should be barred from getting another dog for a period of 5 years and require training before getting the new dog.
- Other: If any breed is considered aggressive or a nuisance, they should be required to have obedience training. Stop putting a Pitbull as a foot. There is plenty of responsible ckc registered breeders of dogs such as American staffordshire terriers throughout calgary. Another bylaw you should consider putting in place is unless you are a registered breeder through a purebred dog registry, you should not be allowed to reproduce dogs. And should have to prove your dog is altered by the time they are a year to maintain a city licence and reduce fines. This would prevent so many dogs running the streets, ending up in shelters, overproduction of dogs and lesser backyard breeders or puppy mills.

- Other: If you are going to specifically have PitBulls as a specific breed in any legislation - you must consider German Shepards, Bullmastiff, Rottweiler, Chows, Dalmations and a few other breeds. If you don't include other breeds and continue to stereotype pitbulls - I can tell you it won't make things easy to implement anything. http://www.forallanimals.org/pit-bull-terriers-breed-discriminatory-legislation-faqs/?gclid=CjwKCAjwm_P5BRAhEiwAwRzSO2PvZrtONGtfBTK1b2T3d4ecExKA4ofWvFOYv8Hel4SJDJ0Gw_6VRoCTt0QAvD_BwE
- Other: If you discriminate against pit bull owners purely based on a stronger bite you are doing a disservice to the animal and the owners who are properly training and caring for their dogs. The witch hunt against pit bulls and their owners is ridiculous. Anyone who is mistreating or abusing any breed of dog should face the possibility of jail time. It IS NOT the dog who is vicious it is the lack of human awareness and care for an animal that causes a dog to behave aggressively. A dog should not have to suffer for it's owners faults. I honesty find it problematic you're questioning involves singling out pit bulls.
- Other: If you're considering "pitbulls" having to wear muzzles, then you need to have Chihuahua's wear them too. I've had more encounters with vicious small breeds than any of the dogs you consider "pitbulls".
- Other: Increased response with respect to patrol requests in problem areas where off leash dogs are a constant nuisance
- Other: It would be going back in time if you implemented breed specific legislation. If anything people need to be trained on how to deal with pitbull types, not the dogs. I think that others have the right to call bylaw if they see an aggressive dog, and if deemed required by law, mandatory obedience classes should be offered, focused on training the person AND the dog. If owner is unwilling then they should be flagged and have to pay higher pet liscensing/ insurance/ rental fee with any dog owned by them until owner completes the class and is deemed by class trainer to be competent in dealing with reactive dogs. Putting more time and effort in educating people will be much more effective in the long term than breed specific legislation. I would also be supportive of raising fines for dog tickets if this was put in place.
- Other: I've been bit by a few dogs, none of them were pits.
- Other: I've been bitten more by little dogs like terriers and shitzu's and they've shown insanely aggressive behaviour when I even approach their owners to talk to them. They lunge and bark and show their teeth. Bigger dogs are not always the problem here!
- Other: Just because it's a pit bull doesn't mean it needs to be labeled. ALL DOGS can be a nuisance. ALL dog owners need to be held responsible for a nuisance dog either it being a chihuahua or a pit bull
- Other: Larger fines for [removed] pet owners who refuse to train

- Other: Leave Pit Bulls alone. "There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household"--your survey option is biased by including both in this one but separating it for others, so I am voting for "no more than one nuisance animal per house".
- Other: Leave pit bulls out of this discussion. Many other dogs are more aggressive and have the same amount of biting force. Do your homework. If a shitzu never has any training and attacks my larger dog, its not the matter that the small dog cant do harm, its a matter of training your animals. Obedience training for all dogs is a better recourse.
- Other: Leave pit bulls out of this. Stop the discrimination against dogs. Discriminate against bad owners.
- Other: leave the Bullies alone... go after there idiot owners!
- Other: Make training courses mandatory for offending dogs/owners
- Other: Mandatory obedience training and education on canine behaviour for all new dog owners, regardless of whether this is their first dog or subsequent dogs within the household. Not enough people have the knowledge or skill set to help their dogs and themselves to avoid becoming a "nuisance" in the first place or combat pre-existing behavioural issues with their pets.
- Other: Mandatory training for nuisance dogs. PS really hate the idea of regulations being breed specific. This is discriminatory and puts animals at risk.
- Other: Mandatory Training for the Owner with Follow ups in order to keep license. The biggest issue is more often then not the dog owner and having a dog they can not control. For that matter the owner should have to have a license from the city to show they have been trained in the care and control of these types of dogs. No Training No license.
- Other: Maybe making the owner of a pitbull specific, city approved one on one trading from an credited dog trainer. They can only legally own, and license a pitbull if they're certified through them.
- Other: Most of the time, it's the dogs Environment/owner that is causing the dog to be like this - whether it's an uneducated owner, not knowing how to train a dog, or whether the dog is being abused/neglected. The dog should be taken taken away on second offence, as the owner is not taking responsibility for the actions of their dog. The dog should be placed in foster until a suitable, responsible owner can be found. Also, an in-depth report needs to be done, as most kids mistreat dogs as well, and no dog should be reprimanded for defending itself against unruly kids. And if thats the case, the kids should be taken from their parents. Kids that abuse animals, have been proven to move on to people and other animals as they age. They need to be punished as well.
- Other: Most of those proposals are reasonable, if they are applied to ALL breeds.
- Other: Most often it is the owner that is the problem. Pit bulls can be scary with the severity of a bite however owners must take responsibility. Most dogs can be rehabilitated.
- Other: my dog and myself have been bitten several times by small dogs and not once by a large breed. This should be noted as a though small dogs do not typically inflict sever bites they are overlooked. If a small dog bites my large breed and it escalates it is the large breed owners fault? Better ownership determines a dogs disposition! I think all dog owners need to be held at a higher standard. Any dog, any age, any breed who displays poor behaviour should be held to the same level of consequence.

- Other: NO BREED DISCRIMINATION. Bylaw affects all breeds and sizes of dogs, or none. I am a certified dog trainer specializing in aggression, and I have worked with and bit by more Chihuahuas and Shih Tzus than any other dog.
- Other: No breed specific bylaws are needed, punish the owners of nuisance dogs of ALL breeds.
- Other: no breed specific bylaws!!!
- Other: No breed specific bylaws. My neighbour's cockapoo is more of a danger than another neighbour's pit bull. It should be based strictly on behaviour.
- Other: NO breed specific legislation
- Other: NO Breed specific legislation. Period.
- Other: No breed specific punishments please, many large dogs have just as much power as breeds like pit bulls do however large breeds are generally much better trained than small dogs. Breed specific punishment is unfair treatment and dogs should be assessed on an individual basis, not a breed basis.
- Other: No breed specific, it should be about the actual behaviour of the dog.
- Other: No BSL in Calgary please.
- Other: NO discrimination against one breed, if an animal has done a crime than it should be treated equally on that crime not its breed or look of a specific breed
- Other: No law should be breed specific. Pitbulls aren't the problem. Owners are the problem. Fine nuisance owners. Ban nuisance owners from owning dogs. Dont punish responsible owner that take care of their dogs and train them well. All kinds of dogs are a nuisance but it's not a breed. Stats show Huskies and mixed breed dogs of all kinds are problems when they have problem owners. [Removed] with your breed specific [Removed].
- Other: no punishment for pit bull owners unless the dog is deemed dangerous. There is no reason to think all pit bulls are dangerous or all need to be muzzled
- Other: NOT ALL PITBULLS ARE BAD!!!
- Other: Not breed specific!! My Rottweiler has been attacked by small breeds but she is trained not to react. Strict rules for owners can be required and education and awareness campaigns would help.
- Other: Not more than one nuisance dog in a household but NOT the reference to pit bulls
- Other: NOTHING SHOULD BE BREED SPECIFIC YOU UNEDUCATED INDIVIDUALS. it's not the breed that ruins a dog it's the owners, I've had vicious chihuahuas that are worse than any big dogs. Do your reearxh
- Other: Nuisance and Neglectful owners, regardless of the Breed.
- Other: Nuisance dogs are not allowed off leash and small annoying dogs should be banned from parks
- Other: Obedience education for owners of nuisance dogs.
- Other: Obedience training for all dogs. Aggressive small dogs are a large problem at dog parks
- Other: Obedience training should be offered to low income per owners through the city of Calgary fair entry program.

- Other: Obedience training should be required for ALL dogs registered in the city, regardless of breed. It's irresponsible pet owners that are the issue, not the dog breed
- Other: Opportunity for owners to do training classes if they decline then having the authority to seize the dog, also having authority to seize a dog if after owner stopped attending classes the dog is still a nuisance; a owner has the opportunity for their dog be be undeclared a nuisance after attending obedience classes and proving the behaviour has been corrected. Would agree with muzzled in off leash parks if that only included violent behaviour, requiring a dog to wear a muzzle when in an off leash park when they simply run away a lot or bark a lot I disagree with;
- Other: Owner education needs to be a requirement especially when owning a powerful breed or a dog with behavioural problems. Many people own dogs with no knowledge of their purpose, strength or behaviours. Starting here would be a lot more effective then blaming the dog for being placed in unsuccessful situations by inexperienced people.
- Other: Owner must be fined if they don't pick up dog droppings
- Other: Owner specific legislation not breed specific legislation. If a person wants to own any dog in particular any large breed dog they should have to show proof of training classes upon licensing and the dog may be seized if the training has not been completed. Abolish off leash parks, too many owners do not have proper control over their dogs and serious injuries occur between dogs and people because of this. No more than 2 dogs per household unless the person is a breeder, a rescue or a foster home for rescues. All dogs required to wear a muzzle in public as well as no retractable leashes and length should be no longer than 6 feet.
- Other: Owner training as well should be made clear the animal is a possible nuisance animal if not trained properly and it's the owners responsibility not the dogs fault.
- Other: Owners of nuisance dogs cannot get their animal back until the owner and dog have passed a training course
- Other: Owners of nuisance dogs need to access education and training for themselves (e.g., dog body language; how to properly secure their home/yard to ensure an animal can't escape; how to train their dog using humane methods to bark less; and on general dog behaviour topics). I think that you would also need to consider your definition of "obedience training;" obedience training generally refers to loose leash walking, sit, stay, and other basic cues/commands. However, some dogs need more intensive work on behaviour modification in order to change their emotional response to stimuli, and address issues that stem from fear, aggression, and fear-related aggression. Also, it needs to be noted that under certain conditions, any dog can bite. Often, humans lack the knowledge of dog body language, how to appropriately socialize puppies, etc., and this ignorance is what leads to dogs with behaviour issues. Overall: I do NOT agree with breed specific legislation at all. I prefer an education approach, and for treating dogs as individuals rather than outlawing a particular breed.
- Other: Owners required to surrender dog to a rescue foundation when dog is declared a nuisance and offends again
- Other: ownership limits placed on humans with multiple nuisance animals. Exceptions for people that rehome or foster animals.

- Other: pit bulls and similar dogs should not be targeted. Its the owners that are bad, not the dogs. Ive been bitten by more small dogs than large dogs. Targeting dogs that look like pit bulls is like targeting someone with a different skin color!
- Other: Pit Bulls are not any more of a risk than a german shepherd or even a collie. Nuisance animals and pit bulls should not be lumped together.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem, it's dog owners who don't do the bare minimum to train or socialize their dogs that are the issue. Strict enforcement of required training for aggressive dogs (something like completion of a reactive dog training course) would be most beneficial. If a dog has bitten, they should have a blanket ban on off leash areas. All dogs, small or large, not just pit bulls. I have met some of the nicest and sweetest pit bulls, but some of the most annoying and aggressive labradoodles, and it all comes down to training, understanding dog behaviour, and removing dogs from situations that develop. Please talk to some behaviorist and trainers at the Calgary Humane Society about this.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem, people are. People who own dogs of any breed should/must enroll, partake and graduate from some form of recognized training program. STOP DISCRIMINATION AGAINST PIT BULLS AND BREEDS IN GENERAL!
- Other: Pit bulls have a bite strength on par with other dogs of their size and weaker than bigger dogs. A dog should not be fined or muzzled unless the actual dog has issues. BSL is a mess
- Other: Pit bulls should not require additional fines, training, or penalties.
- Other: Pit bulls type breeds are not the problem. Irresponsible owners are the problem. Bsl is not the answer. Ownership review is what needs to be invested in.
- Other: Pitbulls and other bully breeds should NOT be targeted.
- Other: Pitbulls are not inherently vicious. My dog has been attacked by many breeds and not a single one is a bully breed. Any dog regardless of breed should be monitored if aggressive.
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT NUISANCES
- Other: Pitbulls are NOT the issue- they are not an aggressive breed- it is all in how the owner has raised them. Its bad dog owners not the breed. I have been bit by a golden retreat before because it was raised by bad dog owners.
- Other: Pitbulls have nothing to do with issues with dogs in this city...owners are lazy and no one is fining these terrible owners to allow their dogs to be untrained.
- Other: Pitbulls should not be singled out as a breed. More bites, often more serious as well happen with OTHER breeds. Pitbulls are normally quote well tempered and very sweet. I agree 100% any dog that does wrong should be looked into and trained better. Its the owners responsibility to train and handle their pets. But to say there is more of a threat or more of a chance of damage because of the pitbull breed (any specific breed really) is just wrong
- Other: Pitbulls shouldn't be singled out because of their bite strength. Many dogs are capable of dealing damage regardless if they are pitbull or not. ie) rottweiler, German Shepard's, etc.
- Other: Pitbulls, large breeds or any dogs with strong bites should NOT be automatically noted a nuisance. There are no nuisance dogs but nuisance owners. I would suggest required education to be provided from a breeder and/or adoption agency regarding a large/strong breed characteristics to any or all new owners.

- Other: Please do NOT change the rules/fines based on breed.
- Other: Please do not single out breeds. Any type of dog can be dangerous and can cause damage. Why limit rules to a breed when you can define any dog as a nuisance and take action on a case by case basis? Additionally people who own dogs and train them to be aggressive should be banned from owning any dog. A German Shepard can easily be as bad as any bully. It comes down to the owners.
- Other: Please don't make this about a breed - it's about responsible ownership.
- Other: Please no breed specific (pit bull) regulations. I work as a veterinary technician, and I frequently see more "nuisance" dogs that are far from a "pit bull" breed. Put more emphasis on the owner's responsibility to train the dog properly.
- Other: Proper leash equipment for pit bulls and nuisance dogs (ex. A strong leash or leash that goes around owners hips and a harness)
- Other: Public education on animal related etiquette, ie. asking the owner before approaching an animal, by approaching unattended or stray animals, how to read animal body language and signs of fear or aggression in animals
- Other: Punish bad owners, not a breed.
- Other: Punishments for aggressive or untrained dogs should be purely the owner's fault and not based on breed or size, this stigmatizes pit bulls and makes people unnecessarily afraid of them, when an untrained dog is ALWAYS the owners fault and has no bearing on breed.
- Other: Putting extra requirements on pit bull owners is ridiculous. I have a mutt with some pit or boxer in him and I am careful to train, leash and avoid high arousal situations with my dog. Most owners of this breed know that even if their dog doesn't do anything wrong they will be blamed because of public perception. We are responsible. It is important to say the only time I've been bitten (and I volunteer at the Humane society, was by a little dog being walked with several other dogs and the person did not move off the walkway so her dogs were comfortable. She was the idiot- not the dog.
- Other: Regulation should be directed to all dogs - not breed specific dogs. Training for ALL nuisance dogs or muzzles for ALL nuisance dogs is an evidence based approach, which is key with pet ownership. People misuse muzzles and such; if the dog is proven to be a danger training for owners and pet should then be mandatory.
- Other: Remove discrimination for pit bulls
- Other: Remove your draconian thoughts and bylaws created specifically towards Pit Bulls. The laws should NOT be breed specific. I think ALL dogs should be required to go through obedience training when a new dog gets licensed. I have been bit by many dogs that were smaller, and I have never been bit by a pit bull. ALL dogs have the potential to bite if not properly trained. DO NOT MAKE THIS A BREED SPECIFIC BY LAW
- Other: Required dog training for owners with nuisance dogs
- Other: Researchers have shown time and again the breed specific legislation and the singling out of bully breeds is not effective in preventing canine related attacks. Chihuahuas bite and attack more commonly than pit bulls. Remove considerations for Breed specific legislation. Change references from nuisance dogs to dangerous dogs.

- Other: Restrictions on owners ability to own pets after incidents that show they do not train or socialize their dogs well enough.
- Other: Seriously [removed] whoever made this survey. We get it, you hate pitbulls. I've seen [removed] chihuahuas more dangerous than a Pitbull. Go [removed] yourselves Calgary Bylaw. You should be [removed] ashamed of yourselves. Maybe you are the ones that need a [removed] muzzle.
- Other: Should not predetermine that pit bulls are bad.
- Other: Should not target pit pulls itself it the owners! Target had owners that do not know how to control dog. Any bad dog is result of a bad owner. Don't target one breed.
- Other: Shouldn't matter the breed, if a dog is considered a nuisance there should be more responsibility for that owner to correct the dogs behavior. Being bit by any breed would be considered traumatic.
- Other: Singling out one breed is disgusting. Any animal can be aggressive if taught.
- Other: Singling out pitbulls is absolute stupidity!
- Other: Specific breed of dog should not be mentioned!
- Other: Specifying a certain breed has been scientifically debunked over and over. The breed is not the problem. What would be more beneficial is potential owners having to prove their competence in animal care, and responsibility. Depending on knowledge you display, this will identify which breeds you are capable of owning. Pitties/rottis/mastiffs/huskys/various giant breeds are not dogs for beginner pet owners. Some people would qualify for a pet rock, some a small mixed breed. Only after demonstrating a significant amount of experience/knowledge and responsibly, would a person be approved to own certain breeds. Any dog can be dangerous in the wrong hands. Just like any dog can be an asset to society and the community in the right hands. How do we insure each dog ends up in the right hands?
- Other: STOP BULLYING THE BREED, BULLY THE BAD OWNERS
- Other: Stop classifying only "pitbull" like breeds like this. Many other breeds can leave just as much or more damage.
- Other: Stop discriminating against Pit Bulls. They are literally the sweetest dogs. They have no more jaw strength than any other dog of the same size, such as Rottweilers, bull dogs, German Shepards, etc. Stop the hate against Pit Bulls.
- Other: Stop picking on pit bulls. They are an amazing breed. We need to teach responsible pet ownership and obedience. This is disturbing and sad to me.
- Other: Stop pointing the finger at pitbulls. All dogs have the same chance to become a nuisance then a pitbull does. It's the stupid owners that have no idea how to treat them right and train them properly...
- Other: Stop repeat offender owners from owning/training dogs to be dangerous/weapons unless specifically licensed (trainers of guard/police dogs). No breed specific rules as a designated breed will just be replaced with another just as pits replaced Rotties and rotties replaced Dobies etc.

- Other: Stop singling pit bulls. The dogs I've come into contact with that have been aggressive have never been pit bulls. That is shameful.
- Other: Stop with breed specific attacks. All dogs can be dangerous not just bully type. Make the fines on nuisance dogs bigger for the owners.
- Other: Stop with the breed specific branding.
- Other: Targeted against the breed & not the owner is pure ignorance. It is NOT THE BREED. IT IS THE OWNER!
- Other: Targeting a specific breed is inappropriate. Hold all dogs and owners accountable to the same standards. Large or small breed they should all be trained and behave properly to be in public areas for everyone's safety.
- Other: The fact that pitbulls are being segregated from the rest is ludicrous. As an animal professional, I have seen more harm done from miniature breeds and doodles than any "pitbull" I've encountered.
- Other: The fact you are targeting one specific breed means you have lacked proper education in dogs. These bylaws should account for ALL breeds.
- Other: The focus on pitbulls is disturbing. The focus should be on the owners who don't train dogs to not be aggressive.
- Other: the owner needs training, not the dog.
- Other: The pitbull law has been proven faulty in other jurisdictions so why are we repeating old errors? BC has implemented a good canine citizen certificate program we should review if we go down this path.
- Other: The whole pit bull focus is based on the idea that these dogs can cause more damage with a bite. This training ignores the fact that damage can be "bad enough" from many dog breeds. If the issue is severity of bite, then make the penalty relate to severity of bite. Singling out an (ill defined) breed will be hard to enforce, unnecessarily complicates enforcement and serves no real purpose. If these dogs but as frequently as any other breed (as noted in the description) then there is no justification to try and single them out
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household period. This should not be breed specific
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household, Very disappointed this wasn't already an option.....
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household. Leave the breed specifics out of it.
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household. Once a dog is declared a nuisance it must be neutered (if not already)
- Other: There should be no mention of specific breeds (ex. Pit-bull). Just call them Nuisance dogs. My dogs were attacked by the same dog and it wasn't a pit bull. It was a German Shepard mix. Every pit bull I have come across, they were all very well behaved.

- Other: There should not be anything specific to a dog breed, only prior behaviour.
- Other: These need to be amended for all dogs, and the singling out of pit bull/terrier breeds is[removed].t. Myself and my dog have been harassed by more chihuahuas than pit bull/terrier breeds.
- Other: This is disgusting, to single out pit bulls. I can't even believe this made it on to an official City page. How shameful. It's got nothing to do with the breed.
- Other: This needs to be dog specific not breed specific. If an owner cannot control their dog they need to be ordered to take part in obedience training with certified trainers or give up the dog. IT IS NOT THE BREEDS Fault it is the owners
- Other: This should be for all dogs, not specifically Pit Bulls It's often not the dog that is the source of the problem, it's the owner.
- Other: This should never EVER be breed specific. Other breeds can be a nuisance, and a lot of pit bulls and other breeds listed here are wonderful dogs. The owners of nuisance dogs should be punished, not the dogs.
- Other: This should NOT be breed specific. It should be based on a per dog basis and if a dog is declared a nuisance dog the owners should be required to go through training and a history of their dogs they have previously had should be taken into account. Nuisance dogs are reacting for a reason. It is typically due to owners who aren't providing the animal with what it requires.
- Other: to single out pit-bull breeds isn't the right way to go about it. i know plenty of pit bull owners that have raised and trained their dogs properly. focus on the owners rather than the dog breed
- Other: Training humans to treat dogs with love and respect. More affordable training programs. Affordable spat/neuter programs
- Other: Training mandatory for any dog deemed a nuisance
- Other: We need a system to track repetitive dog owner offenders. It's not the dogs fault they haven't been trained, it's the owner. They need mandatory training after their first dog related incident and mandatory follow up training
- Other: While muzzling may keep a dog from biting humans or other animals, it also prevent muzzled dog from defending itself from other animals.
- Other: Why are you specifically calling out pit bulls City of Calgary? That is really disappointing.
- Other: Why in the world make this breed (or type since pit bull isn't a breed) when you can achieve better standards and results by targeting problem dogs regardless of breed. A german shephard, mastiff, dane, Rottweiler, large mutt , ect are all strong dogs and can cuase just as much damage. Malinoise, Akitas, ans huskeys are responsible for more deaths accross Canada over the last 10 years than anything mislabeled "pitbull"
- Other: Would like more clarity on nuisance. Agree that while a nuisance dog who bites should not be allowed in an off leash park, I think a nuisance dog who barks a lot should be allowed to go to the park but the owner should need to do training with the dog
- Other: You cannot target breed specifically.
- Other: You have successfully lead a Canada with your proactive bylaws without mentioning breed and remaining breed neutral. As a born and raised calgarian if any breed specific language is passed, I will not spend any dollars in Calgary any more. My dog is a reflection of me, not his assumed breed. Under this new bylaw, my dog would be classified as a pit bull based on his looks even though by Canada federal law, he is a mixed breed of unknown origin. Do not do this. EVER

- Other: All breed specific legislation should be thrown out and only apply to dogs with documented dangerous behaviour. Breed specific legislation and by laws perpetuate harmful action towards these breeds.
- Other: All dogs must have obedience training, whether or not they are declared a nuisance. We should not include any breed specific legislation.
- Other: All dogs should be muzzled in public
- Other: All dogs should require obedience training regardless of breed.
- Other: All dogs under 14 lbs must be on leash and under an owners direct control at all times including at off leash parks. These dogs are often the instigators of issues with other dogs
- Other: all this depends on the situation around "nuisance" offense. If someone was teasing my dog, I dont think it would be fair that the dog is blamed for biting if it was provoked.
- Other: An owner should be deemed unfit to own pit bulls or bully breeds if their dog is involved in a bite that was unprovoked.
- Other: Any dog can be aggressive and a nuisance. Picking specific breeds is ignorance and shows lack of education in our government
- Other: Any dog that is deemed a nuisance can be seized by Calgary Community standards without obtaining a court order and owners must pay for any training, vet bills or food costs associated with the seizure
- Other: Any dog with a history of aggression should not be allowed in off leash parks and should be muzzled when in public, however, pit bulls should not be targeted as a result of their DNA. I work at the Calgary humane society and I have met more aggressive small breed dogs and labs or shepherds than I have pit bulls.
- Other: Any form of BSL is archaic and does not work. This is equivalent to racism - you're passing judgment on an entire breed for a couple bad dogs that ARE the product of bad owners. Shame on you City of Calgary and shame on any politician who supports this, you are a joke and just show how uneducated and ignorant you are.
- Other: As a professional trainer who deals with the worst cases in the city we need to encourage people to start educating their dog BEFORE there are problems. Possibly discounts for licences if your dog attends classes with a CERTIFIED trainer. Believe me many uncertified "treat free" trainers contribute to these issues more than they fix them.
- Other: Blame the owners, not the breed!!!!!!
- Other: Breed based targeting is often misinformed. Labrador retrievers bite more people than pit bulls and are capable of causing the same amount of damage. They usually aren't included in these types of bylaws because they are considered cute family dogs while breeds like german shepherds, pit bulls, and the like have the public persona of being dangerous dogs.
- Other: Breed specific banning doesn't work, and under your previous chief officer,[name removed], the idea of breed specific banning wasn't the target. Our current responsible pet ownership keeps the onus on the owners, and that is where it should be. Owners should be required to take classes with their dog so that they can help curb their dog's behaviour. I have a MUCH bigger problem with stupid little dogs whose owners think they are "so cute" when exhibiting nuisance behaviour like barking, snapping, biting clothes, biting at my dog's ankles and legs. Educate and then punish the owners for having dogs that are uncontrollable - don't punish the dogs.

- Other: Breed specific laws are not effective. A focus on nuisance dogs, and problem owners. Punishment should be fines or seizing of pets, not euthanasia.
- Other: Breed specific laws are outrageous to enforce. Owners must be held accountable for the behaviour of their dog, whether it a labrador or pitbull.
- Other: Breed specific legislation does not work, and has been proven ineffective in other cities. Focus on the nuisance dogs and not the breed.
- Other: Breed specific not right. A lot of breeds will be aggressive if not socialized or trained properly. Owners need to be responsible for their pets.
- Other: can you stop with the breed specific legislation bullshit? If you look at statistics and actual research establishing "pit bull" (which is not a breed or even an established type) kills dogs. Don't be the new ignorant in Canada.
- Other: Cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household
- Other: Cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household (not breed-specific)
- Other: Cap of any time of dog, especially in apartment buildings, cap of animals per square footage of dwelling
- Other: Do not create breed specific legislation as it does not address the problem of "behavior issue dogs" and instead blankets a breed. Many large breeds have the potential to be a nuisance. My cavalier has been harassed at the dog park by Huskies and GSDs but never a pitbull so in my history I would want those breeds to have insurance/ be muzzled but in reality it has way more to do with problem individuals who fail to train their animals and as such the legislation should be directed at individual cases rather than breeds.
- Other: Do not discriminate against any breed. It is not the dog or the breed. It's the owner.
- Other: DO NOT go after breed! This is a horrible way to discriminate and has proven ineffective in other municipalities. Be better Calgary. A nuisance dog is a nuisance dog regardless of breed. Your just going to create more problems by targeting breed!
- Other: Do NOT introduce breed-specific legislation. "...because a pitbulls strength allows the potential for a more severe bite," is a harmful myth and you know it!
- Other: Do not just attack one breed. There cannot be more than one nuisance animal in the house.
- Other: Do not make any by-laws 'breed specific'. A nuisance dog is a nuisance dog, regardless of what breed it is.
- Other: do not single out pitbulls - there is no reason for this
- Other: Do NOT target pit bulls as a widespread "nuisance" or "problem" dogs. It is the OWNER, not the dog.

- Other: DO NOT TARGET PITBULLS or any other specific breed. Rather pressure to the full extent of the City's available resources to teach dog owners or fine the shit out of them! As you know not all dog owners are good dog owners. We need to protect the dogs from these morons!
- Other: Do not target specific breeds. The problem is not the dog, but the training imparted by the owner. Bad dogs are BECAUSE of bad owners.
- Other: Dog bites require immediate removal and tested for disease eg rabies
- Other: Dogs can have nuisance declaration removed after City approved remedial training and a period of time after training with no further incidents.
- Other: Dogs declared a nuisance should have to undergo behaviour training and testing to no longer be declared a nuisance.
- Other: Dogs that are considered a nuisance due to at large do not need to be muzzled etc at a dog park. Only those with aggression issues.... Perhaps those should not be allowed at a dog park at all.
- Other: Dogs that have had to have police/by law officer engagement should not be allowed at the dog park period. I stopped taking my dog due to the severe aggression issues displayed at sue higgins and beddington trail off leash park from other dogs.
- Other: Don't preemptively punish breeds punish bad dogs
- Other: Don't punish pit bulls specifically. Educate yourselves.
- Other: DONT SINGLE A DOG OUT JUST BECAUSE OF BREED!!
- Other: Drop the Breed Specific Legislation. It doesn't work and is based off sensationalism, ignorance and straight up lies.
- Other: Due to the evidence that pitbulls are no more likely to bite than other breeds, singling out pitbulls and all dogs that bear resemblance is unacceptable. All dog owners should endeavor to train their dog and ensure proper supervision. Forcing all pitbull-type breeds to be muzzled at dog parks or be banned from dog parks would only cause more issues due to lack of socialization options. Please reconsider this.
- Other: either name all high-risk breeds (Shepards, Huskies, Rottweilers etc) or don't. Just picking on Pitbulls doesn't make sense.
- Other: Enforce current requirements
- Other: Ensure dog behavior is not the cause of bad ownership. Perhaps courses for the owners mandatory
- Other: Escalation of fines for repeat offenders. Assessment of living conditions & responsible ownership regarding a dog declared a nuisance
- Other: Euthanize option to be considered only after vet check, home living check, reactivity training, and fines. If dog and owner shows no improvement or continued aggression then it may be considered.
- Other: Fine the owners or temporary bans on owning animals for repeat offenders.
- Other: Fines for any dog bite. Small dogs are the worst offenders, but rarely reported. People should be informed that this is a law.
- Other: for a pitbull that has attacked other dogs, they should be forced to take obedience training, and this should be followed up on, ie proof of payment

- Other: I am appalled that the City of Calgary is putting out such a biased and prejudiced survey. We should immediately withdraw and rethink/rewrite this survey in an unbiased and non prejudiced way. Have we not learned from the mistakes made in Quebec and other provinces and states? There are other breeds that also have very strong bits, Pit Bulls have a bite force of 235 pounds which is only 71% of that of the Rottweilers. Let's not be biased to breeds, lets focus on owners who do not properly train and socialize their pets
- Other: I am concerned that if dogs declared a nuisance are not allowed in off-leash parks, we will see an increase in the number of people using other public spaces as off-leash or more dogs roaming.
- Other: I am firmly against BSL, it is proven ineffective in areas where it is implemented. I believe much like driving, all owners need to obtain a license in order to obtain a pet after passing a class and proving knowledgable. Could be different classes of license for different breeds. Many people own GSDs and Retrievers which are terribly out of control.
- Other: I am supportive of nearly anything that is not breed-specific legislation. I am a veterinarian and I have met very few aggressive/reactive pit bulls in relation to other dog breeds (German shepherds, poodles, etc.). Please let's not become the states.
- Other: I believe it is the responsibility for all dog owners to train and manage their dogs. Any large/powerful dog can be mistreated, neglected, mismanaged which leads to bites. Breed specific legislation has been proven to not work.
- Other: I believe that removing responsible dog ownership and adding in Breed Specific Legislation is going backwards. Targeting 'pitbulls' is basing this on visual identification and unfair to those that are responsible owners that train, spay and neuter, and license and vaccinate as per current regulations. Keeping it as a viscous dog law, regardless of breed, is sufficient. Penalize those that have not bothered to train or take responsibility for their animals actions, but increase penalties to include jail time for multiple offenses as well as paying damages to victims.
- Other: I do not approve the breed specifics. This is poor research on your part as there are numerous other breeds with great tensile strength and aggression traits.
- Other: I do not believe signaling out pits in the answer. Poor owners result in poor dogs. Period. Breed has nothing to do with it.
- Other: I DO NOT believe that Pit bulls should be singled out. There are many smaller dogs that bite. For the record I do not own a pit bull.
- Other: I do not support any breed specific bylaws
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation. It should be based on owner and pet previous behaviour and compliance.
- Other: I do not support breed specifics rules. There are many dogs that are dangerous.
- Other: I don't think we should be targeting specific breeds. I do agree however that we should be doing something about nuisance dogs
- Other: I don't support support breed bans but like the idea of all dog owners being encouraged to get some obedience training on their dog. Maybe there could be credits for such related to license fees?

- Other: I don't understand the call out of "pit bulls".....I realize they can cause more damage in case of bites, but the ratio of problem pits to non-problem pits in my eyes doesn't warrant a full attack on the breed as a whole.
- Other: I feel as though breed specific rules should not be made, especially if, as stated above, they do not have more bite incidents per year.
- Other: I feel breed specific measures are wrong. It is more about owner education. Most angry dogs I have encountered are due to the owners being unaware of warning signs and proper introductions. Most cases it is the owner, not the dog. No matter what breed it is!!!!
- Other: I feel that huskies have been a big problem as well and should be included
- Other: I find it appalling that the City or Calgary is looking into BSL. Pinpointing pitbull and spreading misinformation regarding this breed is awful. There are many other breeds that can produce aggressive bites and many others that tend to be more aggressive than pit bulls. I highly encourage the City of Calgary to reconsider including this kind of discrimination in their bylaws review. We are suppose to be leaders for the rest of Canada regarding bylaws and lack of BSL. This is a drastic step in the wrong direction.
- Other: I personally have never had only 1 incident with a "pit-bull", which was in my care as a foster from an abusive situation. None of the other 8+ "pit-bulls" that I have fostered or cared from have done harm. As a dog Walker and kennel tech I have been bitten by chihuahuas, dashounds, lambs, dalmatians, ridgebacks, spaniels and many others on repeat occasions. I feel that all Calgarians should not have a say, but rather dog owners of registered licensed dogs should be voting and this platform should be advertised at local dog parks for more info. Any nuisance animal, regardless of breed should be taken, held and tested for compliance and handled accordingly, regardless of breed. A neighbor of mine has a repeat offender who has been fined 3 times for dog bites, and never stops barking, almost LITERALLY, and her dog remains in her custody despite. Now she also has a mastiff pup that will be raised and untrained with the same lack of discipline. These current and proposed laws are punishing dogs and not the terrible and irresponsible OWNERS!
- Other: I think it's absolutely despicable that municipalities are still targeting and profiling based on breed. I've seen many other breeds that aren't typical for attacking to bite people. Hold the owners accountable not the breed or anyone else who may have a Pitbull. Any dog with the right training and discipline can be a perfect pup. Dogs only know what is taught to them - shame on you Calgary.
- Other: I understand that the pit bull breed has a bad reputation and receives a lot of media attention because of their appearance. This particular breed of animal was bred to be a nanny dog, to protect and look after children. Many if not most are still trained to be the caring, family dog. If you are considering muzzling a particular breed then your focus should be on all breeds.
- Other: I used to foster rescue dogs and train them to be adoptable. It's not the breed of dog that's the problem, it's the owners who will not properly train the dog that are. I believe ALL dogs should be leashed and muzzled while out in public. They are animals. Tiny poodles and chiuauas are much more aggressive than put bulls. Fine the bad owners and track the bad owners better.
- Other: If you are going to include specific breeds, whoever created this should look into the strength of bites of MANY other breeds, not just pit bulls. This is high uneducated and simply and assumption. There are many other breeds that might pose higher risks. Please do more research. This should be about breeds, rather irresponsible owners.

- Other: Increase licensing fees for dogs that do not receive any training, regardless of breed.
- Other: It is proven and documented that Rottweilers and German Shepards have stronger bites than pit bulls. It is unfair and unjust to claim that pit bulls cause more severe bites due to nothing more than a stigma around the breed of pit bulls.
- Other: It is unfair to single out pit bulls specifically or any dogs that look like a pit bull. I have a rescue that looks part pit bull but we have no idea if she is.. She has anxiety and wearing a muzzle would destroy any and all of the training we have been providing her with. If you are going to go this route, then the bylaw should state that any dog over a certain size needs training with their owners present.. As it's generally the owners that are the issue, not the dog.
- Other: it's dangerous to make this breed specific. As someone who frequents dog parks (daily) huskeys and small dogs are far more aggressive than any pitbull I have encountered in this setting
- Other: It's dog racism... Replace pit bull with 'ethnic person'
- Other: It's incredibly offensive that you're singling out pit bulls. It is the owner's fault if they are not trained properly. Pit bulls are naturally sweet and loving dogs and it's irresponsible owners who don't train them or take care of them that results in ANY dog biting or being aggressive. Shame on you for creating this incredibly biased and inappropriate questionnaire.
- Other: It's not the breed of dog that is the problem, it's the owners. Do not institute BSL, it's unfair to the animal and promotes an unfair stigma.
- Other: it's the owner and not the breed, my wife and I were harassed by a chocolate lab to the point where we almost kicked him and the owner told us to "[removed]". Sorry for the profanity but it's all he would say as we asked him to control his dog.
- Other: Laws should be applied equally and NOT targeted at a specific breed. I know several owners of these kinds of animals and (if not raised in abusive conditions) can be as sweet tempered as any other dog. Breed-specific fears are due to ignorance and misinformation - aggressive behaviour may happen in ANY breed.
- Other: Leave breed specific legislation out of this, there is no science to back this up
- Other: LEAVE THE PITBULLS ALONE! TARGET BAD OWNERS REGARDLESS OF BREED. There are some vicious chihuahuas and poodles out there.
- Other: Licensing should include short training course on liabilities and responsibilities of pet ownership
- Other: Make sure it's the owners who poorly train their animals and not innocent animals being punished
- Other: Make sure that there is a higher fine for owners that does not put their dog in training. It is the owner's fault, not the breed. Have a "teeth" and be tough about the law itself. Big penalties will repel people from owning a pet.
- Other: Mandatory Force Free training for all dogs licensed in the city of Calgary.
- Other: Mandatory training for owners with nuisance dogs. It's clear that it's not necessarily an issue with breed and there are plenty of friendly dogs out there of all breeds but for whatever reason people use/train these dogs for security which is not appropriate. A public dog should not be trained to be aggressive. People also don't know how to stop a dogs aggression towards people and feel their dog has the right to act aggressively if it feel uncomfortable. Designing a program to establish the owners intentions and to council them would be helpful. To add to your bandana question below I truly feel that is going down the wrong path where you are giving owners justification to continue to raise aggressive dogs. Perhaps the city gives them out stringently to rescue dogs who are unreachable through training.

- Other: Mandatory training for the dog and owner(s) where the breed is considered dangerous or a nuisance.
- Other: Maybe its not so much the DOG, but the OWNER. People should be allowed to own pit bulls and breeds similar, but idiots who don't know how to train a dog are mostly the problem. Fining idiots for being idiots is the best, and make it worthwhile. I like the insurance ideas as well.
- Other: More effort in fines regarding constant barking in backyards
- Other: More restrictions for owners who have ongoing nuisance issues. For example if someone has a dog that is deemed a nuisance removed from their home there should be limits placed on their ability to own a dog. Blame the owners not the dogs.
- Other: More surveillance at offleash too often the owners of nuosance dovs dont give a [removed] and flee we need better ways to identify them and make them accountable.
- Other: Much higher penalties for ALL animal offenses.
- Other: my opinion is that pit bulls can be tame and non-aggressive so I do not agree that all pit bulls be subject to increased diligence; all nuisance / dangerous breeds should be mandated
- Other: no breed discrimination - treat dog incidents on a case by case basis not based on breed. Focus on educating the owner and if they are unwilling to do not punish the dog, punish the owner and remove the dog.
- Other: No breed specific bylaws please. Penalize negligent owners, not the dog breeds.
- Other: No breed specific legislation. Lets get to the root of the problem and deal with owners that don't properly train their smaller breed dogs because I can just pick them up haha! No. A shitzou can still severely bite a child. I'm tired of small dogs being rampant nuisances - barking non stop, aggressive behaviour, but their owners get off scot free just because they can pick them up and walk away. I go through more training for my medium sized dog than they do their tiny terrors.
- Other: NO BSL
- Other: NO BSL!! Don't punish responsible dog owners! I have owned numerous pitbulls, not a single one that was aggressive. There are thousands of people that are responsible dog owners and thousands of pitbulls that cause no harm whatsoever. This breed is one of the most kind and loving breeds out there. You only hear about the negative, not positive. BSL IS NOT THE ANSWER!!!
- Other: no more than 1 nuisance dog in a household, but not including pitbulls into this category
- Other: Non breed specific or type specific legislation all dogs that bite should be treated equally regardless of size, breed or bite strength
- Other: Not all pit bulls are bad just bad owners
- Other: Nuisance yes. Pitbulls no additional bylaw

- Other: obedience training required for all dogs
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL dogs
- Other: Obedience training required for ALL dogs; muzzle required for all dogs in all public areas
- Other: Obedience training should be required for ALL dogs, large and small, before owners can get a city license. Stop discriminating against breeds, small dogs are often MUCH worse than large or "pit bulls".
- Other: often owners are the bigger issue - can be reason for poor dog behaviour - everyone with any dog should have to have training/assessment
- Other: One nuisance dog per household
- Other: Owner dog obedience training and informational outlets for owners that have a dog declared a nuisance.
- Other: Pit bulls are not deserving of any of this. This is ridiculous wording and I'm appalled these questions are even on here.
- Other: Pit bulls are not inherently dangerous! Small dogs like chihuahuas are much more angry and may cause a nuisance from incessant barking.
- Other: Pit bulls are NOT the problem - their people are - ban them
- Other: Pit bulls are not the problem. Neglectful owners are the problem. Improper socialization of dogs is where the issue lies, not the kind of breed they are. I've had tiny Maltese, King Charles spaniels and shit zus lunge after my Labrador when he is walking by them on his leash. It's not the breed, it's the owners!
- Other: Pit bulls aren't the problem. The bad owners are the problem! Don't ban a breed because of human ignorance. Focus on educating the general population and implement higher fines for owners who cannot control their animals.
- Other: Pit bulls as a breed are not more of a problem than other dog breeds. It should be dogs specific (for nuisance dogs) and have nothing to do with the breed. Especially since the owner is usually the problem not the dog.
- Other: Pit bulls may have the strength to bite more severely but that shouldn't lead to restrictions most pit bulls and owners are responsible and don't deserve this. Nuisance and problematic dogs are a result of poor ownership not breed
- Other: Pit Bulls should be treated as any other breed. The smaller breeds in my experience are nuisance animals they just don't leave the same marks. This should be looked at from the perspective of incidents, not damage done.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be segregated into their own section. There are numerous dogs that have significant strength behind their bites. Rehabilitation of all owners and pets should be required regardless of what offense level has been documented.
- Other: pit bulls should not be singled out within the bylaw, nuisance dogs is just fine and offers full protection to all dogs in that category
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out. That is so in fair. A golden retriever can do just as much damage

- Other: Pit bulls themselves should not be held to different laws and standards than any other breed. All dogs, regardless of size, can be dangerous if improperly trained. Any dog that has a history of dangerous behaviors should have extra restrictions and requirements.
- Other: Pitbulls are not the issue its the bad dog owners. Also what about people or children that enter the dogs back yard or fenced yard and they get bit? That is the dog doing its job then. In public yes a different story
- Other: Pitbulls are not the issue, bad owners are."*It is important to note that while pit bulls are not involved in more bite incidents than other dog breeds, the reason they are listed here is because a pitbull's strength allows the potential for a more severe bite." - this is false information that needs to be removed. Please do your research unbiased before writing it into a public query.
- Other: PITBULLS ARE NOT THE PROBLEM. THE PEOPLE RAISING THEM ARE. SERIOUSLY. GET SMART.
- Other: Pitbulls are sweet, the owners are the bad one's
- Other: Please (please) remember -- it's not the dog, it's the owner. Owners are failing. Your focus MUST be owner responsibility.
- Other: Please avoid breed specific bylaws. Typically, the issue with nuisance dogs the owner/training.
- Other: Please do not introduce breed specific legislation. There are many dogs that can do as much damage as pit bulls with bites and there is no evidence that targeting specific breeds reduces incidence of dog bites.
- Other: Please do not introduce breed-specific legislation of any kind. You have acknowledged that statistically pit bulls are no more likely to bite than other breeds. By adding breed specific conditions, you are stigmatizing a breed that is already vulnerable to abuse, neglect, and exploitation. Make the legislation apply to ALL dogs; I have seen way more instances of aggressive small breed dogs in parks than I've ever seen of pit bull or large breed. Just keep it to "nuisance" animals that have actually had documented negative behaviors, not a blanket that stigmatizes dogs that have done nothing wrong.
- Other: PLEASE do NOT lump all "pitbulls" as aggressive. They aren't. No breed specific laws.
- Other: Please make this bylaw dog specific not pit bull specific
- Other: Please stop singling out pitbulls.. there are other breeds with bites just as strong.
- Other: Procedures to seize nuisance dogs and not return to owners if they have had multiple offences.
- Other: Pit bulls are not the issue - the issue is the owner. No breed should be singled out in any bylaw. "Nuisance" should apply rather than a specific breed.
- Other: Remove specific breed from survey, and add obedience training for access to city off leash parks.
- Other: Required education for dog owners, use the media to present
- Other: Rottweilers and German Shepherds along with a variety of other breeds should be featured not just pit bull breeds. They should not be singled out at all and doing so is completely irresponsible and sending out the wrong message. I've had more bites from small dogs who have zero control and yes, their bites are less severe but they are more of a nuisance in my opinion.

- Other: separate pit bulls from nuisance on the household limit question, and stop targeting pitbulls - the university of Georgia proved Bullies do NOT have stronger or locking jaws!
- Other: Seriously? Breed legislation? in 2020? Calgary is better than this. Come on.
- Other: Should be dog specific not breed specific. It is the owner's responsibility.
- Other: Singling out breed specific dogs is unfair. Owners should be held accountable for a lack of training rather than breed specific bylaws
- Other: Singling out one breed for extreme measures only reduces attacks by those kinds of dogs, if u say pitbulls don't bite more than any other dog why single them out. This seems like very suspect wording for pitbull owners
- Other: Singling out pit bull type breeds for these measures is discriminatory. Irresponsible owners are the problem.
- Other: Singling out pit bulls is ridiculous that's breed discrimination no different than discrimination against a person and do your homework there is many breeds of dogs that have a stronger bite than pit bulls for etc Rottweilers bull mastiffs and a few more the dog is not the problem it's the owners stop making dogs pay for bad owners especially pit bull breeds
- Other: Smaller/less aggressive dogs held to the same level of accountability as that of a pit bull if determined a nuisance.
- Other: Specifying nuisance dogs is much better than pit bulls, many large dogs can bite hard. People probably take more of a risk by getting into a taxi cab in this city than by petting a dog.
- Other: Stop blaming the breeds and start looking at the people owning them. No dog or cat breed is inherently dangerous until they're handled improperly, abused or ignored. Punish the people that cause the animal to be aggressive. Pit bulls especially are naturally one of the sweetest and most gentle breeds out there. The owner is at fault for any pets behaviors.
- Other: Stop discriminating against pit bulls. I used to rent in a house where they let the upstairs neighbour's dog howl for hours in a day and it was a poodle terrier. Please make the bylaw apply to all breeds otherwise it is discriminating and not at all fair.
- Other: Stop including pit bulls in this specifically. I was bit by a 12lb aggressive lasapso - pit bulls are not aggressive
- Other: Stop singling out specific breeds. It's not the dogs, it's their owners. Dogs do what their owners train or condition them to do.
- Other: Stop targeting "pit bulls" and start targeting nuisance OWNERS
- Other: STOP targeting pit bulls
- Other: Stop targeting Pit Bulls and any dog that looks like one!!! It's owners and NOT the breed that are to blame. Labradors have a stronger bite per sq inch than a Pit Bull. German Shepherds, Bull Mastiff, Doberman have all gone through the same targeting as Pit Bulls are under now. You are ignorant to target this breed.
- Other: Targeting any specific breed is idiotic and has been proven NOT to work. The breed has nothing to do with this, and you cannot predict future offences based on a dog's breed.

- Other: The fact you are targeting one breed in your survey speaks volumes to how one sided this is. Deal with neuncance dogs and onwers, not a breed!!!
- Other: There are many dog breeds that have much stronger bite force than the Pitt bull; a mastiff would do more damage, however people can't tell the difference between a mastiff and a pitbull, so they will often name a pitbull as the culprit, while it is often another breed altogether. Invest in a better system to help educate and regulate who is allowed to own any type of dog. I have seen aggressive collies, labradors, etc. Irresponsible owners are the issue here.
- Other: There are many large breeds, such as German shepherds, whose strength is undermined in this specific questionnaire. Singling out one breed of large dog is both ignorant and irrelevant to the issue at hand, which is that any large breed is capable of serve bites and being of a larger risk to causing injury when provoked.
- Other: There are no bad dogs, only bad owners. Shame on the city for specifying breeds.
- Other: There cannot be more than one dog declared a nuisance in a household
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household (remove the pit bull portion from that option) - Breed Specific (or looks like a breed as defined in this case) does not address the problem, being nuisance dogs, not all pit bulls are nuisances and yet they are penalized for looks
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Other: There cannot be more than one nuisance dog in a household. People should be able to have more than one pitbull if they are responsible and training their dogs well.
- Other: There needs to be measures put into place for German Shepherds, I work with dogs and 100% of the German Shepherds I have worked with (I work with at least one German Shepherd a day) have issues with aggression and being unpredictable. They are unsafe around people. They are also always the dog breed that consistently attacks my staff. Most pit bulls I work with are safe lovely dogs, I've never worked with a safe German Shepherd and I have worked with over a thousand - they are guard dogs and do not make safe pets/ not safe for communities
- Other: There should also be additional training for owners of nuisance dogs
- Other: There should be absolutely no breed specific rules or bans.
- Other: These breed specific questions are complete BS
- Other: These should not discriminate against a breed. This an owners responsibility not the dogs!!
- Other: This should not be about a specific breed, but rather about nuisance dogs. Dogs that have exhibited dangerous behaviour (an owner related problem) should be dealt with appropriately through bylaws, training, and fines. If the behaviour persists, the dog should be removed from the owners care for its own safety and well being.
- Other: This is breed bullying pitbulls.
- Other: This should NOT be specific to pit bulls. There are MANY problem breeds at off leash parks that are not a bully breed. Is should be a bylaw for nuisance dogs period.
- Other: Tighter regulations on pit bull breeders. Regulations should be designed with the goal of reducing aggression and behavioural issues in the dogs. I would also support special licensing for pit bull owners.

- Other: Time exemption should apply for those who have rescued a dog to allow proper time for training
- Other: Understanding the bite strength of a pitbull is significant - they should not all automatically be tarred with the same brush - essentially this is a form of racism = breedism. Owners need to be held accountable for their dogs, including small dogs like a chihuahua, poodle etc... and the owner needs to be punished not only with a fine but community service and/or jail time. All dogs have the potential for good it is crappy owners who do not take the time to train and raise their dog properly. A specific breed should not be singled out. If more people would get to know a pitbull their bias would most likely change. Pitbulls that are raised and treated right are actually very loving, obedient and smart as hell. For the most part their instinct when you put your hand in their mouth is to spit it out. Do t get me wrong - I wouldn't do this with a dog I don't know, and that would be any breed, I've been bitten by poodles dachshund and German shepherds.
- Other: We have a dog that would likely fall under category e above. We, like the majority of other responsible dog owners, go to great lengths to make sure we do not put either of our dogs (the other is a Boxer) in a situation where they could end up in a difficult situation merely because of their appearance. We do not take our dogs to off leash parks simply because we feel our dogs would be held responsible for any trouble that may arise because of how they look. This is despite the fact that we know full well that our dogs are not trouble makers. Existing by-laws are in place to ensure that there are designated off-leash areas and any area not so designated has very clear signs that dogs need to be on a leash. These existing by-laws need to be properly enforced. We see too many people when we are out walking our dogs in our community, who do not respect the on-leash areas. If they want to take their dog off-leash, they should go to a designated park for that purpose. Anyone found in non-compliance should be fined. Also, pitbull type dogs should not be singled out in legislation. Any dog, regardless of size or type, can inflict serious injury/harm to a person and/or another animal. The problems fall to owners not being responsible enough to make sure they take the appropriate care of their animal - and care means to make sure they do not put their animals in a situation where they could come to harm. The problems lie with irresponsible owners not with the dogs themselves. Please do not penalize an entire breed type and the majority of responsible owners who provide stable loving homes for these dogs to ensure they are well adjusted members of society.
- Other: what is the definition of nuisance? a nuisance dog can be anything from the smallest chihuahua to a lab to a wolfhound, don't make the laws breed specific.
- Other: Why are we discriminating against the out bull breed? Plenty of bad owners and bad dogs that are not pit bulls. Many reactive rescue dogs are shepherd or husky. Stock to the definition of nuisance rather than pit bull.
- Other: Additional training for the owners of pitbull and nuisance dogs. Registration of owners of pitbulls planning to breed. Remember - on error, train the dog, punish the owner.
- Other: All dogs bite and all large breeds have the potential to do serious injury. Breed specific legislation unfairly attributes all dangerous bites to a specific breed, continues to promote the stigma attached to certain breeds and does not hold other dog owners accountable for the responsibility of properly socializing, training, and caring for their large breed dog.

- Other: All dogs must be muzzled when on leash or in an off leash park. All owners of cats must be fined if their cat is found wandering outside and being a nuisance.
- Other: All dogs, no matter the breed, tea cup breeds to any Giant Breeds, need basic obedience training. Have every owner prove training within one year of the dogs first license from certified locations. Eg! Clever Caine, Bow Dogs.
- Other: a lot of these are difficult and time consuming to enforce.
- Other: Dogs repeatedly and known to attack other dogs or animals should be required to wear a muzzle when out in public or in off leash parks
- Other: Fine the owner, stop punishing the dog.
- Other: Fines to repeat offending dog owners. One dog is one problem should fixed through personal training a second dog registered to the same owner should be deemed at fault and charged
- Other: Have only certain dog parks be bully friendly so they d'n't have to be muzzled in all dog parks
- Other: I do not support breed specific legislation, but rather dog /owner specific (such as nuisance dog, not a nuisance breed bylaw). The issue isn't breed of dog, but poor training, behavioural issues, etc. which can be found in any breed of dog.
- Other: I don't believe Pit Bulls should be singled out. The owner is responsible to train and maintain safety. Because of the inherited traits in this breed of dogs, adopters should be required to undergo professional training to ensure they know how to mitigate the risks involved with the breed.
- Other: I have seen more dogs that are NOT pit bulls or any that look like pit bulls cause more harm to others and dogs. I myself have had an issue where a very aggressive dog was put into a dog park (it was dark out) and then the owner went and sat back in their vehicle. That dog then proceeded to attack myself and my little puppy. I was able to hold my dog over my head, although he did get a small abrasion and I took the blunt of it. It took FOUR people to pull this dog off of me and when I went to look for the opener there was no one in any of the cars. It doesn't matter what type of dog it is; if it is brought up poorly, not trained and is allowed or praised for being aggressive, it will cause harm. I've had a Great Dane attack my one rescue who is still traumatized and I've had a tiny shitzu attack my smaller dog. Its so unfair to the animal to punish them just for their stature or looks. It's all about training and I believe training should be mandatory for every animal
- Other: I think it should mandatory for all dogs to attend obedience training with their owners. All breeds.
- Other: I think the same restrictions to Pit Bulls should apply to german shepherds. I have had way more scary encounters with german shepherds than pit bulls.
- Other: If seized, the process must be more transparent. It feels like an invasion of privacy to have a furry family member taken away when you're trying to do the right thing by being open to talk with bylaw and the bite victim. When being cooperative, dog owners should not have their pets taken. Assessments on dogs with cooperative pet owners should happen out of the home and not in a high stress environment like the pound. Those who resist to participate should have their dogs removed from the home.

- Other: In force dog bylaws. Dog walkers with 5 or more do not pick up their shit
- Other: Licensing for dog ownership; including classifications for pit bulls and other powerful dog with high reactivity. Educate the owners on how pit bulls require different care standards from labradors
- Other: Mandatory training for the OWNER of pit bulls or nuisance dogs.
- Other: Minor offences such as a dog at large or nuisances should not remain on record for more than 3 years if no other offences occur during that time
- Other: No more than one nuisance dog in a household.
- Other: No problem type dog should be allowed in public.
- Other: Obedience training for all dogs. I think the best strategy is preventative.
- Other: Ownership ban if a dog continues to show violent/ aggressive behavior after other options have been exhausted or owner has history of it (more than one aggressive dog or multiple nuisance dogs)
- Other: People owning Pitbull type dogs should require home checks and have to have mandatory training for them.
- Other: Pit bulls should not be singled out... there are good and bad dogs (because of owners).
- Other: seizing a dog with dangerous behaviour should depend on the circumstances and should not be only pit bulls, it should be any breed. German Shepards, Mastiffs, etc can be just as bad. eg: one dog bite due to being provoked should not be seized
- Other: The owners are the issue, NOT the dog. A bad owner is going to have a bad dog whether it is a pit bull or a chihuahua. There needs to be more deterrents and repercussions in place for bad owners or owners who get a dog as a "status symbol" with no understanding of the breed.
- Other: There should be a bylaw for the number of dogs, cats, etc. that you can own in city limits per household.
- Other: This bylaw should not specify breeds. There should be no breed specific language because statistically, small dogs are often more of a nuisance than a larger breed. So breed specific language discriminates against breeds that could possibly be very accommodating.
- Other: Working in the veterinary industry I don't feel that breed specific legislation is warranted, although I understand the reasoning. I actually see very little pit bull attacks that are brought on by the pit bull. Generally these instances are instigated by a smaller, nuisance dog that has had very little to no training by the owners because they either do not believe in it or there dog is too cute for rules and boundaries. I myself own a very passive labrador and I can't tell you the number of times she has been approached by nuisance dogs off leash that are not controlled and if she was not a calm labrador she would definitely lash out. My other concern with breed legislation is that I also live with a reactive dog and we always have him on a leash /under control as we know his tendencies. I have had many dog owners allow their dog to come up to mine who's is on a leash, and despite me saying my dog is not good with other dogs can you please call your dog. More people than not, state oh but my dog is. And then if my dog bites yours it's my fault and those owners, despite being warned cry bloody murder and call my dog aggressive. There needs to be some serious small dog education and teach people how to read the signs that a dog is going to bite. Working in vet med I have been bit by way more small dogs than large and to be frank never by a pit bull, German shepherds yes. And the one thing is that the large breed dogs will generally give you a sign they are going to bit, but I find majority of small dogs don't or people just don't know how to remove a dog from an aggressive situation

- Other: Ability to report nuisance dogs without providing name, at least making it so that the receiving party doesn't know who filed the nuisance dog report.
- Other: All nuisance dogs!!! Any breed!!!!
- Other: As you will see I'm not from Calgary, I do applauded you and support this . F rom what I see here you are not judging a breed or the owner of breed only asking we make sound judgements for ourselves, family and fellow man . Myself cannot express my sorrow in watching a fellow community member, work comrade & all round beautiful Lady taken down in our community by what looked like pit bulls .The dogs where not seized and now cannot be found , This person attacked has a long standing with AHS and has absolutely devoted her life to the saving of lives.The terrifying thing she is living with the very sad outcome of the attack. she is very grateful it not a child that was walking down a the street in the middle of the day to be viciously attacked by two dogs the outcome would have been a grave one Iâ€™m sure . Maybe only a handful of any breed will act out in this manner and if they do even once I believe there is a need for alarm. As an AHS employee we are fighting a invisible foe please help us, walking down a street should not be to much to ask.
- Other: For dogs requiring obedience training, the city of calgary should have a list of approved dog training facilities that provide reward based training only or training that is proven through evidence to be effective. More than one nuisance dog should be allowed in one household where the household is someone capable of handing the dogs and is actively working on rehabilitating the dogs (for example as foster dogs).
- Other: I would love to see repeat offenders - THE OWNERS - be required to take a class in animal training and safety and also have them prohibited from owning those breeds.
- Other: If you own a specific breed, you should undergo training and application processes to ensure you can manage that breed. All animals and breeds are different
- Other: immediate destruction of any dog who bites a person - no psychological testing period; also bigger fines for people owning pit bulls/dogs that bite
- Other: It must be mandatory for owners of pit bulls and dogs declared as a nuisance to attend training with their animal, to learn how to properly train and engage with their dog. Also, pit bulls who have been involved in moderate to severe offences must be seized.
- Other: Jail time for people who abuse dogs.
- Other: Limit the number or total weight of dogs on a property (based on size of lot.)
- Other: Mandatory training for all dogs.
- Other: Most dogs that are declared dangerous are due to irresponsible owners. OWNERS of dogs declared a nuisance must prove that THEY have completed/passed strict training; and if not, they shall be prohibited from owning that dog.

- Other: All dogs who display aggression should be treated the same. While pit bulls are more severe un trained, in supervised dogs can attack. My 100lbs lab has been attacked by a 60 lbs retriever. Irresponsible pet owners are more the problem then the breed.
- Other: Ban the breeds from being allowed within City limits
- Other: For damn sakes, ban Pit Bulls and its mixes in order to keep the city safe.
- Other: I truly believe, that owners of nuisance and dangerous dogs need to be trained and closely monitored. These dogs are not bad, their owners are often neglectful and/or encourage and train these poor dogs to behave in unacceptable ways.
- Other: Increased fines and enforcement of dogs off leash in non off leash areas.
- Other: Limit the number of dogs a single dog walker can walk at one time!!
- Other: Pit Bulls should not be allowed !!!!
- Other: Special license as well as mandatory bandana is issued to dogs/owners with dogs who are a nuisance and/or have aggressed. Owners must pass an online training/test and attend training with their dog. Only the trained owner can have the dog in public. City has the option to require permanent ban on off leash parks or muzzles etc. The owner has a separate license they must carry with them when out with their dog. They are the only person permitted to have the dog in public for at least one year. The training for pit bulls only... must be included with their licensing.
- Other: There should be pit bull only areas where they can roam and play freely unmuzzled. If obedience training is passed, I would support pit bulls not being muzzled.
- Other: These were tough questions...as an owner of two dogs and being a dog walker myself, I don't believe all pit bulls are aggressive, but if they aren't trained can do severe harm. I don't blame the breed/dog, but I do blame the owner. I think it is too hard to enforce training, therefore unfortunately, I think some of the suggestions are needed to keep humans and dogs safe.
- Other: Unable to own a nuisance dog if you have a criminal record.
- Other: Ban Pitt bulls
- Other: Dogs must be controlled by owners at all times including off leash parks. If you cannot control your dog it should be on a leash.
- Other: Dogs that bite should be puy down
- Other: For these dogs, licensing should require owners to be properly trained (obedience, etc.).
- Other: Higher financial penalties/criminal charges for dog bites/attacks and for offlease dogs in unauthorized areas
- Other: Mandatory spay/neuter for pit bull-type dogs, with penalties for bred litters. These dogs are massively and indiscriminately bred. I would support exceptions for responsible breeders but imagine this would be hard to define in law.
- Other: No pit bulls in Calgary
- Other: Nuisance dog should not be allowed in public parks at all. Licensing should restrict the number of total dogs allowed in neighborhoods. There should be a long wait list to get a license for dogs downtown for instance. Dog licenses should be more expensive and dangerous breed dogs should be limited and expensive. Having an unlicensed animal should result in it being seized.
- Other: Off leash dog parks managed by licensed operators who could charge a fee

- Other: outlaw dangerous animals
- Other: Police and animal control should have opportunity and obligation to shoot a dog on site of a dog attack involving a human, minimal paperwork for the officer should be required.
- Other: Specific special licenses to have a pit bull as a pet. Germany has this and they have had very few violent attacks as a result.
- Other: There is a simple solution to the dangerous dog problem without implementing BSL. Every pit bull advocate tells us to punish the deed, not the breed, so that is what needs to be done. If any dog, no matter the breed, breaks out of it's house ,car, or yard to attack and kill a neighbor's pet, that dog is automatically put down. No second or third chance and it won't be passing those genes on. The owner of the offending dog would also be held responsible for paying all of the bills relating to the attack. If any dog purposely attacks a person and inflicts level 4 or 5 bites , that dog is automatically put down. Once again, no second or third chance to attack. The other dog owner would also be held responsible for all of the doctor bills This will also stop that dog from passing on those aggressive, often deadly traits. Before you know it the shelters will be empty of dangerous dogs, no matter the breed. Here's the bite levels to compare .
- Other: What is the definition of nuisance
- Other: Also to please crack down on all the dogs that bark continually all day .I have called bylaw many times because the dogs next door bark 24/7 and bylaw has done nothing .why do I have to live with that?
- Other: Ban pit bull breeding in Alberta
- Other: Ban powerful animals from city limits. Owners can rarely be trusted to have complete control of them.
- Other: Classification of dog based on size/breed that would require owners to obtain permit / training in order to own a "dangerous" type of dog. Often owners are equally responsible
- Other: Outlaw and BAN the breeding of pit-bulls and known dangerous breeds (i.e. the only ones that kill/seriously maim people including their owners).
- Other: Pit bulls can kill you. Ban them from the City.
- Other: Providing a small dog park that is enclosed would make us feel much safer about bringing our small dog to socialize.
- Other: Training classes for potential owners of these specific dog breeds. No passing mark, no dog ownership.
- Other: why is it always pitbulls involved in altercations?
- Other: An them all together.. seen too many injuries
- Other: Ban
- Other: Ban on pit bulls
- Other: Ban on pitbull type dogs
- Other: Ban on those species breeds.
- Other: Ban pit bulls
- Other: Ban pit bulls and "bully breeds" altogether.
- Other: Ban pit bulls and dangerous dogs

- Other: Ban pit bulls and other vicious dogs like cane corsos
- Other: Ban pit bulls.
- Other: Ban pit bulls.
- Other: Ban pitbulls
- Other: Ban pitbulls and other dangerous breeds.
- Other: Ban pitbulls, take away all dogs who bite people.
- Other: Band pitbulls from Calgary, cities, provincial influence to do so.
- Other: Banning of pit bull and nuisance dogs.
- Other: Breed-specific legislation which deems owning a pit-bull illegal
- Other: Complete and total ban of pitbulls.
- Other: Dog bites and offenses towards children and minors should be treated as such, one and done.
- Other: Dog license and registration should be substantially higher I mbreeds like pit bulls for example $1000 for each pit bull.
- Other: Dog parks should not be allowed next to private homes
- Other: Dogs who commit vicious bite ie requiring stitches should be put down no questions asked
- Other: Enact an outright ban on pitbulls. It is not worth the risk. Ignore the pit-nutters. There is no such thing as a "nanny" dog. Pitbulls KILL!!! Please don't let any more innocent lives be taken by these monsters. PLease.
- Other: Enforcement of off-leash / on-leash areas!! Dogs are NOT supposed to be on pathways without a leash, yet I often have encounters with dogs not under control on the pathways.
- Other: Euthanize all pit bull breeds and their owners.
- Other: Excellent thoughts. I agree that it's "more about the trainer than the dog", but we need to look statistically at the dogs, and the types of trainers who choose to have these dogs. It really goes hand-in-hand.
- Other: Fines for dogs off leash and off property in any neighborhood.
- Other: Having had experiences with an untrained (or the owner just did not care, the dog was "playing" biting at me apparently) pit bull/mixed breed pitbull in rotary park (inner city near a child water park and playground) i strongly feel that all pit bull and nuisance dogs should be restricted to on-leash areas, specifically away from small dog parks and anywhere children may be (parks, waterparks, schools, etc.)
- Other: High fines for pitbulls and nuisance dogs even on their owner's property, if they show aggression to passersby.
- Other: Higher fines to owners that purposely let their leashes be as long as they want and allow their dogs to dig holes in people's lawns and come right up to people gardening in their own garden and bark at the people. Canyon Meadows being so close to Fish Creek is full of these nuisance dogs where it is the dog owners fault, they are allowing the dogs to be bad. One dog owner looked me in the eye and said it didn't matter that her large dog was digging holes in my lawn. The neighbours garage gets peed on all the time by dogs that are on leashes while the dog owner allows it. There should be much higher fines to some dog owners.

- Other: How about "Public identification of owners and dogs involved in bylaw offences"
- Other: I am a dog lover but as stated in the question phrase, pit bulls are extremely strong and capable of killing or maiming and have killed and maimed humans and animals in many instances. I don't dislike pit bulls, but anyone in ownership of that strength and potential for damage must be equipped to manage it
- Other: I have had so many close calls with aggressive dogs in Calgary parks this year because of negligent owners. None of these parks have been off leash and yet the dogs are not on leash. There needs to be harsher punishment for negligent owners. It was not me they chase, but my children who are young and more vulnerable. Humans should not have to fear going for a walk in their neighbourhood park. When did we start giving dogs more rights than people?
- Other: I would like to see a ban on pit bulls and other similar dogs. They are capable of killing a human or other dogs, so I don't understand why we allow them on our streets and in our parks.
- Other: I would support a ban on pitbull, owning, breeding or selling.
- Other: Increase and focused monitoring of city parks and pathways... like the police use bikes to monitor communities bylaw officers should be out and about much more often than they are now. You cannot even get through to 311 to reach a bylaw officer. None of this will work if you cannot properly enforce the bylaws.
- Other: it's the owner's fault, not the breed or the dog. Mandatory training for above mentioned breeds, no training no dog. if you let your dog off leash it has to come to you 100 time out of 100 !!! this is for all dogs. PROBLEM IS PEOPLE!!
- Other: Just wanted to point out that your disclaimer regarding pitbulls not biting more often is FALSE. Please present accurate data. Pitbulls are responsible for the majority of dog-related injuries and deaths. I would fully support a ban, or extreme legislation against them. I am a bite victim myself and could have died.
- Other: License bloody bicycles they are as annoying and dangerous as dogs and police time is Spent on lost bicycles
- Other: Make the owner at least civilly, if not criminally, liable for any attack.
- Other: Mandatory liability insurance for all pit bulls
- Other: Mandatory spay/neuter program for all pitbulls
- Other: Minimum of $1,000,000 liability insurance for ownership of any blood sport dogs. Rescind once bite gets a pass, these types of dogs, one bite can be a life altering disfigurement if not death.
- Other: More fines for people walking dogs off-leash in areas where dogs are specified to be on-leash.
- Other: No pit bulls or nuisance dogs in fields near playgrounds. Not every field has no dog signs in these areas.
- Other: No pitbulls allowed in city or near children
- Other: Outright ban on the breed.
- Other: Owners of aggressive animals should be held to the one bite law. If their animal bites someone, it should be seized and put down.

- Other: Owners should go through competency tests
- Other: People who own dogs that can cause such damage as injury and death should have to have a special license showing they have had training on controlling such an animal
- Other: Pit bull breeds banned
- Other: Pit bulls and AS Terriers should be banned.
- Other: Pit bulls and nuisance dogs must be spayed or neutered
- Other: Pit bulls should be banned altogether.
- Other: Pit Bulls should be banned in the City of Calgary or at a minimum muzzled when in public. These dogs have very dangerous bites and you cannot predict the responsibility of the owners in their training.
- Other: Pit bulls should be banned inside the city limits.
- Other: Pit bulls should be banned. They are raised and bred as aggressive fight dogs that people have for home security. They are trained to attack. They should be banned.
- Other: pitbull 'type' breeds should be banned. Also, Cane Corso, Dogo Argentino and other pit-fighting dogs should be banned.
- Other: Pitbulls are a danger to the general public.
- Other: Pitbulls should not be allowed on any form of public transportation
- Other: Pitfalls and other declared dangerous breeds should be banned from Calgary.
- Other: Please include dogs registered as "American Bully" in the pitbull laws!
- Other: Restrictions on who can own a pit bull/aggressive dog breed.
- Other: small dogs I personally find are more of a nuisance. I've been attacked by small dogs. My golden retriever has been attacked by smaller breeds. My personal opinion is that the fines for pit bulls should be the same as for small breed dogs. They need muzzles too. If a large breed attacks a smaller breed because the smaller breed is teasing, biting it, the owner must take responsibility. Just because a dog is small doesn't mean it's a sweetheart. I've come across more small dog breeds that are more vicious than a pitbull. This needs to stop. Fines need to be just as healthy as for large breeds.
- Other: Strongly discourage pit bull ownership by allowing more humane euthanasia for abandoned pit bulls. Also, do not let pit bulls be bred by backyard breeders. Anyone selling a pit-bull should be fined.
- Other: There should be an outright ban on dogs that are considered aggressive or dangerous breeds. That includes dogs that are too physically large or strong that the owner cannot properly control them.
- Other: This should also apply to small yappy vicious dogs.
- Other: Time to get with the program - that "all dogs bite" mantra from a few years back was just comical. I'm not concerned about being bitten by the neighbor's ball-of-fuzz or lab - I am concerned about these pit-bull type dogs, etc. My beagle was attacked once by a dog like this. Bylaw did nothing. The owners lied through their teeth. Then I found out my dog was the second dog it attacked! If I see it, I'll kill it, and save another dog. But here we are still debating this. Sigh...
- Other: Van pit bulls and any other aggressive dog breed

- Other: Would prefer a total ban on pit bull type breeds
- Other: Yards must be fully fenced higher than 4 m high for pit bull or nuisance dogs.
- There is no evidence supporting the claims and this discriminatory survey towards pit bulls.
- DONT BULLY MY BREED - THIS IS RACIST AND SEGREGATING BREEDS - WHATS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THIS AND SEGREGATION LAWS FROM THE EARLY 1900's
- Obedience training should be required for all dogs
- Based on definition provided of nuisance, it's ridiculous to request owners have insurance or they're muzzled at a dog park. A dog deemed dangerous however, absolutely should be muzzled regardless of breed when out in public
- This should not be breed specific. Responsible pet ownership applies to ALL pet owners.
- Just to clarify, my response is regarding individual dogs that have been declared a nuisance. Certain breeds should not be targeted.
- If a dog is involved in a by-law offence where the dog potentially poses a risk to others. The owner should be required to take the dog to obedience training and the owners needs to be an active participant in the dog's training. Dogs often becomes nuisance or aggressive dogs due to poor ownership, not because there is something wrong with the dog itself.
- pit bull typing of dogs is unhelpful - many dogs that are not pit bulls can have just as damaging a bite
- Facilitate responsible ownership, not promote breed specific legislation.
- Absolutely do not discriminate against a breed of dog. There are numerous pieces of literature stating that "pit bulls" are not the problem and their "biting force" is no different than MANY other breeds.
- Deal with nuisance dogs and not the BREED!
- Please provide stronger enforcement of the leashing of dogs off the owner's property. And mandatory training for both owner and dogs. This is to create a much safer situation for the dog. I see too many off leash dogs roaming with their owners without any controls and running into the street. The owner often seems to have no clue whatsoever about leash laws or about their dog about to be struck by a car.
- Specifically attacking Pitbulls and similar dogs is not ok, these dogs are no worse behaved by nature than any other. I completely disagree with the bias that these types of dogs are by their nature less wellbehaved than any other.
- Do not focus on one breed, rather behaviour driven.
- I do not support any breed specific bullying.
- This bylaw is bullshit. [removed] you. Just because of how they look? Really?
- Pit bulls should be banned from the city
- Owners need to be responsible. These dogs aren't dangerous!
- There are no bad dogs, only bad owners. Pit bulls are sweethearts, I'm not a dog owner but have met many sweet pit bulls. You should be focusing on annual adoption check ins on owners, not restrictions as listed here.
- Say no to BSL. Base punishments on proven behaviour, not looks or uneducated opinions.

- I do not support ANY bylaw that specifies a certain breed should be restricted, or cost the owner extra in terms of fines or insurance when the dog hasn't actually done anything wrong. Especially when the rule is going to read "a dog that has an appearance and physical characteristics that are substantially similar to those of dogs." Who decides what's substantially similar? That's very subjective and the person making the decision may be unfairly biased.
- Any Dog(s) found guilty of provoking an attack while either on or off leash are subject to fines and / or seizure
- None it's the owner not the dog.
- Please stop targeting Pitbulls and specific breeds as being an alleged nuisance. Pitbulls are not dangerous dogs. Stupid owners that do not provide their dogs (REGARDLESS OF THE BREED) with the proper training should be punished. I agree with targeting ALL dogs that can or are a danger to public safety but to have that limited to a specific breed is as good as racism. All Pitbulls are not dangerous, in fact, most are not. If their owners are not caring for them properly, that is the PERSON'S fault, not the helpless dog.
- Dogs that are aggressive (even poodles) are not allowed at off leash areas ever. Or must be muzzled.
- I do not support a bylaw specific to pit bulls. They are very loving dogs. There are no bad dogs only bad owners that do not take the time to properly train their pet or provide early socialization. To pick on pit bulls specifically is a knee jerk reaction from politicians looking to score votes from the uneducated general public.
- Discriminating against a dog breed is no different than discriminating against people. You're more likely to be bit by a chihuahua. Ban nuisance dogs and dogs that are repeat offenders. Not all pit by bulls are bad and not all bad dogs are pit bulls.
- More fines for bad pet owners. BSL is not the answer ANY breed or dog can be vicious and aggressive. It's the result of owners who don't care about training their dogs properly or treating them correctly. Fine them Ban them. More education for all owners and fines will create better owners
- Nuisance animals are not limited to breed, punishment should be metered properly to all offending animals based on the severity of the offence.
- The behaviour of the dog is largely the responsibility/training of the owner. Being discriminatory towards pit bulls is unfair and although pit bulls have the potential to cause more damage, their breed is majorly misunderstood and if a dog is aggressive, that's on the owner. Also, I think if a dog is declared a nuisance, they should go through rehabilitation before being allowed back into off leash areas.
- This bylaw is absolutely ridiculous. You already point out that pitbulls do not have a higher frequency of bite incidents. There is absolutely no reason to treat them differently.
- Pit bulls should NOT be targeted - German Shepard's have a bite just as strong and dangerous, if that is the rational and they should also be included as well as Rottweilers which has a stronger bite force as well.
- Breed specific laws are insane. It's owners that are problems. Not specific breeds. Duh.

- Needs more accountability on the owner. Dogs learn from their owners. If the owner does not exercise or train their dogs it makes bad dogs. If they have a nuisance dog they need training and investigation on whether they are fit to own a dog.
- Leave pit bulls alone and only take the animal away because of the owner of it is attacking, not the animal's fault for the lack of owner's stupidity and lack of training.
- Stop the ban on "pit-bulls". If this was a human would you ban an entire religion, race, ethnicity, gender, identity? This is a form of racism!
- None whatsoever
- No breed specific legislation! It's not the breed it's the owner!
- The city should make sure that owners are the ones responsible and not mistreating the dogs.
- I do not believe that dog bites or behavior are a large issue that requires any of these suggested measures.
- Removing the stigma around the term "Pitbull". Regardless of breed, responsible pet ownership means looking past breeds and administering proper training to all breeds.
- There should be NO breed specific bylaws. All breeds have the capacity to bite/attack. I have been bitten twice and both times it was small breeds. The last time was by a chihuahua and it was severe.
- There should not be any discrimination or prejudice on the breed. Target the owner.
- BSL does not work. Any large dog is capable of doing the same harm as a bully breed/ bully mix. General education has proven to be more effective
- Owners should be required to spend enough time providing an enriching environment for their pet. Don't blame the pit bulls themselves.
- There is no scientific evidence to support these statements. It would be a mistake to make an animal pay the price of something they've never done.
- Bigger fines and punishment for people who abuse and mistreat animals. Maybe if we had actual penalties for animal abuse and severe punishment for dog fighting etc. It would decrease the amount of bad people who strive to own pit bulls that learn to be aggressive. Maybe a rebate for owners taking their problem dogs for training (it's so expensive which is why most don't). More public education around pets and dogs. Ex. SO many people leave their well behaved dogs off leash. Educate that this is not ok and fine those who do. Makes it extremely hard and stressful when walking a leashed reactive dog. Those people don't think they're the problem, but their dogs running up to leashed dogs cause a lot of issues. Also, education for the public surrounding animals. Ex. Kids/parents should know how not to interact with dogs they see. I've had lots of kids come running at my two 100 pound dogs while out walking. They get anxious but Luckily I have pretty good dogs. This behaviour from kids is NOT ok. I've also seen parents shove a baby in dogs face that they didn't know who was tied up outside. An older dog that easily could have panicked and snapped. In my opinion that would be the fault of those parents, not the dog, but we all know who would face the punishment. I know a dog that was put down for biting a kid that climbed a fence into someone's yard.... it was awful what happened, but that dog was protecting his two girls on a property that someone entered. Kids and adults need more education to prevent these things. I had a meter reader walk into my backyard while my two barking growling dogs were there. He ignored them and proceeded in. Luckily they didn't bite, but in my opinion, he was wrong to take that chance. There's a lot bigger issues than pit bulls. Focus on shitty people who own pets they shouldn't and animal mistreatment. Not pit bulls.

- Higher fines for owners that have history of several nuisance dogs over the years. Lots of issues arise from being unaware of body language and or irresponsible pet ownership- like the people that just take their dogs to the off leash park to throw a ball until the dog is exhausted rather than trying to mentally AND physical engage them.
- You mentioned that pit bull type dogs are not listed to have more bites than other dogs and while I understand the "potential to possibly do more damage" it's not fair to lump all "bully" breeds as nuisances and penalize them all. There are not bad dogs, but bad owners. The owners should be punished harder, not the poor animals. The animals have no control over how they are raised or trained. A responsible owner invest time and energy into training any type of dog. [removed]
- No breed specific legislation - heavily fine owners of any breed that has NOT properly trained their pet!
- This shouldnt be subject to only pitbulls. I was in a dog park yesterday and saw two dogs fight hard. One was wounded and neither of which were a pitbull. Any pitbull ive met has always been amazing and gentle.
- Pitbulls should not be prejudiced against
- Stop using Pitbull as an example. As your note said, there is no data suggesting they are worse than any other dogs. You should make it mandatory for all dogs to be trained.
- there cannot be more than one nuscense dog per household. Owners should be put through a permit before allowing to own an animal
- I HIGHLY disagree with the term "nuisance" can we fine children for being a "nuisance" as well? Also individualizing the breed "Pitbull" it's like being racist let's only make rules for the "Caucasians". Also just like humans dogs are not born aggressive/harmful/destructive it's how they are raised - there should be a class that people must take to own a dog to ensure proper up bringing - also to have a child
- No specifying pitbulls, a dog's genetic predispositions are not reason enough to single them out. Size or power does not determine aggression. Dogs that actually have offended and not gotten training to resolve the issue are valid.
- Lower levels of bias against pitbull breeds
- Impose a hefty permit cost for dog owners who want own a pit bull to disincentivize owning one in the first place.
- All dog breeds should be treated in the same regard. If they are repeat offenders of attacks or bites they should not be allowed off-leash in dog parks. The voluntary colour bandana program should be used to identify dogs who should not be approached rather than muzzle that may cause for panic. Dog owners with animals who are repeat offenders should be held accountable by taking a responsible pet owner course to own another animal.
- Stop calling out Pit Bulls - they are just a dog and they are not more dangerous than other dogs unless they have been trained to be more dangerous or they have been abused

- None of the above.
- There should not be a specific Law for pitbull breeds. We all know that any breed of dog can be a nuisance or bite
- This is stupid. You're singling out breeds. Smaller dogs are actually more aggressive. Perhaps you should rethink this. I'd suggest that you keep breeds out of it, and focus on actual laws that keep people safer. Not this. It's akin to Trudeau's gun control. Doesn't work to keep people safe by punishing law abiding people.
- Why are pit bulls being targeted? They score lower on the aggression scale than a golden retriever... the owner is at fault for bad behaviour not the dog. Higher fines and punishments for owners
- Removal of dog from unfit owner
- Please stop discriminating against pit bulls - they are some of the sweetest dogs, deal with problem animals/ owners don't discriminate based on breed. It is disgusting that options above are that all pit bulls must be muzzled in public or that all pit bulls can't go to an off leash park. The attitudes towards these dogs (the majority of whom are the sweetest, affectionate cuddlers you could hope to have) is appalling!!!. There is no reason for a well behaved pit bull with responsible owners to have to wear a muzzle - that is traumatizing to the animal and the owner!!
- Obedience training should be less yearly dues per dog, teen forcing the training for ALL dogs.
- I do not agree with breed specific bylaws
- I am 100% against breed bands.
- Fine to owners who are careless with their dogs. Punishing Pitbull type dogs is not the answer. A German Shepard can bite just as aggressively. This should never be breed specific in any guideline/fine/restriction/insurance is absurd. Focus on people who disregard public safety and have animals removed from those situations.
- The fact that you think putting restrictions on one breed is appropriate, think again. I know multiple people who have been attacked by German Shepard's. It's not the dog it's the OWNER. Increase the fines are all dogs that are a nuisance
- Fines and restrictions should not be placed per breed, more restrictions and registration processes should be in order to keep OWNERS accountable for poor training and control habits of their pets.
- Dog breeds are not indicative of dog behavior. The owner plays a much larger part in dog behavior.
- Do nothing leave pit bulls alone
- No dog should be muzzled because of the breed. This is Ridiculous and the city council should be ashamed of them self's.
- In order to be deemed a "pit bull" owners must do a dog DNA test and submit it. If the dog has no "pit bull" but still looks like one they shouldn't have any rules or regulations put on them. DNA test must be an Embark not wisdom panel as wisdom panel provides false results. All dogs must have some training done to visit a dog park period.
- Breed based legislation is unfair and absolutely ridiculous. Get a [removed] clue.
- Let me clear that pit bulls are not the problem it's it responsible dog owners. If a dog has been reported MORE than one time for aggressive behavior (there was a physical issue) then that dog should not be allowed off leash at anytime.

- Human training for potential pit bull owners
- None, it's a dog owner problem not a breed problem . How many people out there have little happy jerk dogs like poodles and shitzus that are rude and aggressive
- Nuisance dogs should not be allowed to be walked or at off leash parks in Calgary
- Your definition of nuisance doesn't include any aggressive behaviours. These measures may be suitable if applied to dogs with history of signs of aggression. Regulating dogs that are loose might help but how does regulating dogs that bark help? Do not implement any breed specific requirements. Training should only be positive reinforcement, as punishment makes these behaviours worse
- Breed is not the issue owners are.
- You state above that the reason for the pitbull specific bans is because their bites are more likely to cause severe damage. I suggest doing a little research and you will see German Shepards have a slightly stronger bite force than pitbulls. Will German Shepards also be included in these bans? Please do actual bare minimum research before putting bans and restrictions into place.
- Training for owners of potentially dangerous dogs.
- I don't believe in targeting any breed. Target owners.
- As a pit bull and general dog owner it is our responsibility to ensure we train our dogs properly and take responsibility for their behaviour. This should fall on the owner of the dog regardless of the breed. If the owner does not then they should face jail time as they have made it unsafe for the public.
- It's disappointing to see that we are singling out a specific breed, I would rather see a bylaw in place that dealt with each OWNER on a case by case basis instead of instituting such a blanket statement over one breed of dog.
- Owners of repeat offender dogs, of any breed since literally any dog can fit the definition provided, should be required to attend owner training and face increased licensing fees.
- Pitfalls should not be named here, but nuisance (with a clear definition) dogs. I am most worried about my family being bit by a smaller dog as they tend to be more anxious and strung.
- none. let them be free
- All dogs be treated equally if they're a nuisance. It's not fair to target box headed dogs because of a preconceived notion targeting large breed dogs.
- All dogs treated equally, more responsibility, taking the animals away from poorly behaving owners.
- I think in a situation where a "bully breed" is out in public and known to be easily irritated. They should be on lead and have a certain colour of collar/harness indicating their behaviour
- Daschounds and other small breeds are more likely to bite, don't be mean to pitbulls. They were known as nanny dogs at one point.
- None of the above, all of these are terrible and discriminatory
- No specific dog breed should be singled out. Every dog has the potential to be a nuisance, no specific breed. Also nuisance should be clearly defined, as of now it is very open ended.
- eliminate off leash parks unless they are fenced areas and people pay for a time to just take their dogs into it.

- None- this discriminate against the dogs of responsible owners rather than the bad owners
- None of the above as pit bulls are not the problem
- none of the above
- I do not support targeted enforcement or discrimination against specific dog breeds.
- I would support implementing a program wherein all dog owners are encouraged to have their pets undergo basic obedience training, but to specify pitbulls as specific problem breeds is frankly ignorant, perpetuates something that is misinformation (that pitbulls have a stronger bite, they don't) and causes me to doubt the qualifications of the team behind this.
- Breed specific rules are arbitrarily unfair. Owners play a critical role in establishing the temperament of their dogs. It is not breed specific. This is about the owners not the dogs.
- How about you start charging the pet owners, not banning a single dog breed from being able to enjoy life. This whole idea is pathetic, wake up and realise that it's not the dogs that are the problem.
- It is unfair to discriminate against certain dog breeds. It is absolutely no different than discriminating against people's skin colour. Visible minorities are statistically more likely to commit violent crime, but do we ban them from parks or anything like that? Of course not. Because visible minorities are not naturally more violent than others, violent crime is correlated to how people are raised. The exact same logic applies to animals, none are born bad, it depends on their owners. So the proper course of action is focusing on irresponsible/abusive owners. And do not have higher fines for any specific breed in particular, all fines should be equal between breeds, with multiple-incident offenders having increased fines and direction towards training programs if found to be troublesome. Punishment happens after the crime, not before. It would be unfair to force owners to pay for training/insurance just because their dog is a specific breed and hasn't done anything wrong.
- How about you actually deal with off leash dogs in not designated areas. All owners need to be responsible for their pet and in control of them at all times. Not just bully breeds
- Specific breeds should not be treated differently. It's the owner that has to be fined and held accountable
- I am strongly against ANY OF THE ABOVE. Which will punish responsible pet owners and innocent animals. THIS IS WRONG.
- Quit picking on Pitbulls! They're loyal loving & kind . It's the crappy owners making them into problem dogs
